"WAS IT MADE IN DULUTH?" IS THE QUESTION TO ASK

Zenith City Now Manufactures Almost Every Necessity of Life.

Look for the Duluth Trade Mark on Every Purchase.

How Every Citizen Can Help New Movement for Greater Duluth.

Suppose that every man, woman and child in Duluth insisted on buying clothing and shoes made in Duluth; insisted on eating foodstuffs prepared in Duluth; insisted on smoking Duluth-made cigars when he smoked; insisted on Duluth material being used in his home; insisted on his office and home being furnished by Duluth manufacturers; insisted on using Duluth brooms, and Duluth matches, and Duluth hats; in short, whenever he expended one penny or one dollar or $100, looked for the trademark "made in Duluth," how much it would add to the prosperity of the city, and what a boost would be given the industries already located here.

Few people realize the number of small industries that already exist in Duluth, and few citizens appreciate the fact that practically every necessity of life can be purchased with a Duluth trademark on it. Duluth with its 80,000 people is a big market in itself. Are Duluth manufacturers getting all of the trade of this market? If not, why not?

What Duluth Can Furnish.

Everything necessary to man's ex-

FATAL ACCIDENT WITH MOTOR CAR

One Man Is Killed and Another Mortally Injured Near Antioch, Ill.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 8.—A message received here today from Kenosha stated that Harvey Gibson, aged 26 years, of Kenosha, was killed in an automobile accident near Antioch, Ill., and that Ted Collier, aged 28, formerly of Racine, were fatally hurt; Mrs. Collier and a Mrs. Gardner, wife of a well-known bicyclist, are reported injured.

The machine ran over an embankment and pinioned the victims under the car. Gibson was taken out dead.

TAFT PUTS ON FLESH

President Is Gaining Weight as Result of Luxurious Banqueting.

Has Taste of Stage Coach Riding During Visit to the Mountains.

Wawona, Cal., Oct. 8.—President Taft is getting fat. That is, he is getting back some of that weight which he has worked so hard to get rid of for the last four years. It is not entirely due to the fact that the president thrives on travel, but rather because the rigid diet to which he adheres when in the White House, and which he planned to keep up during his tour, has been broken into at the various festive functions he has attended during his Western tour.

How much the president has gained is not stated, but it is known that he tips the scales at quite a fair margin more than he did before he began his trip, and the difference is great enough to be somewhat noticeable. It is said to be his plan to return to his dieting during his brief rest in this region, in the hope of getting back to the lower figure.

Efforts have been made to have all banquet menus confined to simple diet morsels, but the hospitality of the West has been too great to permit the hosts to arrange anything like that for the president of the nation. Hence his increase in weight.

Goes to Yosemite.

When the president started out upon his second day of roughing it, he had fifty miles of stage riding before him. Yesterday's trip of thirty-four miles over the mountains acted as a real tonic and Mr. Taft today was feeling quite equal to the five weeks of travel still separating him from the national capital.

President Taft will spend tonight at Glacier Point. Early tomorrow he will see the sun rise over the Yosemite. He will then climb down a three-mile trail to the floor of the canyon and spend the day traveling to points of interest at the foot of the granite walls.

Saturday night will find the president again at the park entrance at El Portal and Sunday morning he will board his special train and head for Southern California.

SAYS BIG COLLEGES' TEACHINGS ARE UNHOLY

BISHOP JAMES A. McFAUL.

Bishop McFaul, in charge of the Catholic diocese of New Jersey, caused a sensation in June by denouncing Harvard, Yale, Princeton and other big Protestant American universities as underminers of faith and teachers of immorality. He has renewed his attacks on the big institutions of learning. In a letter he has sent to all the parishes in the state he pronounces the teachings of the universities ungodly and says they subvert Christian faith and Christian morality. He calls upon every priest and every true Catholic layman to boycott all Protestant schools.

CELEBRATE IN ALBANY

New York State Capital Is Scene of Hudson-Fulton Fete.

Clermont and Half Moon Are Given Noisy Welcome on Their Arrival.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Hudson, on his voyage of exploration up the Hudson river, reached Fort Orange, now Albany, in the Half Moon on Sept. 19, 1609, and Robert Fulton, the first man to navigate the river by steam, brought the Clermont to the Albany dock two centuries later, on Aug. 13, 1807. Today Albany welcomed both the Half Moon and Clermont, as they voyaged up the river, escorted by an imposing line of naval and other vessels and dropped anchor near Riverside park, where earlier in the day the welcoming fleet had assembled.

Riverside park was elaborately decorated, and the capitol and other public orated, and the capitol and other public buildings, business houses and residences were gay in the Hudson-Fulton

THINKS MARS IS NOT FLIRTING

Prof. Archenbold Says the Canals Are Not Used to Signal Earth.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—Prof. F. S. Archenhold, director of the Treptow astronomical observatory, commenting yesterday that the canals on Mars were constructed for the purpose of signalling to the earth, said he was unable to accept this view. In his opinion the canals on Mars were for the practical purpose of drawing off the enormous masses of snow water that evidently come with the melting of the ice caps, and to prevent inundation. This theory is confirmed by the fact that the canals, which at other times are indistinct, become sharply marked when the snow caps melt, and the professor assumed that they are built by throwing up dykes a few yards higher.

BASEBALL EXTRA!

PITTSBURG WINS FIRST

Opening Game of Championship Series Won By the Pirates By Score of 4 to 1.

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—After a start that sent the hopes of the Pirates' supporters on the subway route, the Pittsburg Nationals today took a big brace and won the first game of the world championship baseball series from the Detroit Americans by a score of 4 to 1.

For three innings the Tigers had the lead all to themselves, getting one run in the first when Cobb, who had walked, had got to second on Crawford's single and stolen third, came in on Delehanty's single. Pittsburg was blanked in that first inning, and the same in the next two, but in the second and third Detroit shared that fate.

Then, in the fourth, began the fireworks that lifted the Pittsburg rooters clear off their seats with joy and sent the Tiger rooters down lower and lower into the Slough of Despond. It was Clarke who did it, landing squarely for a hit into the right field bleachers for a home run, the only thing against it being that the bases were empty. However, none of the Pittsburg crowd made any serious kick and the inning ended with the score 1 to 1.

Two in the Fifth.

In the fifth Abstein, who had reached third on a long distance grounder, scored on Gibson's double after Wilson had struck out, and Leach sacrificed to D. Jones, scoring Gibson with the bases full. In these innings Detroit was shelved without affecting the score board, and the Pirates never were in danger after that.

Incidentally the game was a great victory for Charley Adams, the plucky youngster who came to Pittsburg this year from the Louisville team of the American association. He pitched a splendid game against the veteran Mullin, and it was particularly good considering that this is his first experience in anything nearing the magnitude of a world championship game.

The last innings saw both sides blanked repeatedly, though it looked at one time as if Ty Cobb was going to do some damage with a terrific drive, but a Pittsburger got hold of the ball and the famous hitter was retired.

First Inning.

Detroit—Jones walked; Bush sacrificed; Cobb walked; Crawford hit to Adams, who threw to Byrne, forcing D. Jones. Delehanty singled to left, scoring Cobb and sending Crawford to third, and Delehanty went to second on a throw to the plate to catch Cobb. Moriarity hit a grounder, which struck Delehanty as he was running to third, and Delehanty was out, Moriarity getting credit for hit. One run.

Pittsburg—Byrne popped to Bush; Leach out, Delehanty to T. Jones; Clarke out, Mullin to T. Jones. No runs. Score—Detroit 1, Pittsburg 0.

Second Inning.

Detroit—T. Jones out, Byrne to Abstein. Schmidt out, same way. Mullin singled to center. D. Jones flew out. No runs.

Pittsburg—Wagner out, Delehanty to T. Jones; Miller flied to Cobb. Abstein drew base on balls, being the first Pittsburg player to get to first base. Abstein was caught napping at first, Mullin to T. Jones. No runs. Score—Detroit 1, Pittsburg 0.

Third Inning.

Detroit—Bush bunted and was out Adams to Abstein. Cobb out, Wagner to Abstein. Crawford hit a high bounder over Adams' head and beat Miller's relay to Abstein. Delehanty filed to Clarke. No runs.

Pittsburg—Wilson out, Moriarty to T. Jones; Gibson out Delehanty to T. Jones; Adams flied to D. Jones. No runs. Score—Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 0.

Fourth Inning.

Detroit—Moriarty out, Byrne to Abstein, Byrne making a beautiful stop; T. Jones flied to Leach; Schmidt drew a base on balls. Mullin forced Schmidt at second, Wagner to Miller. No runs.

Pittsburg—Byrne out Mullin to T. Jones; Leach struck out; Clarke knocked the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run and the Pittsburg crowd went wild. Wagner was hit by pitched ball. Miller flied to Cobb. One run. Score—Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 1.

Fifth Inning.

Detroit—D. Jones singled to right. Bush forced D. Jones at second, Wagner to Miller. Miller trying for a double, but Bush beat the ball to Abstein. Cobb forced Bush at second, Wagner to M... Cobb stole second. The decisio... second was close and Pittsburg ...puted with Umpire ...ought ...me was delayed ...wford fouled to ...

Pittsburg—Gibson ... let Abstein's grounder get away and it rolled to center. Abstein going to third before it was returned. Wilson struck out. Gibson doubled to center, scoring Abstein. Bush fumbled Adams' grounder, letting him go to first and Gibson to third. Byrne was hit in the head by a pitched ball and dropped to the ground. He was not seriously hurt and went to first, filling the bases. Leach sent a sacrifice fly to D. Jones and Gibson scored. Clarke out, Delehanty to Jones. Two runs.—Score Detroit 1, Pittsburg 3.

Sixth Inning.

Detroit—Delehanty struck out. Moriarity out, Wagner to Abstein. Leach made a great running catch of T. Jones' fly. No runs.

Pittsburg—Wagner doubled to left. Wagner started to third and Schmidt threw badly to catch him at second. Miller fouled to Schmidt. Abstein out Mullin to T. Jones, and Wagner scored, Wilson singled to center. Wilson went to second on a passed ball. Gibson flied to D. Jones. One run. Score: Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 4.

Seventh Inning.

Detroit—Schmidt flied to Miller, Mullin out, Wagner to Abstein. D. Jones singled to left. Bush drew a base on balls. D. Jones moved to second. Leach ran back to the center field bleachers and caught Cobb's terrific drive. No runs.

Pittsburg—Adams flied to D. Jones. Byrne struck out. Leach flied to Crawford. No runs. Score: Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 4.

Eighth Inning.

Detroit—Crawford grounded to Abstein and was out at first. Miller ran to the foul line behind first and caught Delehanty's fly. Gibson ran to the box and caught Moriarity's fly. No runs.

Pittsburg—Clarke filed to D. Jones. Wagner was hit by a pitched ball, but the umpire refused to let him go to first, as Wagner stepped into the ball. Wagner out, Mullin to T. Jones. Miller singled to center. Miller stole second. Abstein struck out. No runs. Score—Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 4.

Ninth Inning.

Detroit — McIntyre batted for T. Jones. Clarke made a great catch of McIntyre's short fly. Schmidt filed to Leach. Mullin struck out. No runs.

THOUSANDS RUSH TO SEE PIRATES AND TIGERS MEET.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—What promised to be a record-breaking crowd for a world's championship baseball game began to gather early today at Forbes field to witness the opening contest of the big series between Detroit, the three-times champion of the American league, and Pittsburg, the winner of the National league pennant. Those who were not lucky enough nor rich enough to secure one of the 18,000 reserved seats, at an early hour besieged the gates, which were opened several hours before the game was scheduled to begin.

A tremendous rush for seats followed, and in a short time all but the reserved sections and boxes were filled to overflowing with a baseball-mad crowd. Many thousands were content to remain without the gates, straining every nerve to get a glimpse of what was going on behind the high fences.

Drown Detroit Cheers.

HOW THE PROTECTIVE TARIFF AFFECTS THE COST OF LIVING

London, Sept. 25.—The best grade of white granulated sugar costs the English housekeeper who buys $1 worth at a time or less, from 4 to 4½ cents a pound. The same sugar costs the housekeeper who lives in Louisiana, say, or Michigan, where it is grown, from 6¼ to 6¾ cents. The American housekeeper can get sixteen pounds of sugar for $1. The British housekeeper with the money equivalent of a dollar can buy twenty-five pounds of the same sort of sugar, and this includes the freight across the sea.

The "mythical consumer" in our country must pay a bounty to the American Sugar Refining company and its allies of 1.9 cents on every pound of sugar he uses. The tariff revisionists in the recent session considered the tariff on refined sugar exorbitant and the administration stormed about till the duty was reduced from 1.95 cents to 1.9 cents a pound.

If you could get at the actual facts of the first cost of sugar you would find that you are paying a bounty of a little short of 100 per cent on every pound. But the figures as to that are less important than to know that the Briton, after bringing his sugar far across the sea, gets twenty-five pounds of it for his $1, with which you can buy only sixteen pounds.

What Sugar Costs.

There are different grades of sugar, of course. From the best housekeepers and storekeepers in various parts of this island I have got prices of the staple articles of domestic consumption. Lump sugar, 2d (4 cents); granulated (best quality), 2½d (4½ cents); brown, 2d (4 cents); cubes or blocks, 2½d (5 cents) is the way the prices run where there is no bounty to the trust.

The Briton can get rice from his stores for from 5 to 6 cents a pound. A housekeeper in South Carolina, the original home of the rice grower in America, tells me her rice costs her 10 cents a pound. The duty on rice in our downward revised tariff is 2 cents a pound "cleaned" and 1¼ cents a pound "uncleaned."

Once more, the British housekeeper can buy fourteen pounds of "best

CHEER COOK IN ST. LOUIS

Thousands Give Him Big Reception as He Heads Parade.

Mounted Police Keep Crowd From Carrying Him Off Bodily.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, today led the most impressive of the centennial week pageants. He rode at the head of the military, historical and educational parade.

The greeting given the explorer was declared to have been the most enthusiastic since that he received in Copenhagen, thousands of spectators who lined the route seeming to realize that Cook was there as a scientist, and not as a lecturer. Dr. Cook rode in a landau drawn by four horses and surrounded by mounted police, who kept the crowd from capturing the explorer.

Navy Men Cheered.

Another popular feature of the parade was the appearance of the officers and men of the United States torpedo boat flotilla. The "jackies" were received with deafening cheers all along the line of march. Troops from the regular army stationed at Jefferson barracks, state militia, thousands of school children and college students and floats depicting the historical happenings from frontier days to the Louisiana Purchase exposition completed the pageant.

"The ball of nations" drew thousands of centennial week visitors and citizens to the Coliseum last night. The costumed dancers attracted many spectators. An industrial parade was the feature of the day's program. It was three miles long, and told of the progress of St. Louis.

RAISE RATES ON LEMONS

Washington, Oct. 8.—A heavy and general advance in the freight rates on lemons has been made by transcontinental railroads. Shippers of the American product are concerned seriously by the proposed advance, which, according to the tariffs filed with the interstate commerce commission, will become effective on Nov. 15 next.

The tariffs were filed with the commission by the trans-continental freight bureau which represents the trans-continental lines, and increase the present rates 15 cents a hundred pounds.

While the tariffs now filed directly affect the rates on lemons from Pacific coast points to North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota, it is the announced intention of the trans-continental carriers to make a similar advance to all points east to which freight rates on lemons are quoted and filed with the commission.

IMPORTS FROM ISLANDS DOUBLE

Tariff Seems to Have Played Little Part in Trade With Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Under the operation of the new tariff law there was an increase of 100 per cent in the value of imports into the United States from the Philippine islands during last August, compared with the imports in the same month of the previous year.

The total value of merchandise from the Philippines in August 1909, was $1,821,138, against $814,519 in August, 1908. Curiously enough the importation of Manila hemp, which formerly entered free of duty, formed the largest part of this increase, amounting in value to $1,578,205, while in August of last year the value of that article imported was but $514,128.

The increase of ... articles formerly dutiable ... was not large, so that ... anges in the tariff appear to have ... little part in the trade between the Philippines and the United States.

"REBATING" BY AGENTS SCORED

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 8.—Those insurance men who, in the trade vernacular, have been guilty of "rebating," "twisting" and "part timing" were bitterly arraigned at today's session of the National Association of Life Underwriters. The aim of the present convention is to raise the standards of the business in every way. Today's speakers included George H. Noyes, Milwaukee; A. F. Sheldon, Chicago, and William J. Tully, New York.

He was 51 years old, and had lived in Chicago since 1889.

CASS LAKE TO HAVE SALOONS

Report Thirst Parlors Are to Be Closed Declared Untrue.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Herald correspondent has investigated the local saloon situation thoroughly and finds that statements in circulation saying that the officers at Bemidji have been engaged to come here and close the saloons are absolutely without foundation. Local saloon keepers are not excited over the matter, and it is believed will close up without resistence, should the order go through Oct. 17. A concession has practically been made by the department whereby Cass Lake will still retain three or four saloons, at least Charles Johnson has agreed to something like this.

One Man Wounds Three Others in Fight in Wisconsin Town.

Kentuckian Accused of the Assaults Being Pursued By Officers.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 8.—In a shooting and stabbing affray on the Main street of Leona, a small town in Oconto county last night, two men were shot, one was stabbed and the man who, it is alleged, did the shooting, Max Clepton, a Kentuckian, escaped and is now being pursued by the officers. The men wounded are:

William Vanderlace stabbed in the back.

Joseph Sargent, bullet through right leg.

Vanderlace is seriously wounded and may not recover. He is a former Marinette man.

The shooting is said to have resulted from a quarrel between Clepton and Sargent.

ORDERED TO RUSH PLANS

Twenty-Five Extra Draftsmen Will Be Put to Work.

Steel Plant Drawings to Be Rushed to Builder's Hands.

With instructions to increase the drafting force at work on the plans for the Spirit lake Steel plant, George L. Reis, manager of the Minnesota Steel company, returned this morning from the East, where he has been in conference with officials of the United States Steel corporation.

Mr. Reis, this morning, in response to a question as to whether or not work will be begun on the construction of the Steel plant this fall, stated that he could give no definite information on the subject, as he had no knowledge himself as to when the order to begin work would be issued.

"All I know," said Mr. Reis, "is that I was instructed to add from twenty to twenty-five draftsmen to the force at work on the plans, and rush them out for the American Bridge company as rapidly as possible. This would seem to indicate an early beginning of construction work on the plant, but I can't give you any definite information on the subject."

It does not seem likely that construction work will begin before spring. One thing that will delay it is the fact that there is no water on the site of the plant. Water to be used in the work can be pumped from the river, but some kind of a pumping system will have to be installed. Drinking water must also be secured from some source.

The Herald, a few days ago, printed an account of the preliminary work that is being done on the site, consisting of the construction of the bridge across the river, the completion of the railroad, and other necessary preliminaries to the actual construction work.

NEW PARK IS A BEAUTY SPOT

Citizens Should Not Fail to Visit the City's New Property.

Duluthians wishing to pass a pleasan afternoon outdoors Sunday could do no better than to visit Congdon park, say those who have been to the city's newest acquisition. The bridle path, leading up from Superior street near Thirty-second avenue east, has been completed, and work is well under way for the traffic roadway. It is expected that the latter will be completed this fall, weather permitting.

The place is said to be one of the most beeautiful at the Head of the Lakes, particularly at this season, when the leaves are changing into myriad colors and dropping.

Municipal Court Suit May Affect All Water Board Contracts.

A suit affecting the validity of all the contracts made by the water and light commissioners for water and light extensions was started in municipal court this morning before Judge Cutting. The action was begun by the city against W. B. Phelps to collect the amount he guaranteed to pay before the mains were extended to Park point. The amount involved in the single case is small, but the suit is considered important as collections for a large number of other people can be stopped if the city loses. Mr. Phelps claims that the city had no right to enter into such a contract and asserts that after the petition was signed it should have been passed upon in writing by the water and light board. The city contends that the contract is valid.

CURTISS FLIES SHORT DISTANCE

St. Louis Crowd Also Sees Two Other Aeroplanes Tried Out By Owners.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8.—Glenn H. Curtiss made another trial flight in his 25-horse power biplane today, before a small audience of the St. Louis Aero club members. He was in the air a minute and a half, sailing three-quarters of a mile against a fresh east wind. A clump of trees dead ahead caused him to descend.

The spectators saw Hugh Abrahamson of St. Louis make his first attempt to fly in his monoplane, and also saw Curzon, owner of the Farman biplane, rise four feet from the ground in that machine.

GET RECORD PRICES FOR THEIR HOPS.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Hop growers in Central New York are obtaining unheard of prices for this year's crop. While hops last year were bringing from 9 to 11 cents a pound, the growers are receiving this week from 32 to 33½ cents and some grades have brought 35 cents. Dealers say that never in their experience were hops bought up so close at this time of the year as they are this year.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT TO MEASURE BEDROOMS.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—At the request of the immigration bureau at Washington, the Chicago health department has begun the measurement of 30,000 tenement rooms which previously have been inspected by government agents. Chief Sanitary Inspector Charles B. Ball says that many of the rooms designated measure only 5 by 6 feet, and some, in which several children sleep, measure 4 by 6 feet.

NOTORIOUS WOMAN SLAIN IN BERLIN

Countess Noted for Dissolute Life Killed By One of Her Admirers.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—A murderous assault in Berlin last night upon an old of her assailant, came to light today of the capital, followed by the suicide of her assailant, came to light today when the Countess Augusta von Strachwitz died in a hospital. The woman was shot and stabbed by Alfred Friedlander, a clerk, 23 years old, who was infatuated with her. After wounding the countess the clerk turned the revolver upon himself and committed suicide.

Countess Augusta von Strachwitz was the daughter of a small farmer. After being divorced twice she married County Guenther von Strachwitz and, according to the local newspapers, paid him a sum of money on the condition that they separate at the registry office. The count obtained a divorce and married again.

The dissolute life of the countess and her extravagant adventures made her notorious. Three years ago she issued two volumes of poems, entitled "Thoughts in Voice" and "Reveries." It was never known whether the countess was the author of these works, and they were often attributed to a well-known literary man.

Secret Agent of Department of Justice to Be Called to Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8.—A subpoena will be served in Washington tomorrow on "Irving C. Santer," to appear here next Monday as a witness in the hearing of Delevan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, charged with criminal libel in the Panama canal purchase controversy.

Charles W. Miller, United States attorney for this district, said today that he did not know who Santer was, and had mailed a subpoena at the request of Stewart McNamara, special attorney of the department of justice, in charge of the proceedings against the publishers of the Indianapolis News, and the publishers of the New York World.

It is understood here that Santer is Irving C. Sauter, a secret agent of the department of justice, who was in this city last spring, gathering evidence for the government. Mr. Miller said that as far as he was advised, Santer, or Sauter, was the only witness who would be supboenaed.

A Lie Nailed.

A local housefurnishing concern advertised in the daily papers of yesterday afternoon and this morning that it furnished the new Commercial club rooms, taking credit to itself for the entire contract. As a matter of fact, the contracts for the furnishings were awarded to various local business houses. Among these Bayha & Co. was awarded the contract for the beautiful Circassian furniture, brass beds and the imported Vienna chairs, some of the most striking pieces in what is said to be one of the most handsomely furnished commercial clubs in the Northwest.

Bayha & Co. do not wish to take credit from others, or take credit for anything that is not due them; neither do they permit of the use of their name in articles that tend to mislead or misrepresent.

If a business house will misrepresent in one thing it is likely to misrepresent in others.

"Correct Dress for Women"

Clothes for Girls

Girls in their teens want pretty clothes—and they know snappy things when they see them! But "youthful style" is different from other kinds of style—and it takes different kinds of brains to plan it.

Most stores "bridge over" girlish wants, to get over them the easiest way possible—with the result that the work usually falls on the mother and the local dress maker.

It is not so here—we've always given the girls a fair share of attention and you'll be greatly pleased with the improved service we are now rendering in our Newer Misses' Section on the first floor.

Misses' Suits $15 to $35

The variety includes suits of wide-wale serges, chevrons, homespuns, skeye suitings and worsteds; made in the new long coat styles. The skirts are made in gored, plaited or cluster-plait effects, in mixtures and the staple colors, as well as new shades. Sizes 12 to 20 years.

Babywear

Everything that Baby needs is here—Dresses, Skirts, Flannels, Bonnets, Stork Pants, Bootees and Hose.

ALSO

A Full Line of Infants' Sweaters, with Stocking Caps, Toques, Mittens and Tights to match.

ALSO

Dr. Denton's Sleeping Garments, Arnold Knit Goods, Beacon Blankets and Bath Robes, in all sizes, from 1 to 14 years.

A pretty line of Novelties for baby gifts.

Peter Thompsons, Co-Ed and School Dresses

Natty styles of serviceable materials, exceedingly well made, and practical in every sense of the word. Prices $7.50 to $29.50.

Girlish Coats

Coats of every texture, Coats of every size and coats of every color! It would be an odd girl, indeed who couldn't find a coat in all this lot to suit her little fancies. There are strictly tailored styles in mannish mixtures, with cozy flannel linings. And there are pretty broadcloth coats, with braid trimmings and fancy little plaitings. There are chinchilla coats, fur coats, beaver, melton, kersey and other coats. In all sizes from 2 to 16 years.

Sweaters

All colors, ladies' sizes.

NOTE FROM TRADE JOURNAL.

Sweaters Hard to Get.

Delays in delivery of high-grade Sweaters is causing buyers to wonder how they are going to fill orders, for the demand has exceeded the supply already. The long sweaters cannot be had and this brings the short coat into prominence and buyers are placing orders very readily for them. It is surprising and astonishing to note the number of manufacturers who have put forth coat sweaters but even with the new comers in the field it is hard for buyers to place orders that they have neglected.

Ladies' and Girls' Underwear—
A complete line in Fall weights, in cotton, Orient silk, and silk-and-wool. Union Suits at $1.25 to $8.00. Separate pieces at 50c to $3.50.

Nervous Dyspepsia And Neurasthenia

Neurasthenia, also known as "nervous exhaustion," "nervous debility," and "nervous prostration," is a disease, which in these modern, strenuous times is becoming more and more prevalent. It is a condition in which there is more or less marked and persistent loss of energy, together with considerable irritability.

Persons who suffer from this trouble are easily excited and irritated; cannot do as much work as formerly, and in attempting any mental effort, quickly become confused, and are unable to concentrate the attention. They also complain of insomnia, nervous indigestion, depression of spirits, and palpitation of the heart.

There is a general muscular weakness; the person cannot walk very far, and tires quickly on attempting physical exertion. There is ringing in the ears; blurring of eyesight; headache and vertigo; specks floating before the eyes, and a general restlessness. The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual effort is interfered with, and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerate the old ones, attaching undue importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some impending danger; extreme pessimism; dark forebodings, and hysteria. Sleep is not refreshing, and the person feels much more tired in the morning than at night. Horrible dreams and nightmare are usually complained of.

But by far the most prominent manifestation of Neurasthenia is Nervous Dyspepsia. In nearly every case, this disturbance of the stomach dominates the complaint. Cause and effect may be transposed, and dyspepsia may be the result of Neurasthenia, but oftener, indigestion is the original cause of the nervous condition. The nerves are simply "starved" because the stomach does not digest the food properly, and as the nerves are dependent upon the food which the blood absorbs from the stomach for their sustenance, any deprivation thereof is sure to cause nerve weakness.

The use of "nerve tonics" in this condition is a mistake; they merely stimulate, but do not rebuild nerve tissue. Completely digested food is the only true nerve builder and strengthener; and in the treatment of nervous exhaustion, one should first cure the nervous dyspepsia, which is usually the origin of the trouble, by taking STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in doses of one or two after each meal, or whenever needed, and the long train of nervous symptoms will be cured along with the nervous dyspepsia.

This celebrated remedy is without a peer in the treatment of nervous indigestion and in fact, indigestion of any kind. They digest all the food with great thoroughness and facilitate its absorption by the blood, which carries it to the weakened, diseased nerves and builds them up, so that every symptom of Nervous Exhaustion is gotten rid of.

TAX CASES SETTLED.

Beltrami County Board Reaches Adjustment With Delinquents.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The board of county commissioners and County Attorney Chester McKusick have finally disposed of the much-talked of delinquent taxes of the Pine Tree Lumber company, R. L. Muser, and the Mississippi Lumber company, which have been through the courts for the past three years and are for taxes claimed to be due for the years 1906-07-08.

The amount involved is approximately $40,000, the board making the settlement by granting the company a discount of 5 per cent. In reaching this decision, the board took into consideration the probable cost of fighting these cases, the length of time they might be in court, and also the fact that the county at large, school districts, and townships in which these lands were located, can make good use of the money.

The Minnesota tax commission, to whom the 1908 taxes of Beltrami county were referred, with recommendations for abatement, granted the abatement in the 1908 taxes last Friday, and the board's recommendation yesterday covered the 1906 and 1907 taxes, amounting to about $20,000.

Laborer Shoots Two and Himself.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 8.—John Ervin, a laborer, shot and killed his divorced wife last night, shot a neighbor, Roy Smith, who tried to prevent the murder, and then shot himself through the brain. He and his wife died almost instantly. Smith is seriously injured.

Why Do Men DRINK?

When you stop to think of the terrible results which come to men who indulge to excess in intoxicating beverages, well may you ask, Why do men drink? The fact simply stated is "A victim of the Drink Habit can no more resist liquor than a man with ague can stop shivering." Drunkenness is a disease and must be treated as such. The wives and mothers of those who drink intoxicants will be glad to know there is a remedy which will restore their loved ones to lives of sobriety and usefulness. Many thousands of grateful women praise Orrine for its benefits. Orrine has been known to affect a cure after all other means failed.

Paxson & Rockefeller, 24 West Park St., Butte, Mont., tell about a case of drunkenness of 25 years' standing. Read what they say: "A gentleman well known to us, who has been a hard drinker for twenty-five years, stated he had been entirely cured by Orrine. We consider this a remarkable case, as this gentleman has been treated three different times at a well-known sanatorium. This and other cases that have come to our knowledge gives us confidence in your preparation, and it gives us pleasure to recommend it to those needing a reliable cure for intemperance."

Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orrine costs only $1 a box. The guarantee is in each box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orrine Co., 457 Orrine Building, Washington, D. C. Orrine is for sale in this city by W. A. Abbett, 129 West Superior St., 101 West Fourth St. and 932 East Second St.

They know Orrine is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness and they will not offer you a substitute.

NEW TOWNS ARE RIVALS

Both Kinney and Spina Want to Be Incorporated Villages.

Minor Matters Disposed of By Board of County Commissioners.

Besides deciding that some sort of a courthouse should be erected at Virginia, to furnish adequate accommodations for the district court, the county commissioners disposed of several minor matters at their meeting yesterday afternoon.

The offer of the Zenith Telephone company to install eight trunk lines into the courthouse was accepted. They will be connected with the courthouse switchboard, and the county will have its own interior telephone system. The Duluth Telephone company will be allowed to enter the building on the same terms, but it has not yet accepted. Each company may have one pay station in the new building.

The Western Union Telegraph company's offer to install clock service and night watchman and fire alarm service in the new building was also accepted.

William J. Stevenson, E. K. Coe and P. J. Ryan were appointed on a committee to visit the Hibbing and Mountain Iron road, where stripping operations by Butler Bros. are making the road dangerous to travel. They are empowered to take such legal action as may be necessary.

Mr. Stevenson reported to the board that the Great Northern Railway company had refused to put in a grade crossing, near Virginia, unless insured that it would be reimbursed by the county, citing the law which compelled the county to pay. Mr. Stevenson has informed the company that the county will pay the bill if the crossing is put in.

Spina and Kinney clashed on the matter of incorporation, and after objections on the part of Spina, action on the petition of Kinney for the right to hold an election to decide on the incorporation as a village was deferred until the next meting. The two locations are close together, and there is considerable rivalry between them.

Town 65-20 was added to the town of Leiding, giving that town four towns in its territory.

A liquor license was granted to Fred G. Lemoine of Cook, but no action was taken on the two applications from Gheen.

SAY LEWIS' VISIT IS NOT OFFICIAL

State Department Men Deny That It Concerns Recall of Mr. Crane.

Washington, Oct. 8.—State department officials declare that Former Representative J. Hamilton Lewis has no connection whatever with the state department. He has not, they said, visited China on any official commission, nor is he charged with any matter connected with the department if, as has been stated, Mr. Lewis has come to Washington for the purpose of having an interview with the secretary of State, the officials here have no knowledge of it.

The impression has gone abroad that the visit of Mr. Lewis here at this time had to do with the forthcoming conference with Mr. Crane, now on his way to Washington, after having started for China, but if such is the fact the department officials profess to know nothing of it.

MAKING HOME WINE.

Italians and Austrians of Upper Michigan Pressing Grapes.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)The manufacture of home-made wine is in full blast in Upper Michigan just now.

For the most part it is confined to the Italian and Austrian population of the iron and copper districts. As is the case in their native countries, these people are large consumers of wine of their own making, and it is the general practice to manufacture a sufficient quantity of the beverage each fall to last throughout the year. Grapes by the carload are used for the purpose. Many households have their own wine presses, but as a general proposition one press will serve a number of families. The bulk of the grapes come from New York and Ohio.

SEARCH FOR ASSASSIN.

Posse Cannot Find the Slayer of Young Italian.

Washburn, Wis., Oct. 8.—Posses are still scouring the county in an effort to capture Louis Carlone, supposed to be the assassin of Nick Alberico, an Italian boy, who was murdered at Drummond last Saturday. A search has been kept up constantly since the deed was committed, but no trace of the bandit can be found.

The shooting, which was done in cold blood, is believed to be the result of a feud existing between the Alberico and Carlone families, started by Alberico's cattle breaking into Carlone's turnip patch.

WOULD DISSOLVE THE CONDUCTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8.—Hearing in the suit of Thomas J. Whalen of Detroit for dissolution of the Railway Conductors' Protective association has begun here today. The association includes 6,000 members representing railroad lines throughout the United States.

In his suit Whalen, with J. M. Rose, organizer of the order two years ago, asks for a division of the partnership profits on the ground that the order has not legally conducted its business.

Whalen was expelled from the order some time ago for an alleged attempt to move the headquarters of the society from Detroit to Columbus.

FINISHES BEMIDJI SEWER.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. F. Bosworth, the active manager of the contracting firm of Bosworth Bros. of Ada, has completed his latest sewer contract with the city of Bemidji, and the same has been accepted and Mr. Bosworth paid for his work.

This last contract which Mr. Bosworth had with the city was for the building of 1,570 feet of sewer, extending from Third street to Sixth street on America avenue, and one block on Beltrami avenue, between Fifth street and Sixth street. A part of the sewer on America avenue necessitated an excavation of twenty-one feet, making considerable extra work on this line. All of the sewer was of 8-inch pipe, and was put in in the very best manner.

Thompson, came to anchor in Hay lake immediately eblow Little Rapids cut. The Houghton swung arcund and struck her rudder against the bank, damaging it some. FIRST TAXES ON TONNAGE PAID

Steamers From Canadian Ports Now Pay Two Cents a Ton.

The new government tonnage tax went into effect yesterday when Harry Hurdon of the Northern Navigation company paid the first money at the local custom house for the steamer Saronic. The tax is a new one and is under the present tariff law.

The law provides for a tax of 2 cents a ton on the tonnage of any boat entering an American port from Canada or any other foreign port. The tax is collected the first five trips of the year or until a total of 10 cents has been paid. Boats making three or more trips between Canadian and American ports during the week are exempt. This eliminates the Booth line from any tax.

The amount paid by three ships yesterday were: Saronic, $25.96; R. T. Fitzgerald, $23.50; Brown, $24.34. The two latter vessels had been to Fort William to discharge coal and came here to load for the lower lakes.

COUSIN HELEN.

Chicago News: "You seem to have been dallying with nature," said the city buyer to the shipping clerk, as the latter came into the office one summer day carrying a huge bunch of water lilies.

"Dallying is the proper word for it," replied the shipping clerk, as he began to look around for a jar to put the lilies in. "I've been out visiting my Uncle Rutherford's family in Sellersburg. Say, there's a millpond out there the size of Rhode Island."

"The plot thickens," remarked the city buyer. "Of course, water lilies grow in every well-regulated mill pond."

"I see you get the drift of my conversation," said the shipping clerk, filling a pickle jar at the water cooler. "Still, it wasn't the water lilies that took my brother Sid and me out to Uncle Rutherford's. It was Uncle Rutherford's girls. If Helen and Kate weren't our cousins Sid and I would have joined the great silent majority of married men by this time, for we have all kinds of fun with those girls."

"Good-looking girls?"

"Both of 'em," answered the shipping clerk. "But their beauty comes in different styles. Kate is about the size of a pint of cider, and she and Sid have their own fun climbing trees and running foot races. Helen is a good deal like that heavyweight goddess you read about—Juno, I think. If she doesn't weigh close to 200 pounds, I miss my guess.

"Helen is all right, anyway. There can't be too much of such a girl. So I took her out in a skiff on the commodious pond I'm telling you about. Sid and Kate went in another boat. We rowed over to the shallow mud flats where the water lilies grow.

"Sid and Kate went lightly gliding and were soon among the flowers. When our boat got within about 150 feet of the lily-pads its stern stuck fast. By a strange coincidence that was the part of the boat where sat little Cousin Helen.

"'What's the matter' called Sid.

"'We're stuck in the mud,' I answered. 'What shall I do?'

"'Throw out your cargo,' said Sid.

"'No, don't do that,'" called Kate. 'If you throw Helen in she will raise the level of the water so high that we can't pick any lilies.'

"Say, that made Helen so mad that something had to be done at once. So I took off my shoes and socks, rolled up my trousers, gave Helen my coat and hat to hold and got out to walk. I floated the boat.

"Do you think Helen would let me row out to deep water again? Not at all. She wanted water lilies. She wanted more than Kate was getting, just to show her little sister who was the regular goddess of the mill pond. So I had to play tugboat and tow that fairy all over the mud flats.

"That girl kept me treading mud and towing the boat for about two hours. Finally she had the boat so full of lilies that when I got it back to deep water I could scarcely find a place to sit and row.

"When we got back to the landing and I unloaded Helen and her lilies I made the painful discovery that my coat, hat and footgear were missing.

"'See here, Helen,' I said, 'I think you might at least have taken care of my clothes.'

"'Why,' she answered, as undisturbed as an iron gate post, 'I put your things back of me to make room for these beautiful flowers. If they fell into the water you were there ahead of them and should have taken care of them. I don't see how you can blame me. I think you have been awfully careless.'

"Wasn't that a sweet and comforting remark to leave with me?"

"Rather annoying, I must say," replied the city buyer.

"You don't stretch the truth a bit when you say that," declared the shipping clerk. "Well, I had to walk the entire length of the select village to Sellersburg with bare feet, bare head and coated with mill-pond mud. I was mad enough to assault any man of less fighting weight than myself."

"You got the lilies, however," said the city buyer reminded him.

"That's all the comfort I have," said the shipping clerk. "Everything else gone—clothes, self-respect, everything. The next time I have to transport my sweet Cousin Helen by my own nphysical exertions I'll make two loads of her at least."

The Chinese city of Foochow, which is about the size of St. Louis, gets all its milk through half a dozen "walking dairies," that is, men who bring cows to be milked in front of customers' houses.

JOHN ALBERT JOHNSON MEMORIAL FUND

John Albert Johnson Memorial Fund, Care of The Herald, Duluth:

Enclosed herewith please find ..... (not to exceed $1), as a contribution to the fund to be used for the erection at the state capitol of a monument to John Albert Johnson, late governor of Minnesota.

(Signed) .....

FUND GROWING FOR STATUE OF LATE GOVERNOR

creased today, and the total is now $922.85. It should reach close to $700 before the end of the week. If all who intend to contribute have neglected to send in their dollars act without delay the total will easily pass that sum before Saturday noon. The memorial commission is anxious to have at least $25,000 raised in the state before Nov. 1 in order that a suitable memorial may be decided upon, and therefore it will be necessary to get in all the subscriptions without delay.

Another Mesaba range town distinguished itself today by sending in $18. Gilbert, the new town with which Sparta has been amalgamated, is now represented in The Herald's list by twenty-one names, sent in by James W. Falk.

W. B. Brinkman of the Gray-Tallant company, writes: "Enclosed please find my check as a contribution to the fund to be used for the erection of the monument to Minnesota's greatest son. I earnestly hope that your fund may exceed your fondest expectations, so that the monument may be a proper appreciation of the life of John Albert Johnson."

B. P. Neff of F. A. Patrick & Co., writes: "Enclosed please find my check for $1 for monument fund for the late Governor Johnson. This is indeed a worthy movement."

The list is increased today by contributions by all the members of several Duluth families. This idea of expressing the affection felt in the homes for the late governor is a splendid one.

Another society has been heard from. A. Thoren writes: "Enclosed please find $1 from Duluth Observatory, No. 39, North Star Benefit association. This was voted on last night at the regular monthly meeting of the observatory."

Charles W. Elston, president of the St. Louis county bard, still keeps up the good work. He sends $13 more today from residents of the West end. If a few more citizens took as much interest in swelling the fund as Mr. Elston has done, the Duluth list would be very greatly increased.

How Societies May Give.

An important point was decided by the memorial commission at its recent meeting at St. Paul, that opens an avenue of material increase. It was voted to permit lodges, societies and organizations to contribute as such the full amount represented by membership at $1 per capita. In other words a lodge or organization having 100 members is allowed to contribute $100, in the name of its individual membership. There are certainly many lodges and societies that will take advantage of this opening and will quickly swell the total.

The Hutchinson, Minn., Leader has adopted a novel method of adding to the fund. To facilitate the raising of funds in Hutchinson and vicinity every contributor, of whatever amount, will be given a neatly designed tag bearing a picture of the governor and appropriately inscribed, which is to be worn next week—Governor Johnson Memorial "Tag Week."—Editor Burt W. Day writes to The Herald that "the tags are going like hot cakes."

Traveling Men Active.

South Dakota sends this message, dated at Watertown:

"Watertown traveling men are swelling the Governor Johnson memorial fund by their dollars which are being received by Public Opinion. The governor was the special guest of Watertown four years ago at the organization of the South Dakota Traveling Men's association in this city and he has had a warm place in the hearts of the knights of the grip ever since. The fund is growing every day and will be forwarded to the Minnesota state committee as soon as all the boys have had a chance to contribute."

Here is a hint to the many traveling men representing Duluth houses. Why not get busy?

Little Cripples Contribute.

The Johnson memorial fund received an addition at St. Paul a few days ago, the most noteworthy in some respects which has yet been sent in. It was not the amount which was important, for it was only $1.65, but the contribution should bring a blush of shame to every able-bodied man in Minnesota, and woman, too, for that matter, who has not contributed something to the fund.

The $1.65 came from the little inmates of the state crippled children's ward at the city and county hospital. There were thirty-six of them represented on the list. Some gave a penny, some gave two or three, but the most any of them contributed, aside from the teacher who heads the list, was 5 cents. The size of the gifts does not matter. There is that behind them which money cannot buy and if, before the desired amount for the memorial is secured, the people get apathetic, and the returns begin to drag, this list might be held before those who neglected to aid the memorial fund movement.

From a Deaf Couple.

Unusually interesting is a note from Anton Schroeder and Mrs. Schroeder of St. Paul, who, though deaf, enjoyed a number of chats with the governor and learned to love him and now to revere his memory.

"We are deaf and have never forgotten the time when we had several pleasant chats with the governor," they write jointly. "He delivered such a fine address at our deaf convention, held in the state capitol two years ago, that we could not help admiring him so much. He was so cordial to us and made us all happy. Beautiful was his nature—that of a perfect gentleman."

A rather unusual feature in connection with the memorial fund movement comes in a message from Stillwater to the effect that the inmates of the state prison have joined in expressing sympathy with the proposition, and two of them, P. Mathiason and John Berger, have made contributions to the fund.

SWINDLE IN STOCKS CHARGED TO THREE.

New York, Oct. 8.—Charged with a cleverly planned swindle in stocks, which aimed to defraud the State bank of this city out of $6,500, three men have been arrested here. One of them, Jacob Sternhause, is charged with grand larceny. The attempted swindle, it is said, was based on the similarity in names between the Northern Pacific railway and the Northern Pacific railroad. The men are said to have held stock in the latter worth about $2 a share which they represented as bona-fide stock in the former quoted at about $155.

istence is made or grown in the city limits. Without buying a single article manufactured outside he could build his own home, furnish it and supply it with the necessities. He could clothe himself and his family in comfort, fatten his horses and cattle, and enjoy life thoroughly. Many articles now deemed necessities, are used which are not local, and to be deprived of them would seem strange at first. But if Duluthians would put their shoulder to the wheel as one, and help the industries already established, it would not be many years before Eastern manufacturers would be rapping at the gates for sites on which to establish factories and open warehouses to supply home trade, as well as supply the vast fields of opportunity lying to the West, Northwest and Southwest.

Duluthians all agree that they want to see their city larger. But for years the actions of thousands of citizens who think themselves loyal, have been contrary to their words. They have not been insisting upon being supplied with articles made in Duluth.

Probably the reason has been that they have not known what is manufactured in Duluth. The Herald will run a series of articles telling of the things made here and will show how Duluth can be made bigger, better and more thriving if its citizens will lend an ear—and hearing, turn in with a will, directing their energies in the right direction. "Every little bit helps," is a popular motto, and every man, woman and child can do his or her mite by insisting upon buying home made products wherever possible.

No effort will be made to reveal the whole situation in a dey. The task would be too difficult, but each evening some feature of it will be discussed.

Duluth's importance as an industrial center is shown by the fact that its mills and manufacturing plants produced an output conservatively estimated as worth $36,000,000 in 1908. This output includes machinery, foodstuffs, wearables, drinkables, smokeables, building materials, lumber and scores of other articles.

These concerns give employment to thousands of persons, help build homes, cut down the burden of taxes upon the home owner and the workman without a home, and advertise Duluth in the most out-of-the-way parts of the globe. But they have not been getting the undivided support to which they are entitled from their home people. Had this been true they would have been several times bigger than they are today.

Picture Duluth one solid city from Lakeside to West Duluth; every available foot on the water line teeming with thriving industries; homes going up by the hundreds in every locality, crowding the hillsides and pressing past the farthest limits of the street car lines; established manufacturers and wholesalers doubling their capacities and adding to their floor space; and the population jumping at the rate of 15 to 25 per cent per year instead of at the present average of 5 per cent.

The dreams of a second Pittsburg can be made a reality by the residents of Duluth themselves. The means are within their grasp, knocking at their doors, appealing to them to better themselves and aid in the upbuilding of the first city of the West.

Duluth is prosperous. The Zenith City stands in the front rank of growing municipalities. Its name is known the world over; its products find a market in the East and in the West, and destiny decrees that its fame and its wealth shall increase.

But its own citizens can do more to accelerate its growth and its wealth than the citizens of any other community.

How can they do this?

By patronizing home industry. By boosting products manufactured within the gates of their city.

Spend Money at Home.

Instead of putting their dollars into the hands of Eastern manufacturers, they can put them into the pockets of Duluth men who have invested millions of dollars in Duluth and are increasing these investments day after day.

The hundreds of thousands put into the purses of outsiders annually bring them no return. Every cent spent for a Duluth-made product reacts to their benefit. Each penny spent for clothing, building material or food products made in Duluth helps Duluthians to obtain better conditions and reduce the cost of living.

Even casual investigation of manufacturing establishments with their homes in Duluth will surprise the most skeptical and stir the interest of the most sluggish laggard. The possibilities are astonishing, and the reality, as it exists in the line of Duluth manufacturing plants today, is beyond the belief of the man or woman who has never taken the trouble to investigate.

The Herald tonight runs a partial list of articles manufactured in Duluth. This list will be added to daily, and readers of The Herald are invited to send in additions to it. The articles in the list will be arranged alphabetically when it is complete, and the list will be turned over to the Commercial club for reference.

Following is a list of a few articles which are manufactured in the Zenith City:

When a man or woman finds sickness coming on, such as indigestion, weak eyes, kidney trouble, etc., it is time some attention is given to the subject of food and drink.

In practically all such cases where coffee or tea is the drink, one can obtain relief by quitting the coffee or tea and taking Postum.

He leaves off a drink that is an active producer of disease and takes in its place a powerful liquid food that contains elements for rebuilding the nerve centers which have heretofore been torn down.

fashion and showed plenty of snap and ginger in their work. Every move of the Pittsburg team brought forth round after round of applause. Here and there in the expansive sea of wild enthusiasts could be seen the yellow and black banner of Detroit, and now and then a Detroit cheer would rise, only to be immediately drowned by a volcanic outburst of the local partisans.

Managers Clarke and Jennings warmed up three pitchers, and neither would make a prediction as to his choice. Adams, Willis and Leifield were on the warming pan for Pittsburg, and Mullin, Donovan and Willett were working out their arms for Detroit.

Adams and Mullin.

It was expected that Clarke's final choice would fall upon Charles Adams, the phenomenal youngster from the Louisville American association team, who has made such an enviable record for himself with Pittsburg this season.

The reliable veteran, George Mullin, was expected to be the twirler for the American league champions. Gibson for Pittsburg and Schmidt for Detroit were the most likely choices for the backstopping.

Frank O'Loughlin of the American league and J. E. Johnstone of the National league will umpire today, while William Klem of the National league and William Evans of the American league are billed to officiate in Saturday's battle.

The Detroit team arrived yesterday in two sections, one coming from New York, where an exhibition game had been played with the New York American league team, and the other direct from Detroit. The party that came from Detroit was composed of Sam Crawford, Tyrus Cobb and George Mullin and their families.

Both Have Hard Practice.

Detroit put in a hard two hours of practice at Forbes field yesterday afternoon, and Jennings gave his men a pretty hard work-out. He spent most of the time in making them bat and run the bases in earnest. It was a rather tired but confident group of players that wended their way wearily to the Colonial Annex hotel after the practice.

Manager Clarke of the Pittsburg team put in a strenuous morning at Forbes field, and when the session was ended the local leader admitted he was perfectly satisfied with the condition of his team.

The prevailing odds are 2 to 1, with Pittsburg the favorite, but little betting is being done because of the absence of Detroit money. Many wagers are being made that Hans Wagner will outbat Ty Cobb, and this is considered an even money proposition.

Chairman Herrmann of the national commission and Ban Johnson, the president of the American league, both are on hand. President John Heydler of the National league also came this morning.

Tigers Have 2,000 Rooters.

More than 2,000 residents of Detroit arrived in Pittsburg today to see the opening of the series.

Following is the probable lineup of the two teams:

Detroit.	Pittsburg.
D. Jones, lf.	Byrne, 3b.
Bush, ss.	Leach, cf.
Cobb, rf.	Clarke, lf.
Crawford, cf.	Wagner, ss.
Moriarity, 3b.	Miller, 2b.
Delehanty, 2b.	Abstein, 1b.

INEBRIATE HOME PLANS.

State Board of Control to Begin Work on Structure.

Willmr, Minn., Oct. 8.—The board of control, represented by Messrs. Ringdal, Vasaly and Halvorson, spent Wednesday here inspecting the new state farm for inebriates, preliminary to the erection of buildings for the institution. Mr. Holman, the division engineer of the Great Northern, was also here, and the route for the sidetrack was agreed upon. It will be built at once.

The main structure is to consist of the administration building and two hospital wings. The plans are being drawn, and the contracts will be let soon, but it is not expected that much of the actual work of construction will be done before spring. The initial expenditure will reach fully $100,000.

There is now over $70,000 of this accumulated in the special fund provided for this institution, after paying for the farm.

DECLINES TO ENTER RACE

B. Silberstein Says He Will Not Seek Mayoralty Nomination.

Makes Definite Announcement to Men Who Have Advanced His Name.

Bernard Silberstein will not be a candidate for the nomination for mayor at the coming municipal primaries. Mr. Silberstein today stated definitely that he could not enter the race.

"I never really considered the matter until the last few days," said Mr. Silberstein this morning. "During that time, however, so many of my friends have come to me, asking me whether or not I would run, that I have had to take it seriously. I don't want to shirk any public duty, but in this case I do not believe that I am doing so. I am much interested in the work of the park board and the public affairs committee, and want to do what I can as a private citizen to help these organizations finish the work they have undertaken. They have many important plans on foot for the future welfare of the city, and I want to see them through. I believe I can do my duty as a citizen there as well or better than I could as mayor.

"The many kindly assurances I have received during the last few days are deeply appreciated. Many men whom I know are entirely disinterested, and whose respect and friendship I cherish, have come to see me and assured me of their support. Any man who did not appreciate such expressions would be an ingrate, indeed, but after thinking the matter over carefully I have decided to stick to my last and do what I can as a private citizen to help along this movement for a bigger and better Duluth."

American flour" for 2 shillings. That means that the equivalent of $1 will buy here twenty-nine and one-sixth pounds of the very best grade of white flour. I don't know how much of the same quality of flour your dollar is buying there now, but when I left home just before the new tariff went into effect $8 would buy a barrel, of 196 pounds. For a single dollar I think you could then buy about twenty-two pounds.

Flour and Soda.

Try now and see how much. In the "revision downward" there is a duty of 25 per cent on all flour, besides 25 cents a bushel on wheat, and a new duty now added on biscuits and other breadstuffs. The Briton has no such tax to pay on what he eats.

A pound package of soda, by the way, costs in America 5 cents. Here it is a ha'penny (1 cent.) There is a tax all up and down the line in our country on chemicals, the specific duty on bicarbonate of soda being ¾ cents a pound.

These are but a few illustrations of prices of the necessaries of life in this country as compared with those in our own, upon which there are high protection duties.

Of course it is not only the duty on any particular article that makes the article high, or as they say in England, "dear." Owing to the comparative cheapness of other things, the groceries for his own table, his clothes, rent, gas, electric light, household goods, and, such things as car fares, public amusements, books, doctors' and dentists' bills, barbers, and so forth, the grocer is able to get along with less profit on what he sells. And so it it all up and down the line.

Some articles, it is true, are about the same price here as in some places in America. There is no way to compare the prices of such things as butter, eggs and milk, and comparative prices on meat would mean little, for the very good reason that these things vary so much in different places in America. I have bought butter in Washington for 60 cents a pound, the "best cow butter," which in South Carolina could at the same time be had for 25 cents. I have bought the same beefsteak in Washington the same season, time within a few days, but from different butchers, at 18 and 35 cents.

Cheaper in Britain.

But the same general rule applies to these things; generally speaking they are all from 20 to 50 per cent cheaper in Britain than in cities of the same size and markets of the same class in our country.

Besides the duty on meat, the price is of course affected by the duties on everything the butcher and the shopkeeper have to buy.

Now, Americans do not always find living so cheap here, especially if they are tourists or sojourners. A few days ago I was talking with an American sojourner in one of these cities.

"The cost of living, well, it is just this," he said. "If you have the same things and live in the same way, it costs you just the same here as at home. All this talk of living cheaper here is the merest tommyrot."

Upon investigation I discovered that that man lived in a hotel which caters to tourists, particularly Americans, and charges accordingly. What he says regarding the "same things' is undoubtedly true. If living in England you insist on having American made shoes or hats, or American made toothpicks, you must pay for transporting these across the ocean in addition to paying the duty to the American producer.

If, furthermore, you want your six oysters bejeweled in seven bushels of ice and your beefsteak surrounded by a half acre of grass, why, you must pay for that also, and pay even more if you insist on American made ice and American grown grass. But that has nothing to do with the cost of living; that's the cost of tomfoolery, which is doubtless pretty much the same the world over.

TEN-INCH HATPIN

Circulates Through Every Organ in This Dog's Body.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 8.—A St. Bernard pup in this city has the distinction of living for four months with a hatpin ten and one-half inches long in his intestines. The pin was taken out by Dr. W. S. Eaton, who was summoned by the dog's owner, F. J. Fleming, who had noticed a lump growing on the animal's ribs. Dr. Eaton said that the pin had passed through every organ in the dog's body. The pup is recovering from the operation and the pin will be sent to the Veterinary museum in Washington.

Against Divorcing Parsons.

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 8.—Methodists of South Dakota, in annual conference, have forbidden district superintendents to employ any preacher who is in the state for the purpose of obtaining a divorce from his wife. It has happened that ministers have been employed under the impression that their families were coming later, only to have them leave after the legal residence period, much to the embarrassment of the church.

A Bracing Tonic After Typhoid

MR. FRANCIS SHEPPARD.

Mr. Francis Sheppard, of Scranton, Pa., says that he was left so weak after an attack of typhoid fever that he could scarcely walk. He took Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey; one bottle put him on his feet. The second bottle gave him his old-time vigor and strength. He recommends it to all who are weak and need something to build them up.

"Having read a great deal about Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, I decided to try it, and cannot praise it too much. During the typhoid epidemic in our city two years ago I happened to be one of the victims (one of the lucky victims, thank God). It left me in such a weak condition that I was scarcey able to walk. Thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, after taking one bottle of it I was able to go to work. After the second bottle I can say I am entirely well. I think there is nothing equal to it, and would recommend it to any one who is run down with fever or any other disease. Although I do not drink liquor in any form, I do recommend Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey as per directions." Francis Sheppard, Scranton, Pa.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

AVIATION EXHIBITION

Aero Salon in Paris That Will Be Open Until Oct. 17.

Fatal Gift of Beauty Was the Cause of a Tragedy.

Paris, Oct. 8.—The famous automobile salon, which for more than ten years was one of the great winter shows in Paris, has been suppressed this year, but people were not long in finding a substitute for it, and now we have an aero salon, which in future years may completely overshadow the automobile display. It opened a week ago, and will last to Oct. 17.

The idea was mooted last spring, and the government's consent obtained to use the Grand Palais for this show. It was not suspected at the time that it would have the support that is now forthcoming.

Aviation, of course, is the chief feature of this Salon de l'Aeronautique, as it is officially called. Looking over the list of exhibitors I find not only the leading aeroplane and light motor constructors, but also the manufacturers of all the material that goes to make up a flying machine. The Gnome, Renault, Antoinette, Pannard and other firms who have made the building of light motors a specialty are seen side by side with special canvas or silk manufacturers, or makers of propellers.

A vast scheme of uniform decoration has been got up for the new salon. Each stand is of the same design, but when the eye takes in at a glance the long row of exhibitors the effect is very impressive.

One side of the great central hall is devoted entirely to the exhibition of actual flying machines, and the corresponding side is occupied by the biggest display of light motors ever seen.

In the center of the hall there is the "stand d'honneur," in which the famous monoplane of M. Blerlot, on which he crossed the channel, is exhibited.

Above it, high up near the dome, are the glorious remains of the balloons which during the siege of Paris succeeded in crosing the enemy's lines, and the white and blue stripes of their envelops are of a beautifully decorative effect.

The fatal gift of beauty is the cause of a tragedy, which has taken place near the Marigny theater. An impresario, named Lumolin, was deserted by his wife, a beautiful woman. Lambin became despondent after his wife's departure, but made up his mind to find his wife again.

He gave up his work, and spent his days in walking through the streets, and his evenings in visiting those theaters and restaurants where he thought his wife was most likely to attend.

He visited the Marigny theater, and saw his wife in the company of several young South Americans. There and then Lambin made up his mind to disfigure his wife in such a way as to make it impossible for her to attract admirers. He waited until the party left the theater, then, confronting his wife, he fired a revolver at her point blank. The bullet entered the woman's nose, where it still remains.

A marchioness who was the possessor of two valuable tapestries, which she desired to dispose of advantageously, has been very unfortunate in the man she selected to carry through the transaction.

She received information from this man that a purchaser had been found for one of the tapestries, that which depicted "Le Jeu du Choral Fondu." She was to receive $8,000 for it. The news was welcome to her, and she came to Paris from her chateau in the country to superintend the sale.

The marchioness called on her "man of business," who accompanied her to the shop of a dealer in antiques in the Rue Saint Lazare. He had the precious tapestry with him.

When the shop was reached the marchioness was invited to enter. As soon as she entered the shop her companion jumped into a taxicab and was soon out of sight. It did not take the marchioness long to decide that she had been dealing with a swindler. She lodged a complaint with the police, and M. Hamard put his detectives to work.

The "man of business" was discovered in a cafe in the Champs Elysees. He turns out to be a former sailor who is wanted by the police. He had deposited the tapestry with a shopkeeper, and by means of a forged letter had given the latter power to sell it. In the meantime he had received an advance of $600.

The marchioness has gone back to her chateau a sadly disillusioned but none the less wiser woman.

To the Directoire style of woman's dress now prevailing in Paris, London, New York and other fashionable centers, the lacemakers of Calais, France, who once represented one of the greatest of French industries, attribute the decline of their trade to a state which, they claim, marks the lowest ebb.

A lower scales of wages has been fixed for the operatives of Calais, and a period of serious depression threatens the city.

Another source of the trouble now being experienced by the lacemakers and their armies of employes is traced to the introduction into the United States by a Calais firm, some years ago, of the complete success of lace manufacture, as carried on in Calais, which initiated the American houses into the mysteries of the craft, with the result that the French product is now duplicated in the United States, and the orders from American importers have sharply decreased in volume.

The manufacturers predict, also, that a new danger threatens in the revised American tariff, which admits free the delicate and expensive machinery made in England, heretofore for Calais use only. This apparatus, which until lately had paid a duty of upward of $2,000 upon entry into the union, will enable American producers to lower the cost of output, and so still more successfully compete with the Calais manufacturers.

Bond Issue of $10,000,000 for Reclamation Service Favored.

Washington, Oct. 8. — (Special to The Herald.)—F. H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, has returned to his desk after a month's trip with the senate committee on irrigation. Mr. Newell does not seem at all disturbed because of his words warfare with Secretary of Interior Ballinger and, when questioned for a statement of his view of the outcome of the controversy, merely smiled and said he had nothing to say whatever on that phase of the conduct of his office. Mr. Newell said the senate committee, under his guidance, visited the reclamation projects in Montana, Oregon, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming, South Dakota and Nebraska, spending some thirty days in visiting these various projects. An adjournment of the committee has been taken until Nov. 1, when the trip will be resumed, visiting the remaining projects in Colorado, Utah, Nevada, California, Arizona and New Mexico. The results of the inspection so far have been very advantageous to the work, as the senators have become personally acquainted more than ever with opportunities and difficulties, and apparently appreciate much more than ever the nature of the work and the organization which his carrying it forward.

There was a general discussion of the desirability of expediting construction, which is now being carried on with an expenditure of about $8,000,000 per annum, this being the present income of the reclamation fund. The projects which have been undertaken have been planned with a view to expanding economically about this sum, although a larger amount could be readily used to hasten results.

"It is very gratifying to note," said Director Newell, "that President Taft is appreciating this matter and has announced himself in favor of a bond issue of $10,000,000. This will enable us to prosecute work, which would otherwise wait two years or more, to be accomplished in one year. The plans can readily be adjusted, and the organization is able to carry forward the projects speedily. The senate committee discussed this matter informally and individually expressed the opinion that it would be practicable and desirable to issue bonds to the amount of $10,000,000 per annum for a time, securing these not by the general credit of the government, but by the reclamation fund, the investment of which already amounts to over $50,000,000. Western bankers express the belief that bonds bearing a low rate of interest and secured by the reclamation fund could readily be floated at par. As a business proposition it is unquestionably sound. Every dollar invested in irrigation work returns ultimately a gross income to the country of 100 per cent. That is to say, every acre of land reclaimed at a total cost of $40 will yield each year at least $40 in crops when handled intelligently. If money can be borrowed 3 or 4 per cent per annum there should be no hesitation in thus expediting the work. The interest charge readily could be included in the cost of the work, as this is repaid by the settlers in ten annual installments without profit or interest on the investment."

SERVIA'S PROBLEM.

What Shall Be Done With the Crazy Prince George?

Vienna, Oct. 8.—Since the Austrian war scare passed away, the most insistent problem before Servian statesmen is, What shall be done with Prince George? This erratic young man has in no way improved in his behavior since he renounced his rights to the throne; he is, if anything, crazier than ever.

The Servian newspapers openly denounce him as a good-for-nothing, and worse. They say he pays no heed to court regulations or to family conventions. He does nothing for the state, the nation or humanity. His life is empty of all intelligent or beneficial occupation.

Regarding a rumor that King Peter desires to have his eldest son reinstated as crown prince, the general opinion is that it would be a very bad move. His retirement, says one of the leading papers, was offered voluntarily, and most gratefully welcomed. His general conduct since has not been such as to make anybody regret his disappearance from the steps of the throne.

It will be a catastrophe if "Servia's bad boy" is allowed to resume his dynastic position.

A CLOSE SHAVE

Many of Them Happening Every Day But Soon Forgotten.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender faces of many men, which will not permit of shaving often. Heretofore, nothing has been said in these columns about poslam, a new skin discovery, in connection with its use after shaving. Its publicity and sales have been confined almost exclusively to its remarkable properties as an eczema cure; it stops the itching at once and cures the worst cases in a few days. While the application of poslam after shaving is one of its minor uses, such as for pimples, the complexion, etc., shavers will find it a revelation, as it does for abrasions, roughness, and severe scrapings what it does for all manner of skin difficulties—heals and cures in a few hours. It is the only article possessing real antiseptic and curative value that has ever been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

Poslam can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggist's, particularly at the Lyceum Pharmacy and Abbett's in Duluth and Holmberg's in Superior, who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in twenty-four hours.

EULOGIZES OLD FRIEND

Patrolman Link Delivers Tribute at Grave of Franz Heinrich.

Carried Out an Agreement Made Twenty-Five Years Ago.

After one of the longest funeral corteges ever seen in this city had escorted the body of Franz Heinrich, who died this week, to its resting place at Forest Hill cemetery, yesterday afternoon, his old friend and comrade, Patrolman John Link of the police department, delivered an eulogy over his grave.

In life Franz Heinrich was not orthodox in his religious views, and no minister of the gospel spoke at the funeral yesterday. The principal ceremony was the last tribute at the new grave, delivered by the dead man's close friend, and the result of a pact made twenty-five years ago.

At that time an agreement was made between the friends that if one died the other should say a few words over his grave. When on his deathbed at St. Luke's hospital this week, Franz Heinrich called Patrolman Link to his side and asked him not to forget his promise. Grasping his friend's hand, from which the warmth of life was passing, John Link said that he would not, and he didn't.

Aside from Patrolman Link's talk, the only exercises at the funeral, either at the house or the cemetery, were a short address upon the departed one by Frantz Neumeier of Stillwater, representing the Sons of Herman, of which Mr. Heinrich was a member, and singing by a quartet from the German Singing society.

The large assembly at the cemetery was greatly impressed by the eloquent tribute to the dead, delivered in the German language by John Link, whose strong frame shook with emotion as he spoke the words.

For the most part, Mr. Link's tribute was the eulogy delivered by Phillip Rappaporte of the North American Turnerbund upon the death of Herman Lieber. Translated, the address was about as follows:

"We lose sight of our shadow while it is still on the walls; we see clouds pass away in the rain-shower; we see the morning red vanish into nothing, and so we see the beginning and end of our life.

"For what you love you must give up your life; for what you hate you dislike to give up your life. Here is our friend, who has died an easy death, and died as our poet, Herwegh, expressed himself, as wishing to die, in the words: 'I wish to depart as the evening red, as the day with his hot torch of flame disappears into the night, into soft light—a death without a sting.'

"For long years when speaking in public I have thought that I must use the language of the country, but today, in this place, if I should use other language than the German I should consider myself as a stranger.

"As one from German ground, as offspring of German ancestors, as an heir of the German language and of German customs and German spirit, I am proud to say that Franz Heinrich was ours and of our language, our soil, our customs and our spirit.

"While so many forget their German home, that they are German offspring, and try to hide their nationality and lose the spirit of the Fatherland, adopting the customs of the new country and forgetting their language, Franz Heinrich was true—Franz Heinrich was ours.

"Not that he would for one minute forget his duty to the new adopted Fatherland, knowing the honor of being an American citizen. Still in his heart he loved Germany and never lost sight of an opportunity, in a spiritual way, to preach German culture, German ideals, German customs. And in his heart he was always true to the German language. It is because Franz Heinrich was ours.

"Franz Heinrich never looked for office or honor, but was always a genuine citizen of the adopted Fatherland and reaped through that the high esteem of the whole city, which is shown today by the great mass of people gathered to pay him honor.

"He was always the same good comrade, our comrade."

The pallbearers at the funeral were John Link, John G. Rakowsky, who was born in the same German town with Heinrich, Charles Teske, Thomas Thut, Edward Rothe and Edward Fiebiger.

MAYOR AND FIVE OFFICERS SEIZED

Are Indicted for Hindering Federal Officer in Work in Iowa.

Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 8.—Mayor Oliver Ingledue of Marshalltown, Iowa, Deputy Sheriff Charles Nason, Samuel Wenger and Fitz Werger, saloon keepers; Assistant Chief of Police Michael Clark, Police Sergeant Goodale, Patrolman Matthew Jones and Frank Haas and Leon McNamara, a bar tender, were brought before United States Judge Smith McPherson here last night on a charge of conspiracy to prevent a federal officer from doing his duty. They were brought from Marshalltown by United States Marshal Clark. Indictments were returned against them Wednesday by the federal grand jury.

Judge McPherson held the indicted men under bonds of $1,000 each to appear for trial at the next term of federal court in Des Moines. The defendants were given until Monday to furnish bonds at Des Moines.

Jailed Federal Officer.

Mayor Ingledue and his officers are charged with throwing Everett E. van Wert, a special officer of the United States Indian service, into jail at Marshalltown and keeping him there more than twenty-four hours. Van Wert had been detailed to investigate alleged sales of liquor at Marshalltown to Indians from the Tama reservation, some miles distant. He is said to have sent an Indian into Wenger's saloon to buy liquor in order to obtain evidence. The Indian and Rev. Smith, a local minister, were arrested and placed in jail with van Wert.

Mayor Ingledue is a prominent member of the Order of Eagles.

WOOD DEFENDS MIMIC WAR

Says Statement Against It Has No Foundation in Fact.

New York, Oct. 8.—The critics of the joint maneuvers of the regular army and the national guard, who have been predicting that the Boston campaign of the last summer will be the last of such joint operations because the hardship and suffering of the militiamen was all out of proportion to the lessons learned, was answered yesterday by Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, commanding the Department of the East.

Gen. Wood said:

"The statement purporting to come from some one connected with the war department at Washington, relating to the hardship and suffering of the men engaged in the maneuvers in Massachusetts, has no foundation in fact. The amount of sickness was extraordinarily small.

"There Were No Hardships."

"It is not true to say that the hardships were all out of proportion to the lessons learned. In the first place there were no hardships. No complaint has come from the men or officers. There were possibly 5 per cent of the militiamen dissatisfied with the maneuvers, and they were the proportion which would prefer life in a camp.

"On the other hand, the lessons learned were invaluable. One of them is that we have not enough regulars or militiamen ready for mobilization to defend a city against such an attack as was made against Boston. The other is that it builds up the spirit of cooperation between the regular army and the national guard.

Cost Under $100,000.

"The total cost of the whole campaign with all its incidental expenses, has been under $100,000. I know of no way I can better illustrate the exemplary conduct of all the men than to say that with the 12,000 troops engaged the total expenditure for rentals and damages has been only $2,000. Frankly, I expected it would be nearer $15,000. The conduct of all the men was unusual."

STRANDED ALASKANS COMING HOME ON CUTTER.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The 100 men and women taken to Nome, Alaska, by the Alaskan Development & Investment company to work in its plant, and now left stranded with their season's wages unpaid, will be brought home on the revenue cutter Bear. This was assured in a message received at the treasury department from Capt. William V. E. Jobs of the revenue cutter service at Nome, saying that he had located the Bear at sea and had delivered the government's message to transport the destitute Americans to Seattle from Nome. Capt. Berthold of the Bear also notified the treasury department that he would leave Nome for Seattle today.

The Bear has been cruising around the Pribiloff islands in the Bering sea, watching particularly for seal poachers.

DEWEY DEFENDS AMERICAN NAVY

Says It Is No "Bluff," But That We Need Subsidy Just the Same.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Defending, with characteristic vigor, the American navy, Admiral Dewey today asserted that not only is our navy not a "bluff," but that he is confident that it would give a good account of itself should war ever come.

The admiral's remarks were called forth by a statement attributed to Former Representative Landis of Indiana, who in a recent speech at Cincinnati, Ohio, advocating ship subsidy, is reported to have said that "those Americans who are informed consider our navy a bluff."

The expression was characterized by Admiral Dewey as an "unfortunate" one. Declaring that he saw no war clouds gathering on the horizon, Admiral Dewey discussed several phases of the navy. He expressed himself as heartily in favor of ship subsidy legislation, and made a strong plea for the continued upbuilding of the navy. He said that at one time he used to think that the German ships were being built for us. "But now I do not," he added.

Referring to the remark attributed to Mr. Landis, Admiral Dewey said that of course what the former meant was that the navy would be comparatively useless in time of war without necessary auxiliaries drawn from the merchant marine.

"He," continued Admiral Dewey, "wants a subsidy for our ships of commerce, and so do I."

MEXICANS ORDER 200,000 BUSHELS OF CORN.

City of Mexico, Mex., Oct. 8.—Two hundred thousand bushels of corn have been telegraphed for to the United States by the government of Guanajato to relieve distress occasioned by the cold weather, which killed all the growing crops. There was less than two weeks' supply of food in Guanajato.

Recount Heney Ballots.

SUES LANDLORD UNDER RACE SUICIDE LAW.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Race suicide landlords in Chicago must submit to a test in the courts of a new state law which became effective July 1 last, forbidding them to refuse rental of apartments to families with children.

Yesterday R. P. Longenecker, a tenant, who was refused renewal of the lease of an apartment because a child had been born to him therein, brought suit against the landlord under the new statute, demanding that the landlord be forced to renew the lease. The case will be heard in the municipal court Oct. 20.

HALF SESSIONS AT LONGFELLOW

More room is needed at the Longfellow school at West Duluth. By the burning of the Fairmont structure a few weeks ago, the Longfellow has been so crowded that in one of the lower grades instruction is given to the children for only half a day.

The class comprises seventy-eight pupils and because of the lack of room, part of the children are required to stay home in the morning while the others are taught their lessons. They then come in the afternoon to school. The morning class has thirty-one pupils and the afternoon class forty-one.

This brings a protest out from the parents whose children are affected by this condition of affairs. They say that their children do not get the same chance as other children who go to school during regular hours.

The Longfellow is the only one of the West Duluth schools that is so crowded that this arrangement has to be made to accommodate all of the pupils.

Commercial Club Meeting.

A meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club will be held this evening and but little new business is expected to come up for consideration.

Agitation will be continued against the proposed plans of the Canadian Northern entrance into West Duluth through the main residence district.

TIGERS WILL MEET THE BIG DULUTHS.

The Irving Tigers will play the Big Duluths at football Sunday and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, the affair will be pulled off at Athletic park.

The Tigers are in the best of trim according to Manager Buckley. The lineup is announced as follows: Wenton, c.; Poisant and Boulevash, g.; Blanchard and McLeod, t.; Fieldman, Ryan and Baker, e.; Manion, q.; Ross, r. h.; Abrahamson, l. h.; and Drake, f. b.

Next Thursday evening the Tigers will give a dancing party at Wade's hall. Special music has been arranged for the occasion. Souvenir programs will be given out.

To Enlarge Rink.

Emil J. Zauft, contractor, has been awarded the contract for the alterations which will be made to the rink of the Western Curling club at Fifty-seventh avenue west and Gosnold street.

Mr. Zauft will set a crew of men to work on the job at once and the work will be rushed to an early completion. The waiting room is to be enlarged, a new roof will be put on the curling part, and the structure will be so enlarged as to accommodate another ice.

The contract price is not given out, but it is understood that the remodeling of the West Duluth rink will be in the neighborhood of $1,200.

Go Over New Route.

Surveyors from the city engineer's office, with City Engineer McGilvray, W. B. Getchell and J. J. Frey of the West Duluth Commercial club, went over the proposed new Proctor road this morning for the purpose of ascertaining in what places the grade could be cut down to an average of 5¼ per cent.

As soon as the survey has been finally completed, condemnation proceedings can be started by the city and actual work on the road can commence some time next spring.

Big Potato Displayed.

An exceptionally large potato, weighing over two pounds and four ounces, and grown in a garden patch just back of the hills at West Duluth, is being displayed at the news stand of John Moran at West Duluth. It has attracted the attention of many at West Duluth.

Fire in Dwelling.

A defective chimney was the cause of a fire which broke out shortly after 9 o'clock this morning at 6 South Fifty-eighth avenue west. Damage to the extent of $300 was done before the firemen from the West Duluth hall could put it out.

The house was occupied by Fritz Waangan, the owner, and Sivert Thorpe. Most of the damage was covered by insurance. The roof was so badly damaged that it will have to be torn off and rebuilt.

Farewell Reception.

ROBBED BY ROOMMATE

Visitor to Cass Lake Relieved of Coin By Old Friend.

Thief When Pursued By Officers Throws Away About $100.

Cass Lake, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Jaques, a Finlander, arrived in town Wednesday with a nice sized roll of bills and while journeying through the village met an old acquaintance by the name of Mike Anderson, also a Finlander.

They renewed their former friendship and when Jaques' bed time came he invited Anderson to room with him. Anderson accepted the invitation and both retired. About 2:30 Jaques awoke and was surprised to find that his partner had disappeared. His first thought was of his money. After searching his clothes he found that it was gone. Jaques hurriedly dressed and within a short while had Officer Kennedy on the trail of his partner. Just as the eastbound passenger was pulling out Anderson was spied and brought to the village lockup, where his clothes were thoroughly searched, but to the surprise of both the officer and Jaques no money was found. Anderson was kept in jail pending an investigation and later when Officer Brouliette called on him he broke down and confessed. He said he took the money, but as soon as he learned that an officer was on his trail he grabbed the roll of bills and threw them between two buildings. He gave a description of the buildings and the officer journeyed there to investigate and after a brief search found a number of bills aggregating almost $100. Anderson was given a hearing and bound over to the grand jury.

MUCH GRAIN IS BEING SHIPPED

Farmers Are Not Holding Their Wheat as Was Expected.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thrashing throughout North Dakota has practically been completed, there being only a few scattering fields left that are yet to be thrashed. The thrashing season has been one of the most favorable in recent years, fine weather prevailing almost the entire fall, with the exception of a week or ten days at the opening of operations.

There has been a great deal of discussion with reference to the action of the farmers in holding their grain this season. The Society of Equity and other agencies have been busily engaged during the year in advocating that the farmers hold their grain for higher prices.

In a measure, this movement is believed to have been successful, but it is very hard to secure any definite information concerning the subject. According to O. P. N. Anderson of Starkweather, a member of the board of railroad commissioners, the movement of grain this year is just as heavy as other years. He has a splendid opportunity of observing the wheat movement.

THRILLING RIDE ABOVE THE LAND

St. Louis Balloonist Who Landed in Mille Lacs County Talks.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 8.—S. Von Puehl, pilot, and Joseph M. O'Reilly, aide of the balloon St. Louis III, unofficially winners of the Lahm cup and a $600 prize offered by the Aero Club of St. Louis, who landed in their balloon at Wahkon, Minn., arrived in St. Paul yesterday.

Speaking of their trip, S. Von Puehl said: "We left St. Louis at 4:50 o'clock Monday afternoon to go up and landed at Wahkon, near Mille Lacs, about 9:25 o'clock Wednesday morning. I attribute my success to the fact that I kept close to the ground, while the others took high altitudes. The trip was an uneventful one, except that we went over Glasgow three times, and thought we were hoodooed there.

"We threw over everything we could to get higher and began to head for Kansas City. We thought we were going to sweep across Nebraska, but during the night a northern breeze caught us and we began to cross Iowa like a streak Tuesday night. When daylight came we hardly knew where we were. We must have traveled at a rate of fifty miles an hour for a time.

"When he got into the vicinity of Mille Lacs lake we thought it Lake Superior. We were about 1,000 feet up and did not think it safe to cross. We shouted to a farmer to learn our location and he told us what county we were in, but that did not help us, as our map did not show counties. He informed us that we would be safe in crossing, but as we had only an orange between us in the way of food, and as we were hungry, having had nothing to eat since the afternoon before, we decided to land. We shot toward land at a terrific rate, but landed in some marsh grass in good condition."

MANDAN MAKING READY.

Preparing to Entertain North Dakota M. E. Conference.

Mandan, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city, the Commercial club and local Methodists are working hard to have everything in readiness for the conference of the North Dakota M. E. church which will be held here Oct. 13 to 17 inclusive.

The greatest amount of interest centers about the appointments for the coming conference year. There are a few important changes to be made, but just what these are is not yet known.

Preliminary to the opening of the convention there will be a reception Tuesday evening to the bishop and the visiting clergymen and their wives. The session proper opens Wednesday morning, the important number of the day being an address by Rev. A. J. Keynet, D. D., of Philadelphia. Thursday Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., of Cincinnati, who has gained the title of "The Booker T. Washington of the Methodist church," will appear on the program. Friday the anniversary of the board of education will be observed, while on Saturday the anniversary of the board of conference claimants will be commemorated. The bishop's sermon will be delivered Sunday morning, while in the afternoon an ordination service will be held.

The international commission system will be one of the important matters up for consideration.

NEW GRADE OF WHEAT.

North Dakota No. 1 Hard Established By State Board.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The meeting of the state board of railroad commissioners just held here was one of the most important ever held, as matters of vital importance were considered.

The board listened to communications and arguments in favor of a single through tariff on the Soo on merchandise shipped from Grand Forks via Ardoch or Forest River and Kenmare to points on the Soo railroad north and south of Kenmare and on the Flaxton extension on the ground that under the present tariff schedule Grand Forks is discriminated against in favor of the Eastern cities. This matter will probably result in a special session of the board to consider the proposition with representatives of the railroad present. The other matter brought before the commissioners by the Grand Forks committee related to the return freight rates on shipments of empties such as crates, ice cream freezers, etc.

Probably the most important action taken this meeting was that of establishing a new grade of wheat to be known as North Dakota No. 1 hard. The wheat must be round, sweet, clean spring wheat, not less than 75 per cent of hard Scotch varieties, and must test not less than fifty-nine pounds to the measured bushel.

The object is to secure for North Dakota hard spring wheat the distinction it is entitled to. The commissioners believe that at the terminals the hard North Dakota wheat is mixed with inferior grain from the South, with the result that North Dakota farmers do not get the credit due them.

EWEN ENJOYING BOOM.

Small Town on South Shore Road Having Good Times.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The small town of Ewen, on the line of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, west of here, is in the midst of a building boom which is causing other communities in the district to sit up and take notice.

Having completed the construction of a planing mill, M. F. Leach has started the construction of a sawmill. This will require an outlay of $25,000. He is also building a residence. Ground has been broken for a fraternity hall and business block by the Odd Fellows. An opera house has been built by Thomas O'Rourke and will be formally opened the latter part of the month. The Albert Landreth Canning Company of Manitowoc, Wis., which has already done considerable building at Ewen this year, is now erecting a $10,000 residence there. This week ground was broken for a bank building. Two more business blocks and a number of dwelling houses are projected.

PLAYS WITH DYNAMITE.

As Result Boy May Lose Some Fingers or Whole Hand.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Raymond Gardner, a 14-year-old boy living near Grandview realizes today, the danger of dynamite caps, better than he ever did before. If he does not lose a hand, or at least a finger or two, he will be lucky.

From the statement of his father, who brought him to Ashland, it appears that dynamite had been used on the farm, and that a small supply of caps had been placed on top of a cupboard out of the reach of the children. The boy, however, reached up and took three of the caps, unknown to his parents, and took them to school in his pocket. Then he wanted to see what was inside of them, and picked out the inside of two of them with a pin. He attempted it on the third cap, when it went off, tearing both hands badly. The left hand is seriously torn, and the right is not much better. He may lose all or a portion of the left hand.

Are Microbes in Your Scalp?

It Has Been Proved That Microbes Cause Baldness

Prof. Unna of Hamburg, Germany, and Dr. Sabourand, the leading French dermatologist, discovered that a microbe causes baldness. Their theory has time and again been amply verified through research experiments carried on under the observation of eminent scientists. This microbe lodges in the Sebum, which is the natural hair oil, and when permitted to flourish it destroys the hair follicles, and in time the pores entirely close, and the scalp gradually takes on a shiny appearance. When this happens there is no hope of the growth of hair being revived.

Dandruff is a contagious disease, which is largely due to a destructive microbe, which, when left to pursue its course, causes itching scalp, falling hair and baldness. Dandruff is caused by the microbe affecting the glands which produce the sebaceous matter, which latter then unnaturally dries up and scales off.

We have a remedy which will, we honestly believe, remove dandruff exterminate the microbe, promote good circulation in the scalp and around the hair roots, tighten and revitalize the hair roots and overcome baldness, so long as there is any life left in the hair roots.

We back up this statement with our personal guarantee that this remedy, called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, will be supplied free of all cost to the user if it fails to do as we state.

It will frequently restore gray and faded hair to its original color, providing loss of color has been caused by disease; yet it is in no sense a dye. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic accomplishes these results by making every hair rpot, follicle and pigment gland strong and active, and by stimulating a natural flow of coloring pigment throughout the hair cells.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is entirely free from grease or sediment, is exceedingly pleasant to use and will not gum the hair or permanently soil the clothing or pillows.

We exact no obligations or promises—we simply ask you to give it a thorough trial and if not satisfied, tell us, and we will refund the money you paid us for it. Two sizes; prices, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain it in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway.

Medicines Made From Roots and Herbs.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers they depended upon medicines made from the roots and herbs of the field to cure diseases.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that standard remedy which is made from roots and herbs for woman's ills, had its origin in this way. For thirty years it has been redeeming its promises written on the label of every bottle by curing thousands of women of feminine ills. It's a good, honest medicine.

Control Your Fat

One can now take off and keep off extra fat at will. If you have an overfat abdomen or double chin you can clear it away completely without a minute's bother, exercising or dieting. Take a teaspoonful after meals and at bed time of this mixture: ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 3½ ounces Peppermint Water—any druggist has them—and go on eating as best pleases you; don't worry about results.

The double chin and ponderous stomach will soon show signs of melting away. They will not sag in or wrinkle, however; just go down nice and smooth and even. That effect is due to the harmless natural action of the mixture.

This is explained as follows: Blame overfatness to the stomach. It is getting lazy. Instead of making energy and muscle from your food, it is manufacturing fat. The above mixture corrects this defect and hence it makes you stronger and healthier at the same time it is taking off of you 12 to 16 ounces of useless fat a day. The reason it affects double chin, hips, etc., first is because the fat on them is softer and can not resist the remedy as long as that on the limbs. But eventually all the fat has to go if you keep up the treatment.

NORTHERN PACIFIC R'Y

TOOK SHOT AT CHAUFFEUR.

French Troops Failed to Locate Perpetrator of Outrage.

Paris, Oct. 8.—An extraordinary adventure befell a woman and a man as they were proceeding in an automobile along the Corniche road. They were going on quietly when they perceived a man with a gun watching their approach. When they were only at a little distance from him he took aim at the driver, who, thinking that he must be in jest, asked him to lower his gun. He fired, and the unfortunate chauffeur was wounded in the chest and in his left hand by the small shot.

Seeing that this strange individual was reloading his gun, the chauffeur sent the motor car speeding off at a great rate. Another shot followed, damaging the car, but, happily, doing no hurt to its occupants. Search has been made for the perpetrator of this abominable outrage, troops having been pressed into the service, but no trace of him can be found.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA, ACNE, TETTER ETC.

While Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, etc., are troubles which affect the skin, their source is far deeper than the outside cuticle. These affections are caused by irritating humors, or uratic acid in the blood. Such impurities inflame and irritate the delicate net-work of fibrous tissue which lies just beneath the surface of the outer skin, and the inflammatory discharge thus produced is forced out through the pores and glands, and is continually kept up while the blood remains infected. This exudation causes the formation of scales and crusts so often seen in Eczema, and when they are scratched off the flesh is left raw and more susceptible to other infection. It can very readily be seen then that to produce a cure the circulation must be purified and cleansed. This S. S. S. will do. It goes down to the very bottom, removes all humors and impurities, neutralizes the excessive acids of the system and in this way removes the cause of disease. Local applications can only soothe the irritation and assist in keeping the skin clean; they never produce a cure because such treatment does not reach the blood S. S. S. restores to the thin, acrid blood all its lost properties, makes it pure and rich and enables it to nourish the skin and keep it soft, smooth and healthy. Book on Skin Diseases and any medical advice free to all who write.

SUPREMACY OF THE AIR

American Army Does Not Intend Being Behind Other Armies.

Lack of Funds Hampers the Plans for Aerial Department.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The United States army does not intend being behind armies of other nations in the race for supremacy of the air, although at present the war department is hampered in its plans for an aerial department, the last congress having refused to make an appropriation for the purchase of balloons or aeroplanes.

The only money available for aeronautical development in the army the past year was $50,000 taken from the appropriation of the general fortification board. Of this amount $30,000 will be paid to the Wrights for their aeroplane, now at Fort Myer, Va.

The war department recently leased a large farm at College Park, Md., near Washington, for the purpose of establishing a temporary school of instruction in the use of the Wright machine. Wilbur Wright, after the Hudson-Fulton celebration flights, expects to come to Washington to instruct three officers of the signal corps in the use of his aeroplane.

Aside from the Wright aeroplane, the war department possesses no heavier-than-air flying machine, although it still has the big dirigible balloon purchased last summer from Capt. Thomas Baldwin, and several balloons which have no motive power.

Many ascensions have been made here in free balloons by officers of the signal corps, chiefly by Lieut. Frank Lahm, who was appointed some time ago chief of the aeronautical division of the corps.

The Baldwin dirigible is now housed at the aeronautical station at Fort Omaha, Neb., where the war department has one of the largest aeronautical sheds and gas plants for balloons in the world.

All the progress the army has been able to make in keeping abreast of aerial science has been accomplished without the aid of congress, and necessarily the work has been limited in scope.

At the last session, Brig. Gen. Allen, chief of the signal corps, asked congress for an appropriation of $500,000 for the purchase of dirigible balloons, aeroplanes and for aeronautical experiments. Congress ignored the request. At the next session, however, the lawmakers will be obliged to make a large appropriation, or there will be a protest from the thousands who are interested in the science, from the members of the aero clubs of the United States and from the army and navy officials, who do not wish to see this nation outstripped by European countries in aerial navigation.

Expected From Congress.

It is expected by well-informed persons in the government service that congress, at the next session, will appropriate at least $500,000 for the joint use of the army and navy in aeronautical experiments, and the purchase of aeroplanes and dirigibles of the best type. This will be wholly due to the marvelous progress that has been made within the last year in aerial navigation, notably at the great international aviation meet, recently held at Rheims, France, and the flights of the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Congress can not longer ignore the wonderful progress that has been made in the navigation of the air, and the important bearing that its progress has on future warfare. Every first-class European power is much farther advanced than the United States in acquiring ships of the air for war purposes.

A tremendous effort is being made by the Washington Aero club, which numbers among its membership many celebrated scientists, to secure the next international aviation meet for this city. It is believed, if the meet is held here, that the object lessons presented to the national lawmakers will be so striking that they will make ample financial provision to keep the army and navy ahead of foreign competitors in aerial science.

Warfare in the clouds undoubtedly will be witnessed during the next conflict between nations. It is regarded as a fine example of the persistence and pluck of the signal corps that it has been able to accomplish so much in aerial navigation with practically no available funds.

All aeronautical work in the army is under the direction of the signal corps, of which Brig. Gen. James Allen is chief. Organized within the Signal corps there is an aeronautical division, commanded by Lieut. F. P. Lahm, who has as assistants Lieut. B. D. Foulois, Lieut. J. G. Winter and several other junior officers, all aeronautical enthusiasts and all devoted to the sport of "free" ballooning, as it is termed. Lieut. Lahm has made more than forty free balloon ascensions in Washington and at Fort Omaha.

Brig. Gen. Allen has two assistants, Maj. George O. Squier and Maj. Charles McK. Saltzman. These three attend to the planning and office work of the aeronautical division, leaving the field work to Lieut. Lahm and his aides.

The First Step.

Secretary of War Dickinson last June issued instructions to the chief signal officer to have prepared for future use a comprehensive plan for the protection of the entire Atlantic coast by dirigible balloons and aeroplanes.

This was the first step by the United States toward the use of aerial craft in warfare. In a measure it was the outcome of the remarkable success of Count Zeppelin, who in May last made extended and successful flights in his big dirigible in Germany. While little comment was made at that time in this country regarding the performance of the German aerial navigator, nevertheless war department officials watched his flights carefully and kept fully informed of what he accomplished.

The work of preparing the plan for the aerial defense of the Atlantic coast was turned over to Maj. Squier, who is still working out the problems connected with it.

This plan involves the establishment of balloon sheds along the entire Atlantic coast from Maine to Florida, and around into the Gulf of Mexico to New Orleans. These stations, according to the preliminary plans, will be about 250 miles apart, this being considered a safe limit at present for the flights of airships.

The coast will be divided into zones, with one or two airships assigned to each zone. At present the experts do not know how many airships will be necessary to protect the coast.

The intention is not to use the airships as fighting craft, it being considered that aerial science has not advanced sufficiently for that, but principally for scouting purposes, and to keep watch over the movements of hostile fleets. These balloon stations will be placed as near forts and stations of the coast artillery as possible.

The type of dirigible which will be used for coast defense purposes has not been decided upon, but there will be a standard type of both dirigible and aeroplane. It is probable that dirigibles of the Baldwin type, and aeroplanes on the Wright bi-plane model will be used. These will be either bought or manufactured at one of the government arsenals as soon as congress makes an appropriation for that purpose.

The next step will be to make plans also for the defense of the Pacific coast and the Canadian border.

The balloon houses will be the best it is possible to construct, modeled on the big shed at Fort Omaha. Each aeronautical station also will be used for a wireless telegraph station and other purposes pertaining to the work of the signal corps.

Chauchard, the millionaire proprietor of the Magazine du Louvre, the great Paris department store, the employes of that establishment, numvering nearly 5,000, have each received a legacy of about $12.50 for each year he or she has been in the service of the firm.

WOULD OPEN A SHORTER ROUTE

Russian Government Has Great Exploration Scheme Under Way.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 8.—A "Northeast Passage" through the Arctic regions is the objective of a great exploration scheme undertaken by the Russian government, which proposes to cut a trade route along the northern coast of Asia, thus immensely shortening the voyage from European Russia to Vladivostok and other ports in the Far East.

The present route—from the White and Baltic seas, round Gibraltar, through the Mediterranean, the Red sea, the Indian ocean, the China and Japan seas, and the Pacific—is almost prohibitive—as the late Admiral Rojestvensky incidentally learned.

It is with a view of opening up a much shorter route that the Russian government is about to spend $150,000 on exploration work.

Next spring an expedition of two "ice breakers," carrying scientists, hydrographers, etc., and a crew of eighty men, will be dispatched north and east through the Kara straits (between the North Russian coast and Nova Zembia) to Cape Chelluskin, the northermost point of Asia, in latitude 78 north longitude 103 east.

This is reckoned the coldest "continental wintering place" in the world. It is only 850 miles from the North Pole.

The expedition will study climatic conditions, sounding, charting, etc., to prove if it is possible for steamers to round this cape in the summer months.

Steamers already run to the Yenisei estuary (600 miles nearer Europe than Cape Chelluskin) during the summer season; but these Yenisei steamers do not need to go so far north as Cape Chelluskin by 360 miles.

A party of twelve scientists from Europe, equipped for twelve months, will now map the coasts; while another expedition will sail from Vladivostok, approaching Cape Chelluskin, via East Cape, Behring straits and the mouth of the Lena river, in a special steamer, with about thirty-six scientists and crew.

If these men prove the practicability of the route, a great impetus will be given to Siberian trade, and the summer sea voyage from the White sea to Russia's province in the Farthest East will be reduced (in distance) to less than a fifth that of the present sea route.

But it will always be a difficult passage, even with ice breakers at work; and probably no attempt will ever be made by traders to round Cape Chelluskin during the long night of the Arctic winter.

Russian merchants think that at most it may be practicable from June to September to keep this route open to navigation.

If one man has any real business with another—and they are utter strangers—the task of introducing them to each other is "want ad work" of the every day kind.

CAT SAVES FIVE PERSONS.

Wakes Family During Fire and Then Stays to Own Death.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 8.—The pet cat of Goldie Allmendinger saved the lives of the five members of the family Monday morning, and in doing so sacrificed its own life. Fire started in the building used by the Allmendinger family as a residence and bakery, and while the family slept the first floor and cellar became filled with smoke.

Scenting danger, the cat ran to the door of Goldie's bedroom and scratched until Mr. Allmendinger was awakened. He hastily arose, roused his wife and three children and cast about for means of escape. The smoke poured up the stairway, cutting off escape by that route, but finally exit was made through a second-story window. Mrs. Allmendinger catching the two younger children as they were tossed to her Goldie fell on the railing of the porch and was injured, but will recover.

After the fire was extinguished the charred body of the cat was found at the spot where it had gone to awaken the family.

HAS MONEY, BUT STARVES.

Miser, Discovered in Squalid Room, Found to Be Wealthy.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 8.—When the body of Christopher Kuhn, aged 68, a cabinet maker, was discovered in his squalid room, investigation showed that the man had been dead since Sept. 6, when, according to neighbors, he apparently died of starvation. Secreted in the room were many thousands of dollars' worth of securities and deeds to property. There were keys to a safety deposit box in the City Hall bank and a bank book showing that he had on deposit $1,100.

CHESTNUTS HAVE COME

Street Corner Venders Will Soon Be Offering Them.

Light Receipts Cause an Advance in the Egg Market.

New chestnuts are in town.

Some people will say that this is a somewhat paradoxical statement, because chestnuts are always as old as the proverbial hills. But when one refers to the portion of the latest crop of the delicacy which now is offered in the Michigan street commission houses, one may be permitted to say "new chestnuts."

Whatever you may think about the description of the chestnuts, they are there in the commission houses, and, being the first of the season, look very tempting.

It will be only a short time now before the delegates from ancient Athens, who have been disposing of grapes and bananas on the street corners, will go in for roasted chestnuts and the season for them will be on in earnest.

At present they cost 14 cents, wholesale.

Higher prices for eggs form another feature of the local produce market. Receipts have been light this week and quotations for the hen fruit have advanced from 22 to 22½ cents a dozen to 24 and 25 cents a dozen. For the last named amounts strictly fresh eggs may be obtained.

As for butter, the market is steady, but prices have shown no advance over last week's level. The general conditions of the butter market remain the same as they were.

Fresh vegetables are fast disappearing. Some are being replaced at once by hothouse vegetables and others will be before long.

Fresh Northwestern-grown tomatoes, green onions and field cucumbers have practically vanished from Michigan street. Hothouse cucumbers are beginning to arrive and receipts of tomatoes grown in California are expected to begin in a short time.

Peaches are still a leading feature of the fruit list. Receipts are holding up well and the fruit shows no diminishing popularity. Most of the receipts are from Colorado and cost $1.15 to $1.20 a box.

New York fall pears are also in the market, at $5.50 a barrel.

As stated last week, New York apples are beginning to arrive. These are what are known as "fall apples," however, as the winter apples from the Empire State will not come until later. The New York receipts of the week have been of the Pippin variety and are offered at $4.25 a barrel.

Oranges and bananas have been without feature during the past few days.

Concord grapes are still arriving in good quantities, with quotations about the same as they were last week.

The market for Irish potatoes is rather demoralized and the commission men are not attempting any regular quotations on them. This year's crop was a big one and dealers are being offered the spuds on every side, all of them at very low prices.

Owing to the fact that they are to be had cheaply through so many different sources, the consumers' demand for them is very irregular.

During the past week potatoes have been selling at all prices, ranging from 38 to 48 cents a bushel.

Jersey sweet potatoes are arriving in goodly quantities and are finding a ready market here at $3.75 a barrel. This price is considered very reasonable.

The market for the rest of the staple vegetable list shows practically no change from last week. Roots of all kinds are now being freely offered.

The poultry and fish markets do not show a single change in quotations from last week.

In the meat market, pork loins are a little lower than they have been this fall, while lambs, off the first of the week, are now on a firm basis again. Beef is unchanged.

TOILS 12 YEARS FOR THEFT.

Girl Asks Chance to Make Good the $3,600 Stolen.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—Stella Jones, the comely Pittsburg girl who has been released under $5,000 bail on a charge of stealing $3,600 from her employer for her sweetheart, sent word to the Ohio & Pittsburg Milk company, from which she stole the money, that she was ready to begin atonement for her larceny.

Her proposition is that the entire amount of money missing be considered as drawing 6 per cent interest from last April, the date on which she admits beginning to take money from the firm for Gilbert Esler, her intended husband. She asks that she be allowed to work this amount out, resuming her old position as bookkeeper and cashier of the milk company.

Miss Jones specifies that only a very small portion of her former $18 a week salary shall be paid her, enough to keep body and soul together, and she has figured that in twelve years' faithful work she will have paid this obligation in full, with interest on every dollar for the whole time it is owed.

The officials of the Ohio & Pittsburg Milk company, while apparently impressed with the proposition of the girl who served them for six years, say they cannot yet think of any such compromise, since Miss Jones has not been placed on trial for her offense.

The young woman is prostrated at her home and refused to receive a communication which had been sent her by Esler in the county jail.

RICHES OFFERED MILL GIRL.

Harry Colbaugh, Wealthy Uncle, Would Adopt Miss Martz.

Bloomsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—From the lot of a mill worker to wealth is the future prospect of Miss Lizzie E. Martz, who lives with her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Martz, here. She has been offered this if she will but change her name and become the adopted daughter of her rich uncle, Harry Colbaugh of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Colbaugh have never had children, and are desirous of adopting Miss Martz. They offered her everything in the way of an education, money and pleasure if she will consent.

Miss Martz has been employed in a mill since she was able to work, and is the sole support of her grandmother. She left this morning on a visit to her wealthy uncle in New York. She says she will accept nothing from him unless her grandmother is well taken care of.

SINK HOLE A PROBLEM

County Has Spent $1,000 in Vain Attempt to Fill It.

Temporary Road Has Finally Been Constructed Around It.

"You can't fill a sink hole with brains," said E. K. Coe, county road superintendent, this morning in regard to the formation which has appeared on the Rice Lake road about twenty miles from Duluth. "Railroad engineers have probably poured more gray matter into sink holes than any one problem that has confronted them in road construction and maintenance, and they have achieved nothing but the conclusion that sand and gravel in large quantities form the sole solution of the problem."

The sink hole on the Rice Lake road extends for a distance of from 150 to 200 feet along the road, twenty miles from Duluth and two miles on this side of the Cloquet river. Already sand, gravel, trees, brush and labor to the value of $1,000 have been poured into the hole and it still looms up as black, oozy mud. The plan of planking it is regarded as unfeasible; County Commissioner John Tischer has no more money at his disposal, and the temporary road built around the obstruction will have to be used for a time, at least.

The sink hole has probably been there for many years, but never put in its appearance before. Once the road was exposed corduroy, which was light and easily supported by the layer of moss and roots beneath. Then automobiles came into use and a surface of gravel was necessary. The quantities of gravel used in making a good surface and the heavy traffic of automobiles and farm wagons finally broke down the supporting layer of moss and roots and the shifting mud came to the surface.

Sink holes will not give way to any treatment but plenty of sand and gravel. There was one on the Duluth, Missabe & Northern a few years ago. For three years trains were run over the place without trouble, but just a little extra gravel used in ballasting broke down the support and the sink hole offered itself as a problem. Trainload after trainload of sand and gravel was dumped into the hole before a firm surface was finally secured.

Mr. Coe says that work on the sink hole on the Rice Lake road will probably be put off now until the ground freezes and the hauling of material is cheaper. Then sand will be poured into the hole until it is filled and a dry surface secured. The cost cannot be estimated. The hole may hold a surface after the expenditure of $50, and $1,000 may be necessary to fill it. Planking will not do with the present cost of lumber and labor. Sand is expensive to haul and labor is high. The money will be available later and Mr. Tischer will fill the hole as economically as possible, but the cost is fixed entirely by the conditions.

GOES BACK TO HIS HOVEL.

Rich Hermit Proves His Sanity and Blocks Relatives.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—Peter Leibach, the eccentric miser-hermit, who became rich because he did not care for the power of money, is again a happy man. He is at home in his hovel on the hillside above Madison avenue, North side—alone with crucifix and his dog in his ramshackle house.

Leibach, although sent to the insane department of the city home by the police, was sound enough in mind to fight his way to liberty through the courts. A number of relatives interested themselves to have him taken care of in a private hospital for the insane, but Leibach shrewdly blocked theis plans.

He had not seen any of his relatives until after the police swooped down on his house and found if chockful of money. The resultant publicity given the incident caused them to look up the "family tree."

Leibach, instead of being a poor man, was rich. The drawers of his bureau, two trunks, two washboilers, a bucket and other receptacles were filled with silver coin of different denominations. Bills were stuffed behind the chimney and several costly diamonds were carelessly placed upon a rickety, dusty mantelpiece.

The police turned the money over to a bank for safekeeping, and when the truckload of coins was placed in a wagon for removal the horses were stalled.

It required a week for clerks to count the coins. They totaled $26,000. Leibach has as much more hidden away somewhere, and he has accounts at several banks.

He spends but a trifle each day. His only joy is to live alone in the little hillside house, where his parents had lived.

He amassed the money by selling herbs. His brother and his father had been of the same turn of mind, and when they died their wealth remained in the house.

HER FINGER IMPALED BY SEWING MACHINE NEEDLE.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—Held prisoner for an hour by a sewing machine needle through her middle finger, Mrs. B. M. Gracie suffered a severe nervous shock and her condition is serious.

Mrs. Gracie was running the machine and her finger became entangled in the threads and was drawn beneath the needle, which was thrust through the center of the nail.

Mrs. Gracie was alone in the house, unable to extricate herself. Her cries for help were not heard by neighbors, and after minutes of agony she fainted. After a while she regained consciousness and began screaming, and this time was heard. Neighbors came in, and after taking part of the machine to pieces, released her.

A physician found that the needle had drawn the thread through the finger and a slight operation was necessary to remove it.

MAN'S PETRIFIED HEAD 900 FEET UNDERGROUND.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Oct 8.—At a depth of 900 feet below the surface of the earth, firmly embedded in coal, the petrified head of a man was discovered at Maple Hill colliery. The head is perfect in shape, eyes, ears, nose and even the hair standing out in bold relief. Workmen driving a tunnel made the find at a point over which water has been flowing for years.

It is believed to be the head of a man of a prehistoric age. The specimen was carefully mined, and after being trimmed will be sent to a Philadelphia museum.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

There is one thing—not a very big thing in detail but a very big thing in the aggregate—that everybody in Duluth can do to help along the great cause of bringing Duluth into its own.

That is to patronize home industries.

Elsewhere in The Herald tonight are some reflections upon this subject which include a list, as nearly complete as could be made, of the articles that are manufactured in Duluth.

If everybody who uses such things will make up his mind that hereafter, all things being equal, he will resolve to buy things made in Duluth in preference to similar things made somewhere else, a way will be opened up to help Duluth very greatly.

And the beauty of this sort of help is that it will not conflict with or confuse any of the other plans designed to push Duluth ahead. We were about to refer to these other plans as bigger ones, but on second thought we are not so sure that any other plan could be made bigger than this in results.

The Herald is quite confident, in view of the splendid public spirit which has lately been aroused in this city, that it is only necessary to suggest this plan to make it immediately effective. Now, with the exception of a very few thoughtful ones, buyers don't think to insist upon Duluth-made goods. It isn't that they will not gladly do this when it is called to their attention; it is just that they don't think of it. Now that it is suggested to them, they will do it.

And doing it means a great deal more to Duluth than you would imagine unless you gave it a little thought.

When you buy an article of household use at a store, the storekeeper doesn't keep all the money. All he keeps is his profit and enough to pay his help and his store expenses. The rest goes to the wholesaler, who takes out his profit and expense and in turn pays the rest over to the manufacturer. He doesn't keep it all, either; a great deal of it is paid out to his workmen.

Now when you choose an article made somewhere else, the manufacturer's share goes to help business in some other community, and to pay for the labor of workers that live in that community. None of it stays in Duluth except what the retailer and the wholesaler keep. What goes to the manufacturer goes out of town—AND IT NEVER COMES BACK.

But when you buy an article made in Duluth, it is very different. ALL OF YOUR MONEY STAYS RIGHT IN DULUTH. The retailer takes out his share, and that stays in Duluth; the wholesaler takes his share, and that stays in Duluth and goes to pay the profits and wages of Duluth people; the manufacturer takes his share, and that also stays in Duluth, and goes to pay the profits and wages of your fellow citizens, of men who are right here paying taxes and supporting your business, whatever it is.

Cities are built upon a foundation of payrolls. The more payrolls there are, and the larger they are, the greater the city and the firmer its foundation. When you buy things made outside, your money goes into the foundation of other cities; when you buy things made in Duluth, your money goes into the foundation of your home city, and ultimately some of it is coming back to you. BUT YOU WILL NEVER GET A PENNY BACK OUT OF THAT WHICH GOES TO THE MANUFACTURERS OF OTHER CITIES.

Buy Duluth made goods. Keep your money at home. Don't send it away where it will never return. Build up the payroll foundation of Duluth, not the payroll foundation of some other city in which you have no interest.

Patronize home industries. Build up Duluth's payroll foundation. Keep your money at home.

DO IT FOR DULUTH!

SHIP SUBSIDIES.

The argument in favor of ship subsidies as a means of putting the American merchant marine back into the proud position from which it tumbled years ago is that other countries subsidize their vessels, and therefore American vessels cannot compete with them without subsidies. This overlooks altogether tariff handicaps upon shipbuilding materials and what are practically tariff prohibitions against the use of foreign-built ships or American-built ships made out of foreign materials; and in this lies more cause for the destruction of the American merchant marine than in the fact that other countries subsidize their ships.

It is worth while looking into the argument that other nations maintain their supremacy upon the seas by subsidies. It is true that European countries subsidize some of their lines of vessels, but it is not true that they subsidize all of them; neither is it true that European supremacy is due in all cases to subsidies, nor that the subsidized lines are the most profitable.

Congressman Gustav Kustermann of Wisconsin showed some interesting facts in a speech in the last session. He showed that while Germany pays $1,400,000 a year to the mail steamers running to East Asia and Australia, and $435,000 for steamships running to East and South Africa, it does not pay a single penny to the Hamburg and Bremen lines plying between Germany and the United States, and only a fair price is paid for carrying the mails. In 1907 the North German Lloyd, which enjoys the largest subsidies on its line to the Far East, declared a dividend of only 4 per cent, while the Hamburg-American line, unsubsidized, paid 7 per cent during the same period.

Great Britain pays about $5,000,000 a year for carrying its mail to foreign countries, and some of these lines receive more than the regular price; but this is because they are classed as auxiliary to the navy. Not a dollar extra, however, is paid to the British ships that ply between Britain and South America; and it is the South American traffic that has been declared in this country to be in greatest need of subsidies. Yet there is no subsidized opposition there to be met.

The great ocean carrier today is the British tramp steamer, getting cargoes wherever it finds them but receiving no subsidies whatever. The bulk of the carrying trade goes to these unsubsidized ships that pay no more attention to international trade competition and show no more preference in handling goods than our express companies do between competing business houses.

The French merchant marine, in spite of its subsidies, is losing ground every year, and the subsidized Italian lines find great difficulty in even holding their own on the Mediterranean, their own ground, in competition with the unsubsidized German ships.

The plea for ship subsidies overlooks the fact that this country now deals liberally in the prices it pays for carrying ocean mails. The American Atlantic line gets $1.60 per pound for carrying mail matter, while the German lines are content to receive from this country 44 cents for carrying mail practically the same distance and in equally fast steamers.

The demand for ship subsidies grows out of the pernicious habit, into which this country has fallen, of taxing all the people for the benefit of a few. The shipowners want to get in on it. That is all there is to it.

A PLAN THAT SEEMS FEASIBLE.

The plan devised by the agricultural committee of the Duluth Commercial club to provide a market for the products of near-by soil seems perfectly feasible; and it should work out not only to improve the situation of the consumers in Duluth but to provide the best possible encouragement for settlers to enter upon the land near Duluth.

What is proposed is a farmers' co-operative association, with headquarters at the Armory market, to act in getting the produce from the farmer to the consumer. Not a great amount of capital will be needed, for the expense will not be great; but farmers will be asked to take stock in it for small amounts. Where the farmers of one community get together in a local co-operative association, that association can, doubtless, take stock in the Duluth association for all of them. A competent superintendent would be provided for the market, to receive and dispose of produce.

This market would, when it was once well established, fix the prices of farm and dairy products in Duluth. The price would no longer be fixed on Michigan street, though that institution will remain. The city market would not be a competitor, necessarily, of commission row; it would simply do what commission row has conspicuously failed to do.

The scope of the market would depend upon the quantities of produce received by it. Ultimately,—perhaps at once,—it will deal not only with the consumer but with the retailer and the commission man.

Conditions such as those reported at Bear River, where an industrious community of farmers has raised large quantities of produce greatly needed in Duluth and on the range, but is unable to get its goods to market and reap the profit of its honest toil, point anew the need of active endeavor to improve conditions.

INVADING THE CONFESSIONAL'S SECRECY.

The excitement that has grown out of the report that Massachusetts courts had set the bad example of disregarding the sanctity of the Roman Catholic confessional appears, upon examination of the facts, to have been based upon misinformation, and it is, therefore, without occasion.

In a case on trial at New Bedford, Mass., a priest was the defendant. It appeared that he had advised a woman penitent that her civil marriage was not valid, and that she should immediately have the ceremony performed by a priest. While a civil marriage is just as lawful and binding as a church marriage, still the view of this priest is that held by his church, and he was doing his duty as a priest of that church in giving that advice. However, it got him into court, and when the woman was asked to testify what the priest had advised in the confessional, his attorney pleaded the secrecy of the confessional as a bar to such testimony—claiming the matter to be privileged, as in the case of communications between lawyer and client and physician and patient. The judge ruled that Massachusetts law sanctioned no such privilege, and the woman was compelled to testify as above stated.

This is not invading the secrecy of the confessional in any menacing sense. It is very different from a case where a priest is called upon to relate in court what he has heard in the confessional from a penitent. Such a case as that would be a real invasion of the sanctity of the confessional, and it is pleasant to note that the courts do not sanction it.

The priest who hears a confession is under the most solemn vows not to reveal the knowledge thus gained; but the penitent is under no vows whatever to conceal what the priest may have said. It seldom occurs that a priest's advice to a penitent becomes of any importance in a court of law; but this Massachusetts case shows that when it does become important, it is proper testimony. Vastly different, however, is the case where a priest, who has heard the confession of a criminal, is asked to give evidence against the penitent. The Springfield Republican, in reporting the facts in this case, says that while the law of Massachusetts contains no provision for the exemption of clergymen or priests from testifying as to disclosures made to them in confession, "Massachusetts judges, like those of England, are averse to compelling such testimony, and its exclusion from a trial has all the force of unwritten law—of well-established precedent."

It is different in Minnesota, where this wholesome practice of the courts has been crystalized into statute law. The laws of this state make such communications privileged, and testimony regarding them is as rigidly excluded as is testimony regarding disclosures made by client to lawyer, or patient to physician. This is as it should be; and it is pleasant to know that even in a state which has no such written law, custom working to the same effect has all the force of law.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

WHAT ONE BACKYARD YIELDED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Out of a back yard space 30 by 20, I got the following garden truck this last season: About fifteen quarts "Early Alaska" peas; about half a bushel "White Burbank" potatoes (fair size); about two dozen ears "Golden Bantam" sweet corn; about ten quarts stringless string beans; about two dozen green tomatoes (fair size) for pickles; about twenty dozen green onions (from sets); about one quart beets; about one quart turnips; about one quart radishes; a few parsnips, lettuce and parsley for all summer. I planted some summer squash seed, but it did not mature. I also got a few cucumbers, perhaps a dozen small ones, from 5 cents worth of seed.

I figured the seed cost about $1 and the stuff raised worth at fair market price about $6.

Add the labor and it hardly paid from a financial standpoint, but the work was done at odd times, mornings and evenings, so that it was not noticed and did not interfere with business or pleasure.

But far and away above the small profit was the benefit and enjoyment, the exhilaration and joy of seeing things grow, and this added to the keen pleasure of eating something produced by yourself, makes it indeed a paying proposition in every sense of the word.

Some wiseacre has advocated "whist" for old age, but give me the garden, with the fresh air and the morning dew, and I will exclaim with the Frenchman "This is life." Yours truly,

RENTS REAL PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I noticed the report of the committee of the real estate exchange on the expense of living in Duluth. They took occasion to criticise our commission men for high prices of the goods they handle. They did not, however, refer to the most unjust item in the expense of living here, the item of exorbitant and unjustifiable rents. Would it not be a good idea to have a report now from a committee from commission row? By all means, let us have a comparison on that subject, too.

A RENTER.

NO BAD IRISH.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to take this means of taking exception to some of the statements published in your paper and written by Zach McGhee, who in his article of Wednesday evening went on to tell how much more intelligent the people of the north of Ireland are than those of the southern part of the island. He calls the people who live in the north Scotch-Irish. There is to my mind, no such thing as Scotch-Irish. All the people are Irish, with very little else mixed in. Some of our best immigrants have come from the southern district and they are certainly as good as the people from the north. Some of those of whom I speak fought in the Revolutionary war and have made history for this country. They have been prominent in every movement in the country and should be given their just due. I happen to have spent the early years of my life in Ireland and know that what I say is true. All Irish are good, but the people of the south are as good as those living in the north. I simply wanted to call this to your attention.

Tawney.

Kansas City Star: The country ought to know more about Tawney—Representative Tawney of Minnesota, whom President Taft has so signally honored. At the close of the extra session, in which Mr. Tawney was the only member of the Minnesota delegation, house and senate, to align himself with Cannon and Aldrich and against the party platform and the president's promises, Mr. Taft gave this member a letter designed to help him to "square himself" with his constituents.

In looking about for a place to deliver his first speech on the tariff, the president chose Mr. Tawney's district, and took occasion to give the representative a clean bill of health and directly or inferentially condemned the course of the other members from the great state of Minnesota.

Mr. Tawney is chairman of the house committee on appropriations. He owes that place to Cannon. This obligation explains some things. At any rate Cannon is opposed to the whole national conservation scheme. So is Tawney. The latter, in his chairmanship capacity, made a speech that defeated the appropriation of the relatively paltry sum of $50,000 for the uses of the national conservation commission, and introduced a clause that even prevented the scientific bureaus at Washington from co-operating with the commission. Yet it is estimated that the United States wastes annually $1,000,000,000 in the handling of its natural resources.

Interest in Mr. Tawney should be something more than local. Progressives and patriots generally ought to mark him as a man unfit for the public service. Mr. Taft must have some reasons not common property for showing Mr. Tawney such extraordinary consideration, while doing nothing for his Minnesota colleagues.

But one thing is apparent on the face of things—Tawney needs help and his colleagues do not.

On the Limited.

Lippincott's: The merciless heat made the passengers gasp as the limited plowed its way steadily across the Western plains. Dreary, monotonous, was the vista of sand and scrub which greeted the eyes of the wearied travelers. To add to their discomfort, above the muffled roar of the train arose the continual wailing of a child. More than one man cursed softly and sought refuge in another car—all, as it happened, crowded. Finally a harsh-looking passenger spoke.

"Why don't you keep that brat quiet?" he snapped.

The mother, a forlorn-looking woman clad in rusty black, looked pathetically up at him. "I've been trying to," she faltered. "But, you see, the heat and the long journey—"

A new expression stole over the harsh-looking passenger's face. "Give it to me," he said, in a tone of marvelous gentleness; and the poor mother placed the fretful baby in his arms.

Whereupon he threw the child out of the window.

The Little Green Trail.

Oh, the little green trail through the valley
Is calling me on and away,
Away from the hot, tired city,
At the close of a hard, weary day;
On and away toward the mountain,
Over the hills to a dale,
Where water from nature's own fountain
Cools the moss on the little green trail.

Oh, the little green trail through the valley,
Where fairies and goblins dwell,
And dreamers worship in silence
To the sound of an Angelus bell;
At twilight to list to the singing
Of a soft-throated thrush in the vale
While calm, gentle zephyrs are bringing
Sweet peace to the little green trail.

Oh, the little green trail through the valley,
That leads to the land of Forget,
Where day dreams come true to a dreamer,
And there's no such thing as regret;
To live and to find life worth living,
Yea succeed and never to fail,
For love is the prize they are giving
At the end of the little green trail.

THE WEATHER.

The skies had a grayish tint this morning and gave promise of fulfilling this evening, the weather man's predictions of rain. The forecaster also expects rain tomorrow, accompanied by lower temperatures. Last night was another Indian summer delight with the air as fragrant and balmy as in the spring.

The sun came up this morning at 6:16 and will set at 5:35 p. m.

The weather a year ago today was fair.

Mr. Richardson's observations on weather conditions in general are as follows:

"Areas of low barometer centered over Manitoba and Texas, respectively, caused light rains in most districts lying between the Mississippi river and Rocky mountains during Thursday or last night. Rising pressures throughout the West and Northwest are attended by much colder weather. Freezing temperatures prevail in Utah, Nevada, Wyoming, Montana, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Indications favor rainy and colder weather at the Head of the Lakes tonight and Saturday."

He Wasn't Twins.

Harper's Weekly: "My friend Woollen—William Wesley Woollen," said Speaker Cannon—"was starting on a trip to Europe.

"He needed a steamer rug in a hurry and telephoned for one to be sent to his house. The clerk took the order, but couldn't understand the name.

"'Spell it out,' he said 'and I'll write it down.'

"So Woollen started:

"'W,' said he.

"'Yes,' said the clerk.

"'W.'

"'Yes.'

"'W.'

"'Ye-es.'

"'Double O.'

"'Ye-es.'

"'Double L.'

"'Say,' interrupted the clerk, what do you think you are—twins?"

The Senator Confesses.

Lippincott's: As every lawyer knows, Senator Daniel is the author of a comprehensive treatise on negotiable instruments, which is generally considered to be the leading authority on the subject. A friend one day inquired how it was that in the midst of his arduous political duties, which must have demanded his constant attention, he found the time to write two such exhaustive volumes.

"Well," replied the senator, "it happened this way: A young fellow I knew came up to me one day and said, 'Say, Mr. Daniel, does a sight draft bear interest?' And—would you believe it?—I couldn't answer that simple question. So I determined then and there to find out all about it. It took me a long time, but I did it."

"Well, senator," observed the friend, after a short pause, "does a sight draft bear interest?"

There was a moment's silence.

"Hanged if I know!" was the abrupt reply.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

W. P. Cockey, president of the Portland Stone company, who is in the city, says they have about completed arrangements for building a manufactory here, upon which they propose to expend $100,000. They will put in two plants, one at Duluth and the other at West Superior. Artificial sidewalk stone, all kinds of tile, sewer pipe, etc., will be made, giving employment to fifty men in Duluth.

The officers of the Minnesota Iron Car company have been elected as follows: President, John F. T. Anderson; vice president and secretary, William E. Tanner; treasurer, George W. Ettenger; general manager, R. L. Ettenger. Orders have been placed for the material to build the first installment of the 3,000 cars for which orders have been received, and the heads of the various departments have been summoned to report at once for duty. It is expected that completed cars will begin to come from the works this month.

The schooner Belle Stevens, owned by Fred H. Russell, was driven ashore during a storm, about twenty-five miles down the south shore. The Stevens was badly damaged, her sails torn to pieces and her timbers badly sprung.

Amethyst division of the Knights of Pythias will give its first annual ball in the Allen building, at the West end, on Oct. 18. The following committees have been appointed: Reception, S. A. TAFT IN MINNESOTA.

Virginia Enterprise: Ten out of eleven Minnesota congressmen refused to accept the mandates of the Aldrich-Cannon heirarchy on their vote on the tariff measure, and as a lesson to them to "be good" in future President Taft, in his Winona address, gave all praise to Congressman Tawney for his vote in the interest of corrupt and prostituted partnership. These ten congressmen who were made the butt of the president's lash would be less than human if they ever cast another vote for the tail of the plutocrat kite for president.

Bovey Iron News (Rep.): The proper administration of justice is the paramount issue, says President Taft. If we all get justice, but few of us would be wandering the streets when the curfew rang. No, Bill, it's no use throwing sand in our eyes so we will forget the tariff reductions promised.

Biwabik Times: In refusing to bow to the big stick of President Taft the Middle West, North and South, do not seek to show disrespect to the president. It merely disagrees with him politically and will in the end vote for the other man.

Monticello Times (Dem.): Taft, Cannon, Aldrich, birds of the same feather.

Madison Independent Press: Mr. Taft said, at Winona, that he "stood by those who stood by him." This leads to the quite natural conclusion that the late tariff revision rot was his pet measure and that he is under obligations to Mr. Tawney for helping him in making the thing a law. Possibly Mr. Taft would repudiate the idea if presented to him in this light, but that is just what his words amount to when put in plain language.

Buffalo Journal (Rep.): The Scriptures tell us, "If your right hand offends you cut it off." In order to keep the body clean and healthy the surgeon performs operations to remove diseased parts. That is just what the Republican party needs, and wherein we think Mr. Taft lost an opportunity with his special session of congress. Instead of assisting in the election of Cannon he should at least have kept hands off and been less anxious for party harmony. The Republican party in the past has made good, and has represented the interests of the whole people. It has grown corrupt and the patient cannot survive unless it is purged with an operation. Yielding to Aldriches and Cannons to preserve party harmony is not good politics.

Comparisons are not pleasant, but the way Roosevelt shook up the dry bones regardless of party harmony was the chief cause of success of the Republican party at the last election. Mr. Taft was accepted on the recommendation of Mr. Roosevelt in the hope that he would continue the job of purging the country and party and leave both of them cleaner. Since he has so far proven himself a policy man it will require more than smooth speeches to secure the full confidence of the people.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: After his promise of downward revision last fall, Mr. Taft's assistance in Cannon's election to the speakership, his golden silence and refusal to lend the great moral weight of his influence during the shameless tossing up of the rates in the senate debates, his eagerness to sign the monster as finally enacted, and now his vigorous and hearty defense of the whole Cannon-Aldrich program, the president can have no complaint if the people at their earliest opportunity withdraw from him the great trust they have imposed in him.

The Glory of Discovery.

Chicago Record-Herald: Columbus, after a long watch from the crow's-nest, came down to the deck of the Santa Maria and called for the crew to assemble immediately. When his order had been complied with, he said:

"Boys, I want you all to go down in the hold and stay there till you hear from me again. I have just seen America in the distance, and we are going to arrive at the dock soon. As you know, it has been the dream of my life to discover America. It was I who planned this expedition, and I think I am entitled to all the glory. I insist on being the only white man who is to see this new continent or set foot upon it. If I let the rest of you look at it or go ashore when we get there how do I know that you'll not all go home and lecture and write books about it? I don't want any opposition in those lines when I get back."

"But, Cap," said the mate, "there's likely enough to be glory for all, ain't there?"

"Glory be dinged! You fellows get down below quick, and don't any of you poke your heads up till you hear me blow the whistle. Gee, I hope I'll be able to find a couple of natives, when we get there, who'll be willin' for a pocketknife or a string of beads to go back with us and swear that no Norseman ever got more than thirty miles west of Ireland."

GET NEARER GRAIN GRADE

Dealers in Session at Indianapolis Make Some Concessions.

Authorizes Committee to Consider Demands of Chicago Men.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8.—The Grain Dealers' National association convention here yesterday made a great stride toward uniform grading of grains by conceding some of the demands made by the Chicago grain men for changes in the grain grades draft adopted at the St. Louis convention last year. The grain men have finally adopted uniform grading for corn, oats, barley and rye, and finally adopted the Kansas City, Chicago and Southwestern market grades on milomaize and Kaffir corn. They also made some material concessions by granting part of the Chicago men's demands for changes in wheat tests.

There were, however, five demands made by the Chicago grain men for changes in wheat gradings that were not granted. Steps were taken to bring an agreement on those five points of difference, by the authorization of a strong committee of five, which will call a conference with the Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri and Kansas state commissions and prominent boards of trade. At this meeting an effort will be made to get an agreement on these five grades of wheat.

Refused Chicago Demands.

The first of the refusals was on the demand of the Chicago grain men to raise the test weight of No. 2 white winter wheat from 56 to 57 pounds. Another denial was of the demand that Nos. 2, 3 and 4 hard winter wheat may contain a maximum of 25 per cent red winter wheat.

The national convention refused to raise the test weight of No. 1 hard spring wheat from 58 to 59 pounds, and No. 2 northern spring wheat from 57 to 57½ pounds.

The convention indicated that it would grant an additional one pound to the test weights of velvet chaff wheat grades, but refused to accede to the demands of the Chicago men to raise the weight test approximately three pounds.

The convention conceded the demands of the Chicago men for the use of the word "new" as now used in the Illinois rules, and also granted changes demanded in red winter, No. 4 spring and Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 white spring wheats, and in durum wheat.

LET THEIR HAIR GROW.

Poor Outlook for the Barbers' Business in Oberammergan.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—The barbers' business in Oberammergau will be a poor one for the next twelve months. The reason is that in September, 1910, the decennial Passion Play is to be performed, and every man in the village will be an actor in the Scriptural drama.

There will be no wigs worn, so the performers are required to allow their hair and beards to grow. Accordingly, the burgomaster has issued notice reminding the village actors of this rule.

Unkempt heads and chins will be the rule in Oberammergau until the famous Passion Play is over.

GIVES TOO MANY TITLES.

Latest Complaint That Is Made Against the Kaiser.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—"Too many titles" is the text of the latest complaint against the kaiser, who has lately shown a fondness for distributing distinctions and decorations with a too liberal hand. The grand duke of Baden has just been promoted to the rank of field marshal without having earned it, as Moltke did, by planning and winning a great war. There are dozens of other field marshals in the army who never faced an enemy, while the navy "bristles with admirals, rear admirals and grand admirals."

The important Liberal paper, the Vossische Zeitung, which voices this complaint, points out that the flood of titles and distinctions let loose by the kaiser in every number of the Imperial Gazette is very dangerous and is to be depreciated as "giving an exaggerated importance to externals in the national life. Distinctions lose in importance the commoner they become."

CZAR IS WAKING UP.

Shows Decided Attitude in Favor of Law and Order.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 7.—The czar, who has always been consirered as wax in the hands of stronger influences about him, has lately shown something of a decided attitude in favor of law and order. An instance of this was shown when an intrigue was started by the reactionary party, in defiance of the law, to get a Finnish political murder trial transferred from Poland to the Russian courts.

When the czar heard of it he asked the minister of justice what the law on the subject was, and was informed that legally the trial should take place in the locality where the crime was committed.

Stamping his foot angrily, the czar said: "Kindly then observe the law, and disregard these hysterical shriekings."

In other ways the czar has shown that he is waking up. His courtiers are astonished at the amount of business his majesty gets through in a day. He has also made it clear that he wishes to get more into touch with his people and to be more independent of control.

Instead of yielding to the advice of his entourage, he has made independent arrangements to spend the winter in St. Petersburg.

BRIDE-ELECT STRICKEN

On the Wedding Eve and Died Far From Home.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 8.—After coming from Chickasaw, Okla., to become the bride of R. P. Luther, a prominent insurance man of Atlanta, Miss Louise Murphy was stricken by ptomaine poisoning on the eve of the wedding and died in a few hours. Her body was taken to Chickasaw, arrayed in bridal robes and accompanied by the man who was to have been bridegroom.

The romance of Mr. Luther and Miss Murphy dates back over a period of three months, the two becoming acquainted in July, when the latter was visiting here. Before Miss Murphy left Atlanta in September for Oklahoma Mr. Luther had the assurance that she would return at an early date and become his bride.

Miss Murphy returned Sunday and the wedding was fixed for Monday, but she was fatally stricken as soon as she reached here.

PREPARING FOR CENSUS

Practical Test of Applicants for Special Agents on Nov. 3.

No Application Received After Oct. 25 Will Be Considered.

Washington, Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Census Director E. Dana Durand announces Nov. 3 next as the date for making a practical test of the qualifications of applicants for appointment as special agents for the collection of the thirteenth census statistics of manufactures and mines and quarries. Blank applications may be obtained now by writing the bureau of the census. No applications which are received after the close of busness Oct. 25 will be considered.

In a circular of instructions relative to the subject the director states that about Jan. 10, 1910, the bureau will employ from 1,600 to 1,800 special agents. As far as possible it is desired to obtain for this work persons who have had college or university courses in statistics or economics, and persons who have had service in the accounting department of some manufacturing or other business establishment.

When an application is complete in every particular it should be mailed to the director of the census, Washington, D. C. Care should be taken to affix sufficient postage to the envelope containing the application.

If the applicant's statements as to business training and experience and education are satisfactory, and the application is complete in every respect, a card will be mailed to the applicant, advising him when and where to appear to complete the prescribed practical test in filling out a schedule such as is required in the actual work of a special agent.

Applicants must be careful to state in their applications the place selected for taking the practical test. A list of the places where this test may be taken is given below. The applicants must be citizens of the United States, between the ages of 20 and 60 years; in good health and physically able to perform the required duty; and of good character and habits. These facts must be vouched for by at least two persons who are personally acquainted with the applicant.

Applications will be accepted from women having the required experience and education, but the opportunity for their employment in this work is slight, and but few, if any, such appointments will be made.

Director Durand states that, generally speaking, the duties of special agents will consist in obtaining, in person, from manufacturing establishments and mines and quarries, the statistics required by law, as indicated in the printed schedules with which they will be furnished. These statistics cover investment, quantity and value of products and of raw materials used, number of employes and their wages, character and quantity of power, etc.

The special agents will be divided into two clases: Class 1, chief special agents, who will collect statistics and supervise the work of assistant special agents, who will be assigned to the collection of statistics under the direction of, and subordinate to, special agents of Class 1.

Chief special agents of class 1 will receive compensation at the rate of from $4.50 to $6 per day, including intervening Sundays. Assistant special agents of Class 2, if paid by the day, will receive from $3 to $4 for each day, including intervening Sundays, but such agents may, however, be compensated on a piece-price basis.

The chief special agents will be employed from six to fifteen months and the assistant special agents from three to six months.

Each special agent will, upon appointment, be assigned an official station, and no expenses of subsistence will be allowed any special agent while working in the immediate vicinity of his station.

Special agents who are necessarily absent from their designated stations, engaged on official business, will be allowed their actual and necessary traveling expenses and a per diem in lieu of subsistence under regulations to be hereafter promulgated.

No appointments of assistant special agents will be made until about Jan. 1, 1910.

On Nov. 3 next applicants who have been furnished a card of admission will be assembled at the places named for the purpose of taking the practical test in filling out a schedule of the kind used in the actual work of a special agent.

Two Separate Tests.

There will be two separate tests in filling the schedules, designed for special agents of classes 1 and 2, respectively. Any applicant may take either alone, or both, and failure to successfully pass the test of class 1 will not necessarily preclude eligibility for appointment in class 2.

The test for special agents of class 1 will consist principally of the filling out of a sample schedule from the details given in a typical balance sheet and income account, supplemented by other data in tabulated form necessary to complete the schedule.

The test for special agents of class 2 will consist mainly of the filling out of a schedule from a simple narrative statement of facts relative to a manufacturing establishment, in which statement will appear all the figures and facts necessary to the completion of the schedule.

At least several days prior to the test each candidate will be furnished a copy of the schedule and a set of printed instructions regarding the method of filling them in.

The papers prepared by the candidates in these tests will be graded, and a perfect mark will represent fifty points of a scale of 100. In determining the final grade of a candidate. The grading of the remaining fifty points will depend upon the evidence of the candidate's previous experience as shown on his application blank. All applicants who receive a combined rating of seventy will be placed on the eligible list.

Some Will Be Excused.

Applicants who have had satisfactory experience in the collection of statistics in census work will be excused from the practical tests and placed on the eligible register. Also those who have passed the civil service examination for special agent and examiner, bureau of corporations, or special agent, bureau of labor. Persons coming within these exceptions, however, will be required to file the application in completed form.

Selections from the eligible register will be made as the needs of the service require. Eligibility is not of itself a guaranty of appointment, but selections will be made solely with reference to equipment and availability for appointment.

There will be no geographical apportionment of appointments as such. It will be the policy, however, as far as practicable, to assign appointees to duty in the localities in which they reside, and it therefore follows that the number of agents to be appointed from a given state or locality will depend largely upon the amount of work to be done in that state or locality.

Through the courtesy of the United States civil service commission, the practical test will be taken before the local board of civil service examiners on Nov. 3, 1909, at any of the places named below. Applicants must state in their applications where they desire to take the practical test. Failure to do so may result in failure to be examined. The examination places in Minnesota are Crookston, Duluth, Fergus Falls, Mankato and St. Paul.

SENATOR HALE'S SON ASSISTANT TO KNOX.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Chandler Hale of Maine, son of Senator Hale, has been selected as third assistant secretary of state, to succeed William Phillippe of Boston, who will become secretary of the American embassy at London, succeeding John R. Carter. Mr. Carter will be appointed minister to Roumania. Although they have not yet received their commissions, no doubt is expressed about their receiving them in a day or so.

APPEAL TO QUEEN

Was Acquieseed in By the Intrusive Sightseers.

London, Oct. 8.—Queen Alexandra has shown once more, in a small way, the justice of her claim to be "the first lady in the land," and the word "lady" is here used in its best sense.

Her majesty has a private bungalow on the Norfolk coast, where she takes restful holidays during the summer. She has been troubled, however, by intrusive sightseers, who have caused much damage to this little estate.

But instead of posting up a notice to the effect that "trespassers will be prosecuted," in the usual arrogant (and illegal) way, her majesty simply had a board erected with the simple words "Private property, please." Not even the most callous "rubber neck" could resist that appeal from the gracious queen.

WEST END

DEMOCRATS TO HOLD MEETING

The City Club Will Discuss Possible Candidates for Mayor.

Charles E. Dice, president of the City Democratic club, has issued a call for a meetinng of that organization this evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

To agree upon a candidate for the office of mayor is the primary object of the gathering of the club. Dr. M. B. Cullum, spoken of for mayor on the Democratic ticket, has not stated positively yet whether he will run.

It is thought that his intentions will be made known at the meeting this evening. Should he decline to be considered, the city club will look for other candidates. Among others, Alderman Getchell of the Eighth ward, has been mentioned in connection with the candidacy.

Adams vs. Broadways.

A football game has been arranged between the Adams team of the West end and the Broadway team of Superior. The affair will be played on the local grounds. The Broadway aggregation is a new one and has not played any games this season.

Plan Big Bazar.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Mission church will hold its annual bazaar next week at the church. The affair will begin on Tuesday evening and will be continued through the week. Arrangements have been made to have a musical program, with speeches, and refreshments on each evening.

Final Rehearsal.

The final rehearsals for the three-act drama, "Falsely Accused," which will be presented Sunday night and Tuesday at the St. Clement's Catholic school hall by the Young Men's Sodality of the church, will be held this evening. The young men have carefully prepared their parts and it is expected that the last trial before the real performance will go off without a hitch. Father Raymond is in charge of the play.

West End Shortrails.

The members of the Dorcas Society of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church held a meeting this afternoon at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Olson of 2305 West Third street.

The annual autumn festival of the First Swedish Baptist church will be given this evening. A program consisting of several musical numbers and a short address by Rev. Swaney Nelson will be carried out.

The Mullery-O'Brien sawmill at the West end has been closed down for two months, after having cut 30,000,000 feet of logs this summer. During the winter the mill will run with a double shift.

MANY STUDENTS ENROLLED.

Crookston School of Agriculture Begins Term Auspiciously.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The school of agriculture at the state experiment farm here has opened the fall term under conditions highly gratifying to those interested in the institution. Although the school opened ten days earlier than last year, the enrollment of girls on the first day exceeded the total enrollment of last year and later arrivals will have to be accommodated at some of the cottages in the group of buildings for the accommodation of the faculty.

The number of boys present is also far in excess of last year at the opening, regardless of the fact that the weather is ideal for farm work, and figuring on the percentage of increase from the opening day of last year, the total enrollment this year will be over 300, or more than can be accommodated at the dormitories, and some will undoubtedly be compelled to secure accommodations in the city, the distance being so short that this plan would be practicable for rugged boys, the walk being beneficial rather than otherwise. Prof. Robertson feels highly elated over the outlook, together with the balance of the faculty, and with the increased facilities over last year, more effective and satisfactory work is certain this year than ever before at the Crookston institution.

LYCEUM—"The Talk of New York."

"KID" BURNS THE "REAL CANDY"

His Struggles With Webster Furnish One Long Shout.

Kid Burns is all to d'good. He blows in on the jaded mind like a bit of bottled Lake Superior turned loose in a stuffy St. Louis office when the big heat generator's working hard. His good humor is infectious. He doesn't seem to try to make you laugh. His slang-slinging is as natural as the next-to nature atmosphere of the green fields back on the farm. There's nothing forced about him. You like Kid Burns. As soon as he ambles on the stages, casually remarks that "Kid Burns" is his "label" and sheepishly admits that once in a while he does get a half Nelson on Webster, you're ready to follow him to the end and stick by him too. His observation on his conventional deficiencies is mild. By the end of the first act, you're willing to admit that Webster is writhing in the throes of a strangle hold and on the mat gasping for breath.

Victor Moore is just Kid Burns. He puts on the role like a coat and wears it through the play. He ambles through the lines exuding good humor and getting across the footlights every minute. The role was built to fit Moore and the builder was a master in his art. Victor Moore's personality is lost in that of the race track plunger with the quiet way and the badly battered King's English and yet Kid Burns wouldn't be possible without Moore. It's Moore for the Kid and the Kid for Moore and nearly three hours of solid comedy that is entertaining to the man in the opera chairs as well as the kid in the paradise of the gods. There's nothing vulgar about the kid. He's quiet and natural and refreshing and likeable and entertaining.

Kid Burns is "de whole works" and the "Talk of New York" just furnishes a setting for him. Without Burns it probably wouldn't be much. But with him, it's a comedy of class, a play that one will never regret seeing. It's a George Cohan production from first to last—something doing every minute—racing chorus girls and chorus men, dash and vim and vigor. It is a contemporary American piece with American types and American go and spirit. The music is perhaps not of a very high order, but it entertains and Cohan is always out to entertain first of all.

There is quite a well-worked out plot with the Kid as the center of attraction. The last curtain leaves the audience wondering how the Kid got out of the difficulties he assumed out of the fullness of his heart, but one doesn't mind very much because it's time for the last curtain anyway and one isn't figuring on following a melo-dramatic plot when one goes to see Victor Moore as Kid Burns and to hear George Cohan's music. The Kid gets the girl, so what's the difference?

One can't see where this melodramatic stuff comes in, anyway. It savors on the ten-twent'-thirt', but seeing there is only one shot fired, one honest hero's life spoiled and one adventuress turned good one can forget and forgive and turn to Kid Burns for a little more battered Star Spangled Banner and some more laugh.

Mr. Moore is well supported. Charlotte Gray as Geraldine Wilcox, the girl, is a dainty little bit of feminity, to whom you take a liking. George O'Donnell as Dudley Wilcox, the big-hearted millionaire, looks and acts the part. Charlotte Lambert as Mrs. Wilcox is sufficiently aristocratic and Jo Smith Marba as Freddie Stevens also does the "la-de-da" stunt well. Emma Littlefield as Belle McFadden is neat and winning and she does a pretty little dance in the second act.

William A. Williams and May Phelps as Joe Wilcox and Grace Palmer, respectively, do the ten-twent'-thirt' thing well. They work without the sympathy of the audience in their roles, but their portrayal is faithful. Miss Phelps is a good melodramatic adventuress and she has a voice, which she uses to advantage in three of the musical numbers. The minor parts are all well taken.

Louise Brackett and Marion Finlay are neat little jockeys, who do a neat little step in the first act. The settings are appropriate and the girls and chorus men are Cohanesque people, with plenty of life and good voices.

The songs are numerous and well sung. The principals are provided with good voices and the chorus people can sing as well as wear costumes and makeup and contribute life to the performance by falling to stand in any position any longer than a second. George Cohan is a breezy boy on chorus work.

"The Talk of New York" opened last night for three night performances and a matinee tomorrow. Duluth has made the acquaintance of the kid, and theater-goers who fail to laugh with him are missing something.

CALLED EACH OTHER NAMES.

Riotous Scenes Mark Congress of German Socialist Party.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—Riotous scenes characterized the proceedings at the annual congress of the German Socialist party at Leipzig.

There were no signs of the fraternity preached by Socialists, but plenty of exhibitions of intolerance and mutual hatred. During the debate one Socialist member of the reichstag, Herr David, interrupted another deputy, Herr Ledebour, shouting: "That is a deliberate lie!" Herr Ledebour retorted, saying: "You have disgraceful manners."

Another Socialist deputy, Herr Fischer, denounced the organ of the party in Berlin, the Vorwaerts, and the editor, Herr Davidson, retaliated by calling Herr Fischer unpleasant names. Herr Davidson described his colleague, Herr Ledebour, as "an absolute fool," and Deputy Fischer returned to the attack on the Vorwaerts in very vigorous terms.

Herr Ledebour declared that he would not allow his comrade, Herr Schmidt, to be his schoolmaster, and Herr Curt Elsner, editor of the Socialist paper at Nuremburg, held Ledebour up to ridicule by calling him a monkey.

At this stage Herr Lupinski, who was presiding, shouted: "I beg that you will not degrade the debate by these personal remarks."

The exchange of epithets and abuse, couched in disgraceful language, continued throughout the sittings.

TOUR THE WORLD ON WAGER.

Denver Men to Do Stunt in One Year on $100.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 8.—G. W. Miczanko and Wesley Hickey of Denver propose to circle the globe in twelve months, starting with only $100 each.

G. W. Miczanko is the juvenile editor of the Great Southwest Magazine and Hickey is the artist of the paper. The narrative of their trip and their adventures are to appear in the magazine in monthly installments.

N. M. Hayden, the editor of the magazine, has wagered $5,000 that the thing cannot be done. Miczanko and Hickey say it can, and are quite willing to accept the $5,000 on their successful return.

The trip includes the principal cities of the United States, of Europe and of Asia. The men will leave Denver this morning and will go to Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburg, Philadelphia and New York. They will sail from there to Liverpool. In England they will visit Manchester, Birmingham, London, and other cities. In Europe they will visit Paris, Berlin, Vienna and the leading cities of Italy. They will go through Port Said, Colombo, Calcutta, Hongkong and Shanghai. They will then set sail for San Francisco, going by way of Honolulu.

The terms of the bet stipulate that the men are not allowed to earn money with which to defray their expenses. They may work as stowaways on shipboard, or do any other work in return for transportation, but the $100 is the only money which they are to pay out. This does not exclude them from making money for little side entertainments of their own.

Miczanko holds the record of having traveled from New York to San Francisco in thirty days for literally less than nothing in expense. He started from New York with 40 cents in his pocket, and arrived in San Francisco with 60 cents.

BOMB THROWN AT TRAIN.

Treasure Van, Carrying $500,000, Shattered on Bengal Railway.

Calcutta, Oct. 8.—A bomb was thrown at the Goalundo mail train between the Chakda and Simurdall stations, on the Eastern Bengal state railway, the scene of the crime being a few miles away from Barrackpore, in the neighborhood of which there have been numerous cases of bomb-throwing at trains.

Many Europeans were traveling by the mail train, but escaped unhurt. A treasure van attached to the train was badly shattered. The train was carrying $500,000 in specie from the Bank of Bengal to the Dacca jute districts.

This revival of bomb-throwing, after an interval of many months, is taken as an indication that the terrorists are about to resume their activity.

THE CAMORRA'S REGISTERS.

Remarkable Revelations Follow Their Seizure By the Police.

Rome, Oct. 8.—Remarkable revelations have been made at Naples in consequence of the seizure by the police of the account books of the Camorra, the rich and powerful secret society, whose sinister influence has ruled the affairs of Naples for many years.

These records show that in 1905 the total revenue of the Camorra was more than $3,300,000, and in 1903 about $3,220,000. The capture of the Camorra's register was somewhat of a surprise, for after a long search it had been suspected that they had been destroyed at the time of the arrest of the forty-two leaders of the organization some months ago.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

EAST SIDE BACKS OUT

Cancels Its Date for Contest With Duluth Team.

Ironwood May Spring Surprise on the Centrals Saturday.

Close on the refusal of the St. Paul Central to fulfill its schedule with the Central of this city, comes the statement today that the East Side high school of Minneapolis will not play Duluth Central this season.

This information was received by Manager Phillips today. Unless the date of the East Side game is set late in November, which is almost impossible owing to other arrangements, the East Side game will be declared off. With two of the big games of the schedule of Central, the prospects for a good season's record are materally reduced.

Negotiations will be immediately entered into with the Superior Normal school and also with the management of the South Side high school of Minneapolis. Manager Phillips has also announced that an attempt will be made to schedule a game with the Minneapolis North Side high.

It was announced some time ago in this paper that the management of the local high school team would attempt to schedule a game with the winner of the Twin City championship. This attempt will be made, and in view of the fact that two of the big games of Central's schedule have been lost, a championship contest for Duluth would prove a mighty big attraction.

The St. Paul Central date was Oct. 30. The East Side game was scheduled for Oct. 16. There is no game for a week from tomorrow, now that the East Side has seen fit to ask impossible conditions, and unless some team can be scheduled next week, Duluth will have no football game.

Nelson-Dewey comes Oct. 23. That and the Blaine game are the only definite games on the Central schedule. Some hustling work will have to be done to arrange games or the remainder of the season.

Last night's practice was strenuous and to the point. Olson, one of the regulars, was injured in the scrimmage and may be out of the game tomorrow. Then men showed spirit, and also showed that they have heeded some of the advice of the coaches. The playing of the line showed a decided improvement, especially in the work of the five center men. Colton was satisfied with the work of his charges and expressed the opinion that Central would defeat Ironwood tomorrow.

Little is known of Ironwood. That school has borne a very shady reputation some years back, in regard to playing men who took nothing more substantial than drawing and first year history. Ironwood has had some very fast teams in times past, and the team that plays Central tomorrow may be a surprise.

Nelson was shifted from center to guard in the practice of yesterday. Mather will play center in Saturday's game. The lineup in tomorrow's game, according to present arrangements, and providing that Olson will not be kept out of the game, is: Mars, left end; Olson, left tackle; Heimer, left guard; Mather, center; Nelson, right guard; Johnson, right tackle; Taylor, right end; Kelly, quarterback; Boyle, left halfback; Stevens, fullback; Waldron, right halfback.

Owing to the heavy expense the team is under, the management has raised the price of admission for tomorrow's game to 50 cents. It is stated that charging a quarter to witness the games did not defray the expenses the high school management is under.

FINAL GAMES IN THE NATIONAL

Brooklyn Beats New York and Philadelphia Loses to Boston.

New York, Oct. 8.—With the pennant won by the Pittsburg club for another twelve months, the 1909 championship baseball season of the National league passed into history yesterday. Boston and Brooklyn won the final victories of the season, the former defeating Philadelphia and the latter New York. Pittsburg's victory had been widely predicted since May 5, when the team assumed an aggressive lead. Chicago, which finished second, has held an inwhich finished second, has held an intimidating position all along, however, and the result was not clinched until Sept. 28.

The final standing of the clubs follow:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Pittsburg	110	42	.724
Chicago	104	49	.680
New York	92	61	.601
Cincinnati	77	76	.504
Philadelphia	74	79	.484
Brooklyn	55	98	.359
St. Louis	54	98	.356
Boston	45	108	.294

Brooklyn, 7; New York, 5.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 8.—After an up-hill battle, Brooklyn captured from New York the final game of the season.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Brooklyn	7	11	1

Batteries—Daly and Wilson; Bell, McIntyre and Marshall. Umpires—Emslie and Sternberg.

Boston, 3; Philadelphia, 1.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Boston defeated Philadelphia in the closing game of the National league season here yesterday 3 to 1. Sensational plays by Getz and Becker stopped promising rallies by the home team. Score:

	R.	H.	E.
Boston	3	9	2

Batteries—Sparks and Doom; Mattern and Rariden. Umpire—Mullen.

BEMIDJI SOLDIERS ARE TO PLAY PARK RAPIDS.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Company K football team will play its initial game this season at Park Rapids Saturday with the Park Rapids city football eleven.

Heretofore Company K has always won from Park Rapids and the locals expect to defeat the Hubbard county boys on Saturday.

Capt. Getchell has been putting his team through some strenuous stunts of forward passes, side kicks, quarter back and halfback runs, etc., and the team is getting into splendid condition.

OPINIONS OF SPORT WRITERS ON OUTCOME OF WORLD'S SERIES

Leading sporting editors and baseball writers are divided in their opinions on the world's series games. Nearly all admit, however, that the games will be most bitterly contested. Here are some of the opinions:

Gives Pirates Four Games.

Sid Mercer, baseball writer on the Globe, New York: "The Pirates ought to take four out of the first six games. I consider them stronger and a better balanced team than Detroit. Their pitchers are good enough, and they will hit any Detroit pitcher. They will beat a stronger team than the Cubs defeated last fall."

Predicts Great Struggle.

Abe Yager, sporting editor of the Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.: "The Pirates should win the world's series. It will be a great struggle, however, with Detroit winning more games than in previous years. Jennings will profit by previous reverses."

Picks Jennings' Men.

Will McKay, sporting editor of the Leader, Cleveland: "Toss-up between the two teams. Both hitters that will break many a game. Detroit is my choice, and six games may be played before a decision is reached. Pittsburg looks good for the first two games."

Pulling for Pittsburg.

George E. McLinn, sporting editor of the Press, Philadelphia: "The Pirates look like world's champions to me. Their infield is better than Detroit's. Gibson is a tower of strength, and the outfields are about on a par. It is up to Pittsburg pitchers, and I sincerely hope they make good."

Pitching Stuffs Weak.

James C. Gilruth, baseball writer on the Daily News, Chicago: "Pittsburg ought to win from Detroit, though the Tigers have a stronger team than faced the Cubs last year. Jennings has an entire new infield, but his pitching staff doesn't look any too good. The Pirates' pitchers are none too strong, barring Camnitz, but Clarke has a strong, aggressive aggregation."

Pittsburg Better Balanced.

William G. Weart, sporting editor of the Evening Telegraph, Philadelphia: "Pittsburg has the better all-around team and plays steadier ball, and should beat Detroit in the championship series, but not as decisively as Chicago did in the past two years."

Only Somewhat Better.

John B. Foster, sporting editor Evening Telegram, New York, and editor Spalding's Baseball Guide: "I think that Pittsburg will win the world's championship, but should not be surprised if the Pirates were compelled to fight a little harder for it than Chicago, owing to the fact that the Detroit pitchers seem to be somewhat better than they were a year ago. Ultimately, though, the balance of hitting strength should be with the Pittsburg team, and that means the odd game."

Refuses to Pick One.

A. H. C. Mitchell, sporting editor the American, Boston, Mass.: "As baseball is 20 per cent luck, a man's opinion on the outcome of a world's series is not worth much. Personally, I would like to see both teams win, but must beg off on picking a winner."

More of an Even Fight.

"Sy" Sanborn, baseball writer the Tribune, Chicago: "The coming world's series ought to be more evenly contested than the last two. It will be decided by batting, and not by pitching. The dope makes Pittsburg the favorites."

He is With Detroit.

Henry P. Edwards, sporting editor the Plain Dealer, Cleveland, Ohio: "I believe that Detroit will win the series. The teams appear evenly matched except in base running, where Detroit excels. I would not be surprised to see seven games played before the championship is decided."

Catching Helps Pittsburg.

Jack Ryder, baseball writer the Enquirer, Cincinnati, Ohio: "It should be a close series, but I expect to see the Pirates win through superior infield and team work. Gibson outclasses the Detroit catchers, also, and that means a big shade."

Some Consolation Here.

J. Ed. Grillo, sporting editor the Post, Washington, D. C.: "While the Tigers will make a better showing against Pittsburg in the coming series than they did against Chicago, I look for the Pirates to be the world's champions when it is all over."

ENTHUSIASTIC OVER BOWLING

Duluth Women Have Taken Up the Sport Popular in the East.

The bowling fad has struck the women of Duluth.

The amusement that has proved so popular in New York and Chicago has traveled further West and just now it is considered quite the thing.

During the past week several women have become regular patrons of several of the bowling alleys and they are even becoming so interested that they often times gather at the alleys in the evening to see how the men do it.

In fact, so popular has the sport become among women Mose Canfield, manager of the Majestic alleys, is thinking seriously of having his alleys reserved several afternoons and evenings of the week for the exclusive use of the women.

The women that have so far taken up the sport are as yet a bit timid about having their names appear in connection with the game, but this will soon wear off and they may go even so far as to organize a women's league.

PENISA MAID WINS TAME RACE

The Trans-Sylvania Stakes Are Taken in Straight Heats.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 8.—Probably the tamest of all the twenty-one races in the history of the Trans-Sylvania stakes of $5,000 was that trotted yesterday. Penisa Maid, the favorite, driven by her owner, M. D. Shutt of Rock Rapids, Iowa, won in straight heats. It was virtually no contest after the first heat, in which Bob Douglas challenged in the stretch stoutly enough to make her step in 2:04¼, a new record for the race. Inner Guard, in which the field placed some confidence, was unsteady and broke badly in two heats.

The Packing futurity was won with ease in straight heats by Maggie Winder. The final heat was made in the remarkably fast time of 2:06¼.

The 2:20 trot was won easily in straight heats by the favorite, Melva J. In the final heat it seemed, when a sixteenth out, as if Titer might win with Bronson, but the latter broke and finished eighth.

NOT LOOKING FOR WALKAWAY

Gophers Anticipate a Hard Battle Against the Iowa Farmers.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The worth of the Iowa Farmers magnifies more and more as the Ames-Minnesota contest approaches and the Gophers are not looking for a walkaway. It is certain that Ames will put up a harder fight than did Iowa. Ames has had a longer practice season than Iowa and has played a practice game. The Aggies did not make a very brilliant showing against Coe last Saturday, but that does not necessarily prove anything, as Coe might give Minnesota an awful rub. Coach Williams of Ames said yesterday that although he did not expect his team to win, still he thought it safe to bet that Minnesota would not score more than twenty points against his eleven. If Minnesota cannot make more than twenty points against Ames it would be a good guess that the Ski-U-Mah boys will have to hurry to even beat Ames.

"Doc" Williams is not taking any chances at any rate. The Gopher practices are hard and long these days and the wearers of the maroon and gold are absorbing all the football that they can hold. Many new plays have been tried and after practicing on them daily, McGovern's men have gotten them down to perfection and the Iowans may meet with a few dazzling passes and runs next Saturday.

The team did not scrimmage yesterday afternoon. The whole time was spent in signal practice, putting on the finishing touches on some new plays and reviewing the old ones. Farnam and Pickering passed away a good share of the afternoon in practicing kicking. Kicks of all kinds were tried by the two men, place kicks, place kicks and punts of every variety. Pickering showed great aptness in the punting line while Farnam showed himself to be a good place kicker. After the poor showing that Minnesota made in the punting line last Saturday, Coach Williams is getting around to see that it takes practice to make a good punter. The kicking in last Saturday's game did not make much material difference but in a big game the punting is one of the most important factors. Chicago has a wonderful punter in Page and he is the running at all. Williams ought to develop a kicker who will at least make a fair showing.

Powers has been out of practice all week, due to stomach trouble; "Raddy" has a bum leg; Young is sick in bed with the grip, and so Minnesota is perfectly able to send out its share of hard luck stories this week along with the rest of the grumblers.

SCOTCH GIRL MAY BE CHAMPION

Women's Golf Championship Tournament Is Nearly Down to Finals.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—The last of the New York and Chicago golf players were defeated yesterday in the third round of match play at the women's annual national golf championship over the Merion Cricket club links, so the remainder of the contest will be a three-cornered struggle between two Philadelphians, one Bostonian and a Scottish star. Miss Dorothy Campbell, the British champion, won her match, and there is general feeling among the contestants that she stands an excellent chance of carrying the title home with her. Such an outcome would be unprecedented.

Miss Campbell beat Mrs. Charles T. Stout of New York, former national and metropolitan champion, 2 up. Today she will meet Mrs. Caleb B. Fox of Philadelphia, who yesterday beat Miss Frances Teacher, the only other remaining Britisher, by 4 up and 2 to go. A much closer result had been expected, Miss Teacher being the favorite.

In the lower half of the draw, Miss Margaret Phelps of Boston beat Miss Edith Nolit of Wilmington, 1 up, and Mrs. Ronald Barlow of Philadelphia beat Miss Isabella Smith of Chicago, 2 up and 1 to go. The winners in both cases had surprisingly close calls at the hands of two young players, hardly heard of until within a year or two.

SIX-ROUND BOUT IN PITTSBURG

Both Willie Lewis and Papke Are Confident of Success.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—At the conclusion of the world's championship baseball game this afternoon, sporting interest in Pittsburg will center in the six-round bout between Willie Lewis and Billy Papke to be held at the Duquesne Gardens tonight. The battle will virtually decide which one of them is to get the crown now worn by Stanley Ketchel as the middleweight champion of the world.

Papke needs no introduction to fight followers in this country and Lewis, who has also made a record here, is the middleweight champion of England and France.

Both men appear to be confident of the outcome.

It does not make very much difference what President Taft does or says for the next week. We won't pay any attention to the mere executive of a Republic. I should say not, when there is anything as stirring as a series of baseball games for the championship of the universe.

"Bill" may have several speeches scheduled for several cities during the playing of the Pittsburg-Detroit games, but the large man with the imposing front had better not speak in the afternoon when several million fans over the length and breadth of our great and glorious country are endeavoring to learn which it is, Detroit or Pittsburg.

Was it Cook or Peary? Who cares? Is it going to be Pittsburg or Detroit? Now you are shouting, Kid! And when the two teams are settling that all important question of supremacy, there will be another little question of individual supremacy settled.

Will it be Wagner or Cobb? Baseballe critics and people generally interested in baseball in all parts of the country, are eagerly wondering which of these two great players will show up the better in the series that begins this afternoon. Each man has thousands of admirers. Those who follow more closely the fortunes of the American league swear that Tyrus Cobb is the most wonderful baseball player in the world today. Throughout the entire country you will find men, women and children who will take oath that Honus Wagner is king.

Until this year Napoleon Lajoie was the only man in baseball that was compared with the big lumbering Dutchman. There has been a controversy for some years as to which was the greater player, Wagner or Lajoie. The palm of supremacy has generally been handed to Hans on a silver platter. This season it is quite different.

The playing of Cobb has been nothing less than phenomenal. He leads Wagner with the stick, and he has stolen more bases than the German property owner. Naturally, there are thousands of followers of the great national game who are beginning to believe, though this is very difficult, that the King has given away to a younger ruler.

In the series beginning today there will be given an excellent opportunity to judge the abilities of the two men. Two such great players never met on opposing teams. Cobb and Wagner are today the greatest ball players in the world. Which is the greatest? Wait until the world's series is over.

If Cobb and old Wahoe Sam Crawford are right in the games which will be started in the Smoky City today, the Pirate pitchers will have hard sledding. But if the bigger part of the Detroit team falls down, as Cobb did in both of the world's series with the Cubs, the Pittsburg team will encounter a less formidable aggregation than they counted upon.

It should be a great series of games, with money kicking either way.

The organization of an athletic club in this city is a move in the right direction. Athletics have been allowed to become moribund at the Head of the Lakes, simply because there has been no organization that would push the promotion of clean sports. Duluth is known as a poor sporting town. With the organization of a club, with the best young men of the city as members, there should come some change here in regard to the attitude toward amateur sports.

There is a large field for the club. The infusing of a more enthusiastic spirit into athletics in Duluth is a mission that is waiting to shake hands with the men behind the Duluth Athletic club. It is to be hoped that the directors of the club will recognize this duty and will do an imitation stunt of the gink who "seen his duty and done it."

No, dear, Mamie Cassidy is not the name of a horse. She was a girl that lived at Kankakee, and you can properly appreciate Mamie's sobbing "yours without a struggle," only after you have seen the boys of Kankakee. They go courting with ax handles and wagon spokes. "Beat a goil and she will love you," is one of the maxims of Kankakee. Therefore, it is to be presumed that Mamie Cassidy was stalling for time, when she uttered that famous dictum, "Yours without a struggle, Mamie Cassidy."

Gee, ain't it awful! Yesterday two of our prominent business men desired to go to Superior. We can explain—they had business there. People occasionally go to Superior on business. One of the business men suddenly happened to think. He does that once in a while. All prominent business men are supposed to cogitate, Emily.

"Ah, ah!" exclaimed the business man of the first part, just like that. It was indeed a dramatic gesture, one that would have done credit to Will McCormick. "We must not go to Superior," exclaimed the first business man to the second little business man. And they did not. Why? Three guesses. The ferry is running and the bridge does not happen to be out of commission right now, strange as it may seem. But lest you forget, we warn you yet, Sheriff Carlson.

Darby O'Brien will take in the Pittsburg-Detroit series. Jennings wants Darby's advice, at least that is what Tom Taylor said.

It is said that Sheriff Carlson will make formal application for one-just-one-of the Andy Carnegie decorations. George Gunther, a well-known citizen of Pennsylvania, is using his influence in behalf of the sheriff.

"Stole home," was lettered large in a paper the other day. Enthusiastic bugs turned to the story, expecting to peruse with interest a story of a lonesome tally. It was only one of those affinity guys getting a new soulmate. Such commonplace stuff should not be confused with the more difficult accomplishment of scoring from third. I should say not!

In Chicago they are all "het" over the city championship series that begins this afternoon. The Cubs, peeved over the fact that a team from Pittsburg, Pa., by the way, beat them out for the N. L. pennant, are just naturally keen for beating some team. The Cub players haven't forgotten, either, an incident that happened three years ago. From the confines of the stockyards to the Lake Shore drive the cits of Chi are eagerly awaiting the opening of the fray.

TONY ROSS WILL MEET SCHRECK

Match to Take Place in the Copper Country Oct. 18.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mike Schreck and Tony Ross will fight ten rounds here on Oct. 18. The articles were signed yesterday, and the winner of the bout will meet Dr. F. B. Roller, the Seattle doctor, some time later.

Roller was to have gone on with Schreck on Oct. 13, but illness prevented his appearance. This assures the Copper country fight fans two fast matches within a very short time.

Jack Rowett and Tim Harrington will meet at Calumet Saturday night for the championship of the world at Cornish style wrestling. Both men are about the best in the business and a hot match is looked for. The winner of the match will meet Jack King at Duluth within a short time.

Both wrestling and boxing are popular in the Copper country and many entertainments are being planned for the winter months.

Bowling Scores.

Listy and Ferguson took the two-men high score last evening. The two men totaled 1,199, against 1,045 for Canfield and Sturm.

The match game between Ferguson's Colts and Shaub's Unknowns resulted in a victory for the latter, Shaub's men rolling 2,568 to their opponents' 2,540. Compton made the high score of 240 in this match, and had the excellent average of 221 1-3. The two-men tournament will come to a close this evening.

IRVING TIGERS VS. THE BIG DULUTHS.

The Irving Tigers and the Big Duluths will clash Sunday at Athletic park in a football game that will be one of the elimination contests for the city championship. Both have strong teams, and the game is expected to be one of the best played here this season.

Wrestler Does Quick Work.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Sybysco, the Gallician wrestling champion, who has come to America in hope of a match with Frank Gotch, last night defeated Pete Wischamp, Walter Smith and Yankee Rogers, three local heavyweights in fourteen minutes.

NEW YORK TO INTERFERE IN SPOKANE RATE CASE.

New York, Oct. 8.—The New York chamber of commerce has instructed its officers to interfere in the proceedings before the interstate commerce commission, which is considering the so-called "Spokane case," affecting rates of transportation throughout the country.

The proposed readjustment of rates would tend to deprive the Atlantic seaports of their natural advantages, draw from the Atlantic seaboard the origin of manufacturing and distributing merchandise, and concentrate such business in cities of the Mississippi valley, and amounts to a discrimination against the East in favor of the West, in the opinion of the chamber.

CANADA MAY SPEND $20,000,000 ON NAVY.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 8.—It is understood that the Canadian government's bill respecting naval defense will provide for a total capital expenditure of $20,000,000 during the next six or seven years, the yearly appropriation being about $3,000,000.

The plans contemplate a fleet of a dozen war vessels, consisting of cruisers, torpedo boats and destroyers. Drydocks and a Canadian shipbuilding plant capable of building and repairing the largest class of war vessels also are contemplated.

It is stated that three vessels of the new fleet will be placed on the Pacific coast and nine on the Atlantic.

CALLS PEARY CRUEL MASTER

Greenland Clergyman Accuses Him of Ill-Treating Eskimos.

Copenhagen, Oct. 8.—A Greenland clergyman named Ludwigs, who is a member of the Cape York mission and is acquainted with both Dr. Cook and Commander Peary, has opened a campaign against the latter, reiterating some old allegations as to his ill-treatment of the Eskimos. Among other charges, he alleges that Commander Peary once deserted a band of women and children on the ice without food, because they hindered the rapid advance of his expedition.

Says Peary Was Good.

Freeport, Me., Oct. 8.—"Commander Peary loved his men and time and time again went out of his way to make their lot easier and the members of the party fairly worshipped him."

This was the answer of Prof. Donald B. McMillan, a scientist with the polar party, who has arrived at his home here to query about intimations attributed to Dr. F. E. Cook that Commander Peary was cold and unsympathetic toward his assistants.

WILL MAKE EXAMPLE OF MACHINIST GOBEL.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Extreme measures are being taken by the navy department to apprehend Warrant Machinist Michael C. Gobel, formerly attached to the cruiser Colorado, who was convicted of various serious infractions of the naval regulations, among which was the misappropriation of money.

Gobel was sentenced to be dishonorably dismissed from the service, but before the sentence could be executed, he made his escape from the cruiser Tennesse at San Francisco. If Gobel is re-captured, a precedent will be set which it is expected will tend greatly to lessen the number of such escapes. He will be charged with desertion and upon conviction a long term of imprisonment can be added to the original sentence of simple dismissal.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 8.—A cablegram received here from London announces that a conference yesterday among owners of all steamship lines operating between European ports and American Atlantic and Gulf ports resulted in a unanimous agreement to increase ocean freight rates from American ports. The opinion prevailed at the conference that present rates were inadequate.

Mr. Andrews was nominated as director on Aug. 5. He is an assistant to the commission and has devoted considerably more than a year to its work.

Senator Aldrich is expected to reach Washington about Oct. 19. It has not yet been decided when the commisson will hold its next meeting.

NEW WIRELESS STUNTS.

Chicago Station Talks to Duluth About Steamer Wolvin.

Duluth figured in new wireless telegraphic stunts yesterday, the local office receiving a message from Chicago for the first time since the United Wireless company established its station here.

While off Mackinac island, Lake Michigan, Capt. Cragie of the freighter Augustus B. Wolvin sent the following message to the steamship company, which was received by the Chicago office and transmitted to the Duluth office:

"Steamer Wolvin, By Wireless.

"Michigan, Oct. 7, 1909.

"Acme Steamship company, Duluth, Minn.—Passed Mackinac island at 10:15 p. m. Due at Detour at 2 a. m. Got to put new chain in one furnace at fuel dock.

(Signed) "CAPT. CRAGIE."

F. G. Moe, local manager of the wireless company, sent greetings to the New York office which were promptly acknowledged. Mayor Haven sent the following greeting by wireless to Mayor Busse of Chicago:

"Greetings by the first wireless message from the largest shipping port to the largest city on the Great Lakes."

TUBERCULAR HOGS IMPORTED FROM CHINA.

London, Oct. 8.—No fewer than 9 per cent of the carcasses of Chinese hogs recently imported into England have been found to be affected with tuberculosis. The first shipment of 5,000 hogs were offered by the retail butchers at 25 per cent below the prices charged for other imported hogs, but they did not find favor with the public. The butchers raised the prices of American and European pork in order to dispose of the China stock.

Wants Federal Incorporation.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Attorney General Wickersham is working out plans for a bill which he purposes to draft as a basis for a national incorporation act. He probably will have it ready for definite action about the time that congress convenes.

Mr. Wickersham believes large concerns would accept such federal regulation.

ON THE IRON RANGES

VILLAGE-OWNED PLANT FAVORED

Aurora Appears to Be Against Granting Lighting Franchise.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the council meeting Wednesday night the application of the Hartley Electric Company of Virginia for a lighting franchise came up again and was practically turned down.

The councilmen, as well as the business men, are not in favor of granting a franchise of any description while there is any possibility of the village installing a municipal plant, and that seems to be what the village is going to have. A mass meeting of the taxpayers has been called for tonight at the clubrooms, and the matter will be discussed thoroughly, and it is expected that the outcome of the meeting will determine whether or not the village will have a lighting plant. After the mass meeting the council will convene and act according to the decision rendered by the mass meeting.

The State Bank of Aurora and other Aurora citizens have offered to loan the village the necessary funds at 6 per cent to establish a municipal lighting plant, and by the village accepting the offer it will not be necessary to float bonds.

In answer to a petition of the property owners on Third avenue to have an addition built to the water mains to Railroad street, the council decided to do so, but left the question of whether doing the job by day labor instead of contract was legal, to the village attorney. The petitioners also desire the village to build a sidewalk along the north side of the avenue and have the same assessed to the property. This will also be done.

The report of Judge Tillman showed that $81.05 had been collected in fines for September.

The plumbing contract with the Aurora Hardware company was declared ended. The water tapping and connections will hereafter be done by the village pumpmen.

ARDENHURST IS PRIZE WINNER

Towns in Northern Part of Itasca County Had Fine Exhibit.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the most notable individual exhibits at the recent county fair was the exhibit of the township of Ardenhurst. During the past few years the county fair association has offered special prizes for township exhibits, but until this year none of the towns availed themselves of the opportunity of competing for these prizes. This year the prizes were $50 for the first, $35 for the second, $25 for the third, and $15 for the fourth. This year Ardenhurst people determined that despite the distance and great disadvantage they were at to get to the county seat, they would come down with an exhibit which would carry off first money. And they did, not only because they were the only ones in their class, but because their exhibit was really the best in its line.

The farmers of Ardenhurst have a farmers' association, and they work together very nicely, and derive much benefit from their co-operation. The exhibit, which was brought to the fair at this place, was exhibited at the county fair of Koochiching county at Northome a few days before, and the products carried away a good proportion of the prizes offered at that place. Ardenhurst is only a few miles from Northome, and tributary trading territory to that hustling place, and the Northome business men offered to pay the expenses of sending the exhibit to the county fair at this place. No act which the business men of Northome could have done could have been of better advantage to their town than sending the Ardenhurst exhibit to this fair, for it has opened the eyes of the many visitors at the fair of the possibilities of the tributary to Northome.

The exhibit was in charge of Messrs. David Rose and Claud Fish, who were also assisted by Mrs. Fish. All three were kept busy all during the fair telling people where Ardenhurst was, what it was, and about the products, the soil, character of the country, and answering the innumerable questions which were put to them.

GEO. A WHITMAN NEW PRESIDENT

Succeeds J. H. Hearding as Head of Eveleth Commercial Club.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the regular meeting of the Commercial club yesterday evening, it was decided to send to Duluth a committee of three, consisting of George A. Perham, John J. Gleason and James P. Boyle, to confer with the Steel corporation on the question of incorporating adjoining local territory.

The resignation of J. P. Hearding as president of the club was accepted, and the secretary was instructed to tender him a vote of thanks for his past services. On motion of P. E. Dowling, George A. Whitman of the First National bank was appointed president of the club.

On motion of J. P. Boyle, the secretary was instructed to send the city council a communication, recommending the fixing of all water connections, so that the same would be strong enough to support any form of paving. Much discussion on paving, reduction of electric light costs, independent school district, and Johnson fund arose. All these subjects will be brought up and discussed next Friday evening, Oct. 15.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth & Iron Range road this week commenced laying steel on the newt five-mile cut-off between McKinley and Sparta to avoid the mining properties at Gilbert. FINE GRAIN YIELDS.

Itasca County Coming to Front in the Grain Production Line.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is not generally known that the Grand Rapids vicinity has a steam threshing outfit. Early this fall Fred Ingersoll purchased a new machine, the engine of which is as large as any used in the small grain country, and proceeded to do fall threshing. On the Hoolihan farm about 1,600 bushels of grains were threshed. On the Sisler farm the oats ran over sixty-five bushels per acre. Considering that the beginning of the season was extremely backward, and that there was no rain until away late in the summer, this yield is remarkable. A good many other farms in the same neighborhood were threshed, and at all places good yields are reported.

The church has been painted a pure white, which makes the edifice present a very neat appearance. The interior of the church is also completed, and an air of neatness and dignity pervades the church. Much credit is given to Rev. Dean L. Buechler for his persistent efforts toward the completion of these improvements.

celebration colors and red, white and blue.

As the naval parade came into view south of the city a salute of 100 guns boomed, church and fire bells clanged out a welcome, noisy whistles added to the din, and the consolidated bands assembled at Riverside park struck up a spirited tune.

Welcomed By Governor.

At the firing of the first gun, Mayor Snyder, the local Hudson-Fulton celebration commissioners, the common council and heads of the city departments, entered carriages at the city hall and, under escort of Troop B of this city, proceeded to the executive mansion, where Governor Hughes and staff, Robert Shaw Oliver, assistant secretary of war, and Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood and staff, were in waiting.

At the park a formal welcome was extended to the visitors by Governor Hughes, on the part of the state, and by Mayor Snyder on behalf of the city. The guests were then taken in automobiles to the Fort Orange club, where the visitors were received by the Albany members of the Holland Society of New York. After luncheon the parade was reviewed by Governor Hughes, Assistant Secretary Oliver, Gen. Wood and Mayor Snyder.

CLOQUET TEAM HOPEFUL.

Expects to Defeat Grand Rapids Eleven on Gridiron Saturday.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.) — Tomorrow afternoon the teams of the Cloquet and the Grand Rapids high schools will meet on the local gridiron, in what promises to be a hard fought contest, as the rivalry between the two schools has always been keen.

Since the game with the Superior team last Saturday the local team has been strengthened materially. None the worse for bruises received in the rought game of a week ago, the Cloquet boys have worked with a will and are doing everything in their power to whip themselves into shape to down their rivals.

The result of the game Saturday will go far towards the championship of this part of the state, excluding Duluth. An attempt is being made to secure an official from Duluth to referee the contest.

TRAIN'S SPEED

Picked Up a Stone That Knocked the Engineer Senseless.

New York, Oct. 8.—William Cooper, engine driver on the Pennsylvania railroad, met with a peculiar accident, which left him senseless in the cab of his flyer. The fireman noticed that something was wrong while the train was passing Rahway, N. J., and he climbed to the other side of the cab and found Cooper lying apparently dead on the floor. There was an ugly gash in the man's head and close beside him lay a good-sized stone.

In some manner the train, a Philadelphia flyer, bound from Jersey City to Philadelphia, must have picked up the stone as it rushed along, and it was hurled against the head of the driver as he leaned part way out of his cab window. The train was traveling at about fifty miles an hour at the time.

Cooper, when he regained consciousness, was sent to his home in Jersey City.

Mrs. Waste was 15 when first married.

PUT POLITICS IN THE CATECHISM

French Bishops Insert New Obligation for Their Students.

Paris, Oct. 8.—Some of the French bishops, following up a more militant policy, have introduced into the catechisms the obligation to vote only for candidates who have publicly pledged themselves to the defense of religious interests.

The Figaro, commenting on this development, says that since the rupture of the Concordat, which forbade electoral catechisms, the church has a perfect right to give instruction in electoral duties, but it considers the formula in some dioceses to be open to criticism.

It prefers that of the archbishop of Cambria, which says that the most honest and the most Christian candidates, capable of serving the general welfare, should be elected.

Valuable Item for Men.

Health and strength hitherto unknown will be felt surging in rich red blood through the arteries and veins and life's greatest ambitions may be realized as never before, if the following special treatment is followed by those men, and women, too, who are stricken with that most dreaded of all afflictions, nervous exhaustion, accompanied with such symptoms as extreme nervousness, insomnia, cold extremities, melancholia, headaches, constipation and dyspepsia, kidney trouble, dreadful dreams of direful disasters, timidity in venturing and a general inability to act naturally at all times as other people do. Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health and all the happiness accompanying it, the following home treatment is given. It contains no opiates or habit-forming drugs whatever. Mix it at home and no one will be the wiser as to your affliction.

The treatment is simple, thorough and correct. Leading druggists supply the main tinctures, extracts and essences in one-ounce bottles, ready to mix. Get three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound, mix with one ounce compound fluid balmwort, and stand two hours. Add one ounce compound essence cardiol, and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at bedtime.

The ingredients are used for various prescriptions.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

"And so," said Emma Littlefield, who is Mrs. Victor Moore, "I took my tooth brush and ran away from home."

Dramatic pause.

"Far?" asked the interviewer.

"All the way through Pennsylvania," said Emma.

"Some running, that," said the interviewer.

"Well, with an opera company, of course," said Emma.

"Grand?" asked the interviewer.

"Well, kind of grand," said Emma. "They had one act where two girls whirled around and then kicked—kicked as high as that chandelier, I guess," said Emma. "And I could do that, too, so they made it a sister act and I was the third." And then she said "Oh, my toe!" just like that. "Oh, my toe!"

Having a prejudice against feet—uncovered feet—the interviewer said nothing.

Mrs. Moore's exclamation was caused by the fact that a dog, a Pomeranian, one of a family of three, was doing its best to remove the aforementioned toe from its natural fastenings. Nature protested, Mrs. Moore slapped the Pomeranian; the Pomeranian snapped back; the mother of the Pomeranian, a Pomeranian herself, came to the rescue of her child and then the son and brother, feeling rather out of the interesting melee, bot into the game. And so Mrs. Moore, who is Miss Emma Littlefield, was rather busy, wrapping her feet in her kimona and administering judicious slaps to the Pomeranian family, which took the punishment with more or less protest.

"We got as far as Fall River, Mass.," said Mrs. Moore, "when the show went broke. I hadn't received a cent of pay, and so I jumped my board bill and started out with all my luggage in my hand. All I had, you know, was my tooth brush, and I really never felt so happy in my life. But I met a family friend. Aren't family friends the meddlesome things?" asked Emma, "and he told me my folks were sitting up nights wondering where their daughter was. He insisted upon giving me the price of railroad fare home and started me off. But here was where the prodigal got it—where Mrs. Vanderbilt hangs her ropes of pearls. Right there! My mother's eyes were red with weeping and the house cat looked forlorn, but the minute I came my mother said, 'right off to the Gerry society you go, smarty, and we'll see if you'll run away and be a chorus girl.' And so she took me down to the station, and I cried, and my mother cried, and my sister cried, a regular family party, and at last we got the magistrate doing it. 'Go 'way from here,' he sobbed, 'or we'll have to get the janitor to mop out this station.' And so we went back home. My folks were in the business, too, and so they thought as long as I would go into it they'd put me in right, and so my sister and me started in vaudeville on the K and L circuit."

"How long ago was that?" asked the tactless interviewer.

"Here, Brownie," said Mrs. Moore to the brown Pomeranian, snapping her fingers enticingly and making a coaxing noise with her lips.

And after that conversation languished a little bit. Mrs. Moore wouldn't forgive that fearfully personal question and the interviewer couldn't blame her, but couldn't think of anything else to say. But eventually with a few polite phrases and, stepping carefully over, on and between Pomeranians, the exit was accomplished.

FLOWERS AND PLANTS

Add Great Charm to Any Living Room.

Flowers and growing plants can do more toward making a room attractive and homelike and lending an atmosphere of cheer and brightness than can be derived from the costliest furnishings and the most rare and valuable works of art. There is no room, from the formal salon of a large city house to the cozy living room of a small apartment, that will not be quite transformed by one or two graceful palms set in handsome brass, silver or china jardinieres, or a cherry fern, or even a hardy rubber plant which is striving to bring indoors the color from the summer woods or the brilliant greens of the tropics.

After all, a plant asks very little of the world that it may be allowed to live and shed cheer around—just water regularly and plentifully given, good, wholesome earth, an occasional bath and plenty of sunshine; that is all, with perhaps a tonic at rare intervals, if the heat or artificial light in the room has not agreed with it. Broadly speaking, however, any plant will thrive if given sufficient water and sunlight.

It seems difficult for many people to understand that different kinds of plants require different amounts of food (or water) just as different individuals require a greater or less amount of nourishment or sleep, and that the quantity must be varied also according to the kind of heat in the room. Steam heat, for instance, rapidly takes all moisture from the air, and in a steam-heated room a plant should be watered twice as often as during the summer, when there is considerable humidity in the atmosphere.

Most palms should be watered every second or third day. It is always possible to tell from the condition of the earth whether or not the plant should be given more water, and then about every two weeks it is a good plan to literally give the plant a bath—that is, place it in a tub of water, so that the roots can soak in all the nourishment they can possibly desire. After leaving the plant in the tub for an hour or more the water should be drained off and the earth allowed to partially dry before the plant is returned to its jardiniere in the full blaze of the sunshine. A fern requires more water than a palm, and to keep it looking fresh and clean the entire plant should be sprinkled from a watering pot at least once a week.

Artists' Aprons.

Dainty new artists' aprons are to be had.

They are a radical change from the traditional blue denim.

One need not be an artist to enjoy them.

In fact they are far more likely to appeal to the frivolous young person.

They are all-enveloping in cut, but made of the most attractive shades of pongee and rajah.

One in Chinese blue has old gold dragons careening across the yoke.

Another is of old rose, with an edging of Oriental embroidery on the collar and cuffs. But they are not so absolutely impractical as they sound.

The rough silk sheds dust excellently and the fabric washes quite as well.

Therefore, if you are a truly earnest artist, you may consider the garment as one to admire rather than to wear, but if you are a fluffy person, with a keen sense for becoming effects, it is worth considering, at least.

Household Hints.

A little milk added to the water in which silver is washed will help to keep it bright.

A few drops of lemon juice added to scrambled eggs while cooking will improve them.

Never throw away small quantities of gravy, sauce, etc., if they are perfectly sweet. They all come in for making stews, soups or gravies.

Turpentine will remove tar from any kind of fabric.

Household brushes last much longer if washed regularly. Remember that they should never be allowed to rest on the bristles.

Learn to Eat.

A lady in Budapest has started a school in which pupils are taught "the art of eating." The lady thinks that there is a lot to be learned on the subject of how to convey gracefully to its proper place the elements of nutrition in the food we are obliged to eat. A writer in a London paper, speaking of the school, takes as a test of fine eating the manner in which a man eats an egg. Americans, he says, are absolutely indecent when it comes to eating eggs, and that Great Britain and the United States can never really have entente cordials until we learn how to eat eggs. London is the home of table manners, he furthermore asserts.

THE EVENING STORY

PRIVATE CAR NO. 300

By Wilder Anthony.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

As he crouched closer, Wilson shivered in his corner of the rear platform of his private car No. 300, which was attached to the end of the Montana express. Muttering inaudible oaths he rubbed his numb and almost frozen fingers in an effort to restore circulation. For six long hours he had crouched in the cold and darkness in hourly dread that some prowling brakeman would discover him.

So far, however, fortune had been kind and had it not been for the bitter cold Wilson might have been well pleased with his position. Let him but reach Denver, now only a few hours away, and he would be safe, for awhile at least. Since that last robbery at Billings the city authorities had offered a reward of $500 for the capture of Nathaniel Wilson, alias Jockman, the bank robber and noted crook," and for days he had been in momentary fear of arrest.

Inside car No. 300 James Marston, millionaire, banker and financier, sat alone at his evening meal. He was returning to Denver from the inspection of some very rich mining property in Montana, and a self-satisfied smile stole over his face as he thought of the profits his journey promised to net him. The dinner, too, with Marston always a soft point, excellently cooked, had also been excellently served, a fact which tended to put the traveler in fine good humor, especially as he looked forward with pleasure to arrival home at midnight.

George, the colored porter, had just cleared away the table and gone forward into the smoker to gossip with a friend, for he knew his master would not need him for an hour or more. Marston leaned back in his chair, lighted a cigar and was about to pick up his newspaper when he was disturbed by a slight noise behind him. Turning quickly, he found himself gazing into the threatening muzzle of a very large and business-like revolver. Behind the revolver was Nat Wilson, the desperado, who, made reckless by the cold, had tried the door of the car, found it much to his surprise unlocked, and, regardless of consequences, with one quick movement, had entered and then securely fastened the door behind him.

"Don't move or make an outcry, and I won't hurt you," said Wilson sternly, as Marston started to his feet.

And peered intently at the millionaire, and peered intenly at the millionaire. Yes, it was undoubtedly so. Making due allowance for difference in garb and the fact that Wilson had two weeks' beard on his face, while the banker was clean-shaven, the two men were almost exact counterparts of each other. Both were about 40 years of age, of medium height, with regular features and red brown hair.

Up to this time Wilson had entertained no more definite purpose in entering the car than to escape the intense cold and see what might then turn up. Now, however, he had a definite idea flash into his mind. Its very boldness and risk pleased him. Here was a chance to cheat the law and at the same time resume the old life of a gentleman, even though but for a few hours.

Marston had subsided into his chair at Wilson's words, dazed at first, for he realized his utter helplessness. At length he said coolly:

"Don't shoot. I am unarmed and alone here, so you hold the trumps."

"So I see," replied Wilson dryly. "May I trouble you to stand up and face the other way a moment. There, all right; thank you."

While speaking, and as the banker complied with his directions, Wilson approached him and, still holding the revolver, ran his free hand through the other's pockets. Satisfied with his examination, he stepped back and said:

"Take off that suit, and be quick about it. We'll be at Broken Bow presently, and I don't want any interruption."

Grumbling, the banker complied, and as he did so, Wilson rapidly divested himself of his own scanty apparrel.

"Now put these on," he ordered, as he threw his clothes to the other, "and toss me yours."

In a few moments the two men were fully clad once more, each in the other's clothing.

Light was beginning to dawn on the banker, for he, too, had noticed the facial and physical resemblance between them, but he said nothing.

Stepping to the door of Marston's stateroom, Wilson switched on the light and motioned to the other man to precede him, keeping him constantly covered with his revolver.

"I'm going to lock you in here for the present, and I advise you to keep quiet," said Wilson, "for I shall be just outside," and he looked significantly at his pistol. "Don't try the windows, for the train is running fast and you would probably be killed."

Hurrying to the other end of the car the highwayman quickly procured Marston's razor and in a few moments he was the living image of the banker himself. Just in time, too, for almost immediately the train began to slow down as it rolled into Broken Bow. There was scarcely time for a few hurried words of warning to Marston before they reached the station.

Black George, the porter, glanced into the car at this moment, but, seeing his master deeply engaged in a novel, he went back to the more congenial society of his negro friend.

The instant the train began to move Wilson unlocked the stateroom, and, at the point of his revolver, hurried Marston out on to the rear platform.

"Jump, quick!" he commanded.

And, with one look at the determined face of the man behind him, Marston sprang from the slowly moving train.

Two hours later James Marston, millionaire, walked quietly out of the union station at Denver, and, hailing a cab, was soon lost to sight in the crowded street. At the same hour a much excited sheriff was standing over the notorious Nat Wilson in the Broken Bow lockup and was incredulously amused at his prisoner's persisting in the story that he was not Nat Wilson, but James Marston, the Denver banker.

Gives Nerves Remarkable Vigor

Electropodes, a Wonderful, Simple Device to Produce Astonishing Nerve Strength.

How Any Man or Woman Can Get and Use Them.

There is no more excuse for any man or woman suffering from nervous exhaustion, run-down condition, weak nerves, lack of ambition or energy. A wonderfully simple device, called Electropodes, is now designed to supply all the strength necessary to render the nerves strong and vigorous without having to resort to temporary stimulants, tonics or medicines of any kind.

Electropodes are not an experiment; that they produce results which can be quickly felt and even seen in an improved condition of the general system is the emphatic statement of those who have used them.

Electropodes represent a distinct advance in the application of electricity for the cure of diseases. They are reported to have a remarkable effect not only upon the nerves, but also upon the kidneys, stomach, and liver, being an exceptional remedy for kidney troubles, stomach or liver derangements, neuralgia, rheumatism, backache, lumbago, insomnia and weak heart.

Electropodes are metallic insoles so placed in the heels of the shoes as to be unnoticeable to the wearer. By contact with the body it is stated they electrify and invigorate every fibre, organ, nerve, and blood vessel and the condition of the system quickly changes for the better.

Electropodes are never uncomfortable, yet you feel a mighty change and increased power creeping upon you.

To prove that these statements are not in the least exaggerated The Electropode Company, of Lima, Ohio, has your druggist sign a contract that if you are not satisfied with the Electropodes at the end of 30 days' trial, you can have your money right back.

Electropodes are sold at drug stores at $1.00 a pair under contract to satisfy you. If your druggist does not have Electropodes on hand, send your remittance to the Electropode Co., Suite 57, Holland Block, Lima, Ohio, and you will get them by return mail with our contract binding us to completely satisfy you within 30 days, or positively refund your money. Say whether for lady or gentleman.

MAROONED FOR FOUR DAYS ON A FLOATING BOG

West End Men Almost Dead From Exposure When Found.

Had Been Duck Hunting on Lake Near McGregor.

Weak and exhausted as a result of being exposed to the elements for over four days while they were lost on a duck hunting trip, Thorwald F. Beherns, 23 years old, of Eighteenth avenue west and Joseph Symington, 30 years old, of the United States block at the West end, were found by a searching party early this morning on a floating island or bog in a small lake near McGregor, Aitkin county, Minn.

Too weak to be taken to their homes in this city, they will be cared for at McGregor until tomorrow morning when they will be brought back on the morning train. Up to noon today the friends and relatives of the two men were expressing grave anxiety as to their whereabouts. A telegram to the father of the younger man, Henry Beherns, received about noon today, brought the welcome news that both had been found.

No details of the finding of the men were given in the telegram. A searching party headed by Patrick Kennedy and including a number of friends of the men spent three days looking through the woods and among the swamps for them. They had been missing from the West end since last Monday morning.

The two young men left the West end Sunday morning over the Northern Pacific for Grayling for a short duck-hunting trip. The younger man told his father, Henry Beherns, a barber at 1915 West Superior street, that he would be back some time Monday morning. Nothing has been seen or heard of either since then.

Thorwald Beherns, popularly known to most everybody at the West end as "Patty," is a barber, employed at his father's shop on West Superior street. He is prominently identified with the activities of the Adams Athletic association, and during the summer played with the Adams team, which won the pennant in the City Amateur league series.

Well-Known Men.

Symington, the older man, is a conductor on the Northern Pacific road, running out of Duluth, and one of the best known railroad men at the West end. Symington was also supposed to have returned Monday with Beherns, as he was expected to take out a train here the first part of this week.

But little anxiety was expressed for the men until Tuesday night, and Wednesday friends and relatives of the two young men began to wonder why their return had been so delayed. Wednesday Patrick Kennedy of the West end and another friend of the missing men went to Grayling to look up their whereabout. A message Wednesday night from Mr. Kennedy stated that nothing as yet had been heard of either Beherns or Symington.

Four or five others left yesterday afternoon for Grayling, which is about fifty-five miles from Duluth. This section is covered with much timber, and it is thought that the men must have gone astray while tramping through the woods. Today another searching party from the West end left for Grayling.

HORRIBLY CRUSHED.

Incline Dummy Passed Over Body of Albert Schulz.

The examination yesterday afternoon of the body of Albert Schulz, of 210 West Fourteenth street, who was killed at the incline railway at midnight Wednesday, showed that the dummy past over his body. No marks were visible, but the backbone was horribly crushed and he sustained other internal injuries. The funeral will take place at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from the German church at the corner of Third avenue east and Second street.

Frightful Fate Averted.

"I would have been a cripple for life, from a terrible cut on my knee cap," writes Frank Disbery, Kelliher, Minn., "without Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which soon cured me." Infallible for wounds, cuts and bruises, it soon cures Burns, Scalds, Old Sores, Boils, Skin Eruptions, World's best for Piles. 25c at all druggists.

LOOKING FOR BRIDE-TO-BE

Biwabik Man Lost His Sweetheart at Ellis Island.

Is in Duluth Looking for Some Trace of Her.

Pete Koivisto is searching patiently for his affinity. He has been searching for several days, but no trace of the woman in the case has been discovered. The search started in New York, Pete has not the least idea where it will end.

Pete Koivisto went to Europe in search of the young lady. Then they came across the raging pond together. Everything was lovely and everybody was happy. Then difficulties were encountered.

At Ellis Island the lady in the romance was held up—that is, requested to tarry yet a while for certain formalities that the government officials require immigrants to go through. Now, Pete, being an American citizen by the right of naturalization papers, was not required to go through this formality.

So he and the lady became separated. They told Pete that the first train for the West left last Monday morning. In the meantime the lady, with a number of other immigrants bound for cities in the West, were placed on a train.

And so when Pete went a looking for the lady he went all the way to Europe to bring back to the land of the free and the enterprising, he found that she had left. He looked around New York, which is a pretty big place, and he failed to find his friend. Then he came post haste to Duluth.

Here the search continued. Every Finnish boarding house in this city has heard the plaint of Pete's inquiry. But there was nothing stirring in the line of "Why, here you are; gee, I've missed you." Pete is crestfallen, or worse.

He lives twenty miles north of Biwabik. He has a homestead, proved up, just waiting for the lady. And now he has lost her, temporarily at least. He will hie himself to Biwabik, in the hope that the lady has gone on.

Elegant Furnishings.

NO SHELTER BUT A TENT

Aged Lakeside Woman Has No Home for the Winter.

After eking out an existence the last summer by living in a tent near Lakeside and doing odd chores for the neighbors in the vicinity, Mrs. Mary Cotter is making heroic efforts to raise enough money to get a roof over her head this winter.

She came to Miss Jean Poirier at the city hall this morning looking for assistance. Miss Poirier referred her to the poor commissioner, who gave her an order for $4 worth of groceries. Mrs. Cotter came back again without having dried her tears, saying that she had to have money for rent and did not need groceries. Miss Poirier promised to see if she couldn't induce the landlord to accept the order in lieu of cash.

The old lady has a spread which she worked out by hand during the summer, and she is trying to sell it to raise money. It is in the hands of the charitable society officials, who will take care of the money. They will not give it to Mrs. Cotter in one instalment, as she shows poor judgment in spending it and would soon be as poor as ever.

DIVORCES ARE GRANTED

Four Are Freed From Marriage Bonds in District Court.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Christenson Make Charges of Cruelty.

The divorce suit of Sofia Christenson vs. Charles Christenson, which was placed on trial before Judge Cant in district court yesterday afternoon, was on all morning, with Mrs. Christenson on the stand. The plaintiff's case was all in shortly before noon, and the defense started to put in evidence.

Mrs. Christenson charges drunkenness and non-support. She says her husband has often come home drunk, has failed to provide the necessaries of life for herself and their child, and has repeatedly treated her cruelly, calling her vile names and threatening to kill her.

Christenson denies his wife's charges and makes counter-charges of cruelty. He this morning withdrew his cross-bill for divorce and contented himself with defending the action brought by his wife, urging its dismissal. He claims that his wife married him only to secure support for herself, and that she afterwards succeeded in getting their property placed in her name. He claims that he has always treated her well, but that she has not done the same by him.

Four decrees of divorce were granted yesterday afternoon by Judge Cant. Harriett McDonnell was granted a divorce from John A. McDonnell, Margana Mackowiak from Macej Mackowiak, Sarah Lovett from Oliver Lovett and Fred R. Anderson from Lulu M. Anderson.

Judge Cant is alone hearing divorce actions, and the calendar will probably not be cleared of them until tomorrow.

TRY TO SAVE THE AMERICAN TRADE

German Potash Syndicate Will Try to Negotiate New Contracts.

Berlin, Oct. 8.—A committee headed by Herr Schudekupe, manager of the export department of the German potash syndicate, is planning to leave for New York, Oct. 21 for the purpose of negotiating direct with the American fertilizer companies in the hope that something may be done to save part of the American market for the syndicate's products. The syndicate has up to the present time controlled the potash business of the world, inasmuch as Germany has a monopoly of these salts, and it is now in danger of losing the whole American market amounting to 60 per cent of the export trade, valued at $70,000,000, either to the German mines outside the syndicate or to members of the syndicate, who contracted heavily with American fertilizing companies, while the syndicate was temporarily dissolved the early part of July.

Government Is Embarrassed.

The government owns the potash mines, and a government official, Herr Paxmann, is chairman of the syndicate. Both the imperial and the Prussian governments are embarrassed by the attitude of the syndicate managers, who are backed by a group of the principal banks of Berlin and the holders of the stocks and bonds of the potash companies, who urge legislation at the next session of the reichstag that shall prevent the fulfillment of the American contracts by levying a producing tax to come into operation after the mines are sold.

The view of the government is that no discriminating legislation against American interests should be passed while the tariff relations between the two countries are in suspense.

WEARINESS AND CHURCH GOING.

"An American Woman" contributes a letter to the August American Magazine, which the publishers have incorporated into the department of "The Pilgrim's Scrip" which appears regularly in every issue of this magazine. Part of this reads as follows:

"I do not think that the churches realize—it seems impossible to make them realize—that most working people are simply too tired to go to church. The situation has nowhere been more clearly presented than in 'A Frank Letter' in the May American Magazine, and yet, I have been told that a clergyman in New York, after reading that letter to his congregation, accused the writer of having no soul. It is poor physical economy to spend indoors three hours of one's only day of rest and recreation. And what is poor physical economy becomes inevitably, I am inclined to think, poor spiritual economy. 'Why, this is the only day I have,' you hear on every side. 'I can't give give it up to churchgoing. I want to get out into the air.'

"Another side of this church-going question, a very practical one too, does not often present itself to the leisure classes.

"'Why don't you ever come to church nowadays, Miss Blank?' said a clergyman to a workingwoman of my acquaintance.

"'Because I have to do my sewing Sunday morning,' she replied with unhesitating forthrightness. 'I can't sew evenings on account of my eyes and besides I'm too tired to sew then. Sunday morning is the only time I have to get ready for the next week.'

"The pastor, dumbfounded, said nothing. After all, when you come to think of it, what was there to say?"

HEAVY DEMAND FOR LABORERS

Men Returning From Harvest Fields Find Plenty of Work.

There is an increasing demand for laborers, according to the statement of several employment agency owners. Yesterday the National Employment agency received over 400 orders for laborers, the men being wanted in the vicinity of Duluth. Lumber companies, railroad companies and sawmills are bidding for men.

The laborers are beginning to return from the harvest fields. There is a large number of men in the city at the present time. Reports from North Dakota are to the effect that a large number of laborers are heading this way. Employment men here are of the opinion that a supply of men to meet the heavy demand will be here within a few days.

The number of women enrolled at the universities of Germany this summer is 1,411, an increase of 333 over last summer.

LAID UP 3 MONTHS WITH AN ULCER

On Ankle—It Was Very Bad and Only Got Worse Under Treatments—Cuticura Soon Healed It—Baby's Head Freed from Stubborn Scurf by Cuticura Soap.

TWO ECONOMICAL CURES BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"My case was a very bad ulcer sore on my ankle and I was laid up three months with it. I was reading an advertisement in the newspaper one day about the Cuticura Remedies so I purchased a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and a large bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. After using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment my ulcer was healed, by washing twice a day with the Soap and using the other remedies as directed. Before I used the Cuticura Remedies my sore was getting worse all the time under other treatments. Furthermore we have a baby boy here and we have found that Cuticura Soap has been a fine thing for him. He had scurf on his head and we tried every way to remove it but failed until we used the Cuticura Soap which removed it almost at once. George M. Hall, Brushton, N. Y., Dec. 24, 1908."

CURED FALLING HAIR

And Itching Scalp with Cuticura.

"Some months ago I suffered with a bad form of scalp disease. My hair was falling out and my head itched. I read about Cuticura and determined to try it. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and used them. I continued using the Cuticura Ointment on my head daily and the result was truly wonderful. I still use it occasionally and I always have Cuticura Soap on hand. The cure is complete. Mrs. Amy Geissler, 2018 South Seventh St., Omaha, Neb., Sept. 23 and Oct. 8, 1908."

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Cuticura Ointment (50c.) and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60). Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

NO ACTION IS TAKEN

National Baseball Commission Fails to Reopen the Pfeffer Case.

Harry Pulliam to Be Remembered Each Year With Floral Offerings.

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 8.—The national commission met at the Schenly hotel today, but did not take action in regard to opening the Pfeffer case. President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago Nationals had asked for a rehearing. The case is one in which he was fined $500 for the alleged tampering with Pitcher Pfeffer of the Toronto Eastern league club.

It is expected that decisive action will be taken by the commission tomorrow. From intimations by members of the commission, it is thought Murphy will be given seventy-two hours to pay the $500 or be read out of organized baseball. It is also thought that he will be reprimanded by the commission for his conduct in this case.

The commission decided how the umpires were to work throughout the series, and especially the players of the teams concerning rowdyism of any sort. It was announced officially that Johnstone would work behind the bat today, with O'Loughlin on the bases. Tomorrow Evans will work behind the bat, with Klem on the bases.

The commission adopted the following resolution in regard to Harry Pulliam, late president of the National league:

"Harry Pulliam, one of the originators of the series, has passed away. His counsel in this body will be heard no more. Organized baseball never had a more zealous and devoted sponsor. In order, therefore, that his memory may forever remain green, it is directed by the national commission that a memorial card be printed, and that on the day scheduled for the first game of the world's series of each year, the same be distributed to all of the eligible players of the contesting clubs, the official umpires, scorers and business representatives, as well as to the owners of the contending clubs and to the press; and that on the same day each year there be placed on the grave of Harry C. Pulliam, at Louisville, Ky., a floral wreath, as a token of the esteem in which he was held by every one connected with organized baseball.

"By order of the national commission.

MORE OPEN WORK IN FOOTBALL

That Was Object of Rule Changes, Says Walter Camp.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 8.—In answer to an inquiry as to the effects of the changes in the football rules, Walter Camp of Yale, who presided over the recent meeting of the football rules committee on the Intercollegiate association, said today:

"The changes in the rules are not very marked, so far as their immediate effects upon the actual methods of play goes. Field goals will still be attempted in spite of the lessening in value of these from four points to three. Open play and the further development of forward passing and outside kicking must be attempted, and teams that reply upon simply plunging tactics will find it difficult to score. Finally, the fact that a side which has made a touchback or safety may scrimmage the ball upon their 25-yard line instead of being forced to kick out, will give a team playing against the wind a thorough opportunity to extricate themselves from a difficult position."

Ironwood Lineup.

The line-up of the Ironwood football team was received today by the Central high school football officials. The reports that accompany the sending of the lineup state that the team is light, but very fast. It is said that the members of the team expect t ogive Central a harder fight than any of the teams that have played at Athletic park this year.

The game tomorrow is scheduled to begin promptly at 2:30.

JAILED AT CROOKSTON

Indian Service Officers, Who Raided Saloons, Held to Grand Jury.

The Federal District Attorney Will Seek Their Release at Once.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.—On warrants issued by Judge Shulind of Mahnomen, charging the malicious destruction of property in having confiscated the liquor in saloons at Waubon, Weme, Calloway and Mahnomen, Deputy Sheriff Flamand and twelve special deputies arrived this morning from Mahnomen and lodged Chief Special Officer of the United States Indian service, William E. Johnson of Salt Lake City and Special Officers Arthur Rydell, Bert Sutton, Edwin Sutton, Joseph Winters, Gus Moberg, Sivert Kvam, Henry Shoerock, Robert Bell and M. B. Hurr in the Polk county jail, all having been held to appear before the grand jury of Mahnomen county after a hearing before the above named judge.

The bonds for all were fixed at $500. Acting County Attorney E. S. Cooper prosecuted and Assistant United States District Attorney E. S. Oakley of St. Paul is representing the accused men, who acted under the authority of District Attorney Haupt.

Attorney Oakley will make application for writs of habeas corpus before the federal court at St. Paul, and will leave for that city tonight.

The accused will be forced to remain in jail until some time next week, at least. The total amount of liquor destroyed was 1,400 gallons. The men in jail are very angry and do not like the idea of remaining in limbo.

The furnished rooms that are advertised today will find "takers." Do you imagine that yours will—unless it's advertised?

JAIL SENTENCES FOR CARELESS DAIRYMEN

Dirty dairies will not be allowed in Duluth, if the action of the municipal court can prevent them.

Judge Windom declared yesterday, in sentencing Andrew Mattson of Garfield avenue, that if he came before him again he would give him a straight jail sentence without the option of a fine. Mattson was arrested for storing milk in his barn.

The case was particularly aggravating. The evidence showed that he not only kept his milk in the reeking barn, but hung a greasy rag in reach when milking and moistened his fingers upon it.

The court said that such tactics will not be allowed, and that only the severest punishment will be meted to milkmen brought into court upon charges of selling dirty or unwholesome milk.

R. W. Luxon, milk inspector, has adopted detective tactics in making his inspections, dropping in upon the milkmen at unexpected times of day and night. He says that he intends to keep right on the job.

Protest on Assessment.

The Northern Pacific road complained to the board of review, in session yesterday, that in the assessment of its property along the water front there are some 70,000 ties which do not belong to the company. The ties are assessed at $10,000. It was not brought out in the hearing yesterday just who the owners of the ties were. The case was continued today.

Will Seek Injunction.

Property owners along Seventeenth street may organize and apply for an injunction to prevent the paving of that street when the frost comes. It is the contention of the people residing on the street that this is not the proper time of the year to start a large paving job. They are opposed to having the improvement made until next spring.

Guilty of Larceny.

Joseph Zofick drew three months in the workhouse yesterday in the Superior municipal court for larceny. He pleaded guilty to the charge when he was arraigned before Judge Parker. Originally an assault charge was preferred against him, but this was later changed to larceny in the second degree.

A Jaw Breaker.

In an assault and battery case yesterday afternoon in municipal court one of the witnesses had a name which the court officer could not pronounce. The man who was giving the testimony said that his name was Gustav Stanlincovhauski. This is the longest name that has been recorded on the court register in municipal court.

Will Open New Hall.

The Sons of Norway lodge will open its new hall at Thirteenth street and Tower avenue on Nov. 1, with a house warming. The lower floor of the structure will be occupied by a clothing firm.

THREE-TENTHS OF THE FUND ALREADY RAISED

At a meeting today of some of the members of the finance committee of the Commercial club, the committee charged with the collecting of the subscriptions for the carrying on of the fight for better railroad rates at the Head of the Lakes, it was announced that the Duluth banks had contributed collectively over $1,000, and private subscriptions were coming in very rapidly.

It is stated that over $3,000 has been subscribed since the meeting of the public affairs committee, Wednesday evening.

It is expected that the board of trade will make a large contribution to the cause. A meeting of the directors of the board will be held this afternoon to take up the matter.

The real estate men are coming forward with liberal subscriptions. A thorough canvass of the real estate men is being made, with the prospect that a generous amount of money will be promised from the members of the real real estate exchange.

E. P. Towne, chairman of the finance committee, says there is no question but that the amount of money that the city is expected to contribute to the fund will be raised. How much time will be required to collect the amount is a question that cannot be answered at this time, but the committee members are anxious to strike while the iron is hot and raise the entire fund just as rapidly as possible.

What would this city be like without its stores? What would this newspaper be like without its store ads? One would be about as interesting as the other.

PARKER COTTAGE DAMAGED BY FIRE

The M. L. Parker cottage on Park Point was damaged to the extent of $1,000 as the result of a fire which started early this morning. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Park Point fire department made an excellent run to the house and quickly succeeded in getting the fire under control.

It is thought that a defective chimney was at the bottom of the trouble.

The fact that the fire broke out about 3 o'clock this morning made it hard for the firemen to get on the scene as quickly as they would have had it been any other part of the day. Their run and their work are, however, considered remarkable and Park Point people are today congratulating themselves on the excellency of their department.

The Parker cottage is one of the prettiest on the point and is located near Thirtieth street.

PRIVILEGE IS ABUSED

New Rules Will Govern General Delivery Window at Postoffice.

As announced in The Herald Monday night, there will be a campaign waged against those who abuse the privileges of the general delivery window at the postoffice. This is not only true of the Duluth office, but every office in the United States.

The attention of Postmaster Barnes of Washington has been called to the matter, and for some time past he has been conducting an investigation in Washington.

He has found that out of 1,064 letters called for by women at the general delivery window, 111 of them bore fictitious names. Eight of the clandestine communications were called for by girls under 16 years of age.

Within a few days it is expected that orders will be received at the local postoffice from Washington asking that several new regulations be enforced.

Some of these restrictions will undoubtedly be that before delivering letters, the girls will be called upon to explain why their letters are not sent directly to their homes, also that the use of the window be reduced from an indefinite period to thirty days.

It has been found that most of the girls when asked as to why their letters are not sent to their homes, give elusive and unsatisfactory replies.

It is not uncommon for a woman to call for letters under several different names at the local office.

Local authorities say that the window privileges are much abused in Duluth and that they will welcome authority to regulate the distribution of mail.

The window was intended at the time it was established to care for those who travel about the country and have no other means of getting their mail.

Local clerks says that young girls hang around the office for hours awaiting the arrival of different trains in the hope of receiving letters and that they are not at all timid about inquiring for their mail many times during a single day.

FINAL ROUND IS REACHED

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—The chances for the women's national golf championship title to go to Great Britain were greatly increased today. Miss Dorothy Campbell of North Berwick, Scotland, the British champion, defeated Mrs. Caleb F. Fox of Philadelphia in the semi-final round of the tournament on the links of the Merion Cricket club at Haverford. The Scotch champion won by 3 up and 2 to go, in as fine an exhibition of golf as has been seen here in a long time.

Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia won her match from Miss Margery Phelps of Boston. Mrs. Barlow, on whom now depends the responsibility of trying to keep the American title on this side of the Atlantic, had an easy time of it, winning by the one-sided score of 6 up and 5 to play. The final round between Miss Campbell and Mrs. Barlow for the championship will be played tomorrow.

WAS INSURED FOR $125,000

For having his arm blown off while hunting near Moose Lake, N. D., Harry W. Fisher of this city will receive $125,000 from an accident insurance company, or whatever amount he has coming on a policy of that size.

Mr. Fisher is one of the most heavily insured men in Duluth. He evidently has made a hobby of it, for one agent said this morning that only last year he sold Mr. Fisher a $300,000 life insurance policy. He is also a great believer in the accident brand, for, although he always carried large amounts, it was only a few days ago that he took out enough extra to make the total $125,000.

The agent that sold him the accident policy said that as Mr. Fisher was wealthy and he knew that he could afford to carry a large policy he kept right after him until he had taken out the amount as stated above.

PLEADS GUILTY TO ABDUCTION

Frank Saladin, charged with the abduction of 15-year-old Ophelia Roberts from Proctor was arraigned in district court this afternoon and pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred.

Saladin took the girl from Proctor to Minneapolis. He stated that he was going to marry her. Saladin was arrested in Minneapolis and returned here for trial.

RICHEST COUNTY IN THE STATE

"Cook county is one of the richest, if not the richest, county in the state."

Thomas Bardon of Ashland, pioneer lumber operator and banker, made the above statement today. Mr. Bardon is thoroughly conversant with the conditions in Cook county, and stated that he believed that it would be only a short time before heavy lumber operations would be started there.

"The heaviest timber in the state is in Cook county," said Mr. Bardon. "I believe that timber operations will be started this winter. The time is ripe. The harvest has been good and there should be money invested in the clearing of timber. It will only be a very short time before there will be very heavy operations in that county."

Mr. Bardon is of the opinion that Duluth will receive the benefit of the timber operations in Cook county, and says that much of the lumber will be shipped to Duluth.

"I believe the Alger-Smith railroad will be extended," continued Mr. Bardon, "and this extension will enable lumber operators to get a vast amount of timber on to the rails. I think that it is only a question of time before a through road from Fort Arthur to Duluth will be constructed. This would assist the development of the lumber business. Spurs could be built and in this way a vast amount of lumber would be reached."

MURDERED MAN IS IDENTIFIED

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of the man murdered near Glyndon, Minn., Sept. 21, has been identified as that of Ray Regan, who had worked for Beck & Fowler's tannery at Detroit, Minn., for a year, until early this fall, when he went to the North Dakota harvest fields.

He was employed around Colgate and Devils Lake, N. D. It is supposed he was returning to Detroit when killed.

His clothing bore the marks "R. R." and a slip of paper contained the word "Regan."

Regan's mother is Mrs. Mathew Courtwright, and she lives at Quincy, Mich.

He has a sister, Mrs. Gertie Kellogg, at Redding, and a brother, David Regan, at Grand League, in the same state.

Negro Pounds White Woman.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 8.—The police are searching today for a negro who last night entered the home of Mrs. Alice White and kicked and beat her so that she will probably die. One of her legs is broken, and she is injured internally.

The man followed Mrs. White home, forced his way into the house and demanded that she accompany him to a place where, he said, they could smoke opium. He seemed insane. Mrs. White screamed, and the negro knocked her down and jumped upon her. He then took her purse and escaped.

Celebrates Anniversary

Yesterday was the Second Anniversary of ZENITH HOME BAKERY at 427 East Fourth Street, and I wish to extend to my many patrons thanks for the hearty support they have accorded me in building up a business. Cleanliness is one of the main essentials in building up a successful bakery business, and because the Zenith Home Bakery has always been run along those lines is due, largely, its prosperity.
The bakery and store occupies the ground floor instead of a basement, and the rooms are clean, bright and airy. The bakery had recently been inspected by the city health department and the conditions found elicited strong terms of commendation from the inspector.

New ovens, thoroughly modern equipment, sanitary methods and expert bakers are the facilities afforded in keeping the bakery up to its high standard and which have enabled it to keep pace with its increasing patronage.

Visitors are always welcome to go through the establishment and witness our methods of operation, as well as the wholesome and appetizing breads, pies, cakes, etc., always on hand. We use nothing but the purest products in our business and on the results is founded our reputation.

The Doctor Talks

Now, Mrs. Brown, I want to impress on you the necessity of giving your children nothing but food which you know to be pure.
What do they care most about in the way of meats? Oysters? Well, that's all right, provided they are Sealshipt, but I should not advise you to risk any other kind. But the Sealshipt oysters are protected from contamination. They are packed at the beds in a sealed enameled case, with the ice outside. That keeps them free from dirt and germs. The ice we use is not always above suspicion, and I should not risk letting it touch any food.
"It's better to be sure than sorry," and with Sealshipt oysters you may be sure that you are getting absolutely pure food. They are easily digested, so let the children have them as often as they like.
But, remember, nothing but Sealshipt—you mustn't take chances with children's stomachs.

WHEAT HAS AN UPTURN

The Bullish Influences Cause Fractionally Higher Prices in America.

Flax Is Slightly Higher at the End of the Session.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 8.—Wheat was strong during the latter part of the session in the American markets today, and the closing prices showed fractional gains over yesterday.

Most of the bullish news came from Argentina. Locusts are reported to be damaging the crop, and the shipments from the republic this week were only 72,000 bus, against 216,000 bus last week, and 624,000 bus a year ago.

The government report was issued late in the session and was about as expected by the trade.

The Modern Miller says:

"Most of the area devoted to winter wheat is seeded and the early sowing has a healthy growth, the well moistened soil giving it a good start. In the Southwest seeding is still generally retarded by lack of moisture."

Liverpool closed unchanged to ½d lower Berlin ⅞c higher and Budapest unchanged.

The December option closed ⅝c higher in Duluth, Minneapolis, New York and Kansas City, ¾c higher in Chicago, ½c higher in St. Louis and ⅝c higher in Winnipeg. The May option closed ½c higher in Duluth and Kansas City, ½@⅝c higher in Chicago, ⅜c higher in Minneapolis and New York, ¼@⅝c higher in St. Louis and ¼c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed 1⅝c higher and oats ¼c higher in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"On the immediate start the wheat market was steady, with values ⅛@¼d higher, due to shorts covering on the reports of locusts in Argentina and the fact of no shipments from Argentina to the United Kingdom. Spot markets were steady and generally ¼d higher. Following the opening and during the morning the market developed a heavy undertone and the support was withdrawn. Selling was in the way of realizing, prompted by the large Manitoba offerings, continued liberal Russian offerings and free offerings of new La Plata wheat. The general demand was dull, and at midday the market was easy and ⅛@⅜d lower than yesterday.

"At the start the corn market was steady and unchanged. Later, values lost ¼d on the easier American cables, liberal Argenine shipments, particularly to the United Kingdom, and the pressure of spot."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 443 against 258 last year, and at Minneapolis 428 against 527 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 871 against 785 last year. Chicago received 33 against 25 last year. Winnipeg received 708 against 528 last year.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Moderately Firm Tone Rules Pending the Government Report.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Trading in all the grain pits on the board of trade today was dull early in the session, many traders holding aloof because of the forthcoming government report. Commission houses furnished a fair demand for wheat at the start and, with only light offerings, a moderately firm tone prevailed. Argentine advices were disquieting, additional reports of locust damage being received. The high premium for cash wheat in this country was an additional bullish influence.

Prices for wheat at the opening were a shade to ⅜c higher, the December delivery being at $1.01½ to $1.01¾. Later December advanced to $1.01⅞.

The market gained additional strength as the session advanced, there being considerable buying of an influential character. The top for December was reached at $1.02⅝. Realizing sales caused a moderate reaction just before the close, but a strong tone prevailed to the finish. Final quotations on December were ¾c at $1.02⅜.

The corn market was subjected to moderate selling pressure in anticipation that the government report would be bearish. As a result, prices early in the day ranged a trifle below the previous close. Easy cables and larger receipts than expected were also bearish factors. The December delivery opened unchanged to ⅜c lower, at 56⅞@57¼c, and for a time held within that range.

Sharp bulge in prices occurred following the publication of the government crop report which showed a deterioration of more than a point on the crop condition. December advanced to 59c. The close was strong with December 1⅝c higher at 58⅝c.

Oats were rather weak on selling, brought out by talk of larger receipts within a few days. Slack demand for the cash grain also depressed prices. The December option opened ⅛c lower, at 35½c, and sold at 38⅝c.

Provisions were firm because of moderate receipts of live hogs. The bulk of trade was in the nearby products. Prices at the opening were 2½c to 5c higher.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 8.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 9 points, based on bullish Liverpool cables. A government warning that a tropical storm was central in the Gulf of Mexico, and that a cold wave was expected in the Southwest tonight, were factors in the advance. After the opening, prices eased off 5 to 6 points, under active profit-taking and a bear raid, but good demand appeared from New England mills and leading speculative interests trading was very active and general. Late in the morning the market was steady and 2 to 3 points net higher. After advancing to a level 10 points above the final prices of last night, the cotton market quieted down at noon and eased off 3 or 4 points. Profit-taking by room bulls and a withdrawal of speculative support were the cause.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points lower; middling uplands, 13.55; middling gulf, 13.80; sales, 1,300 bales. Cotton futures closed weak; closing bids: October, 13.16; November, 13.12; December, 13.22; January, 13.30; February, 13.18; March, 13.27; April, 13.28; May, 13.31; June, 13.28; July, 13.26; April, 12.93; September, 12.20.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Closing Prices Were Near the Lowest Level of the Week.

Market Opened Lower, Advanced, But Declined Under Large Offerings.

New York, Oct. 8.—The stock market opened slightly higher, but at about the prices of last night. Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Wabash preferred, Central Leather and American Beet Sugar large fractions. Pacific Telephone declined 1, and Canadian Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Anaconda ⅜.

The market gained strength after the opening, New York Central advancing 1⅛ and the Pacific, Reading and United States Steel additional fractions. Large offerings of United States Steel, Union Pacific and Reading came on the market later, and there were many reactions of a point or more.

United States Steel receded from 89⅞ to 88¼, and Union Pacific from 207⅛ to 205⅝. Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie and Pacific Telephone fell 2 points under yesterday's closing. Canadian Pacific and General Electric 1¾. St. Louis Southwestern 1½, and Erie second preferred and Southern Railway preferred 1.

There were some recoveries in the market towards 11 o'clock. Atchison preferred gained a point.

Prices reacted over an uncertain range. Minneapolis & St. Louis, St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, American Can preferred, United States Rubber and Western Union all lost about a point. Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis rose 2 and American Woolen 1. Bonds were irregular.

The general list seemed to derive but little benefit from the marking up of Chesapeake & Ohio, which touched 90. United States Steel got back to 89, and several of the railroad stocks also recovered a good fraction, but rallies were not held and the market was running off at 1 o'clock. Chesapeake & Ohio fell back a point. Lackawanna jumped 12½ and reacted 5. Louisville & Nashville lost 1½ and Great Northern preferred 1.

The market closed irregular and greatly unsettled. There was further liquidation of Union Pacific, Reading and United States Steel. The two former lost 2½@2⅝, United States Steel and Louisville & Nashville 2, Canadian Pacific and general electric 3¼, and many others a point or more. At these declines prices were at the lowest level of the week. There was enough demand from shorts for covering to work some rally, but the tone was feverish on the recovery.

FIFTEEN KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 8.—Fifteen railroad laborers, ten of whom were Mexicans, were killed, and ten men were injured in a Santa Fe wreck this afternoon at the outskirts of this city.

The work train was backing into the city and on a curve hit an outbound oil train. The wreckage is piled on the track and many of the dead and injured are under the debris.

The crew of the work train caused the wreck by disregarding orders.

Our own wires to the Copper country. Also connections to Eastern Markets.

We are on the way to one of the biggest bull copper share markets that this town has ever seen, and these are my reasons: First, Four of our mines are making good. And where are they? In Butte, Montana. The Butte-Alex Scott, Butte-Balaklava, Tuolumne and Butte & Superior. Stick to stocks of great possibilities which have already proven the value to be there and you will make money. What is the use of putting your cash into dead ones or into propositions with a great amount of stock issued when you can make several times as much money on such mines as I mention above and which have only a limited number of shares.

We are not trying to boom any particular stock. I have sold you a lot of Butte & Superior and you have made a lot of money on the same. I was the first broker to advise you to buy Ballaklava and I am proud of the fact, for, as sure as you live, this one will be one of the biggest producers in Butte. Is there any man who ever knew a time when I did not praise the Ballaklava mine?

You will notice how bullish I am on Butte-Alex Scott. Why shouldn't I be when the mine is one of the very best on Butte Hill and when the company has only 100,000 shares issued?

I have handled many stocks and have called your attention to a lot of them, but never in my life have I advised the purchase of one for so little money on which you should make several times what shares are selling at today. I look for Butte-Alex Scott stock some day to sell up to $80 a share. I give my opinion for these reasons: The Scott ledges are very wide and carry high grade ore to the 3,000-foot level and this has been proven by the High Ore mine above us. The West Colusa at our side and whose drifts connect with our property has been worked for 21 years. In places they have had as much as 18 feet of copper glance on the hanging wall in a vein 80 feet wide. The West Colusa has proven the Scott ledges on lower levels. Do you think such men as Capt. Dawson and others do not know what surrounding mines have done in the way of proving this property? What have the Leonard and the Minnie Healy done? Have they not also worked those same ledges? The Leonard is working some of the same veins and has proven them right up to the Scott end lines. In the Scott mine from the Sunnyside claim you can hear the miners of the Amalgamated blasting only a short distance from drifts in our property and almost up to our end lines.

If it is evidence you want regarding the value of the Scott property we certainly have it. No proposition before the people was ever any cleaner. You all stand to make a lot of money on this issue and I look for the shares to sell above $50.00. A few rounds of holes in high-grade ore and the story is told.

You already have a big mine and it is now only a question of how many times bigger it is going to be. Look at the market. We have buying orders from every section for these shares. Look how strong they are getting. People are switching other stocks into the Scotts and why should they not?

Let me give you a little tip. You get busy tomorrow and buy some St. Mary stock. I told you it was getting ready for a big advance. You watch the board and see.

Scott full paid closed $9.50 bid; part paid $5.50 bid. Ballaklava, $10.25 bid, and Butte & Superior $2.75 bid.

We have the best wire in the Northwest. We can give you service. Give us your business.

We have a big market on Butte & Superior and the others.

HIS TITLE ATTACKED

Right of Lord Macdonald to His Peerage Is Assailed.

Legality of a Gretna Green Marriage Enters Into the Case.

London, Oct. 8.—A very remarkable peerage case, involving the legality of a Gretna Green marriage, will shortly be heard in the Scottish court. It will be brought at the instance of Alexander Bosville of Thorpe hall, Bridlington Quay, Yorkshire, who challenges the right of the present Lord Macdonald, otherwise known as the "Lord of the Isles," to his peerage and estates.

The origin of the dispute goes back to the opening years of the last century, when the third Lord Macdonald made a romantic marriage with the daughter of the duke of Gloucester and Lady Almeria Carpenter, daughter of the last marquis of Tyrconnel.

This lady, who went by the name of Farley Edsir, died in Hollyrood palace, where she had rooms, in the early part of the century. Lord Macdonald and the lady fled to Gretna Green, where they were married. They had two children, a son and a daughter. The daughter became Countess Hopetoun, and was the great-grandmother of the present Lord Linlithgow.

After the birth of her two children, Lady Macdonald acquired religious scruples and insisted on being remarried in the Church of England. By some curious legal quibble this action apparently caused the former marriage to become null, and deprived the two elder children of the advantage of having been born in wedlock. The elder son, Alexander Macdonald, took the name of Bosville on inheriting from a relative large estates in Yorkshire.

The second son, Godfrey, who was born in 1809, after the marriage in England, succeeded to the peerage and the estates in Skye. He was succeeded by his eldest son, Somerles, on whose death in Edinburgh thirty-five years ago the title passed to his younger brother, Ronald Macdonald, who now holds it.

The claimant in the case now to be heard is the grandson of the disinherited Alexander Macdonald, or Bosville; and he raises the question whether the second or religious marriage ceremony did indeed deprive his grandfather of the right to be considered the eldest legitimate son of the third Lord Macdonald. A very interesting case is anticipated.

The sisters of the present Lord Macdonald are Lady Napier of Magdala, Lillian, countess of Cromarty, and Mrs. Anthony Andy. Lord Macdonald married Miss Louisa Ross, daughter of the late Col. Ross of Cromarty, and has a family of three sons and one daughter.

Remarkable dietetic experiments have been conducted in a Yorkshire workhouse during the last few months, with the object of reducing the superfluous weight of two aged but exceedingly fat paupers. With such success has the "cure" been carried out that in sixteen weeks the patients have each lost forty pounds, and at the same time gained in health and strength.

For fifteen years Henry Williamson and Joseph Kemp have been inmates of the Keighley workhouse. Both men possessed insatiable appetites, and in addition to their own food, were always on the lookout for any crusts of bread or odds and ends left at meal times by the other inmates, and yet they were always hungry.

Both men suffered from ailments which prevented them from taking exercise or doing much work. This fact and their Gargantuan appetites led to a steady increase in girth. Kemp, who is 60 years of age, at one time weighed nearly 280 pounds, and Williamson, who is 77, became so stout that he could only walk with difficulty.

The workhouse medical officer ultimately decided that for the benefit of their general health they would have to undergo an anti-fat cure, and the old men were placed on a special dietary. The men, however, got surreptitious samples of food from other inmates, and Dr. Gabriel then had the patients placed in an isolation ward of the workhouse infirmary.

The nurses made them understand that what was being done was solely for their benefit, and after a few days the men, who at first resented the treatment, fell in with the doctor's proposal.

Three meals a day were allowed them, the dietary including brown bread, green vegetables, watercress and stewed mint. Potatoes, sugar and fat in any form were strictly forbidden. The efficacy of Dr. Gabriel's treatment exceeded expectation.

In an interview recently the old men expressed their delight at being rid of their superfluous burdens. Kemp hopes to reduce his weight by yet another stone before the month is out, and Williamson is also anxious to continue the doctor's treatment.

"It was overfeeding that made me what I was," said Kemp, "and I shall take care not to eat like I did again. It did me no good and life was becoming a burden."

And yet if religion is really dying out in France, certain facts give rise to the belief that the ancient faith is not entirely dead as yet. We are a curiously contradictory people. We are not so black as we are painted.

President Fallieres, for instance, has a daughter. She was recently married amid great pomp and splendor in the magnificent Church of the Madeleine. All the rites of religion were inexorably observed. Now our president is a grandfather, and elaborate preparations are on foot for a baptism in the same famous church.

President Loubet, our ex-president, while busy signing decrees exiling priests and nuns, pretended not to see his wife's rich gifts of Gobelin tapestries and Sevres to the pope of Rome.

When the famous Socialist, Jean Jaures, was upbraided by his fellow Socialists for permitting his children to attend Sunday school, he replied pathetically that he was more afraid of his wife than of his order.

M. Clementel, a prominent member of the Combes ministry, married Madame Rigley-Knowles in most ostentatious religious fashion, and while the priest-eating Combes himself was busy chasing the nuns of France from their convent homes, his daughter was all the while being coached in her catechism by the marquise de Wentworth, an American woman, for her first communion.

Little Loubet goes to catechism at the old church of St. Philippe de Roule, and Waldeck-Rousseau, who introduced the first bill against religious orders, received the holy offices of the church on his deathbed.

The Clemenceau ministry protested because the church refused Christian burial for one of its members, and I now hear that the new minister, Briand, himself will attend the ceremony of baptism of President Fallieres' little grandchild.

So, you see, there must be still some religion left in France.

We have just had another proof of the adaptability of the American girl in Miss Flora Wilson of Washington. After long and arduous preparation by that king of taskmakers, Jean de Reszke, Miss Wilson has taken her society friends by storm in the announcement of a forthcoming tour throughout the United States.

Miss Flora Wilson, you may know, is the daughter of that sturdy old Scot from Iowa, the minister of agriculture under McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Flora Wilson has been seen constantly in society in Paris, ofttimes in company with Miss Evelyn Walsh, now Mrs. McLean of Washington. She is also a friend of Miss Fannie Reed.

Nimrods and Fishermen of Upper Peninsula to Pull Together.

Munising, Mich., Oct. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the meeting of upper peninsula sportsmen, held here this week, about fifty were present, and the organization of an Upper Peninsula Sportsmen's association was perfected. The object of this association is chiefly to make a united stand for the better protection of fish and game in the upper peninsula. Much interest was manifested at the meeting, and plans for work at the next session of the legislature are to be made at once. The following were the officers elected: President, T. B. Wyman of Munising; first vice president, Paul Swift of Houghton; second vice president, John Scheuster of Manistique, and secret

"I have no words with which to express my grief at the untimely taking off of this truly great and good man, whom it was our privilege to know so well. While we mourn his loss in a personal sense, it is particularly unfortunate for the country at the present time, when a condition presents itself that all thinking men, whatever their party affiliations may be, must deplore, of a political party

FETE CLOSES AT ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Oct. 9.—The week long celebration of St. Louis' centennial anniversary as an incorporated community ended today and there was a noticeable "last day" feeling. Dull, threatening weather, accompanied by a strong wind, caused the abandonment of all aviation events until dusk. The air navigators announced that they would make no attempt to carry out the program then unless conditions bettered.

The chief outdoor events were an automobile parade, in which more than 1,000 runabouts, roadsters, touring cars and other motor-driven vehicles took part, and the dedication ceremonies by which the old fair grounds race track inclosure was formally turned over to the city as a public park.

Too Windy for Curtiss.

Word had gone out last night that Glenn H. Curtiss would make a flight early today and would attempt to demonstrate the ability of his machine to keep in the air for an extended period. Several thousand persons were at Forest park at daylight and waited there several hours, until convinced by the low scudding clouds that aviation was out of the question.

One of the important contests of the week is scheduled for the hour before sunset, when four dirigible balloons will match speed over a triangular course of two miles. The entrants are Thomas Baldwin, Roy Knabenshue, Lincoln Beachy and Cromwell Dixon. The last named has not been in the air this week, and the possibilities of his aerostat are not widely known. The winner of the race is to receive $1,000, and the second man half that sum.

This evening theer will be a "get together" banquet at the Coliseum, in which all civic and commercial bodies of the city will unite to discuss the welfare of the municipality.

COOK WELCOMED BY CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, North Pole discoverer, arrived in Cincinnati from Chicago at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

He was met at the station by a committee of citizens and escorted in an automobile parade through the principal streets to the Sinton hotel, where he was formally welcomed by Mayor Galvin. The program for Dr. Cook today included an automobile ride through the city by the Aero club, under whose auspices he delivers a lecture in Music hall tonight, dinner at the Queen City club, and a reception at the Business Men's club.

Mrs. Cook was the guest of a committee composed of prominent society women.

LATEST ENTRY IN NEW YORK'S RACE

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

HARD FIGHT IN GOTHAM

New York, Oct. 9.—W. R. Hearst's entry into the contest for mayor of Greater New York attracted widespread attention today, and marked the opening or what is expected to be a stirring, hard-fought campaign. The main issue as defined by Mr. Hearst is whether the control of the city government by Tammany hall is to be maintained or overthrown.

The Civic alliance, under whose auspices Mr. Hearst will run, began today the circulation of petitions for the nomination of Mr. Hearst on an independent ticket. The acquisition of the required number of signatures will be an easy task.

Anti-Tammany men say that even if Justice William J. Gaynor, the Democratic nominee, is elected, they will accomplish the real political defeat of Tammany if they put in office the nominee on either the Republic or the Civic alliance lists below the head of the ticket.

"Gaynor Against Tammany."

A Tammany mayor, they say, would be nearly powerless without control of the various boards operating the city government. At the same time, they point to Judge Gaynor's recent refusal to accept responsibility for the minor candidates on the ticket with him, as evidence that if elected without his associates on the ticket, he will refuse to stand as a Tammany mayor.

For these reasons unusual attention is being concentrated on the minor nominees. There is little doubt that Mr. Hearst's ticket will contain nearly all, if not all, of the candidates for the city officers below that of mayor already nominated by the Republican-Fusion convention.

FIFTY MEN HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Ballston, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Fifty workmen bound from Ballston to Schenectady were injured today, many of them badly, in a collision between trolley cars on the Schnectady electric railway here.

The collision was due to a fog and took place at the outlet station south of Ballston.

The fifty workmen were all in one car and not one of them escaped injury. The motorman was fatally crushed. The injured men were removed to hospitals in Schenectady and Saratoga.

PUT IT ALL UP TO TAFT

Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 9.—Whether there shall be representatives of the negro race at the Taft banquet here, Oct. 12, is a question the president, or some member of his party, will be called upon to decide.

A committee representing the Afro-American league called upon the committee and demanded that two negroes be given places at the banquet. E. Toff, chairman, referred the matter to the executive committee, which will first ascertain Mr. Taft's wishes.

Governor Gives In.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 9.—After refusing to be present at the meeting of Presidents Taft and Diaz here next week, because President Taft had not included the state capital in his itinerary, Governor T. M. Campbell telegraphed the committee last night that he would be present, arriving the day before the meeting. Much feeling had been aroused because of the governor's refusal to take the part assigned him.

Honors for Diaz.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 9.—When President Diaz of Mexico reaches Chihuahua Wednesday, on his way to El Paso, where he will meet President Taft, he will be presented with an immense silver key to the city. Like a Greek hero returning from victory, the president of the Southern republic also will be presented with a silver platter bearing three silver cups. These cups, appropriately engraved with Greek letters, will contain wine, salt and water, symbolical of the conqueror.

Expect American Protest.

Tokio, Oct. 9.—Special dispatches from London received here insist that the United States is preparing to make a vigorous protest against the recent agreement between China and Japan in relation to Manchurian affairs.

GETS FIRED FOR TALKING

Paris, Oct. 9.—Gen. A. G. L. d'Amade having acknowledged both orally and by thelegraph the substantial authority of the interview published Oct. 7, in which he declared the time had arrived for France to call a halt on Spin5s penetration of Morocco, War Minister Brun has placed him on the retired list.

This action was taken after a meeting of the cabinet at which it was unanimously declared to be improper for an officer of the army to express his opinions on foreign politics. It is understood that Foreign Minister Pinchon told the cabinet he would resign unless Gen. d'Amade was punished.

An official note published today says d'Amade says that he is ready to bow to the decision of the government.

WAR TALK HAS STIRRED BERLIN

Berlin, Oct. 9.—The speeches recently attributed to Lord Northcliffe, Admiral Lord Charles Beresford and Earl Gray, governor-general of Canada, together with various magazine articles dealing with the relations of Great Britain and Germany, have been widely reproduced and commented upon in this country.

The prevailing note is one of apprehension that a regular campaign has been originated for the purpose of depriving Germany of the good will of the United States and nourishing the idea that Germany is threatening Great Britain.

The German commentators point out that all the suggestions of coming trouble between Germany and Great Britain came from the British side. Apprehension is expressed also over the growth of the war party in Great Britain. This party today is small, but it is influential, and fed with doubts and misrepresentations and extravagant and fanciful accounts of Germany's aims, it is gathering strength.

An official effort is being made to restrain German comment upon these speeches and articles, with the idea of avoiding the production of material for irritating discussions.

SMASHES AIR RECORD

College Park, Md., Oct. 9.—With practically a dead calm settled over College Park, Wilbur Wright today broke the world's record for speed in an aeroplane over a 500-metre course, including a turn beyond the course, his time being 58 3-5 seconds, or twenty seconds less than that made by Delagrange over a similar course in France. Mr. Wright attained a speed of forty-six miles an hour for the distance.

As Wright left the starting point, Lieut. Lahm took the time. Wright made the 500 metres in the direction of Washington with a slight wind to his back in 24 1-5 seconds.

He returned in 24¾ seconds. So much did the aviator urge the machine with all the power turned on that the machine bobbed perceptibly more than during his slower flights yesterday.

Many Short Flights.

Wright and his army aeronautical pupils, taking advantage of the splendid flying weather this morning, started out with the government aeroplane at the special aviation field here, and made numerous short flights.

The aviator attempted to get the aeroplane up in the air without the use of the weights and starting apparatus. This, however, resulted in a failure.

Cody's Engines Fail.

Aldershot, Eng., Oct. 9.—Capt. F. S. Cody, the American aeroplanist in the service of the British army, made two attempts to fly to London this morning, but because his engines were not working satisfactorily, he decided to abbandon the effort.

OCEAN RATES NOT ABOVE ORDINARY

Liverpool, Oct. 9.—Liverpool ship owners were questioned today regarding the report that trans-Atlantic freight rates from American ports would be increased. The owners declared that any present hardening in the eastbound rates was nothing more than the normal one which always occurs in the fall of the year, when cotton and grain cargoes are moving and more tonnage is required. Nothing unusual, it was said, has happened, or is anticipated in the direction of a general and permanent increase in rates.

BASEBALL EXTRA!

TIGERS, 7; PIRATES, 2

Detroit Takes Second Game of the World's Series From the Pittsburg Team.

Score:										R.	H.	E.
Detroit	0	2	3	0	2	0	0	0	0	7	9	3

Batteries: Donovan and Schmidt; Camnitz, Willis and Gibson.

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—It was an entirely different story today—entirely different—and the 30,000 or more wildly enthusiastic fans who came to Forbes field to see the second game of the world series between the Pittsburg Nationals and the Detroit Americans heard only groans from the Pirate supporters in place of the wild yells that yesterday told of the victory. For today was Tiger day, and the score at the end of the game stood, Detroit, 7; Pittsburg, 2.

Only for one brief inning did the Pittsburg rooters have the semblance of a fulfillment of their hopes of two successive victories. The game opened with a blank for Detroit, and the first inning ended with the score 2 to 0 for Pittsburg. It looked like easy money. But in the second Detroit got two runs for herself on Schmidt's double, which sent Moriarity and T. Jones safely across the plate, and the score was tied.

Then Camnitz Blew Up.

The third inning was one of disaster for the Pirates, for Camnitz, on whom Manager Clarke had depended to keep up the pace set by young Charley Adams yesterday, blew up badly and Detroit quickly filled the bases with nobody out. Clarke and Wagner gave the pitcher a bit of straight talk and left him on the rubber, and he gave Crawford only a useless fly to short left which Clarke promptly gobbled. But Delehanty, the next man up, whanged out a single to center that let D. Jones and Bush trot home and sent Cobb to third and Delehanty himself to second on Leach's throw to catch Cobb.

Then Camnitz was pulled out and Willis sent in, but on the first ball Willis pitched Cobb stole home, making the third and last run for the inning. Pittsburg came to the bat in her turn, but was blanked once again.

Series of Blanks.

The fourth, fifth and sixth innings were barren of additions to the score of either side, though in the sixth the Pirates got Wagner safely on first on a bad throw of a grounder from Donovan to T. Jones. Wagner was caught stealing third, however, and there was nothing doing in the score line.

Seven and eight also brought no additions for either team, and the ninth was like unto them, leaving the final score at 7 to 2 in favor of Detroit.

It was another perfect baseball day, and an immense crowd was present. The sun shone brightly and hardly a breath of air was stirring. It was decided today that the Pittsburg club would wait until tomorrow morning before leaving for Detroit to play the third and fourth games of the series. There was some talk of Pittsburg's leaving on the National commission's special tonight, but Clark decided it would be better to make the day trip.

Managers Jennings and Clarke and Umpires Klem and Evans held the usual conference just prior to the start of the game and discussed the ground rules. Practically all of the field was clear, and there seemed likely to be little need for ground rules. Umpire Evans, who is working behind the plate, announced the batteries as Donovan and Schmidt for Detroit, and Camnitz and Gibson for Pittsburg.

Following was the line-up:

Detroit.	Pittsburg.
Jones (D.), lf.	Byrne, 3b.
Bush, ss.	Leach, cf.
Cobb, rf.	Clarke, lf.
Crawford, cf.	Wagner, ss.
Delehanty, 2b.	Miller, 2b.
Moriarity, 3b.	Abstein, 1b.
T. Jones, 1b.	Wilson, rf.
Schmidt, c.	Gibson, c.
Donovan, p.	Camnitz, p.

Umpires—Evans behind bat; Klem on bases.

First Inning.

Detroit—D. Jones beat out a hit to Wagner. Bush sacrificed, Camnitz to Abstein, D. Jones going to second. On a hit and run signal Cobb failed to hit, and D. Jones was caught stealing third, Gibson to Byrne. Byrne was slightly spiked by Jones at third, and the game was delayed for one minute. Cobb out, Miller to Abstein. No runs.

Pittsburg—Byrne drew a base on balls. Leach doubled to right, scoring Byrne. Clarke sacrificed Donovan to T. Jones, sending Leach to third. Wagner struck out. Miller drove a two bagger which he tried to stretch to a home run but under the ground rules both umpires decided it was only good for two bases, so only Leach's score counted, Miller returning to second base. Schmidt dropped Abstein's high but easy foul, Schmidt getting an error. Abstein struck out. Two runs. Score Detroit 0, Pittsburg 2.

Second Inning.

Detroit—Crawford struck out. Delehanty was out Wagner to Abstein. Moriarity singled to left. T. Jones singled to left, sending Moriarity to third. On a hit and run play Schmidt doubled to center, scoring Moriarity and T. Jones. Donovan struck out. Two runs.

Pittsburg—Wilson out, Donovan to T. Jones. Gibson walked. In attempting to sacrifice, Camnitz bunted to Moriarity, Gibson stole second on a high throw by Schmidt. Byrne struck out. No runs. Score—Detroit, 2; Pittsburg, 2.

Third Inning.

Detroit—D. Jones was safe when Abstein muffed Byrne's assist on a bunt along third-base line. Bush singled to left, sending D. Jones to second. Cobb drew a base on balls, filling the bases, and no one out.

It appeared as if Camnitz was to be taken out, as both Clarke and Wagner began talking to him, but he was given another chance.

Crawford flied to Clarke in short left, and D. Jones did not attempt to score from third. Delehanty singled to center, scoring D. Jones and Bush, sending Cobb to third and taking second on Leach's throw to third to catch Cobb.

Willis was sent in to pitch for Pittsburg.

Cobb stole home on the first ball pitched by Willis, making a remarkable slide for the plate. Moriarity drew a base on balls. T. Jones hit a bounder to Willis, and Delehanty was forced at third, Willis to Byrne. Schmidt flied to Clarke. Three runs.

Pittsburg—Leach doubled along the left field foul line. Clarke flied to Crawford in deep center, and Leach did not try for third after the catch. Wagner fouled to Schmidt. Miller struck out. No runs. Score: Detroit. 5; Pittsburg, 2.

Fourth Inning.

Detroit—Donovan went out, Byrne to Abstein. D. Jones was out the same way and Bush was called out on strikes. No runs.

Fifth Inning.

Detroit—Abstein made a great one-handed stop of Cobb's bounder over first base and beat Cobb to the bag. Crawford doubled along the left field foul line. Delehanty drew a base on balls and Moriarity popped to Abstein. T. Jones walked, filling the bases. Schmidt singled to center, scoring Crawford and Delehanty, but T. Jones was caught at third, Leach to Byrne. Two runs.

Pittsburg—Byrne flied to Crawford. Leach went out, Moriarity to T. Jones, and Clarke went out, Donovan to T. Jones. No runs. Score, Detroit 7, Pittsburg 2.

Sixth Inning.

Detroit—Donovan out, Miller to Abstein. D. Jones flied to Leach. Bush drew a base on balls, but was caught stealing second, Gibson to Wagner. No runs.

Series of Blanks.

Pittsburg—Wagner rolled a grounder to Donovan, but the Detroit pitcher made a bad throw to T. Jones and Wagner was safe. Miller went out, Bush to T. Jones, Wagner taking second on the out. Abstein struck out and Wagner was caught stealing third, Schmidt to Moriarity, the latter making a great one-handed catch. No runs. Score Detroit 7, Pittsburg 2.

Seventh Inning.

Detroit—Cobb singled over second for his first hit of the series. Crawford out, Miller to Asteln. Cobb tried to make a third on the infield out, but was caught, Abstein to Byrne, for a double play. Delehanty struck out. No runs.

Pittsburg—Delehanty fumbled Wilson's grounder, and the latter was safe at first. Gibson out, Bush to T. Jones, and Wilson caught going to third, T. Jones to Moriarity, duplicating the double play made on Detroit in this inning. Willis struck out. No runs. Score—Detroit, 7; Pittsburg, 2.

Eighth Inning.

Detroit—Moriarity sent a high fly to Clarke. T. Jones was out, Wagner to Abstein and Schmidt out, Miller to Abstein. No runs.

Pittsburg—Byrne popped to Delehanty. Leach was out, Donovan to T. Jones and Clarke popped to Delehanty. No runs. Score—Detroit, 7; Pittsburg, 2.

Ninth Inning.

Detroit—Donovan was out, Willis to Abstein. D. Jones popped to Willis and Bush flied to Leach. No runs.

Pittsburg—Wagner beat out a hit to T. Jones and stole second without any opposition. Miller was out, Delehanty to T. Jones, Wagner to third. Abstein struck out and Wilson flied to Crawford. No runs. Final score—Detroit, 7; Pittsburg, 2.

DEMAND FOR PROTECTION

English Free Trade Theories Are Crumbling, Says John Panton.

Surprising Growth of Protective Ideas in Tight Little Isle.

The most striking feature of the industrial situation in Great Britain at the present time, according to John Panton of the Panton & White company, who returned yesterday from a trip to England, is the increasing demand for protection that is agitating the English people.

Mr. Panton says there is a growing demand for protection, caused by a belief in England that the country is losing its supremacy as a manufacturing center, and that the solution of this waning industrial prestige, is the raising of a tariff wall against the volume of manufactured goods that are pouring into Great Britain.

There are many instances, according to Mr. Panton, where the English government imposes a tax upon goods that are manufactured in Great Britain. Then, after paying this tax, the manufacturers have to meet the competition of the manufactured goods that are pouring into the country, unhindered, as a result of the free trade conditions.

Mr. Panton talked with English manufacturers who informed him that manufacturers of Great Britain were coming to this country, as they believed the conditions over here were much more favorable to profit-making. He heard of one large Scotch manufacturer of woolen goods who was shipping his modern machinery to Paterson, N. J., intending to devote his greatest efforts to the newly established American plant. The plant that is operated in Scotland will be simply devoted to local trade.

"Goods are pouring in from Germany, France and the United States," said Mr. Panton, "and it is the belief of many of the Englishmen that a tariff is the only means to save England from losing its place as a manufacturing country. I was very much surprised at the sentiment over there in favor of a protective tariff. Protection has been agitated for some years as we all are aware of, but now the agitation is giving away to a widespread demand, and I believe that England will have a protective tariff against the invasion of manufactured goods that are selling in England, in many instances, for less than the English manufacturers can manufacture them.

"It is a very grave and serious problem. It is the most serious problem that the English people have to deal with at the present time. It surprises the average American who has always associated the Englishman with free trade ideas, to hear the sentiment that is being aired in England today."

Mr. Panton says that there is no comparison between London and "Little Old New York." There are more electric lights between the Battery and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, according to Mr. Panton, than there are in the entire city of London, and when the ship sails under the friendly lee of the statue of liberty, Mr. Panton says there is a warm feeling around the heart that makes a man glad he is an American.

MARINE

MUCH LOWER THAN FOR YEARS PAST

According to Lake Survey Report Superior Is Much Below Average.

The United States Lake Survey reports the stages of the Great Lakes for the month of September, 1909, as follows:

Lakes—	Feet Above Tide-water, New York.
Superior	602.39
Michigan-Huron	580.82
Erie	572.38
Ontario	246.29

Since last month, Lake Superior has fallen ¼ inch, Lakes Michigan and Huron 2¾ inches, Lake Erie 5 inches, and Lake Ontario 6½ inches.

During October, Lake Superior is likely to fall ¾ inch, Lake Michigan and Huron 2¾ inches, Lake Erie 3 inches, and Lake Ontario 4¼ inches.

Lake Superior is 9 inches lower than the average September stage of the past ten years and about 4½ inches lower than last year. It is 8 inches higher than in September, 1891, but 13½ inches lower than in September, 1899, and 11¼ inches lower than in September, 1905.

Lakes Michigan and Huron are 2½ inches lower than the average September stage of the past ten years and 5½ inches lower than last year, but 13 inches higher than in September, 1896. In September, 1885, the water was 29 inches higher.

Lake Erie is exactly at the mean September stage of the past ten years and 3½ inches lower than in September of last year, but is 13¼ inches higher than in 1895. It is 18¾ inches lower than in September, 1876, and 17 inches lower than in September, 1885.

Lake Ontario is 5 inches higher than the average September stage of the past ten years, but 10¼ inches lower than in September last year. In 1870, it was 12 inches higher, and in 1883 it was 13 inches higher than in 1909. In September, 1895, it was 27¼ inches lower than this year.

BOATS SCARCE IN GRAIN TRADE

Duluth and Chicago Shippers Unable to Get Much Tonnage.

Grain carriers are in good demand all around, but little tonnage is coming out at the figures offered by the shippers and they will have to bid up to get much capacity. With the carrying charges about equal the vesselmen prefer ore and the local shippers are having the call on the tonnage.

From Duluth to Buffalo 2 cents for prompt loading is freely offered on wheat and big carriers are wanted at South Chicago at 1½ cent on corn. The Lake Michigan shippers have not been able to get any tonnage in the local market at the advanced rate and only one charter for the Lake Superior trade was reported here this week. A steamer of 300,000 bushels' capacity was placed Thursday at 2 cents.

There will not be much free capacity in the Cleveland market this month as most of the outside tonnage has been lined up. Most of the owners turned down grain cargoes during the past few days and some of them will have about all they can do to take care of their contracts during the balance of the season.

The leading ore shippers are in the market for tonnage, and chartering in that trade has been very active during the past ten days. Steamers that have had to wait around for coal all season are now coming back light and the vessels are being placed as fast as they get around without trouble.

The supply of tonnage is not as liberal as it was a few weeks ago and the decrease is very largely due to dispatch, which has let up all around. Through bad weather and low water, freighters are spending more time in port. There has been considerable delay on account of thick weather and the low water has made a big difference in the capacity of the fleet. Big steamers are carrying from 300 to 400 tons less than they were a month ago.

A number of short grain cargoes have been reported at Buffalo, and vessels in that trade are not getting very good dispatch. The lumber trade is in about the same shape it has been for the past week.

Offerings of coal tonnage are not as liberal as they were, but the shippers are not having any trouble getting boats. A number of wild cargoes were offered during the past few days.

LONG TOUR IN AN AUTOMOBILE

Duluth Party Covers More Than 1,400 Miles in Ten Days.

After having motored more than 1,400 miles in ten days, Edward T. Buxton of 2626 Greysolon road is home, enthusiastic over touring the country by automobile.

Mr. Buxton started from his summer cottage at Deerwood in company with him son, Edward T. Jr., and first went to Minneapolis where Arthur E. Gilbert was made the third member of the party.

A tour was then made through Southeastern Minnesota, Northeastern Iowa, and Illinois to Chicago, Northern Indiana, through Ohio to Toledo, from there to Cleveland and from Cleveland to Buffalo, from which point the machine was shipped back to Duluth.

This distance was covered in ten days. There was no trouble of any kind and the 600 miles through New York at the end of the tour was made on "Minnesota air" as Mr. Buxton put it this morning.

The party was gone about three weeks, but the additional time was spent touring New York state.

SOME ONE'S CRAZY, SAYS FRAMSTAD

Maybe It's Himself and Maybe the Public---He Wants to Know.

"Either I'm crazy or the public is crazy," said Hans Framstad when he walked into the police station this morning. "Investigate me first and then if I'm not crazy, investigate the public."

The police decided that Framstad must be the crazy one, for they haven't noticed any particular signs of insanity in the public lately, excepting those signs which P. T. Barnum pointed out many years ago. Mr. Framstad was given a ride in the gasoline propelled Maria and was landed in the county jail, where he is now being held pending an examination.

Framstad is believed to be crazy because he thinks he's crazy. One wouldn't think to look at him that his mind was unbalanced, but the police figure that a man who thinks he is crazy must be crazy or he wouldn't have such crazy thoughts. If Mr. Framstad doesn't get over the hallucination, he is in a direct line for a trip to Fergus Falls.

Framstad is well known around Duluth, having lived here for five or six years past. He is about 30 years old, unmarried and somewhat given to flirting with the flowing bowl, it is said.

The operations for the capture of "Willie Boy" have assumed a warlike aspect, and in making preparations for the desperate battle expected today Sheriff Ralphs established a field hospital.

WANTS TO BUILD SIBERIAN ROADS

St. Petersburg, Oct. 9.—The extraordinary budget of the ministry of railroads has been submitted to the duma. It calls for $31,100,000 for new construction in 1910. All of this amount, with the exception of $163,000, will be expended in Siberia and on the Amur railroad. The sum of $11,500,000 is allotted to the railroad line around Lake Baikal, and $12,500,000 to double track the Trans-Siberian.

JURY TRIALS NEXT WEEK

Court Expects to Dispose of Many Cases in Three Weeks.

Hearing of Criminal Cases Will Be Begun Week From Monday.

The trial of jury cases will begin in district court Monday morning, when the petit jury for the October term will report. The case of Fred O. Clark vs. the Wisconsin Central Railway company is first on call and it will be followed by the case of Lydia Becker vs. Martin Rosendahl. It is expected all three courtrooms will be put into use Monday morning and will continue in use for the entire term.

There are four divorce cases remaining on the call, but they are all expected to be short, and they will be rushed through to give place to the jury cases.

There is to be but a little over three weeks of the October term, for the county will move into the new courthouse the latter part of this month and court will adjourn early. It is expected that if the attorneys have their cases ready for trial as soon as they are called, nearly the entire calendar can be disposed of during the remainder of the month, with three judges acting.

No criminal cases will be tried during the coming week, but the cases on the October criminal calendar will be taken up a week from Monday and will be tried one after another until they are all disposed of. It is expected they will take a week or ten days and then the pending murder cases will be taken up. It is not thought all of them can be disposed of this month. Victor Matel will be tried again first and then Mike Rossi. By the time Rossi's trial is over, it is thought the county will move and the other cases will be heard in the new building.

The July term of district court on the range is all over and preparations are being made for the opening of the October term, Oct. 26. The calendar for the October term will be heavy, as a number of criminal cases have been filed and there are about twenty criminal matters for the investigation of the grand jury.

She Was Pleasantly Surprised.

Miss H. E. Bell, Wausau, Wis., writes: "Before I commenced to take Foley's Kidney Pills I had severe pains in my back, could not sleep and was greatly troubled with headache. The first few doses of Foley's Kidney Pills gave me relief, and two bottles cured me. The quick results surprised me, and I can honestly recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

WESTCHESTER COUNTY SLAVES.

Negro slavery existed in Westchester county almost from its first white settlement, the negroes for the most part coming from the West Indies. In 1698, however, a cargo of them was landed at Rye direct from the coast of Guinea. These slaves were brought here by direction of Frederick Philipse of Philipse Manor. At no time did the slave population of the county become very large.

In 1767, at the purchase quarterly meeting, the question of longer holding the negroes in their families as slaves came before that body—and a minute was made thereon. Finally, says the Westchester County Magazine, after years of consideration, the sentiment of freedom prevailed and in 1779 no friend or Quaker in Westchester county held a human chattel.

With the granting of freedom to these bondmen two important settlements were effected, made up entirely of those who had been slaves; one near the village of Bedford and the other east of the village of White Plains. All slaves in the state were made free on July 4, 1827.

WE WANT EVERY MAN IN DULUTH

Who is Suffering From Any Disease, or Who Feels "Run Down" to Come to Us and Let Us Examine and Cure Him.

We particularly appeal to the man who is only "Slightly Indisposed!" Nine times out of ten these "Slight Indispositions" are simply the alarm from Nature's outposts that the germs of disease have appeared in the body in force. The army that neglected the alarm from its outposts would assuredly go down to well-deserved defeat and disaster. But most men receive the notice of approaching trouble from their delicate nerve-sentinels with entire indifference. "A slight headache," "A bit of a cold," "Yes, I've had a pain in the back for some time now, but it will soon pass off." That's what you hear every day. Typhoid, consumption and kidney trouble announce their advance by those symptoms, neglect the warning, and the germs will have an unobstructed field to advance over, and will get such a hold on your system before you finally awaken to the fact that there is something serious the matter, that you will find it difficult, if not impossible to drive them out again. Bring us a disease in the early stages and we will either prevent it from developing at all, or cure it in a few days at the most. This we GUARANTEE TO DO.

TAFT TASTES SIMPLE LIFE

Sleeps in a Rough Board Shanty on Brink of Mountain Cliff.

Characteristic Sights Viewed By the President's Party.

Glacier Point, Cal., Oct. 9.—The hotel here at which the president stopped last night is but a little rough board affair, set right at the brink of the high cliff overlooking the valley.

The "presidential suite" was one room without plaster or any other evidence of luxury, directly overlooking the valley.

Coming to Glacier Point yesterday, the president arrived at the brink of the chasm just in time to catch the beautiful effect of sunset. The delicate pink and violet light, filtering through forests of pine, painted the ordinarily cold and granite walls with glowing tints.

On the trail today the president's party passed through patches of snow, and many beautiful views of the water falls, the cliffs, the domes and the natural wonders of the valley, were obtained. Arriving at the foot of the narrow, winding path, President Taft and his party were met by coaches and taken to the Flint hotel, where luncheon was served.

Leaves the Park.

A sixteen-mile drive took the party out of the park this afternoon to the little railway station at El Portal, where he will board the train tomorrow morning.

Traveling along the mountain heights, among the big trees yesterday, the president saw a real "blazed trail." All the trees along the higher part of the road were "blazed" or scarred, to guide the posse which in the early spring had to trace out the roadway through the banks of snow.

A tremendous bonfire built on the overhanging rocks was lighted in honor of the president, soon after his arrival last night, and was visible for miles up and down the valley.

Hears Water Scheme Talk.

During his stay in the Yosemite, President Taft has made many inquiries concerning the plan on foot in San Francisco to make a lake of the Hetch Hetchy valley—a twin of the Yosemite, and in the same national park—and thus to procure a supply of mountain water for that city. He has encountered arguments both for and against the scheme, one of the leading opponents being John Muir, the naturalist and Yosemite authority, who has accompanied Mr. Taft throughout the trip.

THE USEFUL ABALONE.

Though the flesh and juice of the abalone, writes Arthur Inkersley, in the Wide World magazine, are the most important parts, nothing is wasted. The shells alone pay all the expenses of operation, the meat and juice being clear profit. The manufacture of pearl buttons depends largely on the nacreous material on the inner side of the abalone shell. Cuff buttons, paper cutters, scarfpins, inkstands, knife handles, candlesticks and various souvenirs are made of the beautiful irridescent material. The shells are used on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts of the United States, and are exported to Europe, the value being $35 to $135 per ton, according to their quality and the demands of the market. Abalone shell scraps are used for tiling, wainscoting, steps, balusters, etc. What is called "mother-of-pearl paint," when deposited on wood or metal, covers it with a pearly nacre, making the article look as if carved from a single large shell. The viscera are gelatinous and yield a glue of high value for the use of cabinet-makers, so that it will be seen the abalone is of the greatest service to mankind, its body forming a nutritious food and its shell various ornamental and useful articles.

There is no reason for fearing that the supply of abalones on the Californian coast will fail. Millions live at a depth too great for divers, and as fast as an area of fishing ground is depleted it is occupied by full-grown abalones coming in from the ocean.

AWFUL RESULT OF YOUTHFUL FOLLY

Two Fatally and Four Seriously Burned in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Isadore Emanski, aged 3, and Eddie Conroy, aged 7, may die and Allie Pearl, aged 12, Sam Pearl, aged 9, Samuel Banks, aged 4, Goodman Banks, aged 7, Joseph Banks, aged 9, and Pearl Markham, aged 10 years were seriously burned today while playing with a combination of bonfire, gunpowder and gasoline.

One of the boys threw about five pounds of wet gunpowder on the bonfire, but it would not burn, and then he poured on some gasoline, causing an explosion. Four of the children are in the city hospital in a serious condition.

WRIT SECURED FOR JOHNSON

Men Who Raided Reservation Saloons Will Be Taken to Twin Cities.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Johnson and his deputies, arrested at Mahnomen, Minn., for interfering with the sale of liquor on the Indian reservation, was secured shortly after 11 o'clock this morning from Federal Judge Willard at Minneapolis by Assistant United States District Attorney Oakley, who has been investigating the trouble following Johnson's raid at Mahnomen, and who returned home last night.

Johnson and his nine deputies will be brought from Crookston and lodged either in the Ramsey or Hennepin county jail until the order to show cause, directed against Sheriff Daniels of Polk county, has been acted upon by Judge Willard of the United States district court.

The mater will come on for a hearing as soon as possible in order to secure the early release of the government officials.

WHEN A JAG IS NOT A JOKE.

Collier's: So absurdly lacking in a certain phase of humor is the Parisian that he sees nothing laughable or joyous in rolling about gutters or hiccuping midnight songs or embroiling himself with his fellows while under the influence of strong drink.

That engaging product of social America who comes into the club, hollow-cheeked and livid, remarking, "Gee, but I was pie-eyed last night," has few counterparts here. To have been helplessly or even conspicuously drunk in a public place is a thing which a Frenchman would be prone to hide rather than to exploit. A strange and immoral race! Nothing has struck me more forcibly than this general sobriety—a dull, gray word, by the way, whereby to describe a characteristic of the blithest people living.

No unimportant store ever advertises importantly. No important store should ever advertise unimportantly.

VON PUHL NOT AWARDED CUP

Failure to Comply With Conditions Laid Down Is Shown By Judges.

St. Louis, Oct. 9.—Because Mr. Von Puhl, pilot of St. Louis No. 3, forgot to mail a letter to the Aero club of America notifying that body of his intention to try for the Lahm cup, his flight from St. Louis into Minnesota will not give him the trophy. Similarly the neglect of H. E. Honeywell to notify the organization just before the start that the balloon Centennial was also a contender for the Lahm prize has disqualified him.

Augustus Post, secretary of the national organization, was a starter in the Centennial balloon race here, but he said today that neither any of the successful pilots had complied with the rules surrounding the Lahm trophy, and that therefore the cup will remain in the possession of Capt. Chandler of the United States army.

Two trials will be made for the trophy next week however, Von Puhl announcing that, with C. B. Harmon of New York as aide, that he will make another flight for the cup, and that A. Holland Forbes, part owner of the balloon New York, would attempt to gain the prize with Max Fleishmann as aide. The latter pair will ascend Monday next. Von Puhl plans to go up a few days later.

RAILROADS WILL DO THEIR SHARE

County Should Produce $30,000,000 Annually, Says Prof. Shaw.

"St. Louis county should surpass Denmark in its production of pork, beef and milk," said Prof. Thomas Shaw, agricultural expert of the Great Northern road, at an informal banquet tendered him today at the Commercial club.

Prof. Shaw was sent here by the Northern Pacific road to investigate the agricultural possibilities of Northwestern Minnesota, with a view to ascertaining what the railroad could do to aid its development along agricultural lines.

"The most enthusiastic boosters for this part of the state can magnify their statements," said Prof. Shaw. "This county should produce $30,000,000 worth of produce yearly."

Prof. Shaw stated that he was convinced that those who are trying to develop these agricultural resources would find the railroads willing and ready to meet them more than half way. He is one of the best known experts along agricultural lines in the Northwest, and his enthusiasm regarding this part of the state, unbounded, more than bearing out all that has been claimed for it. He was the guest of John G. Williams and C. P. Craig.

STRONG OPPOSITION TO CENTRAL BANK OF ISSUE

CONGRESSMAN FOWLER OF NEW JERSEY SAYS MANY LEADING BANKERS WILL OPPOSE CENTRAL BANK—BUT ONE OUTCOME OF FIGHT ON COMMISSION.

Washington, Oct. 9.—Representative Charles N. Fowler of New Jersey, while here a few days ago, gave it as his opinion that the proposition to establish a central bank of issue, such as was suggested by President Taft, will meet with serious opposition, not only in the house, but from many leading bankers throughout the country.

He clearly intimated that the currency question might be the issue of the campaign of next year, instead of the tariff. In his judgment there will develop in the house, but from many leading bankers issue question is pressed, a wider difference of opinion than prevailed when the tariff was up for consideration.

Mr. Fowler is an authority on banking, and will undoubtedly take a prominent part in the debate next winter.

It was the New Jersey statesman who first opened the fight on Speaker Cannon, and to more pointedly emphasize his opposition he announced himself as a candidate for speaker several months in advance of the beginning of the extra session. He said to friends here the other day that when he made the announcement it was for the purpose of directing attention to Cannonism, rather than an attack on Cannon personally.

In the opinion of Representative Fowler, Cannon would never have been re-elected speaker last March if the president had but hinted that he did not want Cannon.

There will be one outcome of the fight on Cannonism, Mr. Fowler said, and that is that the next house—the one to be elected a year from the coming fall, will take from the speaker, whoever he may be, the power of appointing committees. This would have been accomplished last March, when the house was organized, had the Democrats stood by the "insurgents" in the fight on Cannonism, but even as it was, Cannonism received a blow from which it cannot recover. This will be more manifest when the house reassembles next December, should the organization attempt to run roughshod over the members. The spirit of independence, which has taken hold of the members, will, said Mr. Fowler, redound to the benefit of the country.

Speaking of the growing postal deficit, an old member of the house said today that it is not the administration of the postoffice department that is responsible for the increasing deficiency, but congress. It has only been for the last few years, comparatively speaking, that an annual deficit has been noted.

Some of the postoffice department officials, and a few others, are doing their best to have it appear that the deficit is due to the newspaper press of the country, because of the low rate paid on second-class mail matter. They would like to have power to increase the pound postage rate, in addition to the autocratic powers now possessed by the department over newspaper publishers.

If the department really wishes to wipe out the deficit, it should recommend to congress a curtailment of the franking privilege.

"You know," the old member said, "that it is only for the last few years that congressmen have enjoyed the privilege of franking their official letters. If my memory serves me, the credit for the frankig privilege belongs to Former Representative James D. Richardson of Tennessee. He introduced the resolution giving to representatives and senators the right to frank all letters written on official business.

"That is, any one writing to a member or senator on a matter pending before congress or the department could receive an answer in a franked envelope. Prior to that time the postage bill of a representative or senator was an item of no mean proportion. In some instances the postage account averaged more than $100 a month.

"It was the fact that most of a congressman's mail was of an official character which carried the Richardson resolution through the house and senate by an almost unanimous vote. This fact may be said to be the beginning of the growing deficit in postal receipts.

"That this privilege has been abused, there is no question of doubt, but there are many congressmen who adhere strictly to the letter of the law and pay postage on all personal correspondence, which amounts to considerable.

"The chief abuse of the franking privilege is to be found among the lawmakers. Not so many years ago a certain member of the house franked his household furniture to his Western home, just about the time the department had ordered the weighing of the mails as a basis for making contracts. If the franking privilege was observed as it should be, the abuse would soon sink to a minimum, and there would not be such a deficiency as to make it necessary to increase the registry fee.

"If the postoffice officials are bent on making the department self-sustaining, as the present office, let them induce congress to give the people a parcels post. Then in a very little while there would be a different tale to tell, and 1-cent letter postage would follow. The newspapers of the country are not responsible for the deficit complained of by the postmaster general.

There are now pending before the house committee on postoffices and postroads several bills providing for a parcels post in connection with free rural delivery, and as Postmaster General Hitchcock will have something to say on this subject in his forthcoming annual report, it may be taken for granted that it will receive consideration in the house next winter.

The president also, it is said, will deal with the matter in his annual message, as he is known to favor it.

Perhaps the parcels post may be used for a leading purpose when the central bank of issue question comes up, as all important legislation is a subject of compromise.

However, there will be a bitter fight over the parcels post, as the "corner grocer" in the country is said to be afraid of the department store in the city. The petitions in favor of the parcels post that were filed through members of the house last session numbered many thousands.

THE EVENING STORY

GARDNER, A. B.

By J. C. Plummer.

The steamer Lanark let go both anchors in Puerto Cabello harbor, for she needed them to hold her against the ugly swell kicked up by the fierce Caribbean storm which was lashing the sea outside. When the port anchor went over the bows, Juan Morales, a stowaway from Maracaibo, went over with it. Inasmuch as Juan had skulked that work which Capt. Duncan had assigned him as a set-off against a free trip to Puerto Cabello, and had proved himself an idle, good-for-nothing fellow, and, furthermore, as it was doubtful if he was highly valued as a citizen by the republic of Colombia, it might have been as well if he had been allowed to drown but Gardner, A. B., jumped over the rail and held him away from the ship's suction until a line was hove to him.

For this act he was reprimanded by Chief Officer MacLeod.

"Ye have a little idea of feetness of things," he said. "If you'd have lost your l'ef the sheep would have been short-handed, and if the dago had been drowned the country would have had plenty left."

"Hi never thought of that," replied Gardner, with an exculpatory smile.

The dripping Juan went into the forecastle without a word of thanks to the man who saved his life, but nobody noticed Juan. The question of that hour was, would there be liberty given while at Puerto Cabello? The bellies of the men craved rum, and the rum of Puerto Cabello is far-famed for its potentiality.

The next morning information was received that the lighters bringing coffee and hides to the steamer would not arrive before the following day, and the men were allowed a run ashore. They returned at nightfall, exhibiting a fine showing of the phases of drunkenness, for as mentioned before, the aguadiente of South America plays fantastic tricks with men's headpieces. Gardner, A. B., was not among those who returned, and when this was reported, Capt. Duncan was much annoyed, and Mate MacLeod swore several Gaelic oaths.

When noon arrived, with Gardner still missing, he was proclaimed a deserter and steps were taken to apprehend him. The British consul was notified, who notified the head of Puerto Cabello's constabulary, who notified his underlings, who did nothing. Bowing to the inevitable, Capt. Duncan then offered a reward of £1 for the delivery of Gardner, A. B., aboard the ship. There was a hurrying and skurrying among the constabulary when this was done, for a pound represented a half year's wage, but Gardner remained invisible.

Capt. Duncan was consulting with the mate as to the best plan for capturing the runaway when the sallow visage of Juan Morales appeared over the port rail. Disregarding the very uncomplimentary remarks with which he was greeted by the two officers, Juan stated his business. He knew where Gardner was and, if the skipper would send some of his crew, he would guide them to his hiding place. Under no circumstances would Juan undertake to bring Gardner to the vessel. As a matter of fact, Juan shuddered visibly when he spoke of such a piece of rashness.

Nothing enraged the skipper more than a desertion and, moreover, Gardner was by all odds the best man forward. He therefore agreed to pay Juan the reward of £1 when Gardner was brought aboard the ship.

"Mr. McLeod," called the skipper, "take a hand with you and bring the deserter to the vessel."

The mate glanced about the deck, and, eyeing me cleaning the brass work about the taffrail, beckoned me to him.

"Ye're to gang wi' me," he said.

We were pulled ashore in the ship's boat, Juan rowing his own craft. When we had reached the quay Juan started off, we following.

"If that mon had a tail like a dog," remarked MacLeod, ruminatively, "he'd always carry betwixt his legs."

Truly, Juan, with his shoulders hunched forward and with his shambling gait, might have been likened to a dog of the cur species.

Juan led us through the town until the dirty streets gave way to a road, on either side of which were vast plantations. The ever running rows of coffee trees and other vegetation, with their vivid green foliage, contrasted markedly with the low, wide haciendas glistening of white adobe.

An hour's walk brought us in sight of a collection of some ten or more hunts, built of adobe and thatched with some sort of mats. The merest apology for a village it was, and evidently the abode of property.

Juan slunk behind when the village hove in sight, and stopped shortly before he entered it.

He pointed to the nearest row of houses.

"One duo, tree house," he said, "he dere!"

"He's in the third house?" asked MacLeod.

Juan nodded.

The mate wiped his brow and made no motion to go on. It had occurred to me that MacLeod had very little love for his job, but I never ascribed it to fear of Gardner. Since the day when I had seen Angus MacLeod leap into the stoke hold at Singapore and club three drink-crazed firemen into subjection with a handspike I had never associated him with fear.

"Come on," he said to me, finally.

A sloven, red-haired woman answered his rap on the door.

"I want to see Gardner," said MacLeod.

The woman made a motion to shut the door in his face, but before she could do so the stalwart form of Gardner, A. B., appeared behind her.

"You've found me," he said.

"Yes, and ye're to come wi' me," replied MacLeod.

Gardner shook his head.

"Ye're coming, and ye're coming wi' me," repeated the mate. "What do you mean, Gardner, you a full-rated A. B., deserting from your ship?"

"Hit's the first time I ever was 'unted for by a skipper," said Gardner in reply, "but I 'ad to do it this time. Come here!"

He led us into a back room where, on a not overclean bed, lay the body of a woman. Her fluffy hair lay on the pillow and her face was no doubt once attractive, but drink and trouble had much hardened and deformed it.

"When I came hashore," said Gardner, "the men started in drinking near the quay and I walked up into the town alone. A drunken woman started to cross a street, and a cart coming 'round the corner ran her down. Hi picked 'er up, and when she told me where she lived I brought her here. She had no need to tell me who she was. I knew it."

"Well?" asked MacLeod.

"She was my wife!"

The mate stared silently at Gardner, who resumed:

"Hi married her four years ago. We 'ad a snug 'ome in South'ark, and I was sailing in the Black sea trade, and much of the time at sea. A man who called himself my friend lied to 'er about me, tempted 'er and then ran off with 'er. 'E got her a berth as stewardess on the same ship he sailed on and then he began to drink. Has 'e went down he pulled the poor lass with 'im, and 'e treated 'er like a dog. She told me hall this while I sat by 'er last night, and she died this morning. The dog who brought 'er to this was turned off his ship at this port for drunkenness three months ago, and she 'ad to go with 'im. 'E's working on a plantation near here."

"Well," said MacLeod, gently, "the puir soul has flitted. Ye've done all ye could do and more than many a men in your place would 've done. Come back to the sheep."

"Hi'll come back tomorrow," replied Gardner; "the man who did that"—he pointed to the form on the bed—"'ll be here tonight. 'E's been sent for and I want to meet 'im."

Tough old salt as he was, I saw MacLeod shudder and his ruddy face pale. He seemed about to say something to Gardner, and then, muttering "It's na' use," seized me by the arm and started for the door.

As we left the threshold Gardner came out and laid his hand on the mate's shoulder.

"You'll not be too hard on the lass in your mind, Mr. MacLeod," he said. "She was very young and that devil tempted her. Then I was away so much."

"Ay, ay," replied MacLeod, "but lad, leave it as it is and come wi' me."

"Hi've something to do yet," retorted Gardner, his voice coming through his clenched teeth.

"He'll maun ha' his way," muttered MacLeod to himself, as we walked. "The Laird may help Gardner, or the deil may help the ither. We'll see."

Steam was up on the Lanark at 4 in the eventing, but she lay motionless until dark. Then, like a specter, Gardner clambered up the fore chains and dove into the forecastle. Juan had been hanging about the decks all day waiting for Gardner to be brought on board, and before dark he had been inveigled below and shut up in the steerage. Now he was hustled on deck and the skipper confronted him.

"We can't get the man, but my word is passed and you're to get the £1," he handed it to the Spaniard—"and now here's the shillings," added the skipper, giving the informer a kick that carried him off the poop. MacLeod gave him another that sent him against the rail, and the terrified dago flung himself over the side into his boat and pulled madly for shore.

Of the happening at the hut that night Gardner never spake a word, and I beg pardon for my unfinished yarn. But to see that haggard-faced man glaring into the distance as he gazed over the sea it is a badly-equipped mind that could not picture the terrible drama of vengeance that had its closing scene that night.

The skipper half feared there would be an officer waiting for Gardner when we entered the Mersey, but there was not, and he shipped on a Bombay trader. I have never seen him since.

A PARDON IN BRITTANY.

A pardon in Brittany begins with vespers on the evening before the feast. Pilgrims arrive for that and sleep in the church, the chapel and under the hedges. They chant hymns till they sing themselves to sleep. The first mass is said at 3 a. m., and when all the pilgrims have received their holy communion they depart.

An ordinary visitor arriving, say at 10 a. m., will hardly see a single pilgrim in the church. They attend mass, says the Rosary Magazine, take part in the afternoon procession and buy memorials and pictures at the stalls.

One of the most largely attended pardons, and a very representative affair in its character, is that of Auray, which is situated in Morbihan on the southern coast of Brittany.

Here gather all whom the intercession of St. Anne d'Auray has saved from some peril. Those who have been saved from shipwreck carry portions of the wrecked vessel; others carry the shroud that had been prepared for them; the lame carry on their shoulders the crutches which have become useless to them, while still others carry the rope or ladder by which they escaped from the flames.

Sometimes and in some places there is an evening procession carrying lighted candles; in some there is a bonfire lighted by the figure of an angel that descends from the chapel or church spire. Occassionally there are games in the afternoon and dancing, but usually all is quiet and the people disperse after the afternoon procession.

By the sea the arrival of the boats with maidens in white and banners is a pretty sight; at one pardon the sailors proceed barefooted in performance of a vow made when delivered in a storm.

TREE 1,100 YEARS OLD.

Popular Mechanics: A lumber company at Buckley, Wash., recently sent out a number of souvenir shingles that were cut from a tree 1,100 years old.

The tree from which the shingles were cut had 350 rings, which fact denotes that it was 350 years old when it fell. The stump of the tree which grew over it has 750 rings, and as this could not have started to grow until some time after the first fell it is practically certain that the original tree was coming in A. D. 800, which was 700 years before the discovery of America.

ANDREAS DIPPEL.

Andreas Dippel arrived Tuesday from Europe on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, after making contracts, which promise for the Metropolitan opera house of New York the most remarkable season it has ever known. Through its arrangement with the New Theater, where it is to give lighter operas twice a week, with the Lyric theater in Baltimore and the Boston opera house and through its arrangements for a regular season in Brooklyn and Philadelphia as in past years, the Metropolitan opera company's activities are more varied than those of any other country in the world. The breadth of its operations makes it possible to give operatic permormances more perfectly than ever before known in the history of the world. Mr. Dippel will be the administrative manager of the opera house and will have control of all productions Gatti-Casazza will continue as general manager of the company. A good menu has been prepared and an excellent program of toasts is also in course of preparation. The list will include short addresses by Rev. Dr. J. S. Kirtley of Duluth, Carey Emerson of Minneapolis, Rev. G. H. Young of the First Baptist church of Superior and others.

With a roll call prayer meeting Thursday evening and a young people's rally on Friday night, the week's celebration of the dedication of the new edifice will close. At the prayer meeting Thursday night, every member of the church is expected to be there to respond to his name when the roll is called. GETS CHANCE TO REFORM

West Duluth Youth Put on Probation for a Year.

Signs Pledge and Promises to Drop All Evil Associates.

Ernest Peterson, a West Duluth young man, who has been going the pace that kills and wound up in the county jail with a serious charge hanging over him, was turned loose and given a chance to make a man of himself by Judge Ensign in district court yesterday.

Peterson, who had pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree, was sentenced to the state reformatory at St. Cloud and the sentence was suspended under the following conditions:

First, that he shall report to Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth police whenever the officer shall direct and at least on the last Saturday of every month.

Second, that he shall abstain entirely from the drinking of intoxicating liquors.

Third, that he shall refrain from associating with evil companions and men who drink.

Fourth, that he shall not associate with any persons against whom Lieut. Wilcox warns him.

The conditions will continue in force for one year. Before allowing the young man to go, Judge Ensign gave him a kindly lecture. He pointed out that his old father and mother were broken down under their son's disgrace and said that love for the old father and mother alone should keep him straight. Peterson promised faithfully to observe the conditions and left the courthouse rejoicing.

Two other men, who failed to merit judicial mercy, were sentenced to the state penitentiary at Stillwater for three years. Joseph Ropel was found guilty of forging another man's name to a check. The crime was committed in the office of County Attorney John H. Norton, Mr. Norton having collected the money for the other man from a logging company. Ropel impersonated the man and secured the money. He is a cook, 30 years old, and has been in the United States four years.

Joseph Doyle was found guilty of grand larceny in the first degree in snatching a purse from Mrs. Theresa Haley near the Lake avenue viaduct on the evening of Aug. 7. Doyle is 32 years old and a sailor. He was born in Ireland and has been in the United States five years.

RECEIVE GIFT FROM CARNEGIE

The Ironmaster Gives $1,000 to West Duluth Church Fund.

A donation of $1,000 has been made to the congregation of the Elim Swedish Evangelical Lutheran church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street by Andrew Carnegie. The money will be used in purchasing a new pipe organ for the church.

The gift was made to the church with the provision that a like amount was to be raised by subscription. The congregation was divided into ten parts and each section will attempt to raise $100. It is thought that by the first of December all of the money will have been raised.

The new organ has already been ordered, the contract for it having been let to a Chicago concern. It will be completed in a short time and will then be installed in the church. It is planned to have a dedication for it on the Sunday before Christmas.

Will Go to Superior.

It is understood that the old Rieckoff box factory at New Duluth will soon change its base of operations to South Superior. This change is said to have been brought about with the view of obtaining better shipping facilities. At South Superior it will occupy old Wilcox's sash and door plant.

AERONAUT HAS 100-FOOT FALL

William Mattery Breaks Both Wrists When Balloon Collapses.

South Bend., Ind., Oct. 9.—William Mattery's dirigible balloon, the America, collapsed last night at a height of 100 feet. Mattery's wrists were both fractured when he struck the ground. The machine, valued at $3,000, was destroyed.

When Mattery started the motors of his airship, a great crowd pressed about him, and he was obliged to steer upward at a sharp angle. The propeller caught the rear of the gas bag and tore the bag open.

The "Great White Way."

Some action may be taken at the council meeting Monday night to secure uniformity in placing of the posts for lights beginning to appear on the downtown streets. It is believed that if the merchants united, Duluth would have as pretty and brilliant a "Great White Way" as any city in the West. Alderman Moore introduced a resolution some time ago covering First street, but most of the aldermen are of the opinion that the resolution should cover all streets and avenues in the center of the city.

AND NOW IT IS THE SOO

New Rumor Regarding the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Road.

Claimed That Canadian Pacific Interests Are After It.

From a source very close to the leaders of the Canadian Pacific railroad's activities in this part of the Northwest, comes the story that the Soo Railroad company is negotiating for the Alger-Smith logging road property, known as the Duluth & Northern Minnesota railroad, with a view of securing this road as a part of a short line cutoff from Duluth to Port Arthur.

It is believed that the Canadian Northern officials are endeavoring at the present time to secure the Alger-Smith property. Reports have been most persistent of late that this company had secured the road that runs from Knife River to within a few miles of Gunflint lake. These rumors have been vigorously denied by the local officials of the Alger-Smith company.

Now comes the story that the Soo officials, because of the fact that the Canadian Pacific company desires the property, are carrying on negotiations to secure control of the Alger-Smith property.

When the Thunder Bay Railway company was organized many people interested in the development of railway property in this part of the country, wondered what the object of the men interested in the company was. It is stated that if the Soo, which means of course the Canadian Pacific company, secures the Alger-Smith railroad property, this railroad will be used in the construction of a short line between Duluth and Port Arthur.

The Canadian Pacific desires a short line between this city and Port Arthur as a safety valve for heavy traffic, if nothing more. The need for this was emphatically illustrated last spring. At that time high water put the Canadian Pacific railroad property west of Port Arthur out of commission. As a consequence, shipments were held up. The Canadian Pacific was obliged to turn over its through business to the Canadian Northern.

If the cutoff were in existence, and the Soo road to the West complete, it would be easy to route through Duluth, in case of a recurrence of such an accident.

It is stated that the negotiations of the Canadian Northern officials for the control of the Alger-Smith property have been blocked by the Canadian Pacific people, who are not only anxious to secure a short line from Duluth to Port Arthur, but who are also very anxious to block the move of the Canadian Northern company.

The securing of the Alger-Smith property would give the Canadian Pacific a direct outlet to the Head of the Lakes. It would also open up a new stretch of country. Just what truth there is in the report cannot be ascertained in Duluth.

GOING SOME AT DARTMOUTH

Mack Cook Strikes Out Twenty of Sophomore Batters.

Word has been received of the doings of Mack Cook at Dartmouth. Mack, according to the letter received today, is the Christy Mathewson of the freshmen, and he has established a record that has made the records of some of the other famous first-year men look like indigestion feels.

In the Fall series of baseball games, he pitched for his class against the sophmores, beating the second-year men by the score of 1 to 0, striking out twenty men and holding the opposition to two stingy hits. Some twirling, eh?

The freshmen rule bars Mack from playing on the Dartmouth team, even if he were able to make it. He has been out with the football squad and has also been playing on the freshman football team.

SCOTCH WOMAN IS THE WINNER

Takes the American Golf Championship at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—Miss Cambell, the British champion, won her match today with Mrs. R. H. Barlow, 3 up and 2 to play, thereby capturing the American championship.

SOCCER TEAM TO BE ORGANIZED

Practice to Be Held on Thirty-Second Avenue West Grounds.

An effort is being made to organize a soccer football team in Duluth.

W. A. Kennedy of 1812 West Second street, and W. Thomas of 120 Twelfth avenue west, are the men behind the movement, and they announce that there will be a practice Sunday morning at the Thirty-second avenue west grounds.

The men mentioned have succeeded in getting a number of old players interested, and there promises to be quite a squad out on the occasion of the first practice.

The object is to get at least two teams organized, so that the game can be tried out on the Duluth public to determine whether or not a team would be supported.

The game has proved very popular in other cities, and it is believed that a strong team could be organized here. If the plan goes through, games will be arranged with St. Paul and Minneapolis teams.

WILL PLAY ON DIRT COURTS

New York, Oct. 9.—Announcement was made today that a national lawn tennis championship upon dirt courts is being arranged, the first dirt playing surface, national championship to be instituted.

Dr. P. B. Hawk of the University of Illinois, chairman of the National Ranking commission, is the moving spirit, together with Ralph Holterhoff, of the Ohio Lawn Tennis Association of Cincinnati, Ohio, and William Wood of the Omaha Field club, Omaha, Neb. The place of holding the tournament lies between the Ohio association courts at Cincinnati, the Omaha field club, or the St. Louis club, St. Louis.

The final plans will be made at the annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis association in this city in February.

Wisconsin Shut Out.

Tokio, Oct. 9.—The University of Wisconsin baseball team was whitewashed today by the University of Wadesa nine, the score being 3 to 0 in favor of the Japanese. Wisconsin made two hits and three errors, while four hits and two errors weer recorded for the Wadesas.

MASONS' LETTERS IN FERRER TRIAL

Universal Society Alleged in Court-Martial at Barcelona.

Barcelona, Oct. 9.—The trial by court-martial of Ferrer, the former director of the Modern School of Barcelona, who is accused of having been the principal instigator of the recent revolutionary movement in Barcelona, is proceeding here with open doors. Col. Lacalle has been appointed presiding judge of the court, in the place of Col. Auguerrol.

The evidence submitted by the judge who conducted the preliminary investigation included some documents relating to the proclamation of a Spanish republic. It also comprised letters from Republicans, Free Masons and free thinkers residing in various foreign countries, as well as political and revolutionary documents referring to the organization of a universal proletariat society, which, it is argued, proved Ferrer's complicity in the revolutionary agitation.

HAPPENINGS AT DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY.

Located at 118-20 Fourth Avenue West, Christie Building.

The college has decided to put in an extension course in the near future in economics and political science, also courses by correspondence. This will give to those who wish it, advantages along the line of commercial training as good as can be had in any university in the United States.

The college is being well patronized from the outside. Some of the young people who enrolled on Monday, Oct. 4th, are as follows: Charles Austin and Alvera Skoog, Superior, Wis., Paul Johnson and Caroline Ernst, Bayfield, Wis.; Winnifred Armstrong, St. Thomas, Ont.; Florence Claassen, Lyons, N. Y.; George Benson, Grand Forks, N. D.; Edith Mayhew, Grand Marais, Minn.

The demand for young men graduates continues to far exceed the supply. Some of the best firms of the Northwest applied during the past week for young men stenographers with none in evidence to recommend.

The following young people have left the college to accept the following positions:

Milda Flink, stenographer for Bailey Lumber company.

Lulu Murphy, stenographer for Harrison & Robinson.

Harry McMartin, stenographer for American Express company.

Alice McMeekin and Alice Sullivan, stenographers for Duluth Street Railway company.

Jennie Geddis, stenographer for Dunlop-Moore company.

Mary Keating, stenographer for Bridgeman & Russell company.

Arthur Bergstrom and C. E. Hamilton, bookkeepers for Oliver Mining company.

Emily Roach, stenographer for Empire Lumber company.

Rae Zurovsky, stenographer for E. L. Kimball.

Christine McLean, stenographer for Bonded Rapid Collection Agency.

Over 100 students are now at work in night classes, a great many of whom are taking the English course. Commercial, stenographic, English and penmanship courses are taught, and students can get private instruction if they desire it. Students may enroll in day or night school with equal advantage at any time.

SUPERIOR NEWS

In Municipal Court.

Because W. J. Stroll, who is doing some paving for the city on Twenty-first street, used abusive language to a drayman, J. W. Haskell, this week, he was fined $10 yesterday in municipal court.

Judge Parker also disposed of the cases against twenty-six vags and drunks.

Herman Johnson was fined $20 for participating in a saloon brawl in a lower Tower avenue thirst parlor.

Margaret Pazek of 240 West Fourth street was arrested yesterday at Superior on a statutory charge, preperred by her husband. Tony Jolek, her companion, was also taken into custody. When arraigned in municipal court neither could furnish bail.

Death Follows Reunion.

Two calamities have recently befallen the Kelley family at Superior, which held a reunion only a short time ago. Yesterday J. E. Kernan received word from Ida Grove, Iowa, that J. W. Kelley, his brother-in-law, had dropped dead of heart failure. This follows closely that of D. L. Kelley in Montana.

Late Judge Honored.

A new Masonic lodge in Milwaukee has been named after the late Judge Reed of Superior. The news is gratifying to the members of the Masonic order in Superior, of which he was an active member. A photograph of the judge will be prominently displayed in the ante-room of the lodge.

Pounded Poundmaster.

Steffen and John Renda, brothers, were found guilty of assault yesterday in municipal court. They were accused of using violence toward Poundmaster Swanstrom of Billings Park while he was in the pursuit of his duties. The former was fined $5 and the latter paid $20.

SIBERIAN HARDTACK.

L. Lodian in Scientific American: Of all the hardtack breads of the universe I have found by actual experience the small ringed bread of Siberia the most substantial. When the Russian engineering parties were constructing the Siberian railroad this white ring bread (with the coarse rye bread) was their main staff of life.

It is made, without salt or yeast and is first steamed, then lightly baked to expel the moisture. Some curious uses were made of these breads by the engineers. When soaked in hot pure tallow for a few moments till they sank they were used in soups or soaked in and eaten with tea during the severe winter months. This tallow bread was considered the most heat producing article in the dietary. It should be utilized by our Arctic explorers.

Another curious use to which it is put is a san extempore candle, or coffee pot boller. A nail is used to make about eight holes in the tallow ring bread; wax vestas are placed in these and ignited. It will burn slowly for about an hour, emitting a strong heat sufficient to warm and light a small tent and boil the tea or coffee water. There is a rather strong odor of toasting bread, but that is tolerated in preference to smoke. While sojourning with the engineers in Siberia I have also seen them using the larger sizes of ringed bread as makeshift quoits for Sunday afternoon sport in their tents, and the bread would stand the knocking about pretty well, and would eventually appear in the soup at the evening meal.

Small Siberian storekeepers also use the ringed bread as an abacus, or primitive apparatus for calculating small sums in rubles and kopeks, and simple figuring. Three strings are suspended above the counter; ten breads are strung on each; the top line represents the rubles (their money transactions rarely going above ten) and the lower strings stand for the kopeks. Of course the strings of bread can be increased to mount into the thousands and up if desired.

JUGGLING THE ALPHABET.

Many Have Formed Sentences With Only Its Twenty-Six Letters.

Many attempts have been made by ingenious writers to put the whole alphabet in a single sentence without duplication of letters.

Prof. De Morgan, the famous mathematician, tried to juggle the alphabet into one sentence, each letter being used but orce. After many fruitless attempts he decided to compromise exactness by using i for j, and further by regarding u and v as the same letter. Then his final accomplishment read as follows:

"I, quartz pyx, who fling muck beds."

At first he did not appreciate the full significance of his accomplishment, says the Housekeeper. "At last," he says 'I happened to be reading a religious writer, who threw aspersions on his opponents thick and threefold. Heyday! came into my head, this fellow flings muck beds. He must be a quartz pyx.

"Then I remembered that a pyx is a sacred vessel and quartz is a hard stone, as hard as the heart of a religious foe curser. So that the line is the motto of a ferocious sectarian, who turns his religious vessels into muck holders for the benefit of those who will not see what he sees."

The professor published his sentence and called upon others to outdo him if they could. The following are samples of the efforts which resulted:

"Quiz, my whigs, export fund back."

"Dumpy quiz, whirl back fogs next."

"Get nymph; quiz sad brows; fix luck."

The professor awarded the palm of the competition to this last sentence. "It is good advice," he explains, "to a young man very well expressed under the circumstances. In more sober English it would be 'Mary, be cheerful, watch your business.'"

Even when the duplication of letters is permitted the crowding of the entire alphabet into a single coherent sentence is not an easy task, and such examples as "John T. Brady gave me a black walnut box of quite small size," which is perhaps the best known, are neither numerous nor important.

There is one verse in the Bible which contains all the letters of the alphabet except j; this is the twenty-first verse of the seventh chapter of Ezra, and as the verse contains some forty words the collocation is only noteworthy because it occurred without previous design.

None of the examples here given is perhaps as good as that recently quoted in The Sun: "Pack my box with five dozen liquor jugs." This contains the entire alphabet, is a perfectly coherent sentence and has only thirty-two, in comparison with forty-seven letters in the "John T. Brady" example. So it would seem to hold the palm.

A RIFLED PIPE LINE.

The most remarkable pipe line in the world, a line of eight-inch pipe 282 miles long, has just been completed in the California oil fields. It runs from Gil City, in the famous Coalinga country, to the seaboard near Port Costa, and its length is the least wonderful thing about it.

In this immense tube, with pumping stations twenty-four miles apart, a complete inner tube of flying, whirling water keeps the heavy crude oil from contact with the steel pipe.

The well-known antipathy of oil and water keeps the carried fluid and the carrier apart, but until the autumn of 1907 this comparatively simple principle had not been brought into use, and the problem of the transportation of oil was the greatest the producers of the west coast had to face.

Now this great obstacle has been removed, and Harriman's engines on the Southern Pacific and the furnaces of his steamers which are soon to ply the Pacific will be fed from this line, by which 17,000 to 20,000 barrels of thick 14 degree fuel oil can be moved over one of the 24-mile sections every twenty-four hours.

The pipe line, which is the invention of John D. Isaacs and Buckner Speed, is first rifled. These rifles, or corrugations, says the Technical World, are about one-eighth of an inch in depth and make one complete revolution of the pipe line in every ten lineal feet.

Instead of heating the oil to thin it and make it travel the more easily through the pipe, as is the custom on all the Pennsylvania, Indiana and Virginia lines, the heavy black fluid in this case is shot into the pipe cold, with a 10 per cent addition of water.

The centrifugal force given to the whole mass by the rifling of the pipe throws the water to the outside, forming a perfect sheath or coating, in which the oil travels, completely separated from the guardian water. This film between the oil and the pipe naturally reduces the friction to a great degree, as well as carrying along the oil at a much greater speed than thinner oil of higher gravity.

A FAMOUS BATHTUB.

The bathtub in which Marat was killed by Charlotte Corday is still in existence. A man who has seen it in Paris, where it is now on sale, says that it is totally unlike the bathtubs with which we are familiar.

"It is shaped like a sabot, or shoe," he writes in the illustrated London News, "and is covered except for a space where the bather gets in. It is not long enough for a man to stretch out comfortably. That would be impossible, anyway, owing to the shape. The occupant must sit up, his head and shoulders coming out of the ankle of the shoe.

"On the upper part there are two hooks which could be used to support a desk. A sort of stool in copper is fixed to the bath, which enables the bather to sit and write. Under this stool the heating apparatus was placed.

"The bath has not been used since the murder, and even now, perhaps, the blood marks of the 'friend of the people' can be seen. At least the sulphur and other chemicals used by Marat, who, as is known, suffered from a skin disease, have left their trace on the metal.

"After passing through many hands, the bath came into the possession of the cure of Sargeau, who sold it to the Grevin museum for 3,000 francs."

ART IN CHICAGO.

The Craftsman: There has grown up in Chicago since her phoenixlike resurrection from almost overwhelming disaster a sturdy group of strong artists whose honest endeavor, persevering pluck and devotion to their calling have given them claim to something higher than praise—appreciation. These men and women—painters, architects, sculptors, designers—in expressing their own feeling about the things that surround them, are laying a foundation that very strongly suggests the beginning of a national American art.

In receiving patronage and support, the artists of Chicago have been deservedly fortunate. Only a few years ago, for instance, the late Benjamin F. Ferguson bequeathed the sum of $1,000,000 as a fund whose interest is to be expended on monuments and sculpture commemorating famous American men and women and events in American history, all these works to be placed on the boulevards and elsewhere in Chicago.

Then, public interest in art matters is so great that nearly every one of the many clubs for the advancement of culture offers a substantial prize each year for the best work exhibited by Chicago artists. Probably there are more organizations of this sort in Chicago than in any other American city. Over fifty women's clubs alone are federated, and each year the federation purchases some worthy work of a Chicago artist.

Since the federation of the Chicago Art association with the Municipal Art league in 1901, art in Chicago has received even greater encouragement than before. No city in America has given its painters so many walls to decorate, thus producing a condition favorable to art's development along the lines of mural painting, and bringing forward many artists of exceptional ability and some real genius, in whose work appears perhaps one of the strongest impresses of Chicago's genius loci.

WEST END

"LOST MEN" ARE HOME

Friends Bring Back Exhausted Hunters Who Were Marooned on Bog.

West Enders Are Sick as Result of Harrowing Experience.

Thorwald F. Behrns and Joseph Symington were brought back to their homes in the West end today from Grayling, Minn., where they nearly lost their lives while duck hunting.

For 110 hours, the men were marooned on a floating bog in Mud lake, three and one-half miles from Grayling. They had neither food, adequate clothing, fuel for a fire or matches with which to light it.

Chilled to the bone from long exposure to the cold, and famished for lack of food, the men were weak and exhausted when they were picked up by a member of a searching party, headed by Patrick Kennedy of the West end. They were taken to Grayling and today brought to Duluth.

According to their story, they had gone out early Sunday morning in a small boat to be prepared for the ducks. The boat capsized and the floating bog being nearer than the shore, both swam to it, little realizing that it meant a four days' isolation.

Among the searchers from the West end who found the two men yesterday morning about 10 o'clock, were Arthur Hendricks, William McDonald, Bud Kennedy, William Crozier and John Geisman.

Behrns was taken to his home at 1728½ West First street. Symington lives in the U. S. block. Both are very weak and are in the care of a physician.

DULUTH TEACHER DIES IN DENVER

Death Results From Injuries Sustained When Thrown From Horse.

Miss Winnifred Proctor, 25 years old, a former well known teacher in the Adams school at the West end, died early yesterday in a Denver hospital as a result of an accident, which she sustained from a fall while horseback-riding.

The news of the death was received yesterday afternoon by Miss Anna Hicken, principal of the Adams school, and it was announced to the school. Miss Proctor was a teacher in the Adams school last year and had also been a member of the faculty two years previous to that. She also taught in the Madison school.

The accident, which proved fatal to her, occurred about a month ago. She had been in the habit of taking rides in the open air upon the advice of her physician. On one occasion, the animal upon which she was riding, became frightened and threw her off. The fall was a serious one and she was taken to a Denver hospital, where she died this week.

Miss Proctor finished her work last June in the West end school. She was not in the very best of health and a change in climate was the advice of her physicians. Colorado weather was recommended and Miss Proctor secured a position on the city teaching staff of the Denver schools.

The home of the young woman is at Verndale, Minn., where the body will be sent for interment.

GATES WILL NOT BE PUT ON SMALL CARS.

In all probability gates will not be installed on the small cars now used on the West Third street car lines.

The experiment was tried out this week and did not work very satisfactorily. The lever which controls the gates is operated by hand power only, unlike the gates on the double-truck cars which are operated with the use of air.

A motorman on the large car can stop the car with one hand and open the gates with the other at the same time, while it is necessary for the motorman on the small car to first stop the car and then open the gates. Much time is lost in this way.

Plan for Initiation.

St. Clement's court, Catholic Order of Foresters, is making preparations for a large initiation of candidates, to be held on the second Sunday in November. A meeting of the order was held Thursday evening and the preliminary arrangements for the affair were made.

The Adams and the Broadways of Superior will play football tomorrow at the West end grounds.

Peter Grignon, manager of the Marine Iron works, is in St. Paul, on a short business trip.

The Children's Society of the Swedish Mission church Twenty-first avenue west and Second street met this afternoon at the church. Mrs. Strand and Mrs. Ben Johnson were in charge of the meeting.

Louis McAvoy has gone to the Twin Cities on a short visit.

Miss Maude Tucker of 716 Garfield avenue, returned this afternoon from a three weeks' visit with friends and relatives at Paynesville and Minneapolis.

GRAND TRUNK HAS AN OPTION ON EASTERN LINE.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9.—In New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad circles here it is admitted that the Grand Trunk Railway company has obtained an option on the Providence & Danielson line, probably with a view of connecting with the New London Northern and the Vermont Central system and with the Grand Trunk's main line, through Canada. Legislation to carry out the plan will be required in Rhode Island.

THAT FIRE HALL AGAIN.

Council Will Consider Improvements to West End Building.

The city council will probably devote part of its time Monday night to another discussion of the proposed improvements to the fire hall in the West end. The resolution to allow the expenditure of $2,800 was lost last Monday after some of the aldermen had fired some hot shots at the board of fire commissioners and financial matters in general. But it is thought that after the situation is understood, the money will be allowed for this improvement as well as for the repairs to Hall No. 3 at First avenue east and Third street. Both halls have been in poor shape for several years.

SPENDING THEIR HONEYMOON IN ITALY

JULIAN STORY.

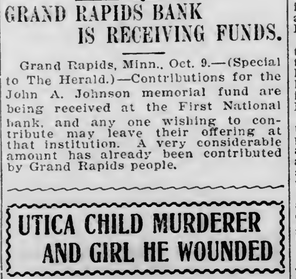

MRS. JULIAN STORY.

Julian Story, the well-known Philadelphia artist and formerly the husband of Emma Eames, has married in London Mrs. Elaine Bohlen of Philadelphia, and they are now spending their honeymoon at Mr. Story's beautiful villa in Italy. Mrs. Bohlen recently obtained a divorce from her husband, D. Murray Bohlen, and Mr. Story was divorced by Emma Eames some time ago.

UTICA CHILD MURDERER AND GIRL HE WOUNDED

THEODORE RIZZO.

FANNIE INFUSINO.

The police of Utica have determined, after sifting all the evidence with care, that Rizzo is the man who lured three little children to a lonely spot in East Utica and shot all three. Two died. The third was wounded in the arm.

It was a Sunday evening when three Italian children aged from 2½ to 7 years disappeared from the Utica Italian colony. Monday morning a woman living three-quarters of a mile from the children's home saw from her window a little girl, who proved to be Fannie Infusino, standing guard over the bodies of two other children in the weeds at the bottom of a deep gulf at the back of her house.

It was on testimony of Fannie Infusino that Rizzo was arrested a week after the crime had been committed. He told contradictory stories.

What was for a long time a mystery—the motive for the crime—became clear when Fannie finally testified to the acts of the man before the shooting; to her threat that she would tell her father, and Rizzo's statement to her: "If you tell your father he will kill me, I must shoot you."

The police of Utica believe they have a strong case against Rizzo and that his arrest has solved one of the most remarkable murder mysteries of recent date.

ASSEMBLY OUT OF FOLD

Local Union Body Dropped By American Federation of Labor.

Delegates' Support of Seceding Electricians Causes Loss of Charter.

The Duluth Federated Trades assembly is no longer affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The parting of the ways, which has been forecasted several times in these columns, came at the end of a routine session of the assembly in Kalamazoo hall last evening.

President Perrault was just about to entertain a motion to adjourn when Delegate James Walsh asked for the floor and arose to speak, holding in his hand "one of dose ten word gags," as the slangy young man in "The Talk of New York" calls telegrams.

The assembled delegates leaned forward expectantly as Mr. Walsh adjusted his glasses and began reading. The contents of the telegram were as follows:

"W. E. McEwen, Manhattan building, Duluth, Minn.

"Has the Duluth Federated Trades assembly voted to reinstate seceding electrical workers? If so, its charter will be immediately revoked. Wire answer. (Signed) Frank Morrison."

Frank Morrison is secretary of the American Federation, and as President Samuel Gompers is in Europe at the present time, he is in charge of the federation headquarters.

No sooner had Mr. Walsh finished reading the message, which Mr. McEwen instructed him to present to the assembly, than some delegate ripped out a "Move we adjourn." "Support the motion," came from half a dozen throats and in a trice the meeting was over and the delegates were hurrying out of the room with their hats on.

Showing no disposition to go back upon the action of the previous meeting, which restored the electrical workers to full rights and privileges on the assembly floor, the secretary of the American Federation will be informed that the seceding electricians are still occupying seats in the Duluth assembly and the last named organization will then cease to exist, as far as my relations with the American Federation are concerned.

The defection of a considerable portion of the organized electrical workers from the recognized international body has caused distress in the Federation headquarters and some little difficulty in other strong union towns besides Duluth.

The Duluth electricians, who belong to the faction which seceded from the parent union, are confident that they are in the right in their internal strife and they apparently have the sympathy and encouragement of the other trades unions in the city.

The electricians' trouble will probably be an important question to be considered by the convention of the American Federation, which will be held in Toronto next month.

The assembly decided to make a contribution to the John Albert Johnson memorial fund and also adopted resolutions of condolence, which will be sent to the late governor's widow.

Resolutions of regret upon the departure of A. R. MacDonald from the city were also adopted. For several years, Mr. MacDonald has been editor of the Labor Leader paper, the Labor World, and the unionists are his staunch friends.

At the last meeting of the local union of carpenters and joiners, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Together such organizations and all people of Minnesota, the carpenters' union of Duluth is distressed over the sad bereavement of the state of Minnesota in the death of our beloved governor. A committee was appointed to prepare a set of resolutions expressing the union's sense of loss in the death of the governor and its sympathy with the stricken widow and friends.

"Whereas, in His infinite wisdom, our Heavenly Father has removed by death the Hon. John A. Johnson, governor of the great state, from his post of prominence and usefulness and thereby deprived the state of his valuable services and friends of his companionship:

"Resolved, by the carpenters' union, No. 361 of Duluth, Minnesota, that while its members bow to the Divine Will, they deeply deplore the loss the state and people of Minnesota have suffered in the untimely demise of their chief executive, and hereby express their warmest admiration of his excellent character and public usefulness.

"Resolved, That they deeply sympathize with his bereaved widow in her great sorrow and commend her to the Divine Power as the only source of solace in this time of grief and gloom.

"Resolved, That this expression of respect and sympathy be spread upon our minutes, a copy be published in the Labor World and the daily papers of Duluth and a copy be sent to the widow.

(Signed.)

JOHN R. ANKER THE LATEST

Mentioned as a Possibility for the Republican Nomination.

John R. Anker is the man latest mentioned for mayor by those who are anxious to see a thorough business man placed at the head of the city administration. Mr. Anker has not yet been approached for a declaration as to his position, but his friends are urging him as a practical business man, who would give the city a practical business administration.

Mr. Anker is a Republican and his friends will endeavor to secure his consent to putting him forward for the nomination on the Republican ticket. They do not know yet how he will take the suggestion, but they will use their best arguments with him.

Mr. Anker has been in business in Duluth for many years and has been successful in his private ventures. It is believed he would be just as successful in conducting the city's affairs. He is socially popular and it is believed he would make a good run.

TWO PICTURES OF WORLD'S WOMAN TENNIS CHAMPION

These pictures of May Sutton by Rollins of Cleveland are the best pictures of her that have been made recently. Miss Sutton has been in Cleveland and in Buffalo. She is making a round of the American cities instead of devoting her energies to play in England. The international champion is getting a little older in appearance, but she has lost none of her energy and she is still as much of an "India rubber ball" as when she first bounded into public notice on a tennis court.

PROPOSAL TO REMOVE PENN'S REMAINS TO UNITED STATES

SOCIETY OF FRIENDS IN ENGLAND AND OTHERS OPPOSED TO THE IDEA—COTTON FIRES IN LIVERPOOL THE WORK OF INCENDIARIES.

London, Oct. 9.—A renewed proposal to remove the remains of illustrious William Penn from the peaceable little burial ground at Jordans, near Chalfont St. Giles, in Bucks, to the United States, has created a good deal of interest in that country. The project is summarized in the following, which has been issued to Americans, large numbers of whom have visited the shrine during the past few months and are still making a pilgrimage to the spot.

"That Americans should desire to have in their midst the bones of him whose memory they so earnestly revere is a sentiment which the great man's fellow countrymen now living cannot lightly ignore. Profoundly impressed by the noble character, the sterling deeds and the inestimable worth of the man who founded the great colony of Pennsylvania toward the end of the Seventeenth century, the American of today, inspired by reverential awe, cannot be blamed if he wants more than a mere pilgrimage to the shrine of his idol will give.

"Such satisfaction as may be derived from a visit to the burial ground of Jordans, where the remains of William Penn rest, is incomparable with that which the consummation of the cherished object would impart.

"The motive which give rise to the desire, not an unnatural one when all is considered, do not spring from any wish to rob England of all that is left of one of her noblest sons, but are the outcome of a pure esteem for the memory of the man who, fired by the spirit of republicanism and guided by noble precepts and doctrines, combined with a fearlessness of character, a generous nature and a stout heart, was foremost in laying the foundation upon which much of America's greatness has risen."

The last occasion upon which overtures of this description were made was as far back as 1881. The negotiations then made for the removal of William Penn's remains were unsuccessful.

There seems every probability that there will be even stronger resentment to any such project at the present time. Not only are the members of the Society of Friends in England adverse to the idea, but many others who are admirers of William Penn would strongly oppose the proposal.

The old familiar Bible story of Samson and the foxes, and how he revenged himself on his enemies, the Philistines, has been apparently plagiarized in action by some Liverpool incendiaries.

A remarkable discovery was ma the other morning by a party of sal vage firemen engaged in a cotton warehouse, which was the scene of a light outbreak of fire. While a search was being made among the debris it was noticed that several bricks had been removed from the wall, and a further examination revealed a live cat, with a long string attached to its tail upon which were the remnants of some charred material that had evidently been saturated with inflammable liquid.

The theory of the police is that the cat was deliberately sent into the warehouse, where the cotton was stored, the artificial tail having been lighted beforehand. The prompt suppression of the fire on Sunday night no doubt saved the cat's life.

The discovery confirms the police in the belief that the numerous cotton fires of the past few months have been the work of incendiaries, for the discovery of whom they have offered a reward of $2,500.

The anonymous offer of $2,500 for the first aeroplane flight over London has caused some indignation in what can now be described as aeroplane circles.

It is felt that the offer of such a prize will do nothing to encourage aviation, as no one but a very foolhardy aeroplanist would attempt the feat. The secretary of the Aero club considers, indeed, that it is time some restriction was put upon the offering of prizes, and that the Aero club should have the power to veto any competition which is unsuitable.

"In the present development of flying," he said yesterday, "it is almost criminal to tempt aeroplanists to fly over London. The present offer is equivalent to offering a man $2,000 to break his neck, and the money could be far better employed in promoting reasonable competitions which would lead to the advancement of the new art.

"Flying is quite dangerous enough under perfect conditions, and it is folly to offer tempting prizes for feats which could only lead to broken necks.

"It would be a great thing if all offers of prizes were first submitted to the Aero club."

An appeal for the reinstatement of the name of King Charles I in the Church calendar has been addressed to the archbishops of Canterbury and York by the earl of Castlestuart, president, and H. S. Wheatley-Crowe, founder, of the Royal Martyr Church union. The society was formed to encourage a general observance of the day on which King Charles was beheaded, and to obtain the reinsertion of a special service for Jan. 30 in the Prayer Book.

It is pointed out in the petition that the monarch's name has been omitted since 1859; and that to a considerable number of loyal church people it is incredible that the Church of England should forget the devout king on the day of his supreme sacrifice.

"All political issues apart," added the earl of Castlestuart and Mr. Wheatley-Crowe, "the king was free to choose between devotion to the Church of England and a barbarous death, or a new conventional religion with a life of empty sovereignty. He chose the former, and by his death saved the Church of England from incalculable peril, and the catholic and apostolic principles of the English church were vindicated.

"He was a man of deep personal religion, a loyal servant of the church, a firm believer in her doctrines and a faithful observer of her practices. The Church of England today needs more than ever that example of faith, devotion and self-sacrifice which shone forth in King Charles the Martyr."

TRAINS THE FEET OF NEW YORK CHILDREN

LOUIS H. CHALIF.

One of the most interesting features of the great Hudson-Fulton celebration was the children's day, when folk dances were given in the parks of New York and 500,000 children appeared in costume in a great parade. Folk dancing is now one of the features of child-training in New York, and the dancing master is as exalted as he has been in the countries of Europe for generations. The dances to celebrate the Hudson-Fulton anniversary were designed and taught to the children by Prof. Louis H. Chalif, a graduate of the Russian Imperial School of Ballet Dancing.

In Russia ballet dancing is taught as earnestly and scientifically as singing or any of the allied arts. What Russian ballet dancing is in its perfection, London has been learning this season through the appearance of some of the dancers of the Imperial opera, and New York is to see at least one of these famous dancers at the Metropolitan opera this season.

Prof. Chalif was connected with the Metropolitan opera for a time. He is the leading exponent of physical expression in the United States at the present time, having only one possible rival, a Boston teacher of dancing. To the Boston school and the Chalif school in New York come dancing masters from every part of the United States to perfect themselves in their art. At the meeting of the Playground association in New York city Prof. Chalif delivered a lecture on the "Psychology of Dancing." He divides the subject into four parts—imitative dancing, symbolic dancing, interpretative dancing and the pure art of dancing.

TOWER PEOPLE ARE DISGUSTED

Don't Like Idea of Railroad Not Building a Fine Depot.

Tower, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens generally are considerably disappointed over the decision of the Iron Range railroad in regard to a new depot.

Instead of the erection of a new depot at the foot of Spruce street, it is said the company will build a platform at the track in the rear of the Vermilion hotel, and that the trains will stop there to take on and discharge passengers, and that tickets will be sold at the hotel.

This plan may accommodate the travelers, but is certainly contrary to the wishes of the business people. It would be better as it at present, for now visitors traverse the length of Main street if they go from the depot to the Vermilion hotel, thereby giving all merchants a chance to merit their patronage.

There is no passable thoroughfare to this proposed platform. It is generally hoped that the company may give up this idea of erecting a platform and seriously consider the erection of the new depot.

With every one putting forth every effort at the present time to beautify and promote the welfare of the city, the depot should be built.

SHOULD GIVE WOMEN VOTES

That Was Decision in Women Suffrage Debate in Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)——A very pleasant and entertaining program was given by members of the Crescent Literary society at its first meeting of the year in the high school auditorium yesterday evening.

One of the many entertaining features was a debate as to whether or not the women of Minnesota should be entitled to vote. The opening speaker in the affirmative, Esther Ferris, presented her arguments in a convincing way, and gave good illustrations of her points, showing that politics are essential factors in home life and consequently it is the duty of every woman to vote.

She was followed by Andrew Buchholtz for the negative, who tried to convince the audience, in an able address, that in every locality that woman voting was tried it had met with failure, and corruption resulted. He was followed by Irene Davey of the affirmative, who cited where women voting had been tried and proved successful. Her remarks were full of good points, all of which were clearly brought out. Harry Anderson, for the negative, then followed with the most forceful address of the evening, in which he claimed woman's proper place in society is in the home. Esther Ferris and Andrew Bucholtz, in rebuttal, both summarized their points in good manner. The result of the debate as decided upon by the judges, Miss Polly Bullard, Miss Ethel Corbin and Oscar Hill, was for the affirmative by two to one.

The program was opened with a piano solo by Jennie Mulligan, which was well rendered. The rendering of "Annie Laurie" by the Glee club, consisting of Rosalie Viger, Mabel Kiley, Flossie Noel, Curtis Bent, Charles Crotzier, Jennie Mulligan and Percy Pryor was well received. A shadow picture playlet entitled "Cinderalla," by members of the sophomore class, proved one of the hits of the evening. Two classical selections on the piano by Polly Rabinowitz were frequently applauded.

Rassier swore that he saw Kenney in Randall a day or so before the crime was committed and a couple of days afterward. On the latter occasion Kennedy was said to have been scratched about the face. Kennedy was freed on the testimony of lumbermen from the northern part of the state, who stated that the defendant had been in their employ at the time the girl was put to death. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. (Continued from page 1.)

drunk with power and already showing unmistakeable signs of returning to the corruption and disregard for the rights of the citizen that has always characterized a party that long remains without an active and cohesive and thoroughly organized opposition, that the one man who might have brought order out of chaos and returned the minority party to its former power for good in the councils of the nation should be taken away in the height of his usefulness. Let us hope that a leader worthy of his place may arise in our midst."

Three Things to Remember.

The memorial fund will close on or about Nov. 1, and $25,000 is the grand mark set by the commission appointed by Governor Eberhart. Only three and one-half weeks remain in which to accomplish the desired result. There is yet much that can be done by societies, lodges, schools and employes of business concerns, in addition to the individual subscriptions, and from now on the figures ought to go upward with a rush.

Today a general circular is going out to the country press, from Treasurer B. F. Nelson, 728 Security Bank building, Minneapolis, to whom all completed lists are to be forwarded. The circular calls attention to these main points:

First, that all contributions will be credited to locality or source of collection as well as to individuals, and that contributions are not to exceed $1 each.

Second, that it is desired to close the fund on or about Nov. 1.

Third, that "every man, woman and child in the state who wishes to share in this expression of esteem and regard for our lamented governor should have a chance to make a contribution to the fund." The newspapers are asked to publish the address of the commission, and churches, labor unions, employers of labor, clubs and associations of all kinds, are asked to start subscription lists promptly.

FRESH CLASH IS FEARED OVER LID ON RESERVATION

tion of keeping open. Mr. Oakley says that the places will be raided again if this intention is carried out, and if this occurs there is bound to be serious trouble, as the officials and citizens of the Indian country are in full sympathy with the liquor dealers.

The liquor men will have to haul their supplies in wagons to the reservation, as the breweries have announced their intention not to ship any more liquor to the reservation.

Claims He Was Right.

William E. Johnson, chief special officer of the Indian bureau, who led the raiders, says he acted within the law, that the saloon men were warned to stop selling liquor to Indians, but that they didn't obey; that the move against them was made solely to protect the Indians, and that if the Indians were not protected, every saloon violating the law would be descended upon similarly. Those licensed liquor dealers who protect the Indians may do business, even in the restricted district, he says.

Officials in the towns where raids were made are quite indignant. In one place, Calloway, the mayor was thrown out of a saloon by the raiders when he attempted to interfere.

Bad Breath From Stomach and Catarrh

Many Persons Are Victims of This Disagreeable Complaint.

It is quite common to hear of persons being spoken of as thoroughly agreeable companions, highly entertaining in conversation, fascinating and attractive in manner, gifted, well-read, accomplished and possessing all the attributes and qualifications necessary to make them desirable guests at parties and entertainments, but for the single fact that, for some cause or other, such as stomach trouble, decay of teeth, or throat and nasal catarrh, they are the unfortunate possessors of bad breath.

That one drawback is sufficient to make them almost universally shunned, and no matter how erudite or scholarly they may be, how much they may have traveled, or how large a fund of interesting anecdote they may have accumulated, and which they may be capable of relating in an entertaining manner, the fact that they are victims of offensive breath causes every other consideration to be set aside by their friends.

This is indeed unfortunate, and it has been the means of causing many a persons to avoid society and social intercourse, because, realizing as they do, how disagreeable it must be to others, and wishing at the same time to avoid embarrassment and criticism, they are left with the only alternative of remaining off to themselves, and being deprived of many of the pleasures of life.

Such a deprivation is, however, wholly unnecessary, and persons who have long been troubled with foul breath from any cause, should know that there is a remedy for its relief, one which is a powerful absorber and remover of foul gases from the stomach, and an efficient oxidizer and purifier of offensive breath, whether from stomach or teeth, or caused by catarrh —and that justly celebrated remedy is STUART'S CHARCOAL LOZENGES.

Thousands of persons testify to the fact that though they were once victims of bad breath, which compelled them to avoid the companionship of others, they are now able to mingle freely with their friends, to attend entertainments, parties and the theater, and to enjoy life generally, happy in the thought that through the use of Stuart's Antiseptic Charcoal Lozenges, their breath is rendered sweet and pure, and cannot give offense to even the most fastidious persons.

These wonderfully purifying lozenges, which are composed of the purest charcoal, and made from willow wood, will sweeten the foulest breath, purify the most impure stomach and besides stopping the fermentation and decomposition of food, will also remove the breath-odors resulting from the use of onions, tobacco, alcohol and German cheese.

COAL MAN HITS BACK

Sued for Coal Bill, He Attacks Contract With the Company.

Claims Document Is Contrary to Public Policy and Is Void.

Brainerd, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. H. Hitch of this city, through W. W. Bane, his attorney, makes an unusual plea in defense of a suit brought by the M. A. Hanna Coal company to recover for coal sold him.

The answer, which is on file in the office of the clerk of the district court, admits the purchase, and that there is an amount of $400 unpaid on the account, but sets up as a defense that the contract for the coal was contrary to public policy and therefore void. Hitch in his affidavit alleges that a part of the consideration of the contract was that he agreed not to sell hard coal for less than $8.60 per ton, nor soft coal for less than $7.25 and $6 per ton, this contract being in restraint of trade and designed to limit competition in the coal business in Brainerd. He also makes a counter-claim against the plaintiffs for $50 for expenditures and of $1,000 for damages, because they, in conjunction with "one A. L. Hoffman and one H. M. Kringlebotton," filed a petition in bankruptcy against him when he was not bankrupt, and that the petition was dismissed on its merits by the court.

LENGBY LOSES BY LARGE FIRE

Polk County Town Sustains a Loss of About $50,000.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Lengby, a town of about 100 population located in the northwestern part of Polk couny, came near being wiped off the map by fire Thursday. The entire business district and some of the residence district being destroyed, the total estimated loss reaching beyond the $50,000 mark, about half the loss being covered by insurance.

The fire stared in the R. Ringstad general store building where the postoffice was located, the origin being unknown. This building was a mass of flames and fanned by a strong wind the adjoining buildings were enveloped by the blaze before the fire department could do any work.

The A. Lillo general store and large warehouse was destroyed, as were the coal sheds together with the gasoline tank which when caught by the flames, resulted in a terrific explosion. A string of Great Northern box cars and 800 cords of wood, belonging to A. Lillo were soon a mass of flames.

F. Lemars, one of the volunteer firemen, was severely and probably fatally injured by falling from the roof of one of the buildings, which collapsed while he was fighting the flames. The fire department only had one engine with which to work and could do nothing to check the flames.

LAY STEEL NEXT YEAR.

Good Progress Being Made on Railroad Branches From Mandan.

Mandan, N. D., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—There will be no steel laid on the two branches of the Northern Pacific that are being built out of this city this fall. The grading work, however, will be completed and all will be in readines for the steel crews early next year, when it is expected that the operations will be concluded and the lines put in running order.

The grading work has been progressing with wonderful rapidity. Under the plan that was carried out by the railroad, the grading work was commenced at points along the entire line almost simultaneously. The sub-contractors each had so great a mileage to care for and the completion of each of these will mark the completion of grading work with one continuous grade, one extending to the south and the other to the north.

SUNDAY THEATERS WIN.

District Judge Rules That Law Does Not Refer to Playhouses.

Albert Lea, Minn., Oct. 9.—Judge Kingsley has handed down an important decision regarding Sunday theaters. The local theater management has been giving performances Sunday night, and when the grand jury met, "Sunday rest" advocates had the owners of the theater indicted.

The attorneys demurred to the indictment and the court sustained the demurrer, his memorandum citing that the word "show" in the statute did not refer to theatrical performances, but to circuses, Wild West shows, etc.

The court urged that the case be taken to the supreme court. However, the state cannot appeal a criminal case, and the defense is satisfied with the decision.

Former Moorhead Man Kills Himself in Goodhue County.

Moorhead, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word has reached the city of the suicide at Kenyon, Minn., of A. P. Frettem, who formerly ran the Pearl saloon here.

Mr. Fretten lived with his wife and family at 216 Second avenue north. Two weeks ago he left, with his family, for Kenyon, in Goodhue county, intending to go to the home of his mother. He was a victim of consumption, and when he left here he was in a precarious condition. Instead of going to his mother's farm he stopped with an elder sister. He was utterly depressed an in a thoroughly despondent condition. One afternoon he left his family and made his way to his room; he laid down upon the bed and, pulling the bed covers about him to muffle the sound of the explosion, placed a revolver to his head and fired the fatal shot. When found, shortly after, he was dead.

QUINCY MINER KILLED.

Mass of Falling Rock Fatally Injures William Orr.

Hancock, Mich., Oct. 9.—(Special to the Herald.)—William Orr is dead of injuries sustained in the Quincy mine Wednesday evening. Orr and his brother, Daniel, were working in the shaft when a large mass of rock fell upon them, crushing William to the earth and burying him beneath the pile.

Daniel received several bruises about the head and body, but his injuries are not dangerous. William's head was crushed and he was otherwise badly crushed so that it was seen at once that he could not survive. He was hurried to the St. Joseph's hospital, where all that was possible was done for him, until he passed away.

The deceased was 27 years of age and a native of Cornwall. He had been here about two years, during which time he had been employed at the Quincy. He is survived by two brothers in this city, Thomas J. and Daniel, and another brother, Frederick C. in Butte, Mont.

The funeral will be held on Sunday from the Pewabic Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. M. H. Eldred officiating, and interment will be in the St. George lot in Forest Hill cemetery, Houghton. The Sons of St. George, of which society Mr. Orr was a member, will have charge of the funeral arrangements.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 9.—Joseph B. Williams, a traveling man for a Chicago house, Wednesday night about midnight jumped from a second story window of the Hotel White to the cement walk below, yelling that some one was trying to murder him. He left this city yesterday uninjured by his jump of twenty-five feet or more.

Pine City, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rudolph Polanka met with a rather distressing accident Tuesday afternoon while out after game birds.

The explosion resulted in the laceration of the muscles of the left forearm. The lad is 14 years of age and attends school here. He will not be disabled for long, according to the doctor's report.

VICTIMS OF CARELESSNESS

Coughs, Colds and Death From Consumption Due To Neglect

A cold, chronic cold, cough, catarrh, bronchitis, consumption—Death, is the history of thousands of victims every year.

And yet many of us go on our happy-go-lucky way, catching cold, letting it run itself out, laughing at danger because we are strong. Every time we let a cold run itself out we are running strength out of our body. We are making it easy for disease to catch hold of us.

As the best a cold or cough is disagreeable and it's mighty foolish to suffer its discomforts when it is not necessary. It's much easier to prevent colds and coughs than cure them, but a safe antiseptic like Salubrin will do both. This great Swedish antiseptic which is exempted from taxes by royal decree has just recently been brought to this country. The Salubrin Laboratory in Chicago is a branch of the famous Eslof Laboratory of Sweden, where Professor Seved Ribbing, M. D., and other eminent professors of the Royal University of Lund co-operated with the inventor of Salubrin, Dr. P. Hakanson, to establish the paramount value of Salubrin as an antiseptic remedy. Not merely those who have tried Salubrin, but high in scientific circles, skilled observers, attest the positive beneficial effects of Salubrin not only in coughs and colds, but in all lung and bronchial troubles, and catarrh of the throat and nose.

The 50-cent bottles of Salubrin now for sale at all druggists are intended for professional as well as home uses. Don't be careless. Avoid danger by taking Salubrin for coughs and colds.

Call at your druggist's for a free Salubrin Booklet or write Salubrin Laboratory, 13 Salubrin Bldg., Grand Crossing, Chicago.

For sale and recommended in Duluth by William A. Abbett, druggist, 120 West Superior street, 101 West Fourth street and 302 East Second street.

IN THE SHADOW OF DEATH.

Over in Spain a great man stands in deadly peril. For his sins against established tyranny his blood is wanted. The world is watching, and from every country is arising protests against the blow that threatens him.

His name is Francisco Ferrer. His crime is great,—in the eyes of tyranny,—for he has committed the greatest possible offense against the power that holds the people of Spain under its benumbing and corrupting might. He has spread education among the masses—and education means the downfall of tyranny. Education is the mother of liberty—so those whose power is maintained by ignorance hate education and fear it. Also, they hate and fear and seek to destroy those who foster it. This has been the history of human progress: tyranny has cracked the whip of human slavery over mankind so long as he has been sodden in ignorance. With the first gentle glow of the light of education was born a spirit of unrest that smouldered and grew and presently burst into flames—mighty devastating flames in which monarchy and bureaucracy and Special Privilege and self-arrogated powers of rapine and plunder which had been handed down from sire to son were consumed in blood and fire from which rose the might—feeble at first, but slowly finding its way and feeling its strength—of popular government. The whip of tyranny fits the back of the man who is in brutish ignorance; but when that brute rises into manhood on the wings of knowledge, the mighty power of the tyrant becomes feeble indeed, for dynasties fall and aristocracies of birth or of Special Privilege go crashing down before the breath of popular education.

Therein lies the offense, the deadly sin, of Francisco Ferrer. He is one of the greatest educators of Europe, if not of the world. He has spread the boon of education among the masses of Spain, that fair and fertile land whose richness is locked and whose manhood is chained by ignorance, the handmaiden of tyranny.

So Ferrer, for this heinous crime, is feared by the dominant classes of Spain, and in such a case to fear means to hate; and to hate means to covet his blood.

The powers that hold Spain fast in the chains of tyranny blame Ferrer for the unrest which has lately resulted in bloody uprisings. They are right, in a sense, because from the knowledge born of his system of education came the spirit of popular aspiration which has had ineffective and disastrous result in recent riots. But these cunning men of might don't put it that way. Three years ago, because they desired to destroy the system of popular education which he had begun, they sought to fasten upon him the responsibility for the plot against King Alfonso which was later shown to have been concocted by the government itself in order to prevent reductions in its appropriations. Then he stood in the shadow of death, but he was saved not only by proof of his innocence, but because progressive Europe stood by him.

Now Ferrer is charged—unjustly, is the world-wide belief—with having instigated and led the Barcelona uprising. It is not so much the blood of Ferrer that the satellites and parasites of tyranny seek, but the destruction of the system of education of which he is the author, and in which they see the seeds that will presently ripen into their downfall.

The world will watch with bated breath the treatment of Ferrer. Yet even if he is killed, liberty in Spain will yet be born of knowledge spread by popular education.

THE INFLUENCE OF HENRY GEORGE.

The recent death of Mayo W. Hazeltine, the literary critic of the New York Sun who brought to his work such a wide range of knowledge and such a clear facility of exposition that he was easily the greatest critic in this country, recalls the fact that thirty years ago, when Henry George published his "Progress and Poverty," Mr. Hazeltine acclaimed it as an "epoch-making book." The course of economic thought since then has made this great critic out to be a true prophet.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat, in an able discussion of the effect of the Henry George theories upon the attitude of the world toward taxation, says: "One may doubt whether Rosseau, with his 'Contrat Social,' exerted a more fateful influence upon the ideas of his country and his age. * * * * The case is instructive as showing that the world's original thinking is done by those whom the world brands as monomaniacs while they live. George was a candidate more than once, yet he never held the reins of office, though he might have been mayor of New York if death had not come before the day of election. Nevertheless, the spirit of this daring philosopher breathes through the legislation of the twentieth century. The clauses of the Lloyd-George budget which deal with 'land values' and 'uncarned increment' might have been drawn by the author of 'Progress and Poverty' himself. And the Australasian commonwealths have gone great lengths in exploiting the basic principle of the single tax. Not only so, but continental Europe has advanced far along the path which the American blazed. If the ancient standards have been flung aside in dealing with the riddles which a complex industrial civilization creates, the change is mainly due to the thinker who took nothing for granted. The single-tax system is Utopian, to be sure, because it leaves human nature out of the account; but the race owes much to Utopia, though not privileged to live in the land where there is neither injustice, nor tears."

Ideas kindred to the single tax are held by thousands who do not know what George preached. The doctrine of taxation that those who get the most from society should pay the most taxes is a sharp revolution from the old idea that those who contributed most to the common good should pay the most taxes, but it is almost universally held, and Henry George is largely responsible for it. Theory has not gone far into practice in this country, but theory so widely held must sooner or later become practice.

A man buys a piece of ground for a song. A community grows up around it and makes it enormously valuable. The owner has contributed nothing to bring this about; he has earned not a dollar of the increase. He has paid taxes on unused property as such, while those who made the community and gave his property value have borne almost all the expense. This is as grievously wrong as the system that taxes heavily the poor man's tiny garden, from which he makes his living and contributes to the support of others, while leaving untaxed the broad acres of the nobleman's hunting park. The perception of this gross wrong, now almost universally felt, is due in large measure to the thought of Henry George and the activities of his followers.

PUZZLE: WHICH IS THE GENTLEMAN?

In a well-filled street car, yesterday afternoon, two men entered and took the last remaining seats.

One was a vision of prim correctness. His clothes, obviously new, were of the latest pattern. His collar was spick and span and immaculate, his tie was just what it should have been, his low shoes were correct and neat, his socks were attractive though not too audibly so. His trousers were creased to the nicety of a gnat's eyelid, and as he sat down, before adjusting his eyeglasses he carefully pulled up the legs of those sightly trousers to forestall a bag in the knees that would have dimmed the splendor of his appearance. He was a young man, good looking, and nobody, it was clear, appreciated better than he the charm of the picture he made. Yet there was little expression in his face, and his eyes were a shade too closely together.

The other man was different. His coat was too short in the back and in the arms, his trousers bagged shamelessly, wrinkled ridiculously, and turned up discouragedly at the bottoms. Both coat and trousers were stained and dirty and frayed; there were holes in both, and places where a workbench had obviously inscribed the record of its daily contact. His shirt was a plain check such as workingmen wear at their labors, and it was adorned by neither collar nor cuffs. His hands were red and hairy; his face was brown and stubbed with several days' growth; the kindly twinkle in his blue eyes radiated something that greatly resembled the proverbial "map of Ireland."

Presently entered a tired, poorly dressed woman with a large baby. She looked about for a seat, but saw none. She looked once at the well-dressed young man, who sat stiffly, looking straight ahead past the tired woman who was not two feet away from him.

The other man across the aisle had been looking toward the front of the car, and just then he turned. The woman had shifted her squirming burden to one arm, and with the other had grasped a strap; a look of resignation had come into her washed out eyes. Immediately the man with no collar or cuffs jumped to his feet.

"Here's a seat, lady," he said; and he bowed awkwardly as he grasped his battered derby and lifted it. The woman, her face lit by a warm smile of thanks, sank into the vacant seat with a sigh of relief, and put her baby on her knee. The baby, bobbing its head jerkily around to take in the sights, saw the young man across the car, and, attracted perhaps by the sightliness of his appearance, waved its hand and smiled a sticky, cheerful smile at him. The young man glanced, looked away, and held his head higher. He seemed bored.

But the big fellow in the rough clothes looked down, caught the smile, and extended a thick and hairy fist with dexter finger pointed gently at the baby ribs. The baby chuckled, grasped the finger, its own little fingers barely able to encompass it, and gooed at the man. The man said something in baby language; the baby laughed understandingly; the mother smiled as though she, too, understood; the man across the aisle looked pained. The man with the battered derby found another seat, which had been vacated, but had hardly got himself comfortably seated when another woman came in; again he was promptly on his feet, hat off and bent in an awkward bow. The woman passed by the unseeing eyes of the well-dressed young man and took the seat. The man with no collar hung from a strap and flirted unblushingly with the baby, which responded with a democracy that took no account of his clothing.

Puzzle: which is the gentleman?

THE BACK YARD GARDEN.

The first response to The Herald's request to its readers to send in reports of their home gardening experiences, published last evening, is interesting, and it is exactly in the proportions and along the lines that The Herald desired and expected. Some reports, undoubtedly, will show larger yields and greater actual profit than this man's attractive account shows, but the spirit of it could hardly be improved upon.

From a back yard space twenty feet by thirty feet, he got during the season just passed greater or smaller quantities of the following vegetables: "Early Alaska" peas, "White Burbank" potatoes, "Golden Bantam" sweet corn, stringless string beans, green tomatoes, green onions, beets, turnips, radishes, parsnips, lettuce, parsley and cucumbers. He tried some summer squash, but it did not mature.

He didn't make much money out of it; figuring in his labor he probably made nothing: but he had a bully time doing it, and that is worth money any day. He figures that his seeds cost about $1 and that the stuff raised, at a fair market price, was worth about $6. His living expenses were reduced, therefore, only about $5—but you can do quite a number of interesting things with a 5-dollar bill. "Add the labor," says Mr. Whiton, "and it hardly paid from a financial standpoint, but the work was done at odd times, mornings and evenings, so that it was not noticed and did not interfere with business or pleasure.

"But far away and above the small profit was the benefit and enjoyment, the exhiliration and joy of seeing things grow; and this, added to the keen pleasure of eating something produced by yourself, makes it indeed a paying proposition in every sense of the word. Some wiseacre has advocated 'whist' for old age, but give me the garden, with the fresh air and the morning dews, and I will exclaim, with the Frenchman, 'This is life!'"

That's the kind of testimony that counts. Mr. Whiton is a philosopher, and it is his kind of philosophy that The Herald has been urging upon its readers when it recommended that they take up, as a means of pleasure, profit and recreation, the back yard garden. The delight of reading seed catalogues, the pleasure of choosing seeds, the excellent exercise and wholesome contact with life-givig earth and the glad outdoors, the keen anticipations of the growing time—"the exhiliration and joy of seeing things grow"—the comfort of fresh garden truck on the table, "the keen pleasure of eating something produced by yourself," the charm of having this delightful occupation to take up spare time—these are real joys that come with gardening, large or small.

This first report whets the appatite for more. Let us hear how your garden went this summer.

WHAT WOMEN CAN DO.

The campaign for the encouragement of home industries, renewed last evening by The Herald as a part of the general movement for a bigger, better and busier Duluth, offers one way—though there are others—in which the women of the community can, if they will, co-operate effectively. They are, as a rule, the buyers for the household; and if they will remember to make their dealers sell them goods made in Duluth wherever they are obtainable, and to insist that their dealers handle them when they are not now in stock, they can help immensely in building up the city's industries, and thereby in building up the city.

Women do not lack public spirit, as many an interesting occasion has shown. In the way of making the city sightlier, healthier and better to live in they have represented practically all the public spirit that has been manifested to that end. Not all the commodities that are made in Duluth are bought by the women, but many of them are; and in most of these cases the duty of giving preference to goods of home manufacture will be overlooked unless the housewives take it up.

A SCHOOL FOR MARRIAGE.

What would you think of a school for marriage, where young women were taught how to be good housewives and good matrimonial partners?

There is such a school, but it is not, unfortunately, in this country. It is in Paris, where a rich woman, the Countess de Greffhules, looking about her for a worthy method of spending her surplus money and time, selected this most worthy object and has bent her energies toward making it a go.

The whole curriculum embraces only three general subjects: "Economy, Neatness, Homemaking." But what a world of pleasant significance they cover!

Under the course of economy the instructions are along obvious lines. The pupils learn needlework, so that if necessary—and it is necessary in such a tremendous proportion of cases—they can make their own clothing and their children's clothing. They learn economy in food preparation, and the utilization of materials that often go to waste for lack of knowledge of how to make use of them. It is said that many wise housewives make bully dishes out of stuff that some housekeepers put into the garbage barrel; and such studies as this come naturally under the course in economy.

Neatness is also obvious; and as French girls are proverbially neat, it is an easy task. But these students, and others similarly placed wherever they may be, should not overlook the economy and wisdom of neatness. Too many wives, who have primped and made themselves beautiful when they were being courted, lapse into unkempt and uncomely habits when they are married; as if it wasn't a great deal more important to keep a husband's respect and affection than it is to get a husband.

Under homemaking comes the task of learning how to please the future husband by cheerfulness, intelligence and sweetness of manner—all of which is quite as important as good beefsteak, good bread, clean housekeeping and comely appearance. Between a wife who keeps herself dressed neatly even when at her housework, but who frowns and nags and frets and scolds, and a wife who forgets to keep up her personal appearance but who is uniformly pleasant, cheerful and comfortable to have around, most men would choose the latter; though it would seem that a woman that had the good sense to be cheerful and congenial would also have enough self-respect to keep herself looking desirable.

We have no "schools for marriage" in this country, but some of the more material things in the list of studies reported above, like economy and good housekeeping, are taught in public school courses of domestic science. Therefore when this country becomes enlightened enough to insist that every girl in the public schools must perfect herself thoroughly in domestic science, no matter what else she learns, this will be a great force for good. The other matters, like cheerfulness, neatness, congeniality and good temper, are not so easy; but they can be learned, and parents have a large responsibility in this connection.

Nor should it be considered for a moment that the obligation to be economical, neat, congenial and decent about the home is confined to the wife. That isn't so, by a long shot. Young men who will some day be husbands, and many men who have been husbands for a long time, have much to learn, too.

IF ALL SMOKED DULUTH CIGARS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your article in The Herald of last night's issue, pertaining to the patronizing of home industries and the upbuilding of our city, was read by me with the greatest appreciation, and my only regret is that it will probably escape the notice of many citizens, who are negligent in patronizing home-made goods and to whom such an article would be educational. After reading your worthy article, becoming enthusiastic thereby, I cannot refrain from complimenting you for the same, and in addition, giving a few facts and figures of one industry that is being terribly and shamefully neglected by our citizens, and that particular one is the cigar industry. For many years past the cigarmakers of Duluth endeavored to impress upon our citizens the importance of smoking none but home-made cigars, but to no apparent avail. Just think of the deplorable condition of this industry. We have a population of about 80,000, with only about fifty cigarmakers, and of this number there are some out of employment continually, due to the fact that our citizens who smoke do not purchase home-made cigars. And if it were not for the fact that our cigar manufacturers sell a very large percentage of their output in other markets, there probably would not be more than twenty-five or thirty cigarmakers employed in our city. This city is considered one of the greatest cigar-consuming cities in the United States, but it is also considered one of the poorest cities for home cigarmakers.

I venture to say, from statistical investigations, in the past, that if the cigars that are smoked in this city were manufactured here, there would be at least 500 cigarmakers in our city today. Citizens, awake! Do you know what this would mean to our city? The cigarmakers, if regularly employed, earn about $20 per week, and it means that there would be $10,000 distributed per week within our midst, in place of being sent to Eastern markets. As cigarmakers, as a rule, are men of families, it means that there would be more homes built, which means more employment for those engaged in the erection of buildings; who would increase the army of consumers, and so on down the line. The argument is frequently advanced that we cannot make as good cigars in this city as they do elsewhere. But such is not the case. We produce just as good cigars in Duluth as are produced in the world. And why not? The Eastern manufacturer buys the raw material in Connecticut, Ohio and Cuba, for example, manufactures it into cigars and ships them to Duluth. The Duluth manufacturer buys the raw material in precisely the same markets, has it shipped to Duluth, transforms it into cigars, and the Duluth smokers argue that they are not as good as the cigars from the East. Such nonsense! Simply ridiculous. Truthfully speaking, the Eastern manufacturers do not, as a rule, produce as good cigars, for the simple reason that they must compete with the Duluth manufacturer, consequently, must sell their product at the same minimum price. They do not, as a rule, sell directly to the retailer, but through a jobber or drummer. The jobber wants profits; the drummer must have his expenses paid. In either case this cost must come from somewhere, and the natural result is the cigar must be deteriorated in quality to assist in paying the profits of the jobber or the expenses of the drummer. See the point? Probably it is a fact, sometimes, that unscrupulous manufacturers, for the sake of greed for more profits, or to be better equipped to compete with other manufacturers, by giving the dealer better prices, will resort to making inferior cigars, but the general public should not hold all of the manufacturers responsible for the acts of one or more. In justice to all, he (the smoker) should try the products of every manufacturer in our city, and I am sure he will be well paid for his trouble by discovering that there are cigars made in Duluth that will equal and excel any cigars in the world, barring none. In conclusion, I would urge upon our citizens to most emphatically insist on demanding of the dealers cigars that are made in Duluth, thereby assisting in the upbuilding of the cigar industry and the city of Duluth. Boom all home-made goods. Become a booster. Increase your own chances of making a living by giving employment to those who might purchase the article which you produce. Your very truly,

A CIGARMAKER OF THIRTY YEARS' RESIDENCE.

REASON IN THE DELAY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A good deal has been said in the newspapers, for some time past, about the delay in opening the courthouse, and a large portion of the blame has been placed upon the delivery of electric fixtures. We, being the contractors furnishing these fixtures, dislike very much the attitude of the newspapers in this matter, and it may be that the newspapers have obtained their information from some source which has not given proper thought to the protection which we deserve in this matter, and we are going to explain our position in the matter as follows, and trust you will give our letter the same consideration you would a verbal report or other written communication from a member of the courthouse commission, as to the delay in opening the building:

Let us explain that the details of the contract for furnishing these fixtures have been very much changed since it was awarded—and, by the way, it was awarded at the same time other contracts on the building were awarded, which was about eighteen months ago—and the facts, further, are that the result of such changes has enabled the county commissioners to purchase a later, improved, type of illuminating equipment which will give them better and more satisfactory results than if the original fixtures, as proposed by the original contract, had been furnished. Since the contract was closed, an improved type of Nernst lamp has been developed and proven commercially satisfactory, and the attention of the county commissioners and architects was directed to this fact, and the result was that they authorized the installation of this new type lamp in preference to the one to be furnished under the original contract, and, in effecting this change, quite a number of fixtures for the original contract, which had already been manufactured, had to be materially changed in design to accommodate this new type lamp. Now, the results which the county commission will obtain by the use of the later improved Nernst lamp are already well recognized, and we wish you would take note of these facts and give us as much credit in the future as you have been giving us discredit in the past. It is to be pointed out, further, that the commission for some time failed to realize this, and so took accasion to blame us, but now we have so effectually cleared ourselves that the commission not only thoroughly understands the delay, but are, on the other hand, very much pleased that such a delay could have effected such an improvement in their lighting equipment. Very truly yours,

NORTHERN ELECTRICAL CO.,
W. P. Bear, Manager.

Kinder Mad.

Everybody's: Steve Long is noted for attending to his own business and saying very little about it. One morning an inquisitive neighbor met him returning from the woods with his gun over his shoulder.

"Hello, Steve. Where ye been? A-shootin'?"

"Yep."

"What ye been a-shootin'"

"Dog."

"Yer dog? My! Was he mad?"

"Wall, he didn't look so danged well pleased."

THE WEATHER.

Some cloudy weather, with possible rain storms, promises to break into Duluth's long spell of fine weather.

A year ago today it was fair.

The sun rose this morning at 6:18 and will set at 5:32, making eleven hours and fifteen minutes of sunlight.

R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A disturbance that has moved its center from Manitoba to Missouri in the past twenty-four hours has caused rain in the lower Missouri and Mississippi valleys, together with mild temperature in the Central valley states. Much colder weather prevails in Manitoba and the Dakotas as a result of a decided increase in pressure in those districts. The barometer is high over the North Atlantic states and the plateau region. Another disturbance is developing over Alberta. Indications favor rain and colder weather tonight and Sunday at the Head of the Lakes."

The Great Public Question.

Houston Chronicle: The tariff is a tax. The government, at its custom houses located at every port of entry and place of importation on coast line and border line, collects on the foreign merchandise brought in a sum averaging 50 per cent under the Dingley law and under the Payne law nearly 2 per cent higher, and which under its maximum rates, to go into effect March 31, 1910, is about 27 per cent higher.

The effect of this enormous taxation which the American citizen has to pay, because the foreigner adds the amount of the duties paid to the price, is not only to fill the federal treasury. If this were the only effect patriotism might reconcile us to the system. The tariff does more. It enables the American manufacturer, who in foreign markets competes successfully with the foreigner, to monopolize the home market and add to the fair price of his goods an extortionate profit. A fair price is the cost of production plus a reasonable profit. The extortionate profit is the amount of the tariff, which is not paid to the government on home made goods, but which is nevertheless added to the fair price of the home made goods, foreign competition being cut off.

So we have these tariff truths established:

First—The American citizen pays the tariff on foreign goods and the government gets that.

Second—The American citizen pays the tariff on American goods and the American manufacturer gets that.

Third—In foreign markets the American manufacturer sells American goods to the foreigner cheaper than he sells the same goods to his American fellow citizens.

Fourth—The amount of the tariff, which averaged 50 per cent under the Dingley law, under the Payne law is now 2 per cent higher than 50 per cent and under the maximum rate will be 27 per cent higher after March 31, 1910.

This is why the tariff question is the great public question of the day. The state taxes the man of property but by the tariff the United States taxes the man who has no property—taxes every man, woman and child in the country on the necessaries and luxuries of life, and taxes them not only for its own benefit, but for the benefit of the tariff beneficiaries, who are the trusts. It matters not that the tariff is indirect, that it is paid in a disguised form in increased prices; it has to be paid, and the tariff high prices eat up the earnings of the poor and the moderately well to do, so that it is becoming more difficult for the ordinary citizen to make both ends meet, while the fortunes of our multimillionaires are the greatest in history.

If these fortunes were the result of superior business ability; if their possessors were getting rich honestly by their unaided efforts, it would be wicked envy for any one to object to their wealth. But when our government, the most powerful agency on earth, is used as a giant machine to make the rich richer and the poor poorer, it is idle for Senator Aldrich to declare that "the American people can be relied upon to maintain their unswerving loyalty to the protective policy."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Is Glory Worth Striving for?

So much glory is being passed around these days that we can't help asking what it is good for, how it may be won, how it compares with other objectives as a spur to make us get up and do something.

As a motive it is superior to the sordid desire to get gold. On the day that the morning papers were filled with the story of what Henson, Peary's body servant, said concerning his sensations at the Pole, I remarked to a colored bootblack: "A man of your race is getting a lot of glory these days." "Glory!" he sniffed contemptuously, "what's glory compared with the almighty dollar?" There you had the commercial spirit in all its nakedness and ugliness which refused to believe that men could be actuated by anything else than the greed for gold.

One certainly rises in the moral scale when he substitutes the desire for the praise of men for the passion to heap up money. For he knows that to deserve applause he will have to do something daring and unusual, something in the way of discovery or exploration or invention, something that increases the sum total of knowledge concerning this planet and this universe. Working under the impulse of such a motive, the man will be putting into operation a different set of powers than if he were cornering the wheat market or squeezing all his competitors in the chewing gum business. Yes, the desire for the praise of others is a legitimate one provided, when it is gratified, one does not become vain and supercilious, jealous and grasping. If one can't bear to hear anything good of a fellow scientist or a fellow inventor, then his own success has been at the expense of his nobler nature. "There's glory enough to go around,"—that's the stuff. A famous man who can say that from the bottom of his heart is not being hurt by the garlands of roses with which he may be decorated. Such an expression breathes a spirit of magnanimity, a recognition of the fact that the world is large and that a good many persons are experimenting today with flying machines, and seeking to perfect the automobile and undertaking to penetrate past the present bounds of human knowledge into regions hitherto unknown.

The yearning for fame should never be anything more than a subordinate motive. Back of it should always be two other great ambitions and usually, in the case of the noblest explorers and discoverers, these two motives are present. One is the passion for self-realization. Commander Peary tells us that for many years he has been so possessed by the desire for Arctic explorations that he could do nothing else. It was the only path through which he could work out that which was in him. Kipling foresees a day

"When no one shall work for money.
And no one shall work for fame,
But each for the joy of working."

Still nobler is the passion for service. Ah, here we touch the spring of real glory. Right up and down your street, perhaps in your home you can witness deeds of every day faithfulness and love and self-sacrifice. When you tell me about them, I shall at once burst out with the adjective "Glorious!" After all that is the glory worth striving for. Most of the other kinds are short lived. THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Cleveland Leader: "That boy of yours whistles the 'Merry Widow' waltz very correctly."

"Oh, he's a wonder. He remembers every tune he hears."

"Gee! He'll make a fortune as a comic opera composer some day."

Walters—Why, I don't know.

Williams—Oh, he isn't. Why, this morning I saw him riding in his automobile with a policeman.

Meggendorfer Blaetter: He—Why don't you have a dip?

She—Oh, I'm too old now. Whom should I bathe for?

Milwaukee News: "He tells me he caught a 40-pound bass."

"Give you any reason to believe him?"

"Gave me a fairly good cigar."

Tatler: The fond husband was seeing his wife off with the children for their vacation in the country. As she got on the train he said: "But, my dear, won't you take some fiction to read?"

"Oh, no," she responded sweetly. "I shall depend upon your letters from home!"

Miss Swellman—That isn't quite true. I succeeded in not attending.

Chicago Tribune: Unsophisticated Visitor—Why do so many of your best people play what they call bridge whist?

Society Leader—Ah, just to make the time fly.

Unsophisticated Visitor—I see—time is money.

"First rate."

"Pigs doin' well?"

"Fine."

"He sure did."

Success: As the young man caressed the cheek of his lady love she drew away hastily.

"I think," she said indignantly, "you had better see father first."

"Why, what do you mean?" asked the perplexed lover.

"Father," she replied, as she nursed her cheek, "is a barber."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

•••A movement is on foot, which will be actively pressed by the chamber of commerce, with the co-operation of several railroads centering in Duluth, to develop the millions of acres of land in the Lake Superior region now lying unproductive for lack of workers.

•••A. M. OLD BEN HARDIN OF KENTUCKY

BY SAVOYARD.

The Edict of Nantes was the work of Henry of Navarre and grim old Sully, the latter the faithfullest and one of the sagest counsellors who ever advised a king of France. It was the termination and adjustment of the religious wars that began soon after the death of Francis I and continued until the coronation of Henry IV, a period of over a century and three score years. And what a heroic period it was, the long struggle for supremacy between the Valois, the Bourbon, and the Lorraine! What a waste of genius it was, when Frenchmen spent eight score years cutting the throats of Frenchmen over an absurd quarrel as to which was the right road to heaven! But it made the richest food for history and romance, though history as yet has but barely tasted it, while romance is surfeited with it. My friend, Tom Watson, has written a very rascally book about France, but it is mere gossip. When the historian of France comes he will have many accomplishments. He will be Gibbon and Hume, Swift and Hazlitt, Hallan and Macaulay, and to these shall be added the splendid imagination of Burke and the Ithuriel spear of Carlyle. Well, that old reprobate, Louis XIV, in that most unhappy state possible to us poor sinners, found himself impotent with years and harassed with the animal lusts of youth, and so he married, but did not crown, the widow of a crippled man, who had written some witty and filthy poetry and prose, one Scarran. The woman, Madame Maintenon, was an icicle for love, but a volcano for religion, and she caused her senile old husband to make the Edict of Nantes, and it cost France more than the defeats of Crecy, Poictiers and Azincourt combined.

The best blood of France fled the realm. Many located in England. Others came to the Western hemisphere. South Carolina received great numbers of them, but many more located in Canada, and to Canada went some brothers, H.Arding; but owing to the rigors of the Canadian winters, several, three, I believe, went south. Two settled in Virginia, and the other continued his journey and located in South Carolina.

The name became Saxonized, and from it we get Hardin, Harden and Harding, and the greatest, most eminent, and most distinguished of the entire blood was the remarkable man of whom I am now trying to write, "Old Ben Hardin of Kentucky." It is a soldier race, and its blood has fertilized many a field of battle in defense of our great country. It is an adventurous race, and the name Hardin is writ conspicuous beside those of Boone, Kenton, Harrod, Logan and the other pioneers of "The Dark and Bloody Ground."

Ben Hardin was the sixth child of a family of seven children. His parents were Ben and Sarah Hardin, cousins-German, and he was born in Pennsylvania, Feb. 29, 1784. His parents did not intend to leave Virginia, and when they ascertained that they were in Westmoreland county, Pa., it was much to their discontent and somewhat to their disgust. When Ben was 4 years old, they moved to Kentucky and settled in the grand old county of Nelson. The mother was the head of the family.

If thou hadst been wife to Hercules,
Six of his labors thou'ld have done, and saved
Thy husband so much sweat.

She was a remarkable woman of masculine understanding and only such a woman could have been the mother of such a son. She was of that Virginia that Braddock came to protect from the Frenchman and the Indian. She had been the neighbor of, and had met and intimately known, George Washington, and when she led her husband and children to Kentucky, she was there a mother in Israel, an exemplar of the toils and the triumphs of the distaff side of the Kentucky pioneer household. It is a shame that a monument has not been raised in the old commonwealth to these grand old dames, but for whose love and fortitude there would have been no Kentucky.

When Ben Hardin was a boy of 7 his mother sent him on an errand to a neighbor's some miles away, and on his return he got lost in a dense and trackless forest. Greatly bewildered, he knew not what course to take, but wandered around for hours, when he heard the clap of a cowbell. He instantly made way toward the sound and found one of his father's cows. Patiently sitting down, he awaited the hour when the cow would lead him home at nightfall, and that she did.

It was just plain common sense reasoning as that, in the man, that made "Old Ben Hardin" the first lawyer of the Ohio valley in an age famous for the skill and learning of the bar of that country.

In his youth, Hardin was a pupil in the school of the grandfather of J. Proctor Knott; subsequently he attended the school of the famous Dr. Priestly of Bardstown, but at the instance of Felix Grundy, he sought instruction from Daniel Barry, a refugee Irishman and a brilliant scholar. The giant mind of young Hardin made giant strides under his tutelage. Here he became familiar with the classics. His reading was both varied and extensive, and the stores of learning he laid away in that infallible memory, to be drawn on at the instant, scores of years after, were simply prodigious. Andrew Barnett, uncle of the learned lawyer, Andrew Barnett of Louisville, had married a sister of Ben Hardin. She was much older than he, and he spent much of his boyhood at her house. Barnett was also a remarkable man of immense individuality of character, and one might fill a page of a newspaper telling of the many sorts of a man he was. Under his tutelage, young Ben became the most expert "seven-up" player in the whole country round about; but he rarely gambled, though it was an age when to gamble, to drink and to fight were the common vocations of 90 per cent of the male population of the entire state.

Before he was 20, young Hardin was sent to study law under the tutelage of his uncle, Martin D. Hardin of Richmond, Ky. There were few books, and he was set down to that terror of terrors, "Coke on Littleton." Here I will quote from one of the shrewdest observers:

"Most men think they are busy when they are simply occupied. The secret of success is the compression by the hydraulic force of a masterful intellect of the maximum of accomplishment into a minute, and the utilizing of sixty minutes in the hour and every wakeful hour in the day."

That is what Ben Hardin did. It made him a greater lawyer than his rival Rowan, or any of his cousins, the Wicklifts, or anybody else, except George Robertson, and I will say that if there was a better lawyer in all Kentucky than Robertson, it was Hardin, and if there was a better lawyer in all America than Hardin, it was Robertson.

After a year in the office of Martin D. Hardin the young man returned to Nelson county and entered the office of the great Felix Grundy as a pupil. It was the ablest bar of the state at that time, which means that it was the ablest bar between the Alleghany mountains and the setting sun. This boy, with a glowing and a growing mind, daily attended the sittings of the courts, saw mind clash with mind, learning outfuted by learning. Never was there a better school, never an apter scholar—never anywhere were associated in so small a community so much learning accompanied with so much eloquence, and this boy of 20 was soon to approve himself the master of the whole bunch. He joined a "debating society" and got to be the bell thether of it the first bound, and when he was admitted to the bar, or soon thereafter, he married Elizabeth Barbour, the belle of Washington county. At this time he was remarkable for his manly and athletic beauty and his fastidious dress; but ere he was 40 he was the most slovenly dressed great man in all America. His shoes were habitually untied and always unpolished, and it is said that when old Ben Hardin crossed one leg over the other and shook the top foot, a lying witness that he was cross-examining might as well "fess up" and go off the stand.

He and his wife located in Elizabethtown, where they remained but a little while, when he removed to Bardstown. What impelled him to go there I shall try to relate next week, for one letter cannot do half justice to his giant of a man. And now this young Hercules, not yet 25, was to grapple with Rowan, Wicklift, Hayes, Duval, Chapese and the other giants, and soon he had them all.

In that day every lawyer was a statesman, and it would have been nearly as impossible for the physical Ben Hardin to live without food as for the professional Ben Hardin to live without politics. In 1810, when 26 years of age he was elected to represent Nelson county in the state legislature. He introduced a bill, that was later incorporated into the Constitution of '49, to suppress duelling, and his speech on it is absolutely conclusive of the subject—it is logic chaste as an icicle, reason hot as a seething furnace. Above all, it is humanity and Christianity. If the French idea of the duel of the first Napoleonic era had maintained, the brutality of it, in great measure, would have been eliminated, for under that code it was a work of cowardice for one skilful in the use of weapons to challenge one who was not an expert, and it was no sign of poltroonery for one to decline a challenge from another who could beat him shooting or fencing. But in the Kentucky of 1810 blustering bullies most intent on getting a fame for that they had not—physical courage—practiced with pistol and blade, and many infamous gentlemanly murders were the result. I wish every young man could get Ben Hardin's speech on the subject, read it and take it to heart. A brave man never yet approved the courage of anybody but a coward.

And right here, before I forget, I want to say that most I know about Ben Hardin I got out of his "Life and Times and Contemporaries," by Lucius P. Little. It is a grand book, and every ambitious young Kentuckian should read it, though there are chapters of it that will prove Greek to those who have not something more than a smattering of our political history prior to 1850.

In his speech against duelling Hardin delivered himself of a quotation from Churchill that fit the case precisely; but unfortunately it is as unquotable as a famous passage in Swift's "Journal to Stella," though Stella was a lady and Swift a clergyman. Hardin served ten years in congress, though not consecutively. In that body he never made his master in debate, though he clashed with Henry Clay himself. His speech on the French spoilation claims is a masterpiece of forensic eloquence, and it is a notable fact that Hon. Hiram Hardin, a Kentuckian, Invented the "Missouri Compromise," and Archie Dixon, another Kentuckian, was the author of its repeal thirty-four years later.

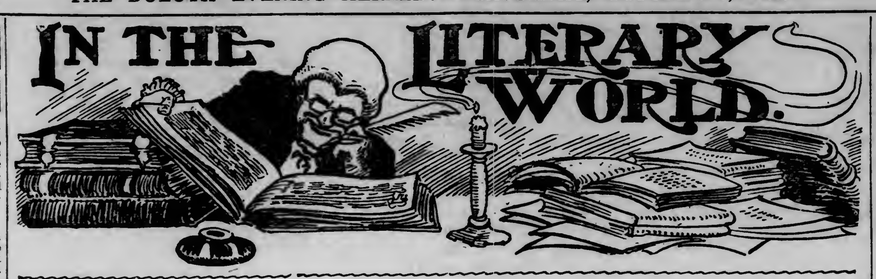

When Hardin was giving Clay that gruelling half hour the second session of the Fourteenth congress, John Randolph of Roanoke exclaimed, "He's a kitchen knife whetted on a brickbat!" But subsequently Hardin became anti-Jackson, a Whig, and a follower of Clay.

None of our great orators has suffered more at the hands of the reporters than Hardin. Because of a crippled arm it was a great labor for him to write and even had he written with all the facility of Dumas he could not have reproduced a single one of his great speeches. But as reported every speech of Hardin is readable. There is not a dull sentence in any one of them. It was an intellectual impossibility for the man to conceive, much less to say, a dull thing. But Hardin was an actor. On the stage he would have been a Kean for tragedy and a Jefferson for comedy. He was blessed in a nextravagant degree with an exquisite sense of humor that made him a happy man all his days, though he could hate with the animosity of the very old horned devil himself.

I will say of this man, whom my father personally knew, and somewhat intimately—and several is the stories of him my father regaled me with when I was a lad—I will say of Ben Hardin that he did as much to establish the historic fact that the quality, individuality, and the commonwealth, Kentucky, are not only akin, but twin, as any other man who ever stood between earth and sky on that glorious old sod.

Now I am not nearly done with this man, and shall continue the story of him according to my version next week, and I do it not only mindful, but defiant, of the fact that when the "stuff" gets on the desk of nearly all the managing editors, they will throw it in the waste basket with "Who the h—l was Ben Hardin?"

THE SOUTHERNER: A novel. Being the Autobiography of Nicholas Worth. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50.

Here is a big, strong, hopeful book, containing an important section of the history of this country, correlated with its effects upon the future and described with vividness and power. Incidentally, it is, as the title declares, a novel; and while it is interesting in that capacity alone, though not devoid of flaws in construction due to the obvious fact that the author, who is a vital thinker and an appealing writer, is not a novelist, it is far more interesting for its value as a living bit of American history and American life.

When part of the chapters making up this book appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, attracting wide attention, it was announced by that magazine that the author was a prominent Southern-born American who choose to remain unknown. That anonymity, concealed by the fictitious name of Nicholas Worth, is preserved in the book. The story begins in war time when the narrator, the son of a Union sympathizer in a "rebel" community, is 10 years old. He sees the war in its most dreadful aspect as the tide of battle surges about his father's home. This is briefly touched upon, though with a power that spurs the imagination on to supply the details. After the war, the South faced as hard a task as ever stricken people contended with. Rehabilitation and new growth were needed, but they had a tremendous inertia of numness, apathy and the obsession of Confederate loyalty to overcome. Incidentally, says the author, "I learned even at this early age that nobody tells the whole truth about institutions. They prefer to accept traditions and to repeat respectful formulas." Indeed, he had learned much, though, as we shall see, he failed to apply this knowledge to his own course of action, and thereby lessened the value of his earnest efforts.

The book is a succession of pictures, vividly and most interestingly done, of life in the South after the war: a revival meeting, with its terrors for the youthful mind; his grandfather's plantation, with its peace and plenty and hospitality, its slave quarters, its flowers and hedges and the beauty of its long-trained gardens; a boy's night encounter with the ghostly Ku Klux riders; his school days in a military academy; the poverty that afflicted the desolated South long after the war, which he ascribes partly to the shock of defeat "that stopped the thought of those that participated in it as an earthquake stops a clock," and partly to the punishment of disinheritment which involved "those who had no more to do with the Civil war than with the Punic wars and no more to do with slavery than with the Inquisition, and yet who suffer the consequences of both slavery and the war."

Young Worth goes to Harvard to complete his education and to get a wider view of affairs, to the horror of his friends, to whom that center of abolitionism is like a foreign and hostile land. There he discovers for the first time that the South has a "negro problem." Hence he comes to form this definition of a negro, which he admits may have ethnological defects, but which he asserts—and rightly—may have psychological and historical elements in its favor: "A negro is a person of African blood (much or little) about whom men of English descent tell only half the truth, and because of whom they do not act with frankness and sanity either toward the negro or to one another—in a word, about whom they easily lose their common sense, their usual good judgment and even their powers of accurate observation."

When he goes home after his Harvard experience, the unkempt, unambitious and slovenly appearance of his beloved South "comes as a revelation of despair." He finds a South stagnant, decaying, chewing the bitter cud of dead hopes. For a strong man, such a situation is an invitation to public service, and the greater part of the book is taken up with a relation of his struggles, often discouraging, often, too, with hopeful results, and always with strong dramatic interest, to bring about better conditions. The dominant note is that of hope and courage. Dismayed at first by the horrible inertia that must be changed into momentum, he grits his teeth and takes hold with renewed energy. Others join him, and he goes at his task in the right place—at the bottom, with the schools.

Yet, one suspects that he brought back from Harvard to the Southland, back from the land of sentimentality about the negro to the land that cherished a broken but to it a noble cause, a lack of sympathy with the sentiment of his people that must have sadly lessened his usefulness. The viewpoint is strikingly new. A Southerner of Union parentage, he had imbibed the atmosphere of the home of abolition; and there is no more Massachusetts than of Mississippi in his attitude. It is evident that, perhaps unintentionally, certainly not necessarily, he ruffled the pathetic sensitiveness of those whom he had to win to his cause, and laid an irreverent hand upon institutions which, however foolishly, were to these people sacred. Wouldn't have been necessary to do this, but having done it, it is not surprising that he had trouble. His irritation at the worship of war relics like the Confederate uniforms and the Daughters of the Confederacy should have been kept to himself, one would think. He might with as much tact have gone back to Harvard and sneered at the Grand Army of the Republic, and then, with as much expectancy of results, have sought to enlist Northern people in efforts in their behalf. To do so was to injure in some measure his opportunities for usefulness. We cannot believe that these organizations, or the public respect for them, held back the South; and we should think less of the Southerners than we do if they had failed duly to honor their veterans and to respect their lost cause. He was almost utterly out of accord with the people he struggled so earnestly to uplift. To seek to bring the South back to the life and promise that was before war's heavy tread crushed out, for a time, all hope and ambition—that was surely noble. But to do it by scoffing at things these people held most dearly—does that seem quite the right way to go about it?

Running as an independent candidate for state superintendent of schools, he is made to appear as a "nigger-lover" and a traitor to the South, and the campaign nearly winds up in a race war. He is elected, but counted out, but a legislature friendly to the cause of education is elected, so his defeat curries victory with it.

Meanwhile his brother has been conducting his cotton mills, introducing latest methods, progressive ways of dealing with his employes, industrial education and other means of making his business more profitable and the lives of his employes happier and more prosperous. He, too, had been doing great work in solving the problem.

The best advice in the book is that the "negro problem" has too much attention in the abstract and not enough in the concrete. The author would treat the negro as a man, and show him how to make a man's living. Then there will be no problem. He ends his narrative with a welcome note of hopeful optimism about the present and future of the South.

Altogether, "Nicholas Worth" engaged in a big, vital work, and he went at it earnestly and accomplished much. Also, he has written a big, vital book, which cannot fail to interest and to stimulate thought.

THE GAME AND THE CANDLE. By Eleanor M. Ingram. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.50.

This is a thrilling, dramatic story of adventure, intrigue and romance. The hero is a young American of breeding, who, to save the girl he loves from poverty, unknown to her, deliberately commits a felony. His identity is never connected with a certain Leroy, who, a few months later, is captured by officers of the law and is sent to prison for a long term of years. Into this prison comes Stanief, a grand duke visiting America, who, attracted by the man, aids him to escape, not only because of his faith in the convict, but because the latter renders him an important service. Taken aboard Stanief's yacht, Leroy once more assumes the name of Allard, and, with the duke, crosses to an Old World court of royalty. En route, the duke learns of the death of the emperor and of his own elevation to the regency. Allard becomes his rescuer's confidant, and, later, is attached to the personal service of the young emperor. The latter is distrustful and apparently is in open hostility to the regent, who is people's love.

The situation is pregnant with possibilities, and of these the author takes splendid advantage. Inextricably involved in this high intrigue is the double love story—a most charming romance, all pearl and silver, colorful and delicate, yet always plausible and effective.

Miss Ingram's short stories have been appearing in the magazines, but "The Game and the Candle" is her first novel. Its successors will be awaited with interest by the public.

VIRGINIA OF THE AIR LANES. By Herbert Quick. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill company. $1.50.

Those who have read Mr. Quick's delightful "Double Trouble" will turn with pleasure to this latest product of his brain. It is a romance of the conquest of the air in these flying times of ours. To introduce the heroine by having her drop from the sky at the hero's feet, must be set down as easily the most daring and romantic feat that recent story-telling has accomplished. But Mr. Quick, who arranged this unique and charming debut for Virginia Suarez in "Virginia of the Air Lanes," has other surprises, besides. Looking forward to the middle of the present century, the author has set his story at a time when airships may be supposed to be in as frequent use as motor cars are now. The invention has not yet been perfected, however; the ideal ship is yet to be constructed, but the plot scheme of the story lies about the marvelous improved mechanism, like a great bird, which Theodore Carson of Carson's Landing, Ala., has built. But the air, nevertheless, is buzzing with boats; there are already established many aerial harbors, and talk of the different sorts of boats fills many pages and supplies much atmosphere, besides being clever and interesting and welcome. While avoiding undue discussion of the mechanical details of aerostat manufacture, there is a sufficiently frequent mention of them to give the story an air of plausibility. This air it has in a truly extraordinary degree. Mr. Quick has not so much brought romance down to earth as he has swung the reader with earth as he has swung the reader with him into the skies. The air journey is fascinating, with "the earth like a concave cup, the sun a flaming wick on the edge of it. Through it all Mr. Quick has deftly woven the love interest.

THE LAND OF LONG AGO. By Eliza Calvert Hall, author of "Aunt Jane of Kentucky." Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

Once more there is an opportunity for pleasant association with "Aunt Jane," a delightful, motherly, kind and quaintly humorous link between Kentucky's storied past and the present. A famous story-teller is Aunt Jane, and she knows how to tell a moving tale, in her homely but charming dialect, a tale with a smile and a tear, a laugh and a sob, a tale of the old days when women seemed more beautiful and men certainly were more chivalrous than they are today. It is an exceedingly pleasant experience to hear these tales and to view modern life from Aunt Jane's quaint viewpoint. Her uncommon common sense and her kindly humor make it a delight to listen to her; and that is what the reader of this most excellently entertaining book seems to be doing.

VERONICA PLAYFAIR. By Maud Wilder Goodwin, author of "The Colonial Cavalier," "Flint," "Sir Christopher," etc. Boston: Little, Brown & Co. $1.50.

Veronica Playfair, a beautiful young country girl, goes up to London and finds herself, by happy chance, among giants of beauty and intellect. Benjamin Franklin is her mother's lodger, and in the trials that overtake the heroine she has the comfort of his wise advice and of his love for her, which he conceals when he finds it hopeless. Veronica is married, only formally and because of an awkward situation for which it is the only solution, to a gallant young nobleman who loves her and whom she loves but is forbidden to marry by her mother upon her deathbed. This winsome young eighteenth century heroine has adventures worth reading about, and incidentally there is charm in the clash of steel-barbed wits when such folks as Dean Swift, Lady Mary Montagu, Alexander Pope, Lord Bolingbroke, Beau Nash and John Gay, author of the first English comic opera, get to bandying retorts. It is a very pleasant story, sparkling with wit and attracting the keenest interest.

DOCTOR RAST. By James Oppenheim. New York: Sturgis & Walton company. $1.50.

This book contains some of the most vivid and appealing sketches of life in the New York slums that have been written. They revolve about a young doctor who works, for the love of it and because he is needed, in the Ghetto of New York and who turns his back upon an opening where comfort and luxury are assured because he knows he is needed where he is, though his struggle is a hard one, what with patients that keep him going night and day, but do not pay for it. His definition of a doctor illustrates his own unselfish nobility: "Why, he's just an ordinary man, like Jesus, who lays his hand on the filth of the world's flesh, but who lays his heart and his soul on bruised hearts and broken souls." Dr. Rast ministers to sick bodies, to sick hearts and to sick souls; a word of cheer and comfort, and he is needed, and a word of scathing reproach where it is more fitting, as it is in the case of a young Jewish boy and girl who despise the parents who are humbling theinselves in slavery to make these ingrates free. And in the cheery wife whose love makes all things worth while, and who is content to labor with him, he has a fitting helpmeet. These are good people to know even through the medium of a book, and to read of them is a rich and uplifting experience. The book is saturated with human interest and a rosy optimism flowering in the mist of almost hopeless misery. Lights and shadows are blended deftly. The tales are not unlighted with pleasant comedy; the tragedy is offset by good cheer, the misery by happiness. It is a fine, strong, wholesome section out of human life; a story of cheerful sacrifice, of the helping hand and of the love of God translated into love of and service to humanity. It is, above and beyond its inspiring interest as a book, a powerful sermon on the religion of service to humanity. How the author, who must have seen the misery he describes, has managed to keep so much of optimism and wholesome cheer to put into his story it is hard to understand; but it is there, and it is good to read it. The book is abundantly worth reading.

POPULAR FRUIT GROWING. By Samuel B. Green, professor of horticulture and forestry in the University of Minnesota. St. Paul: Webb Publishing company. $1.

Duluth and the country around about it do not make enough of fruit-growing. If it is nothing but a few currant bushes and a crab apple tree in the back yard, there is profit and interest in it, and there are certain fruits that can be cultivated here for the market to excellent advantage. This volume, written by a Minnesota man who knows the business and his state, is commended to those who may contemplate taking up fruit-growing, whether on a large scale or a small one. While it is adapted to textbook uses, it is also a valuable handbook for the fruit-grower, amateur or professional, and for the former, at least, and undoubtedly for the latter, it contains all needful information, clearly, interestingly and practically set forth. An appendix furnishes rules for spraying, formulas for fungicides, insecticides, grafting waxes, lists of fruits recommended for the different states, etc. Selection of stock, planting, cultivating and marketing of all fruits are fully and carefully covered.

FOOLISH QUESTIONS. By R. L. Goldberg. Boston: Small, Maynard & Co.

"Wot's here, Sheridan Keene?" The heavy villain, a knife in one hand and the other grasping the neck of the prostrate heroine, who is crying out for succor, makes this casual remark in baffled rage because at that moment the hero enters from the wings and presents the business end of a revolver at his face.

"No, you don't, Lonny. I'm in Egypt doing a Salome dance on top of a hard-boiled egg." Is the unexpected answer of the manly hero, and it is quite as sensible as the question that prompted it.

You will catch the idea. This foolish but funny little book contains neatly a hundred pictures illustrating this unique and charming debut for Virginia Suarez in "Virginia of the Air Lanes," has other surprises, besides. Looking forward to the middle of the present century, the author has set his story at a time when airships may be supposed to be in as frequent use as motor cars are now. "Jeanne of the Marshes" is the title of another new novel from the pen of E. Phillips Oppenheim, to be published in October by Little, Brown & Co. Among America and London where the scenes of the previous novel, "The Governors," were laid, Mr. Oppenheim has gone to the Norfolk coast of England, which in reality is the region where Mr. Oppenheim resides. "Jeanne of the Marshes" is announced as another engaging tale of love and intrigue, with plenty of complication and action—in other words, a typical Oppenheim story.

"Nerves and Common Sense," by Annie Payson Call, published in October by Little, Brown & Co., is the new fall book by this author, whose previous books have meant so much to the tired, nervous women of today. It is noteworthy that Kendrik Hudson, whose achievements in another line have been celebrated recently in New York, was a polar explorer of renown, and left his record in the great Northern bay that bears his name. The National's indomitable editor, Joe Chapple, has followed "the White House on wheels," and the usual entertaining chat concerning doings at the capital has been transferred to the perambulating executive mansion. His description of the greeting given the president by school children throughout the country depicts the deep-seated patriotism of the coming citizens, which impels them to honor the man holding the greatest office in the gift of the nation.

The October number of The Bookkeeper continues its series of articles on bond buying under the title "How the New Treasurer Improved His Company's Credit." One of the most original business stories that has ever been written is a so-called fairy tale for overusers entitled "Bill." It is very cleverly constructed and illustrated. Other articles in this issue are "The Paragrapher at Work," some "Wanderings in Business Vagabondia," by Thomas Drier, and "Handling the Mail of a Large Business Firm," by Chalmers Lowell Pancoast. Among the technical articles is one on "Keeping Church Records" by Rev. John C. Fritz of the English Lutheran Church of Our Savior, in Brooklyn, the author detailing a new application of modern business methods in the church.

Kate Barnard, the famous commissioner of charities in Oklahoma, has an article in the October Survey on "Human Ideals in Government." It is a picturesque story by a picturesque woman who did much in drawing up the constitution of the new state. In the same number Mrs. Florence Woolston tells about the result of an investigation that she has recently made of 200 school children who left school to get their working papers. She finds a lamentable ignorance about elementary questions of civics and city government. John F. Moors of the Boston finance commission describes what that body accomplished and how it showed up graft in Boston. This article is editorially commented on by William H. Allen of the New York bureau of municipal research. Robert A. Woods of the South End house, Boston, and Joseph Lee of the Massachusetts Civic league.

The man who neglected to buy his ten acres of land for a grove on the Isle of Pines last year has lost just $200 by waiting. To wait another year will prove still more expensive. With the great number of people going to the island, and making improvements, and with the hundreds of acres of groves now just coming into bearing, and beginning to ship their fruit, land values cannot stand still. $50 an acre is dirt cheap.

NEGROES TRY TO LYNCH BLACK HORSE THIEF.

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 9.—Fifteen negroes boarded a train at Waybark yesterday and attempted to take Arthur Manny, a negro charged with horse-stealing, away from Sheriff Hooper, with the intention of lynching him.

Sheriff Hooper held the crowd at bay with his revolver until the train started, and then, with the assistance of the conductor, forced the entire mob to jump from the moving cars. Waybark has no white citizens. Manny was taken to Muskogee and lodged in jail.

GAVE UP ALL HOPE

After Four Long Years of Suffering, Mrs. Dean of Benbrook Was Finally Relieved By Cardui.

Benbrook, Tex.—"I feel like it is my duty to advise other women to take Cardui, the woman's tonic," writes Mrs. L. C. Dean, of R. F. D. No. 6, Benbrook, Tex.

"I suffered for four (4) long years with female complaints. Such a miserable person as I was! I had three doctors, but they did me no good, and I gave up all hope of being relieved.

"At last, my doctors advised me to take Cardui, the woman's tonic. I took four bottles and now I am well. Cardui saved my life and I cannot say enough for it. I have prescribed it with great success for young girls and women with various forms of female complaint.

"Cardui is a real boon to suffering women. I am thankful for the good it has done me and I know it will cure others."

This remarkable letter from a lady who has actually tried Cardui, ought surely to convince you of its genuine merit and induce you to give it a trial for your troubles.

Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, non-intoxicating and free from all deleterious ingredients, Cardui is the ideal remedy for all weak, suffering women, young or old.

You are urged to get a bottle at the drug store and commence its use today.

HEARST OUT FOR MAYOR

Accepts Independent Nomination With Fusion Ticket to Follow.

New York City Political Pot Bubbles Merrily Toward Election Time.

New York, Oct. 9.—After two days of silence, William R. Hearst announced to a crowd of waiting cinstituents, at an early hour this morning, that he would accept an independent nomination for mayor of New York, provided that his associates upon the city and county tickets be substantially Republican-fusion nominees as already selected.

Charles F. Gehring, organizer of the new Civic Alliance, and member of its executive committee, later voted unanimously to accept the conditions as laid down by Hearst. Gehring announced that he would begin the circulation of nominating petitions today.

During the day, to insure a party name, legal steps were taken to register the "Civic Alliance," under which title Hearst will make the race. The choosing of this new name was made necessary in that Tammany is charged with absorbing the old Independence league machinery at the recent primaries.

In his statement Mr. Hearst repudiates his indorsement of Justice William J. Gaynor, the Democratic nominee, whom he announced several days ago he would support.

Pot Is Kept Boiling.

That the campaign is not going to be of the uneventful order was indicated by the events of yesterday. The municipal political pot was kept boiling in all directions.

Supreme Court Justice Gaynor, the Democratic-Tammany nominee for the mayoralty, issued an interview in which he disclaimed responsibility for the nomination of alleged unfit candidates on the Democratic county and borough tickets.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall, accused the Republicans of urging Hearst to enter the field in order to detract from the Democratic vote.

Herbert Parsons, the Republican county chairman, repeated his former charges that Tammany is planning wholesale frauds, and offered rewards aggregating $17,500 for the detection of repeaters.

The fusion forces opened their active campaign for the Fusion-Republican ticket with a ratification meeting at Cooper Union, at which Otto Bannard, the Republican mayoralty nominee, pleaded for a business administration of the city government.

Suffragette Takes a Hand.

A slender woman in white upset the smooth flow of campaign argument at the big meeting. Removing her hat and rising from a seat in the center of the hall, she demanded of Otto T. Bannard, who was making his opening speech as candidate for mayor, whether he favored votes for women.

The woman was Miss Maude Malone, president of the Harlem Woman's Suffrage union.

She was forced to call a second time, "What about votes for women?" before Mr. Bannard replied.

He said that he had answered the question, and that it would appear in an interview in a morning paper of Sunday. Further than this he declined to commit himself. But Miss Malone was persistent, and there were calls of "Put her out." Amid growing confusion Mr. Bannard finished his address, leaving the suffragette question unanswered.

WILL INSTRUCT NAVAL MILITIA

Hydrographic Office Will Give a Course in Marine Topics.

Instruction from the hydrographic department at Washington, along marine lines, will be furnished the Duluth Naval militia company this winter, according to the statement made by Capt. G. L. Winterhalter, chief of the hydrographic department of Washington. Mr. Winterhalter is visiting Capt. Albert Swenson of the local government office.

The instruction of the different naval militia companies is being made a specialty by the hydrographic department. Printed matter that will be extremely useful to the officers of the companies will be sent out. Special instruction will also be given by instructors of the hydrographic department.

Last night Capt. Winterhalter visited the Armory and talked with a number of the officers of the naval militia. His statement that the department was going to take up a line of instruction with the naval militia companies was received with a great deal of interest.

Capt. Winterhalter stated that the department was doing effective work in every part of the world. An immense amount of matter dealing with harbors, channel courses and other matter pertaining to the safety of vessels is annually sent out.

The captain will be here for several days, investigating local harbor conditions.

MENTAL SUGGESTION FOR THE "DRUNKS."

Rev. Bruce V. Black, pastor of the independent church organization, which meets in the K. of P. hall, will try to cure some of the oldtimers in police court of the liquor habit by means of mental suggestion. The police officials and the municipal judges have expressed their willingness that the experiment be tried. Judge Windom says the drunks are one of the worst features of the police court grist and that he is willing to do anything to reduce the number.

MOOSE DERAILED ENGINE.

Monarch of Forest Delayed Canadian Pacific Railroad Traffic.

Kenora, Ont., Oct. 9. — Passengers travelling on Wednesday morning's Canadian Pacific railway express No. 2 witnessed a sight which they will not see again in a long time. Just as the train was speeding past Deception, a small station forty miles west of Kenora, a big bull moose came out of the bush, and made for the track, straight in front of the huge locomotive. The king of the forest apparently was dazed by the headlight of the engine, and in a mement it was run down and killed.

The engine was running at a rapid rate of speed at the time, but the engineer seeing the moose on the track applied the brakes and when the collision occurred the train was running about fifteen miles an hour. The two front wheels of the engine were derailed and the train was delayed about two hours.

It was a common sight among the railway men to see moose running at large along the track at this time of the season, but this is the first time that an engine has been derailed by one.

The news that the monster moose had been run down and killed by the train soon spread among the passengers and it did not take them long to dress and gather around the engine. Among the passengers were a number of Americans who had never before seen a moose, and they took a good look at this one piled up in a heap under the wheels.

TWO DRUNKS PER DAY.

Average in Minot Last Month According to Police Magistrate.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 9.—An average of two drunks a day during the entire month of September was one of the interesting facts gleaned from the report of Police Magistrate Murray's monthly report, which was presented to the board of city commissioners Monday evening. Whether this unusually large number is the result of the influx of harvest hands into the city, the fall traffic West or the policy of the city administration is causing no little argument among the citizens of Minot.

The report showed $342 collected in fines with costs to the city of $168.

DROUTH OF TWO MONTHS BROKEN BY HEAVY RAIN.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 9.—A drouth which has extended throughout a large part of the Southwest for the last two months was broken by a heavy rain yesterday and last night.

In Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma the drouth was especially severe. Much suffering and crop damage had resulted. In Fayetteville, Ark., the water works system failed, and the few people fortunate enough to have wells sold water at high prices.

Farm work has been practically at a standstill. But little fall plowing has been done. Oil properties have also been idle, but work at the wells will now be resumed.

ALCOHOL ROASTED BY INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS.

Washington, Oct. 9.—That alcohol, in any form, is but seldom of distinct value in the treatment of disease appeared to be the concensus of opinion of the Twelfth International Congress on Alcoholism, held in July last in London, according to a report of its proceedings made public by the public health and marine hospital service yesterday. The report was prepared by Dr. Reid Hunt, chief of the division of pharmacology of the public health and marine hospital service, who attended the congress.

Some evidence, Dr. Hunt declared, was brought forward to show that alcohol, even in moderate amounts, has an unfavorable effect upon offspring and has a tendency to lower resistance to infection.

Especial emphasis was laid upon the extraordinary growth of total abstinence in the British army and navy, it having been shown that 40 per cent of the army in India are total abstainers.

Mr. F. G. Fritz, Oneonta, N. Y., writes "My little girl was greatly benefited by taking Foley's Orino Laxative, and I think it is the best remedy for constipation and liver trouble." Foley's Orino Laxative is mild, pleasant and effective, and cures habitual constipation. Sold by all druggists.

TRADE GETTING ABOVE NORMAL

New York, Oct. 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

From every large business center throughout the country come reports of progressive improvement in trade. In most instances the reports are more than satisfactory; they speak of a present and prospective increase in activity that is indicative of a return to even more than normal conditions. In some cases the volume of trade is described as equal to, or in excess of previous records. In the iron and the steel trade full productive capacity appears to have been approached, and the outlook for 1910 is so bright that it is impossible to give an account of it that does not break through the bonds of conservative utterance.

The wholesale drygoods markets have had large operations in staples, especially cottons. Several sharp advances are announced and many important lines are withdrawn or placed "at value." Cotton yarns are higher and more business is being done. Less hesitation is noted in placing orders for the men's wear for immediate delivery, and the dragging dressgoods markets show improvement. Knit underwear and hosiery for immediate use are decidedly firmer and more active. The annual conditions in silk piece goods were specialities and novelties have a free sale while other lines are neglected, is accentuated since the announcement of an auction of satin-faced materials. Some of the jobbers report a much better advance spring business than a year ago.

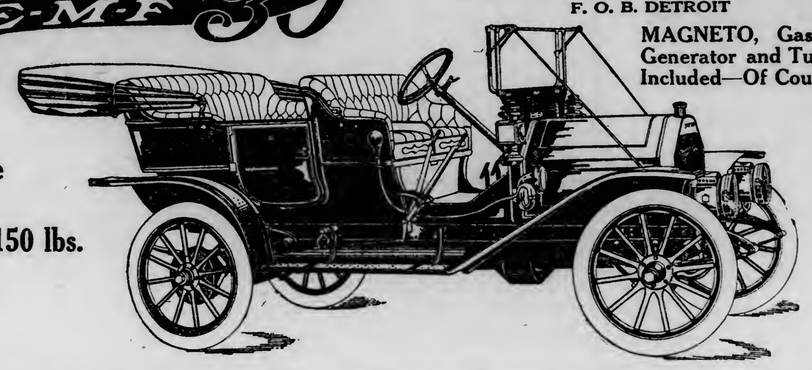

There is a slight improvement in the footwear market, particularly in the call for men's heavy staples, and jobbers who have held off from making purchases of these lines, owing to prices, have placed some fair sized orders at manufacturers' terms. Hide prices hold steady, but sales are not as large of packer hides. All kinds of leather are selling better and at firm prices. Side stock is strong and active, especially the better grades. Some finished calfskin tanners have advanced selling limits a cent a foot. Sole leather is higher and quite active. The cheaper grades of hemlock are well sold up and firm.

LAST YEAR'S SENSATION—THIS YEAR'S STANDARD

There Will Be No "1910 Model" STUDEBAKER E-M-F "30"

EVERY YEAR, JUST ABOUT THIS TIME the newspapers are full of startling announcements of new models. This year it's "Our World-beating '1910' Models". Last October it was "Our World-beating '1909' Model". If you read one you have read them all—they are all alike in that they protest the later model is a wonder, while tacitly admitting that its predecessor was about the worst that ever happened.

THE IMPRESSION LEFT IN YOUR MIND is that you were a sucker to buy a car from that maker last year. He promised you lifelong service from it—now he proclaims it obsolete. Under a thin disguise he confesses he buncoed you, offers no redress and makes your car, only a few months old, practically worthless in the second-hand market, where you had hoped to sell it for at least a fraction of the price you paid him.

YEAR AFTER YEAR THE SAME PROMISES are made by the same makers—and year after year they are compelled to admit between the lines, that their promises have not been fulfilled. Look up your old files, read the "ads" of 1908, 1907 and on back to their beginning. You'll be surprised—and disgusted—at the similarity. All agree in admitting past failures and in predicting future success. Reminds one of nothing so much as a cornered—and therefore penitent—confidence man, who unblushingly confesses past offenses, but protests he will do better in the future—if given another chance.

WE'D HATE TO HAVE TO ADMIT that our engineering force of a few months ago was so deficient in the science of designing and making motor cars—our product of the past twelve months so defective—that radical changes were necessary to produce a salable car!

STUDEBAKERS WOULD HIDE THEIR HEADS in shame if called upon to confess they had sold to a confiding, trusting customer, cars that, one year—or five years—later had to be branded, and by the maker, a failure and openly discredited by another model differing in many important features.

WOULDN'T THAT BE EVIDENCE of rank incompetence—some might say bad faith? Wouldn't it indicate that promises made had not been fulfilled? And wouldn't it prove to a reasoning man that promises now made would be as worthless?

DON'T MISUNDERSTAND US; Of course improvements will be made from time to time, constantly, in automobile building as in every other department of human endeavor as long as the world lasts. The perfect car will never arrive. But only where the engineering force was woefully deficient in the fundamentals of the art will radical changes be necessary.

IF YOU BUY AN AUTOMOBILE from a hair-brained inventor or an unscientific experimenter because some new-fangled idea of his caught your eye, you have surely no right to expect satisfactory service. You pay for the privilege of trying out his theories—and you get all you deserve.

STUDEBAKERS HAVEN'T THAT KIND of an engineering force. Won't tolerate an inventor in the place. Inventors are mostly folks who think they've found something that wasn't lost. Scientists had it filed away, ready when wanted—out of the way of foolish folk who don't always know how to apply simple principles. Burn their own fingers and other peoples' money.

A CHINAMAN ONCE SAID to an Occidental who criticised his garb: "Yes, I suppose my clothes do look queer to you—they are not like yours. Yours look funnier to me—yes—beg pardon. But had you considered that my mode of dress is the result of more centuries of experience and of observation than your race can trace its history back? I suppose thousands of years ago my countrymen made a light suit do for summer and a heavy one for winter regardless of intermediate variations in the weather. Now we put on several light coats—or few—and we add to or take off as the weather changes. I see you are still experimenting—yes—beg pardon."

LIKE THE WISE ORIENTAL—and Chinese are proverbially honest too—Studebakers did all their experimenting years before they thought of offering the first automobile to the public. Sent their engineers to Europe and scoured the world for talent. Not satisfied with the results, they decided that no engineer, no factory, could successfully manufacture more than one model—a car so good it would outclass any other car of its own type and at its own price.

WALTER E. FLANDERS we considered the greatest manufacturing producer in the automobile industry, by long odds. Had our eyes on him for years. When he began the manufacture of E-M-F "30", Studebakers watched him closer than ever. Here was the car for which we had been looking to fill out our line—the car which, best suited to the needs of the greater number of buyers who want a serviceable, economical touring car, would be most in demand and have the longest life.

STUDEBAKERS STILL CAUTIOUS—couldn't afford to lend their name to any but a product of sterling quality—purchased half the output of the factory—and watched. Not only our own experts, but 6,000 buyers, put these cars to the most gruelling tests. And we were satisfied—well enough satisfied to invest millions in this car and its future.

BOUGHT OUT FLANDERS ASSOCIATES so that this man and his genius and his unequalled organization would be available to Studebakers alone and that we might control the entire output of this car which we believe has no equal in its class.

RESULTS HAVE BEEN MOST GRATIFYING. No other car has made such a record of satisfaction in owners' hands—they are unanimously enthusiastic. Every owner brings ten prospects.

SEPTEMBER WAS LARGEST MONTH in our history. October orders from dealers fifty per cent in excess of possible output. November, ditto. December we hope to more nearly approach the demand by increased factory facilities that will then be available. It's been a wonderful year for Studebakers and for E-M-F "30".

Studebaker Automobile Co. South Bend Indiana

E-M-F "30" WAS IN ADVANCE of its time—two years at least. That it was, is proven by the fact that all the "1910" models now being so loudly touted, are, as nearly as a copyist can copy, imitations—outwardly at least—of E-M-F "30".

BUT WHAT ASSURANCE HAVE YOU that these new models—radically different from their immediate predecessors—are any better than those their makers now admit were wrong? Is there any other car of this class that has been perfected, standardized to the point where its makers believe it cannot be materially improved and customers can absolutely rely on it? Does not Studebaker E-M-F "30" stand alone in this regard?

FOR EXAMPLE; If a certain designer, a year ago, in frantic efforts to discredit the tremendous efficiency of E-M-F "30" motor, with its large valves, advocated small valves; and if that same designer now, by putting larger valves in his "1910" model, has admitted his error; does it not stand to reason that he is still at fault in those several other features where his car differs from the successful, satisfactory, unchanging E-M-F "30".

AND IF ANOTHER RIVAL MAKER believed and protested, for years, that a two-cylinder motor was just as good—as economical, as flexible—as a four; and if that maker in an effort to compete with E-M-F "30" now turns to fours—is there any good reason to suppose he has, in so short a time, learned to design a motor of the type to which he was so recently a convert?

THE HISTORY OF THIS INDUSTRY does not record a single instance in which a designer turned from a horizontal "two" to a vertical "four" and produced anything but an abortion in his first year's model.

IT HAS NEVER BEEN NECESSARY to advertise that E-M-F "30" has been "improved" in any detail in order to create a demand for the product. It has always been in excess of the supply. Of course changes have and will be made. Sometimes they'll be improvements—more often not. Mostly they'll be in the interests of simplifying or facilitating manufacture, because some designers and some customers differ in matters of taste and preference.

HERE'S A CASE IN POINT; a few weeks ago E-M-F "30"s began to come through with "dropped" front axles. Formerly had been straight. Straight axle is lighter and stiffer—better. But convention said a front axle ought to be curved—looked better. Didn't make a penny's difference in cost; difference in strength so small it couldn't be computed; pleased customers—so it went.

MORE RECENTLY A "U" DOOR was substituted for the previous design in the tonneau. Just a case of change in style of ladies' hats. Was the latest thing in doors—why shouldn't E-M-F "30", the most up-to-date car there is, have it. Sure.

THEN AGAIN, THE CLUTCH—One of the smoothest, most efficient ever put in any car; had proven a trifle too sensitive of adjustment for lazy owners. Those who had the knack got splendid results. Those who couldn't or wouldn't bother trying—didn't. Result was bad for the gears—also the motor. So a slight change in design was made, so it isn't so sensitive now. For our own use we'd rather have it the original way, but we don't drive 'em all.

COMPARE THESE TRIFLING ALTERATIONS—you can't really call them improvements—with those vital changes other makers are announcing in their season models. Then decide which car is safest for you to put your money in—even if values were equal, which they are not.

FACT IS E-M-F HAS SET A PACE others find it impossible to follow—a pace in quality and price—in every-day serviceability and all-around efficiency.

PERHAPS E-M-F "30"s GREATEST RECORD of satisfaction has been in the matter of tires. Undoubtedly this car is the most economical on tires of any car in its class. Other cars selling for $1,250 to $1,500 weigh 500 to 750 pounds more. These are too heavy for standard 32 x 3½-inch tires—that's why some of them are now forced to put on "bastard-size" tires. Doesn't benefit the buyer any—only obligates him to pay more for the replacements. All tire makers agree it would be unjust to users to put heavier or larger tires on E-M-F "30". She's over tired now—according to her actual weight and tire makers' tables.

IS E-M-F "30" TOO LIGHT is the natural question after reading the above. The answer is in her wonderful record of performance in hands of over 6,000 owners and in several special tests—Pathfinding for Glidden Tour, Pilot in Glidden, Munsey Reliability Run, and a hundred others.

ARE COMPETING CARS TOO HEAVY? The answer again is in their records—all announcing "Improved '1910' Models". Out of their own mouths are they not convicted? Ask owners about tire consumption—remember the owner "pays the freight" over every mile he drives, on every pound of unnecessary weight put there by the maker in his willingness to stint and save cost on materials. Anybody can make a heavy car—only first class designers can make light ones.

JUST A FEW WORDS MORE; You are in the market for a car—else you wouldn't have read this far. Perhaps you're one of those who have been unable to get an E-M-F "30"—oversold all season. Wish we could promise quicker deliveries—can't. Won't lie about it so can't. 50 cars every working day coming out now but demand increasing faster than we can add buildings and equipment. Another million now being spent in additions. But we can't make all the cars in the world. And E-M-F "30" is first choice of well posted buyers.

YOU SIMPLY CAN'T GET E-M-F "30"s the day you order them. Your local dealer may, if he happens to have a carload en route, or another customer who'll sell you his place in the line and wait, be able to accommodate you—but that's the exception. Generally you'll have to wait two or three weeks—maybe more. After New Years it'll be 90 to 120 days, same as always before. Only way is to get the order in now—get a place in the line and get your car as soon as possible—so you can enjoy its comforts in winter as well as its pleasure in Spring and Summer.

WE FEEL LIKE APOLOGIZING— to ourselves—for this "ad" which seems so unnecessary under the conditions. But we felt we owed it to our friends to explain the Studebaker policy, which is not like others, and to assure you there's no use waiting for a "1910" model, for we don't make cars that way. Changes are made the minute the necessity arises—don't wait till the end of the year. Don't make "season" models—don't make the kind of car we have to be ashamed of regularly once a year. Proud of E-M-F "30" all the time. And the one we sell you will be just as good as the one we sold your neighbor a year ago—if it isn't you know there's the Studebaker guarantee back of it to make it so.

PRICES ARE LITTLE OFF

Wheat Closes Slightly Lower in the American Markets.

Flax Is Actively Traded in and the Close Is Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 9.—Wheat had quite a steady tone during the short session in the American markets today. During the last half hour, prices showed a disposition to ease off slightly, but the losses from yesterday's closing level were only fractional.

Liverpool closed ¼d to ⅜d higher.

The December option closed ⅛@¼c lower in Duluth, Chicago and St. Louis, ⅜c lower in Minneapolis, New York and Kansas City and unchanged in Winnipeg. The May option closed ¼c lower in Duluth and St. Louis, a shade lower in Chicago, ⅛@¼c lower in Minneapolis, unchanged in New York, ¼c lower in Kansas City and ⅛c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅜@½c lower, and oats ⅛c higher, in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The undertone in wheat at the start was quiet, with values unchanged to ⅜d lower, prompted by the dullness of trade and the forecast of heavy Russian shipments this week, which offset the effect of the firmness of American cables yesterday. Later and during the morning the market developed firmness and values advanced ¼@¾d, with offerings lighter. Support at this time was attributed to the early firmness in continental markets, higher Manitoba offerings and fears of American manipulation. At the close the market was quiet and firm, with values ⅛@⅜d higher than yesterday.

"Corn was quiet during the entire session, with values unchanged to ⅛d lower than yesterday. The effect of the American government report was offset by the poor demand for all positions and the continued free La Plata offerings."

Broomhall cables that it is necessary to revise his forecast of the world's shipments, exclusive of North America, owing to the expected heavy shipments from Russia and the Danube. He estimates the shipments, other than American, at 9,600,000 bu against 8,400,000 bu, as given yesterday, and Europe will take 5,300,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Shipments Cause Early Depression in That Line of Trade.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—A revised estimated on the world's shipments of wheat for the week placing the total movement at nearly 14,000,000 bu had a depressing effect on the wheat market here at the opening. Moderate buying by shorts, however, soon caused a slight upturn from opening quotations. Trade early was extremely quiet.

At the start prices for wheat were ⅛@⅜c lower than the previous close, December being at $1.01¾@1.02. December sold later at $1.02@1.02⅛.

Quietness prevailed throughout the entire day and prices held within ½c of the range. The high point was $1.02⅛ for December. The market closed steady with December ⅛@¼c lower at $1.01⅞@1.02.

After-effects of the bulge, which followed the publication of the government crop report yesterday, were in evidence in he corn marke oday, there being considerable profit-taking by local longs. As a rsult, a moderately weak tone prevailed at the start. December opened unchanged to ⅛@¼c lower at 58⅜@58½c to 58⅝c and for a time held within that range.

The market became weaker as the sesion advanced, December declining to 58c. The close was weak with December off ⅜@½c at 58¼@58¼c.

Trading in the oats pit was exceedingly dull, and prices moved over an extremely narrow range. December opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 38⅞@39c and failed to get outside this limit early in the day.

Provisions were firm owing to a 5c advance in the hogs. Trading was quiet and confined chiefly to pork and lard. Prices at the opening were 2½@7½c higher.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Shows Strength in Spite of Bearish News.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 9.—The wheat market was in narrow range today, but showed considerable strength in face of all the bearish news. Local elevators stocks of wheat increased 125,00 bu for one day. The world's shipments for the week were heavy and continued to show a material increase over the previous week. December opened ¼c lower than yesterday's close and today closed ⅛c lower. May showed corresponding stubbornness. There was no speculative interest. Minneapolis today received 598 cars of wheat as compared with 672 cars a year ago; Duluth, 493 cars against 385 cars, and Winnipeg, 682 cars against 424 cars. December opened 99⅛c high, 99½@99⅝c; low, 98⅞@99c, close, 99¼c; May opened at $1.02⅜; high, $1.02⅝; low, $1.02⅜@1.02½; close, $1.02½.

Cash wheat was easier today on account of the liberal offerings. Local and outside millers were fair buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 2c above the December option and No. 2 northern sold for the ever near contract. Elevator interests bought sparingly. The flour market was steady, demand strong and active. Local mills are running full capacity and consequently shipments continued heavy. Prices were unchanged. Shipments, 62,027 barrels. First patents, $5.20@5.70; second patents, $5.00@5.10; first clears, $4.35@4.55; second clears, $3.10@3.30.

Barley—Receipts, 171 cars, year ago, 98; shipments, 65 cars. The market was steady today, although offerings showed a big increase over those of a year ago. Demand was good for all grades, especially choice malting barley. Prices were unchanged. Close, 43@58c.

Bar silver, 51¼c; Mexican dolars, 43c; government bonds steady; railroad bonds heavy.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 9.—English cotton market news this morning was all of a bullish character. Liverpool contracts were 4 points better than due. The local market opened steady at 2@7 points higher and further advanced until a net gain of 10@12 points was shown. Then profit-taking and Southern hedge selling checked further improvement. Heavy rains in portions of Northern Texas and fears of a frost over the Northwestern belt before Monday were factors in the advance. The market closed steady with prices net 5@12 joints higher. Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 9.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The demand for heavy drafters continues active at steady values. Dealers do not look for any marked change in the better classes of horses until after the holiday. Heavy receipts have been a feature of the past week, and while the sales have been fairly heavy, dealers are well supplied with big classy drafters at the close of the week. Big draft mules move less freely. Delivery chunks have met with ready sales all week. A good number of country buyers, mostly farmers, have been on the market looking for suitable brood mares. LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Stocks Opened Under Selling Pressure, But Soon Became Firmer.

Declines Were Regained and the Close Was Steady and Dull.

New York, Oct. 9.—The opening market today showed the effects of selling pressure again in the general fractional decline in prices. There were running sales of 10,000 shares of United States Steel at 87⅛ and 86⅞, compared with 87⅞ last night. Chesapeake & Ohio declined 1, and Union Pacific preferred and North American ⅝. Virginia-Carolina Chemical rose ¾.

Some additional fractional secessions were made before there was any sustaining effect on prices. United States Steel, Reading and Union Pacific were bought freely at the low prices, and the railroad list generally got back to where it ended yesterday. Wells-Fargo Express sold at 356½, compared with 339, the previous sale in May last.

The market closed steady and dull. Recoveries were complete, including United States Steel, but as closing time approached prices sagged. Pittsburg, Chicago, Cincinnati & St. Louis, Erie first preferred and Central Leather scored 1 point gains. American Locomotive declined 1½. Delaware & Hudson and Colorado & Southern 1¾, and Atchison, National Railways of Mexico first preferred, Great Northern Ore Certificates, United States Rubber, American Woolen, and Utah Copper 1. Prices stiffened slightly at the last.

DULUTH IS FAST BECOMING A CITY OF BEAUTIFUL HOMES!

DECIDE!

HOMECROFT PARK

2nd Addition

THE NEW SUBURB OF DULUTH

Come out to Homecroft Park tomorrow. The woods are charming in their beautiful fall dress! Pick out one of those valuable Acre Lots. They are gonig rapidly. Only a few left, but they have the finest soil you ever saw! Get a piece of land that you can call your own. If you make a garden of one of those lots, you can make it to pay a great share of your living expenses and pay a handsome profit besides. The soil is there, the very best of it; the timber is there to provide lumber for all building purposes. The terms are very easy.

balance two dollars per week until paid for. No interest at any time; no payments when sick; perfect title (Torrens title). A great city is springing up almost next door to these lots. Within the last month gas and water mains have been extended to within eight blocks of Homecroft Park. In time it will be a part of the city itself, with enormously enhanced values. You must decide now or you will be too late to get in on the ground floor.

Watch this city grow, and get wise! It is a splendid investment. ACT NOW. YOU CANNOT MAKE ANY MISTAKE.

Take Woodland car to the end of the car line. A rig will meet you there all day Sunday, and a few minutes' ride will bring you to Homecroft Park, Duluth's youngest suburb on Calvary road.

ACREAGE DEALS STILL THE CENTER OF INTEREST

Another New Addition Goes on Market and the Lots Are Snapped Up---New Hotel Helps Ring Death Knell of Bowery---Addition to Wholesale Building Planned.

Things are stirring in the real estate market. A few big deals are coming out, there is considerable building talk, and the strong undertone that has been noticeable by real estate men for some time past is beginning to make itself felt in results. People are buying—some for speculation, some for investment and still more for actual use, taking the property out of the market. Lots in the new additions that have been put on lately have been snapped up quickly by the army of home-builders, and they are extending the limits of the city ever upward and outward.

The new Chambers' First division, which lies below and adjoins the boulevard between Sixth avenue east and Tenth avenue east, went on the market this week through Richardson, Day & Harrison, and attracted immediate attention. Sales have already been made in it, and the inquiry is strong enough to warrant the belief that the most desirable lots will quickly be removed from the market.

People who ride or drive on the boulevard will recall the location of the new division by the grove of arbor vitae trees upon it. It has been owned by the Chambers family for the past fifty years, but has recently been purchased by the Hillside Investment company, a syndicate of Duluth men. Twelfth street is being graded, the lots are being staked out, and soon the sound of the hammer and saw will be heard on the newly graded streets. The Torrens system of titles is used, and the sales on small monthly payments are proving attractive. The lots, on account of their price and easy reaching distance from the city, are especially attractive to working people, and the division is expected to quickly build up.

Another acreage deal of importance came out this week in the sale by Richardson, Day & Harrison to J. L. Washburn of scattered land in 52-13, north of the Jean Du Luth stock farm, for $27,593.

There are more acreage deals in the air. Acreage has not figured so prominently in the local realty market for a good many years. City property has not been neglected, but people with large sums for long turns are putting them into acreage with the certainty of good returns at no very distant date.

Announcement was made this week that a start will be made very soon on a new first-class hotel on Superior street. L. S. Loeb & Co. will erect the new building on the southeast corner of Sixth avenue west and Superior street. For the present it will be a small building, five stories in height, but it is planned to construct it so that the old Sixth avenue hotel may be torn down in a year or two to make room for an extension of the building. The main entrance will be on Sixth avenue, facing the new Soo depot. The building will wipe away several old Bowery shacks, and marks another step in the regeneration of the district that has long been an eyesore to Duluthians.

The Zenith Investment company, which constructed the new eight-story building for the DeWitt-Seitz company on Lake avenue last year, will erect an annex to the building, the plans now being in course of preparation. The new building will be situated in the rear of the main building, with the railway tracks between. It will be 80x74 feet and for the present will consist of three stories. The construction will be such, however, that five more stories may be added to bring it to the same height as the main building. L. D. Campbell has been awarded the contract for the building. J. J. Wangenstein prepared the plans.

John A. Watterworth has sold to William B. Roberts his residence property on the southwest corner of Superior street and Thirteenth avenue east for $10,500. The property fronts 100 feet on Superior street.

The following sales have been made during the week by Richardson, Day & Harrison:

To Theodore O. Fichtner, lot 14 in block No. 8, Chamber's First division of Duluth, for $400.

To Elias Nelson, lot No. 12, in block No. 14, Norton's division of Duluth for $500.

To Julius H. Barnes, a lot on Lake avenue, lower Duluth.

To Herbert Warren, lots Nos. 5 and 6 in block No. 22, Harrison's division of Duluth, for $3,600.

To Richard F. Grant, two lots in Harrison's division, for $6,000.

To Charles S. Mitchell, 75 feet on Vista street, next to John Stone Pardee.

To Richard E. Carey, all of fractional block No. 1, Chambers First division of Duluth, for $800.

To D. H. Abell, 50 foot lot on boulevard between Seventh and Eighth avenues west, for $650.

To Alfred Dahl, lot 13, block 8, Chambers First division, for $325.

To A. L. Larson, lot No. 13, block No. 14, Norton's division, for $500.

To Albert Bachke, lot No. 11, block No. 8, Chambers First division, for $325.

To Thomas E. Considine, south half of southeast quarter of section 6, township 52, north of range 14 west, for $480.

To Christ Isakson, lot No. 23, block No. 3, Chambers First division for 200.

To Clyde R. Fenton, 50 feet on Woodland avenue for $800.

To Alvin Flood, lots Nos. 14 and 15, block No. 9, Chambers First division for $600.

To Mary Liljeman, lots in Chandler Park addition on Forty-first avenue for $700.

To M. J. Skomsvold, lot No. 22, block No. 3, Chambers First division, for $300.

Radcliffe & Price are preparing plans for a garage for the Duluth Motor Car company on Superior street between Seventh and Eighth avenues east. Plans are also being prepared for a two-story frame flat building for George Smith on Nineteenth avenue east and Third street. It will cost about $5,500.

W. M. Walker has sold to Alex McDougall 100 feet on the northeast corner of Twenty-second avenue east and first street for $6,750.

John E. Johnson has sold to K. Johanson a property on the southwest corner of Twenty-third avenue east and Water street for $2,500.

H. H. Thompson has sold to M. C. Garvey a property on the south side of Fourth street between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues east, the consideration not being named.

Swan Carlson has sold to B. G. Armstrong a property on the upper side of Piedmont avenue between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west for $2,500.

Louis London has sold to Joseph Verteling a property on the south side of Eighth street between Third and Fourth avenues east for $1,300.

Thomas Castonguay has sold to Neil Mathison a property on Exeter street between Michigan and Winnipeg avenues for $2,250.

Ida Erickson has purchased from A. W. Anderson a lot in Myer's rearrangement of block 127, Duluth proper, Second division, for $2,600.

A. Kenney has sold to E. R. Burgess a property on the southeast corner of

OPENING SALE OF
Walbridge 10-Acre Garden Tracts

Facts to Remember
You can acquire this land on small monthly payments, keep your present position and in a short time you will own a farm that will make you independent for life (one year's crop will pay for it), make you a good living besides making you more money than an ordinary man can make on a salary.

A. B. HOSTETTER, Supt. of Agriculture, says: A ten-acre farm near a railroad station will make a man more clear money annually than he could possibly make a year on his homestead of 160 acres.

Every tract is staked out and faces on a main driveway cut through the center of the land.

You don't have to wait for transportation facilities, wagon roads, telephone service, etc. You have them all right in your very dooryard as it were. Four passenger trains daily makes it possible to live on one of our Walbridge Garden tracts, and work in Duluth or Superior, if so desired.

You could not touch land on the Duluth side of the St. Louis river with the advantages offered by this tract, short of $100 per acre, and we doubt if you could get it at this figure.

Study the Map
And you will agree with us that this is the most desirable piece of land ever offered for sale at the Head of the Lakes, in ten-acre tracts.

Only two and one-half miles from the Duluth city limits, at New Duluth.

Only three and one-half miles from the location of the United States Steel Company's mills.

Only one-fourth mile from Walbridge, where four trains stop daily.

On the military road, a level highway into Superior.

No hills, no rocks, no waste land—a rich warm soil, perfectly drained, and so easily cleared, that some of the tracts can be plowed up with scarcely any work.

WE HAVE TWENTY-FOUR TRACTS FOR SALE.

$25 Cash Balance Monthly or Weekly.

A $250 TRACT, $25.00 CASH, BALANCE $1.50 PER WEEK
A $300 TRACT, $25.00 CASH, BALANCE $1.75 PER WEEK
A $350 TRACT, $25.00 CASH, BALANCE $2.00 PER WEEK
A $400 TRACT, $25.00 CASH, BALANCE $2.25 PER WEEK
PERFECT TITLE. WARRANTY DEED. NO PAYMENTS IF SICK.

Come Out and See Them Tomorrow—Monday May be Too Late!

Speculative Value
There is a big speculative value to this property, as it is only a short distance from the $25,000,000 steel plant that is to be built on the St. Louis river, near New Duluth. People who know, claim that this land will be selling at $500 an acre by the time active operations start at the mills, and point to the fact that land within three miles of the steel mills at Gary, Indiana, cannot be purchased short of $500 to $1,000 an acre. It is a foregone conclusion that whoever buys these tracts will reap a rich harvest from their investment in the very near future.

Out-of-Town Buyers
Who wish to purchase tracts, can do so by remitting to us $25 as first payment. We will set aside ten acres for them, and upon examination if every statement in this advertisement is not found to be absolutely correct, we will gladly return your money.
We refer you to the United States National Bank, or any reputable business house in Superior.

How To Go
Take the Northern Pacific train leaving Duluth at 8:15, and Superior at 8:30 in the morning. Our salesmen will meet you at Walbridge, show you over the land, and automobiles and rigs will be provided to bring you back to Superior, over the Military road. You will be home by noon. It is not necessary, but we would prefer to have you call up our office by telephone and let us know you are going.

STARTS A LIBEL ACTION.

Marquette Man Alleges That Another Has Damaged Him. Has Damaged Him.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—John W. Spear has started an action in circuit court for $20,000 damages for libel against James Pendill, and a capias warrant is now in the hands of Marshal Manning. The bill of complaint makes numerous charges against Mr. Pendill, generally speaking, it being alleged that Pendill has been largely responsible for Spear's troubles during the last two years.

Among other things that Mr. Spear alleges that Mr. Pindell has done with willful and malicious intent to injure him was to publish the book entitled "Facts," which was generally distributed about the county. The book treated of Mr. Spear's brokerage business, its evident purpose being to show that Mr. Spear had been conducting a fraudulent business, with intent to "fleece" his customers. Mr. Spear declares he has a letter from a United States attorney, in which the writer declares "Facts" to have been a "libelous and scurrillous" publication.

RECORD WHEAT YIELD.

Four Hundred and Eighty Bushels From Twelve Acres.

Shafer, N. D., Oct. 9.—Martin Baalrud of Banks, has topped the McGenzie county record for wheat with 480 bushels from twelve acres an astonishing yield of forty bushels per acre.

Halvor T. Omlid of Banks holds the best general crop record up to date.

Last spring he seeded fifty-seven acres of old land and nine acres of new breaking to crop, putting in twenty acres of wheat, sixteen of oats and thirty of flax. The Seim threshing rig visited the farm a few days ago and threshed out 500 bushels of wheat, 832 bushels of oats and 570 bushels of flax, or a total of 1,902 bushels. The wheat averaged thirty bushels to the acre; the oats fifty-two and the flax nineteen.

If sold at the present prices the grain yield from the sixty-six acres would approximate $1,500, a sum sufficient to pay for the farm if bought at prevailing prices, but as luck had it, there is no debt to pay. The 140 acres of prize land fell to Omlid a couple of years ago as a prize package from Uncle Sam's land grab bag. A good part of the $1,500 or possibly $2,000, if the grain is not sold until spring, may therefore be set down in the 1909 year book, in the column headed year's profits.

EXPERIENCE COSTLY.

Former Weather Man Pays Pretty Sum for Keeping Instruments.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—It cost former Weather Observer F. W. Reuter of Glenullin, N. D., $91.65, at least, as a result of his refusal to resign his post and turn over the instruments to the government when they were demanded by the department with which he was identified.

It will be remembered that some time ago a writ of attachment was issued from the United States court after which the instruments in question were seized.

Following, that a civil action was started against Reuter by the government and on Sept. 30, judgment was entered, which with costs amounted to $91.65. Deputy United States A. Edward McKay has returned from Glenullin where the judgment was satisfied with cash, a levy being unnecessary, and the last chapter of the case ended.

INDIAN OFFICER CUT BY DRUNK-CRAZED RED MAN.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank S. Doolittle, an Indian, who was running amuck with a razor on the Bad river reservation, while crazy from liquor, said to have been bought here, slashed Norbert Sero, an Indian policeman, several times with the weapon. Doolittle was overpowered and brought here for a hearing. The affair will probably revive the agitation against liquor being sold adjoining reservations. Sero's wounds are not considered serious.

WIDOWED MOTHERS

The Unequal Fight That Struggling Mothers Are Making With Poverty Leads to the Establishment of the "Widowed Mothers' Fund" in New York.

By Belle Lindner Israels.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

You live in three rooms in Essex street. It being summer, you spent the night on the fire escape, but not to avoid the heat. There is a boarder who helps out with the rent. You only have one bed. The boarder must have it. The three older children slept on a mattress on the floor after you brought them in from the street at 11 o'clock. The baby who is only 8 months old, slept with you on the fire escape, and you stayed half awake all night for fear you might lose hold on him and he might fall. Widowhood is a matter of some months with you and you lie awake early in the morning endeavoring to solve the problems of shelter, food and clothing on uncertain earnings of $4 a week. It is no great task to arise from such a rest and take up the day's work. During your scant and hasty toilet, all of the children, including Freddie, the baby, clamor for their morning meal—if such it can be called. You must be at your work at 7:30 o'clock and three of the children must we washed and dressed and at the day nursery two blocks away. There isn't anybody to help you with the work except Nellie, when she can be persuaded to do so without continuous quarreling with the others. Nellie is not as tractable as she used to be when you were working at home and knew just where she was and with whom she played. She runs about the streets all day now and it worries you to think of what may become of her, not only because of accidents, but because, too, of the stories one reads of the things that happen to some little girls. But you must work.

Rent must be paid and the Charities has no money to help you; there are so many other poor people. Willie has a running nose and they tell you at the day nursery that if it is not better today you will have to keep him home until he is well. That means that Nellie will have to stay away from school and take care of him. You are only 36 years old, but you look 49, and you feel so tired and your arm hurts so where the dispensary doctor said it was rheumatism and you are never without that dull ache in your head. Working all day at the hardest kind of a job—taking your place in the machinery of your employer's economy, has its compensations when the home-coming means the greeting of a sympathetic husband. But you come home only to the emptiness of missing him—he is dead. Perhaps it is worse yet and he has simply left you to do for yourself and the children because he has found some one younger and less worn in the struggle with life and the little ones. Your prospect is a restless night on the floor or fire escape, with the children tumbling about and a boarder to make life more miserable, more crowded, more unhappy. What is the end? What sort of children will the little ones be without their mother's care, however unwise or untaught?

This is a real story of a widowed mother. She has thousands of companions in similar plights. The stories differ only in detail. The principle is always the same; the terrible struggle to maintain a home for the little ones and to keep them near their natural protector. Rousseau in his Emil values the ezal of a parent above the talent of a paid instructor. These mothers are as a rule of the unskilled type. They are just mothers and their children are as a rule typical of the faults and virtues of normal children enjoying home privileges whatever they be.

These mothers are no more desirous of sending their children among strangers to be counted as units among hundreds of other children in the asylums, than are mothers of the better class. They are just as sure that they alone understand the individualities of their children as are other mothers; and in the long run they would make as great a success in training the children. In certain cases of full orphanage, the principle has been recognized that the home gives something that the institution lacks, and placing out has been resorted to and is vigorously carried on with most gratifying results. The theory under which a widowed mother is obliged to leave her home daily or to take such an amount of work into it as will use 90 per cent of her time, does not allow for the normal development of the child. It is forcing the children who are necessarily without the proper amount of parental supervision into correctional institutions and orphanages, where the public expense is far greater than private support at home. In the month of July in the juvenile court there were twenty-two Jewish boys whose mothers were widows. Many of these were arrested at the subway station between the hours of 1 and 3 in the morning waiting for daylight to start paper selling. All were the children of working mothers. Four girls who came to the attention of the court in the same month were committed because the mothers, widows, were working and could not look after the girls. One of them was complained of for staying away from home at night and another had become ill from lack of care and food while the mother worked late at night in a factory to keep the roof over their heads.

Finding a large percentage of mothers undergoing such struggles and this new field of work lying neglected, or nearly so, the widowed mothers' fund has been organized to study and develop a new method of dealing with such cases. Careful survey of the field before them shows many complications. The families where illness has seized several members of the household, others where there is a grandmother to support too or a sick son in a sanatorium, or even an insane husband, who thus is out of the bread-winning class, all offer peculiar problems. The widowed mothers' fund proposes to establish a standard of living in accordance with which per capita provision can be made until the children are of such ages as to be contributors. At present the fund is attempting to work with the United Hebrew Charities of New York in much the same manner as the committee on tuberculosis works with the Charity Organization society.

A joint committee of both societies reviews all cases of widowed or deserted mothers coming to the attention of either society. In June and July of this year there have been 350 applicants, whose families average four children apiece. The widowed mothers' fund contributes regular sums to the charities for use in this work but, finding the greatest number of those needing its ministrations were residents of the East side, the fund established its offices at 155 Clinton street.

THE LATE GOVERNOR JOHNSON; AN ESTIMATE OF HIS CHARACTER

By Curtis L. Mosher.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 9.—"Spare me from the bitterness and the sharp passions of unguarded moments. May I not forget that poverty and riches are of the spirit. * * * And although age and infirmity overtake me, and I come not within sight of the castle of my dreams, teach me to be thankful for life, and for time's olden memories that are good and sweet, and may the evening's twilight find me gentle still."

On a bitter gray afternoon in winter, when the shadows had lengthened so far as to shut much of the cheerless light of the day from the magnificent private apartments wherein John A. Johnson left to the cares of his commonwealth the keen and shrewd perception of a well-stored mind and the energy and devotion which lifted him to greatness, I took from an old wallet a well-worn slip of paper and quoted to him these beautiful words. It was after several hours of trying and arduous labor. Tired and worn, the governor lounged in his leather chair. He sat silent for many minutes and we both gazed out upon the comfortlessness of the dying day.

"I wish you would repeat those last lines again," he said at last, "and I come not within sight of the castle of my dreams. Isn't it magnificent! The whole philosophy of a calm, untroubled, gentle and helpful life breathes out in those simple words. Read it again."

I repeated the measured phrases and again the silence spread over us. Later we talked, not of greatness and the pomp and circumstances of marching events, but of the common hardships of life and the daily trials and temptations of common men. As we left the huge marble building that commands St. Paul from its remarkable vantage point, John Albert Johnson, plain American, summed up his measure of life in words which it will be impossible to ever forget.

His Measure of Life.

"It is my conclusion," he said, "that the bitterness of poverty, the terrible drudgery those who rise from the bottom must experience the bitter longings and the heartaches for the things we want—want with heart and soul, and always find just beyond us, comprise the test of fire to which a farseeing Providence subjects those who are destined to succeed. And whether real success is possible without this suffering, I doubt. When people call me governor and show respect, it pleases me, but my mind inevitably reverts to the time when no one dignified me, and I wonder why and what these things mean. So much in life we none of us understand. But there's a purpose, and those of us who have the desire to accomplish a work in the world can only remember that there is no honor not founded on worth, and no respect not founded on accomplishment. And above all, to help others to life, to hope, to see the greatness of the future and to strive for a share in the accomplishment of something which is new and needed in this world, or which is worthy because it contributes to a broader understanding of life and its problems.

"To have fought poverty is a magnificent heritage. I do not envy the rich. Their affluence has cut them off from the greatest thing in the world—to know how the average, commonplace, unsought and unhonored man lives, what he feels, what he thinks. There is but one end of life which is worthy and that is to conquer—to conquer adversity, pain, envy, regrets, ambitions and the obstacles which are put in the path to develop our fortitude, our courage and our brains."

He paced along the street, John Albert Johnson, with his peculiar, swinging stride. Finally he turned to me with one of his rare, quizzical, delightful smiles, which so frequently illuminated his rather sad and serious features, and said:

"Come on, I want to buy a cigar—a darn good one. It's one of the pleasantest things I do, because I never put my money on the counter and get one of those full, rich, delicious Havanas without remembering the times when I would have been glad to smoke a fine perfecto and give one to a friend—but had only a nickel or a dime to bless myself with."

This was the character of John Albert Johnson. I do not think it is necessary to say more. The worth of the man, his struggles and successes, his attitude toward his fellowmen, and the attitude of his fellows toward him are sufficiently expressed in these quiet remarks after the brunt of the day's labor was over.

His Greatest Triumph.

He became a drug clerk, gaining there the greatest triumph of his life, and that was not when he was sworn as governor of Minnesota, but when he carried home to a worn, tired and devoted mother his first salary—a meager sum, but enough to make the difference between the terrible drudgery of toil for bread and a quiet chair in a kitchen where there was enough, if there was not plenty. He became a country editor, later a legislator, and then a sudden candidate for governor, who astonished his entire state with his ability, his generalship, his brilliance upon the platform and his knowledge of men and affairs.

For several sessions I sat within a few feet of John Albert Johnson in the state senate, he as a representative of a great and wealthy district, and I in the humble capacity of a newspaper reporter. I heard one of his first and most brilliant platform addresses in his first campaign for the governorship, and sat utterly astounded at the ready flow of wit, satire, sarcasm, logic and clear, pointed argument. Whence had this sudden gift of tongues come? I did not know, only that it was new. But later, when I knew more of John Albert Johnson, it was apparent that his magnificent gifts were not overnight reward of a benignant fairy, but the full fruition of many an hour in many a year gone by, when by the dim light of a smoky lamp he was eagerly absorbing Charles Dickens, Shakespeare and his Bible.

State Better For His Life.

He has gone from us, but that which lives means better citizenship to the state of which he was the first native-born governor and the favorite son. His deeds are many and honorable, and will be recorded in their proper place. In due time a figure of bronze will adorn a splendid niche in the state-house where he was the chief executive of a state of empire-like wealth, dimensions and resources. He was a commanding figure, and has left his impress, but the greatest achievements of John Albert Johnson, plain American, are not written on the heavy parchments that lie in the vaults of the secretary of state, but upon the hearts of 3,000,000 of his fellows in Minnesota, who loved him much and hoped much for him. And what greater achievement is possible for any man? He has added to the sum of human knowledge of life. He has achieved something in the labors of life. He has done a work which no man did before him in the state which was his sphere of activity.

But I like best to think of other things. He has come not within sight of the castle of his dreams, but he was thankful for life, for the olden memories, he was gentle. His riches were of spirit and in the love of every man who knew him.

And so goes to his resting place the remains of one who has done these things in Minnesota in forty-eight brief years. His life was laid down while he was still in the service of the state, and the life he led is the priceless legacy to a people who knew him well, honored him much, expected much and were not disappointed.

"G. B. S." REPORTER.

Clyde Fitch took down one of his famous scrapbooks.

"Before fame came to him," he said, "that great rival of mine, George Bernard Shaw, wrote theatrical criticisms for the London Saturday Review.

"Now, those were criticisms indeed. Nobody could praise a good play so beautifully as this critic. Nobody could roast a bad play so tellingly. Listen. Here is a sample.

And the playwright read:

"I am in a somewhat foolish position concerning a play at the Opera Comique, whither I was bidden this day week. For some reason I was not supplied with a program; so that I never learned the name of the play. At the end of the second act the play had advanced about as far as an ordinary dramatist would have brought it five minutes after the first rising of the curtain; or, say, as far as Ibsen would have brought it ten years before that event. Taking advantage of the second interval to stroll out into the Strand for a little exercise, I unfortunately forgot all about my business, and actually reached home before it occurred to me that I had not seen the end of the play. Under these circumstances, it would ill become me to dogmatize on the merits of the work or its performance. I can only offer the management my apologies."

CINGALESE FOND OF TRAVEL

Britannia: The Cingalese have a notorious propensity for travel on our lines. I am reminded of a true story of a native shopboy who stole forty rupees and then disappeared for several days. All search proving fruitless in the ordinary walks of life the railway was thought of, and there the young rascal was found spending his pelf in traveling backward and forward between Colombo and Kandy.

I must not forget also that during the early days of the seaside line the villagers traveled so much, using up all spare cash that certain small taxes payable by them were only with some difficulty collected.

THOSE WHO PAY THE STEAMSHIP DIVIDENDS

IMMIGRANT WOMEN AT ELLIS ISLAND.

PASSING BEFORE AN INSPECTOR.

"HAVE YOU $25?"

One of the Questions Every Alien Must Answer Before He Is Admitted to This Country.

WITHIN A FEW DAYS the two great German steamship lines have announced that the last year has brought them in enormous profits where the year before had plunged them into debt. The North German Lloyd line alone shows a profit of $1,250,000 in place of a deficit of $1,750,000. The humble immigrant has made this difference of $3,000,000 in the earnings of this steamship company.

Odd as it may seem, it is not the high-priced first cabin which makes the profit of a steamship line. That is the immigrant traffic with its multiplication of $18 or $24 or whatever the current immigrant fare may be. This is another illustration of the business value of small things multiplied compared with greater things sold in more limited number.

It costs the steamship companies enormously to furnish the first cabins. Costly food must be served to the first cabin passengers. They must have small armies of attendants, stewards, stewardesses, deck stewards, smoking room stewards, dining room stewards. In the cabins must be silken hanging, electric hair-curlers or milk warmers. The social hall must be fitted up in the most lavish manner. Altogether the first cabin passenger gets what he pays for. And sometimes he gets more, as when great steamships are run at a loss to gain the reputation of record-breakers.

But the steerage passenger does not require more than the bare necessities of life on the way over. To be sure he is much better treated now on the modern liner than he ever was before. He may be put in a two-berth room with a washstand at one end, platner, but in general plan like the cabins of the higher grade. He gets better food than he ever did. But it is not costly food.

The steerage business of the steamship companies is enormously profitable because it is done at so little cost. It probably does not cost more than $4 to $5 to bring an immigrant to this country. This would include food as well as transportation. Or maybe this means when steerage compartments are full.

Steerage travel is a barometer of the business conditions in America. When business began to fall off three years ago the steamships were full for a time on their eastward voyages. The immigrant was returning with his savings to the Old World, where he could live so much more cheaply than here. Now that business has returned to something like the normal in this country the immigrant returns.

MANY OPIUM FIENDS IN THE LATIN QUARTER OF PARIS

Evil Steadily Increasing Among the Students and Not Confined to the Male Sex—Begging Nuisance In the Champs Elysees.

Paris, Oct. 9.—Opium, as has repeatedly been explained, is committing ravages among officers and men in the naval ports, and now the Intransigeant comes out with a doleful tale of the addictions of students in the Latin Quarter to morphine.

It says that the young men who have yielded to the morphine habit are not content to satisfy their unwholesome craving in solitude, but must needs find companions, so that whole groups are corrupted, and the evil is steadily increasing.

Nor is this deplorable weakness limited to the male sex. Young women, as a matter of fact, have set the bad example in the Quarter, and the men have followed suit.

The paper, indeed, calls on the police to keep a sharp eye on the establishments of various druggists who, as it alleges, dispense morphine on the strength of prescriptions which are manifestly concocted.

It is to be hoped that there is considerable exaggeration in these assertions, but as the attention of the authorities is being called to the matter it ought to be possible to form a tolerably clear idea of the true state of things when the schools reassemble and the Latin Quarter is itself again.

The begging nuisance in the Champs Elysees has become so serious that the shopkeepers in that quarter have at last been compelled to ask the police to put an end to it. There are begging impostors everywhere, but recently the Champs Elysees and the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne have had more than their share.

They have become very bold, these beggars. They will leap on the steps of carriages and offer bunches of withered flowers to the occupants. The latter do not want the flowers, but it is useless to tell the beggars that; they will remain on the steps until money is given to them.

Other beggars, who refused alms at houses, use threatening language, and laugh defiance when the police are mentioned.

The number of spurious crippled and blind people in Paris has reached alarming dimensions. These impostors usually live in Faubourg Saint Antoine, the Maubert quarter, the Faubourg du Temple and the Montaigne Sainte Genevieve.

In their lodgings they contrive their frauds by which they transform themselves into cripples. When they return home of an evening their infirmities disappear as if by enchantment, and they make merry with the money they have obtained from the charitable, but credulous, public.

Maxime du Camp took up the study of the beggars of Paris and he found that they were divided into two categories—the ambling and the sedentary beggars. The former infest the boulevards and the public walks; the latter have their special stands. Some of these stands are very valuable possessions. When their holders have made money enough, they sell them to the highest bidder. A blind man recently sold his stand for $1,600.

A recent innovation is the polyglot beggar. His clients are foreigners. He learns just enough English, German, Russian and Spanish to enable him to appeal for assistance. You will find him in the vicinity of the big hotels and in the grand boulevards. He is usually well-dressed and there is nothing aggressive about him. He does his begging in a gentlemanly way.

Another type of beggar is the man who calls at your house. He is a master of politeness. He poses as an author, a professor, or an artist in distress, and usually succeeds in melting the hearts of those he calls upon.

The pocketbook of one of these beggars was seized by the police a short time ago. It contained detailed particulars of his operations. The names and addresses of his clients were also set forth, also the dates of his visits, and the amounts he had received.

There were instructions as to how these clients had to be handled. For example, W was at first inclined to be rather skeptical. To melt the heart of X it was necessary to speak of his last novel. Y was simple and always sympathetic; while to get money from Z, the beggar had only to vilify the Freemasons. It was calculated that this beggar made $2,000 a year.

The lacemakers of Calais are in despair. Fickle fashion is serving them badly. Lace is not wanted so much now, the reason being that ladies are dressing themselves like umbrellas, dispensing with those under garments which usually required lace adornment. The future for the lace industry is black, because fashion has decreed that fashionable women shall abandon the Directoire, and return to the paniers of Louis XVI. The salaries of lacemakers have been reduced in consequence, and many are without work.

But there is another reason for the slackness in the lace trade. A craze for cheap tulle has set in. It is manufactured at Caudry in the Nord, the rival of Calais. An employer gives reasons for the falling off in the lace trade. He points out that eight years ago American gold poured into Calais, and everybody prospered. By and by, however, America began manufacturing things hitherto made in Europe, and lace was one of the articles.

One lace-making firm in Calais emigrated to America, taking its machines with it. To complete the debacle, certain English trades which manufactured only for Calais were admitted into the United States two years ago. They each paid $2,000 in duties.

"The creation of a national industry in America under the shelter of a tariff representing 70 per cent, completes the ruin of Calais," says the employer.

If fashion continues to ostracise lace, federal employers intend to revive the silk tulle industry in Calais. But before doing so it will be necessary to come to an understanding with Caudry, which turns out cheap tulle.

A curious instance of a man who cannot marry because he registered as a female has come to light at Lyons. Joseph Lafon, a clerk, wanted to marry, but when his birth certificate had to be furnished it was found that he had been registered as being of the female sex. He therefore will have to remain a bachelor until the mistake can be legally rectified.

Lafon had served seven years in the army. Upon re-enlisting he applied for a copy of his birth certificate, but on that occasion the clerk did not notice the error in registration.

WERE MADE COMFORTABLE

HOW THE FRENCH ACADEMICIANS CAME TO HAVE ARM-CHAIRS—PROVIDED BY KING—STORY ABOUT DICKENS AND SEVERAL ABOUT DE QUINCEY.

London, Oct. 9.—In the French Academy of Letters a seat is always spoken of as the fauteuil or armchair of such-and-such a writer. To the casual minded this designation may seem merely whimsical. There is, however, a quaint explanation, and if you asked the first Frenchman you met in the street he probably would not know.

Originally, all the academicians except the president sat on hard-seated chairs with straight backs. One of them, Cardinal d'Estress, found that his infirmities prevented him from making himself comfortable in such a chair. He asked leave, therefore, to bring his own armchair with him to his meetings of the society. The king, to whom this request was conveyed, said that this favoritism would never do; if one academician had an armchair then all the academicians must have them, and he decided—on second thought—that all academicians should have them at his expense. The royal upholsterer was ordered to make forty armchairs and send them to the academy as the king's gift. Ever since then the fauteuil has been de regle.

The scanty rewards earned by some literary men even in these days are illustrated by the plight of Stephen Phillips, the poet dramatist, who failed to attend his public examination in bankruptcy. The assistant receiver reported that he believed Mr. Phillips was living in very straightened circumstances at Brighton and was without means to travel. He attributed his present position to the failure of the Last Hero and of Faust. His liabilities are estimated at $1,500. Later, it was learned that the playwright was staying with friends at Portslade. Since he left Brighton Phillips has had a long illness, which was one of the causes of his present trouble. He is much upset concerning the publication of his financial status, as his creditors would all have been paid in course of time.

No Flute For Dickens.

Among the curiosities treasured up for years by the late George Manville Fenn is a letter in Dickens's handwriting on a sheet of old-fashioned blue notepaper. Before coming into Mr. Fenn's possession it had remained for years on the bill file of the tradesman to whom it was sent, with the result that it is pierced by three rough holes where the spindle passed through the original folds. The letter relates to Lord Byron's flute and reads:

"Mr. Charles Dickens is much obliged to Mr. Claridge for the offer of Lord Byron's flute. But, as Mr. Dickens cannot play that instrument himself, and has nobody in the house who can, he begs to decline the purchase, with thanks."

As Mr. Fenn used to say, in showing the relic to his friends, "You cannot see a smile upon the paper, but there seems to be one playing among the words."

Great Book Hunter.

The centenary of John Hill Burton recalls to memory a famous book hunter and a striking personality in the world of letters. One of his brother maniacs, a well-known Edinburgh divine, it is related by Burton, on one occasion went to London to be examined by a committee of the house of commons. He suddenly disappeared with all his money, and "returned penniless, followed by a wagon containing 372 rare editions of the Bible."

"I have known him," says Burton, "when beaten at an auction, turn round resignedly and say, 'Well, so be it; but I daresay I have ten or twelve copies at home if I could lay hands on them.'"

Bookstalls were the favorite haunts of the divine in question, and when wanted in an emergency, the female members of the household made search for him "from bookstall unto bookstall, just as the mothers, wives and daughters of other lost men hunt them through their favorite taverns or gambling houses."

He had, however, one weakness, unpardonable in the eyes of brother collectors: he was suspected of reading his own books—"that is to say," adds Burton, "when he could get them, for so disorderly and chaotic was his library that he was known to borrow a volume from a friend through sheer inability to lay his hands on his own numerous copies."

De Quincey Described.

Nowhere, perhaps, is there to be found a better description of De Quincey than comes from the pen of Burton:

"He glided in on us one night like a shadow, the child by the fire gazing on him with round eyes of astonishment, and suggesting that he should get a penny and go home. How far he had wandered since he had last regretted himself, or even whether he had eaten food that day, were matters on which there was no getting articulate utterance from him. * * * How that wearied, worn little body was to be refreshed was a different problem. Soft food disagreed with him; hard food he could not eat."

Opium was the only solution.

"How many drops? Drops! Nonsense! If the wine glasses of the establishment were not beyond the ordinary normal size, there was no risk. And so the weary was at rest for a time."

Burton related another scene with De Quincey as the central figure.

"He arrives very late at a friend's door, and, gaining admission—a process in which he often endured impediments—he represents, with his usual silver voice and measured diction the absolute necessity of his being then and there invested with a sum of money in the current coin of the realm—the amount limited from the nature of his necessities, which he freely states to be about $2."

Suddenly it flashes upon him that security may be asked.

"After a rummage in his pockets, which develops miscellaneous and varied, but by no means valuable, possessions, he at last comes to the object of his search, a crumpled bit of paper, and spreads it out"—a $250 banknote. The friend, who knew him well, was of the opinion that had he, on delivering the $2, received the banknote, he would never have heard anything more of the transaction from De Quincey.

MEAN PEOPLE.

Henry Russell, the head of the Boston opera, was describing his foreign tour in search of talent.

"They were mean people," he said of the singers of a certain city. "I could do no business with them. They thought only of money."

Mr. Russell smiled.

"They were as bad as the man who discovered the Blank theater fire.

"The first intimation the box office had of this fire came, at the end of the third act, from a fat man who bounded down the gallery stairs, stuck his face in at the ticket window, and shouted breathlessly:

"'Theater's afire! Gimme me money back!'"

SOCIETY

ASIDE from the interest in the lectures being presented in the city by William Norman Guthrie, the beginning of the club activities and the regular occupations of the autumn season, housecleaning and new clothes, there has been little to attract attention during the week. All Duluth is interested in Mr. Guthrie's lectures, which have been planned by those most interested in the work to reach as many of the Duluth population as possible. During the coming week Mr. Guthrie will continue the course on the drama at the high school, giving three lectures, Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings.

MARY GARDEN SECOND ONLY TO "TEDDY" AS ADVERTISER

Her Activities Keep Her Constantly in the Spotlight.

Latest Is Report That She Will Enter a Convent.

MARY GARDEN.

Will Mary Garden enter a convent? Mary may not enter a convent, but she'll get a lot of publicity out of the idea before she makes up her mind or announces her decision. Next to Theodore Roosevelt there is no better self-advertiser in the world than Mary. In fact without her the newspapers would be comparatively dull throughout the open season. Music hath charms and musical criticism is of interest to a great many persons—a growing number, because musical culture is increasing in the United States all the time. But what is the interest in a prima donna's wonderful art compared with that which surrounds the report that Mary Garden has poisoned herself trying to change the color of her hair; Mary will marry Prince Mavrocordate; Mary will not marry Prince Mavrocordate; the prince is mad for Mary; the prince doesn't care a hang; the prince is about to do something desperate and Mary may marry him to save his life; Mary has kicked down a chandelier in her hotel practicing a dance for her newest operatic creation; Mary will wear less clothing than ever in her new part; Mary's modesty resents the suggestion that clothing or the lack of clothing should in any way limit her Art with a capital A; has Mary a voice? Oh, yes. Mary has a voice of marvelous clarity and depths of subtlety; not at all. Mary's voice is like that of a hen; on the contrary Mary's voice is the acme of vocal expression; does Mary think she has a voice? Let her be the final arbiter; Mary doesn't care whether she has a voice or not; she cares only for that Art with a capital A; and the expression of that is not only vocal—it is dramatic, it is cerebral it is physical. And now it is the convent. The prince will go mad if Mary doesn't marry. Mary believes the strenuous interpretation of "Salome" and "Elektra" will wear her out in three years. Then she will decide whether to marry or go into a convent. Visions of the prince gnawing his lip and tearing out his mustache hair by hair smite the imagination.

But there is one undeniable fact behind all this strenuous discussion of the personal side of Mary Garden. She is a great artist and she fixes public attention chiefly by the force of her art. The personal gossip directs attention to her. She holds it by her interpretation of some of the most difficult roles in the world of music. This picture of her never before published was made a few months ago. It is a strikingly good likeless of Mary as she looks off the stage.

CLUBS AND MUSICAL

MME. GADSKI.

MME. SEMBRICH.

These portraits of Mme. Sembrich and Mme. Gadski were made Tuesday morning, when they landed from the Kronprinzessin Cecelie of the North German Lloyd line. Their coming marks the opening of a merry musical war in Chicago. Mme. Gadski, in her successful concert appearances in Chicago in past years, has been under the management of a local agent. This year she decided to put her interests in the hands of another man. Her former agent then made arrangements with Mme. Sembrich to appear in that city on the same day and at the same hour as Mme. Gadski. It might be supposed that the two great singers were enemies. But the oddest part of the rivalry is that they are both under the general management of Loudon Charlton of New York, and personally are the warmest of friends. Mme. Sembrich, to the great sorrow of New Yorkers, has given up the operatic stage and will appear only in concert this season. Mme. Gadski will reappear at the Metropolitan. Mme. Gadski first came to this country under the management of Walter Damrosch. She has grown tremendously in her art since that time. Then she took the lighter German roles. Now she sings the heavier Wagner roles. Her "Elizabeth" in "Tannhauser" has always been one of the most perfect creations of the operatic stage; and last season she was one of the cast which made the performance of "Die Meistersinger" at the Metropolitan memorable.

Schumann-Heink.

Mme. Schumann-Heink will be heard in a recital at the Lyceum theater Thursday evening, Nov. 12. Of her opening recital in New York recently the Musical Leader wrote:

"For a number of seasons the Brooklyn institute has opened its series of concerts with a recital by Mme. Schumann-Heink, who never fails to attract the capacity of the huge opera house of the Academy of Music. Not only does this artist deliver a song with an interpretation as enthralling as it is magnetic, nor does the beauty of her voice represent the entire charm, but from no side does she leave aught to be desired; indeed, as satisfying a singer as the great contralto is a rare occurrence under any circumstances. Last night, to her charms as singer, musician and interpreter, she added a surpassingly beautiful program, which showed not only a versatility in taste, but a tremendously wide artistic scope. She is the humorist as she is the deep emotional tragedienne, and her audience shifted from smiles to tears with each change in the artist's mood.

"There never has been an artist before the public for whom so much affection is shown as for the great contralto, who seems to draw an inspiration from those before her. It would be difficult to specify in which numbers she appeared at the greatest advantage, because with her there is no such thing; she is the colossal artist in every detail of her wonderful art. The program as published last week was given, and it was a marvel in the art of program making. She supplemented it with several encores, and an hour afterward, when she left the hall, the streets were lined solidly on both sides by men and women who waited to give the great prima donna a final cheer of welcome and of farewell as she stepped into her cab."

Successful in West.

Miss Josephine Carey has recently returned from the West, where she visited two months. Miss Carey appeared in concert in Helena, and of her work the Helena Independent said:

"Miss Josephine Carey, formerly a pupil of Madame Carreno, last night appeared in concert in the Unitarian church.

"Music lovers in the city had been long looking forward to the appearance of Miss Carey, and in her remarkable interpretation of masters in the world of music, she more than fulfilled all that was expected of her. She played with all the dash and skill of an intimate student of Carreno, displaying throughout the concert a technique that could only be acquired by long and constant training. In her recital, Miss Carey made selections from Liszt, Chopin, Schuman and Mozart, and did ample justice to them all. In the Waltz, by Chopin, especially, her interpretation of the piece made it clear to all that it could be called nothing but a tone poem."

JOSEPHINE CAREY.

The Helena Record spoke of the concert as follows:

"The finished playing of Miss Carey won for her the praise of the most critical auditors. Her brilliant technique and firm, deft touch, combined with a keen appreciation of the composer's mood, lent an ineffable charm to her renditions. In her repertoire were included selections from the masters, Mozart, Schuman, Krebs, Chopin, Liszt and Dvorak, and they were all interpreted with a full perception of their tonal and imaginative qualities.

"One of her most charming selections was Liszt's Hungarian rhapsodie No. 6. It was an eery bit of work, played with verve and swinging lilt, and it evoked fugitive thoughts of a wild and careless vagabondia; of rythmic figures intoxicated with life, and enjoying it with a wild abandon.

"The recital was enjoyed by all and was one of the best given here in many a day."

Miss Carey is this year chairman of the music committee of the Twentieth Century club and is arranging a series of lecture recitals to be given before the members of the club during the early part of the club year in addition to her musical work among the children of the Webster school, which is a part of this club's work.

GETS DIVORCE FOR CRUELTY

After a trial lasting all day yesterday, Mrs. Sofia Christenson was given a limited decree of divorce from her husband, Charles Christenson. A division of the property of the couple will be decided upon.

Mrs. Christenson charged cruel and inhuman treatment. Christenson made counter charges of the same nature, alleging that his wife had continually nagged him and had often struck him with pieces of wood. Holding that a man is not drunk until he cannot walk, Christenson said he had been drunk but once in the last three years. Mrs. Christenson said he had been drunk very often.

After the Christenson case was disposed of, Bertha Long was granted a divorce from Patrick J. Long. Drunkenness and gambling were the charges.

CAR SURPLUSAGE SHRINKING.

New York, Oct. 9.—The fortnightly bulletin of the American Railway company shows a reduction to 53,322 in surplus cars. The total surplus is now one-third less than two weeks ago and is lower than at any time since the beginning of the depression of 1907. Owing to the narrow margin of surplus cars of any one line, there are practically no cars available to apply on the shortages of connecting lines.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Some morning next week Daniel R. Porter, the International High School secretary will deliver an address in the auditorium and it promises to be one of the most interesting talks ever made before the students.

Mr. Porter is the first American to receive the Cecil-Rhodes scholarship and he graduated with honors from Oxford. The subject of his address will be, "Oxford and the Rhodes Scholarship," and the secretary will tell the pupils how they can win the scholarship.

Mr. Porter is now visiting all the principal high schools of the country and the Duluth high school is fortunate in being on the list.

The celebration of Duluth's victory over Brainerd which was held in chapel last Monday morning shows that the students still have that athletic spirit which has always been a feature of the school. Football songs were sung by the choir and the boys showed their spirit by their ability to yell.

Thursday evening, the athletic committee of the school representing the boys' department of the Young Men's Christian association held a meeting and drew up a plan which will be followed by the high school boys. The basketball league will be reorganized as well as besides this several other athletic affairs will be pulled off this year among which are an aquatic meet and a cross city relay race.

The girls' gymnasium classes began this week and are proving a greater success than expected. If the classes this year prove a success among the freshmen and sophomore girls, they will be reorganized again next year with additional classes for the members of the two upper classes.

All the members of the sophomore class are well pleased with the result of the class election held last Wednesday.

Lawrence Duby promises to be an efficient teacher and his speakling ability is well known as he delivered several speeches for the class last year when the class president was obliged to be absent. Miss Adelaide Miller was re-elected vice president and Vivienne Kerr was the favorite for the position as secretary. Rex St. Clair was chosen treasurer and Charles Jeronimus, who is now making a great run for an end position on the first team, was chosen to lead the class in the annual sophomore-freshmen football struggle.

Next Wednesday the freshman class will hold its first election. The members of the class are taking much interest in the coming meeting and are working diligently to secure votes for their choice of officers.

Many thought a thunder storm had suddenly arose Friday noon when some of the boys congregated on the front steps and went through the school yells in preparation for the Ironwood game.

The "Forum" is holding a meeting every Monday afternoon and Mr. Brackett, woh is coaching the team is well satisfied with the results. He has divided the boys into teams and a debate is held between two of the teams every week. In this way Mr. Brackett is getting an eye on the most promising material to be represented on the school debating team.

The report cards come out a week from Monday for the first time this year and next week will be one of much worry among the pupils, especially among the boys taking part in athletics as they fear they may be excluded from all athletic contests.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH"

Are the Shoes You Are Wearing Made in Duluth?

How many people in Duluth are wearing shoes made in Duluth?

To demonstrate the truth of the assertion that the citizens of Duluth are not supporting home industries the way they should support them, ask yourself the question, Mr. Duluthian and family.

Glance at your footwear. Do it for Duluth. Do you know where it was made? Your "understanding" may be good, but is it a Duluth "understanding" or an imported "understanding"?

The answer is of vital importance to yourself as well as to the community.

The Northern Shoe company has its headquarters and its factory here. It is spending thousands of dollars in Duluth every year to turn out the best product that money can procure. The factory on Lake avenue south is an up-to-date, light and airy building.

But the fact is evident that all the people of Duluth are not buying Duluth shoes. Glancing over the figures, or questioning the officials of the company, who will be only too glad of the opportunity to answer you, will disclose to your satisfaction that the claim cannot be refuted.

The company is turning out 600 pairs of shoes every working day of the year. They are supplying a market from the Soo to Seattle and Alaska. If the people of Duluth insisted upon being fitted with Duluth-made shoes they would double their capacity in a week. The machinery for double the number is already installed, but if Duluth support were forthcoming, more machines would be added. The force would doubled. At present 180 hands are employed. The company would be employing twice that number, or 360, if every citizen asked for a Duluth-made shoe. The payroll would be doubled, and every merchant and business man would benefit.

The Northern Shoe company is making shoes for ladies, as well as for men. The boys and girls can also be supplied with Duluth-made shoes, and the Independent District School shoe is being made a specialty.

The same is true of the heavier boots for outdoor use, particular styles being manufactured for both men and women.

The factory occupies the two upper floors, the other three floors and basement being used for stockrooms and shipping room. The sample rooms are on the first floor.

The Northern Shoe company is an evolution of the first small factory started in Duluth. It passed through several different hands, but now there is no reason why Duluth cannot manufacture as good shoes as Lynn, Mass., or Rochester, N. Y.

Wolves Very Troublesome.

Wausau, Wis., Oct. 9.—Wolves are said by farmers to be more numerous and more troublesome this season than ever before, and several losses of sheep have been reported. So grave has become the situation in some towns that the farmers are discussing ways and means for getting rid of the beasts. Hunters from the city are being urged to visit the places where the animals are the most numerous, with the hope of killing some of them and frightening the others out of the country.

MEXICANS SET AMERICANS FREE

Schooner Seized By Officers Is Still Being Held at Progreso.

New Orleans, Oct. 9.—The crew of the schooner Caldwell H. Colt, of Pensacola, Fla., which was seized by Mexican authorities, arrived here late last night from Progreso, on the steamer City of Tampico. According to the crew the schooner sailed one month ago on a fishing cruise. Several days later she was struck by the full force of the gulf hurricane, which caused havoc along the Mississippi and Louisiana coast and the vessel was steered to a point off the Mexican coast, near Progreso.

According to the men, the work of repairs had hardly begun when the Mexican gunboat Bravo took possession of the schooner. It was claimed that the vessel had been engaged in fishing within a prescribed distance from shore and she was formally confiscated. The schooner is still held by the Mexicans.

The City of Tampico brought a report that from two to three thousand natives were drowned on the island off Yucatan in the hurricane. The Bravo was returning from these islands with a load of refugees, when it ran across the Colt.

ARRESTED FOR BIGAMY ON SECOND HONEYMOON.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 9.—William Eggert of Chicago was arrested here last night, charged with bigamy. Eggert arrived in Denver about two weeks ago with his bride of two days, formerly Miss Matilda Schalk. The warrant for his arrest was sworn out by Mrs. Bertha Pooder, who declared Eggert married her sister, Miss Minnie Stalback, Dec. 21, 1906. All the persons concerned live in Chicago.

MAN SHOT FOR DEER BY UNKNOWN HUNTER.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Oct. 9.—Henry Lewis, 50 years old, was supposedly mistaken for a deer and fatally shot at Little Fishpond, twelve miles from this place yesterday. The name of the man who unwillingly fired the shot has not been made known. The wounded man lay for six hours before a physician reached him.

REMARKABLE DEMONSTRATION

Was Parade in Chicago by the Prohibition and Law-Enforcement Forces—"Fifty-Seven Varieties of Personal Liberty," Startlingly Portrayed. ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

Straight through the heart of Chicago, down her most famous boulevards, and past scores of open liquor dens on her busiest streets, marched, Saturday, Sept. 25, what was probably the most remarkable demonstration of public sentiment against the legalized liquor curse ever known in American history.

From 25,000 to 50,000 friends of the Prohibition and law-enforcement cause in Chicago were in line. Thousands of voters marched in solid phalanx—business men, preachers, representatives of every profession and trade, grizzled veterans, eager youth and stalwart manhood in the prime of robust abstinent life.

Thousands of mothers, home-makers and women wage-earners swelled the ranks of the marvelous procession, while battallons of children, including two regiments of boys arrayed in brightly shining uniforms, added touches of unique interest and inspiration to the event.

Scores on scores of automobiles, hundreds of floats and decorated wagons, twenty-one bands and thousands of pennants and banners bearing innumerable characterizations of the issue involved were scattered through the entire line of march. For more than two full hours the delegations and divisions went in unbroken succession by the grand marshal, as Gen. Grant, astride his favorite steed, reviewed with military dignity the gigantic demonstration. To those who watched the famous son of the famous president, no one appeared to be enjoying the occasion with greater delight or enthusiasm. With head bared, the great military leader greeted each succeeding item in the long procession with magnetic smile, and hearty recognition, while the paraders on their part responded with ten thousand shouts of patriotic fervor.

Prominent among the scores of organizations and societies represented were the automobile delegations of the Prohibition national, state and city committees. Among the National Prohibition leaders here participating were National Chairman Charles R. Jones and Mrs. Jones, Clinton N. Howard, W. G. Calderwood, Mr. and Mrs. Felix T. McWhirter, Mr. Wolfenberger, D. B. Gilbert, J. B. Lewis, Edward Kendall, A. A. Stevens, Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp, Mr. Edward Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Warner, D. Leigh Colvin, A. E. Wilson, L. F. Gumbart, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Boring and others.

The W. C. T. U. representation included several original Crusaders and prominent local and national officials of that organization.

Practically every church in the city, including Catholic as well as Protestant, was represented, and more than a dozen nationalities, including practically every leading nation of Europe.

One of the features of the parade which drew the loudest applause from the spectators along the line of march was the display of the Chicago Law and Order league. It was called the fifty-seven varieties. Fifty-seven men, garbed in white robes, with white masks over their faces, marched in single file behind a float draped in mourning on which rested a black casket.

Each of the fifty-seven bore a banner on which was the name of a man who was killed in a saloon on Sunday in Chicago. The victims were labelled with details of how they met their death.

The myriad banners carried throughout the procession contained many startling mottoes and pointed sentences, among which were the following:

"Judge, Did You Ever Try Whisky?" 'No, But I've Tried Lots of Men Who Have."

"Follow the Direction of the Cork-Screw, and You'll Be in a Crooked Path.

"What Is the Only Thing in the World That Will Make a Father Pawn His Baby's Shoes?"

"We Love the Saloonist, But Despise His Business."

"To Help Make Chicago Beautiful Banish the Saloons."

"Saloons Demand One Million Boys and Girls to Fill Vacancies Caused By Death From Drunkenness Last Year."

"The Same Flag Cannot Protect Home and Saloon."

"Count the Graves and the Tears That Whisky Caused—If You Can."

"The Saloon Is Ashamed of Its Best Customers."

"Ma's Home Washin'."

"The Saloon Is a Murder Mill."

"Personal Liberty Is a Twin Brother to Anarchy."

"We want a Dry City With Sober Rulers."

"End the Black Traffic In White Girls."

HAD PRESS AGENTS THEN

Even Ancient Greeks Had "Publicity Promoters", Says Lecturer.

William Norman Guthrie Talks on the Grecian Drama.

That the modern press agent is not so very modern after all was developed last evening by William Norman Guthrie in his lecture on the Greek drama. The modern managers who exploit their theatrical fairies through the efforts of talkative young men, didn't have so very much on the Greek physicians of the day of Sophocles and Euripides and their contemporaries, it seems. The Greek physician was called to the patient's side and diagnosed the case and prescribed and then his own particular orator was called in and if he could talk to good advantage maybe the physician was engaged to take charge of the case. But this philosophizing, this argument for the sake of argument, was not tolerated in the Greek drama. Philosophizing had to be put aside when the great plays of the Greeks were to be presented and keener characterization was the demand. The stories told in the dramas were not new but were familiar to the audience. The result was that the dramatist had to devote his greatest effort as to how his story was told for in that lay the interest of his audience.

"To steer my course between the Scylla of a too superficial view of my subject and the Charybdis of a too recordite study, is what I am attempting to do," said the speaker last evening, and that he did thus most successfuly steer his course was evidenced by the close attention of his hearers during his talk on the Greek drama. With each succeeding lecture there is a greater interest in Mr. Guthrie and his subject. He brings the literature of the remote writers very near to his American audience, and stimulates his hearers to increased interest in the works as a most human and appealing effort that the American of today cannot afford to miss.

"Greek drama is a part of our intelligence," said Mr. Guthrie. "It is not fair that the scholar in the study should monopolize it. The way that the wonder and beauty of this old literature can be but brought to any audience is through an acting presentation of one of the old plays."

Mr. Guthrie's next lecture in this course will be Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock, with "The Prodigious Individual" as the subject illustrated from the Spanish and English drama. The plays spoken of will be Calderon, "Inflexible Prince;" Echegaray, "Mariana;" Marlowe, "Tamburlaine;" Shakespeare, "King Lear;" Webster, "The Duchess of Malfi;" Fletcher, "The Maid's Tragedy;" Byron, "Sardanapalus."

INDIAN DESPERADO HOLDS POSSE AT BAY.

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 9.—Willie Boy, the fugitive Indian boy who killed his sweetheart when she could no longer keep up in their flight after slaying her father, engaged Sheriff Ralph's posse in a rifle battle yesterday at an isolated place on the desert known as Mosquito Wells. Charles Roche, a deputy sheriff of Banning, was wounded.

Willie Boy dropped three of the deputies' horses with a rapid fusillade of shots that drove the men to cover. The sheriff's men had small chances against the well-intrenched and well-armed desperado.

Another fight is expected.

CORN MACHINE KILLS ITS YOUNG INVENTOR.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 9. — Herbert Goers, 25 years old, of Chicago, died in a hospital here yesterday, a victim of his own invention, a corn picker, which he expected would revolutionize harvesting. Goers had been experimenting for five years with the picker. A few days ago he took a working model to Posey county for trial in the corn fields there. While unloading it, the machine, weighing 3,000 pounds, slipped down an incline and Goers was crushed. Death was directly due to a wound in the man's abdomen from a forked arm which was to gather the stalks to the machine.

WANT REPORT ON THE COLD STORAGE GOODS.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—A demand for publicity of holdings of cold storage warehouses was made by the National Poultry, Butter & Egg association in convention here, and was directed to the America Warehousemen's association, which meets in Cleveland in December. Little Lily's Visit to the Days of Yore.

BY MAUD WALKER.

LILY, dear, I have just had a phone that grandmamma is not very well and that her companion has been called away on a matter of business, leaving the dear old lady alone except for the cook, Jane. And grandmamma wants either you or me to come and spend the day with her. As you know, I must attend to my preserves —which I have just started—and shall have to ask you to give up your day with Ethel and go to grandmammm's instead. Next Saturday you may go to visit Ethel."

"But, mamma," remonstrated Lily, "I have planned for a whole week to visit Ethel at her new home in the country. And she will be expecting me. And some other girls are to be there, too. I shall be so dreadfully disappointed if I have to give up my day with Ethel."

Mrs. Parker meditated a bit, then said: "Well, I do not see any other course open, dear. As you know, my preserves has reached that stage where I must either let the fruit spoil or remain home and attend to it. Mary has her hands full with the Saturday's baking and cleaning, and I cannot leave the preserves to her. I hope you can make up your mind to go to grandmamma for this one day. You must remember she is papa's dear old mother, and her little granddaughter will not refuse to go to her when she is feeling in need of companionship."

"Oh, I'll go, mamma," said Lily in a half-hearted way. "But I shall be making a great sacrifice. I have planned so much on this day with Ethel. And Ethel has made such arrangements to have a fine all-day party, too. But I shall phone her at once that I cannot come—that I must go and stay with grandmamma instead. Oh, it is so hard to have either a grandparent or a baby sister or brother to mind. There's Pearl Graves, who has to remain at home so much to care for her baby brother. I think it a real hardship, so I do."

Then, in a very unhappy mood, Lily phoned her "regrets" to Ethel and hurriedly made ready to go to her grandmother's cottage, which was in the country, about a mile from the city limits.

Lily got off the street car right at her grandmother's gate, and could see the old lady sitting beside a window overlooking the roadway. On seeing Lily the grandmother waved a feeble hand, and sent such a sweet smile that Lily's heart melted, and she could not bring herself to go up to the old lady with an unpleased countenance.

"Oh, so my little girlie has come to pass the time with me," said grandmother as Lily entered her room. "How glad I am to see you, child. And how like your father you are today—the same blue eyes, the same color coming and going in your pretty cheeks, just at it used to do in his face when he was a little chap."

Lily kissed the wrinkled cheek, and felt a glow of pride pass through her as the old lady complimented her on her pretty eyes and bright complexion. She loved to be told that she resembled her father.

"How are you, granny?" she asked, sympathy in her voice, for, somehow, just coming into her grandmother's presence had driven out the hard feelings she had entertained against the dear old lady. "I hope you are better, now."

"Dear Lillian," began the letter, "We are to have a Barn Dance next Thursday Night."

"You make me quite well, dear," said granny. "And I have planned a little party for you today—I have decided to invite in the children of my childhood—my best girl and boy friends, you know. Would you like to know them, dear?"

"Oh, granny, how funny to speak of inviting those who were children during your childhood!" exclaimed Lily. "Why, they must all be like you now, dear old grandmothers—and grandfathers."

"No, I mean to let you know them just as they were in the days of yore," declared grandmother. "And we shall proceed to receive them now, before luncheon. And by the way, the luncheon is to be prepared and served just like it would have been 50 or 60 years ago, which will help to make the days of yore more complete."

Lily was all eager anticipation and wondered what grandmamma had planned for her. There was no sign of preparation for company, yet the old lady had said they would receive their visitors at once. But not one person had come to call; not a single ring at the door bell had resounded through the quiet house. The bustling about in the kitchen downstairs and the songs of birds in the trees were the only sounds to break the peaceful country quiet.

"Now, lay off your hat and sack, dear," said grandmamma. "Then we'll have our company."

Lily went into another room and put her hat and jacket on a bed. She brushed up her hair a bit, for if callers were coming she must be tidy to meet them. But all the while she was quite mystified over grandmother's words.

On returning to the living-room Lily drew her chair close beside her grandmother and prepared for the surprise. Then it was that grandmother took from the table near her a large, beautiful inlaid box. She turned the key in the lock and opened the lid. Before Lily lay a mass of yellowed envelopes of old-fashioned design. And the inscriptions on the letters were in quaint, old-fashioned form.

"Now, before we chat with these dear girls and boys," said grandmamma, taking up a packet of letters, "we'll be introduced to them in person, so to speak." And she removed from a little drawer in the box a number of old photographs and still older tintypes.

"Here is Belinda Davis, one of my very best friends when I was about your age," explained grandmother, selecting the picture of a smiling-faced girl in the oddest attire Lily had ever seen. "And this is James Wright, my first school sweet-heart. He is a grandfather now, and his son is one of the finest lawyers in the West. And here is Mary Ann Purvis. Oh, we have had so many good times together in the days that are gone. And here are the Barton girls—taken on the same card; and this is dear, jolly old Thomas Graut, who fought with the great Grant and who became a war hero. And he, too, was a little beau of mine—in the old days."

"Oh, and so you had beaus and sweethearts then—the same as now?" exclaimed Lily.

"Bless you, child," smiled grandmamma, "we but repeat ourselves in our children and our grandchildren. But let's have a chat with these jolly little comrades of my youth." And the old lady began opening the time-yellowed envelopes. "Ah, here is an invitation to a barn dance at the farm of Belinda Davis' father. Read it, and you'll enjoy knowing Belinda."

"Dear Lillian," began the letter. "We are to have a Barn Dance next Thursday Night, the Lord willing. Father and Mother give their Consent and we have procured the Fiddler from Town. We will have all the Young Folks here. You must come, Dear Lily. I have asked James Wright and he said he would call for you with his cutter. He has such a fine new cutter. But you know More about it than I do. Come early, for the dance will begin at Early Candle Light. Your Devoted Friend, Belinda Davis."

From that letter Lily went to another, and another, finding in them the news of the daily social life of fifty and sixty years ago. And how perfectly fascinating did Lily find those boys and girls of olden days, for their letters pronounced them to be little gentlemen and ladies in the fullest sense.

So deeply interested were Lily and "Granny" that the cook had to call them twice to luncheon before they realized it was 1 o'clock. Then, reluctantly laying aside the "company of yore" till after luncheon, they went down to enjoy just such a meal as would have been set before them fifty years ago. And how Lily did enjoy it, too! And all during the meal grandmamma talked of the young friends of her youth, describing just what each girl wore at the barn dance to which Belinda Davis had invited her. And then she told of the "husking bees" and the "taffy-pullings" and the "barn-raisings," and the simple and happy country weddings, and the "infair dinners" following. Oh, what a world of news of those days grandmother had! And it was told so vividly that Lily felt that she knew the people and loved them and that all these happenings had taken place but a few months ago instead of half a hundred years ago.

And when at last evening came, and Lily had to go home, she kissed grandmother on each cheek and said from her heart: "Oh, Granny, I have had the best time today I ever had. I am so glad I came here. I can go to Ethel's any time, but I can't go back into those old days, and meet all those lovely boys and girls any time. Oh, it has been such a happy day!"

And grandmother smiled sweetly as she said: "I live those days over so much, darling, that I have double their joy. The farther they recede the more precious becomes the memory of them. And I am glad you like my girl and boy comrades. I loved them dearly."

The Difference Between "Then" and "Now."

A SCHOOLDAY STORY.

BY ANNIE JAMES.

BOTH Jack and Junie were pouting. They hated starting to school. The very loveliest fall weather was in progress and they wanted to go gathering nuts and autumn leaves. In fact, they didn't want to be shut up in a stuffy schoolhouse, poring over old books. That was just what they both said mentally.

Their aged grandfather, sitting on the porch in the sun, understood something of what went through their minds, and as it wanted a quarter of an hour till time for them to start to school—it was the first school day of the fall term—he called them to him.

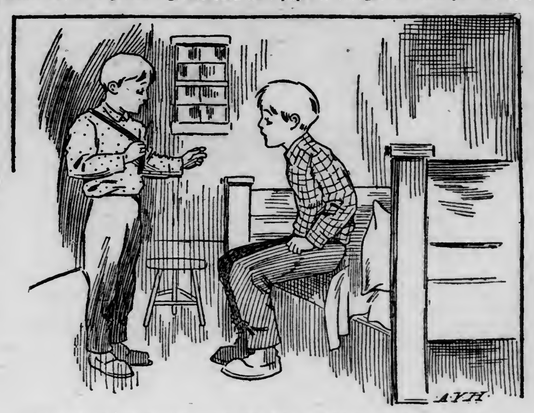

"I know you feel reluctant about going to school," he said. "But I don't believe you realize how much you have to be thankful for in these fine days of the present time. I will tell you of the first day of school in the woods of Kentucky when I was a youngster of some 12 or 14 years of age—if you care to hear about it."

"Oh, yes; tell us about it, grandpapa," said Junie, eager to have anything occur which might take from her mind the thought of school for the time being. And Jack added his voice to hers: "Yep, Gram-pap, let's hear about it."

"Well, when I was a youngster we lived in the hills of Kentucky and the hills were covered with heavy timber. The neighborhood was sparsely settled and there was no thought of public school in those days. But as there were a number of growing boys and girls in that especial part of the country, the fathers got together and decided to send to a town in Indiana for a schoolmaster. One was found who would 'keep school' for a dollar per month per head. That is, he would come and teach the young idea how to shoot for the price of one dollar for each pupil at the end of each month.

"Well, it was a cold, frosty morning early in November when our first school 'set.' Long before daybreak my father hustled my brothers and sisters and myself out of our beds in the attic. 'It's fust day of school, youngsters' he called at the foot of our ladder-like stairs. 'Come, be stirring. Can't waste a dollar a month on each of you 'less you git the wuth of it.'

"We pulled ourselves from bed, dragged on our clothes in the cold, dim dawn—for we were not allowed candles to dress by—and went down stairs to the kitchen, where we washed hands and faces in a tin basin of cold water. Hurriedly we ate our breakfast—by candle light—and got together all the books that had been accumulated by the family during their life. There were 'Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress,' the Bible, the New Testament, a badly-damaged copy of Milton's 'Paradise Lost,' a copy each of McGuffy's Reader and Speller. I have no idea where or how my parents had ever gotten together such an extensive library, but I do know it was the admiration of those living in the neighborhood, and the good preacher used to come to our house Saturday nights 'to study,' as he put it.

"We pulled ourselves from bed, dragged on our clothes in the cold, dim dawn—"

"Well, by 8 o'clock school was in session. There were about twelve boys and girls, ranging in ages from five years to twenty. Not one of them could read well enough to go through a sentence without assistance from the 'marster.' Some read from the Bible, some from old books of history, some from regular text books, but the latter were scarce. There was but one grammar in the school, and it was used by the entire class that was considered 'advanced' enough to learn their own language.

"In the corner, seasoning beside the fireplace, were several hickory 'gads.' Such long, heavy switches were brought in each morning by the teacher to use in flogging the pupils, for the old idea prevailed that unless the rod was used, and plentifully, the child would be spoiled. The teacher and pupils went into the school as natural enemies. And it was a lucky boy who managed to escape a gadding at least twice a week."

"Oh, how horrible!" exclaimed Junie. "I would not have gone to such a school."

"I think it worse about the funny kinds of books they used," laughed Jack. "Gee, what if we had to study from such books! Milton's 'Paradise Lost.' Ugh!"

"That's just the point, my children," said the grandfather. "I want you to realize what the present is as compared with the past—the 'then' and the 'now.' Here are my grandchildren, living in a fine, up-to-date town with a finely equipped school and all the necessary books for a liberal education. The school is free. The finest of teachers are employed, and there are no hickory gads. The most comfortable schoolhouse is furnished with proper heating and lighting. Everything conducive to the good of the pupil is thought of. And yet the schoolchild is ungrateful, doesn't like to go to school. What if he had to undergo the hardships attending the getting of a meager education that his forefathers suffered? Then he might pout and want to stay at home. Why, my children, our schoolhouse down there in Kentucky when I was a youngster was built of unhewn logs and we sat on slab benches. We started before the sun was up, and we suffered intense cold. We had but three months of school during the year; our parents could not afford more. Ah, those are a few of the differences between 'then' and 'now.'"

Jack looked at Junie, and Junie looked at Jack. Then both felt ashamed of having disliked their fine school. They looked at their old grandfather and understood why he was sometimes a bit old-fashioned and used queer language. He had never had their opportunity. And both decided then and there to make the most of the grand chance given them. And never again would they pout because of having to go to school, for the modern school meant so much!

PLAN OF THE BEARS.

I'T'S coming autumn,
I do declare!"
Said old Mr. Longnose
Big Black Bear.

And he called to his wife
And children three,
And they came and huddled
About his knee.

"Now, my four precious dears,"
Old Black Bear said,
As he cunningly, jovially,
Shook his great head:

"It behooves us to plan for
The winter, you see,
By finding a cave 'neath
A spreading tree.

"We must have it warm
And cozy, too,
So that none of the frost
And snow can get through.

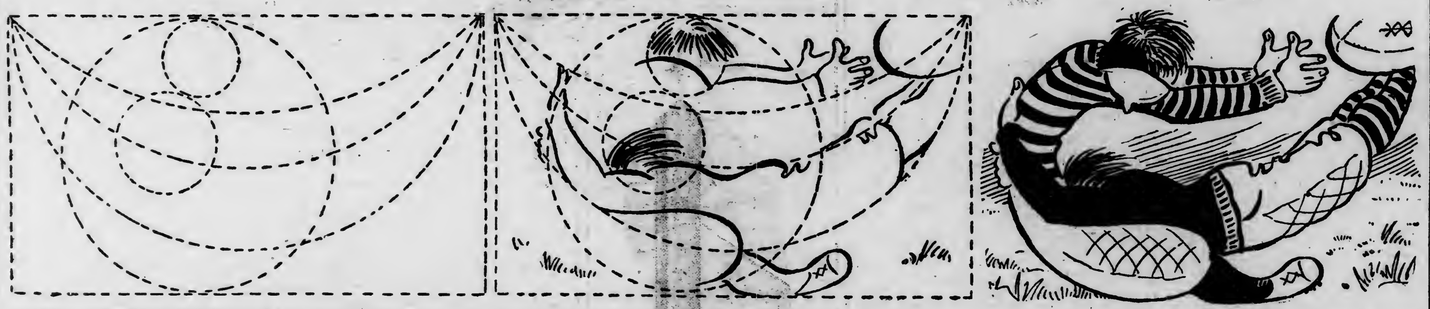

"For when napping for six months
All together
One can't be awake to Watch out for the weather."

"Ah, yes, ah, yes," said
His jolly fat wife;
"We must always watch out
For limb and for life.

"We'll find a nice cave
'Neath a spreading tree,
The idea's a good one,
And much pleases me."

And the three little cubs,
So happy and gay,
Said, "Won't it be fun
To sleep winter away?"

Helpful Hints for Our Young Artists — Lesson No. 71. The Football Players.

Marie, The Little Artist.

MR. AND MRS. ADAMS had always been very proud of their one child, Marie. She was an exceptionally bright little girl, always standing at the head of her class in school, and calling forth the highest praise from her drawing teacher. Indeed, it was in her drawing that Marie was most proficient. She was what her mother called a "born artist." And anyone looking over Marie's folio of drawings would agree with her teacher and parents that the child was unusually gifted in that line.

But Marie's parents were too poor to give her the advantage of study in a city where the best training was to be had. Their home was in a small town on the Pacific Coast and the one teacher of drawing there was a lady who was herself only an amateur, but who gladly imparted what knowledge she had of art to Marie Adams.

One day while looking out over the great blue ocean Marie wished she might try her hand at painting a bit in water colors. The tint of sea and sky appealed to her artistic eye and she could not satisfy herself with charcoal or crayon on white paper. "It seems like leaving out the soul of the picture to leave out the color," Marie said to herself. When she went home with her sketches that afternoon she told her mother of her longing for a box of water colors. And mother like, Mrs. Adams called upon the drawing teacher to inquire what the price of an outfit of water colors might cost and where they might be procured.

"I'll just give you my "Artists' Material Catalogue," said the drawing teacher. "You will see by it that you can procure the desired materials from a house in Los Angeles. I am so glad you think of getting colors for Marie. She sees the color everywhere and it hurts her to be obliged to confine herself to black and white. I will gladly assist her all that I can with the mixing of her colors."

That very evening an order for water colors and brushes was sent to an art dealer in Los Angeles, and Marie's name was signed to the order. And for two days Marie lived in the skies of hope, waiting patiently for the colors to come to her. At last, on the morning of the third day, the box of water colors and brushes, and a pad of water-color paper, arrived by express to Miss Marie Adams. Marie declined to eat any luncheon that day, and with colors and pad in hand, hurried down to the seashore. Ah, now she would get the desired effect in her drawing! The sea and sky would look from her paper as it looked in nature.

So intent on her work was Marie that she did not observe several ladies and gentlemen approaching the spot where she sat in the shadow of some huge rocks. She did not know of their presence till one of the ladies spoke: "What are you painting, little girl?"

Then Marie looked up and beheld the strangers grouped about her.

"It's my first attempt with colors," she explained. Then she held up for inspection the quick sketch she had made. It was so true in color and drawing that the party of ladies and gentlemen were astonished to hear it was Marie's first color-sketch. "Why, the little girl has exceptional talent," declared one of the gentlemen. Then all fell to praising Marie's work. Marie, elated at their encouragement, showed a pile of drawings she had made in pencil and which she intended coloring. "Why, the child is a real artist," declared the gentleman who had spoken. "One sees poorer stuff than this exhibited at the galleries at home, and from the hands of artists, too. Say, little maid, will you sell one of those drawings to me?"

Marie was never so surprised in her life. Sell one of her poor efforts! Why, it seemed absurd. She almost feared she was dreaming. But the gentleman had picked up a drawing of the lonely ocean, blue and peaceful, with one long, white-capped wave stretching across it near the yellow sandy shore, and above was a gray-blue sky without a speck of cloud to mar its serenity. "Here's a masterful composition," he said, holding the sketch up to his companions for inspection. "I want this little sketch, and shall frame it nicely. It comes from a hand that will some day paint great pictures."

Marie could not sell one of her sketches without first consulting her mother, so she invited the strangers, who proved to be tourists from an Eastern city, to accompany her to her home. After she had explained to her mother the object of the strangers' call the joy and surprise of the good parent was most touching. To have such able critics as these cultured ladies and gentlemen praise her little daughter's work was most encouraging. She offered to give sketches to the callers, but they refused to accept them as gifts and ended by buying half a dozen of Marie's best drawings and one water-color sketch of the ocean. And after they were gone, carrying away the little artist's work, Marie and her mother sat down to count over the money that they had put into Marie's hands for her sketches. You can well imagine how happy they were when they counted over $25. Oh, what a fortune for such bits of paper! Marie was in the wildest of spirits and her good mother was so rejoiced at her little artist's first success that tears of joy ran down her cheeks.

"Mamma, I shall paint and paint, and after this I shall put my pictures on exhibition some place in town and sell them to tourists, and with the money I receive for them I will soon be able to go to Frisco to study. Oh, isn't that splendid to think about?"

"Yes, darling," agreed the mother. "But I think you will have better success selling your work on the coast—as you did today, for many will buy just because the sketches are made by so little and pretty and hopeful an artist. And now that the tourists' season has just opened I have the greatest hopes that you will not only make rapid advancement in your art, but will sell enough of it to enable you to do the thing you so much desire to do—to go to Frisco to study."

And it happened that Marie's fondest hopes were realized the very next year, and most of her school expenses were defrayed by the money she received for her pictures sold to tourists who bought from her on the beach, often giving the order for some certain view they liked most.

"Why, the little girl has exceptional talent!" exclaimed one of the gentlemen.

Facts About the Childhood of the Great Lafayette.

AT his birth Lafayette's name was entered on the rolls of "The Black Musketeers," for his great uncle, who had in his younger days been a Black Musketeer—and who possessed no male issue—desired that the family should be represented in the regiment in the person of his great nephew.

When only 12 years old Lafayette became a well-known cadet in France, for he was the heir to his late titled father's estate, and had also fallen into possession of his rich great uncle's fortune, for the aged kinsman had died soon after Lafayette's arrival in Paris, in his eleventh year. Lafayette's father had been killed in battle a few months prior to Lafayette's birth, and while the child was still in infancy his mother died. Thus he was nurtured and educated by servants and tutors.

At the age of 14 Lafayette was betrothed to Marie Adrienne de Noailles, the 12-year-old daughter of a wealthy duke who resided in Paris, and who was a member of the court. Two years after the engagement of the children—the boy then being 16 and the girl 14—the marriage took place and the couple opened an establishment in the "gayest city in the world," becoming great social favorites.

A year prior to his marriage the handsome young musketeer had attracted the attention of no less a person than the beautiful and pleasure-loving Marie Antoinette, Queen to Louis XVI., and for a short time he became one of the gayest of that gay court; but soon tired of the idle, worthless life at court. He withdrew himself to his old home in the Auvergne Mountains of Southern France, a quiet place, where he might study and think. And there he remained till time to take his bride, when he re-entered the gay social life of Paris.

But he was no longer the pleasure-lover, and he became a hard worker in his regiment, and when the great opportunity came for him to unsheathe his sword in the cause of liberty he did not hesitate, but came forward eagerly. It was during the Revolution in the United States that Lafayette first saw active service, and we all know the history of those trying times with which he became so closely identified.

THESE NATIONAL LEADERS WORKED THEIR WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

Written for The Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland")

(Copyright, 1909, by E. J. Edwards.)

ON the day after the late William C. Whitney was graduated from Yale college he took a train for New York city. In the seat with him was one of his classmates. Young Whitney was very quiet. In college he had been the life of his class, popular, a good student, a member of all the best societies, among them the famous Skull and Bones fraternity of the senior year. Life seemed to be for him a pathway of roses. His seat-mate asked him after a while what he was thinking about, or if he was regretting that the delightful four years at Yale were now ended.

After a moment Whitney replied: "Yes, we have had four delightful years. Everything, as I look back at it, now seems like a dream. We haven't had a care. Most of us have thought it was going to be that way throughout life. But I have just begun to realize that the real life work is now to begin. We have got to stop playing, because we are to face a real world, and to show in it the stuff we are made of.

"And do you know," he continued, "I think that——" mentioning a classmate by name, "is going to have the best of us for a few years. He had to work his way through college. That taught him what real life is. It gave him some sense of business, so that he will know how to take up the active work of life better than any of the rest of us who had a good time in college while he was working hard to pay his way through."

Incidentally, this raises again the old question, does a college education after all pay? As Mr. Whitney was four or five years getting his bearings in the world of affairs, and he died forty-five years after his graduation, having made in the meantime a brilliant career and having amassed a fortune of $25,000,000. He was always sure that the training he had received in college served him well in the great responsibilities he afterward assumed. If a college education pays for those who make good use of it, then it undoubtedly pays to get a college education even if the student has to earn it.

In these days the work of financing one's self through college has been reduced to a science. In almost all of the American colleges and universities there are now organized boards or departments of self help. These organizations make it possible for any young man who wants to get a college education, but has not at hand the means to pay for it, to secure employment of some kind. Some of the universities have helped, within the last two or three years, hundreds of students to earn sufficient income to put themselves through a full college course. Of course, the opportunities for employment of this sort are greater in the cities than in those college communities which are entirely rural. And the kind of employment followed by such students varies all the way from pressing "pants" to doing highly responsible editorial work for publishing houses.

But in the old days a student who planned to finance himself through college was compelled to depend chiefly upon teaching, private tutoring, or a loan, which he bound himself to repay with his first earnings after he had graduated. At any rate they were not assisted, as a general rule, to employment by a college department run for this special purpose. Nevertheless, in those days many ambitious boys put themselves through college on their own earnings, made while in attendance at college.

Some of the men who are conspicuous today in the public eye, both in the professions and the business world, earned their way through college in this now practically antedated manner. And the careers of these self-same leaders furnish a strong argument to those who believe not only that a college education is a good thing, but that it is no detriment, but a help instead, to a young man who determines to finance himself through the four years of a college course.

Kruttschnitt Puts Himself Through College.

A shining example of how the effort called forth by working one's self through college may help materially in gaining signal success in post-college life is found in Julius Kruttschnitt, the chief operator of the Harriman system of railroads, Mr. Kruttschnitt, as the public learned at the time of Mr. Harriman's death, is one of the famous railroad operatives of the country.

At the outbreak of the Civil war, Julius Kruttschnitt was close on to his seventh birthday, and his home was in Louisiana. His mother's maiden name was Penima Benjamin, and she was a sister of one of the ablest lawyers and statesmen that ever represented a state in the United States senate. Her brother, Judah P. Benjamin, was a native of the Island of Jamaica, and, therefore, was born a British citizen.

Judah P. Benjamin resigned his seat in the United States senate at the time that Louisiana seceded from the Union. He became at once one of the most influential of the men associated with Jefferson Davis in the attempt to create a new nation. Mr. Benjamin was the Confederate secretary of state, and Julius Kruttschnitt, his nephew, has vivid recollections of the desperate risk his uncle ran when he escaped in an open boat at the time of the collapse of the Confederacy, and made his way to Nassau, New Providence.

The distinguished fugitive had absolutely nothing left to him but his intellect and his clothing. He went to London. He was so poor that he was obliged to write for the newspapers and magazines to earn his living. But as he was born a British subject, he had the right to renew his citizenship, to be received as a barrister, and in the course of a few years he became one of the most prominent of the lawyers practicing in the higher courts, and gained a world-wide reputation as a writer upon legal subjects.

Of all of the many sketches written of the career of Julius Kruttschnitt since he became of high authority in the Harriman system of railways, not any—so far as I have been able to discover—have mentioned the fact that he was the nephew of one of the ablest men of his time—the real brains of the Confederacy. But when this relationship is known, then there comes some understanding of that heritage of great intellectual power, a capacity for deciding instantly and correctly, and for mastering great difficulties, which have enabled Mr. Kruttschnitt to gain so great influence that many think he may ultimately be chosen the successor of Mr. Harriman as president of the Union Pacific.

Well, the Civil war practically impoverished his family, but young Kruttschnitt was determined to get a technical, scientific education. How was he to do it? He had no rich family purse to rely upon; he had nothing but his ambition, his energy and his ability. Nevertheless, the lad made his way to Virginia and was welcomed as a student at Washington and Lee university, one of the educational institutions of the United States.

Once there, the great reputation which his uncle had gained throughout the South served to bring the boy many friends, and these were able to point out to him ways in which he could earn an income sufficient to support him while he was in college. He did not believe that it was necessary to do any menial or humble work; he could have found instantly plenty of employment upon farms with the hoe and the plow. But he was patient and self-sacrificing, and at last he gained sufficient knowledge as a surveyor to enable him to utilize it in helping build up some sections of the country near Washington and Lee university which had been devastated at the time of the war. As a surveyor he largely financed himself through college, and he was so good a surveyor, and so well did he impress himself upon educators in several important institutions who visited Washington and Lee, that he was offered several positions as instructor even before he was graduated. He came out of the university owing not a penny to anybody, and took a position as assistant to the principal of one of the most important of the private schools at Baltimore.

But railway men, as well as educators, also heard of the talented something of the ability which he had displayed while in college, so that they offered him a position, after he had been a teacher for about five years, as resident engineer of one of the railroads then building in Texas. From that time on his rise in the world of railway activities was very rapid, doubtless due in great measure to the peculiarly appropriate railroad training he gave himself while putting himself through college. Mr. Kruttschnitt has always looked back upon his college days with happy memories, feeling sure that the lessons of self-reliance which he then taught himself have been of the highest value in his life work.

A Cabinet Officer Who Worked His Way Through College.

Even in President Taft's cabinet the men who have worked their way through college are represented, and the name of their representative among the official advisers of the nation's head is Richard Achilles Ballinger. If you don't recall offhand what portfolio he heads, ask Forester Pinchot to drop you the information "on the inclosed postal card."

Just fifty-one years ago Secretary Ballinger was born in the little town of Boonesboro, in the state of Iowa. This town is in the center of a great farming community, and when the boy Ballinger was old enough to help he took his turn at ordinary farm work. He was a great reader, and everything that was printed which came his way was read by him with avidity. When he was in his early teens the ideas he had got from his reading caused him to make up his mind that he wanted to go to college, because he hoped some day to be a lawyer.

But how was he to get through college? His family was not rich; he did not want to borrow any money from anyone, even if he could find a good friend who was willing to advance him funds needed to pay the expenses of a college course.

He thought over the problem for weeks. Then, finally, there came a day when he went from his home to Topeka, Kan., having made up his mind that, as he had his health, his energy, his two hands, he ought to be able to find such congenial employment as would make it possible for him to pay his way through college. Teaching was one of the employments, and he became a very popular young teacher. He also helped in a lawyer's office.

JULIUS KRUTTSCHNITT WHO SURVEYED HIS WAY THROUGH COLLEGE

At last, after a preparatory course at the University of Kansas, he made his way East as far as Williamstown, Mass. He had heard that at Williams college there were many young men who, in one way or another, were earning sufficient money to pay their college expenses. Moreover, he had heard that living was cheap at Williamstown, and he, too, was attracted to Williams college partly by reason of the prominence of John J. Ingalls, then a United States senator from Kansas, who was a graduate of Williams, and partly by the fact that President Garfield was the most distinguished of the graduates of that venerable university.

Young Ballinger found after he had got to Williamstown that there were plenty of opportunities for teaching, some for writing, and some for brief salaried service of one kind or another during his vacations. But all of his incidental employment was kept well in line with the career which he had worked out for himself, that of the law. Therefore, he did not accept every opportunity which came to him, for he regarded it as of some importance that, even while he was paying his way through college, he should do this in a manner which would be sympathetic with or helpful of his early career at the bar.

He was graduated without owing a cent—absolutely self-reliant—and then went across the continent to the state of Washington. He became an author of legal text books, prominent politically, and every newspaper reader knows of his career since he was picked out by President Taft as a member of his cabinet.

How President Butler Worked His Way Through College.

Probably the most successful and systematic of all the methods adopted by students to finance themselves through college, was that planned by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, a year or so before he entered Columbia as a student.

Dr. Butler's father, who was a man of prominence and of much influence in his home county in Paterson, N. J., was abundantly able to meet all the charges for his son's university education. Moreover, the senior Butler was convinced that whatever the cost of that education might be, the boy would justify it in his after career. He also knew the independence and self-reliance of his son, and he probably was not greatly surprised when young Butler came to him and said, practically in these words:

"I made up my mind that it is the best thing for me not only to get an education, but to earn the money to pay for it."

The father looked half seriously and half amusedly at the lad, and then asked him how he expected to pay his way.

"All I ask is that you let me have a $100 to get my first start and my bearings," was the reply. "After that you need not worry about my ability to earn enough to carry me through college."

He did not explain to his father how he expected to earn the money, except to intimate his conviction that he would find plenty of opportunities to teach and to do other work in line with his college studies.

So the son received the $100, and took it and his plan to work his way through college to New York city with him.

This plan involved in part private teaching, and in part association with certain publishers of New York, especially those who were publishing magazines or other periodicals devoted to educational matters. Putting it into execution simultaneously with his matriculation at Columbia, young Butler perfectly systematized his time. He alloted so many hours of the day to college work, so many to his editorial work, so many to his teaching.

All this kept him pretty busy, but he had perfect health, took keen interest in all the life that was about him, and that gave him mental recreation—and he was very careful in his personal habits. Therefore, by the time he had reached his junior year the young man had not only earned enough through teaching, writing and editorial work to enable him to live very comfortably, and pay all his expenses, but he discovered that he was saving. In fact, his savings were so considerable that he was able to make investments, one of which was so long maintained that through its increase, or the appreciation of the property, it now of itself represents a comfortable fortune.

Now, this financing of himself through college was done wholly in line with the life work as an educator which the student Butler contemplated. While he was writing and editing educational periodicals, and receiving for that work good compensation, he was preparing the way for that mastery of American educational problems which at last was so well recognized that he was chosen first president of Teachers' college, as well as professor of philosophy at Columbia, and still later on, president of Columbia university.

It has always been Dr. Butler's belief that, instead of being a drawback, it might prove to be of the highest advantage in development of character, self-reliance, and in preliminary training for a career, for a young man to plan to finance himself through college. Dr. Butler also holds the opinion that it is not the best policy for a student to borrow the money needed to pay his college expenses, with intent to earn enough after graduation to make good the loan. A debt of that kind is always a serious handicap. It is a great deal better, in his view, to submit to sacrifice and the practice of economies that are necessary for any one who is financing himself through college, than it is to pay the expenses through the use of borrowed money.

A Weaver's Method of Securing a College Education.

Another method that is sometimes very successfully adopted by young men in order to finance themselves through college is illustrated in the college career of the Rev. Dr. George Angier Gordon, famous in ecclesiastical circles throughout the country as the pastor of Old South church, Boston. In addition, there is plenty of inspiration for any young man in the romantic career of Dr. Gordon.

Born in Scotland fifty-six years ago, he there learned one of the trades in connection with weaving which are best mastered in Scotland. He was still in his teens when he was tempted to emigrate to this country, because he believed the opportunities to be greater here for one with ambition than in his native land.

When he arrived in Boston he had no difficulty in securing employment. He was a very attractive looking young man, with a splendid physique—in fact, the build of an athlete; a great head, superbly poised, with a large shock of black hair; heavy eyebrows, and, even then, the face of an orator.

He was of religious training, and once in the new land, he did not relax for a moment in his zeal as a student of the Bible. So it was natural enough for the young craftsman to find his way into a Bible class, conducted for young men in connection with famous Old South church of Boston. Young Gordon was not a member of the class very long before the teachers perceived that he could teach as well as be taught. He always brought some interesting suggestion or new thought to the class-room. It was observed that he spoke not only correctly but with peculiar fluency for a young man. Therefore, it seemed worth while to his elders to bring within his reach some opportunity for further education, especially as he confessed to a desire so to be taught that by and by he might become a clergyman.

As a result, various friends worked out a plan for financing young Gordon through Harvard. But he was of a stury independence, which led him to believe that any financing would be no more than temporary, and that he would be able himself to earn, either by teaching or by some congenial occupation, enough to pay in part his expenses, and ultimately to pay back whatever advances were made to him. He was graduated from Harvard in 1881, and at an age considerably beyond that of the average college graduate, for he was 28.

The fact alone shows that it must have been very largely upon his own exertions that he was able to get a college education.

The graduate was not out of college very long before he was heard from. In the pulpit he was of impressive appearance, and it soon came to be said of him that he was a born pulpit orator.

It so happened that, about this time, the Congregational church in Greenwich, Conn., of which William H. H. Murray, better known as "Adirondack" Murray, had been pastor, was looking for a new clergyman. The church sent a committee to hear young Gordon preach, and then invited him to go to Greenwich and preach in the pulpit of the church there. The congregation needed to hear him but once. They were unanimous in their tribute to the fascination of his pulpit oratory, to the impressiveness of his personality, and so he was ordained clergyman of the church.

But he was too big a man for a country town. The pulpit in the Old South church, which at that time had become the new Old South church, occupying one of the most beautiful church structures in the world, was vacant, and the officers of the church said to one another: "There is George A. Gordon, who used to study in the Bible class in this church, who went to college under the auspices of the church, and who is going to be one of the great forces, not only of our church, but in the religious life of the United States. Why not ask him to become our pastor?" And so, four years after his graduation, when he was only 31 years of age, he who, as a boy, had studied in that church's classroom, became its pastor.

Since then Dr. Gordon has gained national and international fame. He has lectured in the Lowell Institute course, and was the lecturer at the famous Lyman Beecher course at Yale college. He delivered what many regard as the finest baccalaureate sermon ever preached at a Columbia university commencement, and he has been the university preacher at Harvard, where he is regarded as the master mind of all that makes a truly great and influential pulpit orator.

The Self-Education of a Famous Missionary.

In a method similar to that which was used by Dr. Gordon to secure his college education, one of this country's most prominent foreign missionaries received the training that only a college can give to the ambitious lad.

When the Civil war was at its height and President Lincoln's administration was straining every nerve to get recruits for the army, there was a lad, whose home was on a farm in Southern Connecticut, who was strongly tempted to enlist. But his friends thought he was too young, saying that if he were two years older then they would not object if he joined one of the Connecticut regiments.

This lad was of a religious disposition, and was especially interested in missionary work. But he was poor. The farm barely yielded enough to support the family. He wanted to get an education, saying that if he could pass through college and a theological school, he would at once qualify himself for service as a missionary in the Far East. His name was John Pinney Hyde De Forest.

There was a good woman of the boy's town who took much interest in him, and believed that, with the proper training he would make a very successful missionary. Therefore, she suggested to him a plan by which she would in part finance him through college, he to earn what he could, and out of his earnings after graduation repay her for her part if he felt so disposed.

The boy adopted the plan and became one of the most studious, quiet and undemonstrative of the students at Yale of his day. But he was always enthusiastic and energetic in missionary work in New Haven. You would find him any Sunday afternoon teaching a class in one of the mission schools, and he spent his leisure hours in hunting up boys and girls who were without religious training and bringing them to these mission schools. At the same time, De Forest, by teaching private tutoring, and in other ways, was able to provide himself with funds, so that at last he was graduated, became a clergyman, and went to Japan.

His career in Japan has become a household word in that empire, and he has been regarded as one of the foremost of American influences, not merely as a religious missionary, but as an educator. In view of his service, the emperor of Japan, within a few weeks, decorated him with one of the most important of the honorary insignia indicating mental and moral worth and influence. Our own government has turned many times to Dr. De Forest for information, and President Taft looks upon him as one of the most valuable of American influences in cultivating and maintaining the real friendship which characterizes the relation of those in authority in the United States with the statesmen and men of affairs of Japan.

A Governor Who Earned His Education.

A former governor of New York, Frank S. Black, gained his profound knowledge of human nature while working his way through Dartmouth college. He went to Dartmouth from his farm home in Maine, almost absolutely dependent upon his own exertions for his education. He was a teacher for a time and then he became a canvasser for periodicals and other things. As such he gained various experiences, from which he afterwards drew a vast amount of interesting anecdotes. Chief among these experiences were those which taught him human nature; and his profound knowledge of this subject worked to no small purpose in making him governor of New York state when he was only 43 years of age.

Besides Mr. Kruttschnitt, our modern lifefurnishes at least two other prominent cases of railway men who worked their way through college.

A. A. Robinson, who was president of the Mexican Central railway for some ten years, in part by his own exertions obtained a scientific education at the University of Michigan. And there is another Robinson—of no kin to the one who was president of the Mexican Central—John T. Robinson of Savannah, who is acknowledged by railway men as one of the ablest master mechanics in the United States. The master-mechanics are the men who get together and standarize railway equipment, so that it is possible to run cars all over the United States, although this is only a part of their responsibility. John T. Robinson earned enough to take a special course at the Virginia Military institute, a purely scientific course, that led to his speedy employment in railway service and his promotion until he became the master mechanic of the great Seaboard Air Line system.

It will not be necessary to do more than allude to the justification of the purpose of Senator Beveridge of Indiana to get a college education, even if he had to earn every penny of the cost. His triumph is a matter of national knowledge. And another distinguished statesman of Indiana, who served in the senate as a colleague of Senator Beveridge, and who afterwards became vice president, Charles W. Fairbanks, practically paid his own way through the Ohio Wesleyan university.

Inventor of Wireless Telephony.

Michael Idvorsky Pupin, known as the inventor of wireless telephony, and who, according to report, received $800,000 for an invention which is used in long distance telephoning, is another national notable who put himself through college.

When Pupin came to this country from his native land of Hungary, he was without money, nor had he any other education than that which he had received in his village schools. He was obliged to seek employment, and found it in an establishment in Brooklyn. There he was brought in contact with one or two men of science, and they, discovering that he not only had real genius for inventive work, but also an overwhelming thirst for knowledge, put him in the way of securing such employment as would enable him to pay his way through Columbia university. As a student at the university he stood very high.

It was known to the trustees that this brilliant young student of science was by his own exertions financing himself through college, and they were able to secure employment in the line of his studies which made the task of self-support all the easier for him. He was also able to earn funds enough by his own skillful work as an electrician, to permit him to study physics with Helmholz at the University of Berlin. And within five years after his graduation at Columbia he had gained the attention of some of the greater men of science by a brilliant article upon a very difficult and technical scientific question relating to one feature of electricity.

POSTMASTERS FAVOR POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The resolutions committee of the National League of Postmasters of Third and Fourth Class reported yesterday. The committee recommended fourth class mail be discontinued and put in third class, which would make postage on merchandise 1 cent an ounce less; approved the reorganization of the postal service outlined by the joint postal committee, and indorsed postal savings banks and local parcels post.

A resolution looking to peaceful annexation of Canada and blending of the flags of both countries into one was offered.

GROSSCUP DECIDES FOR ELEVATOR UNION.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—As arbitrator in a dispute between two labor unions, Judge Grosscup : the federal court has decided that under the rulings of the American Federation of Labor, the Elevator Constructors' union has a prior right over the Machinists' union to assemble all elevator machinery, install foundations and complete similar preliminary work. The dispute over such labor has led to much friction between the unions, the machinists asserting jurisdiction over much of the work claimed solely by the elevator constructors. The judge in his opinion suggested that the question of jurisdiction of the respective unions be reconsidered by the American Federation of Labor.

WRIGHT TEACHING THE ARMY MEN HOW TO FLY.

College Park, Md., Oct. 9.—The first time in American history, an aeroplane owned by the United States government rose in the air here yesterday, circled over the farms that nestle in the valley, and sailed back obediently to its starting point to rise again. Thus, under the guiding hand of one of its inventors, Wilbur Wright, it flew five times in the dedication of the government's tract of land given over to aviation.

There were almost ideal conditions. A few spectators. Mr. Wright began the flights to teach the officers of the signal corps how to handle the new machine of war he has made for them.

News of the Theater

AT THE LYCEUM

JOHN CORT'S BIG REVIVAL OF "KING DODO" WILL BE HERE MONDAY AND TUESDAY, FOLLOWED BY "FORTY-FIVE MINUTES FROM BROADWAY."

The march of the Amazons will be seen, and the frou-frou of the show girls' skirts will be heard on the stage of the Lyceum theater every evening next week, except Saturday, for musical comedy is to hold sway there.

Monday and Tuesday nights will be given over to a sumptuous revival of Pixley and Lauder's great success, "King Dodo," under the management of John Cort, while George M. Cohan's satirical, slangy show, with music, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," will begin an engagement of three nights on Wednesday evening. Saturday the Lyceum will be dark.

Both productions have already received the unqualified approval of theater-going America, and are expected to register as great successes here as during the past visits.

A COHAN SHOW.

"Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" Coming Next Week.

Celebrating the fifth successful season, Cohan and Harris' famous musical play, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," comes to the Lyceum for three performances, beginning Wednesday, Oct. 13. Charley Brown, as "Kid Burns," heads the original cast, and he will be warmly welcomed here, not only for his exceptional ability as a comedian, but because of his many warm personal friends in this city. That never tiresome picture of home life in New Rochelle, N. Y., which gave George M. Cohan an opportunity for the full play of his facile pen and his trenchant wit and genius for dramatic construction, is as vivid and pleasing a picture in the eyes of all audiences today as it was during the long run of this production in New York city, Chicago and Boston. And there is reason for this. The book of the piece is a logical affair, dealing with life in its many lights and shades. It tells a natural story, and portrays the humor of the bucolics, the pathos of faithfulness, the humor of rough diamonds, the flinty-heartedness of adventurism, and binds all the emotions into one composite whole, with a satisfactory and logical conclusion. The book has probability and possibility and finally satisfies curiosity. And it abounds in wit, dialogue that would tickle the risibilities of the Sphinx, and situations that are excruciatingly funny. To relieve any depression that might occur during the dramatic moments, the three acts of "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway" are interspersed with tingling, tuneful songs, rendered by artists of standing and reputation. Some of the best songs are "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," "So Long, Mary," and "Mary Is a Grand Old Name." There is a chorus of beautiful girls, who have been taught to dance under the personal direction of the author, George M. Cohan. The cast includes Charley Brown, Elizabeth Drew, Lillian May White, Louise Gardiner, Joseph Kauffman, Susan Cabell, Eugene MacGregor, James A. Davett, Harry Gwynette, James H. Manning and twenty others. There are three acts, all laid in New Rochelle. The first shows the exterior of the Castleton mansion in the morning, the second, same scene, displaying the interior at night, and the third, the famous railroad station in New Rochelle, N. Y.

Lyceum Notes.

Duluth is going to reap some benefit from the battle between the Shuberts and Klaw & Erlanger, even though there is no Shubert theater in this city.

The theatrical war has resulted in many of the big productions being sent out on the road. The theatrical business is none too good in New York, and with the Shuberts building theaters in the western territory Klaw & Erlanger are meeting the competition with some of their best attractions.

Such productions as George M. Cohan's "Yankee Prince" with a company of 100 people headed by Cohen himself, and McIntyre & Heath are being sent on the road, and these two productions will be seen in Duluth in one week in January, playing three nights each.

"A Gentleman From Mississippi" will play an entire week in Duluth and there are a number of other first class attractions booked.

The Lyceum promises to have a banner season this year.

Joseph Jefferson, the comedian, now starring in "The Henrietta" crowded on the platform of an overfilled street car. The conductor gave the signal to start when a shrill voice from the rear of the car yelled: "Wait till I git me clothes on!" The men on the platform turned as one man and looked. The women turned as one woman and looked—the other way.

But there was no cause for shock. The washwoman's little boy was endeavoring to get his big basket on the back platform.

Frederick V. Bowers, the celebrated singer, comedian and song-writer, who comes to the Lyceum this season in the Virginia Frame-Margaret Mayo college girl comedy, "Commencement Days," is the composer of those highly popular song hits, "Because," "Always," "Wait," "When I Think of You," "White Wings" and "The Cricket on the Hearth." Mr. Bowers is starring under the management of John Cort.

An entirely new play and a magnificent production; the play written by a woman; the scenery designed by a woman; the rehearsals directed by a woman; the most minor details perfected by a woman, would seem a combination that should make a strong appeal to women. The play is "Molly Bawn" and the woman responsible for it is Beular Poynter.

The delightful comedian, Max Figman, who is a great favorite with local playgoers, is presenting three plays this season, "The Man on the Box," "The Substitute" and "The Old Curiosity Shop." Mr. Figman carries a complete production of each play, and the best supporting company he has had, including Messrs. Hallett Bosworth, Ernest C. Warde, Sydney Price, George Centre, Herbert C. Denton, J. H. Stuart, Thomas M. Krueger, Arthur C. Davis and the Misses Lolita Robertson, Gladys Fairbanks Murry, Sylvia Starr, Vera Townsend and Minnie Barrie. He will be seen at the Lyceum.

AT THE BIJOU

SEVERAL HEADLINE ACTS WILL APPEAR IN THE VAUDEVILLE BILL NEXT WEEK, COMMENCING WITH THE MONDAY MATINEE. ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

One of the best and most varied bills of the season will open at the Bijou Monday. Each act is reported as first class from the different managers along the circuit.

Heading the list will be Nick Long and Idalene Cotton, two of the best known and most popular entertainers in vaudeville. They are presenting a dramatic gem written by Ullie Akerstrom, entitled "The Banker and the Thief," which is one of the strongest sketches in vaudeville. It is purely dramatic and an act that requires real talent in the dramatic profession. The Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "Nick Long and Idalene Cotton have one of the few good dramatic sketches that have appeared this season. It is filled with action and runs the full gamut of emotion, passion and realism. It is a sketch where excellent dramatic ability is displayed."

A strong card for the week will be Joe Whitehead and Flo Grierson, in one of the best singing and dancing acts before the public. Both of these artists have been starred in prominent and well-known musical comedies. Mr. Whitehead the past two seasons has been starred in "The Umpire" and "The Red Mill," playing a long run in New York city. Miss Grierson is a recent star of "The Girl Question," in the Eastern company.

Nearly every one in Duluth has seen Jimmy Wall, or, at least, has heard of him with the different minstrel companies during the past several years as one of the best known minstrel comedians in the country. Mr. Wall is the same big favorite in vaudeville as he was in the minstrel business, billing himself as "The Party in Black," with new songs and stories.

A big musical treat will be the Three Keltons, featuring Gladys Kelton, "The Little Leader," who plays the xylophone and drums and is the recognized child dancer of the world. This is one of the strongest musical offerings that has ever appeared at the Bijou. The selections are very classical, and they play several very heavy overtures.

A vaudeville show would not be complete unless it had at least one gymnastic feature, as vaudeville is variety, a little of every kind of amusement. In the gymnastic line a very sensational equilibristic act will be presented by the Los Junots, an European act that requires great skill and daring—one of the kind that make the audience shiver one moment and applaud the next.

Earl Morse, who has already become a favorite singing the illustrated songs, will sing, for his third week, the pretty ballad, entitled "My Southern Rose," which has a catchy melody and a popular swing to it. The moving pictures will be all new and exclusive subjects.

Matinees are given daily at 2:45, and night performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved by either telephone. A special school children's matinee will be given Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Performances on Sunday afternoon and night.

AN ACTRESS WITHOUT ANY THEORIES IS ELEANOR KENT

"I have no theories," said Miss Eleanor Kent, the prima donna of "King Dodo," in a recent interview.

One cannot help but give a sigh of relief when conversing with an actress without theories. It is so interesting and refreshing to meet one without them, particularly interesting when that one happens to be a young woman who is most attractive.

"Not even a little bit of theory about girls who want to go on the stage?" she was asked. And Miss Kent smiled, and it is safe to say that her smile will win her audiences wherever she appears in the role of the rollicking young soldier of fortune, Piola. It is such a happy genuine smile—the spontaneous sort—that comes from the source of good nature. There is nothing about Miss Kent that is "stagey." She has a happy disposition and a keen sense of humor.

"Not even a little bit of theory," replied Miss Kent. "I accept life as I find it and try to make the most of it. To me it is not a question of whether girls should be advised to stay off the stage or be encouraged to enter the theatrical profession. It is a question of necessity and the force of circumstances, which each individual must solve for herself.

"In my own case, I never thought of entering the theatrical profession until it became necessary for me to make my own living, and circumstances made the stage the avenue through which I could earn a better living than I could elsewhere.

"Music and singing were my talents, and they have been cultivated with the end in view that if it ever became necessary for me to earn my own living, I would have some stock in trade. I was not educated with the idea that I must go on the stage, but that if necessity demanded it, I could make a living with my talents and education. When necessity called, I was prepared. At first I sang in a church, but the stage afforded a better living, in that it afforded better pay.

"I never had to commence in the chorus, because I could sing and walk across the stage and knew how to wear my clothes. My first engagement was a leading part. Of course, I was not a finished actress; I had much to learn, but I escaped much of the drudgery.

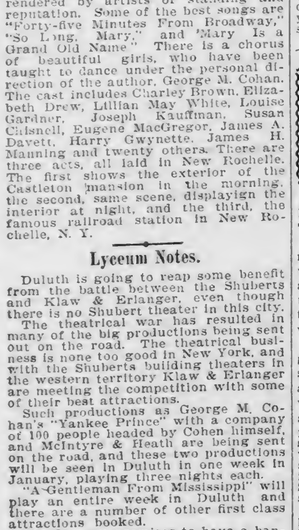

"Stage work is hard. It means hard work and harder study for everyone connected with it. One has to have talent and endurance to succeed. It requires hard work to make even slight progress, and I do not believe that there are many girls on the stage except through sheer necessity. In fact, I do not believe any woman—that is, any woman possessed of a grain of common sense—would enter into any porfession for the fun of it or for the glory she might get out of it. If you sift it down, you will find every woman who does honest work is in the business world from necessity.

"Of course, I know that there are girls on the stage who are not compelled to work for a living, girls who have good homes and an independent income, but who are on the stage because of the glare and glamor of the footlights. I cannot understand such girls. I do not see why they should want to join the chorus and come out and do the same thing that fifty other girls do. At home they would at least retain their personality. These girls are usually cured before the season is over. They get tired of the hard work and many unpleasant things they have to come in contact with.

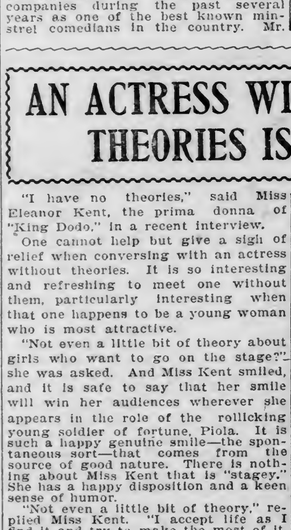

"It is true the applause of the public is very sweet, especially if one has a leading part and a good song and can sing it well and it pleases the audience; but the weary, weary climb, the countless numbers that fail. So many go on the stage because they think it is easy work. They are totally unfit, they can't sing, they can't dance, they can't even walk across the stage properly and they don't know how to wear their clothes. One has no business on the stage unless posssessed of talent and ability and a capacity for hard work.

"Every wise woman who has a home should remain in the shelter of it. Contact with the world cannot help but make a woman worldly, and she will have to keep up a constant fight with herself to keep from becoming cynical. Every good woman who battles with the world sheds bitter tears in the privacy of her own boudoir over shattered ideals. One will weep over the littleness and narrowness of the so-called broadness of the world. She learns so much that she would be happier not to know. That is not theory—that is reality."

So much from a woman without theories, so much from a woman who has been successful on the stage, who speaks from experience and not theory, and who takes life as she finds it.

ANIMALS AS REAL ACTORS

HORSES AND DOGS GIVE LONDON THEATERGOERS A FEW THRILLS, WHICH THEY ENJOY—THOROUGHBREDS DO THEIR WORK AS VETERANS AND ENJOY THE LIMELIGHT. ∴ ∴ ∴

London, Oct. 9.—One of the institutions of the London theatrical season every year is the Drury Lane drama, and this year it has surpassed itself in providing thrills which must make even the most jaded theatergoer sit up and take notice.

The Drury Lane drama is always good, honest, old-fashioned melodrama. There are never any social or matrimonial problems to vex the brains of the audience and there is never anything that could offend the most inexperienced specimen of the young person. Virtue is always triumphant and vice always goes down to defeat at Drury Lane, and this year is no exception to the rule. The great feature about Drury Lane productions after their magnificence, is their realism. Stage effects of the old-fashioned kind are scorned by Arthur Collins, on whom the mantle of Augustus Harris as the most magnificent stage producer in London has fallen. If there is to be a race scene at Drury Lane the audience can count on seeing real race horses on the stage, and if there is to be a train wreck or a motor car accident, it is sure to be the genuine thing.

The Drury Lane drama this year is called "The Whip." It takes its name from that of the race horse which cuts a very large figure in the development of the plot; but in addition to "The Whip" there is a whole stable full of other horses in the production. All told, there are ten thoroughbreds, eighteen hacks and hunters, a cob and a pony, and at one point in the development of the play they are all on the stage together. In addition to this there are twelve couple of foxhounds and six couple of otter hounds, besides a terrior or two and a couple of nondescript dogs.

One would think that the rehearsing of these equine and canine actors until they were word perfect in their parts would be almost an impossible task, but I am assured that as a matter of fact most of them take to their work in much better shape than some human members of the company. The horses in particular enter into the spirit of the thing and seem to enjoy every minute they are on the stage.

This is the more surprising, as the horses are called on to do things that surely never entered into their experience. Take the race scene, for instance. A dozen horses take part in that, each galloping his hardest, and the illusion is so perfect that the people in front of the footlights hardly realize that they are making no progress at all. Each horse is fixed by his bellyband to an iron stanchion, and as he gallops the floor moves rapidly under him. Like the audience, the horse does not realize that he is standing still, for the effect of movement is produced on his brain by the rapid motion of the painted panorama at the back of the stage.

The only difficulty which was experienced in training the horses was due to the fact that they were apt to become frightened at the noise made by their ironclad hoofs on the boards of the stage. This was overcome by using a matting made in Berlin specially for the theaters. It not only looks like, but feels like turf. It is three inches thick and three and one-half tons of it were used in eleven strips each six feet wid and forty-seven feet long. Forty-nine men are employed every night to fit it on the stage.

The method by which the effect of rapid motion in the race scene is obtained is also interesting. An ordinary panoramic scene would be impossible on the scale required at Drury Lane, for it would be impossible to prevent wrinkles and kinks, which would be fatal to the illusion, if not the cause of serious accident. The Drury Lane panorama travels on an immense steel curtain which was built by a great Thames shipbuilding firm, and which is worked every night by a force of engineers from the shipyard. This screen is forty-six feet wide and thirty feet high, and it travels at the rate of fifteen miles an hour.

These wonderful effects are only possible on the Drury Lane stage, which is the largest in London. It is exactly 100 feet wide, 100 feet deep and 100 feet high. In addition to this, there are great scenery bays on each side which make the whole stage available for use. The floor is provided with five elevators, and one by the old-fashioned hand power.

In conclusion, it may be said that Drury Lane is about the only theater in London that could make such expensive mounting pay. It holds 4,000 people, and it usually manages to fill every place.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"THE INTRUDER," THE NEW COMEDY WHICH TREATS OF THE DIVORCE PROBLEM, HAS SCORED A SUCCESS — MARGARET ANGLIN MAY APPEAR IN SHAKESPEREAN CHARACTERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—If a certain degree of originality of topic as well as manner of treatment, coupled with fertility of inventive ingenuity, is to count for anything, "The Intruder" is entitled to more than ordinary consideration. This is the new comedy which was placed on view at the Bijou theater last week, where it succeeded "The Gentleman From Mississippi." It is the second play by Thompson Buchanan, a New York newspaper man, who fitted Grace George with her success of last season, "A Woman's Way."

In his second piece Mr. Buchanan treats our proverbial divorce problem with a light touch and a suggestion for laughter. That he has studied his Sardou—Sardou in his lighter vein—and to some profit is apparent in both his comedies. But no one can accuse him truthfully of slavish imitation or lack of originality. I would put "The Intruder" in the category of "The New York Idea," as the best example of American comedy of the new school.

The intruder in this case is the second wife of John Chase, who has been divorced from his first wife because of her craving for social position and love of luxury. The first Mrs. Chase has married Thomas P. Hendrix, a Pittsburg millionaire and a coarse money magnate. Hendrix and Chase were schoolboys together, but drifted apart in after years, one to devote himself to money-getting and the other to scientific inventions. Chase has a 19-year-old daughter, whose mother is the present Mrs. Hendrix. Hendrix has an artist son by his first wife, and Hendrix's artist son is in love with Chase's 19-year-old daughter and determined to marry her.

This makes out the premise of the problem, for the intruder in Chase's second wife, who arrives from her wedding tour just as Chase's first wife, the second Mrs. Hendrix, is paying a visit to her daughter, Willa, in Chase's house. So Chase has to introduce his bride to his own first wife, and to Willa as her stepmother, in the presence of Willa's own mother.

A more involved marital mix-up can hardly be imagined. Here is Chase confronted with two wives, and his daughter, Willa, with two mothers; and here is his divorced wife's stepson making love to her own daughter. Mixed up with this is the feud between Chase and Hendrix. Chase has invented an industrial process that is coveted by Hendrix, and they are on the opposite sides of an infringement suit. Hendrix raves at the prospect of an alliance between his son and his wife's daughter, and Mrs. Hendrix loses her temper with her second husband because of his objection to Willa.

The complications have been adroitly handled by the author, who never allows the interest to lapse, and cleverly brings order out of what appears hopeless chaos. Young Hendrix's determination wins in the face of all opposition. A highly amusing incident is produced when Willa and her stepmother each presents her portrait to Chase as a birthday gift. The portraits have been painted by young Hendrix, which kindles the fires of jealousy in the bosom of Willa, especially as this brings out the revelation that the second Mrs. Chase (Willa's stepmother) was once engaged to young Hendrix in Lincoln, Neb. Willa regards her stepmother as an unwelcome intruder, and in one scene, when the exasperated Mrs. Chase No. 2 slaps Willa's cheek, the girl calls her mother over the telephone to come to her at once, and presently the two mothers are angrily facing each other to fight out the rights of maternity as represented by the law and as represented by nature.

The play is described on the program as "a comedy of American life in three acts." It is a refreshingly unique treatment of the divorce habit without seeking to find a solution for the problem. In the end matters simply adjust themselves through the betrothal of Willa and young Hendrix.

Cyril Scott appeared in the latter role. Arthur Eyron is playing Chase, and Adelaide Manola is playing Willa. Janet Beecher is the intruder, and Maude Turner Gordon is Chase's divorced wife and Willa's mother. With Scott Cooper as Hendrix the comedy is well cast and the piece deserves to succeed.

An interesting fact about "The Intruder" has been made public. Buchanan, the author, designed it to be a serious play. He had no intention of making a comedy of it. Had he done so he would undoubtedly have produced a failure. Until the very last the author is said to have vigorously protested against the change. Here was an instance where the superior intelligence of management won.

Margaret Anglin has deepened and broadened in her art during the year of her artistic tour in the Antipodes, for she plays Mrs. Helena Richie with the true touch of sympathy and emotional vibrance, and gives proof of growth and advancement in other particulars. And something of this may be owing to her appearing in the Shakespearean plays over in Australia. After a chat with her behind the scenes the other night, I am persuaded that she is seriously thinking of a round of Shakespearean characters as a part of her plans for the future. When this will come to pass will depend on the fate of "The Awakening of Helena Richie," which, on first blush, seems to have made a fine impression. The piece is full of tearful episodes, but the actress no longer depicts them with certain elocutionary flourishes that made her work seem at times a little artificial. She was never so convincing as the other night in this dramatic version of Mrs. Deland's popular novel. She managed the big scenes with alternating touches of pathos and comedy that made them intensely interesting. She once told this writer that she could interrupt her most tearful scene at any moment to indulge in a good laugh. This lack of intensity has given way to a more apparent sincerity. She demonstrated in the manner in which she played Lady Eastney and Mrs. Dane alternately with Lena Aswell in "Mrs. Dane's Defense," in November, 1906, that she has unbounded versatility in opposite directions, and she makes opportunity for this characteristic of expression in her latest play.

The piece is excellently adapted to the stage by Charlotte Thompson, and it holds the interest from the first to the last curtain. But the material is not dramatically new. It is the woman with a past, whose higher nature is awakened by her love for an adopted child, but the characters are well preserved in their dramatic setting, and the scenes are well contrived to hold the interest. Yet I doubt whether the piece, entertaining as it is, would be able to exercise so potent a spell if it were not for the extraordinary fine acting of Miss Anglin, which suggested Mrs. Fiske in her best moments.

The New Theater forces—that is, the artistic factors—have been summoned to prepare for their season's work. The building has so far progressed that the opening performance is definitely announced for Nov. 8. By that time the actors engaged for the company will have daily rehearsed three of the plays to be presented in the course of the season. The spirit with which Winthrop Ames, the artistic director of the playhouse, enters upon his task is to be gathered from the fact that he assembled his players around the festive board last Sunday and treated them to a splendid feast. This was prompted by his desire to bring his artistic forces together on a social basis and establish the esprit de corps that is essential to harmony and co-operation. Thus the leveling medium was delicately applied, the no-star system, the artistic equality of the first and the last. The entire company was there, from Sothern and Julia Marlowe, Rose Coghlan and Albert Bruning down the line.

On Monday the first rehearsal was held, he first play to be produced will be Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," with Sothern and Marlowe in the title roles.

Bertha Galland is to appear in an entirely new version of "The Return of Eve." It will be remembered that this play was seen at the Herald Square theater last season and was unkindly handled by certain critics. It was then late in the season and Miss Galland's tour closed soon after. Now the piece has undergone a complete process of revision and New Yorkers are soon to have another chance to pass upon it.

It is an old story in the theatrical world that parts are frequently cut or elaborated while a musical comedy is in the process of rehearsal. In the preparations for "The Old Town," the new vehicle for Montgomery and Stone, which opened in Chicago last week, Harry Lillford had a "diminishing" experience. He is to play the role of an English servant. Various exigencies have led to the pruning of his part from time to time, and Lillford has protested with each amputation.

At the final rehearsal, Lillford, who is exceedingly earnest about his work, suggested to George Ade, the author, that it might add to the characterization if he dropped an "h" here and there. Ade replied:

"Go as far as you like, but remember you have only yourself to blame if you will insist on cutting your part."

The North Pole controversy was bound to be used for theatrical purposes, and the inevitable has happened. From Vienna comes the news that the fight between Dr. Cook and Peary was to be used as its basis for the libretta of an operetta, with one scene laid at the North Pole. In this country the affair is to take the shape of a vaudeville sketch. A North Pole act has been written by Thomas J. Gray, and is to be produced by Fred Ward and Snitz Edwards. It is called "The Explorer and the Eskimo," and deals with the subject matter in a humorous vein. There seems to be a quarrel over the sketch, however, due to the fact that the author wants a royalty on the act, while Ward and Edwards want to buy it at a fixed sum.

George Arliss is to have a dramatization of W. J. Locke's story, "Septimus," as his vehicle for the coming season. Philip Littell has made the play and Harrison Grey Fiske will produce it. The premiere is to be on Oct. 25.

Olga Nethersole, looking the picture of health and several pounds less in avoirdupois, accompanied by her companion, Miss Madge Field and two maids, arrived on the Mauretania and immediately drove to the Plaza hotel, where she will remain until her tour commences in Baltimore, Oct. 11, in her success of last season, "The Writing on the Wall."

Miss Nethersole gave to the press the following interview: "Please say to the good American public that I am glad to be with them again, and more than delighted to be permitted to participate in your great Hudson-Fulton celebration. As an English woman I naturally feel the gracious honor conferred upon my mother country, by your giving the naval command to Admiral Seymour of the British fleet.

"I am delighted to note your wonderful success in aviation and arctic exploration, but more especially so to assure you that the American dramatist leads the world in realistic drama. I mean the drama of purpose and theme, the drama that exalts and perpetuates; not the mere wordy fabric woven around some incubator star under the guise of literature, but the drama that discloses the true mission and places the stage upon the equality of the sister arts. I believe the time has arrived when the themes heretofore confined to the lyceum, the pulpit and the rostrum, or within the two covers of a book, must be revealed in the glare of the footlights; thus presenting to the masses a living reproduction of things as they are. The truth can never harm, and truth on the stage can only exercise its influence for good. Every evil in the social, political or religious world should be exposed and the danger signal placed, so that reforms can be efficaciously applied. Plays dealing with the reformation of the individual, the community and corporation will constitute my repertoire this season, and of the four plays presented, three are by American authors. My new play, 'Locke of Wall Street' will have an early presentation, and I trust it will meet with your approval as it deals with a mighty absorbing question, that of capital and labor."

Robert Edeson's engagement at the Criterion theater, New York, in W. Somerset Maugham's Victorian farce, "The Noble Spanlard," assumes unusual interest by reason of the connection of a famous theatrical family with the stong company supporting this well known star. Gertrude Coghlan, a daughter of the late Charles Coghlan, one of the most famous actors of his time, is Mr. Edeson's leading woman. Rose Coghlan, around whom some of the greatest incidents in English and American theatrical history are woven, is also playing one of the principal parts. This is the first time in the history of these two famous people that they have played in the same company, although Rose and Charles Coghlan made their greatest successes in America co-starring in "Diplomacy," "Forget-Me-Not" and other famous dramatic triumphs.

"The Sins of Society," the Drury Lane melodrama which was given an elaborate production in this country, has been abandoned. The piece was tried out in Chicago toward the end of last season and then shipped to New York for this season. It proved to be a popular success, but not of sufficient size to warrant its continuance. And it is too expensive to take out on a road tour, so that it has been relegated to the storeroom. Scenically, it is one of the most expensive productions made in years.

"The Florist Shop," Oliver Herford's adaptation of the Viennese farce, Glueck Bei Frauen" (Luck With Women), is to be made over into a musical comedy. Its success as a play has not been marked, and the addition of music is to be tried. The performance at Philadelphia last night was the closing one in its present form. Oliver Herford, George Marion and the other artisans of the dramatic yards are now at work to refit it with a scoe, lyrics and chorus.

Mr. Herford's lyrics, according to official statement, have been awaiting just such a contingency for some time, and the score also is almost ready. The personnel of the cast, it is said, will not undergo much of a change.

Marion Lorne, the original of the role of Angelica in this country, will be able to resume the part very soon, as she is recovering rapidly from the attack of typhoid fever that compelled her withdrawal during the early part of the play's life.

Violet Dale is spending her time now looking over plates of Egyptian costumes for her "featured" part in "The Flirting Princess," which Mort Singer will put on soon at the La Salle theater in Chicago.

Ida Conquest, who was leading lady in Charles Richman's play, "The Revelers," which did not set New York on fire and was therefore sent out for a tour of the provinces, has withdrawn from the cast.

George W. Lederer is to manage the forthcoming starring tour of Lina Abarbanell, the Viennese opera singer, who was one of the first "Merry Widows" in this country, and who is to be starred in a new operetta.

For the third consecutive season William H. Crane will devote his energies to George Ade's comedy, "Father and the Boys."

Leonore Harris, who will create the role of Minna Hart in Walter N. Lawrence's production of "Idols," the new W. J. Locke play, is on her way from England to this country and will begin rehearsals on her arrival here. M. Lawrence has also engaged Mabel Roebuck for the leading feminine role in "Idols," which will have its New York premiere this fall.

Leo Fall, the composer of "The Dollar Princess," has written four musical numbers, which are to be used in the American production of the operetta. This should add materially to the enjoyment of the piece, because much of the original dialogue could not be translated, and some more charming music of Fall would aid materially in brightening up the whole affair.

Sir Arthur Wing Pinero, the author of "Mid-Channel," which is to be produced in this country with Ethel Barrymore in the principal role, has written a letter to Miss Barrymore, which says: "I understand you begin your season in 'Mid-Channel' this coming January. I want to tell you the great delight it gives me that you are to create my character of Zoe Blundell. Wait as long as you like before putting your hand to the task. The waiting will be more than repaid by the preformance." Miss Barrymore's company will comprise players from England and America and will play a very late season, going all the way to San Francisco.

Louis Mann will carry for many a day a scar on his forehead as the result of an accident in Worcester. Just as the curtain went down on the second act of "The Man Who Stood Still" at the Worcester theater, the property clock in the jewelry shop scene became dislodged and in falling struck the star, inflicting a two-inch wound on the forehead.

Mr. Mann had to be carried to his dressing room and the services of a physician in the audience were required. The wound was dressed by the physician, and although Mr. Mann suffered from the loss of blood and was considerably dazed by the shock, he continued the performance, and most of the audience were aware of what had happened until Mr. Mann himself appeared at the end of the third act and explained.

A drama is to be produced in Vienna this winter called "The Emperor of the Northland." It is the work of Hans Von Kahlenberg and Hans Olden, and the principal character is said to be a thinly veiled portrait of the emperor of Germany. The style of treatment has not been made known, but it is said that the Austrian censor has requested the authors to make some changes before he would permit the play's production.

The old saying that "nothing succeeds like success," is well proved in that Liebler & Co. have bought a new American play from its authoress, Mrs. Anna Crawford Flexner, whose "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," has brought many a dollar into the Liebler coffers. The play will be produced about Jan. 1, and is as yet nameless.

Channing Pollock's latest play, "Such a Little Queen," has proved such a decided success in New York that a second company is now in rehearsal, and will be sent en tour in a week or two. It will probably be seen in the West during the season, as the original company, with Elsie Ferguson, will in all likelihood remain at New York for the rest of the season.

Ethel Johnson, soubrette with Montgomery and Stone in "The Old Town," which opened in Chicago last week, has a record of not missing a single performance in four years, all of which time she has been in "The Red Mill." Miss Johnson is a Chicago girl, and made her first appearance on the stage with Richard Carle.

Ibsen's "Doll's House" has, since its publication in printed form, had a circulation of over 100,000, which is believed to be the record of any modern play printed for the public.

Charles Frohman is very anxious to get back to London in order to project his repertoire theater plan at the Duke of York theater. If the plan is successful he will duplicate the scheme at the Empire theater, in New York. Granville Barker will act as stage manager at the repertoire theater in London, and a suitable company will be engaged to present plays of J. M. Barrie, Bernard Shaw, W. Somerset Madgham, Granville Barker, John Gaslworthy and Haddon Chambers.

Owing to the failure of the "Flag Lieutenant," one of the first of the new productions to meet this fate, Bruce McRae is to appear in another English comedy, entitled, "The Commanding Officer," which Daniel Frohman has brought over.

In "A Little Brother of the Rich," in which Liebler & Co. will present Vincent Serrano, Hilda Spong has been assigned a prominent role.

Constance Collier has persuaded Charles Frohman to present her in a series of Shakespeare matinees, using the scenery and costumes which Frohman may have from past productions.

Contracts which will give Charles Frohman the rights to the next five comedies of W. Somerset Maugham, the English playwright, have been signed. The first of these, entitled "Smith," was produced last week at the Comedy theater, London, with a company headed by R. Lorraine and Marie Lohr. Maugham promises to take the place of the late Clyde Fitch in fecundity of playmaking.

Klaw & Erlagnre's production of "The Barrier," with Theodore Roberts, Florence Rockwell, W. S. Hart, Richard Thornton, Alphonz Ethier and Guinio Socola, opened at Rochester, N. Y., Friday night.

The new Northern play, "The Heart of Alaska," by Henry D. Carey, opened last Monday night at Albany, N. Y. The play is a romantic drama picturing the conditions which the people had to contend with during the famous rush for the Klondike in 1898.

It is possible that Mary Mannering will devote the latter part of her season to a revival of "As You Like It"—that is, if her managers consent.

The successful experiment which the Shuberts made with Nazimova has prompted them to star Matierra Oliv, the celebrated Viennese actress, in a new play around the holidays. Mme. Oliv is rapidly learning to master the English language.

Surrounded by such a cast as Verner Clarges, Rose Coghlan and Gertrude Coghlan, Robert Edeson is very anxious to play Charles Surface. Whether he will do so or not is as yet undetermined.

In William Faversham's forthcoming production of "Herod," his niece, Dorothy Edmed, will act a minor role.

Bernard Shaw has promised Charles Frohman that if the latter is successful in his plan of projecting a comprehensive season of Shaw plays in America he will come to this country to serve as Frohman's stage manager for the enterprise. Frohman has secured two new one-act plays by Shaw, which he intends to produce.

Maxine Elliott has begun rehearsals of "Sayonara," the little Japanese one-act play by Elizabeth Goodnow, which she is to present this season as a curtain-raiser preceding "The Chaperon." The three characters of "Sayonara," which is the Japanese for "good-by," will be played by Miss Elliott, Julian L'Estrange and Arthur Whitby.

Mrs. Fisk is to appear next season in London in a repertoire of her most noted successes. She will appear there under the management of Harrison Grey Fiske and Beerbeam Tree.

Henry Miller introduced the "Great Divide" to London during the past month with great success.

The strong Russian revolutionary play, "On the Eve," which was adapted from the original German of Leo Kampf into English by Martha Morton, has just been produced in Boston. The play served to introduce Hedwig Reicher, the beautiful German actress, for the first time in an English-speaking part.

Rida Johnson Young has decided not to use her married name, Young, in the future, and so informed the Shuberts when they accepted her new play, "The Lottery." Miss Johnson is the wife of James Young, who played in his wife's piece, "Brown of Harvard," last season.

Miss Ethel Irving and not Miss Violet Vanbrugh, who is Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, will play the leading feminine role in Sutro's new play, "Making a Gentleman," which Bourchier is to produce at the Garrick in London next month. Miss Vanbrugh has been so successful in Fitch's "Woman in the Case," in London that she will be unable to take the role in her husband's production.

George Tyler, of Liebler & Co., has purchased a new play and annexed a new star. The play is "For Better For Worse," by Cleveland Moffett, author of "The Battle," and the star is Carlotta Nilson. Eugenie Blair will also have an important part in this production.

Bert Williams, formerly of Williams & Walker, opens under Ray Comstock in "Mr. Load of Koal," by Raymond Johnson of Cole & Johnson. The book is by Ship and Rogers.

The name of the musical play in which Raymond Hitchcock is starring this season has been changed from "The Man From Broadway" to "The Man Who Owns Broadway." Changing titles appears to be quite the thing these days, Sam Bernard having altered the name of his musical comedy three times so far.

Lionel Barrymore is the latest recruit from the legitimate to cast his eyes toward vaudeville. He has a sketch, but it isn't just exactly suited for the two-a-day houses. But just as soon as Mr. Barrymore finds a suitable vehicle he will have a try at it.

Milton Royle, who has written a sequel to "The Squaw Man," has changed its name from "In the Blood" to "These Are My People." H. B. Warner will be starred in the production.

ANOTHER REMARKABLE VOICE FOUND

JEAN DUFFAULT.

Oscar Hammerstein, in his preliminary season of opera in New York, uncovered another remarkable voice. In the days of Maurice Grau we used to believe that the material for tenors gave out when Jean de Reszke was graduated into the upper register. Later we were told that Caruso was the last of the tenors. Hammerstein went abroad and dug up a remarkable Italian tenor, Bonci. In the same season he found the finest French tenor New York had ever heard, Dalmores. In the following season he brought over Zenatello, who divided honors with Caruso. Now he has found Jean Duffault. After listening to the bleating of inefficient "second tenors" in grand opera for many years, it is delightful to hear such a fine well placed voice as that of M. Duffault. Recently he sang in "La Juive." Those who knew Halevy's opera shook their heads when they saw that Hammerstein had announced it for his preliminary season. "It takes a good tenor to carry 'La Juive' to success," they said. Well, Mr. Hammerstein had the good tenor and the production of "La Juive" was a striking success. In the cast with M. Duffault was Mme. Grippon, one of the best dramatic sopranos ever heard outside the Metropolitan opera house. It is the day of the younger generation in music. Sembrich has retired from opera. Nordica's voice is worn. Many of the old guard are about ready to give up their work and retire to a well earned rest. The musical world has been wondering who would take their places. Mr. Hammerstein has found some of the substitutes. In Baron, Sylva, Grippon and d'Alvarez he has splendid material. Carasa has the making of a good tenor. Duffault is a finished artist.

AMERICANS OCCUPYING THE CENTER OF STAGE IN EUROPE

Gossip In Paris About Miss Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi—Autumn Styles Now Much In Evidence In the French Metropolis.

Paris, Oct. 9.—"These wonderful Americans," as the French people now proclaim us, certainly occupy the very center of the stage at present, so far as European attention is concerned.

With both Peary and Cook claiming to have discovered the North Pole (and the claim of both is generally accepted as true here); Glenn H. Curtiss breaking records for aviation and winning $15,000 in prizes (decidedly to the distress of European competitors), while the fame of the Wright brothers is as great as ever; with Miss Anita Stewart wedding the prince de Braganza, and with Miss Katherine Elkins still in the running as a possible future queen of Italy—is not all this, surely, "glory enough to go around?" What more could the most patriotic American expect within the short space of a few weeks?

While, it is true, there are those who discount the chances of Miss Elkins ever succeeding to the throne of Italy, through her marriage to the duke of the Abruzzi, still there are many who drag forth from obscurity that famous old bromide expression, "stranger things have happened." As a matter of fact, it is the settled belief among those who are in a position to judge, that Miss Elkins will never wed the duke, and for several reasons, any one of which is quite sufficient for a young woman of Miss Elkins' well known independence of character.

The foremost objection is that whatever feeling of interest she ever may have had for the Italian nobleman, disappeared when she met the handsome son of ex-Congressman Hitt; another reason is that Miss Elkins has no liking for occupying the position of a morganatic wife, which is probably as far toward the throne seat of Italy as she would ever reach if she became the wife of the duke; another, still, is her dread of living for the rest of her life among the ladies of the Italian court, many of them relatives of the duke of the Abruzzi, who are known to object to Miss Elkins "coming into the family," regarding her as an intruder, and who, therefore, would make existence so unpleasant for her through snubs and other methods known to the sex as to make life well nigh unbearable.

There are other reasons, too, but those mentioned should quite certainly be enough for any self-respecting American woman.

Paris, at present, is practically deserted, so far as society is concerned, being given up to tourists and to visiting business men. The Bois de Boulogne, that meeting place of those in society, is a lonely enough place now, with the exception of Sundays, when it is crowded with working people enjoying their one day of rest—a sure sign that the gilded few are far afield and visiting the various spas and other watering places.

The architectural wonders of Paris do not interest the visiting business men and women, but the trade of the city does, very decidedly. Many of them are here for the sole purpose of copying from the results of the clever brains of Paris workers. They invariably succeed in taking away something which, reproduced in the United States, by the thousands, sets forth the exquisite taste of Paris and the ability of the same working people who throng the Bois on Sundays, during the absence of the social lights. Truly, there is much to be seen in Paris at the present moment, but nothing social. As the world understands it, the city is empty.

Of course, for the women, there is much here to attract now, for the autumn styles are very much in evidence. New colors, new styles, new everything is the order of the day. Colors are ever a subject of interest for the sex, for they alone are sufficient to make or mar our looks. The newest of colors, and one that promises to outdo all others, is "aviation" blue, an exquisite shade, hazy, evanescent and soft—such as one might see while traveling through the clouds. It must be used in small quantities, however, and in such case should prove becoming to all.

Plum and violet shades are still popular for tailor-made dresses, hats to wear with such costumes being in softer harmonies of mauve. For evening wear there is old gold, corn color, green gold, pink and Nile green. Mole grays are worn, but they have a great admixture of brown this season. Navy blue holds its own, but more for morning dresses of an every day character. Coats have a braided strap which outlines the waist, but the waist, natural and beautiful, is in its proper place. There will be much braiding and embroidery worn this season, but the designs are materially different from those seen last winter. Piping cords of velvet, and velvet generally will be popular. Corduroy gauze velvet is a lovely fabric, and the moires, shot or powdered with gold or silver, are very pleasing; not, however, to the purse.

Looking into the future, Jules Blois, a well-known French writer, who has made a study of ancient civilizations and peoples, and whose opinions are always accorded serious consideration in France, asserts that the most wonderful changes will have taken place in civilized life in Europe and in the United States 100 years hence.

He asserts that the principal cities will be almost uninhabited except for business purposes, all classes living in the country.

Public transit will have become incredibly rapid by means of pneumatic railroads or aerial craft of far greater speed than is now considered possible.

Automobiles will have gone completely out of fashion, while the bicycle, in a new form, will have regained public favor.

The average height of men and women will have increased. New views will prevail as to the beauty of women, for women themselves will have changed. Their beauty, 100 years hence, will be combined with muscular strength and courage.

Parliamentary institutions will have been greatly modified. Nations will be governed by delegates of the various society classes. Existing aristocracies will have been blotted out, but a new form of aristocracy brought into being by the general alterations of the conditions of life, and will be socially and politically powerful.

As might be expected, M. Blois declares that French will become the most widely spoken language in the world—but then, he would not be a true Frenchman if he did not believe that in France is contained all virtues and advantages.

Already the French government is quietly turning its attention to a fitting reception of ex-President Roosevelt when he returns from South Africa on his way to the United States. There is no doubt that when the "Strenuous One" reaches here he will be accorded a greeting quite in accord with his desires, for his forcefulness and love of dramatic effect appeal directly to French imagination. It is the firm conviction of many Frenchmen of judgment that Theodore Roosevelt will be the next president of the United States, Mr. Taft having injured his chances to succeed himself by his attitude on the tariff question. "There's a reason," however, for this belief, and it lies in the fact that France's toes were squeezed by the action of the Payne tariff law. Hence these tears.

C. R. Kluger, the jeweler, 1060 Virginia avenue, Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed." FROM THE MINES AND THE SMELTERS

THE HEDLEY GOLD COMPANY

Thomas F. Cole and Associates Are Organizing New Company to Take Over British Columbia Property Known as the Nickel Plate.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 7.—A dispatch from Phoenix, B. C., tells of the reorganization plans of the Hedley. The Hedley Gold Mining company is the name of the new company that has taken over the Nickel Plate, which is credited with being the largest gold proposition operating in Canada. In May last an option was secured on the property by an exploration syndicate composed of forty-eight members of the United States Steel corporation, together with a group of capitalists who ordinarily associate themselves with the Cole-Ryan copper enterprises. For three months a corps of mining experts worked quietly making drillings and tests.

As a result the syndicate exercises its option on the property and is organizing the new Hedley company, which takes over the mine from the exploration syndicate at an actual cost of $715,000. The Hedley Gold Mining company is issuing 150,000 shares, of which 120,000 are outstanding with $30,000 in the treasury. Of the outstanding 120,000 shares, 21,400 were paid to the venders of the property, leaving 98,600 to be divided among the exploration syndicate. The company starts with $280,000 in its treasury. The executive committee consists of W. E. Corey, T. F. Cole, C. E. Congdon, I. L. Merrill, George E. Toner, James Heatson and C. D. Fraser. I. L. Merrill, who opened the Calumet & Arizona, is president. The property is located in Hedley camp and consists of sixteen mining claims and a two-mile tramway connecting the mine with a forty-stamp mill, the mine being at an elevation of 4,000 feet above the mill. The Nickel Plate has to date produced 153,000 tons of ore averaging $11 to $15 and yielding $600,000 profit. The present system consists of stamping to twenty-six mesh, concentrating and cyaniding tailings, giving extraction of about 85 to 90 per cent. The new owners estimate 120,000 tons of ore in sight, averaging $12 in value, with a profit of between $6 and $7 a ton. The mine is now earning $200,000 per annum.

August ore shipments through Kalso were the heaviest in years. The total output was 2,222 tons, of which 1,710 tons were zinc. The largest shipper was the Whitehorse, and the Lucky Jim was second, with the records of 1,010 and 990 tons, respectively, the bulk of which was zinc.

When H. S. Waugh, an old prospector, found an exceptionally rich gold quartz lead on the Peel river it worried him to know what to do with it. To mill it would require expensive machinery, and to add to his difficulties transportation 2,000 odd miles to the north of this city is not all that it might be. However, assays showed the quartz to be exceptionally rich, so Waugh determined to make the attempt to take in a stamp mill to work his fifty claims, each of which covers fifty-two acres. He is now en route to the far North with his mill, which will handle fourteen tons of rock a day. From Edmonton the machinery was taken by wagon to Athabasca Landing, where it was transferred to rafts and freighted down the Athabasca river through the ninety miles of rapids to Fort McMurray. Across Lake Athabasca the plant will be carried by one of the Hudson Bay company steamers to the Slave river. Down this river for a few miles the journey will be made by raft until a portage of eight miles is reached, where the machinery will have to be "packed." More rafts, more rivers and more portages make up the balance of the journey, and Mr. Waugh hopes to be at his destination some time this month.

AT THE DULUTH-MOCTEZUMA

Monte Cristo Mine Has Paid for All Development Work and Covered Payments for the Property ---Showing Increased Values.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 9.—A mine which was purchased only last February, which has already paid for all development work and covered payments for the property since that time, and which is steadily showing increased values in gold and silver, is the Monte Cristo mine of the Duluth-Moctezuma Mining company, the owners of which are Duluth capitalists.

Manager Jones brought to Douglas a few days ago another carload of the high-grade ore, and last night he had received the complete assay returns and settlement from the Copper Queen smelter. The returns showed an average for the two cars recently shipped in of $11,000 for each car of thirty-five tons derived from the gold and silver values, this figure representing American money.

This amount, $22,000 for two carloads of ore, represents the net proceeds after payments were made for freight and smelter charges. There are a few of the mines in Mexico that are making an equal showing. The company is a close corporation, and has no stock to sell. The officers are all residents of Duluth, and are the following: President, George H. Mance; vice president, C. H. Bagley; treasurer, William C. Brown; secretary, N. K. McLeod. The company is organized under the laws of Minnesota, the stock of which controls the Dia Claro Mining company, which is the Mexican corporation organized as a holding company in the republic. The equipment at the mine is very simple, so that the operation is inexpensive. The shaft is sunk to a depth of 275 feet, and there are drifts at the 110 and 200-foot levels.

This company also owns the Amarite copper mine, south of the Monte Cristo; the Idaho and Monstruo Deplomo, two lead and silver mines contiguous, and also south of the Monte Cristo; the Concho, a silver-copper mine south of Nacozari, and the Cabello de Fierro, a copper property.

CAPITAL TO BE INCREASED

Stockholders of Keating Gold Mining Company Authorize Issuance of 150,000 More Shares---Extensive Improvements to be Commenced Soon.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 9.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Keating Gold Mining company, which was held in the office of the company in the Silver Bow, it was voted to increase the capital stock from 250,000 shares to 400,000 shares. Of the 250,000 shares more than 200,000 were represented at the meeting tion received a unanimous vote. The resolution to increase the capitalization received a unanimous vote. The par value of the stock is $5 per share.

It has been decided to offer the 150,000 shares, the issue of which was recently authorized, to the present stockholders in proportion to their present holdings. The offer will remain open until Oct. 15, after which date all that has not been subscribed for will be underwritten by Gay & Sturgis of Boston.

The company has decided on the recommendations of C. W. Pritchett, the consulting engineer of the company, to at once commence to make extensive improvements to the surface plant, with the completion of which it will be possible to produce at least 200 tons of ore a day. According to the plans which have been adopted, a new hoisting engine and compressor will be installed, and electricity as a motive power will be substituted for steam. In every particular the plant will be brought thoroughly up-to-date, and in accomplishing this end it will be necessary to expend about $125,000. M. D. Graves, the superintendent, will make preparation at once for the installation of the new machinery.

While operations will be continued in the present producing shaft, it has been decided to sink to a depth of 500 feet in the Blacker shaft, which has not been used for some time, or since the present company took possession of the property. This will open up the Leviathan vein, which Mr. Pritchett has stated, after a thorough examination, is a true fissure vein containing far richer ore than that in the Keating vein, which gave the property the reputation of being one of the greatest gold properties in the state. On the Leviathan vein levels will be run on every 100 feet.

CORBIN DISTRICT IS ACTIVE

Important Developments Attract Eastern and London Capitalists --- Minneapolis-Corbin Company Encounters High Grade Ore at 185-Foot Depth.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 9.—Recent developments in the properties of the Boston & Corbin and the Minneapolis & Corbin properties at Corbin has aroused renewed interest in that section of the district and it is reported that surrounding properties are being acquired at good round sums. During the past week London capitalists have taken over the Sun and Bohemia claims approximately close to the Minneapolis & Corbin under a bond for $125,000, and preparations are said to be on foot for sinking a shaft to a depth of 1,000 feet.

As rapidly as the work can be accomplished the Missouri River Power company is stretching its lines into the camp and a number of the operating companies have closed contracts for power.

The assured construction of an electric line between Butte and Helena is quickening enterprise in the Corbin district and in fact the promising condition of the camp has been a factor in bringing about the construction of the road.

Several new and important strikes have been reported within the past few weeks, one of the most important being in the property of the Minneapolis & Corbin company which is sinking a shaft on the Copper King claim in the center of its group. The ore showing in the shaft at a depth of 185 feet is of greater importance to the Corbin district than anything that has resulted from development during the whole year. The shaft is reported to be all in stringers and the bottom is showing strong in bornite copper glance, chalsopyrite and native copper, the latter occurring in seams. The character of the formation in the shaft is quartz, carrying high-grade ore, and the dip is into the hill. It is the conviction of the company's engineers that the stringers will converse into a great body of commercial ore and it is anticipated, when drifting is commenced on the 200-foot level, a good body of shipping ore will be opened up.

The Boston & Corbin company is also meeting with splendid success, and the entire district in all directions shows the expeditious work of

FAITH IN FUTURE OF COPPER

Shown By Amalgamated During Recent Strike of Butte Miners --Butte Coalition Gradually Adding to Its Output—North Butte Can Soon Easily Double Its Production.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The action of the Amalgamated Copper company in relation to the recent labor troubles in Butte, taken in connection with the enormous copper surplus and unsatisfactory condition of the metal market, is one of a number of things the public can not understand. It was generally believed and feared that the Amalgamated would welcome some excuse for another suspension of operations and copper production. If such an excuse had been sought, it was abundantly furnished by the miners, when they violated their contract with the company and walked out because they had a grievance, not against the company, but with another union, the hoisting engineers. The miners gave no notice to the mining companies and did not consult them, but simply notified all miners as they reported for work that they should return to their homes. For three or four days the action crippled the companies, and the essential terms of the five-year contract the companies had with the miners were broken by the latter.

Public feeling was against the miners, and if ever a company was in position to take extreme measures the Amalgamated company was in that position. However, on instructions from President John D. Ryan, the Amalgamated company's representatives in Butte exerted their efforts to bring about a speedy settlement of the troubles between the hostile unions so that mining operations could be continued. The result was that the engineers, who had withdrawn from the jurisdiction of the Western Federation of Miners, were induced to return, and on every point concessions were made to the miners, who had carried things with a high hand and had precipitated a number of acts of violence. The third day after the strike everything was settled and on the fourth the mines were again operating at normal capacity, while there had been no interruption of production at all, owing to the fact that there was a sufficient quantity of ore in the bins and at the smelters to keep the latter in full operation during the trouble with the miners.

In refusing to take advantage of the opportunity to cut off production, the Amalgamated company either showed great faith in the future of the copper market or it is carrying out a determination not to "hold the sack" again for other producers, as it did several years ago, when it shut down its mines to curtail copper production, while other companies took advantage of the better market thus created by the Amalgamated. It is evident that the Amalgamated Copper company not only has no intention of curtailing production, but that on the contrary that company and its allied interests are actually increasing their output. Not only are all the sub-

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Record Productions Being Made by the Mines and Very Little Metal Held in Stock—Total Output of the District Now Around 20,500,000 Pounds Monthly.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is a noteworthy fact that in spite of the reported slow demand for the finished metal, the Lake Superior copper mines continue to make record productions, and in only one or two instances apparently will the year's productions of the several companies fall below that of the previous year. Further than that, two of the largest producers are holding very little of the metal in stock locally, and at least one, the Copper Range Consolidated company, has sold well ahead of production. At none of the local smelters is the stock of finished metal above normal. The total output of the district is now around 20,500,000 pounds monthly.

The underground conditions of the several mines continue unchanged, and with the exception of the disclosure of copper ground at greater depth in the Lake mine, nothing of particular importance has developed.

Lake.

At the Lake mine the long expected disclosure of the lode at the fifth level was accomplished after crosscutting a total distance of about 100 feet through trap rock which, because of its character and the presence of fine copper noted in the last fifty or sixty feet, led to the expectation that the lode would be reached much nearer the shaft. The lode has only just been entered, and though well charged with copper, is not comparable with the ground opened higher up, but may be expected to improve with the further extension of the crosscut. Conditions elsewhere in the mine are much the same as in past months, the ground proving phenomenally rich in spots and as painfully barren in others. The shaft has attained a depth of nearly 800 feet. Five machine drills are in service, engaged in opening work, and much better progress is noted than at any previous time since operations at that point began.

Allouez.

There is nothing in the underground situation at the Allouez property meriting particular mention, and, though the general condition is materially unchanged from that noted in the more recent months, it is very evident that the average copper content of the ground developed is not being lowered by the character of the new ground opened at depth and in the drift extensions. The No. 2 shaft in which much the best ground opened in the mine is noted, continues sinking in copper ground that apparently will yield unmixed with other rock as much as 20 pounds fine copper per ton of rock and possibly several pounds better than that figure. This class of rock has been in evidence in the shaft for several weeks. Only a very limited production is being had at this point, the rock output averaging around 200 tons daily compared with a daily outturn of upwards of 600 tons at the No. 1 shaft. An average of thirty-six rock drills engaged in drift-stoping and shaft sinking are in service.

Section 12 Exploration.

The Section 12 Exploration company is making record progress in the diamond drill work being done on that property. The drill hole has attained a depth of 350 feet at which depth a mineralized bed of trap rock was entered which, judging from the drill core, is identical with the formation encountered in the New Baltic hole on the opposite side of Portage lake just before that hole penetrated to what is assumed to be the west bed of the Baltic formation.

Elm River.

The situation at the Elm River property continues unchanged and without much encouragement. Operations are confined to crosscutting at a depth of about 200 feet in the several forma-

PROFITABLE YEAR IN MINING

Figures for Third Quarter Show Many Dividends Paid—In Addition to the Big Companies, Numerous Small Concerns and Prospectors Have Taken Out Much Wealth.

With the ending of the third quarter of 1909 it is apparent, according to figures available to the Mining World, that the present year will be one of great profit to holders of stock in gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc properties. From reports received by the Mining World from 103 American mining and metallurgical companies dividends have been paid during the first nine months of 1909 amounting to $45,972,275. This was done on an issued capitalization of $535,744,559 and makes a total for these companies since incorporation of $573,969,955, a return equivalent to 107 per cent. In addition to the above are the dividends paid by nine holding companies, which, with an issued capitalization of $310,340,600, have so far paid in 1909 the sum of $13,187,595. These nine companies, since their incorporation, have paid to shareholders $97,831,275, a return of 31 per cent.

Large profits not included in the above have been divided by numerous private and close corporations, to say nothing of the vast sums that have been earned by smaller mine owners and prospectors.

Of the 103 companies paying $45,972,275 in 1909 77 are classed as gold-silver-lead properties, and these have to their credit for the year $19,612,209, and since incorporation, $148,823,275, a return equivalent to 56 per cent.

In United States.

Forty-five of these seventy-seven companies are located in the United States, and have paid to shareholders this year, $11,027,582. Since incorporation, dividends have been paid totaling $104,401,365, a return of 75 per cent on the combined issued capital of $138,041,079. Ranking first in point of dividends paid for the year is Goldfield Consolidated of Nevada, with $2,133,644 to its credit. Homestake of South Dakota, with an issued capitalization of $21,800,000, is second on the list for the year, with dividend declarations of $984,600. In point of total dividends paid, however, the Homestake leads all others, for since its incorporation it has disbursed among shareholders $18,755,750, a return of 86 per cent. Tonopah, also of Nevada, third on the list, with dividend declarations of $950,000 for the year, has nearly paid its capitalization of $1,000,000 this year. Since its incorporation it has returned its capitalization more than four and a half times, or $4,600,000. Camp Bird, fourth for the year, has paid $795,000 and $5,787,150 to date. Among others of the larger dividend payers in this class are Silver King Coalition of Utah, with $750,000 for the year and $1,313,000 to date; Colorado of Utah, $720,000 for the year and $1,790,000 to date; Bunker Hill & Sullivan of Idaho, $480,000 for the year and $1,151,000 to date.

Two in Cobalt.

Of the seventy-seven gold-silver-lead properties reported to the Mining World, fifteen are Canadian companies, all but two operating in the Cobalt section of Ontario. These fifteen companies have a splendid record, for in the few years which they have been operated the sum of $13,239,066 has been distributed among the shareholders, on an issued capitalization of $53,299,572, a return of 24 per cent. So far this year these companies have declared $4,895,177 in dividends. Nipissing, as always, leads, with $900,000 for the year and $2,940,000 to date, a

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

State of Minnesota Largest Single Owner of Iron Ore Lands in Lake Regions—Great Activity in Coleraine District—Increased Interest in Development of Vermilion Properties.

It is perhaps not generally known that the state of Minnesota is the largest single owner of iron ore lands in the Lake Superior region. Its possessions in that respect are of truly vast extent. The United States Steel corporation controls a tonnage of ore greater than that which is contained in these state lands, but it does not own all of this mineral outright, much of it being held under lease which call for the payment of specified royalty as the product is mined. The amount of ore in the acreage to which the commonwealth holds title is not known even approximately at this time, but the claim that it rises above 1,000,000,000 tons appears well founded. In the neighborhood of 1,000 40-acre tracts of mineral land have already been leased by the state. Eleven of these properties contain 27,500,000 tons of ore, as estimated by the lessees, who have listed that amount for taxation purposes, or an average of 2,500,000 tons to the forty. These eleven forties belong to the swamp land fund. Seventy-six 40-acre tracts belonging to the school fund have been developed in whole or in part, and the lessees of these have listed an aggregate of 77,000,000 tons, an average of slightly more than 1,000,000 tons. Thus the estimate that the state lands contain more than 1,000,000,000 tons of ore is considered reasonable, particularly since in addition to the 1,000 properties there is a very large acreage within the mineralized zone which has not been leased or explored. At a minimum rate of 25 cents a ton, which is the present royalty, it is figured that the commonwealth eventually will receive a revenue of upwards of $250,000,000 from its ore lands, of which somewhat more than three-fourths will go to the permanent school fund and the remainder to the account of the university.

Hundred Mines Working.

There are approximately 100 mines in operation on the Mesaba range, and they are producing ore at the rate of about 4,000,000 tons a month. In the neighborhood of 15,500 men are employed, 60 per cent of whom are engaged in the mining and 40 per cent ni the stripping department. The average wage for labor, both underground and surface, is $2.70 a day. A considerable number of new mines will be added to the producing list the coming year, and among these will be the Alpena, a property of the United States Steel corporation in the Virginia district. The Alpena contains a very large deposit, part of which will be mined by the open-cut and part by the underground system. The work of removing the overburden is now being started and will be continued throughout the winter. Some ore will

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Thousands of Tons of Ore on the Dumps and Millions of Tons Blocked Out—Waiting for Its Own Reduction Plant.

Ely, Nev., Oct. 9.—The estate of the Giroux Consolidated Mines company, of which Thomas F. Cole was recently elected president, to succeed Joseph L. Giroux, resigned on account of ill health, presents a scene of energetic endeavor. While the Alpha and Giroux shafts are attracting most of the attention on this rich property, the Bunker Hill, Brooks No. 1, the Morris and Old Glory shafts, with their big dumps of ore and their vast reserves must not be forgotten. From the vicinity of this ground they have graded for a spur track of the Nevada Northern railway to the Giroux shaft, the name given to the new hole which is being unrailed 700 feet to the west of the Alpha.

The grading completed, the work of track-laying is now in progress; and meantime the upraising of the new shaft is going ahead without interruption, and they have reached the 600-foot mark above the 1,000-foot level, where the raise was started. This means that the shaft is now 400 feet from the surface. All preparations have been made to sink, and in fact it was announced a week ago that sinking had actually begun, sinking and raising going on at the same time. This statement proved to be premature, for while the engine and hoist are on the ground, the hoist has not been installed. The work of raising has been found to be so easy that it is being continued with good effect, but the hoist may be put into service now at any time.

In the Alpha shaft was found some of the richest ore on the Giroux Consolidated. The new Giroux shaft has been projected for the purpose of getting into better and safer ground. It is being raised in the limestone, and at about 450 feet up a lense of high-grade copper ore was cut. This find was of the greatest satisfaction to Thomas F. Cole. Mr. Cole has been most successful with copper in the limestone of other camps, such as Bisbee, Ariz., and is firm in his belief that his success in that particular camp will be repeated in this.

The Giroux has been opened up by shaft work, and the ground has been most thoroughly developed, thousands of tons of ore being on the dumps and big bodies in sight below the surface.

GOOD ORE FOUND IN CACTUS

Samples From Hamilton Shaft of Cactus Development Company Average About 6 Per Cent in Copper—Improves With Increased Depth.

Globe, Ariz., Oct. 9.—Con Crowley of Crowley City, the Cactus camp, who is now spending a few days in the city, reports everything in a flourishing condition at the mine of the Cactus Development company.

At the new Pinto shaft, which is being sunk, a depth of nearly 400 feet has been reached. A force of fifteen men is working there in three shifts of five men each and some record-breaking sinking is being done. On the 400-foot level, which will be reached in a few days, a crosscut will be begun to connect with the Hamilton shaft on the 500-foot level.

The Hamilton shaft is 540 feet deep and from the shaft on the third, fourth and fifth levels crosscutting and drifting are being done exclusively with excellent results. All the crosscuts run north and south while the laterals run east and west. In nearly all the drifts and crosscuts, ore is being found and the average of this in copper is approximately 6 per cent.

Grab samples taken from the third, fourth and fifth levels were brought to this city by Con Crowley and are handsome specimens. From a survey of these samples it is apparent that with increased depth in the Hamilton shaft the grade of the ore improves.

Supt. T. W. Hamilton, who has been East for some time on a combined business and pleasure trip, returned a few days ago and has again assumed active charge of affairs at the Cactus mine.

THE STAR DISTRICT OF UTAH

General Manager Rees of the Grand Dominion Company Says St. Mary Bids Fair to Become Large Mine---Red Warrior Also Looks Good.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 9.—D. C. Rees, president and manager of the Grand Dominion Copper company in the Star district in Beaver county, Utah, arrived in Salt Lake from his mine on Wednesday night.

"Things look fine down there," he said. "Our mine has sixteen tons of high grade silver and copper ore on the surface ready to ship. We have eighty acres located, and a tunnel in 275 feet, the breast of which is 250 feet below the surface, in sixty-five feet more we expect to cut the vein, a true fissure forty feet wide on the surface, running between 3 and 4 per cent in copper. G. R. Hayre has a contract now to sink fifty feet on a winze on a blind lead we have cut. The St. Mary, 240 feet from our tunnel, has a shaft down eighty-five feet, and they expect to hit ore in thirty-five more feet. They also have a 375-foot tunnel undercutting the old workings. There is no water in the district so far, so mining is cheap. The St. Mary bids fair to become a large mine. They have shipped a great deal of ore from the upper workings. It is being developed by Duluth people, in connection with and under the management of Patrick Ryan, one of the oldest and most prominent mining men in Salt Lake City. Mr. Ryan has been connected with this property for going upon thirty years and was formerly one of the owners of the famous Horn Silver mine in the Frisco district. There is no one better posted on mining conditions in the Star district than Mr. Ryan. The St. Mary company evidently is well financed, as the work is being rushed both in the tunnel and the shaft.

"The Red Warrior is one of the best mines down there. They are working thirty-five men in two shifts, and have a 26-foot body of good ore that nets $22 to the ton. They keep six teams hauling to Milford, and when I left there were three cars loaded on the rails.

"The Moscow has three teams pulling high grade ore to the railroad. They have hit it good on the 450-foot level, and are working fifteen men. Their ore is a silver-lead carbonate.

"The Mowitza has a 350-foot shaft down and is working nine men in two shifts. They have three inches of a high grade silver carbonate. On the Wild Bill there is a good steam boiler and air compressor going into place. All told, this is one of the best districts in Utah."

Mr. Rees brought some very fine specimens with him, some of them running as high as $500 in silver, besides the copper and lead.

BUSY YEAR FOR HOMESTAKE

Mined 1,505,302 Tons of Ore and Dividends Were $1,365,000---Million-Dollar Power Plant to be Built at the Spearfish.

Lead, S. D., Oct. 9.—The Homestake Mining company has just made public its annual report for the fiscal year ending June 1, 1909. The company is undertaking one of its biggest projects, a $1,000,000 water power plant on the Spearfish, twelve miles from town. During the fiscal year last past it expended nearly $250,000 in new work. The profit was $1.06 a ton of ore handled. The company mined and treated during the year 1,505,302 tons, which were handled at a cost of $2.743 a ton, including $.4105 a ton for milling, $.23 for retreatment, $1.791 for mining, $.1375 for general expenses, $.0175 for assay office and also new expenditures for power plant, slime plant construction and property purchases. Without this latter item the actual profit a ton would be about $1.20.

The total milling costs for running the six crushing mills and other treatment plants was $618,319.23, while the cost of mining, which includes surveying, was $2,698,613.76, and for assaying, $26,232.56.

On the hydro-electric power plant being erected on Spearfish creek, work on which was commenced last year, the company expended $82,121.26, while it put $70,847.46 into the slime plant, $60,602.15 into timber land and $7,446.97 into property purchases.

Under the head of milling costs, regrinding—a comparatively recent improvement—cost the company $22,042.83; water, $86,151.54—which latter figure will be reduced when the new power plant is in operation—bullion freight, $10,235.98.

Under the head of general expenses it is found that benefices drew $3,000; legal services, $6,906.37; salaries, $24,166.64; office, $12,263.99; taxes, $51,771.76; stable, $21,955.63, and general, $51,729.46.

Mine work, the principal expenditure, cost $2,387,723.07.

The total receipts for the year were $6,309,572.35, of which bullion was the largest factor, bringing in $5,725,046.67. The foundry swelled the total by $98,352.48, as the Homestake foundry does considerable outside job work.

Coal cost the company nearly $200,000; machinery nearly $400,000, and labor $2,140,000. The total disbursements for the year were $5,632,182.87. To operate the slime plant at Deadwood cost $145,000.

The principal expenses of the actual mining were: Labor, over $1,750,000; powder, about $200,000; timber, about $117,000; machinery nearly $200,000, and candles, $40,000, making, with the additional mining costs, a total for this department of $2,287,732.06.

The operation of cyanide plant No. 1 cost $142,881.91 and cyanide plant No. 2, $58,070.54, while the company put $6,500 into dead work during the year.

Dividends paid aggregated $1,365,000.

In the report President James B. Haggin of New York and Supt. Thomas J. Grier of this city both express themselves as much gratified by the showing during the fiscal year, and assure stockholders of the continuance of the monthly dividend of 50 cents, notwithstanding the $1,000,000 outlay for the power plant.

WORLD'S RICHEST LEAD-SILVER DEPOSITS, NORTH SIDE, COEUR D'ALENE DISTRICT, IDAHO

MURRAY, A CITY OF 600 POPULATION, ITS BANKING AND TRADING CENTER---YE OLD TIME BOOM DAYS---IDAHO NORTHERN RAILROAD BRINGS PROSPERITY---A STRENUOUS WEEK OF MOUNTAIN CLIMBING, INVESTIGATING MINING PROPERTIES---DULUTH MEN HAVE BIG HOLDINGS.

MURRAY AND ITS EVOLUTION

By J. A. MONGER.

THIS great mining district of which Murray is the trading center, is situated on the Idaho Northern Railroad on the North Fork of the Coeur d' Alene river, forty-five miles by rail from Wallace, the county seat, and 128 miles from Spokane, in the very heart of the richest Lead-Silver belt in the world, which is now producing 40 per cent of the entire lead output of the United States. A district that has been covered up from the outside world, owing to needed capital to operate mines, railroads, telephone and telegraph lines. It was left to the genius of E. P. Spalding and associates of Spokane, the builders of the Idaho Northern Railroad, to perceive that here were vast deposits of rich lead-silver ore that had been prospected, and that only needed the touch of millions of dollars to develop them into shipping mines. To reach this end, this railroad was capitalized for $2,500,000, and at the present time there are thirty-five miles in operation, running from Enaville at the junction of the O. R. & N., to Paragon. A road built on honor, laid with 75-pound steel rails, well ballasted, with a roadbed as hard as steel, adapted for heavy traffic, and with best equipment as to engines and steel ore cars for handling mineral, while thirty-five miles of new road has been surveyed and is building, one branch running up Eagle gulch and another up Paragon gulch, tapping the fabulous lead-silver ore deposits of the well developed mines and prospects of the great Northside district. This Idaho Northern Railroad will prove one of the heaviest freight tonnage railroads for its mileage, in the United States, only equalled by the Mesaba & Northern tapping the famous Mesaba iron range of Minnesota, as the output of concentrates and shipping ore will be something beyond computation at this writing. Along the whole line of seventy miles skirting the Coeur d' Alene mountains, are rich mines and prospects of well defined ore bodies that will yield untold wealth in freight tonnage.

Cities and towns, like individuals, have their hey day of prosperity. So it was with Murray. In 1884, it had a population of 6,000, and was the county seat of Shoshone. It was then in the zenith of the gold era, as this was the place of discovery of gold in the Coeur d' Alenes, and has since developed into the richest lead-silver belt in the world. It was made famous in the pioneer days by the discovery of the gold quartz mines, "Golden West," "Mother Lode," "Daddy" and "Yosemite," which had a pay roll of $24,000 and an output of gold of $48,000 a month down to 1897.

There are a large number of gold mines on the North Fork in operation at the present time, that still have rich ore deposits, which have yielded over $5,000,000, and are equipped with stamp mills, cyanide process and other machinery operated by steam and water power. At the same time, its placer mines have and are making many fortunes for their locators. The district being rich in lead-silver ores, they have eclipsed in importance all other mining. In our trip of investigation of the North Side Coeur d' Alene district, we devoted our investigations to the following mines: The Bear Top, The Monarch, The Paragon Consolidated, Goldback and prospects, Granite and Alice, Bear Paw Groupe, Cedar Creek, Free Coinage Group, Stonewall Group, Eldorado, Sheridan Group, Idaho Northern, Electric Group, Great Western, Idaho, Jack Waite, Phedora, Independence, Sampson, Mountain Queen, The Dewey Group, Clear Grit and many others. In most of these we found the development work in tunnels and cross-cuts far advanced, exposing rich ore bodies of lead-silver ranging in values of from 15 to 86 per cent lead, and 7 to 15 oz. of silver per ton. Properties which, if properly financed, will bring to the investors, rich dividends and in many cases make millionaires. Among the approved properties that are on the shipping list, we made the following notations:

COEUR D'ALENE NORTH FORK MINING & SMELTING COMPANY.

The properties of the Coeur d' Alene North Fork Mining & Smelting company are located five miles from Murray and comprise the Monarch and Lucky Joe, covering thirty-three patented claims situated on the North and South side of Pritchard Creek. The Monarch has been worked as a prospect for the past seven years, but owing to the opening up of rich lead-silver ore bodies, it is now on the shipping list. The development work consists of a discovery shaft sixty feet deep, a tunnel 250 feet, tapping the vein at 150 feet depth, a cross-cut tunnel 450 feet in length, tapping the same ledge at 325 feet vertical depth, a double compartment shaft 250 feet deep below this tunnel, a drift of 500 feet on vein which is 150 feet below the collar of the shaft, also, a drift 600 feet at the bottom of the shaft opening up rich ore bodies on No. 1 tunnel, exposing good carbonate ore; No. 2 tunnel on ore shoot of 125 feet in length and three to twenty feet wide and on the 150-foot level in the shaft, the ore body is 200 feet long and three to twenty-two feet wide; on the 250-foot level from the collar of the shaft the ore body is 280 feet long and 3 to 24 feet wide. This ore concentrates from 48 to 68 per cent lead and 7 ounces of silver to the ton. The lower tunnel runs due north 3,266 feet, 7 feet wide and 9 feet high, drifting east from this tunnel about 600 feet to where it starts to raise to the lowest level above, the vertical distance of the raise being 64 feet where a rich ore body 7 feet wide was struck, at a distance of 395 feet, running 65 per cent lead and 7 to 10 ounces of silver. Drifts are being made to determine the full extent of the ore body. There is also the Barton ledge, part of the property west of the present crosscut tunnel, from which several carloads of rich ore have been shipped to the smelters. On the north side of the gulch is the Lucky Joe property containing 13 claims on which a tunnel has been run 400 feet, opening up good smelting ore. A crosscut tunnel of 2,000 feet will be cut to reach the outer ore bodies which will make Lucky Joe a permanent shipper.

The equipment of the properties is equal to any mining camp in the Coeur d'Alene district and consists of a mill of 75-ton capacity that is being enlarged to 200 tons, 12-drill compressors, blacksmith shop for repairs and tool sharpening, power plant having 425-horse power developed from Barton and Pritchard creeks, mine offices and boarding houses. In point of transportation facilities, these mines have the best, as the Idaho Northern track runs alongside of the mill, giving it best of facilities for handling the ores and concentrates.

The Coeur d'Alene North Fork Mining & Smelting Company, Wallace, Idaho, is capitalized for $1,500,000 and has the following officers: E. P. Spalding, president; E. L. Proebsting, vice president; C. W. Gibbs, secretary and treasurer.

THE PARAGON CONSOLIDATED.

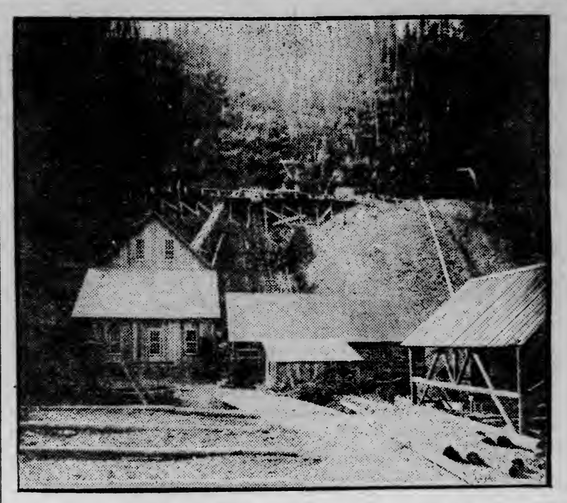

This property consists of 42 claims: Paragon 10, Chicago-London 11, and the Jewel Group 18, all patented except the Jewel. They are located in the Paragon gulch on the Idaho Northern railroad. There has been expended in the development of the lead-silver veins, mine buildings, tunnels and shafts $200,000 which all but puts it on the shipping list, now that the railroad has been built to its mill site and the contract let for the concentrator. The development work has uncovered very rich and large bodies of free ore, that will give it a high standing as a lead producer carrying rich zinc and silver values. The development work on the Paragon is a discovery shaft of 42 feet with a drift of 90 feet to the east and 60 feet to the west, crosscutting the vein at 30 feet, then dropping down 160 feet with a crosscut tunnel of 650 feet and drifting on the ledge 400 feet, at its end they sunk a 60-foot shaft and opposite put in a raise of 334 feet, all of the work being on the center of the property. A shaft was sunk 300 feet at a distance of 750 feet farther west and from the bottom crosscut 500 feet to the northeast, where the lead was struck and a drift of 1,000 feet was made from which point a shaft was sunk 70 feet on an incline, striking an 18-inch vein of shipping ore and exposing a vein of 6 feet of high grade milling ore.

On the Chicago-London property a 14-foot shaft was sunk on the ledge. Six tunnels were run to crosscut the ledge at varying distances down to 1,200 below the surface, cutting the ledge at from 40 to 200 feet. At 800 feet below the surface a 20-inch vein of solid spalrite zinc ore running 58 2-3 per cent, with a total width of 7 feet, was struck. At 1,200 feet below the surface the vein increased in width and richness, running 3 to 1. The equipment of these properties consists of two No. 6 Cameron sinking pumps, 20-horse power engine and hoist, 50-horse power boiler and cage, three Ingersoll machine drills, 4 water line machine drills, a 4-inch iron pipe one mile in length for transmitting power, a 15-drill compressor, flumes for conveying water 3,200 feet, size 3 feet by 2 feet deep giving a head of 205 feet into a 24-inch pen-stock; fully equipped sawmill plant, capacity 10,000 feet per day, for manufacturing lumber for building and mining purposes, where a stock of 150,000 feet is now carried. There is an inexhaustible water power on the properties and enough standing timber for all time. This property will soon be placed on the shipping list, just as soon as the machinery now on the ground can be put into place. The Paragon Mining Company was incorporated in 1898 under the state laws of Minnesota for $300,000 and reincorporated in 1908 for $1,500,000. The officers of the company are: Dr. G. P. Sandberg, president; Dr. George S. Monson, vice president; F. D. Hammer, secretary and treasurer, all of St. Paul, Minnesota, with L. W. Stedman, manager.

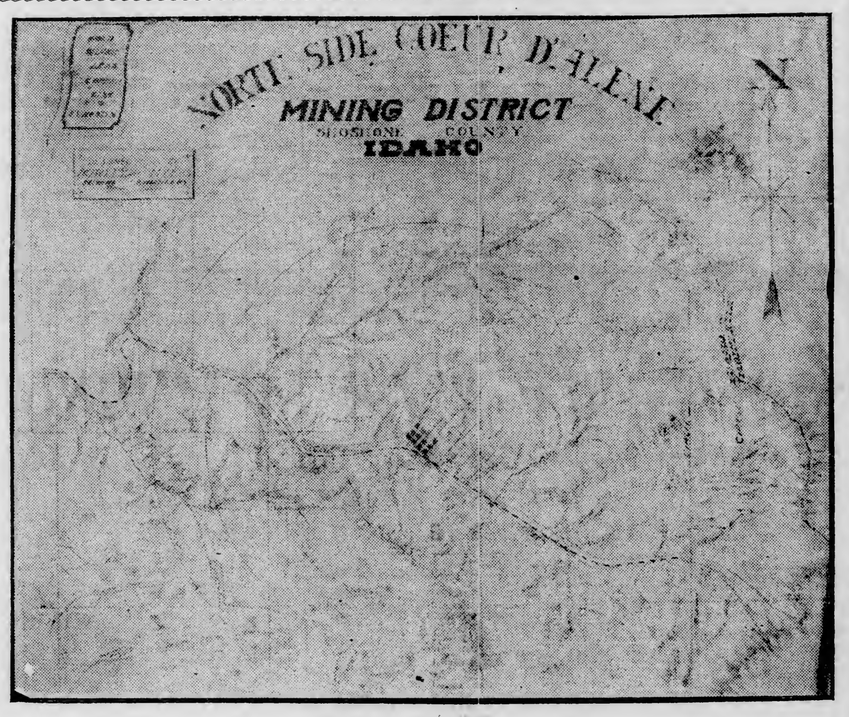

This article would not be complete without giving proper mention to the master mind who discovered the properties and who has brought them up to their present high standing. Mr. Stedman came here in the fall of 1897 on a pack horse, after a tour of prospecting in British Columbia and Montana, finally locating the Chicago-London, owing to his being attracted by its ore copping and mineral formation. He subsequently took over the Paragon and Jewel group. He is a native of Dixon, Illinois, was born there August 27th, 1861, and began his mining career at the age of 18 and was one of the pioneer prospectors of the Holy Cross, Leadville Colorado district in 1878. He has been honored by the government by his appointment as postmaster of Paragon, a town which he has carved out of the wilderness. Mr. Stedman has been ably assisted by his charming wife, a St. Paul girl, who accompanied him on his British Columbia and Montana prospecting tour, riding a pack horse and sharing the vicissitudes and the charms of the wild. It is needless to say they have won the favor of fortune and are now enjoying the fruits of their labor in their well appointed home at Paragon, where we were entertained in a style equal to the princes of the realm, and were permitted to view some of the finest specimens of Cinnamon and black bear and Cougar rugs that adorn the floors of any American home. We were much entertained by photographic views taken by Mrs. Stedman, consisting of waterfalls and nooks amid the mountain wilds of Idaho. Our only regret on leaving was the brevity of our sojourn.

THE JACK WAITE FABULOUS ORE STRIKE.

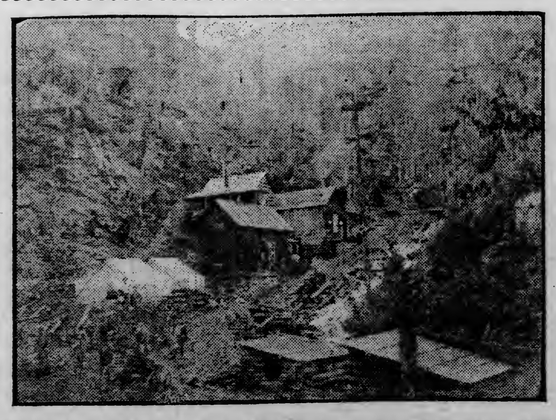

One of the most wonderful surface showings ever made is that on the Jack Waite group, consisting of four claims located on Lost Jack gulch, ten miles from Eagle, fourteen from Murray on the Eagle creek branch (now building) of the Idaho Northern railroad. The prospect was located in 1884, but only enough tunnel work was done to hold the claims, until the present year, when active development was inaugurated and the claims patented. In August P. L. Spaulding, Superintendent of the Monarch; Oscar Sedman, J. F. Murphy, Superintendent of Goldback of Murray; Welch & Harrington, Butte brokers, took a bond on the Jack Waite group, and began sluicing off the surface. In this preliminary work a vein was exposed for a distance of 1,200 feet, 18 inches to 5 feet in width, of rich carbonates and galena which runs 70 per cent lead and 7 ounces of silver. The ledge was only covered by one to ten feet of gravel. This is truly a most wonderful find and one that exceeds in richness and extent any discovery ever made in the Coeur d'Alene or any other lead-silver body, in the mining history of America. The original work done on the properties consists of No. 1 tunnel of 440 feet, run through high grade galena ore; No. 2 tunnel 160 feet cut similar to No. 1, while No. 3 has been begun to cut the ore body at greater depth. It will not be long before the Jack Waite will be ready to go on the shipping list; all that is necessary is the completion of the Idaho Northern railroad in order to give its ores transportation to the smelters. This great strike will bring the North Side of the Coeur d'Alene into great public favor as being the richest in lead-silver deposits of any district in the United States. If the stock of the Jack Waite is put upon the market, we predict it will be snapped up and make its purchasers big money as to stock and dividends.

SUMMIT MINING COMPANY.

The property of this company is what is known as the "Goldback," consisting of 18 patented claims located one-half mile east of Murray in the Summit mining district on Pritchard creek. The properties were worked for gold from 1884 to 1899 and yielded from the Mother and Daddy lodes $5,000,000, and Yosemite lode $1,000,000. Traversing through the claims there is a vein known as the "Goldback" that can be traced for 4,500 feet. This vein has been opened up at ten different points, which shows a vein averaging 20 feet in width. Owing to the low grade of the ore and heretofore, lack of railroad transportation, very little development work has been done in recent years. In 1909 the Goldback properties were bonded to Robert B. Whiteside of Duluth, Minnesota, who is now actively engaged in sinking a three-compartment shaft to a drift of 700 feet to a drift on vein to main body. The ore bodies show values of 12 per cent copper, $6 to $10 per ton gold and 8 ounces of silver to the ton. The formation is a slate and quartzite and as copper now predominates, it will no doubt develop into copper, as this is the history of all copper districts. The property is well timbered, has plenty of water for power purposes and being only 200 feet from the Idaho Northern railroad, the ore will be loaded on the cars from shoots. Goldback has always been considered one of the most promising in the famous Coeur d'Alene district, by experts who have examined its formation and ore bodies, notably,—Geologist Flint. Mining men familiar with this district are watching the development work on the Goldback with more than ordinary interest. The property is being equipped with the latest improved mining machinery, air compressors, hoists and pumps, all operated by water and steam power. John F. Murphy, the superintendent of the Summit Mining Company's properties, was the original owner of four of the group of 18 claims and it is on these four that the development work is being carried on. Mr. Murphy has lived in Murray 10 years and Shoshone County 20 years, devoting all of his time to mining. He has filled the position of superintendent of the Last Chance mine of Wardner and shipping boss of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan. He is one of the best rated mining men in the Coeur d'Alene district and what is more, is a popular citizen, serving as one of the County commissioners.

SOME OF THE LEADERS OF MURRAY.

In commercial banking and railroad building circles every city and town is based upon its civic organizations and from this estimate, Murray, the capital city of the North Side of the Coeur d'Alene fabulous wealth in lead-silver mines, is one of the foremost in the State of Idaho. When there was any question of what publicity meant to the outside world, the Editor of the Coeur d'Alene Sun, J. T. Ellarson, came to the fore. He being the one man of all others to harmonize, create unity and publicity activity in his chosen city. June 17, 1909, the dawn of the railroad era, having built its line into the city, building a splendid depot and terminals, the business men of this husky candidate for metropolitan development, decided to organize the Coeur d'Alene North Side Commercial club and the one man to fill the position as president was J. T. Ellarson, publisher of the Sun, a paper of great influence and wide circulation. This accomplished, Dr. G. S. Lesher was elected vice president, C. R. Burley secretary and C. B. Craven, treasurer, with the following board of directors: Charles Mclroy, L. W. Stedman, C. C. Landes, J. C. Feehan, M. S. Simmons, J. W. McCrane, R. E. Dunlap, E. M. Suiter. This club is accomplishing much good as all the leading interests defer to its president.

THE STATE BANK OF MURRAY.

This solid banking house was incorporated in 1906 with a capital of $10,000 and a surplus of $3,000. For its president, M. S. Simmons, J. C. Feehan, vice president, and A. B. Craven, cashier. This Murray bank makes this the financial center as to banking, of the North Side Coeur d'Alene range.

E. W. Burton, general merchant, came here 25 years ago and has been the watch dog of the development of what is now the great Coeur d'Alene lead-silver district of Northern Idaho.

Charles Swaine of the firm of Swaine & Helm, pioneer merchants, located here in 1887 and during all of these years, has been not only a pioneer but a believer in the ultimate development of Murray, and for this reason has much property in this city and firmly believes that Murray has a future, and although closing out his business to consolidate at De Lamar, nevertheless his big interests will remain in Murray, and for this reason he wishes to see it prosper and develop along the line he has pursued, as an active member of the community.

The Feehan-Simmons Company is a live trading center tributary to this North Side lead-silver district. It is an up-to-date mercantile house, with our old Anamosa, Iowa, friend, J. C. Feehan, one of the company, and M. S. Simmons, an honored and respected citizen of Atlanta, Georgia, compose this firm. They have a trade that extends to all of the mines and lumber camps for a distance of 15 miles.

Murray is fortunate in having the Louisville hotel, a twenty-four-room house, with hot water and baths, and which serves a splendid bill of fare with the best of table service. Every train is met by the clerk, but when one reaches the Louisville and meets the genial proprietor, Miss A. Squance, he at once feels that he is in God's country.

Among the many prominent citizens we met was Charles Elroy, a director of the Bank of Murray and the North Side Coeur d'Alene Commercial club, and who has many interests in Murray, and what is more, is very loyal to his adopted city and for everything that pertains to its growth and development.

Among the other public spirited citizens are T. E. Edwards, J. T. Pollock and the firm of Napei & Semenza, who are largely interested in the Coeur d'Alene mining districts, having prospects in the process of development.

FIRST BLOOD FOR PIRATES

Pittsburg Takes the Opening Game of Series With Detroit.

Gibson's Two-Bagger Brought in the Winning Runs.

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—The Pittsburg champions of the National league defeated Detroit, the American league winners, in the opening game of the world's championship series here on Forbes field, yesterday, by a score of 4 to 1. Detroit's poor fielding, coupled with timely hitting by Wagner, Gibson and Clarke, accounted for Pittsburg's victory. Detroit struck fear into the hearts of the Pittsburg crowd by scoring one run in the opening inning, when Adams was a trifle unsteady, but the young Pittsburg twirler held the hard-hitting American leaguers safely throughout the remainder of the battle.

Tommy Leach was the star in the fielding for the Pirates, as his sensational catch of Cobb's terrific drive to deep center with two men on bases in the seventh inning, saved a possible tying of the score. Leach also contributed another spectacular bit of work when he caught Tom Jones' near Texas leaguer at the end of the sixth inning.

Pittsburg was helpless before Mullin in the first three innings, and the first hit for the winners was a home run driven into the right field bleachers by Manager Clarke after two men were out in the fourth. Detroit's ragged defense in the fifth inning, coupled with Gibson's two-bagger, broke the tie and gave Pittsburg two runs. Score:

CUBS WIN FROM THE WHITE SOX

National League Team Takes First for Chicago Championship.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Opportune hitting coupled with errors and loose playing by the Chicago American league team gave the National league players the first game of the series for the city championship here yesterday by the score of 4 to 0. Both pitchers worked in good form, but Overall had a better chance than his opponent, as a result of the team work behind him. A small fire which started in one of the upper boxes brought the spectators to their feet, but no damage was done, the blaze being quickly extinguished.

The total paid attendance at the game was 16,782. The total receipts were $11,685.75. Of this amount $6,309.22 will go to the players to be divided upon the basis of 60 per cent to the winner and 40 per cent to the loser of the series. The National and American league clubs received from yesterday's game $2,102.08 each and the National commission $1,168.37. Score:

NO MATCH FOR PAPKE

New York Fighter Is Badly Beaten in Fight With "Thunderbolt."

Poor Old Tom McCune Is Knocked Out By Billy Kerger.

Duquesne Gardens, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 9.—Billy Papke, the "Illinois Thunderbolt," easily defeated Willie Lewis, the New York fighter last night according to the public verdict, before the National Sporting club. Both men were standing at the end of the sixth round but Lewis was almost out. Five thousand persons witnessed the go.

As the gong sounded for the opening round Lewis rushed in with a rapid round of rights and lefts to Papke's body, none of the blows, however, injuring Papke.

After careful sparring, Papke led with a vicious right jolt to Lewis' stomach. As the men came up for the second round, Papke turned loose a right swing to the jaw. Lewis fell to the floor and took the count of nine.

In the third round, Lewis took blows on the jaw which forced him twice to take his full allowance of time. Papke came out from the round without a mark while Lewis had a badly split lip and his right eye was closed.

With Papke practically holding his man on his feet, the fourth round ended amid the hoots of the crowd, who were of the opinion that Papke could have put his man away, but was stalling to allow the bout to go another round.

Lewis in the fifth round seemed greatly rested, sprung a series of left and right swings that plainly staggered the Illinois wonder. Papke caught himself, and before the fifth period had ended, Lewis was hanging on and waiting for the welcome bell.

In the sixth and last round, Papke easily led the New York lad. Lewis, with a broken nose, which had been half torn off by Papke's ripping uppercuts in the in-fighting, was helpless in the hands of the Kewaunee boxer. By hanging on and refusing to break, Lewis finally stayed until the gong saved him.

The fight was fast from beginning to end, the men coming up strong and willing, each eager to receive all that was handed out.

In the preliminaries, Billy Kerger of Pittsburg knocked out Tom McCune of Detroit in the fourth round.

HURST WAS A FAST RUNNER

American League Ex-Umpire Was a Star Back in the '80s.

The exit of Tim Hurst as an umpire from the American league, for a time at least, brings to mind that the pugilistically inclined arbiter is really one of the oldest men in point of continuous service who has been connected with either of the major leagues. Tim started as a ball player at least a quarter of a century ago, perhaps longer. He was not a particularly brilliant star at the ball tossing act, but he could run. In fact, he was a sprinter of no mean ability, being a professional runner, and therein lay his worth to the club of which he was a member, comments the Detroit News.

Tim and Jack Stivetts, the once famous twirler of the Boston National team, were boys together at Ashland, Schuylkill county, Pa. They went to school together when they were not playing "hookey." History states that they, as youths, picked slate together in the coal breakers.

Well, early in the '80s the baseball fever swept throughout the anthracite coal fields as it never did before or since. The famous Tri-county league was formed, with Shamokin, Mount Carmel, Ashland, Hazelton, Mahoney City and Minersville included in the circuit. The national sport was so popular that when there was to be a game the miners in the vicinity would knock off at noon in order to be early arrivals at the scene of the diamond strife when the time was called for the fray to commence.

Our friend Tim was utilized in the field, where his sprinting abilities were useful in chasing down flies, while his team, Ashland, was on the defense. But it was while he and his fellow ballists were at the bat that Tim's nimbleness of foot stood his club in good stead. In those days it was permissible for a batter to have a substitute runner or even cover the distance from the plate to first base. The captain of the team had the right to select the substitute runner at all times without even getting the approval of the captain of the opposing club. Thus Tim was constantly doing the dashing along the lines, and it is recorded in many of the old score books which are held as treasures in the coal region that the man who has since earned a wide reputation as an umpire pilfered bases with a daring that would make the present day fan sit up and take notice.

It was no uncommon thing for him to immediately run for another batter as soon as he had completed the circuit of the bases for some other chap for whom he had been successful in dashing down to first in safety on a hit that would have been a sure out for a runner of ordinary speed. Tim was such a valuable asset to the Ashland club that his fame spread, and he drifted into the National league, and has stayed there intermittently since.

CROSBY WINS.

Will Meet Dr. M. B. Cullum for Fall Championship.

J. Q. A. Crosby won the fall championship of the golf club yesterday by defeating A. M. Miller, Jr., by 4 up and 3 to play. Yesterday's victory gives Mr. Crosby the privilege of meeting Dr. Marcus B. Cullum for the championship of the club. The women will play this afternoon for the Mrs. Stephen H. Jones cup.

GIANTS WIN FROM BOSTON PLAYERS

First of Post-Season Games Goes to New York, 4 to 2.

New York, Oct. 9.—The New York Nationals, though out-batted, won the first game of their post-season series with the Boston Americans yesterday by a score of 4 to 2. Wood out-pitched Mathewson except in the matter of strike-outs, but his own error and misplays by Carrigan and Lord in the fourth inning enabled New York to win the game.

Speaker was the star of the contest, making the record hit of the year to right field, and halting a runner at the plate by a magnificent throw.

The paid attendance was 4,573 and the receipts $2,956.25. Of this the National commission gets $295.62, the players $1,596.35, and the clubs $1,1 064.26. Score:

GAMES IN DULUTH AND SUPERIOR

Amateur Football Team Playing in Three Important Contests.

Sunday afternoon the Broadway football team of Superior will line up against the Adams Alumni of Duluth at Athletic park.

"Tony" Lavell, formerly manager of the Spalding team, has charge of the Broadways, and while he says they are not as heavy as some of the other teams at the Head of the Lakes, he expects they will hold their own with the other local teams.

They are being coached by Bradley, a Superior man who formerly attended the University of Wisconsin and got his football knowledge under Phil King.

The Adams team is known to be strong this year, and a hot game is anticipated.

The fast Spalding team will meet the Blaine Alumni team at the Superior park Sunday afternoon. The Superior team defeated the regular Blaine team in a game played two weeks ago, and the Spaldings will have their hands full to get away with the game. The Spaldings are composed of old high school and college players. This makes their third year playing together, and they are in fair shape, as practice has been going on regularly for some time.

The Big Duluths and the Irving Tigers also have a game scheduled for Sunday. Both these teams are fast and a good contest should result.

BERINI AND OLSEN WIN

Capture First Place in the Two-Man Bowling Match.

The Olsen-Berini team won first place in the two-man bowling tournament that was concluded last evening. TO HAVE A FAST HOCKEY TEAM

Hancock, Mich., Will Again Be Represented By a Fast Seven.

Hancock, Mich., Oct. 9.— Hancock, winner of the hockey championship of the Copper country for many years, will again be represented on the ice during the coming winter. A supporter of the local team who knows says that Hancock will have a strong team, the line-up being about the same as that of last year. A meeting will likely be held soon when the local association will be reorganized and plans made for the winter. It is not known what teams will comprise the league and local people are waiting for the annual league meeting. It is somewhat early to talk hockey, but Hancock is ready for the season to open. Rompf, a star player on last year's team has left the city and may not be here to play this winter. His place will be filled by Waara.

The following line-up has been given out for the Hancock team for this winter:

Goal, Monette.
Point, Joe Linder (captain.)
Cover point, Rompf or Waara.
Center, Stroud.
Rover, Bogan.

A likelier seven could not be secured in the Copper country and Hancock people need not worry about their chances of again winning the championship of the league. It has been said that some of the teams of the league will be strengthened this year, but the above seven will be able to take care of itself against any team in the Copper country.

SCOTCH GIRL IN THE FINALS

National Golf Championship Cup May Be Taken Abroad.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—Miss Dorothy Campbell of North Berwick, Scotland, met Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Philadelphia today in the final round for the women's national golf championship over the course of the Merion cricket club at Haverford. Miss Campbell is the champion of Great Britain, while Mrs. Barlow has held the championship of the Philadelphia district. Three years ago at Boston she reached the semi- final round in the national event. Should Miss Campbell win today she will be the first foreigner to annex the United States title.

NORTHWESTERN MEETS PURDUE

Both Coaches, Speik and Horr, Are Confident of Victory.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—Weather conditions were ideal for the battle today between Purdue and Northwestern. Coaches Speik and Horr are both looking for victory for their teams. Purdue's lineup was much different from that of the Chicago game last Saturday. The seat sales indicated a big crowd. Halden of Michigan was selected as referee; Capt. King, U. S. A., as umpire, and Fishleigh of Michigan as head linesman. The lineup:

Purdue.	Position.	Northwestern.
Elsenrath	c.	Heren, Piper
Eggeman (capt.)	l.t.	August (capt.)

AUTO RACES AT PHILADELPHIA

Dare-Devil Drivers Contesting for Prize of $5,000 in Gold.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 9.—Everything is in readiness for the 200-mile stock chassis road race through Fairmount park today, when twenty of the fastest of the automobiles of this class in the country will contest for a prize of $5,000 in gold, offered by the Quaker City Motor club and other trophies. The course, a little more than eight miles through the West park has been placed in nearly perfect condition.

It has been decided to start the race at 12 o'clock noon, when the first two cars will be given the signal. The other cars will be sent off two at a time at intervals of thirty seconds. The drivers in practice have given indications that wonderful time may be expected, notwithstanding the difficulty of the course, including, as it does, two treacherous turns. In the practice spins nearly every entrant has made better time than the fastest in last year's race over the same course, when Ralph Mulford, in a Losier, did a lap in 8 minutes, 32 seconds. Chevrolet is reported to have covered a lap today in 7:34.

Roberts, Dingley, Burman, Chevrolet, Haupt and Strang are among the well-known drivers who will compete.

GOING ABROAD WITH MR. BRITT

Ketchel Will Not Study the Latest Parisian Styles, However.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Win, lose or draw in his fight with Jack Johnson on Oct. 12 for the heavyweight championship of the world, Stanley Ketchel and his manager, Willus Britt, will cross the pond to invade the foreign countries, as Willus Britt says, "To clean up all the foreign champions." Britt declares he has an offer from McIntosh to fight Tommy Burns in Australia, which is as good as he could expect on this side of the water and that with the other matches in sight will net them a nice piece of change, besides giving them a chance to see the country.

Ketchel certainly does not look for much praise from the Western fight fans. This was apparent by the talk that he looked for Johnson to be a 5-to-2 favorite over him. Local fans are hailing Ketchel as a good fighter, but there are few who believe that he is equal to the task of beating Johnson. If Ketchel goes in after Johnson, swinging right and left, the big black will step aside and hook over jabs, jolts and uppercuts that will make Stanley retreat.

STARS RETIRING FROM THE GAME

The Old Timers Are Giving Way to Younger Talent.

Many of the old-time stars, who made baseball history in days gone by, are retiring from the game and seeking other walks of life. There are a number of such retirements each year, but this season has been unusually prolific. First there was Big Bill Dineen, who voluntarily asked for his release from St. Louis and is now an umpire on Ban Johnson's staff. Then Fred Tenney, veteran first baseman of the New York National club and former manager of the Boston Nationals, announced that he had played his last game in the major leagues. He boarded a train for his home at Winthrop Highlands, near Boston. He has been injured several times this year and is convinced that he is through. He will try to obtain a position as a scout for a major league team next season. Tenney entered professional baseball with the old Boston team under Frank Selee in 1893, coming from Brown university. He remained with Boston until 1907, when he was traded to New York. Merkle will become the regular first baseman of the New York team.

Then there is Jake Beckley. When the veteran first baseman took off his uniform at the close of the American association season the chances were that it marked his disappearance from the diamond as an active player. George Tebeau told "Jake" that he believed Jake is "all in" at Kansas City, for which team the veteran has been playing first base for the past three years. Tebeau accordingly desired to send Beckley to the Topeka, Kan., team of the Western league, in which Tebeau has an interest, but Beckley demurred and told Tebeau he would give up baseball for good at the end of the season. The veteran has fielded well and batted over .280 for the Kansas City team, but on the bases he was very slow, and speed is what is counting in the American association just now. Beckley owns a house in Kansas City, has made some money on an investment in the Hannibal, Mo., club, and says he is content to give up professional ball. Before he came to the American association Beckley had seen service with teams in Cincinnati, St. Louis and Pittsburg. A year ago a scout for the Pittsburg team picked him out as the best first baseman in the American association, but, of course, there was no thought of drafting him for the Pirates.

The past week marked the retirement from baseball for good of Eugene Demontreville, infielder of the Chicago National league team in the 90's and for three years a member of the Toledo club. Demontreville played his last game with the New Orleans team, of the Southern league, from which organization he has just purchased his release to go into business. "Demont," as he came to be known in baseball, has accepted the secretaryship of a fair association in Birmingham, Ala., in which city he played ball after leaving Toledo, and where he was popular. Demont fielded well in his last season on the diamond, but his batting was only fair.

Of course Catcher Kling, last year of the Chicago Cubs, says that he is done with league baseball for good. His story is almost as improbable as that sent out from Cincinnati, saying that both Fred Clark and "Hans" Wagner, are to retire at the end of this season.

THE ODDS ARE ON JOHNSON

Money Being Wagered That Stanley Will Stay Twelve Rounds.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 9.—Next week, if Jack Johnson abides by his word, he will extend himself more than he has been doing of late by sparring with big Bob Armstrong. It is rather early yet for any betting on the Ketchel-Johnson fight, and, as may be expected, but little money is changing hands. The odds still remain 10 to 4 that Johnson will win, and even money is being wagered now and then that Ketchel will stay twelve rounds with the champion.

It is announced that the champion weighs close around the 200-pound mark. It was stated that Johnson weighed 199½ pounds, but having slackened up a bit, Jack has gained a few pounds. Between play-acting and training for his fight, Middleweight Champion Stanley Ketchel is a very busy man. It is said, indeed, that Ketchel never before put in such strenuous work. Johnson is also working hard.

TOM McCUNE IS PUT AWAY

Old Tom McCune, well known to many followers of pugilism in this city, was rocked to the land of slumber at Pittsburg last night by one Billy Kerger of Pittsburg. Tom and the Pittsburger went on in one of the preliminaries of the Papke-Lewis fight.

Old Tom has had hard sledding of late. He made some good fights in the Northwest, but around Detroit and Pittsburg has been meeting with reverses. One of McCune's last fights in this part of the country was his clash with Allard in the Copper country.

BASIS FOR COMPARISON

This Week's Games Will Show Strength of Football Teams.

Wisconsin-Lawrence Game Will Interest the Gopher Followers.

Games that will result in giving the public, both east and west, a comparitive line on the teams of the country, to a greater degree than it possessed at the present time, will be played today.

Minnesota plays Ames at Minneapolis and there is no worry entertained as to the outcome of the game. The University of Chicago plays Indiana, and as in the case of Minnesota, the size of the score is the only thing to speculate on. Minnesota hopes to run up a larger score on Ames than was scored on Iowa.

The University of Michigan will play Case at Ann Arbor. Case has little more than a preparatory school team, yet this same team always gives Michigan a good game and from the score that Michigan rolls up against the little team from Ohio some idea will be gained of the strength of the Wolverines.

The University of Wisconsin plays the Lawrence team at Madison. As Minnesota played this team two weeks ago at Minneapolis, some idea may be gained from the score of today of the relative strength of the two teams.

Minnesota, Chicago, Michigan and Wisconsin are the four big teams of the West. At the present time Minnesota is conceded an excellent chance of winning the Western collegiate championship. Chicago is believed to have a very good team, but so far, very little is known of the chances of Wisconsin and Michigan.

In the East, Yale will tackle the Springfield training school. The latter team is a very good team and always gives the sons of Old Eli a very stiff practice. The game should furnish some line on the progress being made at the New Haven school.

Harvard encounters Williams at Cambridge. Williams is one of the stronger smaller college teams of the East, and the battle between Harvard and Williams will give a line on the early season strength of last year's champions. Princeton meets Fordam and should have little trouble in winning. The game will show whether the glaring faults in the Princeton play so far this season, have been corrected.

The West Virginia university plays the University of Philadelphia. All these games will furnish some added information upon the strength of the eight big teams of the two sections of the country. In the East it is getting so that some of the smaller college teams have in the past few years beaten some of the larger college teams. But Yale, Harvard, Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania are still ranked as the Big Four.

Here in the West are the conference teams, which used to be known as the Big Nine. But the withdrawal of Michigan from Western athletics for a period of two years changed the name of the big nine.

At the present time the strongest teams are supposed to be Minnesota, Chicago, Michigan and Wisconsin. Minnesota, on its showing thus far, is believed to have the strongest team in the West. Chicago is ranked next to the Gophers on its early season showing. Then comes Michigan and Wisconsin. This ranking of the teams is merely "dope." After the games of today there will be a little more ground on which to judge of the abilities of the teams.

Deep did the Pirates sink the dirk into the quivering flesh of the Bengal. A whole bunch of these steel workers are saying that old familiar expression, "I told you so." The price of preferred steel stock is due to rise.

Now that George Mullin, considered by some to be the luckiest pitcher in baseball, has been led to the slaughter, red-headed Hughey will probably see if "Wild Bill" Donovan is the man he was at the close of last season.

This boy Adams has proved one of the sensations of the National the present season. Some believe him to be the best of Fred Clarke's stable. With interest unabated, we await the result of the second contest. Will Willis and Camnitz prove as effective against the Tigers as Adams?

But, honestly, on form the Pirates have the better of the Tigers. Not because they won yesterday, either. In a short series like the one the two teams are engaged in at the present time, luck plays a large element. It is a hazard to choose a winner. But the Pirates are the logical winners, on paper at least, for with the exception of Cobb and Crawford, there is not a position on the Tiger team that is not filled with a better man on the Pittsburg side.

But the series is not over—not by any means. In fact, it has just begun. Maybe the Tigers will come into their own today. These loyal followers of the fortunes of the younger league are hoping against hope that the Tigers will prove victorious. If the present series is copped by the Pirates, even the most rabid supporter of the American will have to admit, with as good grace as possible, that the National league is the faster organization.

Not since the Boston team walloped the Pirates has there been a great deal of question as to which was the faster league. Then the younger league had many of the great players that had been enticed away from the fold of the older organization. The case is different at the present time.

When the Comiskey Sox took a crimp in the hopes and aspirations of the chesty Cubs, many an American league supporter yelled with blue-faced enthusiasm that the younger league was the faster organization. Of course there was some excuse for this belief. But just the same, there are very few unbiased followers of baseball who will tell you that the Sox had the beter team.

So, then, the short series of games is not the infallible test. Chicago beat Detroit two years running. If the Pirates beat the Tigers in the present series there can be but little doubt that the National league has the fastest teams.

It would be a good thing for baseball if the Tigers did win. It would be a far greater benefit to the American league should the Tigers win. The American league has felt mighty blue over the defeat the Cubs administered to the Tigers. If the Buccaneers trounce the Tigers, all argument as to the relative abilities of the two leagues will be swept away.

In looking over the list of teams that have won the pennant in the National league, it is seen that there is one man who has won more pennants than Fred Clarke, the manager of the Pittsburgs. He was a grand old man, too, and you have all heard of him—Adrian C. Anson.

Clear back in 1880, Anson won the pennant in the National with the old Chicago White Stockings. He won again in 1881 and in 1882. Then Boston and Providence took a turn at winning the flag. Anson came strong in 1885 and 1886, winning the pennant in both of these years.

Fred Clarke contracted the pennant habit in 1901. The Pirates galloped away with the highly prized bunting that year, and for the two succeeding years. New York copped for the next two years, 1904-05, and then, of ccurse, you are all familiar with the three wins of the Cubs. This year's win of the Pirates places Clarke next in honor with Old Man Anson.

But the achievement of Clarke is, in many ways, more remarkable than the memorable feats of "Anse." Clarke has never finished out of the first division with his crew, and he has had the handling of the Buccaneers in the years when competition for baseball players has been of the fiercest.

F. G. Selee, the man who managed the old Bostons for years, has won three pennants in the old league, as has Frank Leroy Chance. Selee really built the Cubs, so he must be given great credit for his bright record in the National.

The other day, when Syracuse faced Yale, there was a Hinkey on the former team. Have you ever heard of the Hinkey brothers? They are bound up with the Yale tradition. Frank Hinkey was the greatest end that ever played football. Louis came after Frank, and played a great game, although not as great as Brother Frank. Now comes Ben Hinkey. But the latest Hinkey goes to Syracuse and plays against Yale. There must have been a funny feeling among the Yale grads to see a Hinkey struggling against the glory of Old Yale.

And now we can rest assured. "Off Side" has stated that the Minnesota team is a wonderful aggregation, a whirlwind—in fact, one of the greatest teams ever turned out at Minnesota.

Hugh Halbert, who writes entertainly and with wizard-like ability to forecast results, did not publish the information that is set forth here, but informed a friend. The friend brings the information from the lips of the oracle to Duluth.

Mr. Halbert writes for the St. Paul Dispatch. He has made it a practice in seasons past to forecast the result of the game. He has even forecasted the scores with remarkable success. Now there used to be a lot of betting bugs around the two cities; in fact, there are today. These guys used to wait until "Off Side" forecasted the result of the game on the morrow, and then they would plunge heavily on Mr. Halbert's sage advice.

So devilish did these campus bettors become, in fact, that "Off Side" was requested to stop forecasting scores. We have been informed that he has. He is still writing entertainingly of the football prospects of the university team, however.

And as "Off Side" has predicted that Minnesota is going to have one of the greatest teams in its history, we are relieved of further worry over the Chicago and Michigan games.

Thanks awfully, Mister Hugh.

All this talk about Ketchel being too small to fight Johnson is wearisome. When Bob Fitzsimmons struck Jim Corbett rudely, but with deadly effect in the solar plexus at Carson City, March 17, 1897, Fitzsimmons weighed only 156 pounds and Corbett weighed around 185 pounds.

When Tom Sharkey fought James J. Jeffries that memorable twenty-five-round fight at Coney Island in 1899, Sharkey weighed forty pounds less than Jeffries. Yet he gave the big man the most desperate battle of his career.

Charley Mitchell was pounds lighter than the mighty John L. Sullivan when he fought him in Madison Square Garden, their first meeting, and in France, when the little Englishman fought Sullivan a thirty-nine-round draw.

Of course Ketchel is smaller than the brunette in every way. But small men have fought big men before and got away with it. At that though there are few who give Ketchel a chance to whip big Jack.

James R. McAleer, the once great McAleer, the peer of all outfielders, the fleet-footed James, the sensation of the great American game for a decade, the man who made it possible for the American league to invade St. Louis, who has given that city many high class teams, severed his connection with the team the other day. He walked from the grounds, unnoticed, alone, without friends. His team has been a miserable failure this year. Yet for the past performances you would have fancied that some one would have grabbed his fin, and whispered "goodbye, old man, good luck next season." Nothing doing in this cheer stuff. Verily, Mr. McAleer must have pondered deeply and grievously on the subject of fleeting fame.

THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM HOPES TO PILE UP A BIG SCORE AGAINST THE LIGHT, BUT SPEEDY ELEVEN FROM IRONWOOD

THE HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WHICH IS LINED UP AGAINST IRONWOOD TODAY. THE PLAYERS WHOSE HEADS ALONE ARE SHOWN ARE SCHADAWALD, MERRITT AND NELSON, WITH WALDRON IN THE CENTER AT THE BOTTOM.

Ironwood and Duluth are playing football this afternoon at Athletic park.

The Duluth team has been greatly strengthened during the week past and the local supporters of the team have high hopes of a big score against the eleven from Michigan.

There was a time, and not so very long ago, that Ironwood used to triumph over Duluth annually at the college game. Then it was Central's turn and Ironwood was considered one of the easiest on the schedule. Then two years ago the men from the Michigan town sprung a surprise when Duluth traveled down for the annual game. They were the victors in easy style. In the contest today Colton's men will take no chances.

The Ironwood men are said to be light, but very fast. They have a good reputation in the northern part of their own state, in fact, they are greatly feared by the other teams of the Upper Peninsula.

They are out for the championship of their own state this year and believing that Duluth has about the best that Minnesota offers are anxious to annex

Following is the line-up:

Minnesota honors to those they expect to win in Michigan.

Colton has plugged the holes in the line that showed up in the Brainerd game last Sunday and he is confident that his boys will give a good account of themselves.

ALL READY FOR AMES

The Gophers May Not Uncover Much for the "Aggies."

Will Be Held in Reserve for the Big Games to Come.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.—The University of Minnesota football team is prepared to meet the invasion of the Iowa Aggies today.

The finishing touches and the final polish were put on by a light signal practice yesterday afternoon. Plays were tried again and again until the players had the signals down so they could say them backwards. The practice this week has been the hardest and most trying since the season has commenced. As a result the team has not wound up the week in the best of condition. Almost every member has a complaint of some kind. As things looked yesterday some of the regulars are liable to be out of the game today. Powers has not been out in a suit all this week, and Raddemacher and Pettijohn have not been in a scrimmage since last week. This much can be said however, that Minnesota has a very able body of substitutes this year and chances are that all of the best will be given a tryout this afternoon. If Ames proves easy the first half it is almost certain that almost a full team of substitutes will finish the game.

The boys from Ames arrived last night over the Great Western at 10 o'clock. They took the usual practice at Lake Harriet this morning. The team was followed by a small band of rooters who arrived this morning. The football-chasers from Iowa look to be a very formidable bunch, and unless they have stage fright, like Iowa state had, they ought to make Minnesota step lively to carry off a victory. The game today will be interesting, at any rate, and may even be close. Clyde Williams of Ames has doped it out that his team will hold the Gophers to a low score. Nebraska will have an assistant coach in the bleachers, and Wisconsin and Chicago will probably be represented. Williams of Ames and Cole of Nebraska are the closest of friends, and all valuable inside information obtained by Ames will be turned over to Cole. For these reasons Minnesota would be foolish to uncover all they know, and so maybe the score will be a low one.

The Nebraska game is now the big talk around the University of Minnesota. The heavy cloud of gloom which has been hanging over the Nebraska camp ever since the season started has finally lifted, and things are looking up down in the corn state. Old men are straggling back to Lincoln and the team has picked up in the last few days. The Nebraska students are planning for a big excursion to Omaha Oct. 16, and evidently must have some confidence in their team. Mencke, the Minnesota rooter king, has been interviewing the railroads this week, and says there is a good chance for getting a $6 rate to Omaha and back. If such a rate is obtained, there will be at least 1,000 Minnesota rooters in Omaha for the big game. The Minnesota band will probably go, and along with the Nebraska blowers who will be up, plenty of noise will be guaranteed.

The showing made by the Gophers on the practice field this week has not been a very bright one. The second team or college team, as it is called, has been performing in brilliant form all week. They made the varsity look like the scrub team in several of the scrimmages which took place this week. There are some players on the second team who will be valuable additions to the varsity next year.

The advance sale of seats for the game today show indications of a larger crowd than was present last Saturday. The price of general admission seats is 75 cents while reserved seats bring $1.50. The game is called at 3 o'clock. Minnesota will probably line up in the following manner: Pickering, fullback; Johnston, right half; Stevens, left half; McGovern, quarter; Raddemacher, right end; Pettijohn, left end; McCree, right tackle; Walker, left tackle; Mohlstad, right guard; Powers or Stewert, left guard, Farnam, center.

BOTH TEAMS ARE CONFIDENT

Chicago and Indiana Settling Football Supremacy on Marshall Field.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—The University of Chicago and University of Indiana football teams were both confident of victory in their clash this afternoon on Marshall field.

Chicago rooters were much encouraged over the outlook for the game, especially because of the return to the lineup of Crawley, the star halfback of the team, who was kept out of the Purdue game last week by reason of injuries. Crawley will begin the game at right half, but if his injury should prevent him from finishing the contest Sauer will be substituted.

Coach Sheldon said last night that he expected to see his players give Chicago the tussle of their lives. Gill, Indiana's kicking right halfback, is the man whom the Chicago players will pay particular attention to after the whistle blows for play to begin.

The lineup for the game:

Chicago.	Position.	Indiana.
Kassulker	l.e.	Winters
Hoffman	l.t.	Hatfield
Ehrhorn	l.g.	Kimball
Badenoch	c.	Hoover
Hirsch	r.g.	Messick

SWIFT JUSTICE GIVEN TO HOOSIER WIFE MURDERER.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 9.—Within twenty-four hours from the time he killed his wife, William Robinson late yesterday pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and was sentenced to the state penitentiary at Michigan City for life. Robinson killed his wife in a department store here Thursday afternoon, when she reiterated her intention of seeking a divorce.

Snow in Colorado.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 9.—A drop in temperature, accompanied by snow flurries in some sections, is reported from Colorado Springs. In Denver there was a small snow fall. Trinidad and Canon City also reported light falls.

HOW THE NOLTE PUMPKIN HUNG THE KIBOSH ON THE LAKESIDE GARDENERS

There is gloom in Lakeside—deep, dark, dank gloom.

Every strapholder on the Lakeside line feels it. Every family head, at he wends his way home to his one acre and contentment, has sentiment that something has been lost from his life. In the background of his mind is hung the dark curtain of discontent. The cheerful candle from his peaceful home in the suburb shines less brightly. The flames wrap themselves about the legs in his fireplace less cheerfully than of yore. The moon shines but dully across the silver lake.

But out at Hunter's Park there the sun sinks brightly behind the sloping hills; the little children chatter with delight, and as the dull shades of night sift softly down on the dew-kissed slopes, the Hunter's Parker steps buoyantly across his threshold, throws out his chest and feels that life is good.

Henry Nolte's pumpkin did it.

Ever since the water was turned into the lake and even before they started talking of paving Garfield avenue there has been rivalry, fierce bitter rivalry between the gardeners of Lakeside and Hunters Park. When a Duluthian grabs off a suburban lot, builds him a home and takes unto himself a wife, he seems to turn to gardening as naturally as the Methodist minister does to stewed chicken. Now every man who ever lived in Hunter's Park knows that the sun shines more brightly there than in any other section of this fair globe, and every man who ever set up his Lares and Penates in Lakeside knows that Lakeside is the fairest dell in all Arcadia. What's more natural, therefore, than that the residents of the two suburbs should become rivals in the matter of fruit raising and truck gardening. When Citizen-Farmer Sherwood pointed to his fair acre groaning under their weight of cabbages and cucumbers, Citizen-Farmer Crassweller pointed to his cauliflower, flourishing like a Green Bay tree. And so the battle waged, back and forth, but this year it came to a head. Early this spring, when the wind was coming off the lake and the skies were soggy the Lakesider was out in the dull gray morning putting in his garden and thinking what he was going to hand the Hunter's Parkers in the fall, while the Hunter's Parker was out with his hoe and spade, chortling to think of how cheap the Lakesider was going to feel.

The Hunter Apples.

Citizen-Farmer R. M. Hunter started the ball rolling by bringing in to the Commercial club a collection of apples. They were good apples, too—not the tasteless products forced into false redness by the hot air and moisture of the irrigated country, but rich, juicy apples like you used to pull out of the bottom of the barrel back down on the farm in York state, when the popcorn was cracking over the Halloween fire.

The Commercial club members came, and saw and admired, and also swiped one or two when the clerk at the desk wasn't looking. Even the "gallery" from the bridge tables allowed they were pretty fair apples as apples go ,which is a big admission for the "gallery" to make.

But County Attorney Norton had not been idle, and much legal lore and rhetoric had been used in training certain apple trees on the Norton Lakeside estate. He came right back with a collection of Duchess, Wealthies and Okabenas that made your mouth water to look at them. Polished and placed on bright blue china plates, they revived the drooping spirits of the Lakeside contingent at the "amen" table of the Commercial club, and once more they could hold up their heads and look their brothers from Hunters Park in the face, fearless and unafraid.

The Nolte Pumpkin.

But at this crucial moment, Citizen Henry Nolte sprung his coup. He brought in a pumpkin that weighed sixty-five pounds, by gosh. Two boys sweated up the stairs to the new club rooms and deposited the great yellow gourd under the exhibition table in the agricultural rom. There it squatted for four days, a great incubus on the aspiring hopes of the Lakesiders. Finally they could bear it no longer, and a delegation went to Secretary Eva. One dark night that pumpkin was removed to the kitchen, where it was stabbed to the heart by a ruthless chef. All that remains of it is the line on the menu card, "pumpkin pie a la Nolte," and it is rumored in the secret circles of clubroom that the Lakesiders ate most of that pie. This has not been confirmed, however.

M. H. Turner made a desperate effort to retrieve a lost cause by bringing in some tomatoes—great round, red, ripe tomatoes that would make two slices to a plateful, but the Lakesiders didn't seem to have their hearts in it. You have to go some to beat a 65-pound pumpkin, and that is why there is gloom in Lakeside, deep, dark, dank gloom.

In addition to the articles of merry warfare from our own beautiful city, there are apples from L. P. Hall's Sunny Side farm at Bay Lake. Mr. Hall has also some very fine grapes on exhibition. This goes to show what can be grown in the northern part of the state.

WELFARE OF THE FARMERS

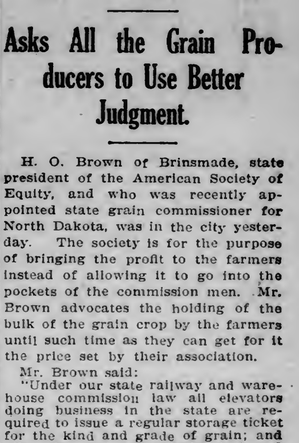

Equity President Asks That They Hold for High Prices.

Asks All the Grain Producers to Use Better Judgment.

H. O. Brown of Brinsmade, state president of the American Society of Equity, and who was recently appointed state grain commissioner for North Dakota, was in the city yesterday. The society is for the purpose of bringing the profit to the farmers instead of allowing it to go into the pockets of the commission men. Mr. Brown advocates the holding of the bulk of the grain crop by the farmers until such time as they can get for it the price set by their association.

Mr. Brown said:

"Under our state railway and warehouse commission law all elevators doing business in the state are required to issue a regular storage ticket for the kind and grade of grain; and all grain so stored and tickets issued in lieu thereof must be delivered over to owner upon demand, or the same amount of each kind, grade and dockage as held by the owners, either at his station or elevator, where first put in for storage, or the same amount, kind and grade of grain at terminals, upon the payment by the owner of the grain or holders of the grain tickets the regular storage rate; or if shipped to terminals by any elevator or warehouse agent in the state who have issued to the farmer storage tickets. The farmers, or members of the American Society of Equity, can pay their own freight and call for the surrender of the actual grain at all terminals. Now, if the farmers, when they deliver their grain to their respective elevator, no matter whether farmers' elevator, independent elevator, or line company, it's all the same. All the grain that is stored for which storage tickets are issued is subject to call or demand by owner by payment of the accrued storage to the elevator company, the same as any money you have placed in the bank is subject to check or draft at any moment or day.

Use Best Judgment.

"Now then, that being the law of our state, let every producer of grain use his better judgment in a business way and it will only be a short time until the receipts which continue to pile up at terminals will diminish one-half or three-fourths, and the system that has been practiced in years past, and is daily continued, will gradually be battered to pieces by the farmers of our state and of the grain growing states, if they will follow the plan or along the line I am about to suggest, which I am certain will succeed in materially advancing the price of all grain.

"Where you have a local union secretary or an American Society of Equity organization and you wish to store your grain until the price is right to sell, whenever possible, make it a point to deliver at least a carload. However, that will not matter. But when you deliver your grain to any elevator, and you are an American Society of Equity member—or a grain raiser and not a member—after you are given your storage ticket, take and register the amount, kind and grade of grain with the local union secretary of your town, and if you have no local union the farmers can call a meeting and select a good farmer or business man who will register the amount of each farmer's grain as he stores it. This way all farmers can keep posted just how much grain should be on hand in any of their home elevators, and under the law you all can step into any elevator or grain warehouse in the state and call for all the grain actually stored and ship the same to yourselves or any other company upon payment of warehouse charges.

"You can easily see, any farmer or grain grower, that if we keep check on the elevators and register the amount of all grain stored the elevator companies won't know but what every farmer who is holding a storage ticket will demand the actual grain stored and create a run on the elevator company grain, which is represented to be in the house or in store, where in nine cases out of ten the bulk of the grain that is represented by the tickets issued to the farmer has been shipped to terminals and sold to the mills or for export right following all deliveries made by the farmers to said elevators and room made for the balance of the farmers' crops in the same way as before.

"Any farmer who doubts that this can be done kindly write to Thomas Hall, secretary of the state railway warehouse commission, and ask for a copy of the law governing stored grain.

"What the farmers must do, and it can be done, is to require the elevators of our state to hold the actual grain stored until the grain storage tickets are surrendered, which will materially assist the grain growers in advancing the price."

IMPROVED METHODS OF FARMING IN NORTH DAKOTA

HOW A NORTH DAKOTA FARMER REAPS HIS GRAIN AND PLOWS HIS FIELD UNDER NEW METHODS OF FARMING.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Improved methods of farming that are being adopted by various farmers in North Dakota are being watched with a great deal of interest by agriculturists generally. One of the most important factors entering into farming today is the traction engine, which is taking the place of horses in many branches of farm work.

A striking example of what can be done with a traction engine is shown by R. R. Hering of Crosby, N. D., who is one of the most prominent exponents of the new method of farming. This year he harvested his entire crop and plowed his entire field with the use of a traction engine, and his remarks upon the subject are very interesting. He says:

"This year I operated my traction engine as a propelling power for the binder and plows, the entire outfit being hooked up in one rig. By this method I found it was possible to cut and plow about twenty acres a day, only two men being necessary to carry on the work. Using a gasoline engine, as I do, the cost of oil was about $7, and we operated twelve hours a day. One man takes care of the engine while the other looks after the binder and the plows.

"One of the very important features in connection with this method of farming is the increased value of the next year's crop. I find that it adds about $6 an acre to the crop each year, and I have also found that by this method both the reaping and plowing costs only about 50 per cent of the ordinary cutting price. By this method the plowing is done the same time the cutting is finished. It also appears that the ground holds the moisture better when plowed early. There is more vegetation and sap in the stubble, adding to the richness of the land, while as a means of killing weeds it is unexcelled.

"Under this method of farming I believe there is a saving of about one-half of the cost of operating. I use a 22-horse power engine, and should a farmer have twenty-two horses the cost of hired help in itself is a big item. Another thing, too, is the fact that the engine can be operated continuously, all that is needed being oil. I am certainly well pleased with the method and believe the time will come when the majority of the farmers will have just such outfits as I now own."

OPPORTUNITY TO PURCHASE AT RIGHT PRICES.

I have eight teams on hand and must dispose of them at once; horses as follows. One dapple gray team, 3,200 pounds, four and five years old, and a team of handsome dapple gray mares, 3,000 pounds, four and five years old; also one team of mules, four and five years old, 2,600 pounds; one six-year old mule, 1,400 pounds. This stock has all been used out of town on the railroad and right out of hard work. This stock is fat and in the finest of shape and not blemished one bit, and cost all the way from $500 to $700 a team, and will be sold at less than half value. Call at my residence,

STUMP LANDS OFFER GREAT POSSIBILITIES

MILLIONS OF ACRES FOR SALE IN MINNESOTA, WISCONSIN AND MICHIGAN—SOIL ADAPTABLE TO CULTIVATION OF ALL SORTS OF CROPS.

While the eyes of thousands of home-seekers have been turned to the West and South, the advantages and possibilities of the once timber-clad lands of Northern Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota have not been overlooked by many people, says the Chicago Record-Herald. There are millions of acres of most fertile stump lands which can be bought very reasonably in these three states, and settlers as well as people who believe in farm lands as investments have recently gone into these states in large numbers. These lands, nearly all of them close to market, promise to prove very valuable once the stumps left behind by the lumberjacks are removed and the land is placed under cultivation.

Recognizing the great possibilities of this country, the state governments of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota have now begun making strenuous efforts to get settlers onto these lands. In Wisconsin alone there are more than 10,000,000 acres of land possible of successful and profitable settlement and almost 20,000,000 more acres in Michigan and Minnesota.

Sells at $5 Per Acre.

While most of this land is under private ownership, it can be bought as low as $5 an acre in its wild state and stumped at a reasonable figure. The pioneers who followed the trail of the lumbermen and established farms have shown beyond peradventure that this country will one day be one of the richest spots in America for dairying as well as diversified farming.

A. D. Campbell, state land commissioner of Wisconsin, is an enthusiast over the possibilities of this great undeveloped empire. Each day, he declares, he finds new possibilities there.

In discussing the Lake Superior region lands recently, he said:

"Who that has ever visited that immense area of unexploited country that extends across two states and well into another, south of Lake Superior and north of Lake Michigan, and noted the richness of soil, the great silage value of the corn grown there, observed the clearness and purity of the water, the stimulating influence of the atmosphere and the excellent drainage, can arrive at any other conclusion than that the American people are overlooking nature's bounties in their search for land?

Soil is Very Fertile.

"Here, save where in years gone by fires have invaded, are vast areas, where maple and birch and basswood and elm hold dominion over other vegetation, and smaller areas, where hemlock and pine were supreme, but, whatever the distribution of timber, the soil proved by the burden it bore that it was fertile to a marvelous degree. Later, when the sawmills had invaded the hardwood areas, an occasional employ besought himself a home and garden in the timber. His success in a small way led to larger operations, and now that the country is settling many of these experiments have grown into well developed farms and are worth around $100 per acre.

"Visitors marvel that here and there among the partially developed areas are fine farms with modern houses and barns. It is largely due to the efforts and successes of those pioneers that the real merits of this great area was later recognized and is now being settled.

Area Called Cloverland.

"Because the clovers grow in profusion this area has come to be called 'cloverland.' Other grasses grow equally well, but the greater value of clover gives it the preference. Alfalfa has also succeeded well wherever tried. Corn is being grown, and the extreme food elements of the stalks give it an added value for silage. Peas yield handsomely and produce the finest of pork. Potatoes flourish in every section. Small fruits flourish in the openings in the woods and marshes and under cultivation produce excellent results. That celery can be grown with handsome results on the lowlands has been fully demonstrated. Osier willows for basket-making has been introduced in some sections. Tobacco is suited to many sections, while sugar beets are raised for two factories.

"But dairying is, and always will be, the foundation of the future wealth of the whole area under consideration. All the conditions of soil, climate and water promise a great future for the butter and cheese industry in this embryonic agricultural empire.

Dairy Help to Soil.

"The dairy not only assures the highest of farm incomes, but it assures a betterment, not a depletion, of the soil. It likewise produces conditions of soil essential to the production of other specialized crops.

"Observing the constantly westward movement of wheat production, leaving behind a depleted soil to be redeemed through stock-raising and dairying, the people now in the cloverland area of Northern Wisconsin are resolved to begin right. Everywhere the dairy herd is in evidence, everywhere clover pastures and meadows are to be seen and everywhere creameries are being established. There will be no depleted soils in Northern Wisconsin.

"The problem of today is the restoration of the proper relation of rural and urban population, the producers and consumers of foodstuffs. The trend of the past must be corrected or conditions in the cities as respects the cost of foodstuffs will become unbearable. This problem has been neglected too long already. The situation is a stubborn condition of fact and demands the serious attention of all the people, both rural and urban. Foodstuffs are carrying as high a range of prices as the 'traffic will bear.' A reverse of the long prevailing trend from country to city will relieve the situation.

Lands Near Big Cities.

"This area to which I refer is close to the centers of congested population. Lands are cheap and may be obtained close to railway towns. Cheap building material—lumber and logs—are obtainable and fuel is abundant on all the land. Employment prevails in every locality. Why should not the landless man of the cities go upon this manless land? Why should not the correction of the social and industrial equilibrium appeal to the interest and action of all, especially those who are most affected by its displacement, the city wage earner?

"The beginner of limited means may find his progress slow in opening a farm, but he will save rents, fuel and many other expenses, and his wife and children will be benefited by getting into the country—there will be no strikes or lockouts—but with persistent efforts there will ultimately be a fine farm and comfortable home."

BARNYARD MANURE

Notes Furnished By the Minnesota Farmers' Institutes.

Barnyard manure is undoubtedly one of the most valuable by-products of the farm. It is almost an absolute necessity on the farm if the soil is to be maintained at a high state of productivity. At a conservative estimate, six to ten loads of barnyard manure applied to a corn field, the corn crop followed by a grain crop and seeded to grass, left one or two years in grass, then plowed and sown to grain, will produce enough more during the four or five years following the application of the manure to return from $2 to $3 per ton on the manure applied.

It is essential, if crops are to be removed year after year carrying with them a part of the plant food stored in the soil, that some steps be taken to replace the plant food removed. Manure not only adds plant food directly to the soil, but it also aids in liberating portions of the mineral plant foods, as potash and phosphoric acid, that are in the soil in an available form.

The three elements of plant food liable to become exhausted in most soils are nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, nitrogen may be easily supplied to the soil by growing clover, and other legume crops. Manure adds nitrogen and potash, and some phosphoric acid, but its chief function in regard to the two latter elements is to assist in liberating the stores of these elements locked in the soil. Phosporic acid and potash are found in most Minnesota soils in quantities sufficient to produce a hundred or more ordinary crops. Plant food that is soluble, that is dissolves in water as will sugar, can not remain in the soil in large quantities because it is carried out by water flowing through the ground. Hence, it is found in an insoluble form in the soil, and the problem of the farmer is to make this plant food soluble while the crops are growing and can use it. Barnyard manure and other vegetable matter when decaying gives off an acid which acts on the surface of soil particles and aids in dissolving small amounts of plant food.

Considering the great value of barnyard manure and the need of it to enrich the partially depleted soils and supply the vegetable matter rapidly used up by corn and grain crops, it seems that more care should be exercised to save in the best possible way the millions of dollars worth of this valuable by-product produced every year in Minnesota.

It has been amply proved by experiment that the greatest value is obtained from manure if it is applied directly to the field as fast as it is made. If left in piles about the barn, it decomposes and much of its value is lost as gas and is leached out by rains. By applying directly to the field and spreading it, very little decomposition takes place until it is worked into the soil. Then practically all of the value is retained by the soil and the additional benefit of the decomposition in dissolving mineral food is secured.

BISBEE-SONORA WILL SHIP

Machinery to Be Put in Chiricahua Mine and Shipments Begun—Eastern Capitalist Visits Property and Returns With Favorable Report.

Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 9.—For some time it has been known that Bisbee-Sonora mine was on the verge of demonstrating that another good mine has been opened in the Chiricahua mountains. The ledge was cut some months ago, but as the mine is isolated, little has come to the surface concerning the operations of the company since that time. John Lonergan of Bristol, Conn., who is one of the heavy stockholders in the company, accompanied by B. J. Ames of Douglas, has just returned from a visit to the mine. Ames is president of the company.

Mr. Lonergan came to Arizona to inspect the mine personally and prepare a report for others in the East, who have contemplated investing in the company's stock. As a result of the visit of the two men, and the additional capital raised, the company will immediately put in machinery and prepare to make shipments of ore.

The mine is situated eighteen miles from Rodeo in the Chiricahua mountains. The stock is owned principally by Douglas and Bisbee people, indicating the faith of home people who are near at hand to watch developments. Large blocks of stock are owned also in the East, chiefly in Chicago and Connecticut. Work was started on the property three years ago, and has been carried on on a conservative basis. Up to date $64,000 has been expended on development. Three tunnels have been driven into the hill, and in all of them a good grade of smelting ore has been cut. The upper tunnel is 350 feet long, the second or middle tunnel 150 feet. The lower tunnel struck the ledge also, and this is now driven 250 feet. Three full shifts are now employed.

Shipments will be begun within a short time by way of Rodeo, which is connected with the mine by a good road. A St. Louis company has made an offer to run a trolley line to the mine and the offer will probably be accepted as soon as the trolley company is assured of two cars of forty tons per day. This amount of ore can easily be mined from now on. A townsite, called Shamrock, has been laid out near the property and several hundred lots have been disposed of. The little town has a postoffice also called Shamrock. Mr. Lonergan, on returning to Douglas, stated that he is more than pleased with the outlook at the mine. On his return East he will stop in Chicago and report his findings to the stockholders of that city.

competent mining men. The Boston & Corbin company is now installing an electric surface plant, which will be in operation by Nov. 1, or possibly before that date, when sinking to the 1,000-foot level will be commenced.

The Corbin-Montana company has just completed the installation of a new surface plant, and in its development work has encountered considerable bodies of good ore. The plant is to be operated by electricity.

It is announced that during the first two weks of October a party of at least twenty of the leading mining men and capitalists of the East are to come to Corbin to look over some of the more prominent properties and that arrangements will be made for development on a more extensive scale than ever.

With such properties as the Boston & Corbin, the Minneapolis-Corbin and the Boston & Alta, the latter being backed by M. L. Hewitt and his associates of Boston, Corbin is making such a showing at shallow depth that the moneyed and speculative class is opening its eyes to the great possibilities of the district.

Millions of tons have been blocked out, to say nothing of the amount practically demonstrated. The Bunker Hill shaft, down to a depth of 300 feet, has a high-grade porphyry showing, as has the Brooks No. 1, adjoining. This is also down 300 feet. A limestone formation cuts off the body of ore between the Brooks No. 1 and the Brooks No. 2: but the ore comes in again in the Morris shaft, 300 feet farther on.

The dump of the Old Glory is one of the most impressive features of the Giroux Consolidated estate. In this shaft has been opened up a big body of carbonate ore, and the entire dump could be transported direct to the smelter. There is, for that matter, plenty of iron on the ground ready for shipment. That it is not being shipped is, presumably, for the reason that the company is waiting until its own reduction plant has been erected. What the nature of this plant will be, or when its construction will be started, are matters on which the people of Ely have not been taken into the confidence of the management. But when the Giroux Consolidated does get ready to ship, its output will be another enormous tonnage from Ely.

sidiary companies of the Amalgamated maintaining a normal production, but the Butte Coalition company is gradually adding to its output and is now producing copper at a rate considerably above 36,000,000 pounds per annum. This company is developing some wonderfully rich mines and even now it could easily double its production. However, it is only slowly, but gradually, increasing its output of copper.

North Butte.

The North Butte company is also getting into position to greatly increase its power of production. When the two new levels at the 2,000 and 2,200 are thoroughly opened and the new working shaft is completed, the company will easily double its output. Since the bear attacks were made on the North Butte stock, and some misleading stories were circulated either ignorantly or maliciously concerning underground conditions, it has been impossible to obtain any official information about the property. However, trustworthy information from the property is that conditions are greatly improving on the new levels. Several weeks ago the westerly drift on the 2,000 got into fine ore that filled the entire width of the vein, about thirty feet, the average assay giving 5 per cent copper and nearly five ounces of silver to the ton, in addition to good gold values. The drift on the 2,000 was about 100 feet ahead of the drift on the 2,200, but now the latter is also getting into good ore again. Some of the material shipped from the lower level runs 7 per cent copper. The crosscut north on the 2,200 level ought to reach the Jessie vein very soon. This vein, like that of the Edith May on the 1,800 and 1,600 levels, is remarkably large and rich. What its condition on the 2,200 is remains to be seen, but there is no reason to expect that it will not meet expectations and prove good. When the new levels were started on the Edith May vein the latter was found faulted badly, but that condition was expected by Manager Carson, as a similar condition at the same point prevailed on the upper levels. However, this fact was seized on as an excuse for making a violent attack on the company and its stock. The condition of the vein was supplemented, as ammunition for the attacks, by the fact that the ore was not of a high grade and that it carried less copper on the 2,200 than on the 2,000, which was taken to indicate that the vein was getting poorer with depth. However, this had no weight with the friends of the North Butte, for they did not believe the North Butte would prove an exception to the general rule that new ore bodies and richer deposits would again be encountered. The Diamond mine near by, and the High Ore, another neighboring mine, are mining rich ore from a depth of 2,900 and 2,800 feet, respectively, which gave the North Butte people confidence that their property would turn out all right, which, it appears, it is doing.

Anaconda.

At the Anaconda mines conditions are better than they had been in several years. On the 2,400 level of that mine the ore bodies holds out remarkably well, and the best material mined from that property is coming from that level. The smoke and gas arising from the smouldering fire is under good control and has given no trouble for some time.

Butte & Homestake.

The Butte & Homestake Mining company, which was quite active in New York and Boston six months and a year ago, seems to have gone practically out of existence. It develops that the company never had title to the ground on which the organization was based, but merely had the assignment of a lease and option held by Dan Agoa, and the option depended on a certain amount of continuous work. Agoa says the Eastern men interested with him did not play fair; that they sold stock to the amount of $19,500 and remitted only $1,200 for a working fund, while he was compelled to incur personal liability to keep the development work up. Then he shut down operations and sufficient time elapsed to forfeit the option and the Butte & Homestake company was out of the running. After the option had been forfeited, Agoa secured another from the owners of the property and now is working ahead in his own name again. The New York promoters of the Butte & Homestake claim that they have reimbursed all their clients who bought stock from them, but that did not save the general public which purchased stock. The Eastern promoters refer to the Butte men interested in the enterprise as "Indians," with whom it was impossible to do business. Agoa is now working the property himself and has hopes of developing a good mine. There are ninety-nine acres in the group and the ground has been opened by a two-compartment shaft, 275 feet of crosscuts and 200 feet of drifts, the latter on a vein carrying good copper ore, the general assay giving 4½ per cent copper, as high as forty ounces of silver and $5 in gold. The vein is eight feet wide. The property is situated one mile from Homestake, a station on the Northern Pacific, ten miles east of Butte. There is a lot of good timber and a valuable water right.

be shipped next season, but it is not the intention to prepare the property for extensive production until the succeeding year. Another new mine of the Steel corporation will be the Mississippi. This property is near Nashwauk, in the western portion of the range, and it will be wholly an underground proposition. Development work has been started, but not until two seasons hence will the mine be in condition to make a heavy production.

Shipments from the Nashwauk district have been unprecedently heavy latterly, most of the mines in commission being wrought to full capacity. All of the immense stockpiles at the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's Crosby property has been forwarded, the last of the ore going to the docks the past wek. The outgo from the Pittsburg Iron Ore company's La Rue mine was never greater. The International Harvester company's Hawkins property is sending out a considerable tonnage, as is Joseph Sellwood's Pearson mine, although this latter property is still in course of development. The Pearson is proving up satisfactorily, and when fully opened will be capable of heavy production. Work is hampered, however, by a scarcity of labor, and, indeed, this is the complaint at the Nashwauk mines generally.

Coleraine District.

Tremendous activity continues in the Coleraine district, at the western end of the Mesaba, where the United States Steel corporation is developing the Canisteo, Walker and Hawkins mines. At the latter property the area that is being stripped is over a mile long and several hundred yards wide. Floods caused by heavy rains have occasioned much trouble at times, but this annoyance is to be done away with. The great excavation will be drained by means of a drift extending underneath the entire length of the pit and leading to a concrete shaft, whence the water will be pumped to the surface, there to be carried away by a system of launders. Immense pits are being created in the Coleraine country, but they are not yet as extensive as some in the Hibbing district, where the greatest mines on the range are located. Indeed, with the stripped area steadily being enlarged, the Mesaba metropolis is becoming so hemmed in by the excavations that the village is being cut off from the surrounding country. This is particularly the case in the northern portion of the town, where the new pit of the Steel corporation has encroached to within sixty feet of the business district. This excavation will be carried through to a junction with that at the Sellers property, and with this work accomplished, the entire north end of the village will be accessible from nearby locations only by means of such bridges as may be provided.

Although opened a quarter of a century ago, the Vermilion range has never had more than half a dozen mines on the shipping list, these the Soudan, Chandler, Pioneer, Savoy, Sibley and Zenith, all of which are controlled by the Steel corporation and which to date have produced 30,000,000 tons of ore. No new shippers have been developed since the Savoy and Sibley were opened ten years ago and that this is the case has often been commended on as rather odd. The Vermilion extends from the vicinity of Tower to and beyond the international boundary. This offers an extensive field for the explorer, yet up to the present time merchantable bodies of ore have been developed at only two localities along the entire extent o fthe range, these at Tower and at Ely, twenty-one miles east. However, compared with the work that has been done in the other districts of the Lake Superior region, the prospecting that has been conducted on the Vermilion has been of small proportions. This has been due to the fact that exploration is slow and expensive and because for years past attention has largely been centered on the bigger and more valuable Mesaba range, the trend of whose formation parallels that of the Vermilion at a distance of only fifteen or twenty miles.

Increase Interest of Late.

Latterly there has been increased interest in the Vermilion, and the prospect of additions to the shipping list appears brighter than it has ever been. Because of geological conditions and the fact that the ore bodies lie at considerable depth, exploration on the Vermilion is difficult. Drills alone cannot be used as in many portions of the Mesaba, and to prove a deposit it is necessary to put down shafts. A number of such shafts are projected or have already been started as a result of diamond drill boring, and as it is seen fit to go to that expenditure much significance attaches to the operations. The most advanced of the newer properties is the section 30 or Shagawa, in the Ely district, and apparently there is little question of the value of this tract. Indeed much ore is accumulating at the shafts, and it is expected that shipments will be made early next season. The properties of T. J. Walsh of Duluth and associates also promise well. Lands on the Vermilion have stiffened in price the past year or two, and options are not procurable on as liberal terms as have been prevailing.

Conditions in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range have improved considerably the past week. There has been fear of a still further curtailment by Corrigan, McKinney & Co., the majority of whose mines in the field have been inactive for two years past, but it is now announced that both the Tobin and the Great Western will be kept in commission throughout the winter. Contrary to the former outlook, all the ore in stock at the Tobin will be sent out this season. This will mean shipments of 400,000 tons for this property, or much the largest output in the history of the mine. At the Great Western, while the working force has been cut to the extent that the single men have been dropped from the payroll, the mine is now being operated on full time, whereas formerly it was active only four days per week. There is a big stockpile at the Great Western, but by utilizing a portion of the adjoining Lincoln ground, there will be ample room to care for all the ore mined the coming winter. A modern "dry" or "miners" change house, much larger than the present structure, which has been outgrown by the demands upon it, is being erected at the Tobin.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel company, a newcomer on the Menominee range, has taken an option on the Winton property, in section 19, 43-34, in the Iron River district, and has already started exploratory work. A diamond drill is being used. The tract is very favorably located, ore having been found on a number of nearby properties. The Mineral Mining company has started the work of building dwelling houses for its men at the James mine, to the north of Iron River, and by next summer it is expected that the location will have attained the dignity of a town. The James is proving one of the most valuable properties in the district.

return of 49 per cent on its $6,000,000 issued capitalization. Crown Reserve is second for the year, with $813,657. La Rose Consolidated, third on the list for the year with $757,726, has paid since incorporation $2,134,091, a return of 39 per cent.

Fourteen Mexican companies in the above class have this year disbursed $3,376,950 in dividends, and since incorporation $27,949,544, a return of 117 per cent on their outstanding capital of $23,957,500. Esperanza leads for the year with $972,000, and to date with $10,269,500, a return of 459 per cent on its $2,250,000 issued share capital. El Oro, second, has disbursed $826,200 this year and to date has paid out $5,746,360, a return of 93 per cent on its $5,737,500 share capital. Dos Estrellas, third, has paid to shareholders this year $300,000, and since incorporation $3,730,000, a 25 per cent return.

Copper Dividends.

Sixteen copper properties in the United States have so far this year paid in dividends to shareholders $14,854,022. On their issued share capital of $79,931,895, a return equivalent to 19 per cent has been made since incorporation, which means that $321,292,927 has been divided among fortunate shareholders. Senator Clarke's United Verde in Arizona leads for the year with $2,025,000. Since incorporation, this property has enriched its owners, principally Senator Clark, $23,572,000, a return of 786 per cent on the $3,000,000 issued capital. Calumet & Hecla, second for the year with $1,900,000, has paid since incorporation the enormous total of $109,750,000. This is equivalent to a return of 439 per cent on its $2,500,000 share capital. Anaconda is third for the year with $1,800,000, and since incorporation $44,700,000, a return of 149 per cent. Other large copper dividend payers this year are: North Butte, $1,200,000 for the year and $8,200,000 to date; Utah Copper, $1,007,200 for the year and $1,785,788 to date; Boston & Montana, $900,000 for the year and $60,175,000 to date, a return of 240 per cent.

Seven metallurgical companies having an issued capitalization of $229,492,012 have paid to shareholders $91,008,753, a return equivalent to 39 per cent. So far this year these companies have distributed $8,431,044. The American Smelting and Refining company easily leads for the year with $3,427,500 and since incorporation has to its credit as a dividend payer the sum of $48,141,500, a return of nearly 50 per cent on its $100,000,000 share capital. The United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company has so far this year paid shareholders $1,633,461. Since incorporation this company has declared dividends of $7,594,79. National Lead has paid this year $2,013,072 and since incorporation $25,624,958.

Source of Profit.

A source of great profit to investors is the securities-holding corporations, seven of which have so far this year paid out in dividends the sum of $13,187,595 and since incorporation $97,331,635. The Phelps-Dodge interests have enriched shareholders to the extent of $3,370,095 so far this year. In point of dividends, however, Amalgamated Copper leads, for since incorporation, on an issued capitalization of $153,887,900 it has disbursed $59,732,120. During the present year dividends have been paid totaling $3,077,757. The General Development company, practically a newcomer, has paid to its shareholders this year $1,712,500. American Smelters Securities has paid this year $1,890,000 and to date $7,110,0000. The Guggenheims have to their credit this year $1,275,000 and to date $7,810,277. Copper Range has paid this year $9,598,196.

One metal selling company, the United, has been enabled to pay this year $3,000,000 and since incorporation $9,750,000. This is equal to a return of 195 per cent on its $5,000,000 issued capital.

One quicksilver company, the New Idea, has paid out in dividends this year $60,000 and since incorporation $1,140,000, a return of 228 per cent on its $500,000 share capital.

tions next overlying the eastern sandstone. The crosscut has attained a length of about 700 feet and discloses two copper bearing lodes neither of which apparently will be found commercially valuable.

Quincy.

The Quincy company is experiencing no little difficulty in the sinking of the Pontiac, or No. 9 shaft, through which the northern portion of the property will be wrought, the operations there being greatly hampered by the excessive quantity of water seeping into the shaft, necessitating the use of the skip for bailing purposes to assist the pumps in keeping the shaft clear. The shaft is sinking just below the third level, 500 feet from the surface. Plats have been cut at the several levels and everything is in shape to begin drifting and opening out as desired. The character of the ground is promising and some fairly good copper rock is in evidence. No attempt is being made at present to open and block out ground, all activity being centered in shaft sinking.

Isle Royale.

Isle Royale has ceased crosscutting at the 500-foot level in the "A" shaft on the Baltic lode, and all activity at that point is again centered in shaft sinking. The crosscut discloses a well organized and settled formation which somewhat resembles the ground exposed in the old Section 12 shaft, so-called, to the northward, and now abandoned. The new "A" shaft, which apparently is sinking in the main bed of the Baltic lode, has attained a depth of 640 feet. Showings of copper developed at several points in the shaft, but never led to commercial values. The shaft is now getting down to the depth from which a drill core carrying a very fair amount of copper was taken in the exploratory operations of a year ago, and the disclosures of commercial copper ground is momentarily expected.

VERY LARGE NUGGET FOUND

Weighs Sixty-Five Ounces and is Worth Over $1,100---Largest Ever Discovered in Forty-Mile District of the Klondike.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 9.—David C. Hefley, one of the old time operators on Jack Wade, brought to Dawson the largest nugget ever found in the Forty Mile district. It was found a few weeks ago by Laymen Carlson and Wagoner on No. 7. The laymen, who worked on the same claim last winter, drifted within ten feet of it. It weighs sixty-five ounces less $1.75 and is worth $1,103.25. It is typical Jack Wade gold, of oval or pumpkin seed form, without a trace of quartz and a deep yellow. It assays high and is beautiful to the eye.

"No rich country in the world suffered as did the Kougarok this summer from lack of water. With gold everywhere, men hauling water in barrels to rock with and yet making $185 a day, others cleaning up from $40,000 to $80,000 out of little dumps or a summer's work, this big mining region did not come into its own," says James Barr Ayer, manager of the Windy Creek syndicate. Mr. Wood arrived on the Victoria. He has been mining in Alaska for many years, making his biggest cleanup on the Bella Kirke bench at Nome. During the last summer he has been on Windy creek, a tributary of the Kougarok, where his company has 530 acres of rich bench ground. "Although we had a six-mile ditch that would carry 1,500 inches of water," said he, "hydraulic pipe laid, giants in position, bedrock cuts made, the ground stripped and men ready to begin work the finest hot weather that I have seen north of the equator settled down and we could do nothing.

"On Dahl creek, not far from where I am located, two men, Madigan and Carey, determined to get some money out of their ground at all hazards. They used a wagon and hauled water in barrels four miles, then rocked the dirt and made $185 a day to the rocker. Dolan & McFadden, on No. 5, above Connelly's discovery, on the Kougarok, were able to work the river bed owing to the very low water and they cleaned up $60,000 with nine shovels working. They could not have done so had it been a rainy season. Mike Bloom, on No. 3 above, enjoyed the dry season, for he took out $40,000 with eight men.

Hundreds of men are rushing from Fairbanks to the new discovery on the Iditarod, a tributary of the Innoko. Advices within the last week say that five steamer loads have left that camp and that people are also rushing to the new diggings from Nome. Arrivals on the Umatilla, which reached port yesterday, say that the new diggings in the Innoko were reported early this spring, but that few paid attention to it on account of the fact that the discoverers were not telling about it.

Otter creek is the scene of the new excitement, and the fact that the ground is shallow and the pay deep has excited all the old miners in the Northern country.

Spaulding, a trader at Anvik, reports a number of men coming to his place of business with gold dust enough to pay for everything they needed and declaring that the gold came from the Iditarod. He is also reported as saying that at the time there were more than fifty boats this spring tied up at Anvik bound for the Iditarod, the stampeders admitting that they had been advised by friends of the new strike.

Recent arrivale from the Forty Mile district bring word that the Gold Scuppers dredge, the uppermost gold ship on Walker's fork, has had excellent pay all summer. Thawing for the dredge ended Aug. 1. The plant by that time had enough ground thawed ahead for the remainder of the season, and a keystone drill which is now working ahead indicates that the dredge will have thawed enough ground in which to work all next season.

Only fifty men approximately remain on construction work with the Yukon Gold company, but the total number of men on the payroll with the company on the creeks is more than 800, and likely will remain near the 800 mark every season while the company's holding and operations are extensive. During July of this year the company had 1,060 men on the payroll. The extra number was engaged on the extension of the Twelve Mile ditch and pipe line up Bonanza creek. During the height of the hydraulic season almost 300 men were engaged in that department alone. The dredges engage something like 250 men, and the crew on maintenance on the Twelve Mile ditch line this season ran 160. About 100 men are on miscellaneous work. Some imagine that a dredge can be run with three men; the three men can run it, but it requires thirty-seven others to help them.

STRIKE CAUSES EXCITEMENT

The Lead Encountered in No. 2 Tunnel in the Tungstein---Sale of the Blacktail is Made to Spokane Mining Man.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 9.—No. 2 tunnel in the Tungsten at Deep Park has encountered the lead. The concentrates run four to one. The strike and an assay of $2 per cent tungstenic acid has caused much excitement in the vicinity.

After more than four years of idleness the machinery of the Tom Thumb at Republic is again in operation. The mine is leased to the New Republic company for three years. The mine must be unwatered.

A sale of the Blacktail has been made to Spokane mining men and machinery will be installed there.

The Surprise mine on Pine Creek, which is planning to remodel its mill in order to secure a better and more economical separation of the zinc and lead in its ore, has developed one shoot 200 feet long with an average width of two and one-half feet, which has been proved to a depth of 143 feet by means of a 110-foot upraise and a thirty-three-foot winze, according to Secretary C. W. Simmons. There are also 1,200 tons of good concentrating ore in the bins ready for milling development will be confined for the present to a foot wide streak of clean shipping ore in the hope that further assessments will prove unnecessary.

According to a circular letter to shareholders dated Sept. 2, the New Republic company has shipped to date on to the value of aproximately $82,800. Smelter returns had been received on only 1,279.59 tons, of a gross value of $74,802.06, the average value of a ton being $58.89.

The Lucky Five mining camp, consisting of White Salmon Valley ranchers, is getting in its work while the sun shines on its new discovery of Aug. 9, in the Ningerland country northwest of Trout Lake. The miners, E. E. Wright, J. A. Winegardner, P. F. Ochs, P. J. Peterson and F. A. Schnicke are all in the upper country getting out logs. The mine lies on both sides of a large creek which, during the summer months is comparatively dry, thus enabling the miners to obtain the free milling ore without much disadvantage. As soon as the fall rains, and later on deep snows sets in, mining operations come to a standstill.

At the Good Hope, on Silver Creek, a contract has been let to haul the ore from Silver Creek to the railroad at Index.

Y. M. C. A. HAS BEGUN ITS ACTIVITIES FOR THE WINTER IN DULUTH

BOYS PLAN JOLLY DAYS

Attractive Program for Winter Months at the Boys' Department.

Lads' Own Committees Will Direct the Various Activities.

(By Norman D. McLeod, Secretary of the Boys' Department.)

Seven years ago the Young Men's Christian association decided to enlarge its work for boys, and opened up the separate building at Sixth avenue east and Third street. This forward movement has proven a success, and the Duluth Y. M. C. A. bays' department is among the best in North America.

During the summer months the work has been largely outdoors, as it is the outdoor activities that appeal to boys during that time. Commencing Monday, Oct. 4, the work in the gymnasium and club rooms will commence. The gymnasium has undergone some repairs, and some new games and furniture have been added to the clubroom. The plans outlined for this season provide a variety of activities which ought to appeal to every boy.

The past week has been a busy one, organizing the new committees that will have charge of the different activities during the year. All the committees have met during the week and outlined what they will try to accomplish during the season.

A banquet has been planned for Friday evening, Oct. 8, when all the committees will be formally appointed and installed into office by the committee of management. These committees meet once a month for dinner to talk over their work and make plans.

The music committee will have charge of all the music in connection with the club. It will organize an orchestra, a drum corps and possibly a glee club. This committee is in charge of Harry Weston, John Naslund, George McCaskill, Argyle Chamberlain, Hugo Freimuth and Otto Olson.

Bible Study.

The Bible study committee will plan study clubs for high school boys, grade school boys and employed boys. These classes will commence about Oct. 15. Every boy in a Bible class has a chance of winning a diploma. The boys who will constitute this committee are Rex S. Clair, Frank Whipple, Ledru Bevis, Ludwig Melander, Irving Aske, Robert Johnson, Lloyd Sayer, Delmar Johnson, Ivan Northfield, Harold Berquist, Lucian Young, Dwight McConaughy and F. T. Burrall.

The camp and outing committee will arrange for outings during the winter, summer observation trips, clubs of various kinds, and the summer camp. The committee is composed of Morrison Harris, Richard Cullum, Roy Johnson, Gilbert Bates, David Wanless, Griffith McConaughy, James Wharton, Herbert Roecker, Russell Duncan, Robert Kerr, David Cook, Duncan Frick, Charles Jeronimus and Irving Thompson.

The social committee is composed of George Martin, Ely Salyards, Mortimer Stanford, John Panton, Chauncey Carpenter, Knox Winton, Irving Moore, Earl McNally, Harold Grey, Nat McConaughy, Sherman Powell, James Owen, Leslie Cromwell, Howard Cant, Paul Flinn, Kenneth Barrows and Harold Bradley. They will have charge of all the special affairs. Friday night is the social night and something is always planned for that evening. All the birthdays are fittingly observed and the social life of the boys will be well looked after.

The membership committee makes a systematic canvas for new members and also arranges for the special "hustle" that is conducted every year. Last season the membership went as high as 576. This year the committee will endeavor to make it 500. The fellows who will compose this important committee are: William Nelson, Caldwell Harris, Roy Olson, Arthur Osman, Robert Miller, John Hallenebck, Ralph Dunning, Whitney Wall, Byron Clifford, Arthur Roecker, John Fredin, John Batey, John McCabe, Norman Tallmadge, Thornton McLean, Melville Beruniss, Floyd Owen, Arthur Beck, Albert Hulin and Deane Davis.

The Sunday club committee arranges for the older boys' meeting Sunday afternoons. The members will secure the speakers, provide the programs, boost the attendance and prepare the lunches. These meetings are planned particularly for older boys and the committee this year will leave nothing undone to make it more popular than ever. The boys responsible for this phase of the work will be Palmer Bevis, Glen Merritt, Walter Glass, Edwin Linderberg, Ralph Hoyde, Robert Edmonds, Arthur McMillan, Wellington Cook, Henry Nesbitt, James Smallwood, Walter Wilander and Elnar Jacobson.

The "pirates' meeting," the Sunday afternoon gathering for the boys under 15 years, will be in the hands of Clifford Hay, George Low, Hunter Towne, Harold Hein, Raymond Mapp, Allan McPonald, Edgar Smith, Wener Whipson, Harold Caulkins, Albert Armstrong, Sidney Jensen, Ellis Butchart, Alfred McMillan, Gordon Whiteside, Ralph McCarthy, Gerald McCormick, Stephen McGiffert, William Merritt, Stanley Solheim. In addition to the Sunday meeting, the pirates will look after the boys' department entertainment course including the minstrel show. This work will belong to Earl Bradley, Laurence Duby, Stanley Lamb, Winfield Davis, Louis Ardouin, Harold Sampson, Mark Crassweller, Owen Emeshwiller.

Athletics.

The athletic committee will comprise Asher Taylor, Eben Spencer, T. F. Phillips, Roger Whiteside, Ward Brown, Ben Nelson, Oscar Solheim, William Capen, Arnold Olson, Harold Armstrong, Raymond Larson, Kenneth Harris, Laurence Boyle, Clifford Broad, William Elder, John Kearns, Carl Lindquist and Albin Lee. This committee will have charge of the gymnastics and athletics inside and outside the building. Regular gymnasium classes meet afternoons and evenings. These classes will always be under the personal supervision of the physical director, J. R. Batchelor, who has had ten years of experience with gymnastics for boys. A complete physical examination will be given to every boy who wants it. This examination is more thorough than the United States medical examination and is given without extra cost.

Grade school and high school basket ball leagues will be conducted and trophies awarded. A Saturday night league will be conducted, including basket ball, indoor baseball and athletics. Trophies will be awarded. Graded gymnastics will be taught in all classes and with the aid of competent leaders, corps from among the different classes will give an indoor circus, indoor athletic field meet, cross-city relay races and exhibitions during the year.

The common notion that a tent is specially hygienic is incorrect. A tent is far less hygienic than a wooden shack, because the air is more confined and there are no windows to open. The best shelter for invalids camping in a dry region, like the Arizona desert, is made of four posts supporting wire netting, into which branches of some tree having been woven, leaving just enough light to read by.

BUSY TIMES IN THE "GYM"

Winter Months Will Be Active Ones in the Athletic Department.

Courses Offered in Every Branch of Physical Development.

(By A. W. Wegener.)

The committee in charge of the athletic section of the Y. M. C. A. work has issued a booklet giving an outline of the classes and other activities for the coming season, which opened Monday, Sept. 27.

The preachers start the day with a Blue Monday club at 10 a. m. Mondays. At 11:30, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays, a class for night workers, and others will be held; at 12:15 noon every day, a class for older business men. Several of the most prominent men of the city have attended these classes regularly, with remarkable results. The class work is followed by a game of ball. The young men play basket ball, whereas the older business men are enthusiastic over volley ball and indoor baseball.

A. B. WEGENER,
Physical Director.

Volley Ball.

Volley ball has only lately been introduced in the city, and is proving remarkably attractive to the older business men and cause them to become boys once more. Enthusiasm and excitement run high in the game every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday noon.

Another group, equally enthusiastic, plays indoor baseball every Monday, Wednesday and Friday noon.

The afternoon classes for business men at 4:30 Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and the 5:30 classes on Mondays, Wednesday and Fridays will be equally attractive and will accommodate a group of men who cannot come at noon.

Much is expected of the new class that is scheduled for young men at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday and Fridays. This will be for men who have to work until 6 o'clock and who can come at once to the "gym" for a half or three-quarters of an hour and then have the rest of the evening to themselves. Wherever a class has been held at this hour in other Y. M. C. A.'s it has proven a great success.

A. F. OLSON,
Assistant Physical Director.

The evening class for young men will be held twice a week, on Mondays and Thursdays, at 8 o'clock, for the entire evening. It is planned to make this the most popular class for young men. More time can be had to run off an extended program, including marching drills with dumbbells, wands, clubs and other light gymnastics. Some very light exercises of the house, bars, ladders, etc., will be followed by gymnastic dancing and this, in turn, by games.

The class will be divided into four teams, competing each class evening in one of the following: Basket ball, indoor baseball, volley ball, indoor soccer, football, relay races, athetics and gymnastic stunts. A score board will be kept and the standing of the teams posted. Wherever these "group games" have been held they have been a great drawing card for sport-loving men.

Other features of this class will be social stunts by the social committee, singing by the class, special musical numbers from time to time and a series of yells, a la college.

Another feature, perhaps the most instructive and helpful, will be a series of brief talks on hygiene and health. The men will be told how to gain weight, how to reduce weight; of treatment for weak hearts, indigestion, constipation, nervous breakdown, hints on bathing, and questions of vital importance in the sex life of young men. These evenings will be a real school of physical training that no young man can afford to miss.

Special Features.

In all "gym" work there are in addition to the regular class features, a line of special features, such as boxing, fencing, wrestling, tumbling, and fancy gymnastics. To supply the demand for these, a class for boxing is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Wednesdays and one in wrestling at 8:30 on the same nights.

These are conducted in the small "gym." At the same time, from 8 to 9:30 on Wednesdays in the large "gym," a special class in gymnastic apparatus work and advanced gymnastics will be held. This is also an innovation and ought to appeal to young men who wish to learn stunts.

The popular game of basket ball will receive attention Mondays, from 7:15 to 8 p. m., and Fridays, from 8 to 9:30, will be reserved for basket ball practice and games while the game will also be played after class exercises. Representative teams will be organized to play other organizations. The physical directors will coach and develop the teams.

Swimming and water sports will also be developed. Free instructions will be given to members and contests will be held in rowing, water polo, water basket ball, life saving and plunging.

Athletics will also receive special attention. The excellent running track will give opportunity for developing athletics such as are held in other large cities. It is planned to have outdoor events as well as indoor. The wonderful atmosphere of Duluth is specially conducive to long distance running and, in due time, Duluth streets will become dotted with cross-city runners and carriers.

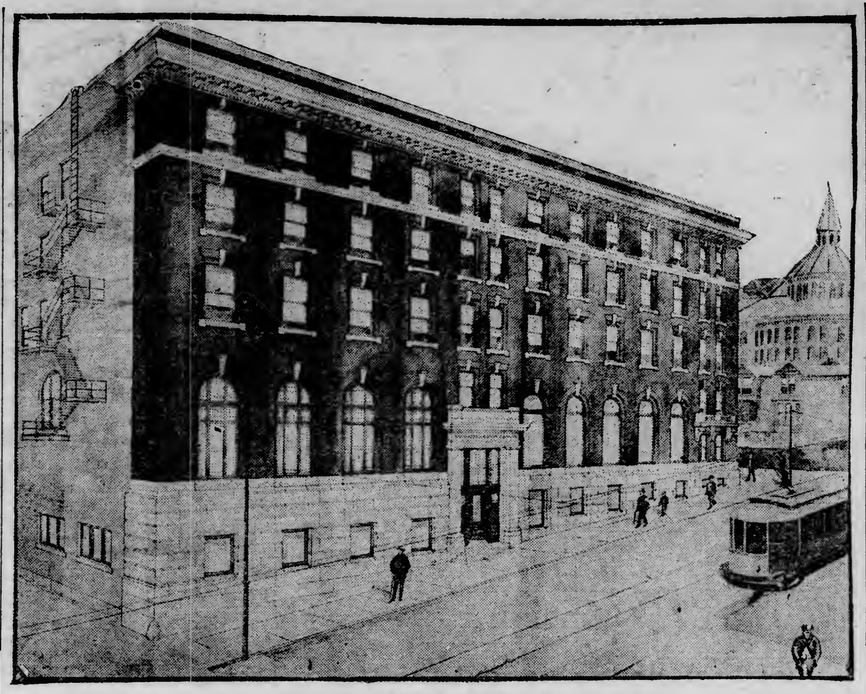

Much will also be made of examining the members to note their physical defects and in prescribing treatment to overcome them. Heart and lungs will be examined, measurements taken to get the man's physical worth.

Hand ball has proven to be one of the best indoor games. Tournaments will be held later in the season.

A series of special events open to the public has been planned as follows: An indoor circus, Nov. 16, and 17; New Year's afternoon games, water sports in January, an athletic event in February, exhibition and minstrel show in March, wrestling tournament and hand ball tournament in April, and a banquet at the close of the season.

With this schedule of active, up-to-date physical recreation there is no need of any young man in Duluth questioning where to spend his leisure time profitably.

Editor's note—Director Wegner has spent twenty years in this work. He is a graduate of University of Tennessee, where he taught gymnastics and coached athletes, and a graduate of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. physical training school. He has taught in several of the largest Y. M. C. A's and is known for his technical and practical knowledge of the work. He has written several books on the subject. He is ably assisted by A. F. Olson, who has been employed several seasons by the local association.

THE MAIN BUILDING.

While the Y. M. C. A. is open all the year round, it is during the fall, winter and early spring that the greatest activity abounds.

The first of October sees the active season in all branches of the association work under way, and the prospectus of the various departments indicates that it is going to excel those seasons of the past in every direction.

The attractions offered men and boys are varied and are carefully conducted under the direction of men who know how to do well the things they are teaching others.

The appeal of the gymnasiums at the main house for men and at the boys' department for youths is general, and the social, educational and religious sides have not been neglected.

Heads of the various departments of the association have prepared for The Herald outlines of the activities they will give their special attention, and they are given herewith.

ATTRACTIONS ARE VARIED

Many Things to Attract Men to the Main House.

Entertainment Course Is One of Many Features of Program.

(By E. D. Rauck, Membership and Social Secretary.)

Autumn is at hand and winter will soon be knocking for admittance. The men who have been enjoying out-door

E. D. RANCK,
Assistant General Secretary.

exercise and recreation must retreat before Jack Frost and seek entertainment on the inside.

The Y. M. C. A. stands open to the young men of the city of Duluth, as a home for them, a place where they can receive all the necessities to take care of the spirit, mind and body, which is the motto of the association. Following is the outline of the work in general:

The Sunday afternoon meetings, the Sunday Breakfast club and the Wednesday evening Bible classes, are to promote social fellowship and Bible study in the membership of the association.

The educational department, with its splendid schedule of classes in the night school, with practical courses taught by practical teachers, at moderate prices for the development of the mind.

The physical department with its splendid equipment and efficient physical directors. The handball court, wrestling matts, etc., while the swimming pool and shower baths exemplifies the motto that cleanliness is next to Godliness.

The social department is making a special effort this winter to provide entertainment of the highest type. Arrangements have been made for a musical or literary entertainment each month, as follows: Oct. 2, Dixie Jubilee Singers; Nov. 13, Edwin Brush, magician; Dec. 11, Ash Davis, cartoonist; Jan. 15, Castle Square Entertainers; Feb. 5, Lulu Tyler Gates, reader; March 5, Apollo Concert company and Bell Ringers.

This course is given at a special low price of $1.50 for the six numbers to members and their friends. It is not to make money but to create sociability among the members. The department is congratulating itself upon securing this array of talent.

The bowling alley has been repaired, and new mineralitic balls secured. It is becoming very popular, as is the new amusement room, equipped as it is with the best pool and billiard tables that money could secure. The light is thoroughly distributed over the tables and have shown on crowds nightly.

The Spa, or lunch room, is a very popular room in the building, where wholesome home cooking is relished by the members.

The dormitory, with its large well-furnished well lighted and well ventilated rooms and two shower baths on each floor, is filled at all times.

There is no institution in the city that gives as much return on the investment as the Y. M. C. A. and the man who neglects to take advantage of the privileges through this association is missing a good thing.

PHIL BEVIS,
General Secretary.

INSTITUTE IS OPENED

Night School Classes at the Y. M. C. A. Have Started.

Courses of Study in Many Subjects Are Being Offered.

(By R. C. Coffin, Educational Director.)

The educational department of the Y. M. C. A., the association institute, is under the supervision of a committee comprising W. D. Bailey and C. W. Andrews, and under my direction.

The night school activities have begun. These night classes afford an excellent opportunity for the men and boys who wish to better prepare themselves for the work they are engaged in, or fit themselves for new positions. It is organized to aid the man who is already at work and seeks to make a bad workman good and a good workman better. It is a home school, taught by Duluth teachers, with no other aim than to help the men and boys of Duluth. The instructors are practical men trained in school and shop.

It is not the aim of the association institute to enter into competition with other schools or to duplicate their work. It seeks rather to supplement regular school work by offering to young men in evening classes such studies as they need to round out their education, prepare them for better positions or make up requirements for higher institutions of learning. A wide range of subjects is offered. The class rooms are well heated and lighted, and all surroundings congenial.

The association reading room affords a good place for study before and after classes. The school work can be supplemented with helpful recreation in gymnasium, bowling alley, pool room, and good baths.

Each student receives the personal attention of the teacher. The courses are practical and planned to meet the needs of the individual student. New classes are started whenever a sufficient number of men are interested.

Night School Faculty.

The faculty members, their present positions, and the classes they teach in the institute are as follows:

Other courses offered are public speaking and debate, telephony, sheet metal pattern drafting and salesmanship.

The committee on educational work feels that a great opportunity is offered for helpful service, in teaching English to the coming Americans of Duluth. Besides the classes in the association building, the institute has for several years conducted classes in English for foreign-speaking people in the West end. These classes are starting off with a good attendance this year and preparations are being made to extend the class work to other parts of the city where sufficient need may exist.

To men and boys whose only time to study is during the evenings, these courses offer a rare opportunity for personal instruction along practical lines. By individual instruction, students can advance much more rapidly than in primary classes. Every young man who wants to become more efficient, who wants to prepare himself for promotion, and who realizes that he needs a better educational equipment with which to work, should enroll in the Association Institute.

Groups of men with common interests often gain as much help through educational clubs as through class instruction. The director is always glad to co-operate with men in forming clubs for debate, discussion of live questions, or the promotion of intelligence and mutual enjoyment along educational lines. With a good dark room for use, the camera club should soon have a large membership.

Educational lectures of a high order by specialists in different fields are often given free to students of the institute. Plans will be made to again co-operate with the Commercial club of this city to have a course of agricultural lectures given by professors of the state university. This course proved very profitable last year, and should be increasingly so from year to year as the agricultural possibilities of St. Louis county are developed.

The reading room and library is especially accessible to the men of the educational department, being located on the same floor as the classrooms. A large selected list of popular and technical magazines will be found on the tables. The room is commodious and well lighted.

We are here for service. Some one has said: "Often times the only difference between the beggar and the rich man, early in life, is the difference in the use they make of their leisure moments."

RELIGIOUS MEETINGS

Are to Receive Special Attention During the Cold Weather.

Department of Religious Work Will Be Very Busy One.

(By J. A. McGaughey, Religious Director.)

The association by its very nature, as by its avowed principles, is a supplementary Christian movement. It recognizes the church as the primary agency and the only institution that can permanently care for the men and boys of this community, nevertheless there is a large field for the Y. M. C. A.

Practically all the "institutional work' of the church, for men and boys, must be done here, and each church should claim a part in the promotion of this enterprise. There is in addition to this a large field for distinctly religious efforts among the classes of men not reached by ordinary church methods.

Extension Work.

Our extension work is at present reaching over 400 men each week in the shops and factories of Duluth. These classes are conducted at the noon and midnight lunch hours and the course of study is "The Life of Christ."

The Bible study feature of association work has been pushed to the front during the past year, the enrollment being 203. Much good, we believe, was accomplished and we hope the coming year to greatly enlarge this work.

The work among the dormitory men is most important. The Sunday Breakfast club is a most enjoyable, as also a very helpful agency. Personal work classes and those for the promotion of the prayer life are planned.

The Sunday afternoon meeting has always been a mighty instrument in the work of reaching men. The informality of the service, the fact that men only attend, and the lack of special dress are attractive many, who otherwise would not attend. We are planning for large things this coming year, confident in the hope of reaching hundreds of non-church going men and boys.

New work is being planned, which we trust will enlarge the influence of our work greatly.

Strangers' Club.

A "Strangers' club" is being formed; only those who have been in the city less than six months will be eligible.

A new series of Bible classes will be conducted in the fire halls. An effort along the line of co-operation with the churches in establishing men's Bible classes is also in project.

An effort to secure better social conditions among the working men is being considered.

Looking forward to the new year, we are wonderfully encouraged by a large and efficient religious work committee of thirty-one members. Mr. Balchoin is chairman and K. C. Hoxie is secretary. At the head of each of the eight different types of work, which we are pushing, we have an able and effective chairman, and yet we must have the co-operation of all interested in this line of work to secure the best results. We crave your advice and prayers.

WEALTHY MEN'S SUSPICIONS.

From the "Light Side of Finance" in the Strand: Wealthy men, if not guilty of trickery, are often abnormally suspicious of tricks. The celebrated author, the late Charles Reade, was one of this kind. He always imagined he was being robbed, and set traps to catch the thieves. When he became lossee of the old Queen's theater he suspected that his ticket office cheated him by letting in the public for anything they could get and keeping the money. So Reade turned up the collar of his overcoat, pulled his hat down over his eyes, and, shuffling up to the box office as the people were going in, he shoved a half-crown into the box office keeper's hand, and whispered:

"It's all right—that's for you—don't want a ticket. Just pass me through."

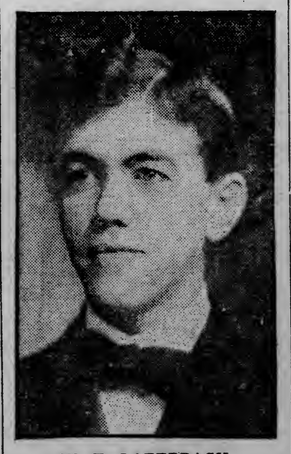

The clerk ran out, seized Reade by his coat collar, and was passing him roughly into the street, when he recognized his "chief."

YEGGMEN TRY TO LOOT SANDSTONE FIRST NATIONAL

Blow Outer Doors of Vault Containing Some $20,000 in Cash.

Attack on Inner Receptacle Is Abandoned at Last Moment.

Building Is Damaged and Offices Are Wrecked By Explosions.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—An ineffectual attempt was made by yeggmen early this morning to rob the First National bank of this place.

Two doors on the vaults were blown off, but the safe inside the vault, said to contain about $20,000 in currency, was not opened, although the burglars had started to force it open with nitroglycerin when they were evidently frightened off. Their tools and some nitro-glycerin were found in the bank.

The damage to the banking room is extensive, the force of the explosions having torn the oank furnishings and practically wrecked the room.

Heard Two Explosions.

Several citizens recall hearing two muffled sounds about 2:30 a. m., but not until 6 o'clock this morning was the work of the yeggmen discovered by a passerby.

An employe of the Sandstone quarry named Zeugler reported to Marshal Halliday that about 1 a. m. today, as he was approaching the quarry from town, he was accosted by four men, who tried to hold him up. He took to his heels and, returning to town, spent the night in a hotel.

As the tools left by the yeggs—a pick, crowbar and similar implements—had been stolen from the blacksmith shop at the quarry, it is presumed that they were about to break into the shop and carry off the tools when they heard the employe of the quarry coming and chased him away.

All Windows Broken.

The explosions that wrecked the bank vault and made the banking room look as though a ten-inch shell had exploded therein must have been terrific.

CUDAHY COMPANY WILL PAY $97,777

Compromise Effected in Suit for Failure to Obey Federal Stamp Law.

Leavenworth, Kan., Oct. 11.—The case against the Cudahy Packing company for the violation of the internal revenue laws by failing to place stamps of proper denomination on packages of oleomargarine, came to an end in the federal court here today by a compromise. The packing company was fined $5,000 and agreed to pay a back stamp tax of $82,777 and special tax of $10,000 for agencies, making the total of $97,777 to be paid by the packing company to the government.

AMERICAN AERONAUT ACCUSED OF CHEATING

EDGAR W. MIX.

Geneva, Oct. 11.—The final classification of the standing of the competitors in the recent international balloon race, which started a week ago last Sunday from Zurich, has been held up pending an investigation of the statement by Otto Thumb, a Dettva, Hungary, merchant, in a postal card received by the committee that he saw Edgar W. Mix, the American contestant, land in Hungary. The committee is searching for Herr Thumb in order to obtain a further report from him.

WRIGHT'S FACE IS HIS WIND GAUGE

Aviator Needs No Instruments to Tell Him Direction and Velocity.

College Park, Md., Oct. 11.—The anemometer is no particular friend of Wilbur Wright, although he does have a speaking acquaintance with the one that surmounts the aeroplane shed at College Park for the benefit of the officers of the signal corps. Mr. Wright has another method of estimating the direction and the velocity of the wind.

Mr. Wright's method is walking in a circle. Traveling at the rate of four miles an hour in this circle, he is able to judge the direction from which the softest breeze of two miles an hour lifts his face, and to appreciate that the pressure is nine times as great when it strikes his face directly as when his back is turned to the wind.

VOTE TO ASK REMSEN TO BE THE POLAR JUDGE.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The National Geographic society, in response to a proposal from the Peary Arctic club, today adopted a resolution agreeing to join the American Geographic society and the American Museum of Natural History in requesting Dr. Ira Remsen, president of the National Academy of Sciences, to appoint a commission to examine a report on the Arctic records, observations and data of Commander Robert E. Peary and Dr. Frederick A. Cook.

Contributions to Johnson Memorial Fund Are Still Coming In.

Only Three Weeks Left in Which to Complete Fund.

The Johnson Memorial Fund stands today as follows:

Received up to noon today	29.00
Total to date	$745.35

Six employes of Drake-Stratton Company at Leonard mine send $1 each.

Two contributions come from Ontonagon, Mich.

A total of $10 has been received from the members of two Duluth families.

Even the wintry storm did not stop the growth of the Governor Johnson memorial fund, although it undoubtedly had the effect of preventing some people reaching The Herald office with their contributions, the result being that the receipts today fall below the average. The fund received by The Herald is now close to $750, and there are thousands of people in St. Louis county whose names should be on the list so that the fund may be increased to at least $1,000 before the end of the present week.

LIVES IMPERILLED BY HURRICANE ON FLORIDA COAST

Weather Bureau Predicts Disaster Reaching Into the Interior.

Havana Suffers Severely From Visitation of the Raging Storm.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Great destruction to property and loss of life on the South Atlantic coast and even in the interior, according to Prof. Willis L. Moore, is certain to result from a great hurricane, which has reached Southern Florida and is making its way up the coast.

The weather bureau has received information that has led Prof. Moore to take every measure possible to protect the inhabitants of the islands off the Florida coast from the approaching storm. At noon he sent the following instructions by wire to the signal office observers at Jupiter Inlet, Tampa, Jacksonville and Thomasville, Ga:

"Hurricane now central near Key West, promises to be destructive to life and property over a large portion of the Florida peninsula. You are authorized to incur any necessary expense and to adopt every reasonable measure to disseminate warnings to the islands, coast cities and even the interior of the state."

Newly Appointed Ambassador on the Carpet Before Secretary Knox.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Whether Charles R. Many indications today supported the belief that the situation in which Mr. Crane stands is exceedingly serious, and in quarters presumably well informed the belief strengthened with the passage of the hours, that Minister Crane's connection with the diplomatic service is in a very precarious condition.

It was thought this morning that the matter would not be closed up today, but might in fact require several days

CO-OPERATIVE STORES AND THE BRITISH WORKMAN'S "CAPITAL"

Written for The Evening Herald by Zach McGhee.

(Copyright 1909, by Zach McGhee.)

London, Sept. 27.—One of the best illustrations of the British doctrine, in co-ordination with the principle of protection to the consumer, is in the co-operative stores in practically every town in the United Kingdom.

These stores are, quite naturally, not very popular with the private or corporate merchants, because they are growing so steadily in popularity and success and spreading so widely into all the spheres of retail trade that the private merchants, small and large, are feeling keenly their competition; just exactly as the small and special merchants in America are feeling more and more keenly the competition of the department stores.

These co-operative stores in the United Kingdom are in truth nothing other than department stores, and illustrate, just as the American department stores do, the apparently inevitable movement of the world toward combination by which the waste of competition is eliminated.

The co-operative stores are in fact corporations, or as they are called in England "limited companies." They do business with the public just like other stores, and their prices are based on cost plus the usual profit. The one difference, which is of course fundamental, is in the ownership of stock in the company. Every purchaser in most cases is a stockholder, and the slip showing the amount of purchase is a stock certificate, upon which there is a dividend paid at regular intervals. In some cases the purchase of a shilling's worth makes one a member or a stockholder.

Co-operative Store Plan.

There is nothing new, of course, in the general principle of the co-operative store, but it is a revelation and somewhat of an inspiration to know of their wonderful success over here. There is scarcely an instance of one of these companies failing, and as said above, they are in successful operation in practically every town, great and small, in England, Scotland and Ireland.

One of these concerns at Edinburgh, the second largest in Great Britain, has been for some time and still is paying a dividend of 20 to 22 per cent. That means that for every dollar's worth of goods purchased, the buyer, if a member of the co-operative society, gets back, or did get back for the last year, 22 cents. A non-member who made purchases got back, when the dividend was declared, just half, or 11 cents, out of every dollar of purchase.

To be a member of this particular society one must have five shares of stock of a pound each, or £5 (about $25) in all; but anyone over 16 can buy the stock and have four years to pay for it. It is generally paid for in dividends. There are 38,180 members now, and this number is steadily increasing. No member is allowed to hold more than 200 shares, or $1,000 worth.

It is to be doubted whether even Marshall Fields or John Wanamaker's pays as large a dividend as this Edinburgh co-operative department store pays, and it is certain that the patrons of neither of these stores are anything like as well satisfied with their purchase as these Edinburgh patrons.

Get Nice Discount.

Just think of a man or a woman going to a store, buying goods at the regular market prices at which they would have to be bought at any other store, and then at the end of the year getting back, not in goods or certificates with which to buy goods, but in cold cash, 20 cents out of every dollar. This is what these Edinburgh people did, and similarly people all over these islands are doing. This is an unusual record, it is true, but it shows what can be done, as well as the determination to do it. Nearly all of the stores pay good dividends.

Above all, the rapid and far-reaching growth of these co-operative department stores, the gradual extension of the membership from the so-called

TAFT SEES SITE OF WEST COAST'S FORTIFICATIONS

Visits Los Angeles and the Harbor and Works at San Pedro.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—President Taft, fresh from his four days of touring and sightseeing in the canyons of Yosemite, arrived in Los Angeles shortly before 8 o'clock today. The period of respite from crowds, banquets and speech-making has accomplished a happy effect, and the famous smile adorned the president's features as the welcoming committee boarded his special train.

After being greeted by Mayor Alexander and the other members of the committee, the train pulled out for San Pedro, the harbor of Los Angeles, where the party was to spend several hours in viewing the government work on the big breakwater and the site of the proposed fortifications.

When President Taft reached Los Angeles he had accomplished 6,266 of the total of 12,759 miles of journey stretched out before him when he left Beverly, Mass., a month ago.

Almost exactly one-half of the swing across the United States has ended. Here the president turns eastward for his long tour through the Southwest and South, finally ending at the White House.

Visiting His Sister.

The principal reason that Los Angeles received two days of the presidential schedule was the fact that the president's sister, Mrs. Edwards, is a resident of this city, and he desired an opportunity to spend as much time as possible with her. He will spend the night at his sister's home.

There were no official ceremonies at the station this morning, the welcoming address and other formal features

The game is nothing more than a combination between the Ripley Brower and R. C. Threatening Weather Makes Delay in World Series Possible.

Mullin and Leifield Are Fans' Choices for Pitchers in Third Game.

Score at end of third inning: Pittsburg, 6; Detroit, 0.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11.—A leaden sky with an occasional glimpse of the sun and a damp field greeted the crowd as it made its way to Bennett park today for the first of the world's championship games between Pittsburg and Detroit in this city and the third of the series. At no time was it certain it would not rain, but the thousands went to the park determined to brave anything to see the great battle.

It would take a remarkably heavy rainfall for the national commission to postpone the game as the officials and two teams are eager to finish the crucial series as soon as possible.

It rained hard yesterday afternoon and for some time after dark. Then the rain stopped, but it became colder.

The chilly atmosphere was not conducive to good work in the field, and the glorious weather for the two games in Pittsburg made the contrast worse.

May Delay Series.

If rain should start to fall heavily it will put the Detroit games over until Tuesday and Wednesday and will delay the next game at Pittsburg until Thursday.

HER SHARE OF PROFITS

Mrs. Lydia Becker Wants $25,000 From Martin Rosendahl.

Claims She Secured Butte-Ballaklava Deal for Broker.

The suit of Mrs. Lydia Becker against Martin Rosendahl for $25,000, one-sixth of the profits she claims Mr. Rosendahl made through his "booming" of Butte-Ballaklava stock, was taken up before Judge Hughes in district court this morning. A jury was secured during the morning session and the taking of testimony was begun this afternoon.

Mrs. Becker claims that in 1907, when she was in the employ of the Butte-Ballaklava Copper company, she and Mr. Rosendahl entered into a written contract, under the terms of which she agreed to introduce him to the officers of the company in order that confidential relations might be established and in order that he might become the "booster" for the stock.

She claims that in payment for her services, Mr. Rosendahl promised to pay her a reasonable commission on all profits he would make by reason of such relations. She claims that she performed her agreement and was instrumental in confidential relations being established between Mr. Rosendahl and the company.

She alleges that Mr. Rosendahl secured control of 5,000 shares of the stock and "boomed" it so that at one time it was selling for $20 a share. As the result of her recommending him to the officers of the company, she claims, he made $150,000 and she wants one-sixth of it as her commission under the contract.

ELEVEN HORSES PERISH IN AN INCENDIARY FIRE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Eleven horses were burned and killed Saturday night when fire destroyed the barn of the Pils Transfer company, 823 Fourth street north, and several tons of hay in the James Duffy haymarket next door.

A man and his big mastiff dog fought in the smoke and flames to save the business which the man has built up by the work of years. They failed utterly, for a few minutes after the first flames, evidently of incendiary origin, were seen, there was nothing left but the smudgy ruins of a barn and a livelihood.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM

NEW FIELD FOR CHURCH

No Longer Concerned With the Doctrinal, But the Social.

Fearless Prophets Are Today Needed in Pulpit, Says Pastor.

"The Social Aspect of Religion," was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. George R. Gebauer, at the First Unitarian church, corner First street and Eighth avenue east, yesterday morning.

"A generation ago the concern of the church was largely theological and doctrinal. Today, it is to no small extent social," he said. "What now stands foremost is the question, 'How can the church fulfill its social conditions?'

"Doctrine has receded int othe background, and our time seeks to see God more than ever in man and religion in human service. Of course the church has no means of enforcing social justice; it has not the machinery to enter into the practical work of reform; but it can and must supply the moral energy and the spiritual enthusiasm needed for all attempts at reform. Except the pulpit will thrill us by its ideals of justice and love for man as man, it will more and more become merely a cold storage house for respectable 'little' souls, who are waiting for the coming of the Lord to give them the kingdom, which it is their duty to build up. The social enthusiast in the pulpit may not have a very clear understanding of the situation, he may at times be a rather disturbing factor, but he will at least awaken the people before him to the fact that there is a social problem and that things in this world are not what they ought to be. Circumspection and wisdom is a good thing, but only too often it will settle down into the passive trust that 'somehow good will be the final goal of ill,' that evolution will take care of things. Such philosophy forgets, that evolution developed heart and soul and mind in us, that we may contribute our share to the process of evolution and help guide social development. It may be hard to see the truth and to say the truth, which offends, but except the preacher will do so, he forfeits his inherit right to God's platform.

"And was there ever a time that needed more loving but withal fearless prophets? The minister has no panacea for the ills of the body social, but he can say at least that there are ills, which need treatment and wrongs which need correction, he can point his finger to the sore and diseased places. He can arouse the public conscience and stir the feelings of social responsibility. What does social responsibility mean? It means that man is not confined by his skin. It means that the notion of 'individual pure and simple' is simply pure fiction. It means that the individual is merely a social unit, a part of the great whole, that the whole is larger self and that he is responsible to that whole. Yes more, that the individual must ever so live, that he plays his part in perfect harmony with the best interests of the whole in which he lives and moves and has his being.

"Nobody can live for himself, at least no civilized man. Personal rights are simply whatever is right and proper for each and all to do, and personal duties are simply our 'dues' to society. The sad thing is that so many of our children still grow up with the notion that they are only responsible to themselves. This is why the grown up man, earning his own wage, often believes that the money is his to do with according to his pleasure. He will not see that his capacity to earn involves social duties and that his money belongs to his wife and children as much as to himself, and that it must be expended in a way helpful to all.

"On the other hand there is the social responsibility of society as a whole. And as the individual fails so often in his social duties, so fails also society in its duties toward the individuals of which it is composed. Society will not see that in order to become of highest efficiency that it must develop the individual to the highest efficiency and give him all it can to bring about his happiness and welfare.

"Society in our day is still partial and is guided by the wishes and desires of the few. It is the recognition of this fact which causes the outcry of the masses, who care not for 'charity,' but rightly demand 'justice,' a just status of society, in which all will have like opportunities for well being and happiness. We know the injustice which pervades our economic and industrial life, 'we know that the wage earner does not receive what is due to his labor,' we know that crime and immorality abound, because a selfish individualism controls the affairs of mankind. Thus society itself becomes partner in the very things which it condemns and for which it brings the individual before the bar of justice and by legal procedure condemns him often to still more unjust treatment. For whatever we may think of the offender and his responsibility, it must be plain to every thinking mind that social justice is not done by vindicating the 'majesty of the law,' and the law of brotherhood is not fulfilled when the iron door shuts behind the condemned culprit. Justice is only done when the offender is made to see the wrong of his act and by repentance and a new life condones for the past. Our penal methods are still essentially barbaric, as long as the educative method and the restorative idea are not used to make of the criminal a better man and a worthy member of society. Society owes to every man, no matter how deeply sunk in crime and sin, to make the best of him. But above all these sad and bad conditions in society, should lead society to proper sanitary measures to stamp out the cause of crime and misery. We need economic and industrial as well as moral sanitation. Society must sooner or later control all phases of industrial and economic and intellectual life, it must become the arbiter between the individual and his industrial environment. It must become the protector of the weak and the restrainer of the strong."

SERVICE OF SUFFERING

It Is the Privilege of the Strongest of the Race.

William N. Guthrie Speaks to Men at the Y. M. C. A.

William Norman Guthrie, the Southerner, who has been lecturing in Duluth for the last week upon the drama, was announced to speak at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting yesterday afternoon on "The Service of Suffering," or the part that pain and death have played in the progress of the world, but he side-tracked his principal theme long enough to take a vigorous whack at the newspapers, which he described as the greatest corruptors of the English language.

He scolded the nation's daily periodicals roundly, saying: "Nothing should be more sacred to us than the pure use of our diction and yet the press uses our language recklessly, flippantly and slovenly, with the result that it deteriorates into commonest street vernacular. Newspaper men are in need of teaching in rhetoric."

Sticking more closely to his subject, Mr. Guthrie said in part:

"Frankly, pain is the beginning of all thought. The noble things in literary art have pain in them. Suffering has been exploited to heighten, by contrast, the joy of existence.

"The history of tragedy dates back to primeval times. Early man had his problems to cope with and, to his credit, it must be said he had an infinite resource of courage. It is well enough for a Roosevelt with his engines of destruction to go on a hunting trip to darkest Africa, but put Roosevelt in the jungles, alone, with no more than a bow and arrow and I fear even his courage would quail. Yet these conditions primitive man met and conquered.

"To early man those things which pained him, or were an obstruction to him, were essentially wicked. He always saw two hostile camps, the Titans and the gods, the former laboring against him, the latter defending him.

"When he was pious in his attentions to the gods, and sorrow and pain came, he took it simply as a manifestation that the gods were out of sorts, just as a master in medieval days, coming from the chase empty-handed, vented his spite by beating or killing his serfs.

"Then came a higher understanding of pain. Opposed to the first theory of childhood, came the theory of youth. In primitive times when a youth reached man's estate he was initiated by some arduous test before allowed to don armor. So was pain regarded as a test imposed by the gods to provide for the growing of man. It was thought to be growing pain.

"But after a time this explanation of suffering did not suffice. Man noted that suffering did not always mean an advance. On the contrary, it often caused a decline. Then came the man's definition. Suffering was regarded as the privilege of the strongest of the race. The one who was fitter than his fellows deemed it an honor to be allowed to face the brunt of battle."

TWO YEARS IN ARCTIC CIRCLE

Port Arthur Explorer Who Knows Ground, Believes Peary's Story.

Capt. Walpole Roland of Port Arthur, a former royal engineer, is in Duluth on a visit with his daughter, Miss Mary Roland. Capt. Roland is 80 years old and has a record as a soldier, having served in several campaigns in Europe and Asia.

Capt. Roland spent two years within the Arctic circle, and is greatly interested in the controversy between Messrs. Cook and Peary as to the discovery of the North Pole. He is personally acquainted with Commander Peary and he says he believes implicitly in the truth of everything that Peary says. As to Cook, he believes that there will always be a doubt as to the validity of his claim.

Capt. Roland says the discovery of the North Pole is of little scientific value, although a matter of considerable public interes. He says the United States undoubtedly has a good claim to any territory annexed by the discovery.

GETS BIG TIE CONTRACT.

Dickinson County, Mich., Man to Fill Big Railroad Order.

Quinensec, Mich., Oct 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—S. H. Bridges, whose farm in the Sturgeon River valley of Dickinson county is one of the largest in Upper Michigan, and who incidentally conducts important logging operations, has contracted to furnish the Chicago & Northwestern company with 35,000 railroad ties.

The ties will be delivered along the right-of-way for shipment to the big central preserving plant of the company at Escanaba, there to be treated with chemicals for the purpose of giving them longer life, a process which has proved eminently successful. Mr. Bridges has already cut 10,000 of the ties and will fill the balance of the order the coming winter.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR BRIDGE PIERS.

The Interstate Dredge & Dock company will construct the piers for the transfer railway company's bridge across the St. Louis river at the site of the steel plant.

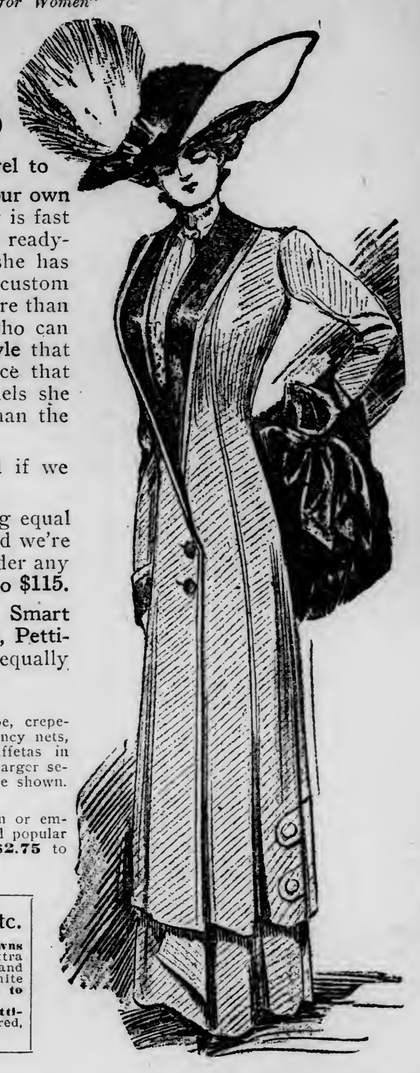

The contract has been awarded and the piers will be put in this winter, the superstructure being built by the American Bridge company in the spring.

The additional draftsmen who will be put to work on the plans for the plant will be housed in the Board of Trade building. There is no room in the Wolvin building for an office for these men, and a lease has been secured on the large, vacant room in the Board of Trade building just north of the Third avenue entrance.

NEW BRANCH AT BISMARCK

Stone-Ordean-Wells Company Are Branching Out in Dakota.

Lease a Three-Story Structure in North Dakota Capital.

The Stone-Ordean-Wells company, wholesale grocers of this city, will add a branch at Bismarck, N. D., to its growing string of auxiliary depots distributed throughout the Northwest.

Some time ago, C. R. Rust, manager of the concern, visited Bismarck, and looked over the situation. He returned so favorably impressed with the North Dakota capital as the location for a branch house, that negotiations were immediately begun to secure quarters there. The company has just closed a deal for a lease of a three-story brick building, with adequate railroad facilities, at Bismarck, and business will be started there as soon as possible.

The Stone-Ordean-Wells company already has branches at Minot, N. D., Billings, Mont., Bozeman, Mont., Butte, Mont., and Hancock, Mich., as well as sub-stations at Great Falls, Helena, Big Timber, Lewiston and Livingston, Mont. The firm has a number more in contemplation in the West.

LIMIT WALKER SALOONS.

Council Passes an Ordinance Reducing the Number to Two.

Walker, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The village council has passed an ordinance limiting the number of licensed saloons in the village to two and raising the license from $500 to $1,500. This means two saloons for the village instead of seven as heretofore, or none for the future. This is probably the culmination of an order from an authorized agent of the department of Indian affairs, to close saloons in this territory by Oct. 17 for the protection of its wards, the Indians.

If advantage is not taken of this special concession by Oct. 17, the government will come in and close all saloons, and chances of obtaining a license privileges are nil.

$10.00 Cash Prize.

We will pay $10.00 in gold to the school boy or girl who writes the best poem on Hiawatha Coffee to reach us on or before Oct. 20, 1909. Neat and good writing will count in the points.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"King Dodo."
BIJOU—New vaudeville bill.

"King Dodo."

It is safe to say that few entertainments of like nature have enjoyed the remarkable financial success that has fallen to the lot of "King Dodo," the merry mingling of mirth and melody, by Pixley and Luders. One solid year divided between Daly's theater, New York; the Tremont theater, Boston, and the Studebaker, Chicago, is only one of the many records it has made.

"King Dodo" this season will be seen in an entirely new dress. The scenery, costumes and effects are said to be even more elaborate than in the original production. John Cort has spared no expense in endeavoring to make this the grandest "King" of all. Charles H. Jones, who staged the original, was specially engaged for this production.

The company which Mr. Cort has selected is said to be superior in many respects to any that has appeared heretofore in the opera.

Mr. Luders supplied more than twenty jingling numbers for the opera, among which may be mentioned such vocal gems as "The Tale of a Bumble Bee," "Look in the Book and See," "A Jolly Old Potentate," "Two Hearts Made One," "The Eminent Dr. Fizz," "Diana," "The Cat's Quartet," "I'll Do or Die," "Old Father Time," "The Lad Who Leads" and "In the Spring."

Yes, "There is no King but Dodo."

FAST IS CONCLUDED.

Orthodox Jews Observe the Feast of the Tabernacles.

Among orthodox Jews, Saturday was a day of considerable significance on the calendar. It was a "rejoicing with the law" and marked the termination of the observance of the Jewish New Year, which lasts for fifteen days.

The "Feast of the Tabernacles" was celebrated and was the conclusion of a nine days' fast, which all members of the orthodox Jewish faith observed as religiously as possible. The reformed Jews observe but eight days of fasting.

LIGHTS FINDING FAVOR.

More Concerns Putting New Illuminations on the Curbs.

The new ornamental street lights, first seen on First street, are finding favor with the business men of the city and every week sees more concerns installing them in front of their places of business.

Many establishments on First street now have them and Third avenue west is being illumined by the new lights installed by the Kitchi Gammi club and French & Bassett. Owners of the Columbia building and the First National Bank building on Superior street are going to install them, and it is understood that a number of other Superior street concerns will follow suit.

JOHN ALBERT JOHNSON MEMORIAL FUND

John Albert Johnson Memorial Fund, Care of The Herald, Duluth:

Enclosed herewith please find ..... (not to exceed $1), as a contribution to the fund to be used for the erection at the state capitol of a monument to John Albert Johnson, late governor of Minnesota.

(Signed) .....

INTEREST IS MAINTAINED

ernor Eberhart has fixed upon Nov. 1 as the date to close the fund, when it is hoped to have $25,000 subscribed, so the time is short in which to contribute to this popular tribute to Minnesota's most beloved governor.

Several of the business houses and industrial establishments in Duluth have sent contributions to the fund, but the great majority have not been heard from. In contrast to this, the business houses and manufactories at St. Paul and Minneapolis have contributed hundreds of dollars in the aggregate. The members of the St. Paul Commercial fund have contributed over $500. The Duluth Commercial club has not been heard from as yet.

Child Enthusiasm.

The children of the St. Paul schools have contributed a large amount in pennies, nickels and dimes. Supt. Olson sent to the general fund $19.89 from the city schools of Cloquet. "No one child was permitted to give more than 5 cents," he wrote. "Thus have the contributions ranged from 1 to 5 cents, and nearly all the 1,250 children in the grades have contributed. This contribution is the children's mite to the memory of a great man." The teachers in the Adams school of Duluth contributed $14.50 as acknowledged by The Herald on Saturday, but nothing has been received from the other schools.

In the list today appear the names of ten members of two Duluth families, who contributed $1 each.

From the Leonard Mine.

Six employes of the Drake-Stratton company at the Leonard mine stripping works, two miles from Chisholm, have sent a check for $6 to The Herald to be added to the fund as an expression of the esteem in which the late governor is held in the mining districts.

Two $1 contributions arrived today from Ontonagon, Mich., again showing that the interest in the memorial movement extends even outside the state.

CO-OPERATIVE STORES AND THE BRITISH WORKMAN'S "CAPITAL"

working class, who started it, into all spheres of society, illustrates the determination of these British people to be free from the clutches of the big capitalist.

In most countries, our own in particular, it is believed that "capital," by which is generally meant a large sum of money in the hands of a "capitalist," is necessary for the success of industry and the general prosperity. And right here in England, as well as in America, there is now, as there always has been, a strong sentiment in certain quarters that millionaires are necessary and most beneficial to a country.

Hence the argument is—not openly, it is true, for it is not so popular as it used to be—that a protective tariff, which makes a few men immensely rich, benefits all by piling up capital to "invest' and so make industry flourish.

What Is Capital?

Well, these people who have been running their own gas, electric, and water works, street railways, markets, and now their own stores, do not belong to that school of economics. They say that brains and labor are the real capital, and it is simply astounding to an American to see that this is not any abstract theory but an actual realized fact.

Now in previous correspondence I have cited numerous incidents of prevailing prices of articles of common consumption in this land where the consumer is king. It might be supposed that the prices given were co-operative store prices, and hence that the low prices are due, not to the absence of the tariff, but to the co-operative stores. This is not the case, for the simple reason that, as stated above, the co-operative stores sell their goods at the market prices. There are in fact many people here who make a good return in dividends, put their prices a little higher than prevailing prices. The managers deny this, and I have examined some of their price lists, which by comparison with other prices I find to be, generally speaking, about the same.

DULL, DAMP DAY GREETS BALL TEAMS AT DETROIT

rived here Sunday on the national commission's special train. The return of the two teams, each with a victory to its credit, has aroused the interest here to a fever heat. All the reserved seats were sold soon after the sale opened, and thousands have been unable to get them.

The two teams came on the field for their practice wrapped in heavy sweaters.

The Detroit team was given a great ovation as it emerged from the clubhouse led by Manager Hughey Jennings. The local team trotted on the field and went about its work in a determined and business-like way. Ty Cobb was cheered as he appeared because of his brilliant work in Saturday's game at Pittsburg.

During the preliminary practice Jennings had both Summers and Mullin warming up. The Detroit manager wants to give Ed. Summers a chance at the National League champions, but he is afraid damp weather may affect his pitching. In the first game of the world's series between Detroit and the Chicago Nationals Summers pitched well until the field became damp from a heavy downpour and then he was batted hard by the Chicagoans. The dark day put Mullins great speed at a premium and Jennings may send him in for that reason and save Summers for tomorrow's game.

Leifield May Go In.

Manager Clarke had both Leifield, his star left-hander, and Adams, the hero of the opening game of the series, working the kinks out of their arms. Detroit is considered rather weak against good left-handers and if Leifield shows well he will be given the chance of winning the battle for the National league.

Gibson will go behind the bat for Pittsburg, while Schmidt will catch for Detroit.

Following is the lineup of the two teams:

EXCITEMENT FATAL TO STATION AGENT.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 11.—Excitement occasioned by reporting the derailment of the tender of the Missouri Pacific fast mail train a few miles east of this city Sunday, cost the life of Isaac W. Davis, station agent at Little Blue Station, when he reported the accident, which only delayed traffic for a short time.

Davis, who had been suffering from heart trouble, became greatly perturbed over the accident. He notified the division headquarters of the accident and then told his friends he was ill. Before a physician arrived Davis was dead.

TAFT DENOUNCED BY SOCIALISTS

Los Angeles, Oct. 11.—A Socialist mass meeting here tonight, at which President Taft was denounced, resulted in a near riot and the dispersal of a mob by the police. The police arrested three of the radical leaders. The three men will be kept incommunicado during President Taft's stay in the city.

Immediately afterward a Socialist speaker organized a parade. Shouting, it marched toward the police station, but was quickly dispersed.

Just before the meeting of the Socialists, a letter was delivered to the detective department saying that if any move was made to break it up some one would be killed.

MISSIONARIES SAY THAT TURKS PAY TOO LITTLE.

London, Oct. 11.—The Morning Post's correspondent at Constantinople announces that the American missionaries in Turkey have written Oscar S. BUILDING FOR SEPTEMBER

Duluth Made Fair Showing With Gain of 3 Per Cent.

Duluth does not show up as well in the comparative building operations in the country for September as in some previous months this year, being away down, with a gain of but 3 per cent over September, 1908. The amount represented by permits in Duluth last month is $304,395, against $294,922 in 1908.

Building operations from forty-two cities throughout the country, as officially reported to the American Contractor, Chicago, gained in the aggregate 32 per cent, as compared with September, 1908. Thirty-three cities scored an increase of from 1 to 236 per cent, and nine presented a loss which does not run into big figures in the aggregate.

Cities showing a gain of 50 per cent or over are as follows: Bridgeport, 66 per cent; Louisville, 75; Los Angeles, 61; Manchester, 147; New Orleans, 222; Oklahomna City, 66; Pittsburg, 65; Rochester, 60; Scranton, 74; Seattle, 57; Spokane, 236, and Toledo, 66. Compared with only a few years ago, these statistics make a very favorable showing, actually presenting a greater volume of building operations, and the prospects for the next few years are exceedingly pleasing.

WILL STUDY IN CHICAGO

Duluth Pastor Would Cure Drunkenness By Mental Suggestion.

One week from today, Rev. Bruce V. Black, pastor of the independent church, will begin his work of reforming men addicted to the drink habit. Yesterday he explained to his congregation his plan for working among the victims of the liquor habit, and it was decided that he should go to Chicago this week to study the methods employed there. He left for Chicago today and will spend the remainder of this week there. Saturday night, he will return, and next Sunday he will explain his plans more thoroughly. Next Monday he will begin active work.

Mr. Black is greatly interested in the curing of drink victims by mental suggestion. The plan has been tried in Chicago, New York and other large cities with great success, and Mr. Black believes good results can be obtained in Duluth. This week he will study the methods used in Chicago, which, together with his long precious study of the subject, he believes will fit him for the work.

The first experiments will be conducted on inmates of the county jail. The judges of the municipal court have given their hearty approval of the plan, and Mr. Black will have their co-operation in his work. If the experiments at the county jail are successful, Mr. Black will not confine his efforts to those taken before the municipal court and sentenced, but will freely give the treatment to anybody who may apply.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—In order that the women of Evanston, Ill., may wear the prevailing styles of gigantic millinery in the shaded thoroughfares of the city in safety and comfort, Joseph E. Paden, mayor of the city, has ordered the enforcement of an ordinance providing for the trimming of trees and shrubbery overhanging the sidewalks.

The chief of police has been ordered to remove the foliage from all limbs of trees hanging within eight feet of the ground.

The Best Talent in the Land Made the October Edison Records

Any musical instrument will grow stale unless it has new music. You may have an Edison Phonograph and you may have forgotten how delightful it was when the records were new. The way to renew that delight is to buy the new records. You would get tired of a piano, a violin, an orchestra, or a vocal quartette, unless it gave you new music from time to time. The Edison Phonograph is like other musical instruments: It will entertain you if you do not forget to keep in touch with the new music—the new records.

NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH

Gas, Heartburn, Dyspepsia and all Misery in Stomach Vanishes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

LITTLE GIRL IS HIT BY TRAIN

Struck By Engine While Waiting for Father to Go By.

Edith Olson, the 6-year-old daughter of Olaf Olson, 1824 Water street, was probably fatally injured Saturday night when struck by a Duluth & Iron Range passenger train at the Sixteenth avenue east crossing. The child was waiting to catch a glimpse of her father, a brakeman, on the train.

She was hurled twenty feet in the air, sustaining a fractured skull, a broken right leg and a number of bad bruises. She was hurried to St. Luke's hospital, where she is making a desperate struggle for life.

The exact details of the accident are not known, as it was dark at the time and no one has been found who saw the little girl when the engine struck her.

FOURTEEN CATS GUARD BODY OF DEAD RECLUSE.

Wallingford, Vt., Oct. 11.—Watched over by fourteen cats which were her only companions in life, the body of Miss Mary J. Johnson, 67 years old, was found yesterday in her lonely home under circumstances indicating murder. Robbery is the only suspected motive. Fond of cats, so that their care became her hobby and seemingly her only interest in the world, Miss Johnson had lived the life of a recluse for years.

DOWN IN THE POWER PLANT OF THE HOTEL ST. REGIS

A Model Mechanical Equipment and a Staff of Highly Trained Experts.

Many of the comforts of modern civilization depend upon machinery, and this machinery must be efficient if these comforts are to be secured. The "human element" enters largely into the calculation, for all mechanisms are prone to disarrangements unless skill and intelligence are exercised in their manipulation and control. Aiming at the "perfect hotel," the St. Regis Hotel at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, New York, first installed the most perfect mechanical appliances possible to obtain, and then proceeded to organize an efficient engineering staff. So successful has been the latter enterprise, and so admirable a system has been built up by the plan of individual instruction and premiums for efficiency, that the mechanical force of the St. Regis is already recognized as a model of its kind. Its chief is a well-known engineering expert, and the St. Regis power plant has been writtn up and illustrated in engineering papers. The Hotel St. Regis restaurant charges are the same as other first-class hotels, and rooms may be had there as low as $3 and $4 a day for a large, handsomely furnished single bedroom; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); or $12 a day and up for an elegant suite consisting of parlor, bedroom and private bath.

BLIZZARD HITS CITY

Summer Rain Turns Into a Most Disagreeable Snow Storm.

Fierce Northwest Gale Contributes to Discomfort of Citizens.

Yesterday was gloomy enough, but it was just plain rain. Last night, however, a dark change—as they say on the stage—took place and Duluthians awoke this morning to find the city shivering and swirling in a high wind storm, with snow flurries on the side, making it one of the most disagreeable days experienced here for many months.

The temperature, in the neighborhood of 30 degs. above zero, was not so terribly cold, but augmented by the fierce wind from the northwest, which chased pedestrians along at a rapid gait, it was very chilling. The snow melted as fast as it fell, so that the streets were in a sloppy condition, wetting shoes and causing the people further discomfort.

It is the first snow storm of the season and in many respects it is as disagreeable as any which come later in the season. Mr. Richardson, the weather forecaster, said this morning the gale was blowing from the northwest at a velocity of from fifty to sixty miles an hour.

He expects the storm to continue all of today and tonight, but anticipates a clearing up of the weather tomorrow, with slightly warmer temperatures. Freezing temperatures may be expected tonight.

The change in a day from a summer rain to a blizzard called for some changes of costume. Heavy underwear, thick stockings and shoes and heavy coats were yanked from the company of the moth balls, where they have been reposing since last winter, and hastily donned. They proved very comfortable.

The velocity of the wind was easily proven at various times during the day. A few signs were blown down, windows were blown in, and a general shaking and rattling of loose sashes and other things contributed something to the general effect. The Duluth Telephone company suffered some damage to its wires.

The wind is expected to continue from the northwest. Thus far, the storm has touched only the western end of Lake Superior, but by this evening, the weather man expects Hancock and Houghton and the Soo will be experiencing it.

AUSTRIANS WANT BIG BATTLESHIPS.

Vienna, Oct. 11.—An agitation has been started in the Austrian press in favor of increasing the naval program to sixteen dreadnoughts.

It is proposed that the four as originally proposed should be constructed as soon as possible, and the rest should replace older battleships as they become obsolete. None of the new dreadnoughts will be under 20,000 tons, and some may reach 26,000.

The heir apparent, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, is in favor of a great Austrian navy.

WEST END

WANT BEST MEN FOR OFFICE

Naturalization Club Will Be Independent in Ward Politics.

The French Naturalization club will mix in ward politics at the West end this fall.

A metting will be held tomorrow evening at the St. Jean Baptiste church hall on Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, and among other things, the matter of choosing between the men who will be likely to be put up for the office of alderman, will be taken up.

"The club wants to see a good man in office, regardless of party affiliations," said Edward Grignon, a prominent member of the club. "The stand that the club will take in the coming election will be independent. We will meet to consider who is the best man for the office and will agree to lend our support to that man regardless of whether he is a Democrat or a Republican."

The aldermanic possibilities on the Democratic ticket in the Sixth ward are Louis Lavine and Charles Mork, while the Republicans may put up Peter Olson, the retiring alderman, or Chris Anderson of Garfield avenue. In the Seventh ward, the Democrats have indorsed William L. Bernard and James Hunt. J. J. Moe has not yet stated whether he will again be the Republican candidate for re-election in the Seventh.

The French club is also drilling another new class of ten members which will apply soon for first naturalization papers. This work is one of the features of the club. Immigrants from France or from the French districts of Canada coming to Duluth are picked up by the club and are taught the requisites of citizenship.

The club will soon occupy its quarters in the new school hall, which will be completed and opened with a big bazar on Nov. 1.

YOUNG MEN PRESENT PLAY.

Despite the weather yesterday afternoon, 300 children attended the matinee of the four-act drama, "Falsely Accused," which was presented by the Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic church at the school hall, on Twenty-first avenue west.

The young men carried out their parts in a very creditable manner. Flaaten's orchestra had been secured for the occasion and gave several selections between the acts. The play lasted for two hours.

Especially commendable was the work of James Wade in the title role of Jasper Roseblade. Lawrence Drohan as Jonathan Roseblade, was also very good. He takes the part of a man over 70 years of age and carried it very well for an amateur. Walter Emerson also acquitted himself well and others in the cast come up to the standard.

The play will be presented once more at the school hall on Tuesday evening. Flaaten's orchestra will play again and the entertainment is for adults and children over 16 years old, only.

MAY BE COFFEE

That Causes All the Trouble.

When the house is afire, it's like a body when disease begins to show, it's no time to talk but time to act—delay is dangerous—remove the cause of the trouble at once.

"For a number of years," says a Kansas lady, "I felt sure that coffee was hurting me, and as I was so fond of it, I could not give it up. I paltered with my appetite and of course yielded to the temptation to drink more. At last I go so bad that I made up my mind I must either quit the use of coffee or die.

"Everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered severely almost all the time with palpitation of the heart. I frequently woke up in the night with the feeling that I was almost gone—my heart seemed so smothered and weak in its action that I feared it would stop beating. My breath grew short and the least exertion set me to panting. I slept but little and suffered from rheumatism.

"Two years ago I stopped using the coffee and began to use Postum, and from the very first I began to improve. It worked a miracle! Now I can eat anything and digest it without trouble. I sleep like a baby, and my heart beats full, strong and easily. My breathing has become steady and normal, and my rheumatism has left me. I feel like another person, and it is all due to quitting coffee and using Postum, for I haven't used any medicine and none would have done any good as long as I kept drugging with coffee." "There's a Reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

FORMER MAIL SERVICE SOON TO BE RESUMED.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Information has been received here that mail will again be distributed from Great Northern Train No. 1, between Devils Lake and Minot. At the time the new fast mail train was put on the Great Northern the service on No. 1 was discontinued at Devils Lake.

This caused a delay in getting mail to points in Western North Dakota and worked a particular hardship against Grand Forks business men who have been growing more and more indignant over the way in which the mails are being handled, and had decided to take the matter up with the postoffice department.

ROAST FOR THE COURT

Judges Windom and Cutting Criticised By the Civic League.

Claimed That Immoral Women Are Not Jailed But Only Fined.

The local municipal court, presided over by Judges Windom and Cutting, and County Attorney John Norton, were criticised at the annual meeting of the Civic league last week, because women convicted of running disorderly houses have not been jailed but only fined.

They urge upon the court, the county attorney or any person who is responsible, the necessity of adequate prosecution and punishment. They refer to the sentences handed to the disorderly resort keepers brought from Hibbing.

The report commends Mayor Haven for effectively closing the red light district and vetoing the Meier saloon license at 3741 Oneota street. But the administration is condemned for its laxity in suppressing the illegal sale of liquor in "blind pigs" and in hotels after hours and on Sundays.

The league further agreed that as the present city charter has no provision for submitting the no license issue to the people, steps should be taken to so amend the charter.

When shown the report Judge Windom said that in all cases the court has imposed the maximum fine. He stated that the resolutions of the league have been too specific, adding that if the league has any cases to prosecute he is sure the league will get fair treatment in court, without fear or favor.

Mayor Haven stated that he had no comments to make upon the criticism of the league relative to the "blind pigs."

The report follows:

"Members of the Duluth Civic League in annual meeting assembled hereby renew their pledge to support only those candidates who, by act, vote and word stand for the enforcement of the law without fear and favor.

"We commend the present administration for effectively closing the Red Light district. We commend the mayor, R. D. Haven, for his veto of the Meier license at No. 3741 Oneota street.

"We condemn the laxity of the administration in suppressing the illegal sale of beer in 'blind pigs' and in hotels after hours and on Sundays.

"In view of the fact that the present city charter has no provision for submitting to the people the question of 'no license' for the sale of liquor, be it resolved, that we take steps to so amend the city charter.

"In view of the fact that women convicted of running disorderly houses have neither been jailed or bound over to the grand jury, but only been fined a nominal amount, be it resolved, that we urge upon the municipal court and the county attorney or any person who is responsible, the necessity of adequate prosecution and punishment, such as was given to the disorderly resort keepers brought from Hibbing.

"Be it Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be mailed to His Honor, the mayor, to the municipal court, to the county attorney and to the Ministerial association of the city of Duluth.

"B. N. WHEELER, President.

"C. C. BARTHOLOMEW, Secretary."

FAMILY COUGH SYRUP

Cures Any Cough in Five Hours. NEW PRESCRIPTION HERE.

Here is given the most effective cough prescription known to the medical world. It is a mild laxative, too, and this is what a body needs when suffering with cough and cold on the lungs. A cough or cold indicates poisons in the system, causing inflammation and congestion. Nearly all cough syrups relieve, but make the trouble worse by their constipating effects. This prescription not only relieves quickly, but it cures any cough that is curable. Get one-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Mix in a bottle. Take for acute cough or bronchitis twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times daily. Give children less according to age. A few hours' treatment will cure and heal the throat and lungs of all but consumptives. Cut this out and give it to some friend who may need it to be saved from an early death by consumption.

GRIMMER MAY RETAIN PLACE

Governor Eberhart Is Expected to Refuse His Resignation.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The belief that Governor A. O. Eberhart will refuse the resignation of Harvey Grimmer as executive clerk is becoming general. That the governor wants him to stay is accepted as a fact.

Acting under pressure from the Democratic side of the house, Mr. Grimmer tendered his resignation more than two weeks ago, but there has been no answer on the part of Governor Eberhart, and as far as a successor is concerned nothing has been given out that would indicate that a choice has been reached.

That the new administration would like to have Grimmer remain is well known. As a clerk he is perhaps without a peer.

In connection with the vacancy James Matchett of St. Paul, Joseph Reynolds of Mankato, E. A. Nelson of Kittson county and Willis Williams, a well-known St. Paul newspaper man, have been considered, but on each case Governor Eberhart has maintained a closed mouth.

CLOQUET ELECTION IS TO BE HELD NOV. 2.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notices for the municipal election which will be held Nov. 2 have been posted by Mayor Wilson. At the present time there is little interest shown by the citizens, but it is expected that within a week or two competition for the various offices will make a warmly contested one.

It is also rumored that a Prohibition ticket will be put in the field and the fate of the "Island" set at stake.

LOIE FULLER.

Loie Fuller, known to the French as "La Loie," has returned to her native country to conduct some wonderful ballets at the Boston Opera house. This is the house which is under contract to exchange artists with the Metropolitan, and it is likely "La Loie" will be seen where the Metropolitan company appears. She has trained in Paris a wonderful ballet which has among its members, it is rumored, countesses and other of the socially elect, but their names are concealed under noms du theater.

THE EVENING STORY

THE BETRAYER

Nellie Cravey Gillmore.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

When a man deliberately, nay designedly, entices his friends to excessive drink, has them carried to his room—in a burst of good fellowship—cares for them, furnishes them up to meet their lady friends, and incidentally relieves them of a ten—twenty—fifty, as the case may warrant, you would call that man a thief, would you not? And with all good reason.

So then, Bettison was a thief. But wait; a thief from necessity, not preference. Certainly not the pinching infect that makes men beg bread, shovel snow or work in mines, but a sort of refined want—the lack of those little dainties of life without which some people find it next to impossible to exist. The paltry two thousand a year, Bettison argued, would be scarcely sufficient to keep him in trousers, to say nothing of enabling him to wed the fair lady of his heart, she who claimed all that was good and best in him.

A thief from choice is essentially mean, scheming, without honor. A thief from necessity may be none of these things—or at least not all of them—only weak, pitiably weak, and with a conscience.

Still we shall have to admit that Bettison was a thief, a common thief, notwithstanding this nicety of distinction.

On this particular morning the gentleman in question reclined before an open window, reading and rereading a curious letter that the morning's post had brought him. It was the third of a series. The first had caused him some uneasiness—mostly amusement—the second looked serious, and now this other forced a sense of distinct alarm upon him. The following is what he read:

"I have appealed to your honor, your conscience, your pride—all to no avail. I am now going to try your common sense. Stop this miserable practice at once. At present it is known certainly only to myself, who am your best friend. I don't wish to disclose my identity, so take this, the one way to help you. Common sense will show you that, although over an anonymous signature, there is only truth in what I say. The time will come when exposure will be inevitable. Take my advice. The world provides labor for every honest man, and you yourself have a keen distaste for this business.

"A FRIEND."

Bettison crumpled the sheet of paper viciously and tossed it in the fireplace.

"D—n such a letter!" he fumed. "If the fellow's really my friend, as he says, why in thunder doesn't he come to me in a decent way and talk it over?" He snapped his finger with a little gesture of annoyance and took one or two excited turns up and down the room. Then he paused in front of the grate and fished out the crumpled letter from the charred ashes and studied it narrowly. It is a fact that our attention to trivialities is very marked at a time of great seriousness or importance, and it is no less true that our faculties are extremely dull in the direct face of overwhelming evidence also, at such a time.

Bettison studied the paper carefully for traces of familiarity in the handwriting to that of his friends—those he numbered as such, rather. There was something subtly familiar about the shape of the p's and h's, but a close comparison failed to disclose any even distant likeness to the writing contained in letters he had received from time to time from his friends and acquaintances.

No one—not one of them, his victims, could have been the author. He felt almost sure of that much. In the first place, they had really never suspected—indeed, what should a man suspect upon recovering from a spell of alcoholism, except that he had played the fool, spent or gambled away his money, and been charitably spirited off by a thoroughly good fellow who was bent only on protecting his reputation, as any gentleman would? Furthermore, even supposing they could talk, would they? Hardly.

In all probability some one was playing a practical joke on him—or maybe one of the men did vaguely, just vaguely, suspect him and was stretching this neat little trap to catch him. That settled one aspect of the case. Under no circumstances must he cease suddenly to practice these somewhat furacious little courtesies. Such had been his intention a while back, but the letters put all thought of that out of the question for the present. His marriage must be postponed—anything but that he should fall into the trap, if trap it really was. He could not be too cautious.

So the days came and went, with every now and then a renewed appeal from the unknown "friend." The letters finally grew ominous, almost threatening, and Bettison grew nervous, pale and restless. Where was his alternative? If he kept the thing up he would be caught beyond a doubt; if he stopped it, he would be caught just the same. Then he bethought himself of one possible way out of the difficulty—rather slim it was to be sure, but nevertheless worth a trial. He would give a dinner to his friends, his victims—all of them. At that dinner he would bring up the subject of the letters—it should all be a great joke, a joke on himself. He would watch them, every one, watch them like a hawk, singly and collectively. Then he should know!

Bettison lay face downward on a lounge in his room. The dinner had been a great success—socially. So had the joke. The joke had been huge. The host had been toasted and toasted again. It was a very merry crowd, indeed, and it had taken quite reluctant leave.

Bettison was baffled. His artifice had succeeded well—and ill. It had assured him in one respect and left him floundering more hopelessly than ever before in another. He laughed. Some malicious person, an unsuspected small enemy, perhaps, was trying to work him harm, trying to rob his peace of mind. It was a startling coincidence. Again he shivered. There was something strangely impressive and confident about the letters—or

THE CAMPAIGN CLEARLY OUTLINED.

Duluth's greatest need, and the way to meet it, were never more clearly outlined than they were Saturday afternoon at the Commercial club, at a little gathering in honor of the visit to this city of Professor Thomas Shaw, agricultural expert of the Great Northern railroad.

John G. Williams, who with C. P. Craig is entitled to great credit for a work of demonstration whose value, as Professor Shaw said, is beyond calculation, drew a picture of parallel conditions, of two evils which suggest their own remedy. He told of passing along a country road near Duluth and finding a forty-acre tract, cleared and cultivated, producing vegetables as good as any on earth, in the midst of a wilderness of trees and brush and stumps and desolation, every acre of which is capable of producing as good results as the little oasis of fruitfulness in this desert of waste.

On the other hand is the consumer in Duluth, supplied with farm products at high prices, imported from afar at heavy cost and at large expense in loss of freshness.

On the one hand is the near-by soil, capable of producing vast riches but hardly scratched, as yet, by the husbandman's spade. On the other hand is a great and growing market in Duluth, eager for fresh and dairy and garden products at fair prices.

There should be no need of importing from beyond a radius of fifty miles a single dollar's worth of dairy or garden product; yet vastly the greater part of Duluth's supplies is imported from much greater distances.

The soil possibilities exist in tempting richness. The market possibilities are almost unlimited. The problem is to get them together; to get the producer upon the soil, and to get his produce to the market.

The first need is the market; the second is facilities for reaching the market; the third is settlers. Duluth must provide the market and must see that facilities for reaching it are afforded through concessions by railroads, the building of good wagon roads and the construction of rural electric lines. Never was there a field for effort that promised greater results. Messrs. Williams, Craig and others have shown what can be done; Profesor Shaw bade even the enthusiasts on the agricultural possibilities of this region "magnify their estimates," and gave informal assurance that the railroads will do their share to help proper development. There is no question of the soil; there is no question of the market: the only thing needed is to bring about a connection between the two that will work to the advantage of producer and consumer.

Without this work and development, Duluth will be hampered greatly. With them, nothing can stop her. The work of providing a market for farm products, arranging to get them to that market, and getting settlers upon the soil, is the big general campaign before the people of Duluth. Michigan street, as The Herald has said, is a mere incident; hardly, even, an incident, now that it has been shown that it is of no use in developing this campaign, but is merely a temporary expedient for feeding the people until something better is provided.

THE ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS CAMPAIGN.

According to a bulletin issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, twenty-eight state legislatures have appropriated more than $4,000,000 this year to be used in preventing and suppressing tuberculosis.

Since Jan. 1, 1909, the legislatures of forty-three states and territories have been in session. Of this number twenty-eight passed laws pertaining to the fight against consumption; eight others considered such legislation, and in only seven states no measures about tuberculosis were presented. In all, 101 laws relating to the prevention and treatment of human tuberculosis were considered, and out of this number sixty-four were passed.

Of the sixty-four laws passed, fourteen were in reference to building new state institutions for the treatment of consumption. New state sanatoria for tuberculosis will be built in Pennsylvania, Connecticut (where three will be built), Arkansas, Oregon, South Dakota, North Dakota and Florida. In New York, North Carolina, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine appropriations have been made for enlarging sanatoria already being built or in operation. There are now twenty-seven states which have such institutions; and every state east of the Mississippi has them except Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, South Carolina and Mississippi.

Five states—Illinois, New York, Ohio, Minnesota and Iowa—have passed laws giving their counties power to erect tuberculosis sanatoria without resorting to a special vote. In Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Michigan, Iowa and Kansas, laws providing for the strict reporting and registration of consumption were passed. Only five other states, including the District of Columbia, have such laws.

The statement of the National Association calls attention to a fact that shows the remarkable interest that exists in this work, namely, that fully one-third of the $4,000,000 appropriated this year is for new work. The last congress appropriated, in addition to this sum, nearly a million dollars for the maintenance of the three federal sanatoria in New York and Colorado. It is estimated besides that the numerous county and city appropriations made or to be made for tuberculosis work for next year will aggregate at least $3,000,000, making the official expenditures in this country for the wiping out of tuberculosis at least $8,000,000.

It is pleasant to note that Minnesota is in the vanguard of this fight, and that though there is much yet to be done, this state has taken up every branch of the work: it has a state sanatorium, it allows its counties to build sanatoria, it provides for educational work, and it provides for reporting cases of tuberculosis.

A RICH MAN FACES THE PRISON DOOR.

John R. Walsh, at the age of 72, following a life of hard work and well-rewarded endeavor, stands in the shadow of prison walls, whose door will presently open to receive him for a term of five years, unless the supreme court of the United States comes to his rescue. As The Herald's dispatches have shown, he was convicted of misapplication of the funds of his bank and sentenced to serve five years in prison, and his appeal has been denied by the United States circuit court of appeals. He will probably go on to the United States supreme court if it is possible, but there seems little doubt that ultimately he will go to prison.

This is exceedingly unpleasant for Mr. Walsh; it is pathetic, too, to see a gray-haired man of affairs who has worked hard, if not always with clean conscience, and who seemed to be at one time on the pinnacle of success, ending his life this way.

But when consideration for the individual is forgotten and the good of society remembered, as it invariably is in the case of the smaller and poorer and more friendless offender, there is great satisfaction, too, to know that the prison is not for small offenders only, but for great ones as well.

The charge against Walsh is that he gathered up a large number of decayed corporations, most of which were bankrupt, and formed new corporations. These new corporations he caused to purchase from himself the stock in the old corporations, taking lavish pay in stocks and bonds. In this way he got for practically nothing securities with a face value of $30,000,000. Walsh had dreams of railroad empire, and a line to Duluth was one of them. To get the money needed to galvanize his moribund properties into life, he borrowed from his own banks. He covered up loans by using the names of clerks, depositing as collateral the bogus securities produced from his busy printing press. When the banks were closed it was found that 66 per cent of the securities they held were of Walsh's manufacture, and worthless. The banks, which had been plundered of their strength, were rotten, and had been for several years during which they seemed, to the public which trusted them, sound and secure.

The offense is great. No argument that Walsh believed that he was doing legitimate financiering, and that he lacked criminal intent, can overshadow that tremendous fact. People who had little to lose trusted all they had to his banks, and all the while he was using their money for his own purposes, and sacrificing the security of these trusted institutions to the dreams of railroad and financial empire that teemed in his brain. Caught at it, convicted, sentenced, his pleas for mercy disregarded by the higher courts, it seems certain that he must go to prison—and five years in prison, for a broken man of 72, means ending his life there.

Sorry for him? Yes, nearly as sorry as for the man with sin-scarred face and evil visage who last went from this county to the state penitentiary, or the same kind of man who may go next. These men, perhaps, were born of vicious parents, were brought up in surroundings of vice and poverty, a hard, sour soil in which virtue finds little chance to flower. Their sins, for which they are being punished, may be the sins of a parent, of a city that permits vice-breeding slums to exist, or of a society that permits crime-breeding squalor and poverty to persist. And their sins, withal, are small compared with that of a man who abuses a public trust, and in stealth plunges greedy arm shoulder deep into the savings of the poor.

THE DOWNFALL OF THE TALL HAT.

These are days of riotous iconoclasm. Despotisms are tumbling to the ground in ruin—everywhere except in the United States. Time-honored sanctities are being discovered to lack substance, and are being exploded. Age-encrusted customs are being found empty of reason, and are being swept away in a flood of practicality and common sense. No man can say where the flood will sweep next, nor what beloved absurdity will be carried away by it.

The latest venerable relic to experience the destroying influence of modernity is the tall hat, the silk hat, the "plug," "the stovepipe," as it is variously called.

A generation ago everybody with the slightest claim or aspiration to respectability wore a tall hat.

The streets swarmed with them, and it was a spectacle of formidable gravity, awful in its solemnity and impressiveness.

For three decades the tall and gloomy chimney-pot hat has been steadily but persistently disappearing. Business men voted it a nuisance, and ceased to wear it. Professional men next discovered that they could get along without its weight of dignity. For a while the sophomores in the colleges and universities devotedly wore it, but that ceased to be a custom. For a time longer marriages didn't seem lawful unless the groom wore a very tall and very shiny one on his wedding journey; but now it is realized that marriage is quite as much of a success and quite as binding without it as it was with it.

Now the tall silk hat never was beautiful, and never was anything but uncomfortable. Its sole claim to worth was that it formed a mark of distinction, though how any manner of clothes can make distinction where it does not exist was never explained. It was heavy, conspicuous—and growing more conspicuous as its use dwindled—and unduly pretentious. Its long survival is as great a mystery as the long survival of many other evils which people have suffered when they might have been relieved from them by a little self-assertion.

To use language by no means in keeping with the solemn subject of tall hats, we can "see the finish" of the tall hat now.

For years its last hold upon life was the superstition that it must be worn with a frock coat.

And then, the other day, King Edward of England, who has long been given credit for knowing a lot about clothes, whatever he knows about the government with which he has so little to do, appeared in public with a frock coat and a SLOUCH HAT! "The king can do no wrong." That is true of the king's clothing, if it isn't true any more of his use of kingly power. Edward has worn a slouch hat with a frock coat, and that seems to settle it.

In the South they wear a straw hat with a frock coat, and in the East the derby frequently makes its appearance above a frock coat. Now a king, who is a king of man's fashion more powerful in that realm than he is in the realm of government, has worn a slouch hat and a frock coat.

The tall hat is doomed.

THE NOLTE PUMPKIN EXPOSED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your estimable paper of the 9th inst. there appears an article with a heading something after this fashion: "The Kibosh on the Lakeside Gardeners." Whatever that may mean, the writer seems to be endeavoring to leave the impression with your readers that Lakesiders all but hang their heads in shame, and all owing to the display in the Commercial club rooms of a squash of the variety known to the seedsman as "Mammoth Chilli," but better known within the environment of our popular club as "Nolte's Pumpkin."

If I did not know of the large circulation of your paper, I would not ask for this valuable space to correct the impression that might be given to at least the stranger within our gates. If the gatherer of news had only diligently sought for the facts, and not relied wholly—in matters of such grave importance—upon the statements of residents of that quiet and peaceful suburb which lies over the hill in Sleepy Hollow, but had endeavored to verify statements before publication, he, the said news gatherer, might have learned that the one subscribing himself as "Sincerely yours," raised a mammoth "Chilli Squash" in his garden at Lakeside many years ago of such proportions that it required two men to handle it, instead of "two boys." But a pumpkin or squash vine covers a large area in proportion to the value of its product, and land at Lakeside has long ago become too valuable to raise pumpkins on.

Now, just one more word, dear editor, and I have finished. Your humble servant, a Lakesider, too, selected and purchased the seed for the Hunter's Park farmer who grew the squash which was exhibited for four long days under the watchful eye of Maj. Eva, and when it found its way into the kitchen and was converted into pumpkin pie "a la Nolte," I thought, as I ordered my second piece, that I had made no mistake in the selection of that seed, and that the club's good chef had by no means spoiled it in the cooking. Sincerely yours, E. C. LITTLE.

GUESSWORK, NOT FACTS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The report of the real estate committee is quite an interesting epistle to one who is acquainted with the real facts concerning the markets here and the Twin Cities. In the first place, the committee has failed to inform the public the source of its information. This is a very important matter to anyone interested. People want facts, not guesswork, on a subject that is causing so much agitation.

It is evident that the committee felt it incumbent to give some figures, because figures don't lie, especially when they come from the real estate exchange, whose only object in life is to make the pathway of the laboringman strewn with flowers.

They failed to state that the local freight on the various commodities mentioned is about 25 cents per cwt.

The statement that onions sold at Minneapolis for 40 cents per cwt. is one that certainly has no shade of truth in it, and shows on the face of it that the information given originated in their own minds and not from facts.

Why representative business men should, for the purpose of turning attention from themselves, use such methods, is more than the writer can comprehend.

We enclose herewith quotations from a reliable St. Louis commission firm, who gives the jobbing price of cabbage to be $12 to $12.50 per ton, potatoes 60 to 63 cents per bushel and onions at 65 to 70 cents per bushel.

Every one on Michigan street is buying carrots and rutabagas from the nearby grower and have been paying 90 cents per cwt. for rutabagas and $1 per cwt. for carrots.

If we are paying too much, and cut the prices down to where the enlightened committee state the price of such commodities should be, then the farmer would have a grievance and say we were not paying prices that enabled him to farm at a profit.

The commission merchant has two factions to look after. The consumer is to be protected, but at the same time the producer must have an adequate compensation for his labor.

Suiting the public is a matter that will have to adjust itself.

Today I was talking with one of the gardeners regarding prices, and he stated he could raise his produce and place it on the market at any reduction in price.

The consumer has found that Mr. Craig's farm products have not had the "tariff revised downwards." His farm demands 20 cents per gallon for buttermilk and the modest sum of 40 cents per pound for butter. Last spring he refused to sell his potatoes at 80 cents per bushel. His rutabagas were sold at $1 and more per cwt. The celery that he says sells at Minneapolis for 20 cents he asks 30 cents for.

If the city market will control the prices on Michigan street, as suggested by Mr. Craig, he no doubt will be a booster, so that the people of Duluth may look for higher prices than ever.

By the committee's own confession, they admit they have not investigated the charges made that the commission men do not facilitate but rather retard the efforts made by the local grower to dispose of their products. What kind of a report is that made by an investigating committee?

They can better employ their ability towards planning some method by which rents can be lowered.

What encouragement is there for the ordinary clerk or laboring man to try and save when his landlord demands one-third or one-half his monthly salary? Get on the right track with this investigating committee and it will not get as near the lake as Michigan street.

If a man rents in the business district, ten to one he will be approached near the termination of his lease with a demand for a new lease at an advance over the previous year.

As an agent expressed it, "If I don't raise the rent some other agent will write the owner, stating that he is not getting the rent that should be obtained from the premises, suggesting a change in the management."

It is my impression that this is the game all along the line. If a man builds a flat he at once places it in the hands of some agency, knowing that he will receive more than he would have the face to ask.

How often do you see the advertisement, "For sale, property paying 10, 20 and 30 per cent on the investment?"

This is the subject for agitation and investigation.

It is easier to write from imagination, but such methods are unbusinesslike and dishonorable, where facts are expected.

At this season of the year everyone is intent upon marketing his stuff and the shipper is willing to make some sacrifice in prices to get it moved and the money back.

In the last two weeks we have had numerous letters from potato shippers wanting to ship. Some we have to refuse, as it is too early for storing for winter's supply, and then the regular shipper has to be looked after first. Because a person is in the business of buying and selling does not argue that he must buy beyond his needs, simply because someone wants to dispose of his goods.

There is no other class who aids in the development of this country more, except the producer himself, than the man who makes the market for his products. Yours truly,

THE COMMISSION MAN.

Duluth, Oct. 9.

The Garnish Supplement.

New York Evening Post: Blue Sunday is not the proper color term to describe the American idea of the Sabbath as opposed to the so-called "Continental" day of rest. The American Sunday is now become a blue, red, green, yellow and purple Sunday, testifying, by the litter of comic-supplement lithography which overflows from the sitting room to the sidewalk and from the porch to the lawn, how a Christian nation spends its Sabbath. Fortunately, there are signs of growing opposition to the pictorial vulgarities on which our children have been fed. The Boston Herald, which last year abolished its Sunday comic supplement, has found no reason to repent its action; far from it.

At the recent national convention of the Catholic Educational association, the parish school department entered heartily into the campaign against the Yellow Kid art, and called upon Catholic parents "to co-operate by word and example in the extermination of the evil." The diocese of Philadelphia is preparing to take up the fight against the "scandalous evil which corrupts manners, language, filial respect, and the sense of reverence for age and suffering." To us the aesthetic implications of the comic supplement have been as poignant as the ethical.

That a nation exceptionally gifted with the sense of humor should be brutalized down to the level of the horse laugh, is a sad thing, indeed.

THE WEATHER.

The spell of fine weather was rudely broken yesterday, when an untimely blizzard swept down upon Duluth. A 60-mile gale and a wet snow storm surprised the blizzard, and the weather man expects it to continue into tomorrow.

A year ago today it was fair.

The sun rose this morning at 6:21 and will set at 5:29, making eleven hours and eight minutes of sunlight. R. E. Clark, acting forecaster, makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A storm of great intensity is central over Lake Superior, attended by a 56-mile northwest gale on the extreme western portion of the lake. During the past twenty-four hours this storm caused light to heavy falls of rain in Atlantic states, lake region, Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri valleys and Western Canada, the rain turning to snow in Northeastern Minnesota. Much colder and freezing weather occurs throughout the entire Northwest, due to the influence of a strong high pressure area that has advanced its center to Alberta and Montana. Indications favor clearing weather in St. Louis and Douglas counties late tonight or early Tuesday."

Egyptian Profession of Faith.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis of Duluth, on a recent trip, copied from the wall of a passage in one of the tombs of the kings in Thebes an interesting passage from the "Book of the Dead," in which a fine scheme of living is laid down. The inscription is in a very hard red granite, and though cut over 3,500 years ago, before steel had been discovered, it is clear and finely executed, like many others there. The inscription, which follows, appears to be a profession of faith and of a righteous life:

I have committed no fraud against men.

I have not tormented the widow.

I have not spoken falsely in the tribunal, nor do I know ill faith.

I have done no forbidden thing.

I have not exacted of a task master more work than he could do daily.

I have not been neglectful.

I have not been idle.

I have not refused my debts, nor have I been wearied in well doing.

I have not done that which is abominable to the gods.

I have not slandered the slave to his master.

I have starved none.

I have made none weep.

I have slain none, nor have I commanded to murder by treachery.

I have not stolen the temple bread.

I have not seized the cakes offered to the gods.

I have not taken the board or the fillets of the dead.

I have not gained money by fraud.

I have not changed the measure of the corn.

I have not defrauded the breadth of a finger on the hand.

I have not seized land.

I have not changed the plates of the balance.

I have not falsified the balance.

I have not taken the milk from the mouths of the sucklings.

I have not hunted the sacred animals in their pastures.

I have not taken the divine birds in their nest.

I have not fished for the sacred fish in their ponds.

I have not kept the water back in its season.

I have not cut a branch of the water in its passage.

I have not quenched the sacred fire at its house.

I have not violated the divine cycle in its chosen offerings.

I have not driven the oxen from the sacred pastures.

I have not turned aside the god in his possession.

I am pure. I am pure. I am pure. I am pure.

TAFT IN MINNESOTA.

Hallock Enterprise: "President Taft defends the new tariff bill." It needs it.

Madison Independent Press: Mr. Taft's Winona speech was a mistake, or, more properly put, a blunder.

Le Sueur News: Taft was here and is now away. The consensus of opinion in Minnesota is that he is a failure. His Winona speech will not swallow, even with water. If he is a great statesmen he can not fool all of the people all of the time.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: In his Winona speech President Taft made a particular plea for the high duty on cotton goods that the "infant" cotton industry of the East might be protected. "Sixty-six per cent dividend," sounds like a pretty big yell from a grown-up, not to say infant—and that's what these same cotton manufacturers got last year. Can you measure your profits in those figures, Mr. Farmer? No, your profits, or a lot of them, had to go to make that 66 per cent for the cotton manufacturers.

Foley Independent (Rep.): President Taft's Winona speech does not seem to meet with that measure of commendation which its author undoubtedly looked for. To say the least, it was lacking in tact, and was not worthy of our chief executive. Mr. Taft has demonstrated that he is not to be absolutely relied upon when it comes to a crisis and we await with interest and impatience Mr. Roosevelt's opinion of the man upon whose shoulders he placed his mantle.

North Branch Review (Rep.): Even the big Eastern papers see that President Taft made the biggest mistake of his life in indorsing the course of Tawney and the other standpat congressmen and are predicting that it will be impossible for him to retain the votes of the people of the West. It not only means a loss of votes for Taft, but it is not at all unlikely that the next congress will be ruled by a Democratic majority.

Anoka Free Press: President Taft's introductory speech at Winona strained even the courteous welcome due a visiting president from a visited state. Really, though, Minnesota people were bunkoed by Taft. They had expected a social call from the national head, but received instead a partisan visit from a party head who spoke for party purposes, plead for party solidarity, defended an iniquitous party tariff measure and claimed in effect that party welfare is all important. It is true that national politics and policies demand national parties, but to place the welfare of party before that of the people is astounding and that Taft or any other president should do so is doubly astounding.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore (Rep.): It is the man that is wanted, and Mr. Taft's juggling with the tariff and the playing into the hands of the mighty and unscrupulous rich makes it only too evident that he is not the man. On the whole, the president's visit to Minnesota was all that was needed to prove that he is not the president of the people, but is the president of the few and that he stands as a protector for them in their greed and unholy taxation of the poor; stands for a policy that makes the rich richer and the poor poorer.

Virginia Enterprise: President Taft says the "tariff doesn't cause high prices, but it does cause high wages." President Taft may have a mind as big in proportion as he is beefy in weight; he will need such a mind to elucidate this statement to the satisfaction of the honest American citizens, whose think-tank has not as yet been purchased by the gold of the corporate interests.

The End of the Session.

Success Magazine: At last the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill has been passed by congress, signed by President Taft, and incorporated into the laws of the United States. It is an appropriate time, therefore, to sum up the results of the session. The most evident conclusion to be drawn from the last five months of dickering, log-rolling, misrepresentation and vaporous oratory is—what everybody but William H. Taft knew before—that Messrs. Cannon and Aldrich and leaders of their ilk are not to be trusted. President Taft meant well, and after he really began to fight, forced some very important reductions from the Aldrich bill, with the aid of Sereno E. Payne. Yet the tariff bill, though better than it threatened to be, is not what the American public had a right to expect or what it will be satisfied with.

The tariff act of 1909 is a hodgepodge of increases and reductions; of jokers and of the confusing mixtures of ad valorem and specific duties. It can easily be shown that on the consumption basis the new law is either a revision upward or downward, according to the will of the statistician, but the fact remains that few if any duties on articles of common use are reduced sufficiently to lower prices to the consumer, while a number, notably of clothing materials, excepting shoes, are shamefully increased. The question of the cost of production abroad, which the Republican platform promised would be taken into consideration in fixing rates, was almost completely ignored. The result constitutes a law which is in actual practice a betrayal of the pledges of the Republican party and of President Taft, for which betrayal they will have to answer to the people at the next election.

Yet while the tariff is of such doubtful benefit, this session has not been without its advantages. Among them are, first, the inheritance tax; second, the proposal of an income-tax amendment; third, the disillusionment of Mr. Taft as to the Aldrich-Cannon type of statesman, and the recognition by the people that the president is a conscientious man; and last, but not least, a vast deal of popular enlightenment as to how the nation is represented at Washington. Those who have been profiting by excessive duties on the necessities and comforts of life are riding to disaster. Within four years the "stand-patters will be "on the run."

The tariff bill is passed. The tariff agitation and the fight for a lowering of the cost of living has only really begun.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Selfishness is habit; generosity, accident.

Once in a while a man is good because he doesn't know any better.

A woman's deception is more natural than a man's sincerity.

You can tell when a girl isn't in earnest with a man by the way she acts as if she were.

The thing that makes a dose of medicine easy to take is when it is instead of a moral lecture.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Kansas City Journal: "Do plain or pretty girls do better in business?"

"It's abcut a toss-up. The plain girls don't make so many mistakes, but nobody kicks about the blunders the pretty girls make."

Chicago Tribune: "Wasn't Col. Awkins' decision to be operated on for appendicitis rather sudden and unpremeditated?"

"Yes; he said he couldn't afford to keep an automobile, and his position in society necessitated a display of some sort."

New York Press: "Why did you divorce your last husband?" they asked the woman with the yellow hair.

"He was one of the sort of men," she replied, "who would say to you: 'Lady, you have dropped your handkerchief.'"

Judge: "How much are these shoes?" asked the lady who had the reputation of being a keen shopper.

"Those shoes are not for sale," replied the sales man, who had something of a reputation, too; "we're giving them away with every pair of shoe laces at $3.50."

Washington Herald: "Yaas, indeedy. She has sixteen families to wash fur.

"Yo' doan tell me? Dat woman oughter git married. She needs a man to manage her interests."

Plain Dealer: "I can't see how so many men stand it to eat in a cheap and noisy and untidy restaurant."

"I suppose the explanation is as old as Adam."

"What's that?"

"The craving for food."

Tit-Bits: Quite recently a warship of the Atlantic squadron found it necessary to call for a few hours at a military port on the coast of Ireland. Tommy Atkins meeting a full-bearded Irish tar in the street a couple of hours later, said: "Pat, when are you going to place your whiskers on the reserve list?"

"When you place your tongue on the civil list," was the Irish sailor's reply.

Pittsburg Post: "Cheer up, old man. Somebody will loan you the money to lift the mortgage."

"I'm afreed not. Life ain't no melodrama."

Cleveland Leader: "I tried art, but the critics said I lacked atmosphere."

"What was your line—playing the cornet?"

New York Sun: Abou Ben Adhem set forth his claim. "I never lied about what a good time I had on my vacation," he cried. And lo, etc.

Puck: "What disposition is made of the children of the couple?"

"They will spend six months with the servants of each parent."

Belle—Yes; I suppose all men do look alike to Miss Antique.

Youth.

Don't you recall when apples grew.
Oh, twice as big as now?
When fish, however, they were few,
Were monster ones somehow?
When Gaines' mill dam made a roar
As though the water hurled
Were gathered in a mighty store
From all the wide, wide world?

Don't you remember when the trees,
The oak trees and the beech,
Were lost in clouds on days like these
And eyes could hardly reach
Their waving tops? When noonday skies
Were, oh, such deeper blue?
When Jack's great beanstalk in our eyes
Just grew and grew and grew?

And there were bells, oh more than fine,
Of blue and white and red,
Upon the morning glory vine
That climbed up on the shed,
To be a wonder and delight,
So fresh and full of dew,
To bud and open in a night—
I see them now—don't you?

Don't you remember when the caves
Were thick and full of gloom,
Where captive maidens, once, like slaves,
Were chained in some damp room?
When twilight rustling in the brush
Was some fierce beast? A cow
It was, but cows at dusk are—Hush!
I think I hear one now.

Come; take a little trip with me,
Forget the things that fret,
For you may close your eyes and see
Some things that I forget.
Why, I've seen Bluebeard's hidden room
And Cinderella's shoe!
And I have seen where violets bloom—
So blue! So blue! So blue!

TOWER INDIANS BEATEN.

Eveleth Eleven Proves Too Much for Dusky Footballists.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In one of the fastest games ever seen on a local gridiron, the local high school team defeated the Tower Indians Saturday afternoon, 16 to 10.

The outcome of the game was very uncertain, for the Indians got everything in the way of fumbles, and with their known fleetness it was expected that they would win easily. The Eveleth defense proved too stubborn for the visitors, they being unable to make any steady advances with the ball, their two touchdowns being the result of flukes. The locals were outweighed twenty pounds to the man, but by superior training and football knowledge, with a repertoire of trick plays, bewildered the Indians, which accounts for the latter's defeat.

WOULD REMOVE EYESORE.

Architect W. W. Frye of Minneapolis, who spent a portion of last week here, states that the walls were the best he had ever seen built, and that the ground upon which the building is being erected is the most solid and substantial to be found anywhere. Supt. Lafayette has been instructed to order the furniture and fixtures for the two new grade schools which are being erected at the North side and South side additions. The buildings are each to contain two rooms, and it is expected that they will be ready for occupancy by Thanksgiving time.

VIRGINIA'S GROWTH

Is Amply Shown in Increased Attendance at Schools.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the attendance at the public schools of Virginia has grown far beyond the capacity of the present school buildings is shown by the report of Supt. Lafayette Bliss for the month of September.

The enrollment for this month is 1,753 pupils, an increase of 250 over the corresponding month of last year. The enrollment at each school building up to the close of the week ending Oct. 7, is as follows: Roosevelt, 500; Johnson, 420; Primary, 412; Central, 282; Franklin, 111; Higgins, 35; Homestead, 30; Farmsdale, 35; total, 1,825. Pupils from all parts of the United States are attending the Virginia schools, stretching from Cambridge, Conn., to Los Angeles, Cal.

The night school which proved such a success last year will again be opened on Nov. 1. This school, last year, had an attendance of 307 and it is expected that the enrollment for the coming term will far excel that number. The sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Roosevelt school and will be under the supervision of Supt. Bliss, who will be aided in the work of instruction by the best corps of teachers in the city. The night sessions will be free and open to all who desire to take advantage of the opportunity receive instruction. The night sessions will be in force for four months. Members of the class of 1908 have raised a fund for the purchase of a memorial clock to be placed in the new Virginia High school. The clock is being made by Paltridge & company of Chicago. Savelamen, Ida Schmelling, Herman J. Eaton, Gertrude M. DeNoble, Viola B. Slavick, Anna Staff, Agnes J. Hovland, Ray Simons, Ebaline A. Wilkes, Gertrude Stemberg, Gerald C. Roskilly, John P. TWO MORE ARE IN THE FIELD

Ex-Mayor Jesmore and Ex-Alderman Mulligan Seek Office.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interest in the coming city election has been greatly increased by the announcement of Charles Jesmore and George Mulligan that they will run for aldermen-at-large. Both men are well-known locally, being old residents of good standing, and of sound political experience.

Mr. Jesmore held the office of mayor for several terms in former years, and has a large following, because of his good work while in office, and pleasing personality. He is engaged in the livery business here, and is widely known. Mr. Mulligan is also well known, having held the office of alderman in former years, making a good record while so engaged. Mr. Mulligan has lived here for a number of years, and is at present engaged in the cigar manufacturing business. The addition of Messrs. Mulligan and Jesmore into the race brings the total for aldermen-at-large up to five, as President of the Council M. Boyle, Alderman Tim Shea and George Kotze have also announced their intentions to try for that position. The latter three are all well known and from present indications the race for aldermen-at-large should be one of the hottest political races in the history of Eveleth.

The offices to be filled at this election are as follows: First ward, one alderman; Second ward, one alderman; Third ward, one alderman; aldermen-at-large, two; city mayor. The places of election will be as follows: First ward, Campbell building tailor shop; Second ward, city hall; Third ward, Mania hall.

OPENING GAME BY VIRGINIA

High School Eleven Defeats the Hibbing High 14 to 0.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—After four weeks of practice, the Virginia high school football team opened the season on the home grounds by defeating the Hibbing high school team by a score of 14 to 0, Saturday afternoon.

The teams were evenly matched in weight, but the team work and interference on the end runs of the Virginia team was far superior to that of Hibbing. Hibbing, however, played a snappy game until a place kick by Johnson and Lindsay seemed to unnerve them, and in the second half the Virginia team made two touchdowns. The first half was evenly fought, with the ball in Virginia territory until end run and line plunges through Hibbing's line brought the ball to within striking distance, when Lindsay kicked a goal from placement. The first part of the second half was a repetition of the first half until Quarterback Johnson bewildered the Hibbing team by several forward passes which brought the ball to the 15-yard line. Lindsay then bucked the line for the first touchdown. The second touchdown came as a result of end runs by Olsen and Meehan and a line plunge by Lindsay. The game was an interesting one throughout and was witnessed by a large number of enthusiasts. Coach Hayes comes in for much credit for his work in bringing his team to victory line, as Hibbing is supposed to have the strongest aggregation of football players on the range.

The Virginia team has scheduled the following dates for future games: Virginia at Cloquet, Oct. 16; Virginia at Hibbing, Oct. 23; Nelson Dewey of Superior at Virginia, Oct. 30; Virginia at Ely, Nov. 6; Tower Indians at Virginia, Nov. 13. Eveleth forfeited the Oct. 2 game to Virginia for not showing up, and thus far have offered no excuse for their non-appearance.

At Roosevelt park yesterday afternoon the Virginia Cannonball football team, which is under the management of Gordon Cohn and the coachship of Carroll Larned, defeated the Monroes of Chisholm in a well-fought contest. The score stood 6 to 0. Deering made the touchdown and Meehan kicked goal. The weather was ideal for football, it being cold, and a light drizzly rain fell a portion of the time. A large crowd attended the game and witnessed some of the fastest and strongest work done in the football line ever seen on the local grounds. This being the first game of the season played by the Cannonballs, the boys are much encouraged over the defeat of one of the best teams on the range.

Hibbing's New Fire Team.

FLYING SPARK CAUSES BLAZE

Building in Finn Location Near Rust Mine Is Burned.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—House No. 9, Finn location, after braving two attempts at incendiarism, was completely destroyed in the afternoon.

The house was located at the edge of the new Rust pit, and for that reason was shut off from the city water supply. The chemical wagon arrived on the scene in short order, but owing to the strong south wind was unable to do anything toward saving No. 9 and confined its efforts to protecting the other houses in the locality. It probably would have failed in this had not an impromptu water line been run across the pit from the power house. The destroyed building was being used as a bicycle repair shop and is supposed to have caught fire from one of the near-by steam shovels.

John A. Healy, Charles Burr, Victor L. Power and H. S. Diller have spent a week in North Dakota hunting ducks, and from all reports they have bagged their share of the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott L. Holtzlander have returned from Buffalo, N. Y. Mrs. Holtzlander and son spent much of the summer at that point, and Mr. Holtzlander was absent about three months.

Mrs. Adam Mulford, accompanied by her son and daughter, Harold and Miss Hazle have left for Warsaw, Ind., where they will make their home. Mrs. Mulford came here from Indiana about four years ago, and returns to her native state in the hope of benefiting her health.

Charlie Schaeffer of Duluth, traveling representative of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railroad company, was a Hibbing visitor recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamine Smith, 101 Second avenue, are rejoicing over the addition to their family of a daughter.

Ryan O'Rourke has platted his fifty-one acre farm just south and within the city town and it will be known as Fairview.

The lots will be placed on the market.

HOUSES AT MONROE.

Oliver Iron Mining Company Lets Contract for Five.

Chisholm, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Oliver Iron Mining company has let a contract for the erection of five new houses to be built at Monroe location, work on same having been commenced. If the weather permits this fall, several more buildings will be built. An addition to the engineer's office has been added, and a basement constructed under the entire building. The house used by the laboratory for the crushing of ores has been enlarged by an addition 18 by 24 feet.

A great number of the merchants are closing their places of business on Sunday, with the exception of in the morning for a short time. They would like to have all other places of business closed at least Sunday afternoon, so that they could have a little time to themselves, and not be compelled to keep open all day just because their competitors never close.

ALLEN JUNCTION GETS FIRST TOUCH OF WINTER.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first snow of the season fell at points up the line last night, the rain turning to snow, about two inches falling at Allen Junction.

JEWISH CONGREGATION INSTALLS NEW OFFICERS.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The installation of officers of the local Jewish congregation was held in the Monitor hall last evening. A dance and banquet was also one of the features of the evening, and many visitors from the nearby vicinity attended the meeting in spite of the rainy weather.

The following officers were installed: President, Morris Nathanson; vice president, Samuel Levant; secretary, Charles Levant; treasurer, George Mesberg; trustees for a term of two years, Hymen Siegel and William Kaner.

being deferred until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The visit to the harbor was designed to give the president a first-hand view of the great enterprises under way here. The federal government has already expended more than $3,000,000 in th building of nearly two miles of breakwater, and contemplates the appropriation of a considerable additional sum for the purchasing of a fortification site and military reservation and the erection of a fort.

Saw Harbor Work.

More than two hours were occupied in the trip over the bay, the president's launch finally proceeding alone and unescorted through the narrow straits into the inner harbor of San Pedro, where the city of Los Angeles has begun the expenditure of $10,000,000 for the building of a deep sea harbor in conjunction with the outer harbor. Full details of the harbor work were explained to the president by Lieut. C. T. Leeds of the corps of engineers, U. S. A., and the members of the local harbor commission.

The president expressed interest in the construction of the great breakwater, which extends nearly 9,000 feet from Point Fermin, and other features of the harbor work.

The party returned to its train at noon, after having been driven in an automobile through the principal streets of San Pedro. On all sides the welcome extended the president in the little harbor town was enthusiastic. Here, as elsewhere, the school children were massed and gave their special greeting.

Greeted By Thousands.

When the special reached Arcade station at Los Angeles at 1 o'clock, many thousands of people were banked about the depot.

The president was extended the official welcome by the reception committee. Entering automobiles, the president and his escort proceeded in parade through the city's streets.

Los Angeles had been gaily decorated with the national colors and with myriads of flowers. The president's automobile was decorated in yellow chrysanthemums.

In one place thousands of veterans of the Civil war and the Spanish-American war were ranked, and saluted the president in military style. In another the whole population of the Chinatown of Los Angeles was gathered.

Tonight the president is to be entertained with a banquet at Shrine auditorium. Tomorrow he will proceed early to Sawtelle, where he will address the inmates of the National Soldiers' home, lunching later at Pasadena, and then proceeding through the orange belt to San Bernardino, Redlands and Riverside. From the latter place he will leave for Arizona Tuesday night.

Back to Hot Weather.

Fresno, Cal., Oct. 11.—From the snow-capped Sierras, Saturday, President Taft plunged yesterday into the summer heat of the San Joaquin valley and arrived here shortly after 3 p. m., with the thermometer hovering about 90 degs. He was greeted by practically the entire popuiation of the city and surrounding country and, after a short automobile trip through the business section, addressed a gathering of many thousands in the courthouse square.

The president's speech was in reality a sermon, the third he has preached since his trip began. His text, quoted from memory, was, "He who conquereth himself is greater than he who taketh a city," and from it the president drew the lesson that popular government must always be a failure unless it is based upon sound common sense and the self-restraint that goes to make the good loser. He drew an analogy between the American people in this respect and those peoples who, in their attempts at self-government, follow an election with a revolution.

Went to Church.

On his way here President Taft stopped at Merced for three hours and attended morning services at the Presbyterian church.

His greeting at Fresno came from probably the most cosmopolitan community he has met in all his travels.

In the throngs that lined the sidewalks was a commingling of Chinese, Japanese, Armenians, Portuguese and a dozen other nationalities.

A feature of the president's visit to Fresno was the presentation of an address of good will from the Japanese residents.

Soap a Back Number

This remark certainly sounds startling in these days of cleanliness and hygiene; but the introduction of such a soap powder as Gold Dust has made the slow-dissolving cake of soap a back number.

The reason is simple. Soap must dissolve before it can soften water or remove dirt. The cake must be cut up and dissolved to make a soft soap before it is really effective for washing clothes. The fine grains of Gold Dust, however, dissolve at once and in dissolving there is a double reaction in the water; the Gold Dust dissolves the hard lime, etc., making the water soft, and in so doing is instantly dissolved itself. Gold Dust is, therefore, not only the most convenient, but also the quickest and easiest cleanser for clothes and everything.

for final adjustment. From the air of intense expectancy which prevailed while the department, however, it was evident that any hour might bring the situation to a crisis.

Held Long Conference.

Mr. Crane arrived from San Francisco late yesterday afternoon and was closeted until far into the night with Secretary Knox and the latter's special counsel, Former Solicitor General William M. Hoyt, but nothing authentic was obtainable as to the nature or results of that conference.

It is known now that the immediate occasion for the recall of Minister Crane was an article in the Washington correspondence of the Chicago Record-Herald of Sept. 27, evidencing a somewhat minute acquaintance with confidential matters supposed to be known only by responsible officials in the state department, and presumably by Minister Crane, relative to the attitude of the United States government toward the two treaties recently concluded between China and Japan.

Objected to Publication.

That publication was highly objectionable to the department of state, in that it disclosed the possibility of protest on the part of the United States against the consummation of the treaties, and it is known that Secretary Knox and his associates in the department have held Minister Crane responsible for these disclosures.

These treaties, which would practically confer upon the Japanese a monopoly of mineral developments of Manchuria, and also would make the Japanese the virtual dictators of Chinese railway extension in Manchuria, are regarded by the state department, it is said, as destructive of the principle of the "open door" enunciated by the late Secretary Hay and subscribed to by Japan in a formal agreement with Mr. Root, when the latter was secretary of state.

Especially Bad Time.

The Chicago publication was regarded as particularly unfortunate at this time, because of the purpose of the state department to have Mr. Crane take careful soundings of the feeling entertained among the other foreign ministers and ambassadors resident in Pekin before any representatives were made to the Japanese government.

Such a course is essential in order to escape the humiliating consequences that might be expected to follow a protest directed by the state department to Japan, which would not command the support of at least a majority of the great powers other than America, which had accepted Mr. Hay's "open door" policy as binding upon them.

The great success that has so far attended the efforts of America to keep within reach on Manchuria's trade with and within reach on terms to all of the powers is ascribed to the fact that at every stage in the negotiations since the conclusion of the Russo-Japanese war, the American government has freely advised with the great European powers, and indeed with Japan, insuring thereby a measure of support for its propositions that prevented the formation of even a minority party among the powers.

Must Prove His Silence.

The publication of the Chicago statement has deprived the American minister who is to represent this country at Pekin of considerable advantage in the game of diplomacy, and it may now be possible for any power to set in motion machinery that may defeat the whole project.

So everything is now supposed to depend upon whether Mr. Crane shall acquit himself of a responsibility for the publication.

ANTI-COOK DOPE READY

party was under constant surveillance of the Pearyites during the whole time he was in the Far North. This was because it was suspected that Cook intended to whether he reached it or not.

The official statement is said to comprise many typewritten sheets. All those who have seen it were unanimous in their expression of belief that it will completely disprove not only Dr. Cook's claim of the pole but many of the statements he has made concerning his adventures within the arctic zone.

Maps by Eskimos.

Maps made by Cook's Eskimos of distances traveled by them while in his company, statements of other Eskimos as to what Cook had told them and observations of the Peary party play an important part in the belief.

Among other things the document is said to contain a statement that the Cook expedition left this city two years ago with the determination to return with the assertion of polar discovery.

With this in mind, Commander Peary, as he is expected to assert, laid his plans to combat claims of the Brooklyn physician before the Roosevelt's sail for the polar seas.

It is asserted that the document will tell of constant surveillance of Dr. Cook by Peary's men during the two years Cook spent in the ice-bound region, and state that this surveillance resulted in the discovery that Dr. Cook never went out of sight of land and that his assertion of polar success was a mere fabrication.

Argument Is Expected.

Commander Peary's brief against Dr. Cook is said to contain not only the statements of the two Eskimo companions of Cook that the Brooklyn explorer did not venture far from land, but also the assertions of still other Eskimos, who are said to have seen Cook camping on the western coast of Grand Land at a time when he said he was at the pole.

The bulk of the Peary document, however, is known to be argumentative. It points out what Peary characterizes as the "impossibilities" in Cook's story. It bases much of its deductions on the results of former expeditions.

The official statement is said to hinge largely on the testimony of Itookashoo and Apelah, the two Eskimo lads, who, Dr. Cook said, accompanied him to the pole. This testimony was obtained by Peary at Etah. It was also said to have been vouched for by Capt. Bartlett, Prof. McMillan, George Borup and Mat Henson, all of whom were members of the Peary expedition.

As rear as has been learned by friends of Commander Peary the Eskimos testified that Dr. Cook and Francke, accompanied by eight or nine Eskimos went from Anatook to Cape Sabine by way of Smith's Sound. Later Francke and three Eskimos turned about and came back to Anatook. Meantime Cook and his remaining company of Eskimo worked eastward across Ellesmere Land to a point south of Cape Thomas Hubbard. There they tarried for some time, living in ice igloos and hunting and fishing in the region around their headquarters.

C. W. MORSE FAILS ON APPEAL FROM LONG SENTENCE

of the sentence pending further proceedings.

Last Direct Appeal.

The decision of the circuit court of appeals is final, so far as direct appeal is concerned, but it was said today that counsel for Morse may apply to the supreme court of the United States for a writ of certiorari in order to bring about a review of the entire proceedings by that court.

At the office of Mr. Moore's counsel today it was stated that the case would be taken to the United States supreme court and an application for bail would be made. Meantime Mr. Morse would be sent to the Tombs prison or might be sent to Atlanta to begin his sentence unless the circuit court of appeals in New York granted a stay in the execution of his sentence.

Echo of 1907 Panic.

Mr. Morse was convicted of violation of the national banking laws in misapplying the funds of the National Bank of North America, of which he was president, at the time of the financial panic of 1907.

After his original sentence Mr. Morse obtained a writ of error khich brought his case before the circuit court of appeals for review. Arguments on his appeal began last February and did not end until June 17, when the judges reserved decision and admitted the defendant to $125,000 bail, furnished by twenty of his friends.

On June 17 Mr. Morse was released from the Tombs, where he had been confined since October, 1908. Immediately he plunged into business, as if serving prison term were not hanging over him, and during the past four months his financial rehabilitation was rapid. During that time he is reported to have paid off $5,000,000 of his $7,000,000 indebtedness, and to have regained control of a large part of his extensive steamship interests.

Mr. Morse was charged with making false entries on the bank's books. He was sentenced Nov. 8, 1908, after a long jury trial.

The United States circuit court of appeals, in its decision rendered today, said:

"We fully realize the consequences to the defendant which must follow an affirmance of this judgment, and yet we cannot doubt that he was given a fair trial and the verdict on the fourteen counts was amply sustained by the proof. No unprejudiced person can read the record without being convinced that by the defendant's procurement the bank (National Bank of North America) bought its own stock and the stock of the Ice Securities company, and by his procurement the entries in the bank book and in the reports of the comptroller as to these transactions were so arranged as to conceal the truth and to record transactions which in reality never took place."

Indicted in 1908.

Morse was indicted on March 12, 1908, on his return from Europe. The indictment contained twenty-nine counts, comprising conspiracy to defraud the United States government, the making of false entries, and the misapplication of the funds of a national bank.

It was charged that Morse with others was engaged in a pool that was manipulating the stock of the American Ice company. As a result of this pool, United States District Attorney Stimson declared, Morse and his associates became possessors of large blocks of ice stock and finally, getting near the end of their resources, went to the National Bank of North America and obtained money to continue the speculation. The government alleges that from time to time $1,200,000 of the bank's money was used for this purpose. To conceal these transactions, Mr. Stimson said, fictitious loans were made on the bank's books, with the ice stock really bought with the bank's own money.

REAL FIGHT IS BREWING

tle. There will be no quarter in either case.

Where the Brower forces stand in the fight to come was indicated early in the game, when several Sixth district papers, noted for their political following, gave anything but a favorable greeting to the new governor, and now, to cap the climax, word is brought from the Eighth district that the Dunn followers will have none of Eberhart. They announce their determination to fight the Mankato man to a finish.

Dunn Off the Reservation.

Where Mr. Dunn stands was put forth boldly by a local friend Saturday.

"The boys may not know it," said this particular friend, "but all kinds of overtures have been made to the Princeton man to come in, and he has refused every one of them. To my own knowledge the offer has been made to him to name any number of officials he desires, contingent upon the nomination and election of Governor Eberhart, but he says nothing can tempt him.

"Eberhart, Mr. Dunn claims, bolted him in the 1904 convention, and he would be a traitor to himself and his friends if he accepted anything at the governor's hands. If he did not make the race, I would not be surprised to see him espouse the cause of some one else and take the stump in his behalf. And speaking further, if Dunn is determined to get into the game, I would not be surprised to see him have the backing of the followers of Ripley Brower and J. F. Jacobson. Both are dead set against Governor Eberhart."

That something is brewing can be taken from the fact that the three named have been unusually silent as far as the 1910 gubernatorial game is concerned.

Effort for Harmony Being Made.

With a Republican at the helm, friends of harmony and those hopeful of a return of the Republican party to power are making strenuous efforts to bring the Republican workers over the state into line for Governor Eberhart. He is in office, and they consider him the logical candidate for the succession. To this end leaders all over the state have been importuned to get busy, and this plea has been even extended to H. C. Dunn, Ripley Brower, J. F. Jacobson and others.

James A. Martin, a well-known Brower man, is favorable to Dunn, it is said. On the other hand, Dunn is reported to have made some complimentary remarks concerning Mr. Brower.

28.70, and that the wind was blowing sixty-eight miles an hour.

In order to safeguard the life of the weather bureau observer at Sand Key, a small island to the southwest of Key West, Chief Moore ordered the man to abandon the post.

Havana Hard Hit.

Havana, Oct. 11.—A storm of hurricane proportions struck the city early today and raged with unabated fury for several hours. No fatalities have been reported up to this time, but the property losses from wind and rain probably will be enormous.

Many lighters and other small craft in the harbor have been sunk or driven ashore. All telegraph wires in the city are down, the electric power service is crippled and scarcely a tree is left standing in Havana.

Like Storm of 1906.

Torrential rains have fallen ceaselessly during the past few days. At 2 o'clock this morning a storm of tremendous severity, which had gathered to the west, swept down upon the city and for six hours wrought damage similar to that done by the great storm of Oct. 17, 1906.

The wind tore down the telegraph and telephone wires throughout the city, uprooted or broke down every tree in its path, and put out of operation the electric light system, the overhead trolley lines and the many works dependent upon the electric power plants.

While the wind was doing its worst, the downpour of rain flooded the streets, making it impossible to open the shops. The smaller craft in the harbor were at the mercy of the storm, and today many of these are thrown high on the shore, while others have been sunk at their anchorages.

No papers were issued this morning, the newspaper plants being crippled by the floods.

Steamers Are Overdue.

The steamers of the Ward and Plant lines, as well as the steamers from New Orleans, which are due today, had not arrived this forenoon.

By 9 o'clock the storm had begun to abate, and as the morning progressed the wind continued to subside, but a terrible sea was still running.

All of the windows were broken, pieces of the vault doors were blown across the street, an arc light in the street was knocked down and desks and office furniture generally shattered.

The yeggs had poured some nitroglycerin into an opening in the money safe, but had not lighted the explosive, when they abandoned the job and disappeared. The evidences of the explosive that had been inserted were plain when the bank officers opened the money safe t his morning, but they experienced no difficulty in getting it open, and found all the contents intact. The books and papers in the big vault were more or less torn and blown about by the explosion, and the damage to the bank will amount to about $1,000, all covered by insurance.

Representative H. C. Webb is president of the bank, and A. S. Dean cashier, and they were early on the scene, getting into communication with officers of the State Bankers' association in order to facilitate in the capture of the men. Marshal Halliday, while not possessed of much of a clue, is sparing no effort or expense in trying to catch the burglars.

The bank will reopen as soon as it can secure suitable quarters.

HOTEL MAN LOSES LIFE

Simmie De Marre, Injured in Lengby Fire, Dead at Fosston.

He Fell From the Roof of One of the Burning Buildings.

Fosston, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The damaging fire that swept over Lenby, Polk county, last Thursday morning destroyed several buildings and doing a large amount of damage, has claimed one life.

Simmie De Marre died in the Fosston hospital from injuries sustained to his spine.

Mr. De Marre leaves a young wife, having married Miss Clara Bye last May. They have conducted the Columbia hotel in Lengby since shortly after the wedding.

When De Marre fell from the roof of one of the burning buildings during the Lengby fire it was not believed that the injuries he received would be fatal, though they were painful.

He was hurried here to the hospital, but was beyond medical skill.

DULUTH WOMAN IN A RUNAWAY

Mrs. Paul Sharvey Passes Safely Through Thrilling Experience

Deerwood, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Paul Sharvey, who came from Duluth recently, had an exciting experience. Mrs. Frank Phillips took Mrs. Sharvey out for a drive and they had just started when the horse bolted and ran away. It came right down the road alongside the Northern Pacific tracks at a terrific rate and turned up the main street of the town, then headed for the barn back of the restaurant, where it stopped. On the way they had some very narrow escapes, having come near collisions with a few teams on the road. However, they were fortunate to escape without injury, and the only thing suffered was a very bad fright.

The 16-month-old child of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ernster died Monday night after a lingering illness of many months.

The town of Crosby is now on the hum with all kinds and sorts of busy bees. Everything is going along with a nicety, and the sidewalks are being laid with great rapidity, and it will not be very long before they will all be completed on the main street. The first excavation work started Monday, and when completed the carpenters will start the erection of a general merchandise store.

Mrs. Lowry of Duluth arrived on the noon train last Tuesday for the purpose of paying a visit to Crosby, where she purchased some lots. She expects to build in the near future. Mrs. Lowry left on the afternoon train feeling delighted with the very pleasant launch trip across Serpent lake.

George H. Crosby of Duluth arrived in town Monday night and remained a few days looking over things in general. Mr. Crosby stated that they would start to break ground for the new hotel in the town of Crosby the middle of next week and would rush things along with all possible speed so that the building will be completed before snow flies.

HIS APPEALS VERY COSTLY

Accused of Assault and Is Fined $20; Costs Amount to $162.25.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Horace G. Russell has paid to Clerk E. C. Gearey, Jr., $182.25 to wipe out the fine imposed by Judge Charles A. Pollock of the district court.

The fine imposed was in reality only $20, $162.25 representing the costs incurred as a result of the appeal from the decision of Judge Martin Ryan in the police court. Attorneys claim that this action rivals the Iowa cow case in many respects and there are several attorneys who claim that had Russell appealed to the supreme court of the United States, that they believed his chances would have been excellent. As it is, the fine is paid and the last chapter of the case ended.

Russell was arrested about sixteen months ago on complaint of a woman residing in the Ely block, who charged the defendant with striking her and throwing her out of her rooms.

The case was tried by Judge Martin Ryan, the defendant found guilty and fined $20. From this decision the defendant appealed and the case was retried at the November term of district court, before a jury, with Judge Charles A. Pollock presiding.

The jury found Russell guilty, confirming the judgment of the police magistrate.

MASS, MICH., SCORCHED.

Fire Doing $10,000 Damage Threatened to Wipe Out Town.

Mass, Mich., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire broke out in the Willette barber shop Friday morning and before the fire fighters could gain control of the flames, had burned four buildings, including the Mass bank, the Mass Grocery company and a vacant building, all of the burned buildings belonging to Mr. Scott of Mass.

The origin of the fire is unknown, the only thing which can be ascertained is that the fire first broke out in the barber shop.

People who were at Mr. Ives' livery barn first noticed smoke coming from the roof of the building and immediately turned in the alarm.

The village of Mass has no fire department, excepting a bucket brigade, who immediately got busy in trying to quench the flames, but very little headway was made until the four buildings had been devoured by the fire.

It is estimated that the loss was about $10,000, which was partially covered by insurance.

WILL HONOR COLUMBUS.

Italian Societies of Hurley and Ironwood to Celebrate Tuesday.

Hurley, Wis., Oct. 11.—(Special to the Herald.) — The six Italian societies of Hurley have about completed the arrangements for the big Columbus day celebration to be held here tomorrow, and indications are that it will be the biggest event ever undertaken by the Italian residents of the range.

The parade will be one of the chief features of the celebration and will be participated in by all of the Italian societies of the range in their regalia and several fraternal organizations. The Hurley and Norrie bands will furnish the music all day.

A large float has been constructed representing the Santa Maria, Columbus' flag ship, and it will be the leading feature of the parade. The parade will form at 10 a. m., and the route will be through the principal streets of Hurley and Ironwood and on its return will go to the Hurley ball park, where the representations of the landing of Columbus will be enacted. Following this scene, A. L. Ruggles, the orator of the day, will deliver an appropriate speech. At 1 o'clock p. m., an elaborate banquet will be served at the Burton hotel. In the evening a grand ball will be given at Bonino's hall.

RECEIVER HAS STARTED SUIT

Man in Charge of Defunct Ironwood Bank Begins Action.

Ironwood, Mich., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Suit has been brought in the federal court at Marquette by Receiver Tillinghast of the defunct First National bank of this city against Edward D. Nelson, Elven T. Larson, and Chester G. Rogers, administrator of the estate of Herman F. Jahn, deceased, praying that the court declare void the sale of 339 shares of bank stock by Nelson to Larson and Jahn in January, 1906, and compel Nelson to pay to the bank the full value of shares of stock, which were sold for $53,850.

The bill of complaint filed by the receiver sets up that at the time the sale was made Nelson was president of the First National bank, of Ironwood, Jahn was vice president and Larson cashier, and that the three held 460 shares of the stock of the bank. It is alleged that at that time the bank was insolvent and was known to be insolvent by the three defendants; furthermore, that Nelson personally owed large sums of money to divers creditors, who were threatening bankruptcy proceedings against him.

In order that Nelson might be able to pay these creditors it is charged that he, Larson and Jahn conspired to sell Nelson's stock. To further this conspiracy Larson and Jahn purchased 339 shares from Nelson for $53,850. Accordingly, it is alleged, Larson and Jahn gave Nelson $9,000 in money and the balance in credits, notes, etc., all of which were a part of the credits of the bank, and not the property of Larson and Jahn. These notes and credits are separately set forth in the bill of complaint, where they appear to be largely notes, held by the bank against Jahn, Nelson, or public service corporations in which Nelson is generally believed to be a controlling stockholder. Among the corporations named are the Ironwood water works and the Ironwood and Hurley electric light and street car system.

He admits he is the party sought. He was arrested in a lumber camp by Sheriff Rapple, not far from the village of Grandview.

DEERWOOD CELEBRATED.

Carrying of Incorporation Causes Much Joy in Cuyuna Range Town.

Deerwood, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The population of the town of Deerwood put a strong vote through last Tuesday for incorporation. Out of a total of ninety-eight votes eighty were for incorporation and seventeen against; one vote was spoiled.

Great celebrations took place on Tuesday evening just as soon as the results were known. The Deerwood concert band promenaded the town and rendered some fine music until about 10 o'clock. The Oberg Brothers gave quite a display of fireworks, which lasted about an hour.

JAMES SULLIVAN DEAD.

For Thirty-Three Years He Was Resident of East Grand Forks.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—James E. Sullivan, aged 65, a native of Renfrew, Ont., and for thirty-five years a well known resident of this place, is dead after an illness of three weeks.

Mr. Sullivan, since coming here in 1876, when the city was in its infancy, has contributed not a little to its upgrowth. He had served as president of the city council, and with his fair-minded way of dealing with the city's interests, won the admiration of the entire community.

Four daughters, Josephine, Clara, Laura and Mary; three sons, Leslie, Emmett and Johnny, and three sisters, Mrs. Mary Racine and Mrs. M. McQuire, both of this city, and Mrs. John Harvey of Grand Forks, survive.

The funeral was held this morning, Rev. Father Hogan officiating.

WILL BUILD NEXT YEAR

Piedmont Avenue Street Car Line Extension Goes Over Winter.

Work of Reducing Avenue Grade Has Taken Too Long.

The work of grading Piedmont avenue has progressed so slowly and is now so far from completion that there is now no possibility that the street car tracks will be laid on the extension this season. While the people who were to have been benefited by the extension are disappointed, the street railway officials regret the delay as much as the patrons, as the material for the extension is already on the ground.

Referring to the situation, Manager Warren of the street railway company said, this morning:

"As long ago as July 29, 1907, the company sent a communication to the council agreeing to build the extension on Piedmont avenue the following season, as soon as the grade was reduced to a maximum of 7 per cent. This would have made the extension completed in 1908.

"Again, April 8, 1908, the company communicated with the council, agreeing to slight modifications in the grade, with a maximum of 7½ per cent, and submitted a profile of the grade that would be satisfactory to the company, agreeing to build the extension this year if the city would change the grade.

"Nothing was done under this offer so that, technically, the company was released from its promises.

"Late this summer the contract was let for the reducing of the grade and the contractor began work the latter part of July, with a small force of men.

"The company had planned to build the line this fall, all the material having been purchased and delivered here. Since deciding to build the line, the company has incurred considerable expense and is anxious to get it into operation, but the first snow storm of the season has arrived with the work of reducing the grade about half completed. Under the circumstances the company is compelled to give up the idea of building the extension this season as the track work cannot be carried on while the grading is in progress for the reason that the street would be completely blocked to traffic, accidents might occur and the company would, no doubt, be regarded as responsible for them. Even if the grading were completed now, the season is too far advanced and the weather too uncertain to make the track work advisable. The line will be put in the first thing next summer."

HAD NO COLD DEFENDERS

Arctic Explorers Would Have Fared Better in Duluth.

The Peary and Cook controversy is causing a great deal of comment, not only in this country, but in Europe, and at this time of the year, when the evenings are chilly and a person thinks of the long cold winter, we can imagine what Peary and Cook had to endure on their trip to the North Pole, but they, of course, could not carry any modern cold weather defenders such as are carried by R. B. Forward & Co. They are exclusive agents for the best lines of stoves manufactured in this country, such as the Radiant Estate, Moore's and Sunrise base burners, and, by the way, their prices are at least from 15 to 25 per cent lower than at any other store in the Northwest. Don't take my word for it, but pay a visit to their store and be convinced. And, by the way, they have just received another big shipment of comforts and blankets. This is the third shipment of this class of goods received this fall, so that one can imagine that they are doing business at Second avenue east and Superior street. Then, too, they are exclusive agents for Duluth for the Ostomoor mattresses, and are selling these mattresses for from $2 to $5 less than Ostomoor's catalogue prices. It will be to your interest to visit this store, the most beautiful store of its kind in Duluth.

KILLED IN THE WEST.

Body of Randolph Lenes Brought Home for Interment.

Fosston, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The remains of Randolph Lenes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tollef J. Lenes of Queen, were brought here last week from Spokane, Wash., for interment.

Randolph went West in the early part of April of this year, together with Fred Gangstad, and registered for the Flathead reservation opening. Later, he was employed with the Spokane Lumber company and was working in the woods about thirty miles out of Spokane when the fatal accident happened, on Friday last.

Together with Gangstad, Randolph had cut down a large tree which in falling struck a stump, throwing the butt of the tree into the air. Both men jumped in opposite directions to get out of its way, when it fell back, but it swerved to the side and struck Randolph to the ground.

He was taken to the Great Eastern hospital at Spokane, but nothing could be done to save his life and he died there the following day.

Randolph Lenes was born in the town of Austad, Otter Tail county, on Oct. 20, 1883.

JEALOUSY IS CAUSE OF BREAK

Court Grants Augusta Voss Divorce From Suspicious Husband.

Jealousy was the rock on which Mr. and Mrs. August Voss' matrimonial ship was wrecked. Mrs. Voss told Judge Cant in district court this morning that she couldn't live with her husband any longer because of his suspicious nature. Every hour of every day, she said, he accused her of infidelity without cause, and she finally had to leave him. He threatened to shoot her on one occasion, she said. There were other charges of cruelty, but Voss' suspicions formed the principal one.

She is 37 years old and her husband is 40. They were married in 1890 and there are two children, 13 and 9 years of age.

All of the divorce cases on the calendar, except those that go on the general term calendar, have now been disposed of. Saturday afternoon Judge Cant granted divorces to Mattie Myra Polling from Elmer E. Polling and Sarah Lamb from Thomas Lamb.

SHERIFF BATES WILL NOT RESIGN

St. Louis County Officer Doesn't Intend to Become Mining Promoter.

A serious minded young man, who punches a typewriter for one of the St. Paul dailies, is shy on a sense of humor, or if he has a sense of humor it is sometimes lost in the stern chase for the elusive news story. Sheriff "Bill" Gerber of St. Paul was in a "kidding" humor Saturday and he turned some of it loose on the newschaser. The result was a wild and wierd story in which he took a column and a half to inform the breathless public that Sheriff Gerber and Sheriff Bates of St. Louis county were to resign their respective offices to invade the icebound shores of Alaska to develop a mining property which was to make them both bloated millionaires.

The story was good reading, but a little shy on facts. The news gatherer had surprised the two sheriffs in Sheriff Gerber's office looking over some likely appearing specimens of rock. He scented a story and when Sheriff Gerber remarked that he and Sheriff Bates were thinking of resigning to vie with Cook and Peary in a dash for the frozen North, he waited to hear no more. He was down the street to wear the bearings off of a perfectly good typewriter.

Be it known that Sheriff Bates and Sheriff Gerber have very good jobs. They aren't thinking of passing up a sure thing for the precarious fortunes of mining promoters and, though they may dabble in stocks and aim to be bloated bondholders, they will continue herding the parasites of society and keeping their fences in good repair for the next campaign.

NEED MEN IN THE SOUTHWEST

Woodsmen Are Very Scarce in Arizona Says Operator.

Charles Lindstrom, manager of the Manistee & Saginaw Logging Company of Williams, Ariz., is here today in search of woodsmen. To show how great is the need for experienced woodsmen in the Southwest, it may be said that the lumber operators in that part of the country are paying $50 a month and board to sawyers and cutters.

The lumber business is experiencing a decided boom, according to Mr. Lindstrom. There is need for a great many laborers in the woods, and this winter the operators promise to cut a great deal more than has been taken out since the financial panic.

Employment agents here state that the storm of today will cause many men throughout the Dakotas to come to this city. The first severe storm generally drives a large number of men in from the harvest fields, according to local employment men. They say there is demand here for all the men that can be secured.

Right now the railroads, the lumber camps, the sawmills and the pulpwood camps are demanding a large number of men, if the orders of the local employment offices are a criterion of the labor situation. The coming of men from the harvest fields will be welcomed by labor seekers in this part of the country.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Judge Windom Gives Young Man Chance to Reform.

Sailors and Farmers Given Opportunity to Leave the City.

Christ Hulls, a young Scandinavian, furnished the most appealing temperance example this morning that hes been in police court for many weeks.

When Judge Windom asked him why he used liquor, he was so overcome that he could scarcely reply. Gulping back big sobs, he answered that he didn't know.

"Why don't you cut it out?" questioned the court.

Putting his hat over his eyes, from which the tears were beginning to stream, he hung his head without saying a word.

The court repeated the question, and without waiting for the answer read him a severe lecture upon the evils of drink. He made particular note of the young man's appearance and name, and told him that if he ever came before him again his sentence would be thirty days straight on the rockpile. With that he suspended sentence, to give Hulls another chance.

The prisoner nodded his head when the court ceased speaking and declared that he had boarded the water wagon for good and all.

Maurice Kieley, when arraigned in police court this morning, was accused of assaulting Officer Frank Shannon in the saloon at Lake avenue and Superior street.

It is alleged that he kicked the feet of the officer from under him on the slippery tiling and then jumped on him, choking him unmercifully, when others in the saloon pulled him off. The officer was bruised, but not seriously injured.

Kieley is said to have been making too much noise in the place Saturday night when Officer Shannon was called in to take him out. He pleaded not guilty to disorderly conduct and his trial was set for this afternoon. Bail was fixed at $50.

Sailors and farmers from North Dakota got off easily when arraigned in police court this morning, charged with being drunk. The court let the sailors go, he explained because if they didn't get out of town on one of the boats they would be a burden to the city all winter. The North Dakota farmers, three of them, said that they can't get whisky in their native state, so took advantage of the chance to get "tanked" while in the Zenith City. The court thought the excuse sufficient to suspend sentence.

Lorne Finch, Charles Suttle and Frank O. Burrows each forfeited $25 bail. All claimed to be sailors.

He carried his mother outside to safety first, and then returned for his father. Both declare that they would have suffocated from the black smoke, but for the bravery and presence of mind of their son.

MY LADY SENT UP FOR THIRTY DAYS

Lady Constance Lytton Is Sentenced for Work as Suffragette.

Newcastle, Eng., Oct. 11.—Lady Constance Lytton and Mrs. H. N. Brailsford, who were arrested here Saturday, following a suffragette demonstration against David Lloyd-George, the chancellor of the exchequer, were today sentenced each to a month's imprisonment. Mrs. Brailsford is the wife of a former editorial writer on the Daily News, who resigned his position a week ago as a protest against the government's treatment of suffragettes.

The demonstration of Saturday, which resulted in the arrest, took the form of a rush on the chancellor as he was making his way to his motor car from the Palace theater, where he had addressed an audience on the subject of the budget.

WEDDED ON FIRST SIGHT

Marriage of Mary Van Aspern and Charles Ells Arranged By Friends.

Are Made Husband and Wife Two Hours After Meeting.

A story has just leaked out of a wedding taking place last week at West Duluth in which the principals had never known or seen each other until two hours prior to their marriage.

Miss Mary Van Aspern, the daughter of a farmer residing near Mahtowa, Carlton county, and Charles F. Ells, a prosperous farmer residing at Battle Creek, Mich, were married late Monday afternoon by Justice J. B. Flack. The bride arrived from her home about 2:30 Monday afternoon and was married two hours later.

The wedding, it is said, was brought about through mutual friends of the two people. The groom has a brother, George Ells, residing at Sixty-third avenue west and Nicollet street. Through the brother and other friends of both parties the wedding was agreed upon and West Duluth was selected for the wedding place.

Mr. Ells arrived in West Duluth Saturday afternoon, Oct. 2. He intended to take a train down to Mahtowa, it is said, to see his bride-to-be, but missed his connections and telegraphed her to come to West Duluth. She arrived on the following afternoon. They were introduced to each other and two hours afterwards were married in justice court in the presence of two witnesses.

After a two days' stay with friends in West Duluth, Mr. and Mrs. Ells departed for the home of the bride in Carlton county, for a short visit. They then left for Battle Creek, where the groom is engaged in truck gardening. Ells is 35 years old and his bride is about seven years his junior.

A BRANCH AT SOUTH SUPERIOR

Rieckoff Box Factory Not Moving, But Branching Out.

The W. H. Rieckhoff company of New Duluth, manufacturing packing boxes and box shooks, has purchased the old Wilcox site and plant at South Superior and will establish a branch to the New Duluth establishment there. The report that the base of operations of the New Duluth factory is to be moved to Superior is denied by Mr. Rieckoff, and the Superior factory will be merely an extension of the New Duluth plant.

Despite the panic of last year, there was shipped from the New Duluth plant over $100,000 worth of boxes, and the branch at South Superior is rendered necessary by the rapidly increasing business of the concern; and the belief of the officers that there is a good opening for such a factory in South Superior.

COMPLAIN OF POOR INSULATION

Firemen Had Five Calls Due to Crossed Wires During Storm.

Poorly insulated wires, carrying a high voltage, is claimed by the West Duluth firemen to be the cause of many unnecessary calls to fires caused by crossed wires every time there is a storm at West Duluth.

There were no less than five calls at West Duluth last night, where fires were caused by crossed wires. The firemen refused to direct a stream of water on a burning pole because of the danger to the firemen.

The firemen were called out at 10:18 o'clock last evening to the home of J. B. Anderson of 324 South Fifty-ninth avenue west. Crossed wires had caused a heavy charge of electricity to burn out a set of telephone instruments and the building was in danger of fire. The firemen cut the telephone wires.

While out to the Anderson home another call was received to come to Fifty-eighth avenue west and Sherburne street. Electric light wires had become intermingled with telephone lines and the pole was burning. The firemen did not risk pouring water onto the pole, but sent for an electrician of the electric company.

Crossed wides at Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand, Fifty-ninth avenue west and Ramsey street and at Sixty-third avenue west and Grand avenue were also the origin of small blazes. Electricians were summoned and the necessary wires cut.

CARS RUN OVER EXTENSION.

Improvements on Third Street Car Line Are Completed.

Cars were run for the first time today over the entire extension of the double track between Thirty-ninth and Fifty-seventh avenues west on Grand avenue.

The street at Forty-ninth avenue west, which has been filled in, will be opened for traffic as soon as it has been leveled off.

It is understood that a "Y" will be put in at Fifty-seventh avenue west and that the company will run its extra cars to this point instead of Thirty-ninth avenue west.

JEROME OUT OF THE RACE

New York Political Air Is Clarified Some By His Withdrawal.

Gaynor and Hearst Exchange Slaps---Tammany Steals Civic Alliance.

New York, Oct. 11.—With William Travis Jerome out of the running for district attorney, and William Randolph Hearst in the mayoralty race to stay, the municipal campaign in New York has clarified somewhat and promises to be one of the hottest mayoralty races seen in Gotham in years.

Jerome was not nominated by any of the parties, but by petitions signed by 5,000 voters. John Heneberry, his campaign manager, went to the offices of the board of elections and filed Jerome's formal declination to accept the nomination. Jerome gave out the following statement:

"After careful reflection I have the decided that I ought no longer continue as a candidate for election to the office of district attorney of New York county, and I have today filed my declination of nomination as a candidate for that office."

Jerome has twice been elected as an independent.

Gaynor Denounces Hearst.

Justice William Gaynor, the Democratic nominee for mayor, has issued a brief statement charging Hearst with breach of faith, and last night he came out with a letter purporting to show that Hearst had urged him to run for mayor nearly six months ago "on any ticket," and pledging his support.

Mr. Hearst in turn gave out a statement answering Gaynor, in which he said:

"If Justice Gaynor has stated that I promised to support him under any and all circumstances, and upon any and all tickets, he states what is positively untrue. I will try to assume that he is honestly mistaken, but it is difficult for me to do so, as the proposition is so unreasonable and impossible that it bears its refutation on its face.

Hearst Denounces Gaynor.

"Judge Gaynor is not a lifelong friend nor a deeply loved brother to whom a blind devotion might be due. He has been to me merely a representative of certain ideas, an exponent of certain principles. While he was supporting those principles I supported him. When he deserted those principles I parted from him."

The latest "issue" in the campaign is Tammany's kidnaping, or attempted abduction, at least, of the little "Civic Alliance" and the emblems thereof, constituting the new party designation under which the Independents had rallied to the support of Hearst. As a result of this move the Democratic ticket may appear under the emblems of three different parties on the official ballot—the straight Democratic, the old Independence League, recently captured at the primaries, and, lastly, the new Civil Alliance. While Hearst may yet qualify under an altogether new party name, the coup, if successful, ultimately will give Tammany a 3 to 1 advantage in the matter of publicity on the ballot, and doubtless will cause some confusion to voters in the Tiger's interest. The final retention of the "Civic Alliance" as a Tammany title, however, is a legal question which must be settled this week.

SUPREME COURT OF NATION MEETS

Seven of the Nine Judges Are Present at Opening Session.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The supreme court of the United States convened today for the regular term of 1909-1910. Seven of the nine justices were present. Justices Peckham and Moody were absent on account of illness. The court was in session for only forty minutes. The call of the docket will begin tomorrow.

ROBINS ARE GOING SOUTH

Large Flocks of Them at Lester Park and Woodland.

The robins are going South.

They have been moving for some time, in small numbers, but this spell is too much for them, and large flocks of the red-breasted birds are gathering for their annual flight south.

In the vicinity of Woodland and Lester Park they are calling to one another that it is time to leave, and they are swarming off to the two suburbs.

No other bird is loved in the North as is the robin. The laws are supposed to protect them, but it is reported that boys armed with air rifles have been shooting them down as they gather for their annual flight.

There is a rush on for air rifles and many an irate citizen has stumbled across the results of the day's hunt on his way home at night.

KING STILL HOPES FOR BUDGET AGREEMENT.

London, Oct. 11.—The "no compromise on the budget" banner nailed to the staff by William Spencer Churchill, president of the board of trade, has not been accepted by King Edward as disposing finally of the hope of reconciling the warring factions.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SLOW GAME IN DEEP MUD

Minnesota Defeats Ames, 18 to 0, Failing to Score in Last Half.

Pickering Is Injured and Will Be Out of Nebraska Game.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minnesota football brigade walked off with a victory over Ames Saturday, playing in a steady downpour and on a field covered with mud. The score was 18 to 0, Minnesota scoring all her points in the first half. The contest was very unsatisfactory, taken from any point of view. The teams were playing under extreme difficulty, and what the score might have been on a dry field is a question. It would be a good guess to say that Minnesota would have added at least twenty more points to its score if the field had been in good condition. The Ames boys played a very strong game. Minnesota at times showed flashes of brilliant football, but most of the play was marked by an extreme slowness and steady plugging. The play of both teams more resembled the working of the thrashing machine, but taking into consideration the heavy field and the continual drizzle, it could hardly be otherwise.

The first team for Minnesota did not finish out the entire game, four subs being used in the second half. Minnesota had her first real hard luck of the season in the injury of Fullback Pickering. He broke a rib while pulling off one of his ripping line smashes. He was taken to the hospital and will not be able to play again for at least two weeks. This will keep him out of the Nebraska game. "Pick" will be sadly missed, and his position will be almost impossible to fill. The rooters are all hoping that he will be able to play in the Chicago game. If he is not in that game, the gloom around the Gopher camp will be great. Pickering is a fast, hard player, and could always be depended upon for a good gain. He hits the opposing line like a shot out of a gun. He is a marvel at backing up the team, and it is conceded by all that he is even the superior of Plankers of last year's team, while Plankers, by the way, was considered by many as the best fullback in the West. Next to Lyle Johnston, Pickering's place will be as hard to fill as any on the team.

Johnston, the star Gopher player, played his usual brilliant game Saturday, making steady gains for the Maroon and Gold, as well as several sensational dodging runs. Johnny seems to be able to work on a wet field as well as a dry one, and his playing Saturday made him all the more the favorite of the Minnesota followers. Johnston has a berth on the All-Western eleven cinched, and if the Eastern critics know a good football player when they see one, he will be given considerable recognition in the East. Stevens played a fair game at the other half, but seemed to be slower than the rest of the back field and less to be depended upon. Stevens will have to hurry to hold down his position, as Rosenwald is pushing him hard. "Rosy" took Johnston's place in the second half, and he seemed to have it on Stevens. Capt. "Duffy" McGovern played a very creditable game and seems to have gained a great deal of confidence, running the team with a surety which bespeaks ill for some of Minnesota's coming opponents.

The ends played a fairly good game Saturday. Raddemacher displayed star form while he was in the game. Grimes took his place in the second half and did not do nearly so well. Pettijohn was not in the game at all Saturday, Vidal playing his position. Vidal played a good hard consistent game, but "Petty" was plainly missed. Pettijohn is being seriously troubled with a bad leg and it is sincerely hoped that he will not be kept out of any of the big games. With Pettijohn and Raddemacher on the ends Chicago or anyone else will have a great difficulty in making any gains in that direction.

The tackles, Walker and McCree, both played well. They broke through Ames' line time and again and spoiled a number of plays. They were also very efficient in making holes for the backfield. The guards played a slow game Saturday, and except for a few flashes of spirit here and there, not a very good game. Powers and Mohlstad are big enough, but don't seem to use their weight to advantage. The guard positions now seem to be the weakest on the team and could stand a whole lot of improvement. Pete Ostrand, last years' guard, will be out soon and then maybe things will pick up around the guard position. There will be a whole lot of opposition and it will tend to liven up the contenders. Ostrand was a star on the 1908 eleven and next to Capt. Safford was considered the best man on the line. If Pete gets over his bad leg he will seize one of the guard positions and leave the other to be fought for by Powers and Mohlstad.

Farnham played center Saturday, showing much improvement over a week ago. He broke through a number of times and spoiled some good plays. If he keeps up the good work he will be a fixture at center on this years' team.

Of course the team played under very adverse circumstances and they had little chance to show off their real form. Under cover of the mud, however, an improvement in team work could be noticed, which if kept up will bring the Gophers around to championship form in a short time. Minnesota this year has a great chance for the Western championship and only the hardest kind of luck will keep them from taking the title. The Gopher backfield this year is developing into what will be the fastest and cleverest backfield on the Western gridiron. The ends on this year's team are as good a pair of men as have played end for Minnesota since the time of Rogers and Marshall. They are both strong, heady players. Minnesota line is fairly heavy this year, but the men have not been playing with the snap they ought to. The line men are of the right caliber, however, and with a little jacking up will undoubtedly play as good a game as the best.

Next comes the Nebraska game, which will be pulled off next Saturday at Omaha. Minnesota will have to clean the Cornhuskers in order to make it clear sailing for the Western title. That the game will be a hard one is a well-known fact. Now that Pickering is out of the game the outcome is more dubious than ever. Minnesota has but four days in which to practice for the battle and they will probably be days of heavy work for the Gophers. There is an even chance that a low rate will be obtained to Omaha and if it materializes the North Star state rooters will be plentiful in Omaha Saturday.

CUBS DEFEATED BY WHITE SOX

Altizer Works Reulbach for a Balk and Scores the Winning Run.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The Chicago team of the American league won its first game of the series for the city championship here yesterday from the Chicago National league club, 2 to 1.

The Nationals were the first to score. Pitcher Walsh walked the first two men and the third man up sacrificed after Evers had stolen a base. Chance followed with a sharp hit to right field, and Evers and Sheckard started for home, Altizer's fine throw, however, caught Evers, but Sheckard, who was immediately behind Evers, slid safe to the plate.

The American leaguers started the second with two singles and a base on balls, which filled the bases. Sullivan's long fly to left field scored Dougherty. They had several other chances to score but none matured until the ninth inning. Walsh was retired and Altizer was given a base on balls. Schulte caught Isbell's long fly and Cole followed with a single. Dougherty received a base on balls and the bases were all occupied. Purtell was at bat, and Reulbach was preparing to deliver the ball when Altizer started to steal home. Reulbach's attention was called to the man at third and the pitcher did not deliver the ball. Umpire O'Day called a balk and Altizer scored the run which won the game.

Ground rules making a hit into the crowd good for two bases prevailed. Rain began to fall in the fourth inning and continued throughout the game. The crowd which was one of the largest ever within the West side enclosure, remained throughout the contest. The paid attendance was given out at 24,594; the gross receipts were $16,163.75, of which the national commission receives $1,616.37; the players' share is $8,728.42 and each of the clubs will receive $2,909.48.

NIGHT BASEBALL AT LOS ANGELES

Four Thousand People See First Game Played in the West.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—Four thousand people saw the first night baseball game ever played in the West Saturday night, between the regular San Francisco and Los Angeles Pacific Coast league teams. The result was a victory for the home team, by a score of 17 to 11.

The lighting of the ball park was a success, and the big diamond and most of the outfield was brilliantly illuminated.

Scores of arc lights were used, and several big theater spotlights were employed to follow the course of the ball and the base runners.

ATHLETES BREAK MANY RECORDS

Five World's and One American Marks Broken at New York.

New York, Oct. 11.—Five new world's and one American records were made at Celtic park yesterday at the Annual fall track and field games of the Irish-American Athletic club.

Emile Lunghi, the Italian champion, won the two-thirds-mile scratch race in 2:45 3-5. The old record of 2:48 1-5 was made by W. G. George here on Nov. 30, 1886.

The discus throw, Martin Sheridan, the world's champion sent the saucer skimming 143 feet, 10½ inches, beating his former record of 140 feet, 5 inches. He also wiped out J. S. Mitchell's American figures of 26 feet, 8¼ inches by putting the 42-pound stone from a stand with follow 27 feet, 9 inches.

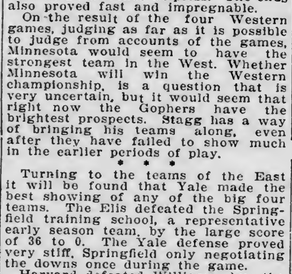

John H. Flanagan, throwing the 16-pound hammer with an unlimited run and follow, sent the missile 180 feet, 1 inch. The old figures were 154 feet, 1½ inches, made by Thomas Kieler of Ireland in 1904.

The Irish-American Athletic team composed of Collins, Riley, Bromilow and Kuat, won the four-mile relay handicap run from scratch in 18:08 4-5, clipping 1-5 seconds of the world's record held by the University of Michigan since 1906.

S. C. Northbridge and C. S. P. Casassa, of the same club, won the three-legged scratch race at 220 yards in 27 1-5 seconds easily beating Zust and Puffers' world's records of 33 seconds which has stood since 1893.

THIEF RIVER FALLS WINS OVER FOSSTON.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—As fiercely a contested football game as was ever played on the local grounds was won Saturday afternoon by the Thief River Falls high school team against the Fosston high by a score of 10 to 6. The visiting team weighed on an average of fifteen pounds more per man than the home team, but what Thief River lacked in weight they more than made in speed and silence. The team has a schedule calling for a game nearly every Saturday until Thanksgiving. The coach is Wayne Richardson, a local attorney and formerly of the North Dakota university.

Scores gathered Saturday by the four leading Western colleges go far in bearing out the belief that Minnesota this year has a royal chance of carrying off the Western football championship.

Of the four games played by Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and Chicago, it would seem to an impartial observer that the two first named schools made the best showing. Michigan barely defeated Case, a small team, by the very slender margin of 3 to 0. Allerdice, Michigan's stalwart captain, kicked a goal from the field, thus saving Michigan from being held to no score by little Case.

Chicago defeated the Hoosiers by a score of 21 to 0, it is quite true, but is blocked punt and fumbles of the part of the Hoosiers were directly responsible for two of the touchdowns scored by the Stagg combination.

In the second half the team from Indiana came back strong and held Stagg's men safely all through the period. Chicago was frequently held down throughout the game, and Indiana made first downs against the Maroon defense upon several occasions.

On the whole the showing that Chicago made against Indiana was not as good as the showing Minnesota made against Ames, though is probably fully as strong a team as Indiana.

At Camp Randall, the stamping ground of the University of Wisconsin, the Badgers defeated Lawrence by the score of 22 to 0, and their play showed that the Wisconsin institution should turn out a team that is fully up to the standard of the team of a year ago. As in 1908 the team of the University of Wisconsin was a very fast and aggressive team, the prospects for a good year at Wisconsin are very bright.

Reports from Madison state that the Badgers showed unexpected strength in the use of the forward pass. In addition to this proficiency in the advanced game, the linemen, according to the same reports played a fast, aggressive game, putting up a defense that held Lawrence helpless. The ends also proved fast and impregnable.

On the result of the four Western games, judging as far as it is possible to judge from accounts of the games Minnesota would seem to have the strongest team in the West. Whether Minnesota will win the Western championship, is a question that is very uncertain, but it would seem that right now the Gophers have the brightest prospects. Stagg has a way of bringing his teams along, even after they have failed to show much in the earlier periods of play.

Turning to the teams of the East it will be found that Yale made the best showing of any of the big four teams. The Elis defeated the Springfield training school, a representative early season team, by the large score of 36 to 0. The Yale defense proved very stiff, Springfield only negotiating the downs once during the game.

Harvard defeated Williams by the narrow margin of two points, the score standing 8 to 6. A bad pass on the part of Williams was directly responsible for the touchdown that enabled Harvard to avert defeat. Harvard was outplayed, if the accounts of the game are to be believed, showing up weaker and with less fight than was the case a week ago.

Pennsylvania defeated the University of West Virginia by the score of 12 to 0. It was only in the last ten minutes of play, when the gents from south of the Mason and Dixon line were fatigued, not slightly, but muchly, that the Pennsy team was able to score at all.

Princeton barely defeated the Fordam team. The score was 3 to 0 in favor of the New Jersey team, but it was only after the hardest kind of a fight that Princeton succeeded. The only score of the game came with but one minute to play in the second half, Cunningham, Princeton's right half, booted the oval between the goal posts, and, as in the case of Michigan, another big team was saved from being tied by a smaller team.

The results of the four Eastern games would seem to indicate that Harvard has not such a strong team as it was generally supposed to have. Yale looks very strong on the face of the showing made Saturday, while Princeton does not look to have a championship team. Judging from Saturday's game, Pennsylvania does not look as formidable as Yale.

Right here at home we had something approaching a game of ring-around-a-rosy, with seventy-two boys indulging. You could scarcely call the exhibition by that glorious name of football; it was not.

Of course there are many difficulties in the way of securing games for a team situated in this part of the state. Duluth is distinctly out of the sport zone, just the same, the high school athletic authorities have a lot of unadulterated nerve to charge 50 cents for an exhibition such as was put up Saturday.

The high school has played three games so far this season. No one objected to the Two Harbors game. It gave Colton a line on his men. Then came the Brainerd game. This team was doped as being one of the strongest teams in the northwestern part of the state. The team was a lemon. There wasn't a man on the team who had the least conception of football. Consequently, the crowd got no football.

Then came the game of Saturday. Of all the misfit, unorganized, saffron tinted football teams that have ever represented a high school, the Ironwood team was the limit. After the first five minutes of play the Ironwood players deliberately quit. Such a team is a disgrace to any school. It is no disgrace to be beaten—that is, when the defeated team goes to defeat with gameness. But when a bunch of boys quit, as did the Ironwood players, it is time that they discover that they are not cut out for football.

The people who so generously patronize the local games are exceedingly weary of the present brand of football. Several business men, enthusiasts and supporters of the Central team, informed the writer of that fact after the game of last Saturday. It is time some real games were arranged.

There are few high schools in the state that receive the support that the local school does. Schedule a good game and Athletic park will be filled. It is surely worth while for the managers to get some good team here, even if they have to go outside the state. It is hardly fair to ask the public to come and pay to see football like the exhibition of last Saturday.

Negotiations are being carried on with several of the Twin City schools. It is to be hoped that a game can be arranged. Saturday's exhibition wasn't football, and the people up here are very fond of a game that is what it is advertised to be.

IRONWOOD DEFEATED

Boys From Upper Michigan No Match for Local Team.

Larry Boyle Runs Hundred Yards for a Touchdown.

Duluth, 57; Ironwood, 0.

It was nearly a football game that was pulled off Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Central High School association, when the eleven representing the big building on the hill met and defeated the team from Ironwood.

Maybe those Michigan boys had seen a game once but it was so long ago that they must have forgotten all they learned.

They had neither dash, vim, plays or anything else essential to the makeup of a fast eleven, and with the exception of Kennedy, who played left end, there was not a man on the team who was not a perfect lady.

Their line—they hadnt any. The Duluth backs plowed through what there was like a circus clown through a tissue paper hoop. With one or two exceptions the tackling of the visitors resembled an aged professor after a butterfly.

The spectators—yes there was a large crowd—stood around and wished they would show something and after the first touchdown, which came after about two minutes of play, a majority of them went into the grandstand where were seats with backs on them to discuss family affairs.

It cost most people 50 cents to see the game and many expressed the wish that the high school management would arrange a real game with real opponents. Two Harbors was not kicked on for it was the opening game of the season. Brainerd—well most people thought they would show something and Ironwood was disappointing to say the least.

Boyle's Run.

The game was not without its thrills, however, for Larry Boyle left half for the local eleven ran the length of the field for a touchdown. He received the ball on Duluth's 15-yard line and with very little interference trotted the length of the field. It was the most spectacular run made on the local field this year and there was a momentary stir among the spectators in an otherwise dull game.

Larry starred throughout the game, although most of the Duluth team were stars against a team as weak as was the Ironwood aggregation. Duluth's forward passes were a feature of the game.

They all got away in good shape and very few failed. Ironwood had a few plays. One was a forward pass that most always caused them to be penalized, and the other two were the hitting the line by the fullbacks and the running around the end by the halves. All three were dismal failures.

There was not much difference in the weight of the teams. The Ironwood players were badly mixed up. A big fellow here and a diminutive player there. The teams would probably average very close.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed on the Zenith City boys who played the game for all there was in it. It is true that the Duluth ends did not attend to business as well as they might, but otherwise, the team played with a vim and dash characteristic of the teams that have represented the school in years gone by. Just how much nerve and pluck the Duluth boys have is yet to be shown for all the teams that have been met this year have been far beneath the class shown by the local boys. The score would undoubtedly have been larger had the boys not slowed up during the last half and gone at only about half speed.

The whole contest was a series of long runs around the ends, smashes through the line that netted long gains, forward passes that were mostly always successful and fake plays that bewildered the players from Upper Michigan. A detailed account of the game would prove as dry reading matter as an account of the last session of congress.

"Dutch" Jeronimus went in at left end during the latter part of the game and his work was a revelation. He grabbed the legs that came around his end in great shape and his man went down with a thud every time a gain around his end was attempted. The ball was in Duluth's possession nearly all the time and not once did Ironwood make ten yards. They fumbled most miserably and toward the middle of the game gave up trying to gain and usually kicked on their first down.

A game for next Saturday has not been arranged. It is hoped that a real football team can be induced to try its luck against Duluth at that time. Blaine high school of Superior defeated Two Harbors 6 to 0. Looks as though there will not be the usual hard fought battle this year between Duluth and the team from across the bay.

"BILL" CRAWFORD ON SECOND TEAM

Barred By Freshman Rule From Playing With 'Varsity.

"Big Bill" Crawford, captain and tackle on last season's Central high school football team, is playing regularly on the second team of the University of Minnesota. The big Duluth boy is making a good showing in the scrimmages of the first and second teams. The freshman rule makes Crawford ineligible for the first team. If he remains at the 'varsity another year he will stand a very good show of making the team.

EVEN MONEY ON KETCHEL

San Francisco Fight Fans Are Betting That He Stays Fifteen Rounds.

Both Men Are Said to Be in Prime Condition for Battle.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 11.—Even money that Stanley Ketchel, middleweight champion of the world, will last fifteen rounds, and 2 to 1 that Jack Johnson, the big negro heavyweight champion, will retain his title after Oct. 16, when the two men will engage in a 20-round battle at Colma, were the prevailing odds among the fight fans yesterday.

Despite the fact that Ketchel is training for his first contest in the heavyweight class, the Michigan pugilist has a large following in this city. There seems to be any amount of the 15-round money, and much is being wagered that Ketchel will get the decision.

In the presence of several newspaper men Saturday, Ketchel tipped the scales at his training quarters, at 174 pounds, the most he has weighed in training. According to his manager, Willus Britt, he will enter the ring at 3 o'clock, weighing not less than 178. Johnson plans to fight at 196 pounds. If Britt's prediction is verified, Ketchel will be heavier than many men who have contended for heavyweight honors. Jim Corbett averaged 175 pounds in his battles, and a few days before Fitzsimmons knocked out Corbett he tipped the beam at 176. Tom Sharkey averaged 175 to 176 pounds for his battles, and Joe Choynoski never equaled the Michigan man's present weight.

Both contenders are training hard for the contest. The negro, having exhausted his supply of sparring timber, has announced that he will meet all comers until he completes training.

ROBERTSON WINS GREAT RACE

Breaks All Records In Big Philadelphia Speed Contest.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—In the presence of a gathering of spectators estimated at nearly half a million, George Robertson, driving a 90-horse power Simplex car over the unrivaled eight-mile course in Fairmont park, won the 200-mile race for the Quaker City Motor club, the star event of the best cars in the world, Saturday. Robertson took the lead early in the race and held it to the end. His time for the 200 miles, up and down hill and around dangerous curves, was 3:38:58 4-5, which breaks the record he made last year in a Locomobile.

Motor followers say it was as good a race as was ever run in America. There were incidents full of thrill everywhere and all the time, and the crowd, whether they paid $2 for a seat in the grandstand or stood pressed behind the ropes, got all they could ask for.

ALFRED H. SMITH DIES IN NEW YORK

Well Know Sporting Man Dead at the Age of 70.

New York, Oct. 11.—The death of Alfred H. Smith, well known in the sporting world as "Al" Smith, was reported at the Gilsey house after midnight. "Al" Smith was the court of last resort in all disputes on sporting matters. For thirty years he had been the final authority and his word was accepted almost universally and without question. He was the backer of John L. Sullivan, Daniel O'Leary and many other pugilists and athletes.

While Smith achieved much fame as referee in important prize fights, his reputation was built as much on the fact that he had been the stakeholder of millions of dollars wagered in bets on sporting events and on political elections.

Following a distinguished service in the Union army, during the Civil war, he returned to his home in Bainbridge, Ohio, and then came to New York. For more than a generation he had made his home in this city, where for twenty-four years, as a bachelor, he occupied the room in the Gilsey house where he died today. He was 70 years old.

IRISH ORATOR THE BUSY BOY

Patrick Henry O'Brien keeps right on signing players. A third baseman and two catchers are the latest recruits signed by the Irish Orator.

In a letter Al Kuehnow received from Darby, he states that in Mike Sweeney, a boilermaker of Cleveland, he has secured one of the fastest young ball players he has ever seen work. The young fellow is Irish, it is to be presumed, and he has been playing with some of the fast city teams of Cleveland. Darby believes he has bagged a wonder. If Sweeney is as good as Breen, Darby sure has.

August Fisher and Louie Kosier are the names of the two receivers signed by the Wit. They are both six-footers, according to the information contained in the letter. Fisher played at Sandusky, Ohio, and Kosier received most of his baseball education at Des Plaines.

Both of these men have been highly recommended to Darby. Both are said to be good stickers, something that the club needs. O'Brien is not overlooking any bets, according to his letter, and has his eye on several good players.

TO DECIDE ON CIRCUIT

Two Weak Sisters in Minny League May Be Dropped.

Some of Magnates Favor Admitting Winnipeg to Fold.

When the brother magnates of the Minny league get down to real business tomorrow, some interesting developments are expected. It is expected that some brush will be cut in the Minnesota-Wisconsin baseball pasture.

One of the most important considerations that will engage the broadbrowed attention of the directors of the league will be the makeup of the league for first season. There are two teams in this league—though this is not saying what clubs they are—that will have to do the Missouri act at the meeting tomorrow. Unless these two clubs in question show that other managers some very good prospects, backed up with a guarantee, it is probable that the clubs will be dropped.

It is not known definitely at this time whether Mankato and Red Wing will have emissaries at the Tuesday meeting. It is not known, either, whether "Jack" Lamb will be on hand to urge the Winnipeg proposition. It is expected, however, that these clubs will be represented in some manner at the conference of club owners.

It is known that some of the owners of the Minny league clubs do not look with disfavor on the Winnipeg proposition. The fare to Winnipeg, since the opening of traffic on the Rainy Lake railroad, is not very much higher than the fare from Duluth to LaCrosse. If some of the managers of the league can be convinced of the fact that Winnipeg would pay for the jump up there and back, there might not be any objection to admitting the Canadian Sister into the league parlor.

As has been stated, there are two weak sister clubs in the present organization. Their identity may be disclosed at the meeting here tomorrow. If the managers of these two clubs don't come to the surface of the financial waters of the league with some kind of a promise, they are liable to find that new clubs will compose the 1910 circuit.

It is believed that a committee will be appointed at the meeting tomorrow to thoroughly go into the question of the circuit for 1910.

There are some baseball entanglements to be settled. These are in the nature of protested games. There is one between Winona and LaCrosse.

CLOQUET TEAM IS OUTCLASSED

Grand Rapids Wins Annual Football Game By Score of 15 to 0.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Grand Rapids outclassed the Cloquet team in the football game here Saturday afternoon and won by a score of 15 to 0. The first half the two teams played evenly. Grand Rapids received the ball on the kick off and worked the ball steadily toward the Cloquet goal. When on the six yard line they lost the ball. After a series of brilliant forward passes and end runs Cloquet forced the ball back to within a few yards of the Grand Rapids goal. Cloquet lost the ball on a fumble and Grand Rapids gradually worked the ball back and on a trick play scored a touchdown.

The second half was all Grand Rapids. The local line could not withstand the line plunges of the visitors, and by sheer weight and might Grand Rapids forced the ball over the line twice. The features of the game were the offensive work of Brandon, of Grand Rapids and the defensive work of Stevens, of Cloquet.

The line up:

CHICAGO WINS FROM INDIANA

Hoosiers Go Down to Defeat Before Stagg's Fast Football Machine.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The remarkable spectacle of a team having twenty-one points run up on it in the first half of a football game without looking particularly inferior to the other was presented on Marshall Field here Saturday, when the first half ended Chicago 21, Indiana 0, the final score was: Chicago 21; Indiana 0.

Chicago's first touchdown came when Kassulker grabbed a blocked kick on Indiana's 20-yard line and crossed the line unopposed. A few moments later Ehrhorn grabbed the ball on a fumble and ran thirty yards for the second touchdown.

Forward passes had failed to work until finally Indiana made thirty yards on two of them. Trying it again on Chicago's 35-yard line Worthwine intercepted it while on the dead run and aided by Kassulker's perfect interference, ran down the field for the third touchdown. Worthwine kicked easy goals on each occasion.

A feature of the game was Page's return of a kick off for thirty-five yards through a broken field. Chicago failed to succeed in the forward pass. SPORTS

Adams Team Has Very Little Trouble Defeating Superior Eleven.

Irving Tigers Take the Big Duluths Into Camp.

Yesterday, at Athletic park, the Adams Athletic association football team triumphed over the Broadways of Superior by the one-sided score of 22 to 0.

Throughout most of the game rain fell, making the field heavy and slow. The heavy field conspired against fast work, and but for this fact the score would probably have been even larger than it was.

In every department of the game the Adams team showed superior football ability. Not once during the game did the team from the other side gain its distance. The Broadways were forced to punt from the start, and when the Adams' got the ball the backs would go tearing through the opposing line and around the ends.

Foster scored both of the touchdowns in the first half. He was the star ground gainer on the team. In the second half he scored another touchdown, Grenner, right half, scoring the other one.

The work of the Adams line was very effective, the men charging through and stopping their opponents' plays before they were fairly started. The work of the team was an improvement over the work in any game this season. An attempt is being made to arrange a game with some strong out-of-town team. The lineup was as follows:

Adams.	Position.	Broadways.
Shark Hanson	c.	Holden
Kennedy	r.g.	Bronco
Fish	l.g.	Meade
Peterson	r.t.	Huber
Anderson	l.t.	Jay
Crozier	l.e.	Dreyer
Whittle	r.e.	Weade
Greener (Capt.)	r.h.	Collins
Nelson	l.h.	Cantfield
Foster	f.b.	Robinson
Caulkins	q.b.	Jacobia

Referee, McGrath; umpire, Rankin; timekeeper, Al Olson; halves, twenty minutes; touchdowns, Foster 3, Grennen 1; goals from touchdowns, Foster 2.

The Irving Tigers defeated the Big Duluths by the score of 10 to 0 yesterday afternoon, the game being played on the grounds at Fifty-second avenue west. Ross, the Tigers' fullback, scored both of the touchdowns for the winner. Neither touchdown was converted into a goal.

The game was played on a muddy and slow field. Despite the adverse conditions the Tigers played a fast and snappy game. Fumbles were few and the back field played fast and snappy ball.

Next Sunday the Tigers will journey to Superior and play the Blaine alumni.

The Fairmonts defeated a team from Proctor by the score of 6 to 0, the game being played at the Fifty-second avenue west grounds. Herman scored for the winners.

Seasick II Wins.

Last Rifle Shoot.

The last militia company shoot of the present season will be held on the ranges north of the city next Sunday. Companies A, C and E of this city, and of Superior will have marksmen in the event, as well as the field staff and band and possibly Company F of Eveleth.

ELECTRIC WIRE TIED TO OPERATOR'S CHAIR.

Cincinnati, Oct. 11.—With the full voltage of the Fort Thomas, Ky., electric plant shooting through his body and helpless in his chair at the key, Charles Kingston, a member of the Second Infantry and telegrapher at the fort, received injuries Sunday, as a result of which his condition is critical.

Some person unknown to the authorities at the post had attached an electric light wire to one of the steel chairs in the telegraph room. When Kingston took his place in the chair, he received the full force of the current.

His cries attracted the attention of other soldiers, who finally rescued him from his perilous position. Kingston was frightfully burned.

Nervous Dyspepsia And Neurasthenia

Neurasthenia, also known as "nervous exhaustion," "nervous debility," and "nervous prostration," is a disease, which in these modern, strenuous times is becoming more and more prevalent. It is a condition in which there is more or less marked and persistent loss of energy, together with considerable irritability.

Persons who suffer from this trouble are easily excited and irritated; cannot do as much work as formerly, and in attempting any mental effort, quickly become confused, and are unable to concentrate the attention. They also complain of insomnia, nervous indigestion, depression of spirits, and palpitation of the heart.

There is a general muscular weakness; the person cannot walk very far, and tires quickly on attempting physical exertion. There is ringing in the ears; blurring of eyesight; headache and vertigo; specks floating before the eyes, and a general restlessness. The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual effort is interfered with, and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerate the old ones, attaching undue importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some impending danger; extreme pessimism; dark forebodings, and hysteria. Sleep is not refreshing, and the person feels much more tired in the morning than at night. Horrible dreams and nightmare are usually complained of.

But by far the most prominent manifestation of Neurasthenia is Nervous Dyspepsia. In nearly every case, this disturbance of the stomach dominates the complaint. Cause and effect may be transposed, and dyspepsia may be the result of Neurasthenia, but oftener, indigestion is the original cause of the nervous condition. The nerves are simply "starved" because the stomach does not digest the food properly, and as the nerves are dependent upon the food which the blood absorbs from the stomach for their sustenance, any deprivation thereof is sure to cause nerve weakness.

The use of "nerve tonics" in this condition is a mistake; they merely stimulate, but do not rebuild nerve tissue. Completely digested food is the only true nerve builder and strengthener; and in the treatment of nervous exhaustion, one should first cure the nervous dyspepsia, which is usually the origin of the trouble, by taking STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in doses of one or two after each meal, or whenever needed, and the long train of nervous symptoms will be cured along with the nervous dyspepsia.

This celebrated remedy is without a peer in the treatment of nervous indigestion and in fact, indigestion of any kind. They digest all the food with great thoroughness and facilitate its absorption by the blood, which carries it to the weakened, diseased nerves and builds them up, so that every symptom of Nervous Exhaustion is gotten rid of.

ATTACKED BY INDIANS

Two Women at Mine Center Have a Hair-Raising Experience.

Sale of Liquor to Indians May Result in a Tragedy.

Mine Center, Ont., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attacked by drunken Indians and then whirled through a wild runaway by the horse they were driving, was a hair-raising experience of Mrs. Thomas G. Prideaux and Miss Margaret Brown a few days ago.

Mrs. Prideaux is the wife of the leading merchant in Mine Center, and Miss Brown is the principal of the public schools. Both are highly popular and prominent in the Rainy River district. That they came out of their wild adventure with nothing worse than some bruises and a bad scare is considered miraculous.

The two ladies had been out driving, and were between the Lucky Coon and the Ferguson gold mines. Without any warning, they came up to a couple of squaws lying intoxicated by the roadside and wildly chanting a Chippewa drinking song. Their horse, with a bad runaway record as well as an intense dislike for Indians, was much excited by the actions of the aboriginal women by the roadside, and was restrained with difficulty.

Passing the squaws in safety, they had gone but a few rods further when a big Indian buck stepped out of the bushes and made a sudden grab for the front buggy wheel. He was offensively drunk, and because of his condition and a sudden jump of the horse, missed the wheel, which, in his drunken condition, it is assumed he wished to hold from turning around, thus showing his strength and having that much of a frolic.

Horse Ran Away.

Missing the wheel and, probably, being angered thereby, he gave a wild war-whoop and grabbed Mrs. Prideaux by the right arm, presumably to drag her from the buggy. She jerked back and joined with Miss Brown in some lusty screams for help. The horse was badly frightened by the screams as well as the actions of the Indian, and started to run with a mad snort and a wild plunge down the road. The hind wheel knocked the Indian into the bushes, but the sudden plunge of the animal threw Mrs. Prideaux over onto the buggy wheel and Miss Brown onto the dashboard with such force as to break it off. Both ladies had the remarkable presence of mind to hang on to the lines and, in some way, managed to keep in the buggy. After the horse had dashed down the road at break-neck speed for a quarter of a mile, it was brought under control.

Driving back to the Lucky Coon mine, the alarm was given, and A. M. Robertson started out to find the Indians, but they had managed to sneak under cover. There is much excitement and indignation over this event. If any serious harm had come to the two ladies, the matter would have turned out very seriously for any and all Indians ranging these woods, drunk or sober, and the white men who boldly and persistently sell liquor to their red brethren undoubtedly would have had some experience with government officers and iron bars.

Drunken Indians.

This matter of drunken Indians is getting to be a serious one in this locality. There are several reservations on the Seine river, as well as camps on Turtle lake. The redskins range up and down the Seine river and back and forth between Shoal lake and Turtle lake. Old Mine Center, the Foley, Lucky Coon, Ferguson and other mines are on the trail. Women and children along the route are kept in apprehension and worry because of the situation. Some of the Indians find whisky somewhere in the vicinity of Old Mine Center, and are drunk and in a troublesome condition by the time they get up to the Lucky Coon mine. Others find liquor somewhere near Mine Center station and are full of deviltry by the time they reach the mines. It is not believed that they distill this whisky from sawdust at the Mine Center sawmill.

Some months ago, several big, husky bucks got into the habit of stopping at the Lucky Coon mine and demanding that Mrs. Robertson cook them meals. They did this several times, but always when no men were around, therefore the good woman was afraid to refuse.

When Mr. Robertson learned of these happenings he reported condition to Mr. Wright, the Indian agent at Fort Frances. He replied that he could do nothing, but that there was a magistrate at Mine Center, and that it was his duty to correct any abuses of that kind. Mr. Robertson then went to Mr. Hamil, the local magistrate, and demanded action, but that gentleman made the excuse that he had no jurisdiction and could do nothing. Those who disagree with Mr. Hamil's position point out that he has a little store here, and may not care to lose the Indian trade by punishing them and those who illegally sell booze to them.

Robertson Got Busy.

Mr. Robertson is said to have waxed very wroth. "Well," said he, "if the authorities will not take care of those drunken Indians, I will," and he went away.

Only a few days later, when Mr. Robertson was in the barn, a big, greasy, drunken buck called at the door and told Mrs. Robertson to "cookum grub." When she refused he scowled at her and repeated his demand to "cookum grub" in an imperative, threatening manner.

Mrs. Robertson called to her husband, and as he came from the barn he knew what was the matter, for he saw the redskin standing by the kitchen door. Grabbing a strong sled stake, Mr. Robertson made his way quietly to the house, and, suddenly coming around the corner, landed a sturdy blow on the Indian's head. Down he went like an ox, but up he jumped with an angry whoop and started for Mr. Robertson. Mr. Indian got another good blow, and again he went to the grass. That was followed up with other stiff blows, and it was a very bloody, battered, humiliated and defeated Indian that crawled out of that yard into the bushes. For months now that Indian always goes around through the woods and refuses even to pass Mr. Robertson's house, which stands right by the road.

A gentleman who has a wife and several daughters says that he has sat out on the bank of the lake, in front of his house, many nights the past summer, with his rifle in his hands, waiting for noisy, drunken Indians to pass by in their canoes, not daring to go to bed, fearing that they might fire the buildings or do some harm to his and his family as they slept.

"Blind Pigs" Numerous.

If some one with courage does not take vigorous steps to stop this sale of liquor to the Indians, there will be a horrible tragedy some of these days, embracing death, or worse, to helpless women and children. Then, probably, good citizens and sworn officers of the law and the Indian department will get busy to correct these grave evils. That will be another case of locking the barn after the horse is stolen. Canadians boast of their love of law and order of enforcement of their laws, but around Mine Center, in the matter of "blind pigs" selling to white men and Indians—and even licensed tavern keepers selling to the red men—the United States can show no instance of worse disregard of the law. These conditions are found more or less along the Canadian Northern railway, Banning being another plague spot.

Money Comes in Bunches to A. A. Chisholm of Treadwell, N. Y., now. His reason is well worth reading: "For a long time I suffered from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, nervousness, and general debility," he writes. "I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, nor ambition, grew weaker every day in spite of all medical treatment. Then used Electric Bitters. Twelve bottles restored all my old-time health and vigor. Now I can attend to business every day. It's a wonderful medicine." Infallible for Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Blood and Nerves. 50c at all Druggists.

INDIANS ARE ON THE INCREASE

Reports Show 40,000 More Than There Were Twenty Years Ago.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The popular idea that the American Indians are decreasing in number is dissipated by official figures showing that there are more than 300,000 red men in the United States.

In the increase in population of about 40,000 during the last two decades, the government's constant effort to uplift the Indian to the level of contemporary civilization has played an important part. Three and one-third million dollars is being expended by the United States annually for the education of more than 30,000 Indian boys and girls.

Public men, whose public work has brought them in close touch with the Indians, are impressed with the view that the race is progressing so rapidly that eventually the government will lift its guardianship over them.

CZECHISH OPERA MAKES GOOD HIT IN BERLIN.

Berlin, Oct. 11.—Smetana's opera, "Dalibor," was sung for the first time in Germany last night at the Royal opera house. It proved a brilliant success, but led to a minor anti-Czech demonstration from the cheaper seats, where the minority maintained a persistent hissing. The production was due to the desire of Emmy Destinn, who is of Czech origin, to sing her countryman's music on the Berlin stage.

Protests appeared in the press against the production on account of the Czech hostility to Germans in Bohemia and against extending the hospitality of royal theaters to Czechish art. The opera house, however, was crowded with a fashionable audience, which enthusiastically applauded Smetana's work and Mme. Destinn's fine singing.

AMUNDSEN WILL TRY POLAR BEARS ON SLEDGE.

Hamburg, Oct. 11.—Capt. Roald Amundsen, the Danish explorer, who is about to start on a polar expedition, has decided to endeavor to make polar bears draw his sledges.

Some time ago Capt. Amundsen made a contract with Carl Hagenbeck, the animal trainer, for twenty ice bears three years old. Hagenbeck's men have been industriously at work for a month training the bears and the results attained are said to promise success for them in polar work. The animals will be shipped to Christiania this week, where they will be taken on board Capt. Amundsen's ship.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Oct. 11.—Concessions of 50 cents a ton made by some Buffalo and Eastern furnaces last week encouraged the continued placing of orders for both foundry and basic iron for shipment over the balance of the current year and resulted in aggregate sales of about 40,000 tons of foundry grades and 20,000 tons of basic. Pipe works have been urgently in the market for low grade iron for early delivery, but, as supply was inadequate, have secured one cargo of No. 3 Middlesboro, about 6,000 tons, at $17.20 on dock, Philadelphia, duty paid, and several additional cargoes of foreign ore in the balance. The lower prices for domestic iron have been in part due to the increasing competition from foreign metal, but neither Alabama nor Virginia producers have receded from their previous sharp advance.

Interest in steel-making iron has been largely transferred to the Pittsburg territory, where contracts for about 60,000 tons of Bessemer and basic have been placed. The Cambria Steel company has purchased 52,000 tons of the total, paying $18 for standard Bessemer for this year and $18.50 for the first quarter of 1910.

Basic iron in the East has sold mainly at $18, delivered, but some sales for the first quarter of next year have been sold at $18.40. The output of pig iron in September was at the rate of 29,750,000 annually, while the prospect is for a 30,000,000 ton rate this month, breaking all records.

Fabricated structural steel orders placed during the week aggregated about 15,000 tons, 7,000 tons of which were taken by the American Bridge company. The principal single contract was 4,200 tons for the Michigan Central at Detroit, which went to the McClintock-Marshall Construction company.

LONDON EDITOR HURT WHILE EARL GREY'S GUEST

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 11.—L. F. Amery, chief editor of the London Times, met with a serious accident here Saturday evening. Returning with Earl and Lady Gray from riding at Paper Chase, while going through a half-open gate, his stirrup caught in a post and he sustained a double fracture of the left ankle, being also thrown violently to the ground. He was hurried to a hospital, where the fracture was set. Mr. Amery is resting easily and the doctors say he will be able to leave New York for London, Oct. 26, traveling on a stretcher. Mr. Amery has been nominated for a third time as the Unionist candidate for Wolverhampton at the coming general election, and is anxious to get back to England.

INSURANCE COMPANIES TO FIGHT THE NEW TAX.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 11.—The American Life Insurance convention adopted resolutions declaring that the convention will test in the courts the constitutionality of the corporation tax; that a tax of more than 1 per cent is confiscation for insurance companies, and that all states should have the same tax on insurance business.

TERMS OF SALE.

This sale is made pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 204, of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905, and of Chapter 342 of the General Laws for 1909.

All purchasers of timber at this sale will be required to pay 25 per cent cash at the time of sale, based on the appraised value of timber. Bidders will be required to deposit certified checks or cash. The amount required to be paid down must be paid before the close of the sale in every case. If any purchaser fails to pay the amount required before the close of the sale, the timber on the tract in question will be re-offered and sold to the highest bidder. I wish to call particular attention of all prospective bidders to these requirements so there will be no misunderstanding.

Permits will be issued for only two logging seasons, and the timber must be cut and removed within that time, unless the timber board unanimously agree to extend the permit one logging season. In no event can more than one extension be granted.

Permit holders must furnish a bond with at least two sureties, who can justify in double the amount of the sale price of the timber covered by the permit. Purchasers must also record bark marks in the office of the surveyor general of the district in which the land covered by permit is situated; said marks must be in the name of the State of Minnesota, and no other bark marks may be used for timber covered by the permit than those so recorded. In addition all logs cut on the State land must bear the State stamp mark, MIN.

The right to withdraw any tract of timber from sale is reserved.

Dated at St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 13, 1909.

PETIT JURY IS AT WORK

First Jury Trials On at October Term of District Court.

Three Judges Will Be Busy for Remainder of Month.

The petit jury reported this morning for the October term of district court, and the court settled down to the disposal of the fifty-nine jury cases which are set for trial. Judge Cant has charge of the calendar, and will hold court in Room No. 1. Judge Dibell and Judge Hughes will assist him, and it is expected that all three rooms will be kept busy during the remainder of the month.

The first case put on trial this morning was an appeal from the probate court's order disallowing the claim of Gottfriend Elman against the estate of Charles Vought, for $98. A jury was secured, and the case is being tried before Judge Dibell.

Elman claims that in 1905 he was instrumental in disposing of the south one-half of lot 1, block 21, Industrial addition of Duluth, for Mr. Vought. He was to have received a commission if he secured a purchaser for the land, but he claims Mr. Vought never paid him the commission. He asks 3 per cent of the purchase price, $1,800.

Before Judge Hughes the case of Mrs. Lydia Becker against Martin Rosendahl was placed on trial, and this afternoon Judge Cant will take up the case of Fred O. Clark against the Wisconsin Central Railway company. Clark is one of the men injured by the explosion of a boiler on the Wisconsin Central's right-of-way in South Superior, Nov. 7 of last year. He claims that his eyesight has been injured, and he has been incapacitated from work since the accident on account of the injuries he received. He asks $2,500 damages.

No criminal cases will be placed on trial this week, but the court will probably get around to them next Monday, when the indictments returned by the grand jury for the October term will be taken up.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is quiet and steady at unchanged prices. Lake is 13¼ to 13½ cents and electrolytic is 13 to 13¼ cents per pound. Domestic buying is averaging slightly better than 60,000,000 pounds monthly, and recently there has been a slight improvement in the foreign demand. Exports are increasing again, having been larger last week than in any period since July. The Copper Producers' association report, issued today, will probably show an increase in the visible stocks in this country of 18,000,000 to 20,000,000 pounds, and, of course, will be considered a bear argument. In my opinion that is the last of these reports that will show an increase in the American surplus for a long time to come. I believe that consumption is now slightly in excess of production. As soon as this fact begins to show in the producers' statements and in the foreign visible supply figures the price of copper will advance.

"While it is true that the production of copper has been increasing very rapidly during the past few years, it is also true that there will be no further considerable increase in production for a year or eighteen months to come. The next big producers to be added to the list will be Miami and Ray Consolidated. The first will become a producer in about twelve or fifteen months, and the latter will not figure in the market inside of two years. There will be some increase in the meantime from British Columbia, Utah, Arizona and Mexico; but the aggregate of this will hardly exceed 50,000,000 pounds annually. It is doubtful if the 1910 production shows an increase of 3 per cent over that of the present year. The 1909 output may exceed that of 1908 by 10 per cent. This year's consumption, however, will probably show a gain of at least 30 per cent, and there will likely be a further increase of 35 per cent next year. Prospects of higher prices for the metal are even better now than they have been at any previous time this year."

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

DULUTH MAY MEET MECHANIC ARTS

Strong St. Paul Eleven May Furnish Excitement for Local Enthusiasts.

The football team representing the St. Paul Mechanic Arts high school ma ybe the opponents of the Central warriors at Athletic park Saturday.

Manager Phillips is waiting for a letter from Minneapolis South Side before cinching the St. Paul team. This team is said to be the strongest in the Twin Cities, and in view of the fact that the opponents of the Duluth team have so far this year been disappointing, he wishes to arrange the game with Minneapolis if possible. If South Side backs out, the Mechanic Arts team will be taken on.

The St. Paul team is not so slow, according to some of those who have seen both Duluth and St. Paul play. A spectator at the Ironwood game Saturday said that Mechanic Arts would give Duluth a real run for their money.

Tonight the boys are practicing in the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. They lined up and went through the plays on the floor, and Coach Colton also gave them some blackboard work.

MINISTERS GO IN FOR ATHLETICS

Member of Ministerial Association Take First Workout at Y. M. C. A.

There was very little business transacted at the first meeting of the Duluth Ministerial association held this morning at the Y. M. C. A.

A number of reports were read, and Prof. Guthrie gave a talk on "Grammar in the Church." The storm frightened a number of the pastors out and there were but twelve present.

They decided to go in for athletics, and also decided that each Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, they would meet in the gymnasium of the association for physical improvement. They will play basket ball and indoor baseball. Later they may organize a team to meet the various teams of the association.

Some of the men took their first workout this morning.

Due to the slim attendance, nothing was done as to the line of work for the coming year. A month from the present date the ministers will meet again, and at that time they hope to get busy and stimulate more interest in the monthly gathering.

TACONITE TEAM WON SERIES

Took Last Ball Game of the Season From Coleraine.

Taconite yesterday defeated Coleraine at baseball by the score of 9 to 4, thus taking the long end of the series of seven games that have been played between the two teams. The game yesterday was for a side bet of $250, and by winning the last contest, Taconite gets sweet revenge for some of the mean things the citizens of Coleraine have said about the Taconite team.

Willets and Carroll were in the points for Taconite. Willets held the Coleraine bunch to four hits and struck out thirteen men. Grady was on the mound for Coleraine. Nine hits were gathered off his delivery, but four of the Taconite players being retired via the breeze route.

Schaefer of this city, the crack pitcher of the former Fitwell team, played with Taconite, getting a double and stealing three bases.

The victory yesterday of Taconite gives that team the distinction of ranking right along with Hibbing and Eveleth. The rivalry between Coleraine and Taconite was very keen, and the victory was duly celebrated at Taconite.

BURNING THINGS UP AT DARTMOUTH

"Mack" Cook Ordered to Report With Regular Varsity Baseball Squad.

By showing remarkable form in the annual fall series of baseball games between the freshmen and the sophomores at Dartmouth, "Mack" Cook, the Duluth boy, who is this year attending school at that institution, has been instructed to report for fall practice with the varsity baseball squad.

The last game of the series was played last week and, with "Mack" twirling, the sophomores went down to defeat by a score of 3 to 1. The first game was won by a score of 1 to 0, when the Duluth boy struck out twenty men and let the second-year men down with three hits that were well scattered.

"Mack" is also some football player and has been out with the squad. He is, however, barred from the team because of the freshman rule which went into effect this year at Dartmouth.

Game Postponed.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—The National-American city championship game, scheduled for today was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Not Necessary Here.

John Millen, vice president and general manager of the Alger-Smith company, doesn't believe that there is any need of timber owners banding together for mutual fire protection in this district as they do on the Pacific coast. He says that the tracts are so widely scattered here that the better plan is for the individual owners to guard their own property as best they can. On the Pacific coast, the ownership in large tracts is divided and the mutual protective measures are absolutely necessary.

BALLINGER ON ANXIOUS SEAT

Is Afraid Phosphate and Coal Will Be Seized By Monopolies.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 11.—Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger has issued a statement declaring that the disposition of the phosphate lands of the Rocky Mountain states presents emergencies calling for legislation. He says:

"All the known areas of phosphate lands in the public domain are now under temporary reservation awaiting congressional action. Common prudence demands that this fertilizer be disposed of with such restrictions as will require its domestic use, as far as possible, in the renewal of fertility of the American farm, rather than permit of its exportation."

Save the Coal Land.

Respecting coal lands he says:

"Since 1906, no coal land entries have been permitted to be made in Alaska, pending requests upon congress for legislation to prevent the monopolization of the vast fields of this valuable deposit lying in this territory and to secure authority for permanent reservation for naval purposes. Too much cannot be said in favor of legislation which will prevent the absorption of valuable coal deposits by private interests with the design of monopolization."

OBITUARY

Napthalia Herz Imber, author of the Zionist national hymn, who died in New York last Friday, was laid to rest Sunday in Mount Sinai cemetery with impressive ceremonies. Although Imber died penniless, ten Jewish societies, all anxious to do him honor, conducted the services, and 10,000 men, women and children trudged behind the hearse on the East side across the Williamsburg bridge to the cemetery. User Marcus, a lifelong friend of the poet, through a strange contract had sole right to bury Imber. But so sincere were the wishes of Imber's Jewish societies that the composer of "Hatkivah," the Jewish anthem, be buried by their representatives, that Marcus joined with them in the arrangements.

Dr. John P. Reynolds, for twenty years a professor in the Harvard medical school, and in his time one of the foremost obstetricians of the country, died at Boston Oct. 10, aged 83 years.

Brig. Gen. Amos S. Kimball, U. S. A. (retired), who saw forty years' service in the army and was retired at his own request in 1902, having been made a brigadier general several days before his retirement, died at his home here yesterday at the age of 69, heart failure being the cause of his death. He will be buried with military honors in Arlington cemetery.

SUPERIOR NEWS

MARKET PROVES SUCCESS.

Farmers Have No Trouble in Disposing of Their Offerings.

The farmers' public market at Superior has come to stay and Saturday was a very busy day, much produce being disposed of by the tillers of the soil. Butter, eggs, live chickens and the garden produce that is now in season, were eagerly snapped up by shoppers.

The market opened in the morning, Saturday, and before the afternoon was well started, the whole offering had been taken up. Not one of the farmers even had a bushel of potatoes on hand at the end of the day.

It is possible that home killed meats may be added to the list of offerings by the farmers.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Normal and Nelson-Dewey Tie—Blaine Grads Win From Spaldings.

The normal school played a tie game with the Nelson Dewey high school at football Saturday afternoon. The score was 6 to 6.

The result of the game was somewhat unexpected to the fans who were predicting that the East enders would have an easy time of it with the pedagogues. Dewey scored her touchdown and goal early in the first half. It was at the end of the last half when the normalites pushed the pigskin over the line and kicked goal.

On a muddy field yesterday at the league park, the Blaine Alumni connected with a safety in their game with the Spaldings of Duluth and the score stood 2 to 0 at the finish. The safety was made near the end of the first half, when the Spaldings held for downs on their own 15-yard line and were forced to punt.

In Municipal Court.

James O'Brien was given fifteen days in the workhouse by Judge Parker in the municipal court Saturday because he stole a friend's suitcase. When arraigned he admitted the theft.

Genevieve Norton forfeited $15 bail by not appearing in court Saturday afternoon. She was charged with being an inmate of a disorderly house.

George Janeszewski, a saloonkeeper on lower Tower avenue, was arraigned in court Saturday on a charge of assault and battery preferred by one of his customers. He denied the charge and his trial was set for Wednesday.

Protest Coal Assessment.

Protest was made to the board of review Saturday against the assessment of some 96,000 tons of coal stored at the M. A. Hanna Coal company dock. L. K. Luse appeared for the coal company. An adjournment was taken in the case until next Wednesday. The coal, it is claimed, is stored on the dock subject to an order of a railroad company and is not the property of the dock company. The case is similar to that of the Pittsburg Coal company, which had trouble about its assessments last year, but eventually paid the taxes upon the coal.

Masons Only at Ceremony.

Superior's new $60,000 Masonic temple will be dedicated Thursday of this week. The dedication and the reception which will be held on the night following is for members of the order only, and the public will not participate in the affair. May Soon Begin Work.

At an estimated cost of $40,000, the construction of the addition to the Belknap street viaduct eastward from its present terminus covering the tracks of the Northern Pacific and the Superior Terminal and Transfer Railroad companies, is said to be planned for the near future. The specifications for the job are ready and the call for the completion of the work before winter.

Make Plans for Season.

Ski enthusiasts at Superior are already making plans for the coming winter. The slide, one of the best in the Northwest, is to be enlarged, and tournaments with some of the best clubs in the country will be arranged.

In Nude Condition.

Gus Du Pont, 28 years old, was found by Great Northern railroad men in the vicinity of Boylston Saturday night wandering about in a nude condition. Sheriff Carlson went after him and brought him to the county jail. He was arraigned in court today on a drunk charge. It is not thought that the man was demented.

Boat Capsized.

James E. Kelley of the East end, an engineer at the government pier construction work on Wisconsin point, was nearly drowned this morning when a boat capsized in the channel. He was going to his work at the time. A tug rescued him.

WHAT NEW YORK WASTES.

New York city wastes officially $50,000,000 a year—this apart from the amount lost by theft and grafting, says Franklin Clarkin in an article in Success Magazine.

This equals the losses of the Baltimore Fire or the first cost of the Erie canal, or the national expenditures of the kingdom of Sweden, or those of the dominion of Canada.

It is more than Great Britain will require this year to pay its old age pension.

It is a waste of the energy of every tired straphanger, of the leisure which better transit facilities would yield the every day worker.

It is a waste of the wages of the poor. On these all frauds and extravagancies of government finally bear.

It is also a melancholy waste of human life. The income from these wasted millions would stamp out not only tuberculosis, but also typhoid and diphtheria.

Most American cities are equally misgoverned, yet in the same world, with human nature just the same, there are many cities which administer so ably that they collect no taxes—some which actually pay dividends to their citizens.

WHO OWNS A PRESCRIPTION?

Has a Patient the Right to Have It Refilled.

An interesting question for everybody who gets a prescription filled is just what right a person has in the bit of Latin for which he has paid the doctor and for the transmission of which into drugs he now pays the chemist.

Has he a right to retain the paper in question and later to present it for a second and even a third and a fourth filling? The druggists and the doctors don't think he has. They think that it would be pretty much like prescribing for himself over their signature.

According to Medical Notes and Kueries Chicago druggists and physicians have adopted the following views:

First—The prescription is an utterance of the prescriber, who alone should direct and control its employment. It should whenever practicable carry the name of the patient, the age in years, if a minor, and the date when written.

Second—The pharmacist who prepares the medicine should retain the prescription as reference for his services and as record for a certain limited period, not less than five years, for the protection of the prescriber, himself and the patient.

Third—The medicine prescribed should be supplied not more than once on the same prescription: (1) If ordered by the prescriber "not to be repeated" (N. rep.); (2) if containing medical substances commonly called narcotic or habit forming drugs; (3) if called for by some person known not to be the original holder.

Fourth—Copy of the prescription may be furnished and should be written on a special blank, containing a declaration that it is a copy of a prescription which has been delivered to the original holder and is not to be refilled except on order of the prescriber. The copy is made without recourse to possible error.

In Philadelphia a certain form of prescription blank is often used. In addition to the usual printed matter upon the face of the prescription are the words: "Note—The conditions under which this prescription is written will be found on the reverse side hereof," and on the other side is found: "This prescription is written for the party whose name appears thereon, for the present indications only; hence it is not to be renewed without my written consent and no copy of same is to be given. The pharmacist compounding it will kindly preserve same on his prescription file." This is then to be dated and signed.

When such prescriptions come into the hands of a pharmacist a printed sticker like the following may be used: "Your physician directs that this prescription is not to be renewed without his consent."

TENNESSEE'S ONLY SALOON.

Benfort's Wine and Spirit Circular: Tennessee's only saloon is situated about eighteen miles from McMinnville in the only oasis in Tennessee, that is, in the only spot from the Big Sandy to the Mississippi which is innocent of schoolhouses for four miles any way the crow flies. It has not electric lights, no screens over the doors and no mahogany, but plenty of barrels, bottles and kegs filled with the wine that is red and liquors bottled in bond. It has been running only about a month and land office trading has not sprung up yet, but the proprietor believes it will only be a short time before a constant string of thirsty pilgrims will be winding its daily way over the mountains and through the desert to his humble refreshment stand.

LOST $200

The man who neglected to buy his ten acres of land for a grove on the Isle of Pines last year has lost just $200 by waiting. To wait another year will prove still more expensive. With the great number of people going to the island, and making improvements, and with the hundreds of acres of groves now just coming into bearing, and beginning to ship their fruit, land values cannot stand still. $50 an acre is dirt cheap.

PANAMA LIBEL CASE IS OPENED AT INDIANAPOLIS

Parts of Cromwell's Testimony Are Read to Court By McNamara.

Smith and Williams Ask for Continuance of Extradition Hearing.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 11.—With the purpose of showing that William Nelson Cromwell, attorney for the old French Panama Canal company, made to the Morgan investigating committee of the United States an explicit statement of his relations in the transfer of the canal zone to the United States, certain parts of his testimony were read in the United States court of this district today by Stuart McNamara, attorney for the department of justice, in the hearing of Delevan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, charged with criminal libel in having alleged that there was corruption in the purchase of the canal zone by the United States.

It was pointed out to the court that Mr. Cromwell stated to the committee that he had no interest in the purchase, save as attorney; that he had then received $200,000 for his services, and that he was in no haste to submit his bill for further attorney's fee.

Morgan's Fee $35,000.

Mr. Cromwell added that J. Piermont Morgan told him that the Morgan banking house had received only $35,000 for the collection of the $40,000,000 paid by the United States to the French companies through the Bank of France at Paris.

Delevan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, appeared for a continuance of their hearing to determine whether or not they should be removed to the District of Columbia for trial under an indictment of a federal grand jury, charging them with having criminally libeled Theodore Roosevelt, Charles P. Taft, William Nelson Cromwell, Douglas Robinson and others in having published articles alleging corruption in the purchase of the Panama canal zone by this country.

It was understood today that the government would not now produce other witnesses than were examined at the partial hearing of Messrs. Smith and Williams' case last June, but that Stuart McNamara, special attorney of the department of justice in charge of the proceedings against them and of similar proceedings in New York against the publishers of the New York World, would make further argument.

McNamara on Hand.

Mr. McNamara arrived last night from Washington. He spent a part of the last summer in Paris collecting evidence as to the details of the transfer of the Panama canal zone from the two old French companies to the United States. It has not been made known in what form this evidence will be offered to the court, if it is offered at all.

MARINE

AT ANCHOR IN THE LAKE

Arrivals During the Day Unable to Get Inside Harbor.

Work at Ore Docks Suspend Until After the Storm.

Because the wind blew directly across the piers today, a number of boats that arrived during the day anchored outside the harbor. It is unusual when the lake is used as a harbor and shelter in time of a strong wind.

The wind blew directly across from one pier to another and the captains were afraid to risk coming through the canal. Several boats were anchored outside the Superior entry also.

There was, in spite of the strong wind off the land, but very little sea in the lake and the boats lay to outside the canal piers in perfect safety.

The waters of the Duluth-Superior harbor were last night and today lashed into a fury by a gale that blew in the neighborhood of sixty miles an hour.

There was no departures last night and none today. Upon advice of the weatherman who stated that the wind would continue the rest of the day, captains hung close inside the harbor awaiting the going down of the wind.

There was not much moving around in the harbor. All the boats hung close to where they were at the time the wind began and some delay will result. Work on the ore docks was suspended until after the storm.

TWO LOADING RECORDS BROKEN

One at Two Harbors and the Second at Duluth.

In four hours' time the Great Northern elevator dumped into the steamer G. A. Tomlinson 336,000 bushels of wheat. This breaks all records for fast loading at the Head of the Lakes.

The ship was under the spouts from 8:30 in the morning until 1:30 in the afternoon. Loading was suspended for one hour at noon, however, which makes the total time of loading four hours.

Another loading record was broken at Two Harbors yesterday when the steamer William E. Corey was loaded with a cargo of 10,111 tons of ore in exactly thirty-nine minutes. The boat started to take her load at 2:17 in the afternoon and by 2:56 the 10,111 tons had been poured into her hold. The steamer could have only taken 189 tons more as that is considered her capacity.

The record was established through the use of the new improved system of docks and ore cars recently put in use by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad.

BARLUM IS LIBELED.

Gilchrist Company Would Be Paid for Damage Done Its Boat.

The steamer Thomas Barlum, owned by John J. Barlum of Detroit, has been made the defendant in a libel suit in the United States court by the Gilchrist Transportation Company of Cleveland. The libel arose from a collision between the Barlum and the Gilchrist steamer, George H. Russell, in Buffalo harbor on May 12, and the complainants claim that the Russell and other vessels of the line that also figured in the smashup at that time were damaged to the extent of $22,278.48.

The accident happened last spring just as the Barlum and the vessels were leaving port on their first trip of the season. The Barlum had steam up and with the help of a tug was endeavoring to navigate the narrow harbor entrance. The Russell was lying at anchor, moored to several other vessels and was rammed by the Barlum, the latter boat striking her about eight feet from the stern. The Gilchrist people state that the Russell's stern was badly twisted, and the vessel from the bulwarks to the center keelson injured. Several plates on the starboard were also buckled. The Barlum is charged with having maintained an inefficient lookout and incompetent officers in command.

FEW VESSELS ARE SEEKING LOADS

Ore and Grain Shippers Could Care for More Tonnage.

The demand for tonnage is increasing, if anything. The ore shippers are taking everything that is offered, and while they are not pressed for capacity, they could take care of more boats. Tonnage for early loading is pretty well lined up and chartering is light.

Grain cargoes are offered pretty freely all around, but the shippers are not doing much business. Rates were marked up at Chicago Saturday and 1½ cents was bid on corn to Buffalo. That figure is equal to 2 cents on wheat, but the advance did not bring out any tonnage and no charters were reported.

From Duluth to Chicago 2½ cents was paid on a small cargo of wheat, but there was no tonnage on the market at 2 cents to Buffalo.

A number of grain carriers that were placed ahead loaded here last week. No storage capacity has been chartered for a number of days.

There is less coal tonnage on the market than there has been at any time since a general start was made Many of the steel boats that were on the market for coal all season are now going up light, and the vesselmen are more particular about the cargoes. It was reported Saturday that some of the owners that have contract coal are trying to unload.

Rates for small cargoes for lake ports have been advanced. Fifty cents was paid to the Soo Saturday. Lumber tonnage is in good demand, and vesselmen are confident that the rate from the Head of the Lakes will be advanced this week.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH"

When You "Put 'em on," See That "They" Were Made in Duluth.

The season for heavy clothing is at hand.

When you go to your dealer today or tomorrow, or any day, tell him that you are a booster and want woolens that are made in Duluth. Tell him that you are doing it for Duluth, and that he ought to handle Duluth made goods if he hasn't them in stock.

Duluth manufactures every article needed to make you and your family comfortable through the long, cold winter. Underwear, heavy shirts, mackinaws, ladies' skirts, suits, blankets, flannels, sox and stockings, scarfs, and caps.

The F. A. Patrick company, the Christensen-Mendenhall-Graham company, the Dakotah Garment Manufacturing company, and the M. S. Shore company feature all or part of these goods in their manufacturing departments.

The F. A. Patrick company is known throughout the country as having a model factory. It is light and airy throughout, absolutely sanitary, built of the best fireproof material and with excellent ventilation. In connection with its factory this company operates the Fosston woolen mill, where the wool is bought direct from the farmer and turned out into cloth, which is later fashioned into wool garments. About 325 people are employed by the Patrick company, a considerable part of them devoting their entire time to the manufacturing branch of the business.

The Christensen-Mendenhall-Graham company employs about 100 people, when in full operation, and handles about the same line of goods as the Patrick company. The Dakotah company and the Shore company each employ from twenty-five to fifty operatives.

Probably about 250 people are employed in Duluth in the making of woolen goods. They are helping to keep up the city. If everybody living in Duluth insisted upon getting goods made in Duluth, this number would soon jump to 400 and 500, and a few months or a year would see the number reaching towards the 700 and 800-mark. The payroll would go up by leaps and bounds, and Duluth's prosperity would increase accordingly.

The quality of Duluth woolen goods is recognized throughout the West. They hold their own and are gaining ground daily against those made by the large manufacturers of the East. Duluth manufacturers are looking for a good fall, but they state in stating that nothing would help their business as much as the united loyal support of the citizens of Duluth.

ROCKET BURSTS CLOSE TO TAFT

Unexpected Display of Fireworks Startles Members of His Party.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—The president had an unusual Sunday experience at Bakersfield, Cal., last night, which gave those attached to his party, especially the secret service men, a great deal of concern.

Despite instructions sent ahead that no fireworks be used at any celebration, the president's train rolled into Bakersfield to the accompaniment of a flare of rockets and Roman candles and exploding bombs. Some of the rockets, badly directed, whizzed along the ground and one broke within fifty feet of the president.

The reception was entirely unexpected. The president made a brief speech.

HUGE BEAR SLAIN BY NERVY YOUTH

Eastern Marshall County Lad Brings Down Bruin With Rifle.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 14-year-old son of Herman Aiso of the town of Esples, in Eastern Marshall county, killed a huge bear on his father's farm recently.

The animal was making a trip across the open prairie near the farm buildings, when the attention of the boy was attracted to the bear by the house dog's barking. The lad seized the rifle and after a short chase came within shooting distance of bruin. The bear showed an inclination to attack the boy. A few shots brought the animal down, and it was found that he weighed 347 pounds, being one of the largest ever killed in that section.

MARQUETTE OUTCLASSED.

Ishpeming High Eleven Proves Too Strong for Opponents.

Ishpeming, Mich., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ishpeming high school football team defeated the Marquette highs on the Union park gridiron Saturday by a score of 15 to 0. Ishpeming outclassed Marquette during the entire game, and at no time was Ishpeming's goal in danger.

Next Saturday the locals will again play the Negaunee highs at the Union park. This game will decide the championship of Marquette county, both teams being equally matched, having played a tie game three weeks ago.

CARRY FLAX IN ORE CARS

Test Is Made of Patented Self-Dumping Car at Elevator.

Grain Carrying Roads May Adopt Them—No Flax Spilled.

A car test that was made at the Great Northern elevator last week may revolutionize the grain carrying traffic of this country.

The test was of a self-dumping ore car, carrying without leakage, a load of flax seed. The car was one manufactured by the Ingoldsby Automatic Car Company of St. Louis, the company having a car here for the purpose of taking part in the ore tests that are being conducted for the officials of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company.

Frank L. Ingoldsby, vice president and general manager of the Automatic Car company, is here in the interests of his car, and before a number of Duluth and Superior railroad officials, including Supt. Clark of the Great Northern elevator A., the test was conducted.

The car was loaded at the elevator and attached to a train of cars. It was shunted about, bumped into other cars, and in every way subjected to a test to see whether the grain would spill through the opening in the bottom. Not a bit of the fine grain was spilled and according to those present the test proved conclusively that a patent dumping car can haul wheat successfully.

Mr. Clark stated at the conclusion of the test that he was satisfied that with self-dumping cars, twice as many cars could be unloaded at the elevator every day. Other officials stated that the saving of time and labor by the employment of self-dumping cars would be enormous.

Frank L. Ingoldsby believes that the self-dumping grain car will revolutionize the wheat carrying traffic of the country. He points out that the traffic congestion results not so much through the scarcity of cars, though the railroads of the country are always complaining of the lack of cars, bu because so much time is consumed in loading and unloading grain in bulk from the cars. He presents figures showing that a car travels on the average but a trifle more than two hours per day out of the twenty-four. The rest of the time is spent on the side tracks, or at the loading terminals.

According to the belief of Mr. Ingoldsby, the solution of the traffic problem lies in the more rapid unloading at terminal points. To this end he believes the hauling of wheat in self-dumping cars will revolutionize that branch of the trade.

Fifty per cent of the traffic of the country is carried in bulk. Mr. Ingoldsby points out that the great ore-carrying lines are beginning to save time and labor in the unloading of ore. He believes that the time is not far distant when all bulk will be handled more quickly in this manner, and that the test made at the Head of the Lakes will go far toward convincing the railroad men that grain can be safely carried in self-dumping cars.

Charles H. Hayes, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad, informed Mr. Ingoldsby that it would be impossible to devise a car that would carry grain in a paten dumping bottom. The invention would not only save thousands of dollars to the big railroads of the country, Mr. Hayes informed Mr. Goldsby, but it would change entirely the mode of carrying grain.

The test made here is the first one that has proved that grain can be carried without spilling in a car with a patent bottom. Mr. Ingoldsby points out that box cars can be manufactured with patent-dumping arrangements, just as the present steel patent ore cars are manufactured, and that these cars can be further utilized for carrying coal or any other kind of freight.

With the unloading facilities of the elevators arranged to meet the self-unloading cars, Mr. Ingoldsby says the great problem of the railroads, that of car congestion and car shortage, would be to a great extent solved.

The test made a very deep impression upon local railroad men. They realize the vast changes it would make in the grain carrying trade, and agree that it would mean the saving of thousands of dollars in time alone, to the great grain carrying lines of the country.

Further test of the car may be made in the next few days. Mr. Ingoldsby came here with no intention of testing the car as to its ability to carry grain. The opportunity was presented, however, and the test made.

LETTER IN CHUTE THIRTEEN YEARS

Forgotten Epistle Found in Board of Trade Tube.

A letter, mailed thirteen years ago in the mail chute in the Board of Trade building, has just been found there and returned to the writer, Capt. J. T. Rose, the vessel agent, whose office is room 609 in that building.

More than a dozen years ago, Capt. Rose shoved the epistle into the chute on one of the upper floors of the building and ever since that time, it has been tucked away in some crevice of the tube. It never reached the mail box on the ground floor, where all letters thrust in the slits are supposed to fall and are collected by the postmen, but, on the other hand, it never interfered in any way with the chute shooting of the millions of letters which have made the descent there during the long time that has elapsed.

The board of trade is a busy place and it is almost impossible to even estimate the number of letters which find their way down that chute in the course of a year, but this is the only time within the recollection of local grain men when it took thirteen years for a letter to reach the first floor.

SURGEONS PUSHED BACK MAN'S DISPLACED HEART.

Neenah, Wis., Oct. 11.—A critical and delicate operation was performed upon Matt Rausch, a prominent young man of this city, which it is expected will save his life. A pus bag formed over his heart two weeks ago and grew so large that it crowded the organ to the right side so far as the ribs would permit. One lung was rendered useless because of the pressure. When the pus was removed the heart was pushed back in place and the lung again expanded. Three ribs were removed to permit the operation.

S.S.S. NATURE'S PERFECT TONIC

Something more than an ordinary tonic is required to restore health to a weakened, run-down system; the medicine must possess blood-purifying properties as well, because the weakness and impurity of the circulation is responsible for the poor physical condition. The blood does not contain the necessary quantity of rich, red corpuscles, and is therefore a weak, watery stream which cannot afford sufficient nourishment to sustain the system in ordinary health. A poorly nourished body cannot resist disease, and this explains why so many persons are attacked by a spell of sickness when the use of a good tonic would have prevented the trouble. In S. S. S. will be found both blood-cleansing and tonic qualities combined. It builds up weak constitutions by removing all impurities and germs from the blood, thus supplying a certain means for restoring strength and invigorating the system. The healthful, vegetable ingredients of which S. S. S. is composed make it splendidly fitted to the needs of those systems which are delicate from any cause. It is Nature's Perfect Tonic, free from all harmful minerals, a safe and pleasant acting medicine for persons of every age. S. S. S. rids the body of that tired, worn-out feeling so common at this season, improves the appetite and digestion, tones up the stomach, acts with pleasing effects on the nervous system, and reinvigorates every portion of the body. DAY OF WILD EXCITEMENT IN DULUTH FLAX MARKET

Shorts Rush to Cover and October Soars Sixteen Points.

Reacts Slightly, But Closes 11 1-2 Cents Over Saturday's Prices.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 11.—Flax held the center of the stage in the local market today, having one of the most sensational advances in the history of the seed.

In the wild flurry which saw prices leap several points at a time and witnessed an advance of 16 cents over Saturday's closing level in the price of the October option, countless shorts were squeezed.

Shorts were largely responsible for the fireworks. At the opening, some October flax was sold at $1.46, then the tone became stronger and when some 150,000 or 200,000 bu were sold at $1.48, the shorts became wildly excited and began bidding frantically for the grain. "Buy, buy, buy," was the slogan of the demoralized shorts and they did buy with such vigor that during the first half hour, the price had advanced 6 points.

The buying did not cease then, the anxious bidding on the part of the shorts keeping a continual advance until October flax had reached $1.62, 16c over Saturday's close. There was a break to $1.54½ after that, but the market rallied again to $1.60 and the close found October 11½c over Saturday. November flax was hardly less sensational, the price of that option going 15¾c over Saturday, and the other options were very heavily bought.

Heavy buying of flax has been going on for several days, the crushing interests having been bidding for the seed. The efforts of the shorts to get on the band wagon were responsible for today's sensations, however.

The flax situation is looked upon by the trade as very strong. All last year's supply of the seed and the oil have been exhausted, and there is need of seed in the market, and receipts from the country have not been as heavy as they should be. The tardiness of the movement has had a great deal to do with the present bulge.

Wheat was firm, despite large world's shipments.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"The easier American cables on Saturday caused some pressure here at the opening and values were unchanged to ½d lower. Following the opening and during the morning, the market developed pronounced support and values advanced ¼@½d with offerings light. There was an improved demand from shorts on the decrease in local stocks and the early strength in continental markets. The world's shipments were very heavy but of the total 14,160,000 bu., only 4,696,000 bu were for the United Kingdom while the continent received 8,216,000 bu. At midday, the market was firm and from ¼@¾d higher than Saturday.

"At the start, the corn market was quiet and unchanged. Later there was pronounced selling pressure due to the liberal world's shipments and the pressure of nearby La Plata cargoes and at midday values were ¾d lower."

World's wheat shipments last week were: America, 4,216,500; Russia, 7,792,000; Danube, 1,520,000; Argentina, 72,000; Australia, 384,000; Chili-North Africa, 176,000; total, 14,160,000 bus.

Corn: America, 170,000; Russia, 203,000; Danube, 106,000; Argentina, 1,159,000; total, 3,007,000 bus.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 1,185, against 630 last year, and at Minneapolis 712, against 860 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 1,897, against 1,490 last year. Winnipeg received 1,345, against 927 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 2,371,000 bu; last year, 1,872,000 bu. Shipments, 356,000 bu; last year, 446,000. Clearance of wheat and flour were 365,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 494,000 bu; last year, 271,000 bu. Shipments, 328,000 bu; last year, 317,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 43,000 bu.

October flax opened unchanged from Saturday at $1.46, advanced to $1.61 without a single break, dropped to $1.54½, rallied to $1.60 and closed at $1.57½, a gain of 11½c over Saturday. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Opens Higher, But Price Tendency Is Toward Decline.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Early trades in grain and provisions here today were unimpressive and the range of prices narrow, tending slightly to go lower in the cereals and a bit the other way in provisions. Wheat opened higher in sympathy with an advance at Liverpool, December a shade to ⅜c over Saturday at $1.02¼@1.02. This option drifted to $1.01⅞, where it steadied.

Private cables indicating legitimate strength abroad helped stiffen the tone later. Other bullish factors were a smaller domestic visible increase than a year ago, and the fact that fifteen loads of Manitoba wheat were reported for export. Moderate buying caused ready advances. December rose to $1.03⅜ and closed firm 1¼c higher at $1.03⅛@1.03¼.

The rough weather, which it is believed will delay curing and marketing of corn had no early effect on the market for that grain. December opened a shade lower at 58⅛c and dropped to 57⅜c with trade very slow.

The corn market remained a narrow affair, December closing ⅛c lower at 58c.

The oats market, while comparatively steady opened dull. December started ⅛c higher at 39¼c, gained a shade, and then dropped back to Saturday's final figures.

The provisions market opened a shade to 5c higher for January products under the influence of a lighter run of hogs in the West, pork at $18.55, lard at $10.85@10.87½ and ribs at $9.72½. Some buying of lard and ribs saved the pit from stagnation.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

December Wheat Goes to New High Mark for the Crop.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 11.—The wheat market was very strong in face of bearish news. December advanced to $1.00⅝, a new high point on this crop. The movement of wheat to primary points was heavy, the world's shipments increased and there was a material gain in both the Canadian and United States visible. The strength of the market was due to the very light offerings in the pit, the good cash demand at high prices and the absence of pressure. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 225,000 bu for two days, making the total amount in store 2,013,763 bu. There was no speculative interest apparent. Minneapolis today received 712 cars as compared with 860 cars a year ago; Duluth, 1,185 cars against 630 cars and Winnipeg 1,345 against 927 cars. December opened 99⅝c; high, $1.00⅝; low, 99⅜c; close, $1.00⅝. May opened, $1.02¾; high, $1.03⅜; low, $1.02½@1.02⅝; close, $1.03⅝@1.03¾.

Cash wheat was in good demand, by both the country and local millers. Elevator interests bought sparingly at the lowest prices. No. 1 northern sold for 2@2½c above the December contract, and No. 2 northern for the even grade option to 1c above. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.02⅝@1.02⅝; to arrive, $1.02⅝; No. 2 northern spot, $1.00⅝@1.00⅝; to arrive, $1.00⅝. No. 3 wheat, 98½c@$1.00; No. 1 yellow corn, 60½@60⅝c; No. 3 white oats, 36⅞@37⅛c; No. 2 rye, 67¼@67¾c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,847 tons. Demand continued strong and in excess of the supply. Shipments heavy; prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $19.50.

There was no change in the flour situation. Mills are running full capacity, therefore shipments were heavy. Domestic demand continued very strong and the foreign inquiry was fair. Shipments, 78,609 bbls. First patents, $5.20@5.30; second patents, $5.00@5.10; first clears, $4.30@4.50; second clears, $3.10@3.30.

Flax—Receipts, 113 cars; a year ago, 114 cars; shipments, 25 cars. Demand was for both spot and to arrive at 2c under the Duluth October option. A range of 16 from high to low in the Duluth near contract made a wide range in prices. Closing price, $1.55⅞.

Barley—Receipts, 1,095 cars; a year ago, 114 cars; shipments, 80 cars. In spite of the continued heavy offerings the barley market was firmer today. Prices were generally quoted ½c higher than Saturday's close. Demand was strong for all grades, especially choice malting barley. Closing range, 43@58c.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 11.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: There is an even demand for big draft horses with liberal supply. Horses weighing under 1,500 meet with slow call and dealers cannot realize country cost on them, and buyers should keep horses off the market. A horse must be in first class to get the price, as in-between grades are not wanted. There is an increased demand for good big draft mules with the supply limited. Values as follows:

Drafters, extra	$180@245
Drafters, choice	115@170
Drafters, common to good	75@115
Farm mares and horses, extra	145@185
Farm mares and horses, choice	110@140
Farm horses, common to good	70@110

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 11.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 1@6 points, and after a slight rally increased the loss under scattering liquidation and bear pressure. Sentiment was influenced by the failure of frost to develop in the belt over Sunday, higher temepratures this morning, continued talk of curtailment and evening up for over the local holiday tomorrow. The market was unsettled and 7@9 points net lwoer during the middle of the morning.

Spot closed quiet, 5 points higher. Moddling uplands, 13.65; middling gulf, 13.90. Sales, 4,400 bales.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Selling From All Quarters Make Large Inroads on Prices.

Slight Rallies When Pressure Ceased, But Close Was Heavy.

New York, Oct. 11.—First prices of stocks today were but little changed from last week's closing, outside of a few principal trading stocks. United States Steel rose an extreme 1¼, and running sales of 5,600 shares occurred at 88⅛@88½. American Locomotive rose 1, and Union Pacific and Southern Pacific large fractions. Prices generally were a small fraction higher in sympathy. Erie first preferred declined ¾. The trading was quiet.

The list showed signs of yielding for a time, but a demand for United States Steel, Reading and some of the low-priced stocks carried the average level higher. Later realizing in Union Pacific, which cancelled its rise, and pressure against Amalgamated Copper caused a sharp reaction. Amalgamated Copper sold a point under Saturday's closing. Reading, which had risen 1⅜, lost its gain. Kansas & Texas, Norfolk & Western and United States Steel preferred also lost portions of a 1-point advance.

Stocks were pressed for sale at declining prices. The gain in United States Steel was wiped out. New York Central, Amalgamated Copper fell 1¾ below last week's last price. Union Pacific, General Electric and Pacific Telephone 1½, and Reading, Erie, Great Northern preferred, C. C. & St. Louis; Cheasapeake & Ohio, Atchison, Atlantic Coast line, and American Smelting about a point. Prices recovered a fraction when the selling lessened. Bonds were steady.

Active selling was resumed from all quarters and further large inroads were made on prices. Reading got down 3⅜, Union Pacific 3, Northern Pacific and Great Northern Ore certificates 2¾ and United States Steel 1½. The rest of the list was off from 1 to 2 points. It was only when dullness marked the subsidence of selling pressure that slight rallies occurred.

The market closed heavy and uncertain. During the final hour there were extensive covering operations by shorts. Kansas & Texas preferred rose 1 over Saturday. When the demand from shorts was satisfied, the tone became drooping again and the later fluctuations were feverish.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Pirs., Johnson & Case.

DULUTH IN RESERVATION

Can Sale of Liquor Be Stopped Under Treaty of 1855?

The Civic League Proposes to Find Answer to the Question.

The Duluth Civic league will very probably take steps in the near future to attempt to suppress the sale of liquor in the city under the provision of the treaty of 1855, according to Bert Wheeler, president of the organization.

He declares that an examination of the treaty discloses the fact that it includes all territory up to Cloquet, and that by it the sale of whisky and strong drink can be effectively shut off in the Zenith City.

The treaty is similar to that under which the government officials have been cutting off the sale of liquor on the Indian reservations. Considerable attention has been attracted to the case through the conflicts of the revenue officers and the local city and county authorities.

Mr. Wheeler claims that under this treaty the sale of all liquor except beer was stopped at Grand Marais, and he thinks that it would be a good thing for Duluth if similar results could be obtained here. He has carefully perused the terms of the treaty and he says that he is sure that there can be no mistake as to its language.

Should an attempt be made in Duluth to stop the sale of all liquor except beer, a bitter fight would be certain to ensue. There is no question but the saloon men would raise a large sum to fight the case to the bitter end. The bitterest kind of feeling has been aroused on the reservation towns, where the revenue officers have been active recently, and it is possible that if force was used in the effort to close the saloons bloodshed would result.

The matter has been spoken of from time to time in Duluth, but until the matter was discussed by the Civic league no one had thought seriously of trying to enforce the provisions of the treaty.

ELEVATOR FLARES OUT; MUCH GRAIN DAMAGED.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bottom of the Peavey elevator at Sherack flared out and the contents, about 16,000 or 20,000 bushels of grain, were spilled on the ground two evenings ago.

Farmers were unloading as late as 9 o'clock, and the collapse took place shortly after the last load had been emptied. The damage will be considerable, as quite a heavy rain fell after the collapse. A large number of men were at once hired and, if it rains no more, the loss will not be very heavy.

Antone Sirek is the agent there, and Supt. Birdseye of the Peavey company went at once to the scene of the wreck to see what should be done regarding repairs.

Postmasters to Meet.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cass county postmasters will meet here Thursday in a conference at which time the proposed rural mail inspection and changes will be under discussion. There are twenty-six routes in the county and a number of new ones will be established.

FORGERIES AND THEFT FOUND IN WISCONSIN BANK

Shortage Is Estimated at Washington at About $210,000.

First National Bank of Mineral Point Closed By the Comptroller.

Arrests Are Expected After Conference of Authorities of Treasury.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The discovery of alleged forgeries and defalcations aggregating, according to unofficial advices, approximately $210,000, resulted today in closing the doors of the First National bank of Mineral Point, Wis., and the appointment of John W. Schofield of the office of the comptroller of the currency as receiver of the Wisconsin institution.

Arrests are expected to follow the closing of the bank after a conference between the federal authorities at Mineral Point.

The first word of irregularities in the bank reached the treasury department Oct. 5, when National Bank Examiner Richard W. Goodhart, who had been making his regular examination of the bank's condition, telegraphed to the comptroller of the currency that he had found some shortages and questionable paper.

Deposits Over $500,000.

The statement of the resources and liabilities of the bank as shown by its last report of condition, rendered to the comptroller on Sept. 1, gives the following:

Resources: Loans and discounts, $486,175; United States and other bonds, $51,393; banking house and other real estate, $37,458; due from other banks, $48,206; cash and cash items, $44,470; total, $667,702.

CHURCH SUIT OF PORTO RICO ENDS

Supreme Court Is Saved Tedious Research Into the Spanish Records.

Washington, Oct. 12.—By appropriating money to pay the Roman Catholic church of Porto Rico for property taken from some of its orders by the government prior to the American occupation of that island, congress saved the supreme court of the United States the necessity of a tedious research into Spanish records.

The case was that of the People of Porto Rico vs. the Roman Catholic church of that island, which yesterday was dismissed by the court on stipulation of the parties in interest, as the result of the action of congress. It involved the Carlist war of 1838 in Spain, the concordats of 1851 and the ecclesiastical "disamortization" laws of those early dates as applicable to the property of the religious orders of Porto Rico. The property is said to be worth $1,000,000.

ARGUES FOR NEWSPAPERS

Attorney Sees Danger to Liberty in Panama Libel Case Trial.

New York Man Takes Part in Hearing in Court at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12. — That section 1,014 of the United States statutes was never intended to authorize the removal of defendants from one district to another for trial, unless the defendants were fugitives, was maintained today by John D. Lindsay of New York, counsel for the New York World in the "Panama libel case." He spoke before Judge Anderson in the United States court.

Mr. Lindsay was assisting Ferdinand Winter, counsel for Delevan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, whom the government is seeking to remove to the District of Columbia, for trial under a grand jury indictment charging criminal libel in publishing charges that there was a "graft" of $28,000,000 in the purchase of the Panama canal by the United States from the old French company.

May Set Precedent.

The trial of the publishers of the New York World on a similar charge,

VETERANS HEAR TAFT

The President Visits Soldiers' Home as Part of One Strenuous Day.

Begins Eastward Lap of Long Journey About the Country.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12.—President Taft today had a second day of strenuous experiences as the guest of Los Angeles and adjoining cities of Southern California.

After a night of rest at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. A. Edwards, following the banquet in his honor last night, the president arose early and was met by a local committee and taken by special trolley car to the National Soldiers' home at Sawtelle, ten miles from Los Angeles. Thousands of veterans congregated at the station or lined the walks through the grounds and cheered the president, whose speech to them, delivered from the steps of one of the buildings, was filled with patriotic sentiment and deep appreciation of their valiant services.

Shook Veterans' Hands.

Upon leaving the stand the president grasped the outstretched hands of many of the veterans.

When the car reached Los Angeles on the regular journey, it was met by automobiles, into which the party was loaded and the trip to Pasadena was begun.

At Pasadena, Mayor Early of that city, with an accompanying committee, met the presidential party and relieved the Los Angeles committee of its charge. Governor Gillett, United States Senator Flint and other notables accompanied the party on its trip.

After lunch at the Hotel Maryland, President Taft began his eastward journey, passing out into the great

New Orleans, Oct. 12.—What is said to be the smallest complete automobile ever constructed arrived here last night. It is the property of W. J. Durand of New Iberia, La., president of the Louisiana Automobile club. It is 3½ feet long and 18 inches wide, most of the parts being made in France by special order.

"BOYS IN GRAY" HOLD REUNION

Confederate Veterans Gather By the Hundred at Danville, Va.

Danville, Va., Oct. 12.—Hundreds of Confederate veterans from various sections of Virginia and a number from North Carolina are here to attend a three-day session, beginning today, of the twenty-second annual reunion of the Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans of Virginia. Grand Commander S. S. Brooke of Roanoke presided at the opening session, at which Mayor Wooding welcomed the veterans to the city.

ASKS CRANE TO RESIGN

Secretary Knox Sends Note to Newly Appointed Minister to Pekin.

Request Will Be Complied With By the Chicago Man, It Is Said.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Secretary of State Knox early this afternoon informed Charles R. Crane, minister designate to China, that he would accept his resignation.

Mr. Crane had already advised the secretary that he was prepared to resign if the recent developments had made his further service in that position embarrassing to the department. Mr. Knox has advised President Taft of this action.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Intimations in press dispatches from Los Angeles that President Taft was leaving all diplomatic matters to Secretary of State Knox, and a growing belief that the state department regarded Charles R. Crane as having, to say the least, undergone a serious impairment in respect to confidence in his diplomatic discretion, made up all that was known today about the status of Mr. Crane's case.

It appears likely, however, that any moment might see a decisive development, and the expectation of those close to the situation was that the subject soon would come to a crisis.

Taft Has Been Notified.

There appeared to be a disposition at the state department to deprecate inferences to the effect that Secretary Knox had passed the responsibility over to President Taft—the way it was put by those in a position to know was that the president had been fully advised of the secretary's information and views.

No word was received from Los Angeles this morning embodying the president's desires as to Mr. Crane.

SIGNAL MEN IN ANNUAL MEETING

Wreck Statistics and Railroad Appliances Will Be the Chief Topics.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—The men who keep the railway tracks of the nation "clear ahead" began their annual convention in this city today. They compose the National Association of Signal Engineers, the annual deliberations of which are carefully inspected by the interstate commerce commission and by all who deal with the equipment and responsibilities of railroads. About 600 delegates are attending the convention.

Much attention will be paid to wreck statistics and to new methods of insuring absolute safety to trains and travel.

Twenty-Eight Names Added to Johnson Memorial Fund List.

Contribution Received From Glen Avon Christian Endeavor Society.

The Johnson Memorial Fund today stands as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$745.35
Received up to noon today	37.00
Total to date	$782.35

Members of Duluth Commercial club contribute $28 to the fund.

Glen Avon Christian Endeavor society forwards a contribution.

The Governor Johnson Memorial fund being received by The Herald has not yet reached $800, but it is nearing that mark. Probably the stormy weather during the past few days has had the effect of delaying subscriptions to the memorial, but it is a pleasing fact that today's list is larger than that of yesterday. Certainly Duluth has not yet done its full duty in regard to this movement. The St. Paul fund is now close to $7,000 and will probably be considerably increased before Nov. 1, the date fixed by the commission for completing the fund. Yesterday more than 200 St. Paul firemen, headed by Chief Strapp, contributed $115.50 to the fund there, and the West Publishing company's employes sent in $116.50. South St. Paul contributed $135.11, of which about $23 was from the school children of that place.

FRENCH AROUSED BY FERRER TRIAL

Say That Spanish "Rebel's" Case May Rival That of Dreyfus.

Paris, Oct. 12.—The daughter of Prof. Francisco Ferrer today sent a touching message by telegraph to King Alfonso, appealing to the monarch's generosity and chivalry to save the life of her father.

Ferrer has been convicted of instigating a revolutionary movement at Barcelona, Spain, and unless his sentence is countermanded in the meantime, he will be shot tomorrow.

The Socialists held a big mass meeting here last night as a demonstration of sympathy for Ferrer. M. Jaures, Socialist leader in the chamber of deputies, and other deputies spoke, violently denouncing the conduct of the alleged revolutionists' trial, describing the proceedings as a "judicial comedy." Some of the papers today characterize the outcome of the court-martial as a travesty on justice, and say it may become a second Dreyfus case.

BIG LOSS IN KEY WEST

Hurricane Does Damage Estimated at About $2,000,000.

Federal Troops Are Called On to Stop Looting of the Ruins.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 12.—With the city practically in ruins, as the result of a hurricane which struck the east coast of Florida yesterday, Key West today is absolutely in the hands of the United States military authorities, who were appealed to by the mayor to stop wholesale pillaging that began shortly after the disaster.

The city jail is filled to overflowing with the vandals arrested by the soldiers and the local police, and extemporaneous jail quarters here are being provided in which to shut up the pilagers.

In the city whole blocks of frame buildings were razed by the wind; in some instances brick structures were wrecked, and the big warehouses, which represent a large part of the city's business life, suffered heavily.

Damage Is $2,000,000.

Altogether the loss is estimated at not less than $2,000,000, though as far as is known no lives were lost in Key West. It is expected that reports from along the coast, however, will show serious suffering among the people, and probably some loss of life.

The heaviest damage was along the water front, but it is thought that most of the vessels, which were torn from their moorings by the storm, are safe. Some sixty or seventy are said to have been wrecked or stranded, but most of them are believed to have ridden out the storm.

Among the wrecked structures is the wireless telegraph station, so that com-

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 12.—Although not a legal holiday in Ohio, Columbus day was observed by the local Italians. During the afternoon there was a parade in honor of the 417th anniversary of the discovery of America, followed by a formal celebration at Acme hall, where speeches were made, including an address by Mayor Tom L. Johnson.

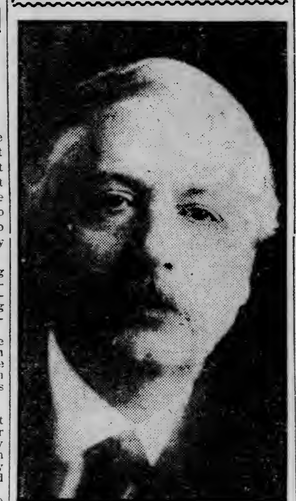

A movement is on foot among the Italians of this state to have the legislature make Columbus day a legal holiday.

Freak Blizzard Puts End to Indian Summer Weather.

All Roads Leading to Duluth Feel Effect of Storm.

Weather Man Expects Cold Snap to Continue Wednesday.

Leaden skies, high wind, snow and freezing temperatures were features of the blizzard which presented themselves to Duluthians this morning.

Yesterday the air was not so biting, but this morning it was regular winter weather, and the snow did not melt when it fell. The wind whizzed and chased it around into drifts, and lightweight pedestrians had a hard time avoiding the same treatment.

Last night the wind increased in fury, after an afternoon and early evening lull, and the increase was followed by quite a drop in temperature, which was very noticeable when it came time for the city to get out of bed this morning and prepare for the busy day.

Heating plants were energetically charged and stoked, and the kindly offices of radiators and registers were appreciated by every one who came in contact with them.

Duluth is in the thickest of this storm. It is most severe at the western end of Lake Superior and does not extend as far as the Copper country of Michigan, although it is working in that direction.

BRAVE COLD TO SEE GAME

Detroit Baseball Fans Face Wintry Blasts in Rush to Ball Park.

Mullins and Adams Picked By Followers to Do the Pitching.

Score at end of third inning: Detroit, 2; Pittsburg, 0.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—Wintry blasts greeted the baseball enthusiasts as they made their way to Bennett park today for the fourth game of the world's championship series between Pittsburg and Detroit. Although the sun shone brightly the air was too cold for good baseball. A brisk chilling wind prevailed and overcoats were about the most popular item on the card.

Despite the weather conditions, however, the crowd began to gather early at Bennett park. The brilliant rally of Detroit in the closing innings of yesterday's battle inspired fresh hope in the breasts of the local supporters. The 18,277 crowd of spectators yesterday set a new world's series record for this city.

Four Umpires Work.

Four umpires will be on duty during the remaining games of this series. Two will work in their regular positions behind the bat and on the bases, while the other two will be stationed at the end of the right and left field foul lines. The duties of the two stationed at the extreme ties of the foul lines will be principally to make decisions regarding balls hit into the crowd and interference with the outfielders. Klem is scheduled to work behind the bat today, with Evans on the bases and O'Loughlin and Johnstone in the outfield.

The players will share in the receipts of one more game, dividing it 60 per cent to the winners and 40 per cent to the losing team. It is estimated that the players will receive about $65,000.

Mullin and Adams.

The Detroit players are determined to win the next game played, because if they do not they will be practically out of the running.

George Mullin and Charles Adams looked as though they would pitch today.

KNOX GIVES EXPLANATION

Says Crane Disclosed Important Diplomatic Matters at Wrong Time.

Also Declares Appointee Knew Why He Was Recalled to Capital.

Washington, Oct. 12.—In announcing his action of requesting Charles R. Crane of Chicago, newly appointed minister to China, to resign, Secretary of State P. C. Knox gave out the following statement, adding that he would have nothing to add to it:

"The department of state has been engaged for some time in making the usual study of the recent agreements between China and Japan in relation to Manchuria, from such data bearing upon the situation as it was able to secure, with a view determining whether there is anything in the agreements adversely affecting American interests or in conflict with the principle of equal opportunities to which the powers are pledged; a study not yet concluded and in respect to which on decision has been reached.

"While this investigation was proceeding, Mr. Crane, the minister to China, came to the department, and while there was informed by one of the clerks that such an examination was being made.

Says Crane "Leaked."

"Without conversing with the acting secretary or any other responsible officer of the department, and without the knowledge or authority of any one connected with the department, Mr. Crane gave out a newspaper story to the effect that this government was preparing to protest against some features of the agreements, and that the promulgation of the protest only awaited the return of an official who was to formulate it. The story appeared in a Western paper, and at the same time, or a day later, in the Japanese press, and subsequently was generally published.

"Such were the representations made to me Oct. 1 by the responsible officials of the state department, accompanied by their statement that they had sufficient reason to believe them to be true. Whereupon I sent Mr. Crane, at San Francisco, the following telegram, dated Oct. 3, 1909:

"'You have been charged with the responsibility for the canards recently appearing in the Japanase and American press to the effect that the United States is preparing to protest against the Chinese-Japanese agreement. The evidence that you are responsible for this is of such a character as warrants me in directing you to come to Washington at once and meet it.

Admitted the Charge.

"'If you are not responsible, as I hope you are not, matters relating to Oriental affairs have developed since you left Washington to make it advisable for me to communicate with you personally and in the utmost confidence in relation thereto.'

"At the conference with Mr. Crane Sunday evening he admitted having an indiscreet talk with a reporter which resulted in the publications referred to, and, assuming responsibility, stated that if the indiscretion was grave enough to shake my confidence in his usefulness he would willingly resign. I have reluctantly reached the conclusion that the good of the service demands that I should inform Mr. Crane that his resignation will be accepted, and I have done so."

Declined to Talk.

Mr. Crane, when seen at his hotel this afternoon, said he had received a formal letter from Secretary Knox requsting him to render his resignation as minister to China. Mr. Crane explained that he had not seen the statement given out to the press at the state deparment, and declined to talk for publication until he considered this.

Friends of Mr. Crane have made the statement here during the progress of the developments since he arrived here on Sunday afternoon, that he had felt justified in his public utterances by remarks which had been made to him personally by President Taft himself.

Having reference to these statements, it was said this afternoon, in an authoritative quarter, that the department felt assured that nothing Mr. Taft might ever have said to Mr. Crane could be claimed to justify the disclosures for which the present action was taken. The same authority declared that undoubtedly Mr. Crane had greatly embarrassed the situation by denying several times while en route from San Francisco that he knew why he had been recalled.

Approved By Taft.

There was no doubt, it was declared, that Mr. Knox had the entire approval of the president in the action. Mr. Crane, after receiving Secretary Knox's letter calling for his resignation, was shown Mr. Knox's statement. Returning the paper to the press man who brought it, he remarked that the matter was too serious to be discussed offhand, but promised an interview later.

VIOLATIONS ARE BUT FEW

Public Examiner's Report Shows Big Improvement in Conditions.

School District Officers Learning to Keep Accounts in Legal Manner.

The reports of Public Examiner Andrew J. Wasgatt on town and school districts examined by him during the month of September went on file in the office of County Auditor Odin Halden this morning. They are in the aggregate by far the best lot of reports made by the examiner since he was appointed, for no very serious violations of the law are reported, and the principal irregularities commented upon are technical in their nature.

The paying of money to officers of town and school districts for work done for the community which they are serving; the failure of officers and sureties on bonds to properly qualify; and the giving of bonds running to the school district instead of to the state of Minnesota still demand the attention of the examiner, and some one of the three irregularities are noted in every report.

In only one case does the examiner report anything approaching a flagrant violation of the law. In School District No. 50, which is in the town of Meadowlands, $100 of the school money was loaned to the town in 1906, and $12 interest was paid, together with the principal. The transaction is not recorded in the books of L. G. Yochim, the treasurer of the school district, but it was discovered in the books of the town of Meadowlands. The interest did not go into the treasury of the school district, and Mr. Wasgatt points out that, while the law provides that the funds of a school district shall not be used for speculation, the interest should go to the district.

In School District No. 17 the treasurer is short $48.44, and he can account for but $32 of it, which he paid as premiums on his bond. The law allows school districts to authorize the payment of premiums on treasurer's bonds; so such payments were not illegal. The treasurer cannot account for the $16.44, however.

In several school districts, treasurers and clerks drew the compensation allowed them by law without any direct authority from the districts. The law provides that at each annual meeting compensation shall be voted the treasurer and clerk of the district.

In the town of Midway the following payments for road work are illegal: August Anderson, supervisor, 1908, $64.93; M. E. Erickson, supervisor, 1904-05, $17.43; Joseph Winta, supervisor, 1906, $1.75; Henry Antilla, supervisor, 1908-09, $16.26. The payment of $21.80 to Henry Norman to reimburse him for his loss on a public telephone contract is also declared by Mr. Wasgatt to be illegal.

In School District No. 50, where $12 received as interest on a loan disappeared, the treasurer's bond runs to the district instead of to the state. Mr. Wasgatt also warns the board that it has no authority to appropriate money for Christmas celebrations for the school district. Payments of $14 to E. Mattson and $25.55 to A. Nelson for services to the district while they were officers are contrary to law.

No. 7 in Good Shape.

The report on School District No. 7 is very favorable, as there are no irregularities, the records of the clerk are neatly and accurately kept and there are no outstanding bonds or obligations against the district.

In School District No. 17, where the treasurer is short a small amount, the board is evidently not aware that it is necessary each year to vote compensation to the clerk and treasurer. One payment of $3.25 to a school officer is contrary to law.

In School District No. 5 the bond of the treasurer runs to the district, instead of to the state. Payments of $14 to Stephen Helmski, $18 to Marion Finski and $12.50 to Sam Miller, while they were officers of the district, were contrary to law.

In School District No. 56 the treasurer's bond also runs to the district, instead of to the state. The payment of $25 to John J. Ljung in 1907-08 for services as an officer of the district is illegal.

In School District No. 28 the treasurer keeps his own funds and those of the district in the bank in his own name, which Mr. Wasgatt says is inadvisable, although not contrary to law.

In School District No. 55 the treasurer has removed from the district, and no successor has yet been appointed. The payment of $25 to P. A. Paulson, chairman of the board in 1905-06, is illegal.

In the town of Meadowlands the following payments have been made for road work to officers of the town: Andrew Nelson, $38.35; E. Mattson, $14; C. J. Lindstrom, $65.25, and N. J. Mattson, $68.60.

MURDER MYSTERY IN RHODE ISLAND

Severed Legs of Girl Are Found in Suit Case Near the Road.

Tiverton, R. I., Oct. 12.—No light has been shed today on the finding of the severed legs of a woman in a dress suit case among some bushes in an outlying section of this town yesterday. The authorities are convinced that it is a case of murder. The discovery of a New Bedford newspaper of Sunday's date with the portions of the limbs is regarded as the most important clue thus far obtained, indicating possibly the place of the murder, if murder there was. The authorities are of the opinion that the woman was murdered in New Bedford, that the legs were placed in the suit case there and brought by team or automobile to Tiverton last night.

According to the medical examiner, Dr. John Stimson, the supposed murder was committed not more than twelve or fifteen hours before the suit case was discovered. That a murder was committed, and that the cutting was not done by the experienced hands of a surgeon or by a medical student, is the belief of the medical examiner, who says that apparently a common handsaw was used to sever the legs from the trunk.

A search for the other portions of the body in the woods nearby is being made.

Along Auto Route.

Bulger Marsh road, on which the suit case was found, runs from Newport to New Bedford, passing through the outskirts of Fall River, and is much used by automobile parties, especially on Sundays, when various resorts along the road are visited by people from the Massachusetts factory city, as well as from Rhode Island towns.

For a distance of several miles this road runs through swamp land covered with a wild growth. The nearest house to the scene of the finding of the suit case is at Bliss' Corners. The body might have lain undiscovered for days had not a rural letter carrier, George Potter, chanced to go to the spot yesterday afternoon.

Potter was making his rounds, passing along the road, when he noticed three portions of human legs partly wrapped in newspapers in the case.

The medical examiner, after taking measurements of the limbs, estimated that the woman (or girl) probably was 5 feet 3 inches in height and weighed perhaps 120 pounds.

A large callous spot on the bottom of the foot indicated that the girl was accustomed to walking much or to standing, and suggests that she may have been a working girl. There were no initials on the suit case and no mark of any kind by which its ownership could be traced.

SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE COMING IN Commercial Club's Finance Committee Beginning to See Light.

The scheduled meeting of the finance committee of the public affairs committee did not take place today owing to the absence of a number of the members of the committee from the city. It is planned to call a meeting of the committee for tomorrow.

It was stated this morning by E. P. Towne, chairman of the committee, that the money that must be contributed by the city before the $10,000 donated by the four wholesalers would be available, was already in sight and that there would be no trouble in raising the $10,000, the city's share of the campaign fund, if the subscriptions continue to come in as they have done.

Mr. Towne also stated that many renewing their subscriptions to the public affairs committee, were making these subscriptions larger than their subscriptions of a year ago.

SORRY FOR HIS CRIME

Pasquale Gitto Says He Shot His Son in Self Defense.

Two Younger Men Attacked Him He Claims Before He Fired.

"My boy fight me many times. Sunday, he fight me; my two boys, Paul and Joe, they both fight me; I be down on the ground and they both jump on me and kick me. One woman she pull them off and they come to fight me again. Then I shoot."

Pasquale Gitto, a sad-hearted old man, who shot and seriously wounded his son, Paul Gitto, at the Stevens mine location near Aurora Sunday evening, was brought to the county jail this morning to await the action of the range grand jury, which meets at Virginia the latter part of this month. At the jail he made the above statement, which indicates that he intends to offer a plea of self-defense.

Gitto is 61 years old and has lived in this country for twenty-three years. He is a patriarchal-looking veteran, with a long, flowing beard. He seems saddened by his plight and takes no interest in anything except the crime of which he is accused.

When told that his son was improving, he was interested. He wanted to know how the jailor knew, and he seemed relieved when told that the press dispatches carries the information that the young man would probably recover. He seems to be sorry for the crime, while believing that to shoot was the only course left open for him when he fired the shot.

According to the press reports, nobody saw the crime, neighbors being attracted by the shot. The old man's story varies with those sent from Aurora, as he says both sons attacked him and a neighbor saw the affair and pulled the younger man away from him before the shot was fired.

HAVANA GETTING OVER THE STORM

Sugar and Tobacco Crops Practically Uninjured By the Elements.

Havana, Oct. 12.—This city recovered quickly from the effects of the storm of yesterday. Today the local telephone and street car services were resumed and gangs of workingmen cleared the prado and parks of fallen trees. Preparations also are under way to float the sunken lighters and schooners that either were submerged or tossed upon the eastern shore of the harbor.

The storm appears to have spent its force in the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio and on the Isle of Pines. It is believed that the sugar crop has escaped injury. The loss to the tobacco crop appears small.

PROFITS ON PAPER.

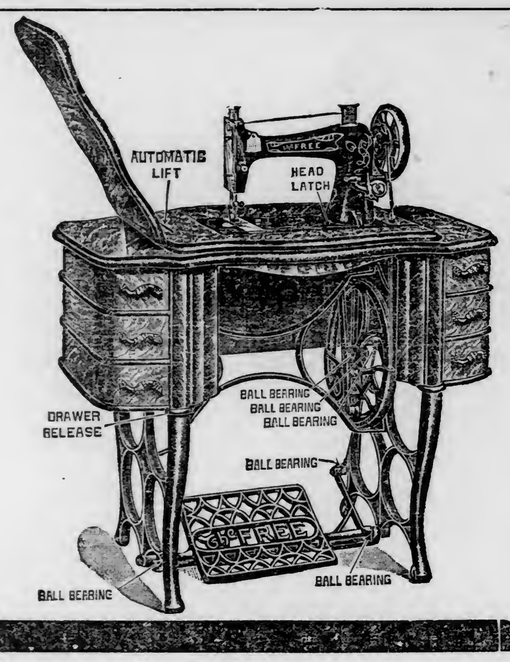

Men Sue for Money They Would Have Made.

Charles E. McNamara and William A. Kaake filed suit in district court this morning against B. T. Green for $4,000 on account of damages they claim they sustained on account of the failure of Green to carry out a partnership contract in which the three entered about a year ago.

They claimed that a contract was made under which they agreed to go into the retail monument business under the name of B. T. Green & Co. They say they were always willing to carry out their end of the contract, but Mr. Green refused to carry out his agreement. They say the firm would have cleared $6,000 since the contract was drawn up and they ask judgment for $4,000, which would have been the amount received by them from the profits under the contract.

As a part of the campaign by the American Medical society and its subsidiary organizations, composed of the medical fraternity, to better acquaint the general public with methods of combatting and preventing disease of various kinds, Dr. J. N. McCormick of Bowling Green, Ky., will deliver a lecture in Duluth the later part of November.

Dr. McCormick is the regular lecturer sent out by the American Medical society for the purpose already stated, and he will give Duluthians the benefit of his ideas and knowledge, probably on the last day of the month, at a place to be selected later by a committee of the St. Louis County Medical society, appointed to make arrangements for the Kentuckian's visit.

The lecture will be free to everyone, and local physicians will make very effort to attract a large number of the people to hear it, as it is primarily to reach the public that the American society sends Dr. McCormick out.

Physicians all over the land are deeply interested in the American society's campaign, and it has their hearty co-operation and indorsement. It is a part of the growing movement to give the laymen a better idea of disease, its prevention, its cure and its effects.

In Duluth Dr. McCormick will give a general discourse, but not the least important part of his address will pertain to tuberculosis, so often nowadays called the "great white plague," and against the ravages of which disease a world-wide fight is being conducted. Dr. McCormick will endeavor to tell the people how to prevent tuberculosis, as well as other diseases.

Dr. McCormick is devoting all of his time to the lectures-for-the-public feature of the American Medical society's work. He is said to be an entertaining and agreeable speaker, and it is expected that he will be heard here by capacity audiences, for the most part made up of the general public.

Within a short time, the local medical society's committee will determine the place for the lecture. Some large auditorium, like the Central high school assembly hall, or the First M. E. church, will likely be selected.

The doctor says you have got to take Cod Liver Oil—if so, why not take it in the easiest and best form—why not take

Scott's Emulsion

That is what the doctor means. He would not force you to take the crude oil when he knows the Emulsion is better—more easily digested and absorbed into the system—and will not upset the stomach like the plain oil.

THE PRODIGIOUS INDIVIDUAL

Prof. Guthrie Talks on the Spanish and English Drama.

"The Prodigious Individual" was the subject of the lecture last evening by William Norman Guthrie at the high school assembly hall. The lecture was one in the series on the drama, and the Spanish and English drama was the subject of his discourse. During his talk the speaker brought out the fact that the Spanish dramatist gave to his characters the qualities that were reflected in the national character, greatly emphasized. This was done to such an extent as to appear an extreme to the English mind. The English drama, however, shows much the same treatment, the English dramatist presenting characters more than life size in the qualities they display, but being kept near and human by being given the frailities and vices familiar to the audience.

In spite of the disagreeable weather the attendance was good.

Mr. Guthrie's lecture on Wednesday evening in this course will be from the French drama. The title of his lecture is "In the Bonds of Convention," and the plays to be spoken of will be, Corneille, "Le Cid;" Racine, "Phedre;" Moliere, "Le Misanthrope;" Hugo, "Hernani;" Augier, "Le fils de Giboyer;" Rostand, "Cyrano;" Hervieu, "Des Tenailles."

MARINE

ARE STAYING IN HARBOR

Captains Fear to Venture Out in the Heavy Gale.

Vesselmen Say the Storm Has Many Unique Features.

When the wind died down for a time yesterday afternoon, about 4 o'clock, the boats that had anchored outside the entrance to the harbor got safely in. There were in all about seven of them that lay to for a time, fearing to come through the canal with the strong wind blowing off the land. There were two ships outside the Superior entry. They also were unable to get inside the harbor as the wind decreased.

Vesselmen say that the present storm is one of the most unique in history, in that the wind blowing from the land has hung on as long as it has. It is not uncommon, they say, for the wind to blow strong off the land, but the fact that it has blown continually for about forty hours is the strange part of it. A wind from this direction usually blows itself out in a few hours.

Local captains, who are anxious to make as many trips as possible, were this morning on the anxious seat, and the weather man's prediction that the gale would continue during the day and at least a part of the night was not encouraging.

Last night the wind blew at the rate of over sixty miles an hour. This morning it had decreased somewhat, but was blowing at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and was steady. There were a few departures yesterday afternoon, when the wind decreased for a time, but for the most part the captains are hugging the harbor until after the blow is over. The captains who did leave announced their intentions of hugging the north shore, where the bluffs would protect them more or less.

Incoming captains report the heaviest seas of the year. In the vicinity of Whitefish Point, the graveyard of Lake Superior, the seas are said to be the heaviest since the big storm of a year ago.

There are a number of boats due at the local harbor, but little concern is felt, as they are undoubtedly sheltering at some point on the lake. Some of the boats are known to have sheltered at down the lake ports.

The steamers Bope and Sinaloa are known to have passed the Soo, but it is expected that they have found shelter in the vicinity of Whitefish Point, or are hugging the north shore.

The steamer John A. Donaldson, Capt. Beggs, arrived early this morning light for a load of grain. Her crew reports heavy seas but no trouble.

There was but little moving around in the local harbor this morning. The wind blew at such a rate that it was not even deemed safe even with the aid of tugs to make the several slips and landing places.

The storm has greatly delayed the boats and the rush will be greater than ever when the blow is finally over.

UNKNOWN BOAT IS SEEN SINKING

Captain of Wicks Reports Disaster Near Whitefish Point.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The captain of the steamer Wicks, bound down yesterday morning, reports seeing a sinking vessel during the early morning hours. He thought at the time that the sinking ship was the Winnipeg, but that boat has been located farther down the lakes. Another report that the ship was the Coffinbury is denied by the lighthouse keeper at Whitefish Point, who says that boat has been sheltering at Grand Marais.

NEW FREIGHTER FOR DETROIT MEN

Barlum Interests Order a New Boat for Spring Delivery.

The Barlum interests of Detroit have given a contract to the American Shipbuilding company for construction of another big bulk freighter, to come out at the opening of navigation in 1910.

The ship will be a duplicate of the steamer John J. Barlum, that came out this year, and will be 524 feet long and will carry upwards of 10,000 tons of ore. Like the Barlum, the new boat will be built at the Lorain yards.

Building berths at lake shipyards are going rapidly, and it was necessary to give the order early, to make sure of delivery in good season next year.

SECRETARY COMING HERE

Associated Charities Will Be Permanently Organized in Duluth.

Francis H. McLean Will Visit City for the Purpose.

The organization of the Associated Charities of Duluth is expected to be practically completed this week with the arrival of Francis H. McLean, field secretary of the national society.

Miss Jean Poirier has received a letter from Mr. McLean stating that he expects to be in Duluth before the end of the week. At that time it is expected that the local society will receive the charter admitting it to membership in the national organization and details of the work will be minutely outlined.

The Duluth society will not attempt to dispense charity itself. Its chief function will be to investigate cases to prevent one family from receiving aid from every charitable institution in the city while the family next door is starving, and to stop much of the begging now going on in Duluth.

Different offices in the downtown district have complained that they have had as many as fifteen to twenty beggars visit them in a single day. A determined effort will be made to stop this practice and to regulate pauperism.

She Was Pleasantly Surprised.

Miss H. E. Bell, Wausau, Wis., writes: "Before I commenced to take Foley's Kidney Pills I had severe pains in my back, could not sleep and was greatly troubled with headache. The first few doses of Foley's Kidney Pills gave me relief, and two bottles cured me. The quick results surprised me, and I can honestly recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

What would this city be like without its stores? What would this newspaper be like without its store ads? One would be about as interesting as the other.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

EIGHT CLUBS NEXT YEAR

Two Teams Will Be Added to Minnesota-Wisconsin League.

Winnipeg May Come Back Into American Baseball Fold.

Eight clubs will compose the Minnesota-Wisconsin league next season.

This is the most important piece of information manufactured at the meeting today of the magnates of the league, in session at the Hotel St. Louis.

The formal business of the league, the awarding of the pennant to Duluth and the return of the $300 guarantee deposited by each of the six clubs as surety for finishing the season, was transacted this morning. There will be further business to come up at the session this afternoon.

There is a surplus of $382 in the treasury of the league. All of the clubs have done fairly well the past season, according to the statement of President John A. Elliott, and the magnates meeting today are enthusiastic over the prospects of the league for next year.

But the most important consideration, at least for the baseball fans in this section of the country, is the statement of President Elliott that eight clubs will compose the league next year. Just what clubs will be added to the league, and whether any of the present members of the league will be dropped, is a question that will not be determined at the present session of the magnates.

It is probable that a committee will be appointed today to take up this matter and look over the territory.

J. M. Lamb of Winnipeg is not here today. Neither are there representatives from Mankato or Red Wing clubs that it is understood are desirous of coming into the fold. Even if representatives were present from clubs desirous of entering the league, they could not accomplish anything at today's session. No definite action will be taken on that matter until the January meeting.

All of the magnates present today seemed very well satisfied with the first season's showing of the new league. The new league was somewhat in the nature of an experiment, and as such the men behind the movement are satisfied. They look for even better results next year. With eight clubs composing the league, the magnates look for better baseball and increased interest.

It looks right now as if Winnipeg will be a member of the 1910 league. It has not been definitely stated, but it is known that the men here today are inclined to look with favor on the advances of the Canadian cousin, and it will not be in the least surprising to see Winnipeg return to American baseball affiliations.

It is a guess as to what club will make the eighth member of the league. There may possibly be two of the present clubs dropped. That is not at all certain. The magnates are just skirmishing at the present time.

At the session this afternoon the disputed game between Winona and La Crosse will be taken up. The deciding of this game will make a difference in the standing of the two clubs in the race. The four disinterested clubs will decide the dispute.

Those present at today's meeting are: John A. Elliott of La Crosse, president; A. W. Kuehnow of Duluth, vice president; John A. Borth of Winona, treasurer; W. J. Sommers, Superior; H. J. Rooney, La Crosse; John B. Fleming, Eau Claire; H. D. Davis, Eau Claire; H. J. Grabow, Winona; W. J. Bryan, Wausau.

The meeting will be concluded by a dinner this evening at the St. Louis.

PLAY FOOTBALL IN SUPERIOR

Big Duluths and Broadways to Clash in Sunday Game.

The Big Duluth football team will line up against the Broadways of Superior Sunday afternoon at Superior.

Last Sunday the Big Duluths were defeated by the Irving Tigers and the Broadways were beaten by the Adams team.

The teams are said to be very evenly matched, according to those who have seen them both work, and a fast contest is looked forward to.

Doctors in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 12.—The thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Mississippi Valley Medical association began here today. Nearly 1,000 physicians and surgeons are in attendance.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Neurasthenia

Also Known as "Nerve Tire" and "Nervous Exhaustion"

has, during the present generation, come to be known as the "National Disease" of America. So prevalent has it become that it is almost an exception to find a person without it. It is usually found associated with nervous dyspepsia, which is often the most prominent symptom. In this age of hurry, worry, hustle and the strenuous life in business many people overwork their nervous systems and put too much strain upon them, which eventually causes a partial or total breakdown. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey through its tonic and rebuilding constituents will cure these troublesome nervous complaints by supplying the system with those vital elements which it needs to bring about a complete restoration to health.

The processes of tearing down and building up are constantly being carried on in the body, and if nothing interferes with these important processes health results; but when something occurs to check them disease is sure to follow. Duffy's Pure Whiskey overcomes the disease by stimulating the heart and nerves, which quickens the circulation of blood, enabling the system to properly assimilate the food from the alimentary tract; also to adequately eliminate from the system through the lungs, pores, kidneys and intestines, those waste products, such as uric acid, toxins, etc., which result from the disintegration of the old tissues of the body, and the decomposition of alimentum in the alimentary canal.

If weak and run down take a teaspoonful four times a day in half a glass of milk or water.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold everywhere by druggists, grocers and dealers, or shipped on order for $1.00 a bottle.

Our Medical Department will send to every reader of The Herald, advice, and an interesting illustrated medical booklet free of charge. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y.

NO TRACE OF YEGGS

Burglars Who Attacked Sandstone Bank Left No Clues.

With Nothing to Work on the Authorities Are Helpless.

Sandstone, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The yeggmen who failed in their effort to rob the First National bank here early yesterday morning after blowing the outer doors on the vault and wrecking the banking office, have probably made a successful escape unless some clues not at present in the possession of the authorities develop.

They appear to have successfully covered their tracks and to have got out of town without leaving anything upon which Marshal Halliday, the detective employed by the State Bankers' association, or county officers can work.

Despite the meagerness of the material upon which the officers must work no expense will be spared to run the desperadoes down.

Peter Veuglar, who was held up by two or three men while passing near the bank about 1:30 or 2 o'clock Sunday morning and took to his heels, is able to furnish only a slight description of the general appearance of the bandits. They probably mistook Veuglar for the night watchman and sought to detain him lest he spread the alarm while their pals were attacking the vault. He was probably accosted by the men left to watch while the others were attacking the vault.

Yeggs Abandon Work.

Just why the burglars desisted in their efforts to reach the treasure after having blown the outer doors of the vault is only conjectural. They had inserted some nitro-glycerin into the cracks on the door of the small safe that contained the money, and perhaps made one explosion, for there are burned marks on the safe. Whether the safe proved too difficult a problem, or the fact that the escape of Veuglar and the possibility of his giving the alarm frightened them, will never be known.

The officials of the bank are congratulating themselves that the loss is confined only to the damage to the banking room, which is covered by insurance. An effort is being made to carry on some banking business in the rear of the building. As soon as the adjusters have fixed the loss upon the banking fixtures the bank will secure new office equipment and be ready for business.

The yeggs probably dropped off a freight here early in the evening, and after breaking into the blacksmith shop at the Sandstone quarry and securing the pick, crowbar and other tools found in the bank, waited their opportunity to attack the strong box.

CANNOT AGREE ON APPOINTEES

Senators McCumber and Johnson Differ on Division of Spoils.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The North Dakota congressional delegation seems to be having a decidedly hard time solving the problem of appointing successors to the present incumbents of the United States land office at this point, Register M. H. Jewell and Receiver John Satterlund, both of whom have served the term to which they were appointed, but who continue in office because of the failure of the delegation to get together on appointees.

At present there are three very active candidates for the two positions, R. N. Stevens of Burleigh county, O. Olson and Charles Staley of McLean county. Mr. Stevens seems to be the bone of contention in the delegation. The position of register, it is understood, will go to him if Senator McCumber's view prevails, but up to date he has been unable to get Senator Johnson's agreement to his appointment, and the probabilities are that he will be unable to do so.

CONTRACTOR McDONNELL NEARING END OF WORK.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the last lap of Grand Forks' many paving contracts was commenced yesterday by Contractor P. McDonnell of Duluth. There are two big stretches of Donnellite pavement to be laid, and, with fair weather, it is expected that the greater portion of the work will be completed this fall. The paving work in Grand Forks this year amounts to about $200,000 all told.

A CORROBORATION

Of Interest to Duluth Readers.

For months Duluth citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by Duluth residents. Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proven reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of indorsement? No stronger proof of merit can be had than cures that have stood the test of time. The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Duluth reader:

H. G. Hibke, 1123 Woodland avenue, Duluth Minn., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble, which I believe was brought on by constant driving and exposure to all kinds of weather. Severe pains in the small of my back made stooping or lifting difficult and every cold I caught settled in my kidneys, aggravating the complaint. I was subject to headaches and the kidney secretions often became highly colored and irregular in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and today not a symptom of my trouble remains."

The above statement was given on Oct. 20, 1904, and on Nov. 20, 1908, Mr. Hibke added: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no further need of a kidney remedy. I willingly confirm all I have previously said about this preparation, as I know it is very effective in cases of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PRAIRIE FIRE SWEEPS.

Extensive Damage Done in Town of Western, Otter Tail County.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The town of Western was visited by one of the most destructive prairie fires ever known in this county Thursday afternoon. The fire is supposed to have originated from ashes left by a thrashing engine at the Williams place, and once started it swept over the prairies, destroying everything in its path. The wind was high and the afternoon was dry and hot, which made it doubly difficult to fight the flames. The greater portion of sections 8, 16, 17 and 20 were swept bare of vegetation. These are some of the best hay sections of the county, and from 800 to 900 tons of hay were destroyed in stack. The flames covered a tract of territory about three miles long and from half a mile to a mile in width. It is thought that about 2,000 acres of land were burned over. The people turned out and fought the fire, and as the grass was not very high, it was possible to keep it from buildings. The Barsby-Iverson schoolhouse was in the path of the fire, and the flames were checked just before they reached the building.

MILLER INVESTIGATES.

Congressman May Recommend Lloyd for International Falls Postmaster.

International Falls, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. B. Miller of Duluth, representative of this district in congress, was here recently investigating the postoffice situation, it being necessary to make a new appointment for the position of postmaster because of the recent death of J. CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY

New Discovery Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Skin Diseases.

Nothing in the history of medicine has ever approached the success of the marvelous skin remedy known as poslam, which, it is safe to say, has cured more cases of eczema and skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills.

The success of poslam is not at all surprising when it is considered that even a very small quantity applied to the skin stops itching immediately and cures chronic cases in two weeks. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch, yield to it readily. Blemishes, such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at the Lyceum pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth and the A. E. Holmberg Drug company in Superior, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining an experimental package which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city.

Millions of Lives Lost

An Awful Toll Collected by Consumption. Many Unnecessary Deaths from this Disease.

If people could only understand that systematic catarrh is an internal disease that external applications cannot cure, they would not need to be warned so often about this malady, which, when neglected, paves the way oftentimes for consumption, at the cost of millions of lives every year. Yet catarrh may be cured, if the right treatment is employed.

Catarrh is caused by a general diseased state of the system which leads commonly to annoying and perhaps serious local conditions, which may prove a fertile breeding ground for germs of consumption. External remedies give but temporary ease.

The only way to successfully treat catarrh is by employing a medicine which is absorbed and carried by the blood to all parts of the system, so that the mucous membrane or internal lining of the body is toned up and made capable of resisting the infection of consumption and other diseases.

We have a remedy prepared from the prescription of a physician who for thirty years studied and made catarrh a specialty, and whose record was a patient restored to health in every case where his treatment was followed as prescribed. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone. We are so positive that it will completely overcome catarrh in all its various forms, whether acute or chronic, that we promise to return every penny paid us for the medicine in every case where it fails or for any reason does not satisfy the user.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our recommendation and guarantee. We are right here where you live, and you do not contract any obligation or risk when you try Rexall Muco-Tone on our guarantee. We have Rexall Muco-Tone in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Very often the taking of one 50-cent bottle is sufficient to make a marked impression upon the case. Of course in chronic cases a longer treatment is necessary. The average in such instances is three $1 bottles. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway.

but in the defendants' own district court of New York, is to be called within a month, it is expected. There is, however, also an indictment by the grand jury of the District of Columbia against the New York World.

Mr. Lindsay and Delancy Nicholl had prepared a memorandum, which Mr. Lindsay offered to the court today, opposing the removal of Messrs. Smith and Williams. Mr. Lindsay said that his clients were interested in the precedent, which possibly would be set in this court.

Mr. Lindsay argued that there was no offense under federal law that was not punishable at the place where the person was when committing the offense, and that the law did not contemplate that a trial of a defendant should be elsewhere than in his residence district. In the case in hand, he concluded, the defendants should be tried at the place where their newspaper was published, Indianapolis, and not in any other one of the many districts in which copies of their newspaper is circulated.

"Danger To Liberty."

Great danger to the institution of liberty is threatened in a possible court order removing the publishers of the Indianapolis News to the District of Columbia for trial, said Mr. Winter, following Mr. Lindsay for the defendants.

"Consider that the power of the president is greater than that of any crowned king," said Mr. Winter, and "that the District of Columbia, being the seat of government, is inhabited by many persons dependent upon the government machinery for their livelihood; consider that this libel proceeding was brought about by an inflammatory message from the former president to congress; consider that the whole immense power of the executive department is behind this indictment, and, finally, consider that these defendants, if taken to the District of Columbia for trial, would have to appear before a jury largely made up of employes and officeholders of the very machinery that is behind this prosecution."

Never Done Before.

Mr. Winter pointed out that there never had been a removal of defendants to the District of Columbia in a proceeding for criminal libel. He argued also that the statute on seditious libel in the District of Columbia, which provides exceptionally severe fines and imprisonment, was not intended to cover such examples of libel as that charged against Messrs. Smith and Williams.

Further, Mr. Winter declared it was never intended that section 1,014 of the Revised Statutes should provide removal for libel. In 1874, he said, at the time of the enactment of the section, the judiciary committee of the United States senate especially prescribed that the section would not give warrant for removing to the District of Columbia newspaper editors charged with libel. He believed that otherwise the statute would not have been enacted by congress.

Judge Doubts Malice.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12.—"What constitutes criminal libel?" and "Is the United States court of one district empowered to remove defendants for trial in a proceeding for criminal libel to another district than that in which they reside?" were the questions in argument at the opening of the second day's hearing of Delevan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, charged with criminal libel in the Panama canal controversy, before Judge Anderson today.

Stuart McNamara, representing the department of justice, seeking the removal of Messrs. Smith and Williams to the District of Columbia for trial under a federal grand jury indictment, continued his argument, begun yesterday.

Judge Doubts Malice.

Judge Anderson, discussing with Mr. McNamara the contested points, has expressed his doubt that the publishers of the Indianapolis News had committed malicious and criminal libel in printing articles alleging that there was corruption in the sale of the Panama canal zone to this country, and further had stated that he was undecided as to whether the defendants in such an action as this should be tried in the division in which the newspaper containing the alleged libelous articles was published or in any district in which the newspaper circulated and in which a proceeding against the publishers was instituted.

HURRICANE ON THE LAKES

the storm assumed the proportions of a blizzard.

Down to Freezing.

New Richmond, Wis., Oct. 12.—Snow flurries here yesterday morning were followed by a blizzard last night. The temperature dropped to freezing.

Three Inches of Snow.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 12.—A heavy snow of three inches fell here during the night.

Iowa Gets Its Share.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 12.—Snow fell here yesterday afternoon for a short time, and last night it again snowed, accompanied by a piercing north wind.

Light snows are reported from many towns in Central Iowa.

At Des Moines and Sioux City today a minimum temperature of 27 degs. was recorded this morning, and reports indicate that the entire state experienced the fall in temperature.

Chicago Feels It.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Chicago was visited by a slight snowstorm today, the first of the season. Evidences of heavier snows in the North and Northwest were borne on the roofs and sides of railway cars entering the city. Temperature close to the freezing point added to the discomfort of travel on the streets.

Freezing in Nebraska.

Norfolk, Neb., Oct. 12.—Following yesterday's snow in Nebraska and South Dakota, the mercury today dropped to 22 degs. above zero here.

TRAINS DELAYED BY THE OCTOBER SNOW AND WIND

the wind has continued from the northwest. At times last night it attained a velocity of sixty miles an hour, and maintained it pretty steadily during the wee small hours. This morning at 7 o'clock it was blowing about forty-eight miles an hour, and later calmed down to forty miles an hour.

There were snow flurries during the night and this morning, but the weather forecaster does not expect much more of the beautiful. He is of the opinion that the wind will continue strong from the northwest all of today and tonight, however, calming down tomorrow.

Although the wind may die down some time tonight, the end of the cold snap is not yet in sight. Weather Observer Richardson expects it to continue all day tomorrow and possibly longer.

Low temperatures prevail throughout the Northwest. The mercury registered about 24 degs. above zero this morning, but Eastern Alberta reported 6 to 8 degs. above zero, which is very cold weather for this season of the year, even in Alberta.

Practically every train in Duluth this morning was late.

The Great Northern train from St. Paul due at 6:30, did not arrive until 8 o'clock. The Northern Pacific train from St. Paul was also an hour and a half late.

The Northern Pacific train from Staples, due at 8:15, did not reach the city until about 10:30. The South Shore train from the Soo was an hour late, and the Winnipeg train over the Missabe road was nearly three hours late, not arriving until after 10 o'clock. The regular Missabe train from the range was half an hour late. The Great Northern train from Grand Forks, due at 7:15, did not arrive until 8:30.

munication with vessels at sea is cut off.

Hundreds of homeless today are being cared for in churches, schools and other roomy structures which escaped the fury of the storm.

West Coast Escaped.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 12.—News received here today indicates that the west coast of the Florida peninsula escaped the full force of the hurricane which yesterday swept up from the gulf, but anxiety is felt over shipping which is known to have been in the path of the storm. Every effort was made to reach all vessels by wireless, but without success in many instances.

Storm warnings were ordered down along the west coast at 10 o'clock last night, indicating that the storm had changed its course. It is now believed that the damage from the storm will be comparatively light in the interior.

Twelve Dead In Havana.

Havana, Oct. 12.—Communication between this city and interior points, which was interrupted when yesterday's storm tore down the telegraph and telephone wires, had not been renewed today. Reports from nearby places indicate that the property loss, especially to the westward, has been heavy, but that there were few fatalities.

Four bodies have been discovered amid the ruins of fallen homes here, and it now is believed that twelve lives were lost in this city. At least half of the lighters that were in the harbor when the storm broke were sunk or stranded, and the work of loading and discharging cargoes has been interferred with in a way to seriously affect the shipping interests.

Headed Toward Bermudas.

Washington, Oct. 12.—All danger to points on the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic coast from the West Indian hurricane which wrecked Key West, Fla., yesterday, and swept northeasterly over Florida, has passed, according to the weather bureau today. The tropical storm, after passing over Key West, crossed the Florida peninsula and went out to sea at Miami. The disturbance is now continuing with unabated force northeasterly along the gulf stream, and is heading toward the Bermudas.

The exact location of the center of the tropical disturbance this morning, as indicated by the reports to the weather bureau, is between 200 and 300 miles off Jacksonville, Fla. The usual path of the West Indian hurricanes which come up from the gulf and sweep the Atlantic coast is to pass to sea anywhere between Key West and Norfolk, then to veer northeasterly and continue into the North Atlantic.

Atlantic no Barrier.

Storms of previous years have been known to continue their destructive paths all the way across the Atlantic, leaving in their wake many a wrecked vessel.

At Key West this morning the storm had spent its force. A northwest wind was blowing and rain was falling. The thermometer registered 82 at 8 o'clock. Reports from Tampa, Fla., indicated that the storm was little felt there, the disturbance having passed somewhat to the south of that place. There being no observer of the weather bureau at Miami, no reports of the effect of the hurricane in that city have been received here.

All storm warnings on the Atlantic and gulf coasts have been ordered discontinued, but the weather bureau advises shipping interests that the hurricane is continuing over the Atlantic, and caution should be exercised by masters of vessels about to proceed across the Atlantic.

Shipping May Have Suffered.

It is fully expected that incoming reports will disclose severe damage to shipping and much destruction to property, perhaps some loss of life among the Florida keys, but undoubtedly the destruction would have been very much greater except for the prompt action of the weather bureau in spreading broadcast through every available agency warnings of the approaching hurricane.

Acting Secretary Oliver of the war department has directed that the commanding officer of the coast artillery at Key West, Fla., be instructed to render such assistance as may be requested by the mayor of that city in maintaining order, following the devastating results of yesterday's hurricane.

Through the commanding officer at Key West, Capt. Edward Kimball, the mayor, has asked for assistance to prevent looting, but that official was advised to make such request through the governor of the state. Without waiting, however, for any request from the governor, the instructions to Capt. Kimball were telegraphed promptly this morning when Gen. Oliver reached his office.

Troops to Keep Order.

The only United States troops at Key West are three companies of coast artillery, comprising probably about 400 men, and these will be of material help to the city officials in their efforts to prevent looting and disturbances.

It is thought at the war department that the soldiers at Key West will be all that are necessary in addition to the local police authorities to maintain order. However, should more be needed, they could be sent from Tampa and Pensacola.

Evidently the question of food for the sufferers is not a very serious one, as the commanding officer at Key West says that he has 15,000 rations, though he is short of vegetables and fresh meat. Nor is any fear felt here that this question will come up as regards the population of the city, which is only five or six hours from Tampa, from which supplies could be rushed promptly in the event that such a step were necessary.

Army Quarters Damaged.

Considerable damage to the army property at Key West resulted from the hurricane. Two barrack buildings are unsafe and not considered repairable. The hospital was partially unroofed and the supplies for that institution badly wrecked. The condensing plant was wrecked and all the buildings belonging to the army were flooded from the rains. There is adequate tentage for the command, and those whose barracks are unsafe can be housed temporarily.

The hurricane was at the rate of eighty miles an hour and continued six hours.

BIG BOILER EXPLODES; ONE MAN IS MISSING.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 12.—One of the big 200-horse power boilers in the West side powerhouse of the Amoskeag mills exploded today, wrecking the building and injuring half a dozen workmen and firemen. One man is reported missing.

HAS ORGAN IN CELL.

Woman Accused of Murder Passes Time Playing and Singing.

Mankato, Minn., Oct. 12.—Mrs. Grace Ledbeter, who is kept in the county jail, awaiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of murder in the first degree, has installed her organ in her cell, and passes some of her time playing and singing. Long conferences with her attorneys are almost daily occurrences, and occasionally she visits her farm, accompanied by the sheriff and one or more of her attorneys. She received a visit from her sister, Mrs. Goldie Swandt, of Sanborn, last week, and the two were together in Mrs. Ledbeter's cell for hours. The district court convenes on the second Wednesday in November.

While Mrs. Ledbeter has plenty of company, Frank Smith, accused of the murder of Mrs. Ledbeter's husband, sees but few. He is spending his time with his studies, and has learned to read and write. He always seems in a happy frame of mind.

IVINS CRIES "HYPOCRITE"

Makes Bitter Attack on Gaynor's Public Life in New York.

Speech at Hearst Meeting Contains Invective Against Tammany Man.

New York, Oct. 12.—William Ivins, who was the Republican candidate for mayor four years ago, took an important part in a Hearst meeting last night. In fact it was Ivins who made the bitterest attack upon Gaynor. Among other things, he said that Justice Gaynor had participated in a conference in this city in which he advised State Senator Patrick H. McCarren and a man whom Ivins described as a "lobbyist" that the anti-race track gambling law, as passed by the legislature in this state, was unconstitutional.

Ivins said that he was aware of the personal risk in making such a statement, in that Justice Gaynor is still on the bench.

"William J. Gaynor," he continued, "has a judicial history of demagogism and political trickery. And as to the statements that I have just made he must either get off the bench or he will have his opportunity of having me disbarred.

"His whole life is a chapter in political hypocrisy and I shall take a large part of my time during the next two weeks in demonstrating it."

—Copyright 1909, by George Grantham Bain.
WILLIAM M. IVINS.

Gaynor Gores Hearst.

Two candidates for mayor of Greater New York, who have been engaged in bitter denunciation of each other during the last two days—William R. Hearst and William J. Gaynor—appeared before the public last night for their first addresses of the campaign. Hearst spoke at Carnegie hall, New York city, and formally accepted the nomination of the independents, known as the Civic Alliance. Gaynor appeared at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn as the regular Democratic nominee.

In his formal address, Hearst refrained from attacking his rival, but Justice Gaynor, in his speech, aroused by what he declared to be Hearst's breach of faith in repudiating him, challenged his rival to meet him in joint debate on the issues of the campaign.

"I want fair play above all in this contest," said Judge Gaynor. "The open enemy I honor, but I despise the enemy that sits back, as an editor or otherwise, pretending to be your friend, when he is only smiling while he buries the dagger in your ribs. The yellow comes out of a man if it is in him. So I say, let us have it out in the open, Mr. Hearst."

Registration Falls Off.

The total registration in Greater New York this year falls 2,465 behind the figures of 1905, when the last mayoralty contest was held. In 1905 the total was 647,089, and last year, a presidential year, 681,739.

HUNTERS RECOVERING.

Men Marooned Four Days on Bog Getting Over Effects.

Thorwald F. Beherns, one of the young men who nearly lost their lives on a duck-hunting trip last week, when they were stranded on a floating bog for over four days without food or protection from the cold, is reported to be greatly improved at his home on West First street.

He is able to be about with the use of a crutch. His feet were badly swollen as the result of the experience.

The other man, Joseph Symington, is also getting along very nicely.

SCALP ITCHED AND BURNED FOR YEARS

Child of Four Would Scratch Her Head for Hours—When Fifteen It Got Worse—Hair Came Off in Spots—Hundreds of Dollars Spent in Vain—Cuticura Soothed Like Cold Water on a Burn and

CUTICURA REMEDIES CURED HER AT LAST

"When I was four years old a humor came out on my scalp. It would make a thick scab in one night, itching and burning terribly. My father spent many hundreds of dollars trying to find a doctor who could cure this humor, but none of them could ever help it even a little bit. At the age of fifteen years I had the measles, and after that the sore became maturated and I had to soak my hair out before I could comb it. My hair came off in spots and my head was in a bad shape.

"About this time a friend of my father suggested he try Cuticura for me. My father took this advice and bought the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them faithfully and to my surprise they stopped the itching at once, like cold water to a burn. In a week my head was clean from the scab but was very red and inflamed, but I had experienced more relief from the terrible itching and burning than ever before. I did not expect to be cured, as I thought that nothing could do that, but I had to use something all the time and Cuticura was cheaper than doctors.

"After some time, to my surprise, I awoke to the fact that my head was cured. It was as free from the disease as though I had never suffered. I am now forty-two and have never had any sign of my old trouble since I was cured. I owe health, happiness and life to Cuticura. Every one thought it was incurable. I used to dream sometimes that I was cured but thought it never could be, but Cuticura made the dream come true. Fancy a child sitting up in bed until ten or eleven o'clock scratching her head! I couldn't help it either, the itching was so terrible, night and day. It is a wonder I lived through it, but I can prove all I have written by my old neighbors. Mrs. Florence E. Ames Getchell, Box 503, Hallowell, Me., Feb. 9 and 13, 1909."

County Treasurer Kremer of Itasca Admits Having Embezzled Funds.

Alleged to Have Changed Tax Receipts, Pocketing the Difference.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Treasurer A. A. Kremer of Itasca county is a self-confessed embezzler of county funds, the total amount estimated at $15,000, and may reach $25,000. He has been removed by Governor Eberhart, and is at present out on bail, pending the outcome of a hearing before Judge Huson, that is on today.

The county board is in session today, for the purpose of appointing a successor.

Kremer confessed his shortage to Deputy Public Examiner M. F. Kaih, who has been probing the official's books. The state officer promptly had Kremer arrested, and is now in charge of the treasurer's office.

The affair has caused a sensation, and was a great surprise to all the county officials.

It is said that Kremer's method of operating was to mark the wrong totals in duplicate tax receipts. When several items on a tax receipt totaled a certain amount he would make the duplicate $100, or in some instances $500, less than the original, charging himself only with the reduced tax receipt, then depositing the balance to his credit. He is said to have started with only $100 at a time, and then to have withheld as much as $2,500 at a time. This has been going on for some time, and as soon as the deputy public examiner discovered the discrepancy he confronted Kremer with his wrongdoing, and the latter, breaking down, confessed. He has made restitution of $6,200. The total of his embezzlement will not be known until the state official has completed his report. Whether Kremer will put up a defense or plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the court remains to be seen.

Wanders Into Pool at Eveleth, But Is Pulled Out.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The municipal courtroom chambers presented a busy appearance yesterday morning, as a result of a large gathering of disorderly characters.

John Stanchel, Henry Vinnello, Joe Botano, Mike Scott and Isaac Pale were each fined $10 and costs. One of the incidents from an over-indulgence in liquor was the wading in the water on Grant avenue, Sunday evening, during the rain storm. The man was rescued from his pitiable position by a policeman and sent home in safe hands.

Sucks Germs From Body; Cures Disease

Astounding Effect of Robinson Thermal Bath on Many Diseases.

Prominent Physicians Indorse Remarkable "Life-Saver."

During the last few years there has been a tremendous "change of heart" among physicians in the treatment of diseases by means of drugs. In all parts of the country prominent physicians have been advising the use of hot-air baths, commonly called Robinson Thermal or Turkish Baths, with results little short of astounding.

Such men as Dr. Benjamin W. Richardson, Dr. Erasmus Wilson and Sir Edwin Chadwick, one of the world's foremost sanitarians, fully indorse the Thermal Bath.

One of England's greatest authorities on hygiene says the surface of the whole body is covered with 7,000,000 tubes or pores, each about a quarter of an inch long, and if stretched out, end to end, would extend nearly 28 miles. This immense drainage system is designed by Nature to relieve the body of its vicious secretions. When these pores are obstructed, a deposit is formed at the mouth of each pore which tends to paralyze the healthy action of the skin and sow the seeds of disease.

Drugs do not eliminate the clogged-up poisons from the system; they have to fight myriads of germs, the battle is too unequal and the germs rout the drug instead of the drug routing the germs.

The Robinson Thermal Bath extracts poisons from the pores almost as a liquid is sucked up through a straw; the poison is extracted and the cause of disease disappears.

The effect of the Robinson Thermal Bath on rheumatism, lumbago, kidney and blood troubles, dyspepsia, throat and lung trouble, nervous prostration, insomnia, eczema and all skin troubles, bad colds, neuralgia and constipation are simply surprising.

Robinson's Thermal baths can now be taken at home at a cost of but a few cents each, and with almost no trouble at all.

The results are a real Godsend. If you are sick from any cause, it will have an almost miraculous effect upon your system. If you are well, it will keep you so.

The Robinson Thermal Bath Cabinets are a remarkable invention. They are now on exhibition and for sale in Duluth at A. E. Swedberg, White Swan Drug Co., L. P. Mattix (2 stores), W. A. Abbett (3 stores), A. C. Le Richieux (3 stores), A. J. Lindgren, West Duluth, and in Superior, Wis., at the Holmberg Drug Co., H. J. Cameron, and Red Cross Pharmacy.

Go and see them, examine them. Also ask for that wonderfully instructive book, "The Philosophy of Health and Beauty." Its price is $2.00, but it is now being given away free for only a limited time.

If you cannot go and see these Robinson cabinets, send your name and address to the Robinson Manufacturing Company, Suite 16, Snowflake Bldg., Toledo, Ohio, for full illustrated information, free.

NASHWAUK BOY WOUNDS SELF

Fires Bullet Into His Head From Rifle While Hunting.

Nashwauk, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bennie Smith, aged 12, is at his home in a critical condition from a self inflicted bullet wound just above the right eye.

The injury was the result of an accident, according to three other boys who were with him when the injury was sustained.

Young Smith and the other boys went into the woods hunting Sunday. They started for McCarthy lake, four miles from here, carrying small caliber rifles.

The Smith boy while laying down resting is said to have been playing with his rifle, a .32-caliber affair, and was pulling it toward him, muzzle first, when the weapon went off, the bullet entering his head just below the right eye.

A woodsman attracted by the shouts of the other boys hastened to the scene and carried young Smith home. He was in an unconscious condition, but a physician says that perhaps the bullet did not penetrate the skull and he may possibly survive.

Bovey, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The beautiful weather ended Sunday night when a high wind began blowing, and on toward yesterday morning began raining, which turned to to snow. The wind is still blowing at a high rate and it is also snowing.

TO START ST. JAMES

Reported Corrigan-McKinney Company Will Work the Aurora Mine.

Will Employ 300 Men and Mean Much for Range Village.

Aurora, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a well-defined rumor current in this village that the Corrigan-McKinney company of Cleveland will resume operations at its St. James mine here, commencing about Jan. 1, 1910.

The company also owns the St. Paul mine at Hibbing, and it is stated in the rumor that this property will also be put in the active list. The St. James mine has been idle since September, 1907, and never has reached a productive state. Over $1,000.000 was put into the development of the mine and the building of a location covering several blocks in the village, and then the property was suddenly shut down. It is stated that the top ore is of a low quality with a high grade underneath, and that the shutting down of the property was due to a misunderstanding between the company and the fe owners, the company desiring to mine the high-grade ore first, owing to the low market price at that time for ore. Now that ore has advanced in price, the rumor has it that the mine will resume operations. Another argument in favor of the mine working again is that the Corrigan-McKinney properties in Michigan are running out.

If the mine does start, it will mean a great item to Aurora. About 300 men will be employed at the start, and more added as the mine develops. Most all of the thirty families now occupying the St. James houses will have to move, and this will mean the erection of a number of residences.

Other Mines All Busy.

The other mines in this vicinity, the McKinley, Miller, Fowler, Meadow, Adriatic, Knox and Syracuse, are all pushing the ore business, and many cars are being shipped each day. The Miller mine has its large stock pile all shipped and is loading from both the stock pile and shaft. Orders are expected at the Meadow and Fowler soon to begin shipping again. The new open pit mine, the Perkins, is shipping ore every day, and at the Hudson mine, the Pickands-Mather property being stripped by McArthur Bros., the work is pushed both night and day.

TWO HARBORS WILL REGULATE SALOONS.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night passed an ordinance placing stricter regulations on the saloons. These have to do with the hours of closing, and regulating the fixing of curtains on windows and the maintenance of exits and side doors.

STRUCK BY TRAIN, NOT BADLY HURT.

Two Harbors, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Moen, single, aged 25, was found lying beside the Waldo line in an upconscious condition yesterday afternoon with a wound on his head indicating he had been hit by a car or had fallen from a train. He was taken to the Budd hospital, where he soon regained consciousness and was able to walk home.

Improving Eveleth High School.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Improvements on the high school interior continue, the latest being the installation of blackboards in all recitation rooms by E. C. Field & Co. of Duluth, who have a force of men now at work. The blackboards in the upper grade rooms have already been installed, and are proving a great convenience to the teachers and pupils.

In the manual training department two motors have been installed and the lathe machinery will be used by the juniors and seniors when connected with electricity.

Wireless Cure For Rheumatism

Electric Current From Electropodes Proves An Astonishing Remedy For Rheumatism and Other Diseases.

Now Within Reach of Every Sufferer.

You hear no click, you feel no current, yet with increasing power a gentle healing, soothing, restoring current is sent into every fibre, nerve, vessel and organ of the body by means of a remarkable new discovery called Electropodes.

Proofs of the results of Electropodes, in cases of rheumatism especially, and of nervous afflictions and organic diseases, have caused a transformation in scientific theories. Electropodes are different from any other electric appliance, since they create no current except while they are actually in service. The current generated has been found to have an astonishing effect on blood impurities and the kidneys, thus being a quick remedy for rheumatism as well as lumbago, back pains, kidney troubles, stomach and liver complaints, nervous prostration, weak nerves, headaches and weak backs.

Electropodes in appearance are peculiar metallic insoles so placed in the heel and arch of the shoes as to be unnoticeable to the wearer. They never cause discomfort. No medicines or temporary drug stimulants are used or needed. Right from the start the system undergoes complete, healthy, change by means of this electropodic current. So remarkable are the results of these Electropodes that they are now being sold under a legal binding signed contract with each purchaser to give quick relief and entire satisfaction. They are sold now at all drug stores at only $1.00 a pair and the druggist signs a contract that if they are not absolutely satisfied with the results of Electropodes at the end of a full 30 days your money will be refunded.

Thus every man and woman can now test the wonders of Electropodes without risk. If your druggist does not have Electropodes on hand, we suggest that you send $1.00 to The Electropode Company, Suite 57, Holland Block, Lima, Ohio, and you will get a pair of Electropodes by return mail, together with our signed contract, binding themselves to satisfy you before 30 days are over, or positively refund your money. Say whether for lady or gentleman. Get a pair of Electropodes today, and get rid of rheumatism or other trouble at once.

It is not known what the quarrel arose over, but it is said that the son was under the influence of liquor at the time and that he attacked his father. Getto reached for his shotgun and fired, filling the son's right arm and side full of the shot. The son recently came from New York city. WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA.

They Clog the Pores—Only a Liquid Can Reach the Inner Skin.

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and can not penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the only standard liquid eczema cure, oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription. After ten years of cure after cure, the world's leading skin specialists have actepted this as the true eczema cure.

We ourselves do not hesitate to recommend D. D. D. Prescription at $1.00 a bottle, but for the benefit of those who have never tried the prescription, we arranged with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special large trial bottle at 25 cents on special offer now. This first bottle ought to convince every sufferer, and, at any rate, it will surely take away the itch at once.

$505,978; bills payable, $5,000; total, $667,702.

First Report too Low.

The first indications were that the loss would reach only $90,000. The figures of the discrepancy then began to grow. Soon the amount was increased by $20,000, and the next and last amount reported to Washington swelled the loss to $128,000. The losses on other paper in the bank subsequently discovered probably accounts for the difference between this amount and the $210,000 of alleged shortage announced in the press reports.

S. Calvert Spensley is president of the bank. He expressed to the bank examiner confidence in his ability to carry the bank through its troubles. The bank officials sought cash to place to the credit of the bank and succeeded in obtaining a small amount. President Spensley decided that he could raise $100,000 in cash within six days, but he evidently was unable to negotiate that amount on the bank's credit, and this morning Examiner Goodhart reported by telegraph that the bank had been closed.

Schofield In Charge.

John W. Schofield was immediately appointed by Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane to take charge of the bank's affairs, and he left today for Mineral Point. He is employed in the comptroller's office and is a veteran in receivership matters. He has been more recently the receiver of the First National Bank of Manasquan, N. J., the First National Bank of Brooklyn, N. Y., the American Exchange National Bank of Syracuse, N. Y., the First National Bank of Doylestown, Pa., and the First National Bank of Asbury Park, N. J.

F. E. Hanscom is the bank's cashier. The directorate comprises President Spensley, Vice President Phillip Allen, Jr., and James Brewer, W. P. Gundey, Fred Vivian, R. J. Penhallegon and B. L. Gray.

The last statement of the resources and liabilities of the bank as shown by its report of condition rendered to the comptroller on Sept. 1 disclosed no unusual conditions on its face.

Capital is $100,000.

The capital stock was $100,000; its surpulus $20,000, and undivided profits $11,724. The bank had out $25,000 in circulation, secured by $51,393 in United States and other bonds. There were $505,978 in deposits and $5,000 of outstanding bills payable. This made total liabilities of $667,702.

Of the same total amount of resources, all except the $51,393 of United States and other bonds are available for the debts of the institution. Besides the bonds, the resources comprised loans and discounts of $486,175; banking house and other real estate, $37,458; amount due from other banks, $48,206, and csah items, $44,470.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Let our object be our country, our whole country, and nothing but our country. And, by the blessing of God, may that country itself become a vast and splendid monument, not of oppression and terror, but of wisdom, of peace and of liberty, upon which the world may gaze with admiration forever.
—Daniel Webster.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH!"

What the individual citizen of Duluth can do for Duluth by buying Duluth-made goods in preference to goods made elsewhere may seem small to him, and what one individual can do, or what one family can do, is small in itself. But what all the people together can do, if they will all take up this campaign and insist upon buying goods made in Duluth, is not small by any means; it is, in fact, tremendous.

Suppose there is an industry in Duluth producing an article of which Duluth consumes annually an amount equivalent to $1,000,000 in labor cost of manufacture. There are many such articles, and many of them involve a labor cost of manufacture much greater than that. Suppose that the Duluth manufacturers now sell enough in Duluth to amount to $60,000 a year in labor cost, which is divided among 100 workmen getting the low pay of $600 a year. That means, on the average, 500 inhabitants, reckoning five to the family.

But $940,000 in wages, each year, is going outside the city because Duluth people haven't thought to insist upon getting the Duluth-made article.

Now suppose everybody in Duluth who uses that article made up his mind to buy that made in Duluth, and to buy no more made out of town. The whole of that $1,000,000 would go to Duluth labor. That would mean that at the rate of $600 a year, wages would be provided for 1,566 workers. That, at five to the family, would mean an addition of 7,830 to the population; nearly 8,000 more people to be housed, clothed and fed; nearly a million dollars a year to be spent with Duluth grocers and butchers and drygoods stores and shoe stores and milliners and clothiers and doctors and lawyers and ministers and bankers and theaters and department stores and candy stores and book stores and real estate dealers and home-builders and home-renters.

That is what would happen in one industry, and not a very large industry, either.

Every dollar that is spent on goods made in other cities that could have been bought from Duluth factories employing Duluth citizens, is sent to build up those other cities when it should have been kept to build up Duluth.

Every dollar that is spent on goods made in Duluth goes to build up a Duluth industry, to pay Duluth wage-earners, to maintain the pay-roll foundations that support Duluth.

If patronage of home industries doubles the force of a Duluth factory employing 100 men, it is just as good as getting in a new industry that employs 100 men. While seeking to attract new industries, therefore, Duluth has a work to do to provide wages and profits for those already here. If those already here do well and begin doing better, it will be easier to get others.

It is just as easy to buy Duluth-made goods as it is to buy goods made in Oshkosh or Milwaukee or St. Paul or Superior or Springfield or any other community. There is no reason why they shouldn't be just as good; maybe they are better; certainly, when these other communities have to pay freight rates to get their goods here, they ought to be just as cheap.

Buy Duluth-made goods. DO IT FOR DULUTH!

PAYING FOR WASTE.

In one of his Western speeches President Taft said that he would ask congress to appropriate $10,000,000 to be used in planting trees to take the place of those that have been destroyed.

This will be a good and wise expenditure. Forests once thought inexhaustible are desolate places of stumps and charred trunks and tangled second growth. Timber, once believed to be sufficient for all time to come, is so scarce that its cost is heavy, and, thanks to the greed of a lumber trust, grows steadily dearer. The people, to whom these riches belonged, got little out of them. They were sold for beggarly sums, and much of them were stolen. Many a princely fortune is based upon the purchase of a few acres and the devastation of many acres adjoining.

The government having carelessly permitted this people's wealth to escape, it is proper that the government should try to restore it. Coal and iron and copper will not grow again, but timber will; and the government, to atone for its heedlessness, to make reparation for its long slumber at the doorway of the people's treasury which it should have guarded, may well do what it can to grow again the timber that is gone.

The president is being criticized, however, for asking the government to replace timber stolen by greedy individuals. The Chicago Journal says that the plan is one "to tax the plain people $10,000,000 to replant forests laid waste by greedy lumber barons in haste to garner vast unearned profits through their tariff privilege. The American people pay a special tax to the lumber kings to destroy our forests and another special tax to plant new trees." And the Indianapolis News adds this comment: "This, of course, is quite in line with our general policy. We talk about conserving natural resources, and are very anxious lest our coal and ore beds fall under the control of monopolists, and yet by 'protecting' coal and ore we put a premium on the exhaustion of these deposits. We tax the trees off the face of the earth and then propose to tax them back again into life."

Through the open stable door, beside which a recreant government slumbered peacefully, thieves have taken the people's horses; and nothing remains but a few pitiful broken-down nags which the thieves didn't care about.

But that isn't any reason why, if we can do it, more horses shall not be bought and bred and put into the national stable. That is what the $10,000,000 tax for tree-planting purposes will do, and the president is right in advocating it.

Only we wish he would at the same time advocate, with equal earnestness, a more effective guardianship of the stable door. The people are not going to be greatly interested in putting new horses in the stable if the government is going to settle down for another nap and let the thieves of Special Privilege break in again and steal.

This country needs something more than new horses in the stable of natural wealth. It needs more effective guardianship at the stable door. And thus far in his administration, we greatly regret to say, President Taft has shown more interest in having a well-stocked stable to attract thieves than he has in effective guardianship of the stable door.

RECRIMINATION WON'T HELP.

The communication in The Herald last evening signed "The Commission Man," bearing on the campaign for a lower cost of living in Duluth, betrayed evidences of heat over the fact that the Duluth Real Estate exchange had reflected upon the manner in whch commission row is caring for the consumers in Duluth.

The heat is perhaps not unnatural, since it is the tendency of mankind to respond angrily when accused, even if accused truthfully. The only object The Herald has in referring to it is to remark, in passing, that heat without light isn't going to get Duluth ahead any. The cause of Duluth is the cause of all its people, and the prosperity of all its people is essential to the well-being of Duluth. There are great problems to attack and a great work to do, and these problems are not to be solved, nor is this work to be done, by angry debate. The commission man is not guiltless, it is clear in view of the complaints by both consumer and producer; that the real estate man is not guiltless either is made clear by the complaints of high rents. Both have been working for themselves; everybody has been working for himself: what is needed is not mutual reproaches and bitter exchange of criminations, but a lot of good work for the public good.

Nothing is to be gained by stopping to quarrel at the very outset of the campaign to bring Duluth into its own. Let the dead past bury its dead. Let the hopeful eye be set upon the future, and let every hand be raised—not against a fellow citizen, but against the conditions that have hampered Duluth.

THE FOLLY OF SHIP SUBSIDIES.

This country killed its ocean marine by erecting a formidable tariff wall against foreign shipbuilding material and ships. Seeking to protect its shipbuilding industry, it killed its shipping industry.

Now it is proposed to revive the merchant marine, not by removing the handicaps that killed it, but by taxing the people to provide its profits. The handicaps are to remain, and they, too, are taxes which the people have to pay. In addition they must pay taxes to go directly to ship-owners, in order that they may have profits.

How absurd this is may be appreciated by a glance at the situation from a foreign and disinterested viewpoint. Says the London Times: "The revolution in shipbuilding came at the worst possible time for the United States. After the Civil war they had to set about rebuilding of metal their fleets of merchantmen. Of wood they had a limitless supply; but the price of domestic iron and, indeed, of labor, was steadily increased by artificial means until now, at a conservative estimate, a ship costs from 30 to 50 per cent more to build in America than in England."

In that fact, which cannot be denied, lies the cause for the prostrate condition of the American merchant marine. Our protective tariff has made the cost of metal ships so great that it is absurd to think of their competing with the free ships of England, which cost little more than half as much; and instead of providing for free ships, such as England has, the powers of Special Privilege in the government demand that the people be taxed to provide profits for ships built out of tariff-subsidized materials.

"The fact that American ship-builders and owners are unable to compete on anything like equal terms with their rivals has not, moreover, softened the heart of congress," continues the London Times. "The greater their disabilities the greater the subsidy which the various lines would require to be run at a profit; and the greater the subsidy demanded the less likely is congress to grant it." This doubt about the action of congress is hardly warranted; indeed, it is altogether probable that unless the people raise an effective voice against it, congress will pass a ship subsidy bill this winter, and President Taft will certainly sign it.

"It is quite likely that the American overseas carrying trade," says the Times, "will have to wait for its renascence until the fundamental causes of its steady decay have been removed: until the navigation laws have been brought up to date; or until steel and the other materials of which ships are made have been put upon the free list. Of these, perhaps, the second contingency is the less remote." Both are remote, however, in view of the abject submission of the government to the pernicious subsidy habit.

What is needed is not more taxes, but less taxes; not subsidized ships, but free ships.

"The robins are going south," said The Herald's local columns last night. Wise robins!

Payrolls are the foundation of a city. Buy Duluth-made products, and let your money go into the foundation of Duluth.

Said Lincoln: "When we buy at home, we have both the money and the goods; when we buy abroad, we have the goods but we no longer have the money." Buy Duluth-made goods, and have both goods and money.

Capt. Bernier has returned with the claim that some of his party negotiated the Northwest passage. When he hears that Amundsen beat him to it the captain, to be in good form, must promptly proclaim that Amundsen is a liar.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective however.)

"DO IT FOR DULUTH."

To the Editor of Tthe Herald:

I want to compliment The Herald on its "Do It For Duluth" campaign. It is time the people of Duluth awakened to the fact that the manufactories of their own city deserve their support. The man who buys Duluth goods does a service to the community and at the same time does no injury to himself; every article made in Duluth and purchased in Duluth means the employment of labor and the expenditure of money in the city; goods made in Duluth are fully as good in quality and style as those made elsewhere.

The popular fallacy that home manufactured goods are inferior to those manufactured elsewhere, is just as strong in Duluth as in the veriest jay town where every man regards his neighbor with suspicion. People would rather pay a little more for articles manufactured outside of Duluth, for they implicitly believe that manufacturers in other cities beneficiently rob themselves to furnish the public with goods of superior quality at ridiculously low prices. At the same time they go on believing that Duluth manufacturers lie awake nights trying to think up schemes of cheapening their product that they may squeeze a cent more profit out of every sale. It is human nature the world over.

The retailer can do more for Duluth in the way of supporting home industries than can the consumer. If the retailer has home-made articles on his shelves the consumers will buy them. Of course if the consumers ask for home manufactured goods, the retailer will be forced to carry them in stock, so that really the rule works both ways.

But here I want to say a word about the retailers. If they know the consumers, whose trade they think they should have, are going out of the city to buy their goods, they will send up a wail that can be heard in the farthest outskirts of the city. "We pay taxes," they say. "We subscribe to public enterprises. We boost for Duluth all the time and if other people are going to boost for Duluth, they should support Duluth business houses. The mail order houses do nothing for Duluth. Their prices are just as high as ours and you pay freight or express in addition to their prices. Buy in Duluth, see what you are getting, and help in the upbuilding of your city."

Yet the retailers often violate the rule that they themselves lay down for the upbuilding of the city. The majority of the retailers of Duluth ignore the fact that there are manufactories here. They go ouside for their goods and even pass by the Duluth jobbing houses that do business all over the Northwest with merchants. I venture to say that many Duluth jobbing houses that cover an extensive territory sell more goods in Spokane, Seattle or far away Alaska than they do in Duluth.

There's something wrong with human nature. Retailers, who could buy exactly the same class of goods at exactly the same price in Duluth go to the Twin Cities, Chicago or Milwaukee, pay the price and pay the additional freight charges.

Duluth peop'e will do well to remember those facts when buying at Duluth stores. Ask for Duluth-made goods and the retailers will soon see that it will be to their interests to carry them. An increase in the consumption of Duluth-manufactured articles means more men employed, more homes established, a greater and more prosperous city. With The Herald I heartily say "Do it for Duluth!" —A JOBBER.

The Squabble for the Pole.

Gilbert K. Chesterton in Illustrated London News: The North Pole in my youth used to be a serious subject; it was associated with great sea heroes and the heroic age of science, with Tennyson's tribute to Franklin in Westminster abbey. At this moment the North Pole is as grotesque as the greasy pole. It is being fought for with frantic gesticulations by comic Americans. The quarrel itself and the slanging, self-advertising style in which it is conducted tall so far below the old polar idealism that the actual discovery of the pole seems not so much a climax as an anti-climax. As to which of them has really done it I have no opinion, nor even any preference.

Cook did it in the presence of two Eskimos, Peary in the presence of one Eskimo; but if they had done it in the presence of a million Eskimos, such people could give no evidence as to whether it was the North Pole. It is as if Babbage had proved his calculating machine to the satisfaction of a tribe of Hottentots, or Newton had demonstrated the Calculi without any refutation from the infant school.

In fact, the noise of the discussion seems a singular contrast to the stillness and secrecy of the discovery. Both those distinguished Americans seem to have gone on tiptoe, as it were—more as if they wanted to hide the North Pole than to find it. If ever there was a man who on all artistic principles ought to have found the North Pole it was Nansen. He was tall enough to be the North Pole—to be left there as a gigantic trophy and a beacon to ships. But it seems as if something rules human affairs which prefers (as the children do) to have a harlequinade after the most exquisite fairy play—something that likes King Arthur to turn into a pantaloon, and Sir Lancelot into a policeman. I think it is wholesome; it keeps us from seriousness, which is idolatry.

John A. Johnson.

San Francisco Argonaut: Mr. Johnson himself was the first man of pure Swedish ancestry who has ever risen among us to a distinction high enough to be thought of in connection with the presidency, and it is interesting to note that those instincts and propensities which may in him be classed as hereditary precisely joined and fitted in to the scheme of American political life. In the bent of his mind and spirit he illustrated the affinities which exist between the north European and the American minds. At a time when one of the distinct dangers of American politics is the spawn of the low-bred European, lacking the discipline of their peasant fathers on the one hand and the instinct of political responsibility on the other, this son of a Swedish peasant appeared among us as fixed in the American spirit, as positive in his American instincts and propensities, as any son of New England or the old Dominion.

THE WEATHER.

Yesterday and today sent the oxfords to the attic and the B. V. D.'s to the bottom of the trunk. When these playful little zephyrs begin trilling with exposed ankles and that wide area between the top of the sox and the nether end of the knee garments it is time to ditch the "plenty of fresh air" theories and hunt cover in the shape of fleece-lined. You can't argue with a northwest blizzard, even if it comes in October.

The weather man looks for more snow tonight, with little moderation in temperature.

A year ago today it was fair and warm.

The sun rose this morning at 6:22, and will set this afternoon at 5:27, making eleven hours and five minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Storms of great intensity are central off the Florida coast and over Lake Superior. Rain has fallen over Atlantic states, Central valleys and eastern lake region, and snow over the western lake region and the Northwest. The northwest gale is still confined to Western Lake Superior. A high pressure area that overlies the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains has caused freezing weather in all districts north of and including Kansas, Missouri, New Mexico and Idaho. Temperatures varying from 6 to 8 degs. above zero occurred this morning in Eastern Alberta. The present cold snap will continue at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

A EUROPEAN VIEW.

London Times: Even in America, where careers are made and marred with a rapidity sometimes bewildering to observers abroad, few men have of late years achieved national prominence more quickly than Governor Johnson. In 1904 he was unknown without the limits of his own state. Four years later he had made his mark as an administrator of a type peculiarly needed in the United States of today. Thrice elected Democratic governor of a Republican state, he conducted its affairs up to the time of his death with a sanity of judgment which was seldom at fault.

The early years of John A. Johnson were hardly less bleak and squalid than those of Lincoln. He was born in St. Peter, in the state of Minnesota, in 1861, of Swedish parents. His father was the local blacksmith, and ended his days in the county poorhouse, a prey to alcoholic dementia. At 13 the future governor was forced to leave school in order to support his mother. By the time he was 26 he had tried his hand at a variety of employments, and had earned the reputation of a sober, likeable and law-abiding citizen. More important still, he had succeeded in giving himself in his spare hours an education far above the average for his station. Thus it was that when he was suddenly offered the editorship of a Democratic journal at St. Peter he was equal to his task. The venture succeeded and Mr. Johnson became one of the leaders of his community. It was not until 1898, however, that he actually entered politics. His position in St. Peter was by then such that, though normally Republican, the district sent him to the state senate as a Democratic member.

Mr. Johnson retained his seat in the senate for four years; but in 1902 he was defeated by a small majority when he presented himself for re-election—a fact which left him free to accept the governorship of the state when the opportunity occurred.

In 1904 the Democrats profited by the unpopularity of the corporate interests and by divisions in the Republican ranks, to nominate Mr. Johnson as their candidate for governor. The people approved the choice, and he was elected by voters of whom the vast majority at the same time helped to return Mr. Roosevelt to the White House.

The position to which he was raised in 1904 Governor Johnson held with ever-increasing popularity until his death. The secret of his success was simple. Confronted with a politically hostile legislature he never used his executive power for party purposes. The only pressure which he exerted was that of the persuasive eloquence of his speeches and official messages; for the rest he relied mainly upon a policy which proved eminently successful, of appointing the best men he could find, without regard for precedent or party ties, to the posts which he had at his disposal.

In person, Mr. Johnson was a typical Westerner, tall, loose-limbed, clean-shaven, and strong in feature and physique. He was, indeed, typical of much that is best in American civilization. He had tasted to the dregs the cup of poverty and obscurity, and in his success he retained the good sense, the simplicity, the directness of purpose, and the pureness of ideals and associations that had raised him to his high position. Had he lived he would have made an ideal leader on the political field, and his death will be mourned by those who can appreciate an honest opponent as much as by those who looked up to him as their chief.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

Greenbush Tribune: Bishop McGolrick of the Roman Catholic diocese of Duluth is planning to induce workers in congested cities to settle upon the soil, and plans to help them to locations on good land in Minnesota. The idea is to divide a large area in Northern Minnesota among city workers who can be induced to make the change, giving them easy and comfortable terms and helping them in every legitimate way to make a start. This practical Christianity might be taken up by other denominations.

Winona Independent: An optimist is a Republican who thinks the Democratic minority in the next house will be smaller than it is in the present congress.

Chisholm Tribune: Among the possible Democratic candidates for governor, the political writer of the Minneapolis Tribune mentions Andrew Nelson of Duluth and makes the statement that Mr. Nelson's friends believe that he would be a second John A. Johnson. It has been our pleasure to know Mr. Nelson for many years, and we believe that the Democrats could make no better choice. Like Johnson he is a native Minnesotan and a self-made man and an untiring worker. He is an excellent orator and entirely removed from the class of professional politicians. In the Eighth district his backing would be solid and he would have the support of many Republican newspapers throughout the state.

Hendrum Review: The addition of another $20,000,000 to the valuation of the iron mines in the state is bringing that class of property up towards the level of other classes in the paying of state taxes, and will result in lessening the demand for tonnage tax.

Hibbing Tribune: The people of this country like a statesman who is not afraid to speak above a whisper, which is just exactly the reason they like Theodore Roosevelt so much. Mr. Roosevelt was never afraid to say right out loud what he intended to do, and he said it so loudly and so unequivocally that there was never any doubt in the minds of people generally as to what he meant to do. Even when he intended to do things that were apparently unpopular, he spoke right up concerning his intentions and gave his purposes and his reasons in plain, vigorous English. The people of this country like that kind of frankness, and the inclination of the populace in this respect is commended to the consideration of statesmen of the present moment.

Albert Lea Standard: The Aldrich-Payne tariff law puts a duty of 25 cents per bushel on wheat, as "protection" to the farmers and yet wheat, freight rates considered, is as high in Winnipeg as it is in Duluth or Chicago. Is any farmer really fooled by the thin game? It is the same also as to barley and other farm products and a duty is only imposed to pull the wool over farmers' eyes and make them believe that they are dealing with the manufacturers, trusts and monopolies are sharing in the tariff bonuses that are filched from the masses of consumers.

Le Sueur News: Several allusions have lately appeared to "mugwump papers." We do not fully understand the term. If by it is meant a paper that will swallow the Winona Taft pill, and one which will also repudiate Senators Nelson and Clapp and eight Minnesota congressmen, then we know full well what is meant and believe there are many such in the state. The days of the "party organ" are past. The people desire free speech and a free press. The publisher, if he knows anything, realizes that publishing a paper is a business venture. He will profit if it wins and lose if it fails. In these days of free thinking and acting a paper representing the people is the kind that wins whether it is a "mugwump" or a "rat."

"Punkin Time."

Used to love the roses,
Blossomin' so fair,
Beauty on the bushes
An' perfume in the air.
How our tastes keep changin'!
June seemed all sublime.
Now we're just as happy
'Cause it's punkin time!

Every passin' season
Brings its share of glee;
'Twin't no use o' pinin'
Fur what used to be.
Apples in the orchard,
Purple grapes that climb
Up to kiss the sunlight—
This is punkin time!

Gold up in the maple
An' gold upon the ground!
Nature leaves the nuggets
Jes' a-lyin' round!
An' the world seems movin'
To a merry chime,
Happy an' contented
'Cause it's punkin time!

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Kansas City Journal: "Do you think you could learn to love me?"

"Well, I don't know. You might give me a sample lesson."

Detroit Free Press: "Her husband is very good to her."

"Is that so?"

"Yes. He does everything to please her, even to talking back when she's looking for an argument."

Washington Star: "Is the food absolutely pure?" asked the timorous man.

"Yes," answered the dealer, heartily. "The benzoate of soda we use is guaranteed not to be in any way adulterated."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "Rubber playing cards. Great invention!"

"What good are they?"

"Bathers needn't lose time from the whist table. Can get a board and play bridge in the surf."

Tit-Bits: Fred—Yes, the old gentleman will soon have another wife to support.

Henry—What? You don't mean to tell me he is going to marry another wife while your mother is alive?"

"No; I am going to get married."

Philadelphia Ledger: "Can you tell me the record made in the automobile race?"

"You're on the wrong 'phone. This is the sporting editor. Call up the obituary department."

London Punch: "Half a sov. for you if you get me to King's Cross in six minutes."

"It ain't no use, captain; you may bribe me, but you can't corrupt the old 'oss."

Penny Pictorial: Shopkeeper (to commercial traveler)—Can't give you an order. Quite overstocked.

Traveler—Let me at least show you my samples.

Shopkeeper—Spare yourself the trouble. I can't look at them.

Traveler—Then will you allow me to look at them myself? It is three weeks since I have seen them.

Houston Post: "Do you think I can stand an operation, doctor?"

"You know your financial condition better than I do."

Everybody's: "Say," a boy yelled in to the proprietor of a store in a prohibition town, "the express agent says for you to send down for that package of Daily Trifumes right away, 'cause they're leakin'."

Pittsburg Post: "My dear."

"What is it, hubby?"

"I wish you would drop around at the market today and inspect a steak that I hold an option on. Then, if you like it, call at my office and we'll sign the transfer papers."

Puck: Library Assistant (to visitor, who is wandering about in a puzzled manner)—Can I help you? Are you looking for anything special?

Visitor (absently)—No, thank you; I was only looking for my wife.

Duluth Prices—An Instance.

Deer River News: In the investigation of high cost of living now going on in Duluth the commission merchants there say they have to buy goods they are not making more than decent profit. They say producers will not sell to them, but ship to St. Paul, and Duluth has to buy from the St. Paul men and thus pay the extra middleman's profit and extra freight.

But, when Duluth's commission skinners do get a chance to buy from a nearby producer—and there are quite a number of such chances—they never fail to skin the producer, and always forget to drop off that extra profit, as is shown by the following instance:

Last year a Deer River merchant bought a carload of rutabagas from a farmer who had no other means to pay his bill, paying 35 cents per bushel. The amount was more than the dealer could dispose of in local trade and he sought to dispose of them to the Duluth wholesale houses. 90 cents per bushel, dellvered, was the best he could get. This the dealer was satisfied with, but the Duluth commission house sold the same goods at its track next day for $1.75 a bushel. From deals of this kind now being unearthed Duluth is finding out that her dealers have not been starving to death.

Grand Opening Sale of Monarch Maleable Ranges

Monarch MALLEABLE The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

Monday morning, at 8 o'clock, we placed on sale our entire line of Monarch Malleable Ranges, the best range in the world. We have just received a carload of these famous ranges and they will be demonstrated by a representative from the factory.

Whether you intend to buy now or later, it will more than pay you to attend this great demonstration, and see for yourself why the Monarch is superior to all other ranges.

Your Old Stove Taken in Part Payment on a Monarch.

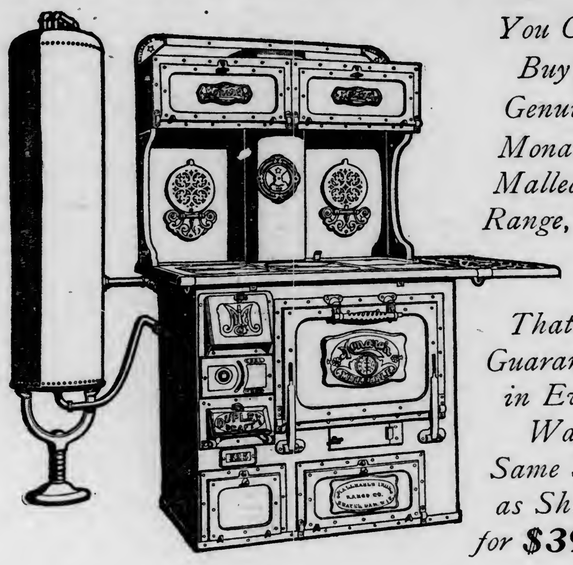

Monarch MALLEABLE The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

There is an enormous difference in ranges. They are not all built alike of the same kinds of iron and steel. To see a Monarch is to realize this. Common gray iron would not stand the ringing blows of the heavy hammer that drive home and set the hundreds of rivets in a MONARCH RANGE.

It is only reasonable that an air-tight range should save fuel. The oven seams are tight—no air leaks into the flues to cool off the currents of heat passing around the oven. Firebox and draft seams are tight. The fire can be controlled perfectly. It don't burn out at night as if the drafts had been left open.

LYCEUM—"King Dodo."
BIJOU—New vaudeville bill.

OLD FAVORITE STILL PLEASES

"King Dodo" Presented By Capable Company at Lyceum.

"It will make a Duluth man forget all about commission row and the high rents," said Charles J. Udell last night in his capacity of prime minister to Queen Lili of Spoopju Land, when he was telling "The Eminent Dr. Fizz" of the wonderful properties of the spring of eternal youth, and the quip, as did many others both before and after that one, got quick recognition from the audience that braved the wintry weather to see one more performance of "King Dodo."

Theatergoers are inclined to be wary of a musical comedy after it has passed its third year, and as "King Dodo" is getting well toward the age of discretion that wariness may have had quite as much affect on the attendance at the Lyceum last night as the weather. However, those who went were given a pleasant evening, for the old Pixley and Luders lines and music have been handled with discretion, and while there is no change in the story or in the essential parts of the dialogue or songs, the topical features have been revised to bring them down to date; the predictions of good scenery and costuming were fully verified; and there was plenty of dash and go about the work of the chorus, as well as vitality to burn in the cases of the most of those whose parts brought them down center.

William Friend as King Dodo has a hard proposition on his hands whenever he faces an audience which has seen Hitchcock in that role, but he puts plenty of energy into the part, and with the exception that the sudden blizzard seemed to have struck him in the voice, his performance was not open to serious criticism. The same vocal difficulty seemed to have fallen to the lot of William Herman West, who appeared as Dr. Fizz, court physician to his majesty, and Charles J. Udell, who doubled in the parts of Mudge the historian and Bonilla also was unable to get his singing voice over the footlights to the degree that the audience had a right to expect.

With Eleanor Kent, who appeared in the role of Piola, it was entirely different. Although she appeared in four numbers as soloist with and without the chorus and once in a duet with Louise Mink, who played the part of Angela, the audience seemed unable to hear enough of Miss Kent's singing and generous encores fell to her share. Miss Mink's singing also made a hit and her dancing and that of Zoe Barnett, who appeared as Annette, were easily entitled to spotlight recognition.

There is nothing new in the King Dodo songs, but some of them made decidedly good with the audience last night, notably "I'll Do or Die," "Two Hearts Made One," "Diana," "The Lad Who Leads," and "True as the Stars Above." The chorus singing and dancing were above the average seen here so far this season, and the chorus, though perhaps lacking somewhat in numbers, was good to look at.

King Dodo will be at the Lyceum for another performance this evening.

SNAPPY BILL AT THE BIJOU

Varied List of Attractions at the Popular Vaudeville House.

One of the brightest shows of the current season pleased a large Monday night audience at the Bijou. There is not a weak number on the bill, while several of the offerings are above the average of those seen in the best vaudeville houses.

The musical number offered by the three Keltons is of a higher class than any musical turn given at the Bijou this season. Little Gladys Kelton plays some classical compositions on the xylophone with an artistic finish unusual in a girl of her years. The girl's father and mother do some very good musical work, also.

"The Banker and the Thief," a sketch offering which gives Nick Long and Idalene Cotton, old Orpheum favorites, a chance to do some clever work, made a very strong impression. It is a tense, emotional twenty minutes' work, but at no time do the two actors allow the interest to slacken. Miss Cotton's work as the thief is very good.

Joe Whitehead—no relation to Walter—and Flo Grierson, lately of musical comedy fame, do a hodge-podge musical and dancing act that got a generous hand last night. Whitehead is really funny in some of the things he does, which is more than many alleged comedians are. His dancing is very good.

Jimmy Wall, our old black-faced friend of minstrel days, he of the "Scuse me" expression, does a monologue turn that is strongly reminiscent of some of the best work of Billy Van and George Primrose. He is one of the best black-face entertainers in the show business.

Les Lundts, a man and woman, do some very daring balancing. The man balances a pole that reaches above the proscenium arch, the woman climbs to the top of this pole and does some balancing that makes the audience hold its breath. One wonders not only what would happen to the man in the case or to the woman on the pole, but also to those in the front seats the belt around the waist of the man holding the pole were to break. The act is what might be called a nervous one.

Earl Morse sings "My Southern Rose" with good effect. The moving pictures are unusually good.

"45 Minutes From Broadway."

George Cohan's "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," probably the best and most tuneful of the Cohan shows, will be at the Lyceum for three nights beginning tomorrow evening.

KILLS HIMSELF IN SPIRIT OF BRAVADO.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rene Luokonen, aged 14, while hunting with a companion, killed himself in a spirit of bravado, according to the story the only witness of the tragic event tells.

He claims that Luokonen, boasting of his fearlessness, placed the muzzle of his rifle against his breast and pulled the trigger either accidentally or intentionally.

The coroner will make a sweeping investigation.

BIG SUM FOR EXTENSIONS

Water Board Needs $100,000 for New Reservoir and Mains.

Library Board Censured for Method of Making Expenditures.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Received communication relative to $100,000 bond issue for water and light department.
Censured library board for violating charter.
Voted $2,800 to repair No. 2 fire hall in the West end.
Gave fire commissioners power to award contract for horse hospital at No. 3 fire hall, First avenue east and Third street.
Urged board of public works to collect unpaid bills.
Directed circulation of petition for paving of East Second street between Thirteenth and Twenty-sixth avenues.

The water and light commissioners told the city council last evening that L. N. Case, manager, has notified them that he deems it necessary for the board to secure another $100,000 bond issue for the erection of a 5,000,000-gallon reservoir for the middle system, and for other improvements.

The manager told the water board that the improvements are absolutely necessary and must be made in the near future. The board of water and light commissioners referred the matter to a committee, consisting of Commissioners Phelps and Hudson. If recommended by the board and approved by the council the matter will be submitted to the people at the general election in February. The matter did not come before the council for action, but was merely reported to the council in the minutes of the water board's meeting.

Besides the reservoir the improvements needed are a force main from the 36-inch pipe in Fourteenth avenue east to Lake avenue, and then westward; the extension of a 10-inch main in Twenty-sixth avenue, from the main in East Sixth street to First street, for fire protection purposes; a 6-inch gas main in Twenty-sixth avenue east, from London road to Sixth street; and a system to supply the West end hillside with water and gas.

The library board was censured severely. Upon recommendation of the committee on city property, consisting of Aldermen McKnight, Hoar and Shartel, the board was denied the privilege of contracting any bills without the authorization of the council. When the bills exceed $200, the work cannot be done without first advertising for bids and letting a contract. The committee says that in the past the library board has been acting contrary to the charter. City Comptroller W. S. McCormick sent a letter to the council, suggesting that some such action be taken, as it was illegal to allow bills contracted in any other manner.

The request of the fire commissioners for $2,800 for repairs to No. 2 fire hall on Piedmont avenue, was reconsidered and then allowed. The mayor asked a reconsideration and accompanied his communication with a report from the building inspector. The latter said that the girders, posts, floors, drains and walls are sadly in need of repair or replacement. He also criticised the poor ventilation.

The fire board was also given power to let a contract for the erection of an addition to No. 3 fire hall at First avenue east and Third street. The improvement has been asked for and turned down several times during the last two or three years, because of strenuous objections on the part of residents of the vicinity. The work is estimated to cost about $5,000. The addition will be used as a horse hospital.

Residents near Sixteenth avenue east and London road asked the council to compel the Burns Lumber company to remove its barn from that locality. They declared that the place has no drain and that the odors arising are so offensive that they are obliged to keep the windows facing the barn closed. They say its continuance is a menace to the health of the community.

The board of public works was directed to circulate a petition for the grading and paving of Second street from Thirteenth avenue east to Twenty-sixth avenue east. The board was also told to advertise for a bridge over Tischer's creek upon plans and specifications to be prepared by the city engineer.

The auditig committee reported that the city books show no serious discrepancies and urged that the board of public works push the collection of outstanding bills against contractors for whom the board has done work. The committee also recommended that the board of water and light commissioners open a "tool" account.

Elizabeth Dahlstrom filed notice of a damage suit for $4,000 against the city for a broken ankle and other injuries alleged to have been sustained at Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fifth street because of a loose plank.

An ordinance was introduced allowing the Northern Pacific to lay another track across Fifth avenue west for the benefit of the Duluth & Iron Range passenger service. The track will replace one torn up about six years ago.

A petition was received asking that the Kenwood road be surveyed for an extension from Twelfth street to a connection with the road running to the poor farm.

Alderman Foubister wanted to reconsider the resolution of last week giving the fire commissioners permission to spend $5,800 for a new engine in order that the city might get a motor-driven engine. Commissioner William Burgess was present and threw cold water upon the proposition. He said that only three or four are now in use and that thus far they have not proved a success generally. The city's contract with the Knott company has a proviso whereby the city may exchange the new engine for a motor-driven engine within three years from the date of the purchase.

CANNOT FORCE LINES TO SEND CARS AWAY.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 12.—That trunk line railroads cannot be compelled to send their cars off their own lines when needed to handle their own business, notwithstanding the Elkins amendment to the Hepburn act, which provides that roads shall establish through routes and through rates, was the sentiment expressed by Senator Stephen B. Elkins at a meeting of the chamber of commerce with officials of the coal and railway companies here last night. He said:

"It has never been decided, and even if the interstate commerce commission makes a decision it will be carried to the courts. The trunk lines will soon need all their cars for their own business, and I doubt if we can compel them to send their cars to another road."

The Cry the World Over Is, Use Sterilized Milk

All the medical world is sounding alarums against the use of impure milk. And every newspaper lends its help to spread the warnings everywhere.

There is only one way to avoid infected milk—that is through sterilization.

Tubercular cows are now numbered by millions. And their infected milk, by being fed to calves, is breeding millions more.

It is now almost impossible, in buying raw milk, to escape these tubercular germs.

Sterilized milk is not a matter of choice. It has become a necessity. Its use is imperative.

There is no other way to put a stop to the increasing spread of consumption.

Van Camp's is Safe

Van Camp's Milk is utterly sterile.

The cows and the milkmen are healthy. They are subject to constant inspection.

Our dairies are sanitary. Our evaporating plants are all built without wood.

Every can of milk is sterilized after the can is sealed. So the protection is absolute. No germ can exist in Van Camp's.

Pure Holstein Milk

Van Camp's comes from Holstein cows—the world's best breed. Holstein cows are robust and contented. They are famous for their vitality. The milk they give is vastly better for children than milk from mongrel cows.

This milk, fresh from the cow, is put into a vacuum. And a moderate heat, because of the vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we take out two-thirds of the water, and the milk that results is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat.

Nothing whatever is added, and nothing but water subtracted. The result is the richest, purest, cleanest milk that ever came into your home.

Six Cents Per Quart

The 10-cent can of Van Camp's contains a full pint. If you buy by the case, as everyone should, the cans will cost less than 10 cents.

When you replace the water which we take out, you have rich Holstein milk at about six cents per quart.

It is cheaper than raw milk, for half the price of raw milk is the cost of the daily delivery.

And Van Camp's means a cow in your kitchen. Rich milk or cream at any time, as little or much as you want.

No shortage; no planning in advance for your needs. And no waste whatever. An opened can keeps till you use it up.

You buy a case at a time, and all your milk needs are supplied for a month or more.

Serves Every Purpose

For coffee or cereals, add one part water, for Van Camp's is as thick as thick cream.

For cooking or drinking, add a little more water. Reduce to the richness desired.

Van Camp's gives to milk dishes a richness and flavor which you never get from raw milk.

Milkman's milk separates—before and after you get it. So your cooking milk, usually, is scarcely more than a half-milk.

In Van Camp's you get the whole milk—all the butter fat, all the solids. Yet it costs you less than a half-milk. See what a difference this makes in your milk dishes.

When Van Camp's is drunk cold, it has a slight almond flavor, due to the heat applied in sterilization. In cooking or coffee—where you heat the milk anyway—the slight scalded flavor is entirely lost.

This flavor is a sign of purity. It is essential to safety. For no careful mother will let children drink raw milk.

Not Like Condensed

Don't think of Van Camp's as condensed milk, for condensed milk is nearly half sugar. Sugar was the old way of preserving milk before the days of sterilization.

Condensed milk is so largely sugar that it is very expensive. And you can't use it for cooking because it's too sweet. Such unnatural milk is long out of date. Van Camp's is natural milk, preserved by modern methods.

Nor is Van Camp's like other brands of evaporated. For this is Holstein milk, reduced to the minimum bulk.

Common milk, only partly evaporated, is often said to be as good as Van Camp's. But nearly every housewife knows that it isn't. So don't be misled.

The 16-oz. can of Van Camp's sells for 10 cents; the 6-oz. can for 5 cents. So you get one-third more for your money in buying the larger cans. The milk is produced at our dairies, in six states, and sold by grocers everywhere.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH"

Butter Your Bread With Butter Made in the Zenith City.

Butter your bread on the right side by buying butter made in Duluth.

Maybe it's news to you, Mr. Citizen, but Duluth claims to have the plant which turned out more butter this year than any other creamery or butter-making plant in the state of Minnesota, peer of all butter-making states. The figures aren't in yet, but Mr. Bridgeman of the Bridgeman-Russell company is confident that whon the totals are in, his company will stand at the top of the heap.

The Bridgeman-Russell company in Duluth alone has 110 people on its pay roll. If everybody in Duluth were to buy butter made in Duluth, there'd have to be a lot more butter manufacturers, more buttermakers, more clerks and more men to deliver it. That would mean more prosperity for Duluth, for the money these people receive is turned back into the home marts.

Incidentally, the Bridgeman-Russell company has seventeen creameries in the country. With a better Duluth market for their butter, more cream would have to be purchased. That would mean more farmers and more dairy farming. Duluth wants to build up the surrounding territory. Here's one way every household in Duluth can help the good work along. Buy butter made in Duluth. "Do it for Duluth."

The Bridgeman-Russell company has a daily capacity of 20,000 pounds. If everybody in Duluth bought their butter the capacity would have to be enlarged and new factories would be opened.

Duluth can make just as good butter as Oshkosh, or Eau Claire, or Wadena, or Crookston, or any other town or city in the Northwest. If every housewife insisted on "butter made in Duluth," at least one new factory the size of the Bridgeman-Russell plant would have to be built at once.

ORPHEUM READY IN SPRING.

G. G. Hartley Makes Definite Announcement Concerning Theater.

Definite announcements as to when the Orpheum circuit of vaudeville theaters will actually make the advent to Duluth, which it has had in contemplation for several years, come with the news that G. G. Hartley will have a theater on the site of the old Masonic Temple playhouse ready for the Orpheum tenancy by May 10, 1910.

Mr. Hartley has made practically all arrangements for the construction of the new place of amusement. The roller skating rink which now occupies the site, will withdraw and the builders will get busy. Contracts provide for the completion of the theater by May 10, when the lease by the Orpheum people will become effective.

The news that Mr. Hartley will erect a home for the Orpheum people on the temple site is no surprise to Duluthians. It has been rumored time and again, athough official announcements have just been made.

Lightning Destroys Buildings.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. 12.—Lightning struck and burned two barns and a granary on the farm of Max Bandoli, west of this city Sunday. The loss is estimated at $3,000, partly covered by insurance.

NEW CORMANT CREAMERY

Has Just Been Organized Under Very Favorable Conditions.

Bemidji, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A farmers' co-operative creamery association has been organized at Cormant by a number of the progressive farmers of that locality, who are determined to make a success of dairying and diversified farming.

The association was organized at a well-attended meeting of farmers. A. J. McGuire of Grand Rapids, superintendent of the Northeast Experimental farm, attended and assisted in the organization of the creamery association.

A canvass of the territory which is supposed to be covered by this new creamery association shows that there are about sixty farmers who are in a position to become shareholders of the association. The number of cows owned in the territory is estimated at 200.

The association organized by electing the following officers: President, Arne Solberg; secretary, Peter Krogseng; treasurer, J. M. Arntson; board of directors, J. P. Rust, Carl Wallin, Jens Wolden, O. Rensvold, N. B. Pettengill and P. T. Ten Eycke.

Supt. McGuire delivered an address, giving the farmers many reasons why they should have a creamery and engage in dairy farming.

OLD MAN IS ARRESTED ON STATUTORY CHARGE.

Grand Forks, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Robert Allen, a prominent resident of Thompson, this county, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a statutory charge with E. J. Bell as the complaining witness and several boys of from 11 to 14 years of age as the state's principal witnesses. His hearing was commenced here this afternoon and sensational developments are expected as details of alleged offense are said to be very much out of the ordinary. Allen is 60 years of age.

SAVED BY BAD AIM.

Attempt of North Dakota Russian to Kill His Son Fails.

Stanley, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enraged father's attempt to murder his son has resulted in the arrest of Vic Jasmanke, a Russian, and he is now being held in the Mountrailc county jail. Lester Jasmanke was the target of the accused's shotgun and the only thing that saved his life was the faulty aim of his father.

The trouble between the two arose over a horse deal which the young man had apparently dismissed from his mind for the time being. Bad blood had existed between the two some time before the row over the horse trouble, however. While employed in carpenter work and while standing on a scaffold, the young man was shot from behind, his father having sneaked up close enough to discharge the contents of his shotgun with such effect as to seriously injure his legs. He is now in the Minot hospital.

EXPLAINS HIS THEFT.

Dickinson, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Explaining in a note left for his employer that his mother was sick in San Francisco, and that the only way he could raise enough money to go to her side was to steal that which was in the cash drawer, Albert Longworth has made a complete getaway with about $200 in cash and a fine watch belonging to M. Lange. Longworth was employed by Lange as night cook and evidently committed the deed early enough in the night to gain a good start on the officials. A warrant is out for his arrest.

Collegiate Branch Holds First Meeting of Year.

The first meeting of the year of the Duluth branch of the National Association of the Collegiate Alumnae was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. L. W. Kline. IN THE FORTIES.

What Society Demanded of "Young Ladies."

T. P.'s Weekly: I chanced the other day in a dusty corner of a forgotten cupboard upon a volume bound in hard and repulsive green cloth, with the title "The Young Lady's Friend: A Manual of Practical Advice and Instruction to Young Females on Their Entering Upon the Duties of Life After Quitting School." The date was 1845, and the author "A Lady." I read most of the volume, but I was not so much amused as I had anticipated. There was a certain fragrance about the book; it was very prim, certainly, but now and then it was the primness of an old-fashioned herb garden.

The exercises recommended for "young ladies from 15 to 18" were astonishingly mild, and these could only be indulged in with propriety "if arrangements were made for the purpose." You might play bowls ("with small and light balls to suit their little hands"), battledore, "the graces" (whatever game that was), and, of all queer things, quoits. You might walk, too, if you walked with an object—to study botany or mineralogy. One wonders what this amiable instructress would have thought of our hockey and bicycle and gymnasium girls. On the matter of indoor exercise I chanced upon this singular sentence:

"Making a bed is such very good exercise of the whole body that it is often prescribed by physicians to young ladies in high life who are suffering from want of sufficient bodily exertion, and many a titled lady has been condemned to share the labors of the housemaid in order to bring back the color to her faded cheek and improve the play of her lungs." Is the bedmaking cure still recommended? By the way, even the "titled ladies" who brood persistently over every page of this book had to know how to apply leeches in that age of blood letting, and if they didn't like them they were exhorted to remember that "although their office is an unpleasant one to our imagination, it is their proper calling." Here, indeed, is the "professional leech."

The table manners consist mainly in not refusing dishes, whether you like them or not. "Before dinner in the drawing room, which you must enter with erect carriage and firm step, a child, a picture, an animal, a worked ottoman, a bunch of flowers, may furnish topics for conversation." Have we got beyond that yet? If you are asked to drink wine, "do not refuse, because that is a rebuff, but accept the challenge graciously; choose one of the wines named to you, and your glass being something less than half filled, look full at the gentleman you are to drink with, then drop your eyes as you bow your head to him and lift the glass to your lips, whether you drink a drop or not. If challenged a second time, accept and have a drop added to your glass and bow as before."

BABIES' PARADISE.

Children Are Most Gladly Welcomed in Japan.

Another thing which goes far in making babies good in Japan is the very atmosphere into which it enters, the moral and sentimental as well as the social. All of us are hothouse plants in the hothouse called society; we are the children of environment. Why, sir, since the birth hour of history no Chinaman was ever born in Greece writes Adachi Kinnosuke in the November Delineator.

It has been said—by a globe trotter, I believe, and for once the globe trotter was right—that Japan is the paradise of babies. All the temple courts, the parks, the places famous for flowers, all hillsides, seasides and river banks fragrant with the memory of past picnics—are the realms where the babies are the kings. That isn't all. The crowded streets of cities are also theirs. In the earlier days of Western innovation with us, a number of army officers and nobility took to horse and carriage. And to them the law of the country said: "Now you must remember the babies who play in the streets. You must employ footmen to run ahead of your horses and carriages, that they may clear the street before you, that the babies may be safe." This is the reason why the automobile does not go very fast in Japan.

Some years ago, an American friend and I were passing through a street in the city of Tokio. We came upon a gateway which smiled like a May-day festival, and, like it, was full of people.

"What's all this fuss about?" my friend asked me. "Have they hit a gold mine?"

No, they had not. To the good people the occasion meant a deal more than the discovery of gold. It was the coming of a baby. The proud parents were sending out messengers into the four corners of the city announcing the glad tidings of exceeding great joy. And I told my American friend.

"Do your people make such a fuss about a baby? Babies are born every day in this country, aren't they?"

Which was true. But we look upon this matter entirely in a different way. It may be that this is one of the relics of the past, but we put emphasis upon the continuation of a family line. Confucius, whose ghost is much more powerful in Japan of today than all the prophets and philosophers now living put together, made childlessness a just ground for divorce. The coming of the baby means to a mother more than meat, aye, more than a fashionable garment. It is the social insignium with the Japanese mother; nothing defines her social rank as finally as the baby.

The Nippon society is heartless to the childless mother; it brands her as "the stone-woman;" it exposes her to the galling pity of all her more favored sisters. In the sterner days of the samurai ideal, she was an object to be shunned, like a leper. The childless mother did not dare to impose herself upon society. A rather far cry, this, from the fashionable Fifth avenue atmosphere, isn't it?

NECKBANDS AND CHAINS

In Many Lovely Designs Are to Be Had.

Velvet ribbon bands mounted upon very thin strips of spring steel, which accommodate themselves to the movements of the neck and afford the wearer perfect comfort, are among the novelties which are destined to be popular with young girls this autumn. The velvet band, which is supposed to match the shade of dark frock, may be decorated with a selvedge velvet bow held in place with a fancy buckle, with jeweled clasps or with metal tassels.

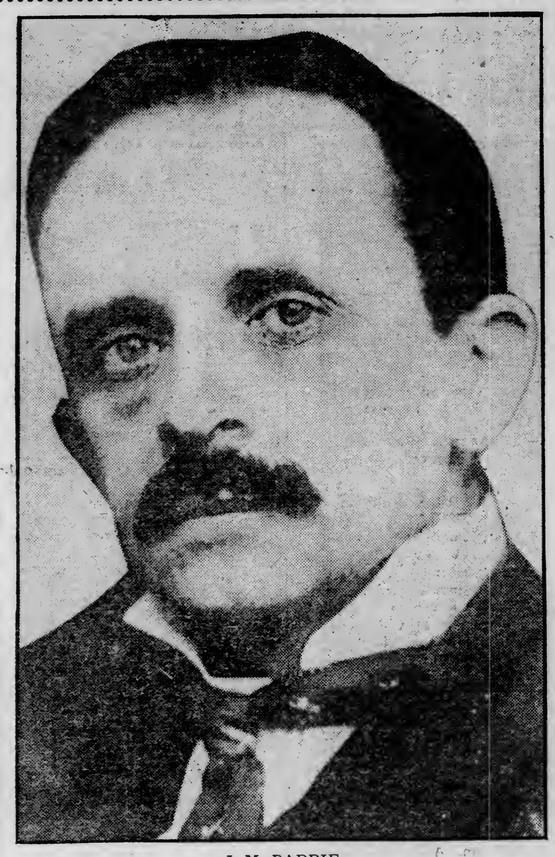

Little ornamental bands of a simple order which becomes slender girlish throats are of enamelling on sterling silver and in colors corresponding with fashionable dress shades—of seed or fish pearls and of gray pearls strung with aluminum beads. There are also daintly bands in antique silver effects and of crocheted silk rings put together with beads.

Because long chains now carry really useful pendants like small watches, lockets holding miniatures, change purses and tiny memorandum tablets, they are extensively worn by quite young girls. The simplest chains are of small links of gilt, gun metal or platinum finish or of silver combined with gold beads and have tasselled ends. Some dainty designs are of sterling silver gilt enamelled in delft blue, ornamented with pear-shaped pink coral pendants and of flat linked greenish gold set with moss agates.

Pierced metal link chains without settings are exceedingly smart, especially the hand made type, which have thin semi-filigree centers, but many young girls seem to prefer the chains of dull silver, which are brightened with amethysts, topaz and lapis lazuli.

While the heavily "jewelled" necklaces of the Oriental type are just a bit too conspicuous for ordinary wear they make an interesting addition to the chain collection on account of their brilliancy and unique designs. The latest necklaces brought from the Far East resemble flexible snakes. They are of antique or green gold finished metal and have eyes and tongues of imitation rubies, sapphires and emeralds.

J. M. BARRIE MAY WED "THE GIRL IN THE PINK PAJAMAS"

J. M. BARRIE.

It is reported that James M. Barrie if he gets his divorce may marry Miss Pauline Chase, the beautiful young American stage favorite, whose leap to fame as "the girl in the pink pajamas" was sensational. Miss Chase is the daughter of a Dr. Bliss of Washington. She scored a hit in Mr. Barrie's play "Peter Pan." She has been a great favorite of both Mr. Barrie and his wife and in fact was regarded as their adopted daughter.

Mr. Barrie's suit for divorce has created widespread interest. It came as a complete surprise even to close friends, and even those who were aware that his domestic horizon was not unclouded had little expectation that the dramatist would take any steps entailing publicity, for his aversion to notoriety amounts to a positive passion. Mrs. Barrie was Mary Ansell. She married Mr. Barrie in 1894. She was the original Nancy O'Brien in Mr. Barrie's play "Walker, London," but she has not been on the stage since her appearance in that play.

THE EVENING STORY

IN RETROSPECT

By Helen Margaret Schultz.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Does it not seem strange now, that you could have been so foolish long ago? What in the world made you think of it tonight? There you sit by the grate with that thoughtful look in your eyes, coolly reviewing the past which you thought, in your self-condence, you had forgotten. How foolish of you—for you ought to know that those things are not so easily forgotten as may be supposed.

It all happened so strangely, or at least it seemed strange to you, though to others it might be the most commonplace of all that is commonplace.

It was at the home of a friend where you first met, and he looked so handsome. (Reynold Meyers always did look handsome in your eyes.) You were fascinated with his brilliant conversation and, although you thought him conceited, you admired him much. Afterwards he accompanied you home and, unthinkingly, you invited him to call.

He did come to see you many times after that—do you remember; rather, have you, can you forget? Every time that you saw him you obliterated from your mind some of his faults and instated more of, what seemed to you, his perfections. Not until afterwards did you notice that he was always such a courteous gentleman in his ways and so tender and devoted. He told you how sad his life was, how no one appreciated him, and appealed in such a subtle way to all your womanly sympathies.

One evening, how well you recall it, he had just escorted you home from the opera. Mabel Marden gave the box party. Why was it that Mabel Marden always contrived to have you and him see so much of one another? That wonderful opera! It had been a rushing, maddening melody that had seemed to take away your senses, and, as you sank back into one of the luxurious chairs in the dear old home, you were not wholly free from the influence of the music which had moved you so strangely.

He stood on the hearth rug facing you, looking down into your eyes. How plainly you can see him now, even to the wavy hair that he had pushed back from his high forehead. Nothing was said and you gazed dreamily into his eyes. Then all at once you saw a great light sweep into them—the fiery eruption of the volcano of his soul; and you could feel the answering rush of flame in your own soul, and then—you knew and understood. It was only thus for a moment, then with the wildness of madness he caught you roughly to his heart and showered kisses upon your face, hair and hands. You can remember with what concentrated passion he gasped out:

"Margaret! Margaret; My God! how I love you!"

The very force of his madness seemed to tear your soul away, bearing it onward on mighty waving billows of flame, and in one moment you lived a lifetime—an eternity. Everything was forgotten—the world—time—God—only you and he existed in the universe.

When you were released you sank back in the chair, overpowered and trembling, while his face was very pale and his eyes glowed like live coals in the dim light. You cannot remember all that was said after the first white heat, but it was a tide of eloquence that mastered you, fettered you and held you captive. God knows, you tried to steel yourself, but the thought of some one else held you back—that some one of whose existence you had not known until too late. Why is it that even now your cheeks flush as you remember who that other was, for it was his invalid wife.

How wrong it seems to you now, yet that night you could have gone to the end of the world for his sake. The next day, when you awoke and reviewed the night before in the bright light of the morning's sun, how your face burned with mortification and anger, while in your heart you verged upon despising him. Still you forgave him—he had sinned through his love for you.

Again the desolation of your heart comes back, as later in that day when you received a letter in his handwriting. At first you dared not open it, then you mustered courage and read what you thought was a death warrant. It was very short and you accepted it with a heart wrung in agony. Cau you repeat it, now? I am sure that you can with a little effort.

"My Dear Miss Knox: When you read this I shall be on my way to London. I engaged passage this morning and my wife will follow me as soon as convenient. I shall be gone for many months, perhaps years. Remember, whatever befalls you, I am your very sincere friend,

"REYNOLD MEYERS."

Not one word of the night before. So that was the end, after all! It was better that it should be so—and he was gone! The agony of the months which followed you could never live through again, and you hid it beneath the mask of a smiling face. No one dreamed that you had buried all your girlhood, all your burning passion and romance in the little drawer with the red flowers you had worn at the opera. He had half—where are they now?

Why does it all come back tonight, after five long years have elapsed? How changed he had looked last night at the reception; very much older and sadder. In far, sunny France he had buried his wife. But it was too late and perhaps that, too, was best. No, you should not think of him now, nor these things; bury them deep in your heart and never reveal them. You are not the only one who has had a part of her heart burned to ashes. You ought to thank God that it did not wreck your life.

That is right, look at the picture above the mantel that fair young man whose eyes are looking at you reproachfully. How could you do otherwise than love him when he had given you the devotion of his life and helped you make your own life anew?

Why, there are his footsteps on the stair! You should have heard him when he came. Crowd back those thoughts into your heart, destroy them as completely as the withered flowers you just now threw on the flames. Even now your heart has lost the ache it had while reviewing these scenes of what now looks to you like a past existence. Never think of what might have been; try to think you never loved him at all—that it was only a fancy and a day-dream.

Your husband is now at the door and you must welcome him.

In Detroit's half of the seventh, McIntyre, who batted for Willett, struck out. Works pitched the remainder of the game and had two runs scored against him in the ninth.

NO AUTHORITY TO POSTPONE GAME

National League Players Criticise Action of Commission Representative.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—The postponement of the fourth game between the Chicago National and American league baseball clubs for the city championship yesterday, by order of F. S. Bernard, representative of the national commission in charge of the series, resulted in charges from the National league players that the postponement was made in violation of a rule of the commission that the umpires should be the sole judges of the condition of the field for play.

Mr. Bernard, after visiting the American league grounds in the morning, decided that the game scheduled for yesterday should be postponed. Manager Chance of the Chicago Nationals, though submitting without formal protest, declared last night that Mr. Bernard had acted without authority, and cited rule 16 of the national commission governing contests for the world's championship—under which the city series is being played—which provides that the umpires only shall be the judges of the playing field, and that the authority of the umpire shall be supreme.

The umpires had nothing to say about the postponement of the game. They were not consulted, and did not know the game had been called off until several hours after Mr. Bernard had sent out the notice.

The National league players, through Manager Chance, have made no formal protest, but have charged unofficially that the proceeding was irregular.

What a great and far-reaching effect would the winning of Minnesota of the Western football championship have!

How long is it since Minnesota has held that proud title? In 1906 Minnesota defeated the University of Chicago by the rather peculiar score of 4 to 2. Michigan was out of the fold, so far as a game with Minnesota was concerned that year, and the Western championship was a thing of some dispute. But at that Minnesota had the clearest title to the honor.

Clear back in 1893 Minnesota whipped the shining conceit out of every team this side of the Alleghany system. That was the year Wisconsin was trimmed by the historic score of 40 to 0. Michigan was also trimmed in a manner that gave royal satisfaction. There was no team in the West that year that had any class when it stamped up against the husky men from Minnesota.

The next year come the famous and wholly unexpected reverse at the hands of the despised Badgers. Minnesota sent a team up to Madison that the students of the college, the learned professors, and even the sweet co-eds, thought invincible. It had trampled over the Western teams that year with a frolicsome abandon that had made a deep impression upon the student backers of the eleven.

But Madison had been lying low. They had a quarter on their team that had come to Madison with the avowed intention of trimming the Gophers. He had played on some Western team that Minnesota had unmercifully trampled over, and he made a solemn vow that he would remain in college until Minnesota was defeated.

That 1904 struggle will live in the minds of every man, woman and child who witnessed it. It was one of the greatest games ever played in this country. The tide of battle ebbed and flowed. Then Cutler, the great Minnesota fullback, was "knocked silly" literally speaking. He continued in the game, but was dazed and wobbling.

Suddenly Ikey Karel shot from the struggling mass of players. He cleared Billy Dairymple's end. It was the first time in several seasons that a man had skirted the famous sprinter's wing. But Karel, a snake in the grass, got by and flew down the field at the wobbly Cutler. Cutler, from pure force of football instinct, put out his hands and tried weakly to stop the flying back. Karel brushed him aside and sped on over the goal line.

The grouchy gink's vow had been kept. He had played on a team that defeated Minnesota, and he had played no small part in the undoing of the doughty Gophers.

In 1895 we trimmed Wisconsin by the score of 14 to 10. The game was played in the old West hotel park, and was a ripper from the referee's whistle. John Hinkey Harrison played his second year that season, and his playing was one of the bright spots of a day that for brightness in playing lines has spotless town looking like Pittsburg.

In 1896 Wisconsin trimmed us 6 to 0. That was a game that will be told around firesides when big, strong men have children around their knees. Five times Wisconsin had the ball within Minnesota's 5-yard line, only to be repulsed and thrown back for a loss. The ball was worked down to the 1-yard line. Twice the Gopher stone wall line held. Then Wisconsin braced for the last great effort. Time was nearly up. By a heroic effort the Badgers pushed the oval over and the game was won.

Men threw their hats into the air and yelled like madmen. They carried the team from the field on their shoulders.

Then came 1897, a sad chapter in Minnesota football history. Wisconsin trimmed us 39 to 0. About every other college trimmed us, also. It was about the same in 1898. No change in 1899. Then, in 1900, came Williams, fresh from the East. The material was awaiting the hands of a competent man, and the "Giants of the North" changed football sentiment in one short season. We tied Chicago that year, though we should have won the game by the score of 18 to 0. Minnesota walked all over the Maroons. The Gophers outplayed Stagg's men at every angle of the game. But in the last five minutes of play, after the poor Chicago lads had been pushed all over the field and the ball was within five yards of the Chicago goal, Jimmie Henry was given the ball and ran the length of the field for a touchdown.

Minnesota was generally conceded the Western championship that year, but of course there was the tie with Chicago kicking us in the conscience.

And we trimmed the Badgers that year by the very uncomfortable score of 6 to 5. That was one of the titanic struggles of the West. It was a great game, and Minnesota won.

In 1901 Wisconsin trimmed us by the decisive score of 18 to 0. We did not play Michigan that year, and neither did the Badgers. Michigan trimmed Chicago, and so did the Badgers. The claim for the Western championship lay between Wisconsin and Michigan.

Then came 1902 and the trimming of the Wisconsin team at Northrop field. It was big Henry Van Valkenberg who figured greatly in that 11 to 0 victory. The big halfback weighed over 220 in his football togs, and he could do 100 yards around the 11-second mark. He could bust any line, and he sure did break the Badger line that day.

But Yost's great team trimmed Minnesota that year. They beat us 23 to 6, and also soundly trounced Chicago. Michigan had a clear title to the Western championship that year. It was between Minnesota and Chicago for second place.

Then came 1903 and the famous tie with Michigan. Wisconsin had begun to descend the hill of athletic supremacy and the Gophers had no trouble in pushing the Badgers further down the hill. But of course, with the tie with Michigan, Minnesota had not a clear and untarnished title to the championship.

In 1904 we trimmed Wisconsin. We did not play Michigan that year, nor any year since 1903. The present season is the resumption of athletic relations. Minnesota had as valid a claim to the championship as any team that year; yet somehow there was the wonderment if Michigan could really trim us.

In 1905 we were trimmed by Wisconsin. Chicago defeated Michigan that year by the close score of 2 to 0, and as Michigan had defeated Wisconsin, the palm of supremacy belonged to the Stagg machine.

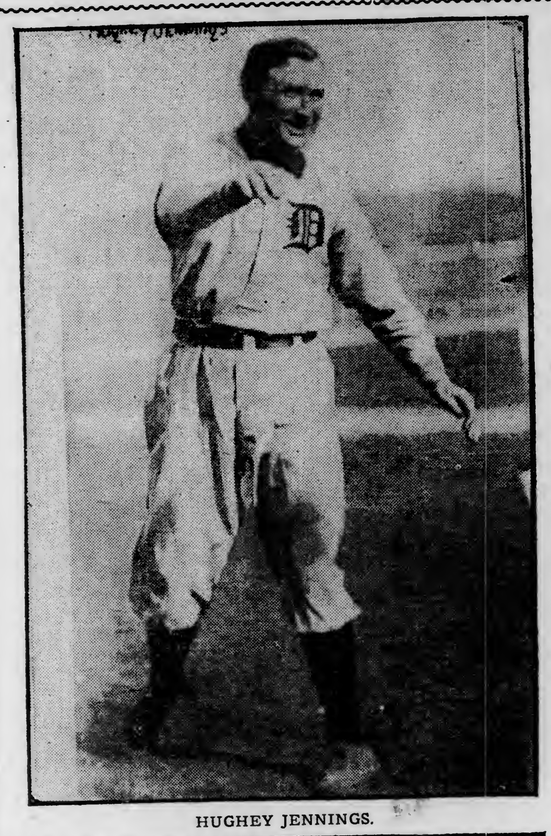

In 1906 we trimmed Chicago and were really as much entitled to the Western championship as any Western team. In 1907 Chicago trimmed us; the Maroons trampled on our hopes again in 1908, and last year, if you will remember, the story was a very sad and pathetic one.

So it will be seen, that since the years of long ago, Minnesota has not had many western championships. This year the Gophers have the greatest chance in the world to secure the proud title by means that will admit of no dispute. The team looks good and there is the hope that at last Minnesota is again coming into its own.

Unless the Gophers win the championship the Chicago football writers will not give the Minnesota men a look in. But if the team from Minnesota this year waltzes away with the emblem of Western football supremacy, the reporters who are so fond of devoting space to Stagg's Maroons, will be compelled to focus the glass of attention on the team from the Bread and Butter state.

Here's hoping that Minnesota whips to a Rooseveltian frazzle the teams that stand between her and the Western championship.

MANAGER HUGH JENNINGS AND HIS PINCH HITTER

HUGHEY JENNINGS.

SAM CRAWFORD.

These photographs of Sam Crawford and Hughey Jennings were made Friday at Forbes field. Crawford is probably the best pinch hitter on the Detroit team. Jennings has made a wonderful record with the Detroit team. He has made baseball popular in Detroit and has brought the championship to that city for the third time. He has not, however, been able to win the world's series against the National champions, but this time he believes he will be successful.

PLAYERS' SHARE WILL BE LARGE

All Records for Attendance at World's Series Are Broken.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—All records for world's championship series receipts have been broken by the present series, according to a statement issued here last night by George Moreland, the baseball statistician. The three games have brought in 78,605 paid admissions and the total receipts have been $102,832. The division of the receipts follows: Players, $55,529.28; each club, $18,509.76, and national commission, $10,283.20.

The largest purse ever divided among the players in a world's series previous to this was in the five-game series between the Chicago Nationals and Detroit Americans in 1907, when the players' share amounted to $54,033.39.

In comparison with the three games' receipts in this series are those of the six games between Chicago Nationals and Americans in 1906 when $106,550 was taken in. For the five-game series between Chicago and Detroit in 1907, the receipts were $101,728.50.

The following table shows the attendance and number of games for the series since 1905:

Year—	Games.	Attendance.
1905	5	91,773
1906	6	99,845
1907	5	78,068
1908	5	62,232
1909	3	78,605

TWO MORE MEN ARE DRAFTED

Dauss and McCrone Are Taken By New Bedford Team.

Manager Al Kuehnow received word yesterday of the drafting of Pitcher George Dauss and First Baseman A. J. McCrone by the New Bedford team of the New England league.

The drafting of McCrone will break up the infield combination Kuehnow was counting upon for next year, and McCrone will make the seventh man the Duluth club has parted with. The loss of Dauss and McCrone will be keenly felt. It is very doubtful if Kuehnow can secure as effective a twirler as Dauss, and he will have to go some to get as strong an all-around player as McCrone.

It was expected that Sioux City would purchase Dauss. It was hoped that McCrone would be held for next year. However, his batting record and all-around play attracted the attention of the New Bedford people and he will be lost to Duluth.

Feature Won By Zephyr.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 12.—The fall meeting opened at Latonia yesterday. The crowd was small, owing to a drizzling rain. The feature of an ordinary card, the fourth race, was won by Zephyr in a nose finish with Brunhilde. The first race was the classic one and was won by Gypsy King after a hard stretch drive. The track was heavy.

Fitting Up Gymnasium.

Work has already started on the gymnasium of the Duluth Athletic club. The old quarters of the Commercial club will be converted into a modern gymnasium, lounging room, locker rooms, bath rooms and private exercise room. Mr. McCollom has received specifications for gymnasium equipment, and as soon as the altering of the rooms is completed, the new apparatus will be installed. It is planned to open the gymnasium within three weeks.

HOMESTEADER KILLED

Hauling Lumber to His Claim, and Alone at the Time.

Dickinson, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ole Overlee, a homesteader, while hauling lumber to his claim, for the purpose of erecting a home, was killed.

There were no eye witnesses to the affair, Overlee being alone at the time, his dead body being discovered some time after the accident. It was in going down a steep hill that the accident took place, the lumber on the wagon being neither chained nor staked, shifting in such a manner as to throw Overlee from his place and under the wheels, two of which went over his head. Death must have been instantaneous.

GATHERING FISH SPAWN.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. M. Smith of East Tawas, chief deputy game warden, and William Harrington of Ishpening, deputy game warden, have been in Houghton to supervise the work of collecting spawn from various kinds of Lake Superior fish. These spawn will be taken to Duluth and placed in the federal hatcheries there. When these spawn have been hatched, the small fish will be brought back to Lake Superior and replanted in the waters of the big lake. The object of this transporting back and forth is to aid the propagation of the fish.

The work is now being done under the supervision of the state game wardens as the result of a recent law, which orders that this work be directed by them.

GREAT MEN AND BEER BREWING

WHENEVER this great nation needed the assistance and personal services of strong, patriotic men to further the cause of liberty and humanity or to repulse invasions and oppressions, the brewers and their friends were among the first to respond.
History tells us that many of the best men of their time were connected with the business, such as Wm. Penn, who caused the erection of the first brewery in Pennsylvania, or Samuel Adams, the acknowledged father of the Revolution, who managed his father's brewery at Boston, or Patrick Henry, the jovial host of Williamsburg, Va., who made the famous speech: "Give me liberty or give me death." And the immortal Lincoln, when accused by his rival, the great Douglas, in one of their famous debates, of being engaged in the traffic, turned the tables by saying: "The difference between Douglas and me was that I was doing the selling and he was doing the drinking."
Surely the brewers and their friends have always been foremost in promoting public welfare, and according to Andrew D. White, the great statesman, they have done more for real temperance than their fanatic opponents can ever do.

GIVES ADVICE TO UNIONS

James Kirby Would Have All Disputes Settled By Officials.

Says Local Councils Often Are Disrupted By Such Efforts.

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 12.—Conservatism of action on the part of the labor organization under his supervision was the keynote of the annual address of James Kirby, president of the Building Trades department of the American Federation of Labor at the second annual convention of the department. At the same time, he reviewed what had been accomplished, partly by quiet negotiations with employers and partly by forcible action against them, in the behalf of building trades during the eleven months since the last convention at Denver.

The annual convention of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor opened yesterday.

The afternoon was occupied by the annual reports of President Kirby, Secretary Spencer and other officials. Martin B. Madden of Chicago is here for the purpose of getting the charter of the Chicago building trades council revoked.

Act Too Hastily.

"While we cannot for one moment surrender our right to take sympathetic action where a sister organization is in peril," said President Kirby, "yet ofttimes building trades councils are prone to hasty action on the theory that quick action must be taken or the job on which the work is being done may be completed. Admitting that on small buildings this may be true, I am of the opinion that it would be better to complete the job on which the contention arose, providing a repetition can be prevented, than to endanger the dissolution of the council."

He said that quite frequently it had been found that local building trades councils have inaugurated movements without consulting either their own international organization or the Building Trades department. These hasty actions, he told the convention, were seldom successful and quite frequently were very disastrous.

In order to reduce to the minimum the injurious effects of friction in local labor organizations, he recommended to the convention that the laws of the building trades department be amended to provide that all jurisdictional disputes in local building trades councils be referred at once to the president of the department, and pending his decision no one should be disturbed in the performance of the work in question. He would have the law provide that all parties must comply with the decision rendered unless it was subsequently reversed by the executive council or the convention:

Avoid Local Disputes.

"My reasons for this," he explained, "is to remove as far as possible all disputes from the local councils and setle them along the lines of the constitution and the trade jurisdiction granted to the various internationals."

Another recommendation that President Kirby made was the adoption by the convention of a list of the crafts eligible for affiliation locally with the department. He said that he believed all building trades were in the department, with the exception of the bricklayers, who were not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The best interest of the department and the associated international, he contended, would be conserved best by confining the local membership strictly to affiliated building trades. He asserted he had nothing to say for or against allowing bricklayers in the local building trades councils, but they are the only non-affiliated craft that he would allow seated locally.

As to Affiliations.

"It has been asserted," said President Kirby, "that there are instances where non-affiliated crafts have been seated on account of their known friendship for some individual, or for some proposition. International officers have expressed their belief that the interests of the affiliated organizations could be protected best by limiting the membership of the local councils to the crafts affiliated nationally. I do not wish to be understood as not desiring to assist any organization in need, but my experience has taught me that this department must be controlled by building trades absolutely, and the nearer we confine ourselves to the basic organizations the more successful we are bound to be."

The president reviewed the condition of the department in the big cities. In Denver, he said, the fight between the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners and the Brotherhood of Carpenters has resulted "in the almost complete disorganization of one of the best organized cities in the United States, and a condition created that has held labor up to ridicule throughout the country."

Arbitration Agreements.

Matters have not progressed smoothly in Philadelphia since the organization of the Building Trades council, it was reported, on account of questions as to jurisdiction. The building trades of Greater New York were described as laboring under the disadvantage of what is termed the "arbitration agreement." President Kirby said that it was almost impossible for the building trades department to enforce its laws while its organizations were connected with "this misnamed plan of arbitration."

In reviewing his attempts to reorganize or reunite the hod carriers and building laborers into a new union, Mr. Kirby said he had been unsuccessful, owing to the fact that he could not procure any co-operation whatever on the part of the officers of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers.

"I endeavored to get them to state upon what grounds they would cooperate with the department towards procuring the affiliation of the suspended organizations," continued Mr. Kirby, "but I was unable to procure either their promise to comply with the instructions of the Denver convention or to have them outline any other policy that would be satisfactory to them."

Turning to another phase of the labor situation, the president said that there has been a considerable improvement in the building industry, and nearly all organizations show an increased membership as the result. While the building trades felt the recent panic more than any other class of workmen, what was lost then is being fast regained, he said, with the prospect of 1910 being a banner year for the building trades.

STEWART STOVES & RANGES

STEWART

Means Less Fuel and More Heat

Do you dread the coming winter with its sharp, frosty nights? Are you prepared for it with a proper economical heater, one that will save fuel and not be a constant source of expense and dreaded annoyance? If your last year's stove wasted coal, you had to crowd it to the limit, constantly poking, shaking and feeding it with expensive coal. Were you kept warm? Not unless you kept close to the stove, your face burning with heat while your back and feet were cold. The moment you got away you were glad to get up near the stove again, resting your feet on the side rails.

The Stewart will keep you comfortable and burn less coal, giving a greater heat and more comfort than any heater made. We'll be glad to prove this to your entire satisfaction. The floors are kept warm by the double heating flue in the base. You don't have to crowd the Stewart. Every unit of heat is used and no unused heat passes up the chimney.

Let the Mighty Stewart Keep You Comfortable

The Stewart Flue System is the most perfect system known. It has accomplished two important things—increased the direct radiating surface of the stove without decreasing the radiation from the main bottom or main back and by surrounding the hot air flue entirely by heat, an extra strong hot air flue of large capacity is secured.

We have a genuine Stewart Base Burning Heater, with revolving fire pot and full nickel trimmings, at.. $25.00

ALL WERE GIVEN MAXIMUM FINE

Municipal Court Officials Refute Statements of Civic League.

Municipal court officials do not take kindly to the charge of the Civic league that only nominal fines have been imposed upon women convicted of keeping houses of ill-fame.

They assert that heavier fines have been imposed since May, 1908, than any time in the city's history. They claim that this has been the case since the red light district was closed the first of the year.

Since the district was shut down seven women have been convicted of running houses of ill-fame, according to J. G. Ross, clerk of the municipal court. All of them have received the maximum penalty, $100 and costs, with no exceptions.

In May, 1908, the keepers of the red light resort had their fines doubled by Judge Windom. Previous to that time they had each been assessed $50 and costs. Until their last appearance in December the same amount, $100 and costs was taxed against each of them.

They do not deny that no jail sentences have been imposed, but aside from that they say that the punishment has been the heaviest which the law allows the police court to administer.

I was practically helpless and bed-ridden for many years from a double rupture. I wore innumerable different kinds of trusses and appliances. Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

METHODISTS PROSPERING.

Keeping Abreast With General Advancement in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Methodists are enjoying a proportionate growth to the rest of the development of North Dakota. This has been so marked for the last year or two that there may be a further subdivision of the state at the conference in session at Mandan during the present week. There are now three districts known as Fargo, Grand Forks and Minot. The territory west of the Missouri river, and now included in the Fargo district, has grown so rapidly through the rush of immigration that there is a movement to create a fourth district to include all the territory west of the river, and name it the Missouri river district.

Supt. Danford now has a district that is over 400 miles wide and runs from 100 to 150 miles north and south. There have been a large number of new churches established in the southwestern counties, and there is a sufficiently large field west of the river for a new district, with Mandan or Dickinson as the headquarters.

Removes Poisons of Catarrh and Rheumatism From the Blood.

For catarrh of the head use a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter teaspoonful of borax dissolved in a pint of warm water. Snuff this mixture through the nostrils twice daily and immediate relief is experienced. To cure, a constitutional blood remedy must be used. Catarrh and rheumatism are both due to accumulated poisons in the system. These poisons must be eliminated.

The following simple home mixture effectually acts on the kidneys, the bowels and the skin, causing them to resume their functions quickly and properly.

Get one-half ounce fluid extract Buchu, one ounce compound fluid Banwort, and two ounces syrup Sarsaparilla compound. Mix and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one at retiring. Many cases of catarrh, rheumatism and kidney trouble have already benefited by this treatment.

CLOQUET MAN FATALLY HURT

Millwright Slips and Falls Twelve Feet Injuring Brain.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Rautio, who has been a resident of this city for about twenty years, was fatally injured at the Cloquet Lumber company's mill yesterday morning. Rautio, who was employed as millwright, was repairing a broken chain in the mill, when he stepped on a piece of slippery bark and, losing his balance, fell twelve feet to the floor below, striking on his head. He was hurried to the city hospital, where he remained in a state of unconsciousness until the hour of his death, which came at 4:30 p. m., as a result of concussion of the brain received in the fall.

The deceased was 33 years of age and is survived by a wife and five children. He was a member of the Knights of Kalavala and the Modern Macabees. The funeral will probably take place Wednesday.

Fall colds are quickly cured by Foley's Honey and Tar, the great throat and lung remedy. The genuine contains no harmful drugs. Sold by all druggists.

MAY REACH THE BORDER

Rumored That Soo Will Extend to International Falls.

Old Logging Roads Would Connect With New Extension.

Are the Soo officials looking for a route from the line of the proposed Thief River Falls extension to International Falls?

The question is being asked among railroad men who have been watching closely the trend of traffic development. The Soo officials, including President Pennington, were at International Falls last week. While there the officials were very busy looking over certain locations.

The Minneapolis & Rainy River railroad, a logging road, runs thirty-six miles north of Deer River. The railroad known as the Hill City road runs south of Deer River. It is stated that the Soo officials would not be adverse to securing this property and including both lines in an extension that is contemplated from some point on the assured Thief River Falls extension.

This would give the Soo a direct line from International Falls, which with its large mills, will soon be a heavy shipping point. There will be a large amount of freight shipped from the border town as soon as the big power mills are under operation, and railroad men say that it will increase as a shipping point in the future.

At the present time the Canadian Northern has a strong footing at International Falls. The Canadian Pacific, the parent company to the Soo railroad ever an aggressive company, is fighting the Canadian Northern at every possible point, and an outlet at International Falls would give the Canadian Pacific, through the Soo, an opportunity to get some of the business of the Canadian Northern as well as to tap a prospectively rich freight point.

Buy Butte-Alex Scott and St. Mary Stock For Big Money!

Millions and millions were made on such stocks as CALUMET & ARIZONA, NORTH BUTTE, SHATTUCK-ARIZONA and BUTTE BALLAKLAVA. We now recommend the purchase of the BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT for as big money as you ever made on any of the above. The shaft is on its way to the 1,400-foot level, and should be down there inside of 50 days. They are now drifting to the big vein on the 1,245-foot level and should soon strike this big ledge.

We have every reason in the world to believe that the SCOTT WILL BE ONE OF THE GREATEST INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS ON BUTTE HILL, for the ledges from the High Ore into the Leonard have proven this. Remember many of these veins pass directly through the BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT ground and in this mine thousands and thousands of tons of copper, gold and silver ore have been shown up. We also advise the purchase of ST. MARY at the present low price, for this one has a market in many states. It is a public favorite, and if rich ore is opened up in shaft and tunnel, you may get $1.00 for your shares in a very short time. Do not overlook this issue, for it is as easy to sell out around present prices as it is to get a check cashed when you have money in the bank.

BUY BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT and ST. MARY STOCK EVERY TIME they have a little reaction.

MAKES ITS CARS COMFORTABLE

The Street Railway Company Breaks Record for Early Heating of Cars.

Patrons of the street cars were agreeably surprised this morning when they stepped out of the cold wind into well warmed vehicles to be transported to the downtown district. The company has broken all previous records for the early heating of its cars. Realizing the discomfiture of its patrons if compelled to ride in cold cars the street car people began yesterday morning organizing its forces in the car heating department at the shops, and the cars have been run out, with the heaters in operation, as fast as it was possible to do so.

In most of the large cities the street railway companies have a fixed date at which the heating of the cars begins in the late fall and, no matter how cold it may get before that date the passengers have to wait until the time set. In this city the street railway company is more liberal in the matter of the date for the heating of its cars. While it expects to start the heaters about Nov. 1, the weather conditions govern its action and the cars are heated just as soon as it becomes necessary for the comfort of the people riding on them.

The sudden change of weather in the past few days caught the company unprepared. The heating force at the shops had not been organized, there was no water in the heaters, some of them were leaking and there were others needing repairs before the fires could be started. The work was rushed, however, all day yesterday, and today there are a large number of cars in operation, with the heat turned on. As fast as the cars are heated they are put in operation, replacing the unheated cars.

Usually passengers have objected to changing cars at the Twenty-sixth avenue car barns, but today when they stepped from a cold car into a heated one there were no complaints. While the company is doing its best to get the cars heated it will be several days before all of the cars, about 100 in number, are ready.

It is no small matter to prepare so many cars for winter comfort. It requires a large force of men at the shops to attend to the heating of the cars. The force includes men to see that the heaters are supplied with water, men to coal the cars, take care of the ashes and inspect the heaters regularly. When the fires are once started the heat is kept up until warm weather sets in the following spring. Each car requires about as much coal during the season as is used in the hot water heating plant of a small house. For this reason the companies do not like to start the fires too early in the fall and then have a brief cold spell followed by several weeks of Indian summer weather.

It is probable from the present outlook that the Duluth cars will be heated right along until warm weather sets in next spring.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

First Cold Weather Brings in Big Squad of "Drunks."

The police declare that Mrs. Josie Musall, arraigned in police court this morning charged with being drunk, has created a reign of terror in her home and her immediate neighborhood the last few days.

It is alleged that Sunday night she gathered the household cutlery and started on a rampage, using language that would not look nice in print, and which shocked all within hearing.

Monday afternoon, it is claimed, she began a repetition of the previous day's program, whereupon the neighbors called the police. She entered a plea of not guilty and her trial was set for this afternoon.

The cold weather was the cause of numerous happy jags last night. The grist this morning had twenty-four drunks, most of them laborers working outside, who were laid off because of the storm. Unless they had done something out of the ordinary, Judge Windom gave them suspended sentences.

John and Burt Nordlee, arrested for disorderly conduct, told the court this morning that they were only defending themselves from the bartenders in the Sailors' home on the Bowery. They claimed they were attacked without provocation and fought to save themselves from bodily injury. The court ordered the bartenders arrested and will thrash the matter out in court when they are apprehended.

Maurice Kieley, arrested for disorderly conduct, was fined $30 and costs or thirty days in jail yesterday afternoon. It was alleged that when Officer Shannon attempted to arrest him, he attacked the officer, knocking him to the floor, and tried to choke him.

Two drunks were brought into the police station last night with dreams of past wealth in their brains. They alleged that they had been robbed of $50 and $80, respectively, but when their heads cleared this morning, they had forgotten all about it.

Train Kills Farmer.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 12. — Henry Richter, aged 40, a well-to-do farmer living two and one-half miles west of Albany, Minn., a town twenty miles west of this city, was instantly killed by being struck by a Soo freight train. His mangled body was found by the section foreman, lying beside the track, near the northeast switch, one mile west of the Soo depot.

What to Do for a Cough

Here is a home-made remedy that overcomes an obstinate cough quicker than any costly medicine you could buy. Any woman can easily make it in five minutes.

Granulated Sugar Syrup..13½ oz.
Pinex ..... 2½ oz.

Put the Pinex in a clean pint bottle and fill up with the syrup, made as follows: Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir for about 2 minutes. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. It tastes pleasant—children like it.

This simple medicine is also splendid for colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, incipient consumption, chest pains, etc.

Pinex, as you probably know, is the most potent form of Norway White Pine Compound. It is rich in all the well-known pine elements. None of the weaker pine preparations compare with the real Pinex itself. Your druggist has it, or will gladly get it for you.

The full pint of this effective cough syrup can be made for 54 cents. It keeps perfectly, and lasts a whole family a long time.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

ROBINS WILL BE PROTECTED

Policemen and Humane Society on the Watch for Air Guns.

A number of complaints have been made to The Herald by East end women regarding the manner in which the young boys of the city are shooting down the robins with air rifles.

The policemen have been instructed to be on the watch for boys, who are using their guns in a careless manner, and the humane society has taken the matter up and will also watch for violations.

The present weather seems to be hard enough on the birds which are gathering for their annual flight South, without the persistent hunting of them by boys armed with various weapons from sling shots to 22-caliber rifles.

MAY APPOINT POLAR BOARD

Dr. Remsen Formally Asked to Intervene in North Pole Dispute.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12.—Dr. Ira Remsen, president of Johns Hopkins university and of the National Academy of Sciences, will appoint a commission to examine the Arctic records of Commander Peary and Dr. Cook, if the council of the scientific body decides it will be proper for Dr. Remsen to accept the invitation to do so. Dr. Remsen will confer on the subject with the council of the National Academy of Sciences some time next month.

A committee composed of Rear Admiral Colby McChester, Henry Garnett and R. H. Grosvenor of the National Geographic society called on Dr. Remsen here today. The committee asked Dr. Remsen whether he would consider such an invitation, coming as it did from the National Geographic society, the American Geographic society, the American Museum of Natural History and the Peary Arctic club.

Up to the Academy.

"If," said Dr. Remsen, in speaking of the matter later, "the societies mentioned should ask me as president of the National Academy of Sciences to appoint a commission to examine the data of both Messrs. Peary and Cook with the view to deciding the validity of the evidence, I should be glad to present the matter to the council of the National Academy of Sciences, which will meet about the middle of November. I should, of course, abide by whatever decision the council arrived at, and if it advised me to accept the invitation I should proceed then to name a commission."

EXTENSIONS ARE NEEDED

Manager Case Says System Must Be Extended as City Grows.

Middle System Is Now Without Reservoir of Adequate Capacity.

In recommending to the board of water and light commissioners that the council be asked to submit to the voters at the next election the question of bonding the city for $100,000 to defray the cost of extensions and improvements to the water and gas system of the city, Manager L. N. Case is looking a little to the future, but not a great deal. For some of the improvements contemplated, he says there is a pressing need right at the moment and delay is dangerous.

Mr. Case says the savings of the department, which will amount to $135,000 by next year, will amply care for all ordinary extensions, of which there are about fifteen this year and as many more next year, but for the more extensive improvements and extensions more money will be needed and that can only be raised by bonding the city for the sum.

The most important improvement contemplated is the construction of a 5,000,000-gallon reservoir at the site purchased about two years ago by the department at Second avenue east and Thirteenth street. The reservoir would supply the middle system, which is now badly handicapped by lack of equipment. The middle system supplies all of the hillside north of the main portion of the city, nearly all of the East end residence district, extending down as far as First street at Twenty-third avenue east, and also Woodland and Hunter's Park. At the site of the proposed new reservoir at Thirteenth street and Second avenue east, there are three small tanks holding just a little over a half day's supply for the district. The tanks are filled by two gasoline pumps at Fifteenth avenue east and Sixth street and it is necessary to keep the pumps busy nearly all of the time to keep the tanks filled. Should the pumps go out of commission, the water in the tanks would soon be consumed and the entire district supplied by them would be without water.

A new electric pump with six times the capacity of the two gasoline pumps is now being installed at the pumping station at Fifteenth avenue east. That will be sufficient to keep the new reservoir filled, if it is constructed. With a reserve of 5,000,000 gallons always on hand, in the reservoir for the middle system, the inconveniences which would result from the pumping going out of commission would not be nearly so great. The district is growing and more water is constantly being consumed there. The small tanks have outgrown their usefulness and Mr. Case says that the efficiency of the water system demands the construction of the reservoir.

New Main to West Duluth.

The principal extension contemplated is the extension of the sixteen-inch mains from Fourteenth avenue east through the city to West Duluth. The Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway is fast completing its pipeline between Duluth and Proctor, and the railroad village on the hill will soon be taking a large supply of water from Duluth. The steel plant and the residence district that will spring up around it at Spirit lake will require a large supply of water, and it is necessary that the main facilities for the western part of the city be better than they are at present when those demands are made on the system.

Another district that must be supplied is that in the vicinity of the new J. D. Ensign school, at Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street. That district is being heavily built up, and some years ago, in anticipation of that development, a 12-inch main was extended to Thirteenth avenue west. It is proposed to extend that now to supply the new school and the residences in the district.

At present there is a 10-inch main running along Sixth street east from the pumping station at Fifteenth avenue east to Twenty-eighth avenue east. At Twenty-first avenue east there is a main in the avenue, ten inches in diameter, from which six-inch mains run along the streets to supply the district between Twenty-first and Twenty-eighth avenues east Mr. Case proposes to extend another 10-inch main from Sixth street on Twenty-sixth avenue east, taking in the dead ends of the six-inch mains in the streets and providing better facilities for fire protection and for supplying water for private consumption.

The principal gas extension proposed is the laying of a 6-inch main on Twenty-sixth avenue east, from London road to Sixth street. Mr. Case says that with the building up of the East end district, and the consequent increase in the consumption of gas, the system in the East end is taxed to its capacity, and but comparatively few more connections prove the system insufficient to supply the needs.

For these extensions and improvements Mr. Case says more money is necessary, for while the earnings of the department are sufficient to care for ordinary expenses, extraordinary expenses must be met from time to time.

Earnings on the Increase.

The record of the department for the first nine months of 1909 is entirely satisfactory, and shows that the strides forward, which have been noticeable from year to year in the past, bid fair to be maintained this year. The report of Mr. Case to the board, at its meeting the first of this month, shows that the receipts of the department, from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1, exceed those of the same period in 1908 by $33,-232.28.

For that period this year the department pumped 1,592,304,000 gallons of water against 1,623,654,000 gallons in 1908, or 31,350,000 gallons less this year. The receipts this year are $139,159.25 against $123,036.82 during the same period last year, or an increase of $16,-122.43. Thus the city received last year 7½ cents per 1,000 gallons pumped against 8¾ cents per 1,000 gallons for the same period this year. Mr. Case figures that 215,600,000 more gallons of water were utilized this year than last year, and ascribes the fact largely to the use of meters and the careful policy of the department. The receipts for gas up to Oct. 1 were $135,985.95 against $118,877.10 during the same period last year, or an increase of $17,-108.85. Three heavy months are coming, and Mr. Case estimates that the receipts of the department for 1909 will exceed those of 1908 by $45,000, while the increased cost of furnishing the service will not be nearly as great.

"If we are to keep abreast of the development of the city we must look to the future," said Mr. Case this morning, "and that is why I recommend the making of those improvements at this time. The city is making great strides, and the water and gas systems must be extended proportionately, or they will fall behind."

Mr. Case's recommendations were referred to a committee consisting of Commissioners Phelps and Hudson at the last meeting of the board, and they will report at an early meeting. If they approve and the board accepts the plan, it will be submitted to the council for definite action.

STUDENT LIFE AT OXFORD

Rhodes Scholarship Winner Talks to High School Pupils.

During the chapel hour this morning the students listened to an address which they unanimously asserted to be one of the most interesting ever heard by the pupils of the high school.

The speaker was Daniel R. Porter, one of the first group of Americans to receive a Cecil Rhodes scholarship. The subject of Mr. Porter's talk was "Oxford and the Rhodes Scholarships." He described the school life at Oxford by describing an ideal Oxford day. He then discussed the differences between the American school system and that of England and compared the athletics of the schools of the two countries in an interesting manner. Mr. Porter does not think that it is a difficult task to gain the Rhodes scholarship and urged the boys to make the attempt if possible. He said that there are three chief requisites A boy boy must be a good athlete; he must be a good student, not a brilliant student, and above all he must have a good moral character.

WHEAT UP; FLAX WEAK

Holiday in Chicago and New York Restricts Trading Here.

Wheat Higher in Northwest, But Flax Has a Decline.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 12.—Sessions were held today in only three of the continent's big grain markets, Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, the Chicago, New York and Southwestern markets observing a holiday.

With so many of the markets closed, trading was rather restricted in Duluth and Minneapolis. The blizzard in the Northwest, which will delay the crop movement, had a bullish effect on wheat and it closed more than a point over yesterday.

Flax had none of the sensational trend which marked the trading in the seed yesterday. It was the calm which comes after the storm. The three leading flax options were a point and a half under yesterday at the close of a session of but fair activity.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅞@1d higher.

The Chicago and New York markets being closed, it is impossible to give much of the usual market information today.

The December wheat option closed 1¾c higher in Duluth and Minneapolis and 1⅝c higher in Winnipeg. May wheat closed 1c higher in Duluth, 1⅛c higher in Minneapolis and 1⅛c higher in Winnipeg.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 497, against 294 last year, and at Minneapolis 320, against 600 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 817, against 894 last year. Winnipeg received 623, against 679 last year.

Wheat trading was fair during the session in Duluth. December wheat opened unchanged at $1.00⅜, advanced to $1.02⅜, declined to $1.01⅞, rallied to $1.02⅜, and closed at $1.01⅝, a gain of 1¼c over yesterday. May wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.03¾, advanced to $1.05¼, declined to $1.04⅝ and closed there, a gain of 1c over yesterday.

Durum wheat closed 1½c higher, and cash spring wheat was selling on a basis of 2¼c over December for No. 1 northern.

Flax was fairly active and the range extended from a point under yesterday's close to a point above, but the market weakened at the close, which showed a loss from yesterday. October flax opened ½c higher at $1.58, declined to $1.56⅜, rallied to $1.58¼ and closed at $1.56, a loss of 1½c from yesterday. November flax opened ½c higher at $1.58, sold off to $1.56 and closed there, a loss of 1½ from yesterday. December flax opened ½c higher at $1.52, advanced to $1.52½, declined to $1.50 and closed there, a loss of 1½c. May flax opened 1c higher at $1.56⅝, sold off to $1.54 and closed at $1.54⅛, a loss of 1¼c from yesterday.

Coarse grains were unchanged.

Following are the closing prices:

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Goes Up and Reaches New High Point at $1.02⅜.

Minneapolis, Oct. 12.—Wheat advanced to new high points today in spite of the fact that many of the outside markets were closed. December opened at $1.01⅝, ½c higher than yesterday's close and advanced to a new point, $1.02⅜ on this crop. May also reached new high points. The strength was due to the very light receipts, the strong cash demand, the higher cables and a supposed short interest. The local mills were big buyers at the opening and this, added to the light offerings, added to the strength of the situation. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 350,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis today received 320 cars of wheat as compared with 60 cars a year ago; Duluth, 497 against 294 cars, and Winnipeg, 632 cars, against 679 cars. Decembered opened at $1.01¼; high, $1.02⅜; low, $1.01¼; close, $1.07⅞@1.02. May opened at $1.04⅜; high, $1.05½; low, $1.04⅛; close, $1.04⅞@1.05.

Cash wheat was in good demand by the local and country mills. Offerings were light and the market was entirely sold out early in the session. No. 1 northern sold for 2¼@2½c above the December option and No. 2 northern for ¼@½c above.

Premiums were too high to allow the elevators to buy. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern spot, $1.03⅜@1.04, to arrive, $1.04; No. 2 northern spot, $1.01⅜@1.02, to arrive, $1.02; No. 3 wheat, 98¾c@$1.00⅜; No. 2 yellow corn, 57¼c; No. 3 white oats, 36⅝@37.8c; No. 2 rye, 67½@68c.

Flax—Receipts, 60, year ago, 52; shipments, 15 cars. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 1½ under the Duluth October option. Receipts were fair. Closing price, $1.54⅛.

Barley—Receipts, 87 cars today, year ago, 79 cars; shipments, 119 cars. There was a strong demand for all grades at prices 1@2 higher than yesterday. Offerings, although not as heavy as they have been for the past few days, were in excess of those of a year ago. Closing range, 45@58c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,219. There was no change in the situation today. Demand continued in excess of the supply. Shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran, in 100-lb sacks, $19.50

Flour—Prices were advanced today on account of the rise in wheat. Demand was strong and nettre. Shipments continued heavy. Shipments, 75,731 barrels. First patents, $5.30@5.40; second pats, $5.10@5.20; first clears, $4.15@4.65; second clears, $3.20@3.40.

SUPERIOR NEWS

TAKE STEPS TO ANNUL FRANCHISE

City Council May Take Action Against Traction Company.

The city council of Superior may take steps to annul the franchise of the Duluth-Superior Traction company on the grounds that the order in regard to the laying of tracks on Broadway street to Belknap via Calin avenue, has not been carried out.

The line was taken up from this street ten years ago. It has since been ordered replaced but the street car officials have shown no disposition to carry out the order of the council. The matter will probably come up at the next meeting of the council.

W. O. Palmer, a Superior man, residing at 2417 John avenue, has strawberries growing in his garden yet, if they were not killed by the frost last night. Yesterday he picked a few and brought them down to a Superior cigar store, where they are on display. The berries were grown from plants raised from seeds.

Demand for Laborers.

The labor market is said to be very good at Superior at the present time. The railroads of this section of the country find it difficult to obtain enough men. During the past week jobs for 396 were found through the state free employment agency.

MACKENZIE AND MANN.

Harper's Magazine: In 1896 there was no Canadian Northern railroad; today there are 7,000 miles of it in operation, under construction, or surveyed. At the present rapid rate of extension it will in a few years form a continuous streak of steel from ocean to ocean, making the third transcontinental highway in Canada. The Canadian Northern is unique among railroads in that its shares are not scattered among a large number of holders, but are owned and controlled by two men, William Mackenzie and Donald D. Mann, two of the most interesting characters Canada has yet produced. In the current number of Hampton's Magazine the life-stories of these two men are told in a striking manner.

Hampton's Magazine: Mackenzie's early experiences embrace school teaching, operating a sawmill, and running a country store in Kirkfield, Ontario, where he sold tobacco, jackknives, pipes, and bluejeans to Canadian lumber-jacks. He left Kirkfield and went out West (in Canada) and in three years, from 1884 to 1887, made his first $50,000 in the contracting business. He was advised by a civil engineer to try contract work in building trestles for the Canadian Pacific railway. On the first job he lost money. "Try it again," said his friend. Mackenzie did—several times. Contracting became a passion with him.

Then he and Mann got together and the partnership has been one of large profit to both men. Mackenzie is known as a financial wizard. His ability to secure capital to float his enterprises is one of his chief characteristics. He slips over to England every now and then so quietly that he is back almost before anyone is aware of his departure—and he brings with him the funds needed for new railway extensions or big enterprises of some kind. He is a genius for selling bonds, and for getting the majority of them guaranteed by the Canadian government. It matters not whether times are prosperous. He can borrow millions where others would find it difficult to negotiate the loan of a postage stamp. His business interests are extensive, and he is said to have rejuvenated more lopsided, tottering enterprises than any other Canadian. He owns trolleys as well as steam railways, and among other corporations on his list is a brewery. He is 61 years old.

Donald D. Mann has been farmer, river driver, sawyer, railroad navvy, construction boss, contractor, miner—and James J. Hill has said that he is the greatest railway builder in the world. Thirty years ago Mann was several dollars worse off than nothing. He was born in the county of Halton, Ontario, not far from the sleepy town of Action and just six miles east of Rockwood, the birthplace of James J. Hill.

After several years of the hardest kind of labor in Canadian lumber camps, he returned to Action one day, on the suggestion of his brother, they leased a well-timbered farm for three years. It was an unfortunate venture. "Dan," as he is familiarly called, got deeply in debt and called an auction of all his goods and chattels to help meet his obligations, but the proceeds liquidated only a small part of them. After this disastrous venture Mann went out West. He had a few years before labored in a Michigan lumber camp, driving logs and running a saw in a shingle mill. He secured a subcontract at taking out logs and trimming them into ties for the Canadian Pacific railroad. Later he took contracts for construction work, rock grading, etc., at which, being a born "boss" of men, he managed to make a good deal of money. He had been by himself as a contractor for four years when, in 1875, he first became acquainted with Mackenzie near the town of Kicking Horse Pass in the Rockies, but it was not until twelve years after that they formed the partnership that has continued ever since.

One day in 1895 Mackenzie told Mann that the Lake Manitoba Railway & Canal company was in financial straits and that the charter for the proposed line from Portage la Prairie to Dauphin and Lake Winnipegosis could be secured at a bargain. The road was less than half completed and the part in operation employed only fourteen men. The charter covered a distance of 125 miles. Mackenzie and Mann bought it. The Canadian Northern has grown from that.

Mr. Mann is six feet tall and weights 250 pounds. His jaw is square, his thick, black hair is streaked with gray, and his closely chopped beard shows the frosts of 56 winters. A believer in hard work, Mr. Mann inspires a love of labor in others. He has few hobbies. He is inordinately fond of smoking. He never had a cigar between his teeth until he was 30 years old, but now his waking hours are filled with smoke. He owns a magnificent home in Toronto, and is devoted to its interests.

NEEDS A GOOD BREAKFAST.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson, iconoclast-in-ordinary to the medical profession, as usual upsets our previous ideas of bodily health in an article in Woman's Home Companion for August. Dr. Hutchinson has a faculty for restoring to us our self respect, and assuring us that, left alone, we are not such idiots, after all. In this particular article, for instance, he points out that the idea of eating little in the summer time is a fallacy. Of breakfast, for instance, he says:

"It is customary to make the first meal of the day slightly the lightest and distinctly the plainest and simplest of the three. If there be any deficiency of the appetite, breakfast is the meal at which this most likely to show itself. But this lack of appetite is in nine cases out of ten clearly traceable to sleeping in an unventilated room or to late hours in foul air the night before, or to insufficient exercise the preceding day, and is no indication that the body really requires less food at this time. Perfectly healthy men who sleep with their windows open and go to bed at a reasonable hour will tell you that they enjoy their breakfast as well as any other meal of the day, and many even call it their best meal.

"Another popular delusion in regard to the lightness and unimportance of the breakfast is that wide-spread subterfuge, the 'continental breakfast,' consisting of a cup of coffee and some fruit or a single roll. This is a very pretty breakfast as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far, and the sole basis for its adoption on the continent is that it is only intended as a temporary tide over, until the real breakfast of meat, eggs, fish, with beer or wine, which is taken at about 10 or 11 o'clock, like a very early luncheon. If you haven't got a good appetite for breakfast, make it your business to go and get one, instead of allowing yourself to be blinded by this morbid state of affairs and, deciding that all you really need is a cup of coffee and a roll or an orange or a puff of breakfast-bran."

GIVE AND TAKE.

Councilman Henry Bolte of Atlantic City is pushing a bill to prohibit cameras on Atlantic City's incomparable white beaches.

"There are cameras and cameras," said Mr. Bolte the other day, "and some of them do nothing but good. Yet I am convinced that all must go, though I can see the other side of the question, too. Every question has its two sides. It is like the dialogue of Diogenes and Aristippus.

"Aristippus one day passed Diogenes the cynic, where he sat before his tub eating cabbage.

"Diogenes saluted with a sneer the splendidly clad Aristippus at the head of his glittering retinue.

"'O Aristippus,' he said sourly, 'if you knew how to live on cabbage, you would not have to flatter kings.'

"Aristippus waved his hand airily to the pessimistic philosopher.

"'O Diogenes,' he retorted, smiling, 'if you knew how to flatter kings, you would not have to live on cabbage.'"

WHO WILL PAY FOR THE NEW BRIDGE?

Railroad May Attempt to Compel City to Stand Cost.

With the new steel railroad bridge across the Jenswold street cut nearly completed, there is a probability of the question being raised as to whether the city or the railroad will pay for the expense of replacing the old wooden structure.

By virtue of an old contract between the city and the Northern Pacific road, the city promised the road that the old wooden structure would be replaced by a steel bridge. The building was put off several times and finally the railroad took the matter into its own hands and is building the bridge.

It is believed that under a recent supreme court ruling the contract that bound the city to stand the expense will now be void.

Construction work on the new bridge is well under way. The abutments have been built of concrete. The base of each is sixty feet long and fifteen feet wide at the bottom. At the top of each abutment the width is about five feet. Each abutment will have three piers, the construction of which has already been started.

The steel for the new bridge arrived this week and will be put up as soon as the work on the piers has been completed.

FAREWELL TO REV. GRICE

Dinner Is Tendered Popular Pastor By His Friends.

A farewell party for Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Grice of the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, was tendered last evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Oaten of the Lester Park M. E. church at Lakeside. Rev. and Mrs. Grice left today for Detroit, Minn.

A farewell dinner was given, and an informal program followed. Among those present were: Rev. and Mrs. Charles Oaten, Rev. and Mrs. M. O. Stockland of the Grace M. E. church, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Roberts of the city mission and Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Stidd of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church.

While Rev. Mr. Grice was at this function he was attended by a committee from the United Spanish War Veterans, John G. McEwen camp, No. 6, which presented him with a set of resolutions expressing regret at his departure from West Duluth. Rev. Grice preached the Memorial day sermon for this camp last Decoration day.

The communication to Rev. Mr. Grice is as follows:

"Our dear friend:

"We, the undersigned, have been appointed to a committee from Camp John G. McEwen, No. 6, United Spanish-American War Veterans, to express to you the heartfelt sorrow of the members who have learned of your proposed removal from the city.

"The members of Camp McEwen have ever felt your great friendship for them, and the friendships so formed are such that we shall miss you from our midst. We are pleased to say that your kindness to the camp shall be long remembered, and that the good you have done will be a constant reminder that such a friend as you have been will not be soon forgotten.

"We wish to extend to you the love and best wishes of every member of the camp, and one and all wish yourself and Mrs. Grice godspeed on your journey, and health and happiness in your new home.

"Committee, M. J. Murray, Louis S. Larson and J. B. Gibson."

GAVE FIREMEN A HARD FIGHT

The Heavy Gale Made Early Morning Fire a Stubborn One.

A fire, said to have had its origin in crossed electric wires due to poor insulation, broke out this morning about 4 o'clock in the grocery and confectionery store of Isaac Davidson of 6209 Raleigh street. About $1,500 damage was done. The building and its contents were insured.

West Duluth firemen, who responded to the call, say that the fire was one of the hardest to fight that they have had for a long time. With a sixty-mile gale blowing snow into their faces at every step the trip to the scene of the fire was anything but pleasant, they say.

The wind blew some of the firemen across the street when they attempted to make connections to a hydrant, according to the story told at the fire hall this morning. After two hours of fire-fighting the small blaze was extinguished. Under ordinary circumstances the fire would have been an easy one to put out.

The structure was the property of John Sundquist and had been leased to Mr. Davidson. His family lives in the rear rooms of the lower floor and the rooms of the upper story. They were away from home at the time, but he noticed the blaze and turned in the alarm.

The contents of the house were a total loss and the stock in the store will also be practically worthless on account of water and smoke.

Elect Class Officers.

The junior class of the Duluth Industrial high school met yesterday afternoon and elected officers. The following were named: Eva Ketchum, president; Emma Anderson, vice president; Callie Erickson, secretary; Victor Dash, treasurer, and Leon Iltis, sergeant-at-arms.

BOY PULLS OFF BOLD ROBBERY

Holds Up Bank Where He Is Taken By Officer of the Law.

Lawrence, Kan, Oct. 12.—Earl Bullock, an 18-year-old boy, was the chief actor Monday in one of the boldest ribberies ever perpetrated in this state. Later he shot and probably mortally wounded an officer who went to arrest him, and made a safe getaway wich $1,000. Now he is a fugitive, and is being sought through all the surrounding territory by scores of armed citizens.

Bullock was accused of robbing a storehouse, and Deputy Sheriff F. Woods arrested him at Eudora on that charge. Woods took his prisoner with him into the State Bank of Eudora while he stopped for a few minutes' chat with the cashier, when suddenly Bullock pulled a couple of revolvers, backed the deputy and the cashier into a vault, slammed and locked the door, seized $1,000 and ran.

Two hours later citizens found the two men in the vault and released them. Police Officer Wilson Pringle traced the boy to his mother's home and went there to arrest him, but Bullock shot the officer and ran, making his escape in safety.

Within half an hour a posse of citizens had started in pursuit of the fugitive, but up to this afternoon had not succeeded in finding him.

SAYS HUSBAND HAS ELOPED

Mrs. Angus McAuley Has Brought Suit For Divorce.

Mrs. Edith McAuley has begun divorce proceedings against her husband, Angus McAuley, naming Dolly Kane as "the woman in the case," alleging in her suit that her husband and the woman named in the complaint were arrested in the Saratoga hotel, Superior, charged with a statutory offense.

After the arrest, Mrs. McAuley claims that her husband went to the Pacific coast, later sending money for the Kane woman, who has joined him, and is at the present time living with him.

John H. Norton is counsel for Mrs. McAuley.

MECHANIC ARTS THE PROBABLE OPPONENT.

Central is practically sure of a game with Mechanic Arts high school of St. Paul for next Saturday. Word was received from the St. Paul football manager today, and if the Central management does not hear definitely from the Minneapolis South Side high today, arrangements with the St. Paul school will be closed.

Efforts have also been made to get the Minneapolis East Side high for Saturday. It is not believed that the negotiations will prove successful, however.

OLD BOND IS IN DISPUTE

Heirs of Different Men Claim Title to City Obligation.

Eveleth Woman Sues Because of Fall Into Hole in Ground.

All three courtrooms are in use in district court this morning, Judges Cant, Dibell and Hughes hearing cases with juries. Before Judge Cant, the suit of Caroline E. Brown against the city of Duluth, Mary Branch and Linda M. Dunn is being heard. It involves the ownership of a bond of the old village of Duluth, the bond issue of which was assumed by the city of Duluth.

Claiming title to the bond, Mrs. Brown brought suit first against the city. The two heirs of William Branch intervened and the city paid into court the amount in dispute, $1,081.50, leaving the Branch heirs as defendants. They claim that the bond was owned by William Branch and passed into the possession of James Ward, the father of Mrs. Brown. They claim that Mr. Ward never had title to the bond, which should have gone in the estate of Mr. Branch, and they ask judgment for its value against Mrs. Brown and the city.

Before Judge Dibell, the personal injury suit of Katarina Macek against Frank Klink is being heard. Mr. Klink is the owner of a building at Eveleth, and some improvements were being made there last fall. Mrs. Macek claims that she fell into an unprotected excavation and suffered severe injuries, for which she asks $10,000 damages.

The suit of Fred O. Clark against the Wisconsin Central Railway company for $2,500, on account of injuries sustained in a boiler explosion on the company's right-of-way at South Superior last November, is still on before Judge Hughes.

Green Can't Leave.

Louis Green cannot leave the state of Minnesota until a little matter of dispute between him and the Fitzsimmons-Palmer company is settled. A writ of ne exeat has been issued by the district court on affidavit of W. G. Baldwin, secretary of the company, who claimed that Green had announced his intention of leaving for Europe without answering to a suit for $714.67 filed against him by the company. The company filed a bond of $1,000 to secure Green against any loss on account of the issuance of the writ if he should successfully defend the action against him.

Asks Lien on Property.

E. J. Bunker filed suit in district court this morning against Axel Johnson, Jennie Johnson, his wife, and The Home & Garden company for $279.55, which he claims to be the balance due on a bill for lumber furnished Johnson for the construction of a house. The lot was purchased by Johnson from the Home & Garden company under a contract for deed. Mr. Bunker asks that the claim be declared a lien on the property, and be given judgment for the amount.

Some Radishes.

V. A. Dash, clerk of probate, lives next to nature out at Smithville and does a little farming on the side, as do many great men of the present day. This morning he appeared at the courthouse with two of about the finest radishes the county employes had ever feasted their eyes upon. They wanted to sink their teeth as well as feast their eyes, but only one could do that and Deputy Clerk of Court R. E. Johnson drew the prize. The radishes were white vegetables of the Dutch variety, and about 14 inches long. Mr. Dash proudly says that his garden can produce still finer.

WE APPEAL TO MEN!

We Are Specialists for the Cure of All Diseases of Men.

We Use the Most Up-to-Date Methods of Treatment.

This is the day of specialists. It is fully recognized that a man cannot do a dozen things at the same time and do them well. The doctor who pretends to be able to handle with success all the different diseases of men, women and children can offer you only half-learned knowledge. It takes a lifetime to gain even a fair insight into the diseases of men alone. How, then, can a man hope to master the diseases of both sexes in the space of one short college hospital course? That, however, is what is claimed by the majority.

We admit, frankly, that we have devoted very little of our time to the study of diseases of women. Our whole lives have been spent in discovering better and quicker ways to alleviate the suffering of disease-ridden man.

Our dissolving process—now world-famous—was discovered by us many years ago, and by its aid we have been able to bring about some remarkable cures of cases abandoned by all other doctors. The theory of this wonderful process is the direct application of medicaments by means of an electrical current. The medicine is carried directly to the part affected and begins immediately to work on the affected organ, leaving the vital organs of the body unaffected, thus doing away with the over-stimulation of the heart so common to drugging. It would be impossible to describe this process to the uninitiated, but we will be pleased to demonstrate it to any of our patients who are interested in the march of science. Call on us and let us examine you. If we can cure you we will tell you at once; more, we will issue a guarantee to so do that will hold in any court.

Progressive Medical Association, No. 1 West Superior street, Duluth, Minn.

CAN ORDER MILK SOLD IN BOTTLES

Municipal Right Established By Supreme Court in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 12.—It is within the powers of municipalities to provide by ordinance that milk sold in quantities of less than one gallon shall be sold only in glass containers, securely sealed. The supreme court gave a decision today to that effect in the case of F. H. Stass of Cleveland.

Stass is a milk dealer and ignored the Cleveland ordinance. He declared the ordinance was an unwarranted interference with his rights in business.

SAYS HE KILLED ONTARIO WOMAN

Canadian Gives Himself Up in London for Kinrade Murder.

London, Oct. 12.—Edward William Bedford, a Canadian, was charged today in the Bow street court on his own confession with the murder of Ethel Kinrade at Hamilton, Ont., and remanded for a week to allow inquiries to be made into several peculiar features of the case. Bedford gave himself up yesterday.

His signed confession, which was read in court, stated that he murdered the Kinrade woman in 1908, whereas the murder occurred in 1909.

A description of the murderer possessed by the Scotland yard officials does not tally with that of Bedford.

Bargain-hunting that does not begin in ad. reading isn't very satisfying—as a rule.

DULUTHIANS ARE DELIGHTED WITH ANNOUNCEMENT

Formal Statement Regarding Steel Plant Gives Widespread Satisfaction.

Prospect of Early Beginning of Construction Warmly Greeted.

The Hopes of Years Are About to Be Realized.

There is a general feeling of elation in business circles since the official announcement was made yesterday in The Herald, that the United States Steel corporation would begin work on its plant in this city this fall or early in the spring.

The one remark, that is heard on all sides, is that nothing could possibly assure the future prosperity of Duluth one half so much as the building of the steel plant.

Railroad men are not slow in expressing their opinion of the coming of the steel plant. They state that the location of the plant here will eventually mean a revising of the rates that at the present time apply from Duluth points.

The great increase in tonnage from this point, and the great growth of Duluth as a shipping point will, railroad men say, result in giving Duluth advantageous rates, lack of which has discriminated against the city for years.

Jobbers and wholesale men state that the coming of the steel plant will also mean the location here of other factories and that it will be the mag-

TEN-YEAR-OLD BOY SHOVES THE QUEER

Is Believed to Be Tool of Gang of Makers of Bad Money.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Although only 10 years of age, Albert Glover was arrested here last evening for attempting to pass a counterfeit half dollar and when searched at the station house was found to have on his person two razors, six pocket knives, $7 in bills and some change. The boy, who is from Alexandria, Va., said he found the things there. The police think the boy may be the tool of a band of counterfeiters.

J. M. BARRIE IS GIVEN DIVORCE

London, Oct. 13.—James M. Barrie, the novelist and playwright, was today granted a divorce from his wife on the grounds of the latter's misconduct with Gilbert Cannan, a young author. The suit was not defended. Mrs. Barrie was formerly Mary Ansell, an actress.

LAUNCH PARTY STILL MISSING

Walker, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.) — Nothing has been learned as yet regarding the launch Sarah L, which left Walker Sunday morning with a party for the Big lake, though it is the impression here that the party sought refuge at one of the several lumber camps on the lake before the storm broke.

As soon as the wind abates boats will go in search for the missing launch provided it has not been heard from by that time.

The Sarah L is a thirty-five foot launch. There were women on board when the boat left Walker.

TAFT TALKS IN ARIZONA

Spends Most of Day Traveling Over Sand Plains of Southwest.

Yuma, Ariz., Oct. 13.—President Taft today was speeding across the sands of Arizona well started on his journey back from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast. He crossed the Colorado river at Yuma shortly after 6 o'clock this morning and proceeded with only a pause for Maricopa, the railroad junction town where the train left the main line and continued northward toward Phoenix and other principal cities of the territory.

The president was met at Yuma by Governor Sloan of Arizona, accompanied by the other territorial officials and prominent citizens of Arizona. A five-minute stop was made at Maricopa.

Speech at Yuma.

At Tempe the first scheduled stop was made. From the rear platform the president spoke a few words upon mat-

NEXT PRESIDENT OF THE SWISS REPUBLIC

ROBERT COMTESSE.

Robert Comtesse, vice president of Switzerland, will be the next president, and will succeed Dr. Deucher, Jan. 1, 1910, unless all precedent and custom is set aside. It is the general rule in Switzerland to elect the vice president to succeed the retiring president. The president is elected for one year only, and is not eligible for re-election until a full twelve months shall intervene after leaving office. He receives a salary of a little less than $3,000.

WILL SEND FOR ESKIMOS

Dr. Cook Says He Will Bring Witnesses of Feat to New York.

Explorer Does Not Deign to Reply to Peary's Statement.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Dr. F. A. Cook arrived here this morning from Cleveland, in the midst of a heavy snow storm. He went directly to the Iroquois hotel.

"I can only say that the actual living human witnesses of my journey to the pole will themselves be able to disprove the distorted declarations put into their mouths in the statement issued by Commander Peary," said Dr. Cook today to the Associated Press.

"There could not be better testimony than that given by the men themselves before an unbiased body of inquirers. Commander Peary evidently regards their evidence as of the most profound importance, and so do I. It seems to me that he might have brought them along with him if he was so confident that they would corroborate his story. He, however, chose not to do so. I will therefore send for them as soon as possible and place them at the disposal of any scientific or other body that may desire to examine them with the aid of any competent interpreters whom the examining body may appoint."

No Reply To Peary.

Asked whether he would make a direct reply to Peary's statement, as had been intimated in an interview at Cleveland last night, Dr. Cook said:

"There is nothing to add to what has already been said. I do not intend to enter a newspaper controversy with any one. I shall depend upon the witnesses, who have already been brought into the case and prove my case by them."

Dr. Cook was given a public reception today on the 'change floor of the chamber of commerce.

MAY NOT TRY MRS. ARBOGAST

Sheriff Says That St. Paul Woman Is Mentally Unbalanced.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Specia to The Herad.)—Sheriff Wiiam A. Gerber doubts whether Mrs. Louis Arbogast ever will be placed on trial for the murder of her husband, Louis Arbogast, the West Seventh street butcher, who was found dead in his bed last spring. Her mental condition, the sheriff thinks, will preclude the possibility of a trial.

Sheriff Gerber said:

"Physically, Mrs. Arbogast is in fine condition, but mentally she is amost a wreck. I do not believe when the court sees her real condition, it will permit her to stand trial. I believe that Mrs. Arbogast has been in practically the same mental condition for at least twenty years, and I am informed that for several years, callers at the Arbogast home have not been permitted to see her."

Mrs. Arbogast is in the county jail, to which she was removed from the city hospital after she had recovered from the burns received on the night of the murder.

CRANE'S CASE IS THE CHIEF TOPIC AT WASHINGTON

(Mr. Crane's statement will be found on page 16.)

Washington, Oct. 13.—"What will President Taft do with the resignation of Crane?"

In one form or another this question was on the lips of all official Washington today. It is long since a diplomatic episode has excited the national capital more than this one.

Mr. Crane's stinging reply last night to the statement in which Secretary of State Knox, yesterday afternoon, announced that he had informed the minister designate that his resignation would be accepted, including, as the reply did, Mr. Crane's exceedingly lucid telegram of virtual resignation to the president, was read and reread with the keenest zest.

No Doubt of Acceptance.

Little doubt was expressed that the resignation of Mr. Crane would be accepted by the president. It was asserted, without qualification by those in

STORM'S TALE OF LAKE DISASTERS IS BEING TOLD

Reports of wrecks are beginning to come in.

The whaleback steamer Trevor of the Pittsburg Steamship company's line is ashore at Isle Royale.

News of the disaster was reported at Two Harbors by Capt. Kannelly of the steamer Curry. The Curry was bound for Duluth when her crew sighted the Trevor high and dry.

Little more than the foregoing is known here at the offices of the company in the Wolvin building. Whether the boat was blown ashore during the fierce gale that has just expended itself on Lake Superior, or whether she ran out of her course in the blinding snow storm, or whether she became disabled and was at the mercy of the wind, is not known.

The steamer was bound up from Lake Erie ports with a cargo of coal for Two Harbors. She was due at that port some time yesterday. Capt. Horning was in command.

The steamer John B. Trevor is one of the old-time whalebacks and was built in 1905. She is 308 feet long with a 38-foot beam, and of 1,713 tons gross burden.

TIME GROWS VERY SHORT

Johnson Memorial Fund in Duluth Must Be Closed Soon.

Those Who Desire to Contribute Should Not Delay Longer.

The Johnson Memorial Fund today stands as follows:

Previously acknowledged	$782.35
Received up to noon today	11.00
Total to date	$793.35

Do you wish to subscribe to the John Albert Johnson Memorial Fund and have forgotten to do so?

Then do not neglect the matter any longer. Bring in or mail in your subscription without further delay—tonight, or tomorrow morning.

No one is being asked to contribute to this fund. No solicitors are at work. No subscription lists are being circulated. Thousands who wish to have a share in the creation of a memorial to the late governor have forgotten to send in their subscriptions. The Duluth fund should reach at least $1,000, and there is less than $800 now subscribed.

The contributions by Duluth citizens to the Governor Johnson Memorial fund show a decided slump for the past few days—ever since the sudden cold spell started. Perhaps the people have been so busy buying coal that they have not had time to think about anything else. Whatever the cause, it is time to remember that the memorial fund will be closed on Nov. 1, and Duluth should make a larger contribution than has

IS SHOT AS ARCH REBEL

Prof. Ferrer Is Executed By Spanish Authorities at Barcelona.

Barcelona, Oct. 13.—Prof. Francisco Ferrer, the Spanish educator and convicted revolutionist, was shot today. The execution was done at the fortress of Montjuich. The prisoner had been confined there since his condemnation by court-martial.

The doomen man faced the firing squad without flinching, and fell dead at the first volley.

Ferrer, except for a momentary expression of emotion immediately preceding his death, retained his composure to the last. His attorney, M. Galceran, who had defended the prisoner so loyally as to bring about his own arrest for improperly addressing the court, had secured permission for a brief talk with the revolutionist before the latter was led to his death.

Spoke of His Daughter.

To his attorney Ferrer spoke feelingly of the work for which he sacrificed his life and of the future of his daughter, whose brave attempt to save his life touched the father more deeply, apparently, than any other incident of his trial and conviction. On Ferrer's arrest his family was left dependent upon this daughter, who at once secured employment in a biscuit factory.

When it was known that her father had been sentenced to death, the daughter made a personal appeal to King Alfonso, calling upon him in the name of his known generosity and chivalry to spare her father's life. When these facts were related by Galceran, Ferrer broke down. It was but a passing emotion, and presently the undaunted revolutionist was himself again.

Refused Last Sacraments.

Ferrer declined to receive the last sacraments and turned away from the two priests of the Order of Peace and

NEW EMPLOYE IN TREASURY HAZED

Washington, Oct. 13.—Having "hazed," it is alleged, and while doing so seriously injured, a new comer in their midst, three apprentice boys and a plate printer are likely to lose their positions in the bureau of engraving and printing.

Hazing of new employes at the bureau is said to have been practiced for a long time. After an investigation of the present case, which had its inception about five days ago, Director Ralph made a report of the matter to Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, in which he recommended that the offending parties be dismissed.

"CO-OPERATIVE LIVING" AND THE GARDEN CITIES OF GREAT BRITAIN

Written for The Evening Herald by Zach McGhee.

(Copyright 1909, by Zach McGhee.)

London, Oct. 1.—To see a whole army of beautiful girls, well dressed, healthy, hearty and happy, at work—factory work—in a most attractive room, is an inspiring sight. This may be done at numerous places in England, notably at a cocoa mill near Birmingham, at a soap factory near Liverpool, at an alpaca mill near Bradford and at several places just outside of London.

There are others working in these factories, but naturally the girls attract most attention. They all live in the beautifully laid out, beautifully and healthfully appointed villages around the factories. "Garden cities," they call these places. "The factory in a garden" is the idea, and an idea which has taken root in Great Britain, in time, no doubt, to spread like other ideas for the betterment of the human race, especially the so-called working class, throughout the island.

Don't think it doesn't pay in pounds, shillings and pence, and don't think it is "charity." It is business, and it is not the "uplift," either, but the uprise, for these garden-like villages that are springing up all over England are now beginning to be inaugurated and managed on the co-operative plan. It, therefore, takes no large fortune, no wealthy philanthropist, no Rockefeller or Carnegie, or that sort of fellow, to start one.

It Takes no Capital.

Walking through one of these beautiful, comfortable, and in every way attractive villages near Birmingham, a few days ago, with one of the officials, I asked who put up the capital for this sort of thing. He smiled.

"Why, it takes no capital in the usual sense, you know," he replied. "We organize a little society of people who want homes, raise £400 or £500 (say, $1,500). That will put up a couple of houses, and from that we gradually build others, as the money comes in from rent and other shares, which are bound to come."

It is simply a joint stock company on the order of our building and loan associations, with this fundamental difference, that instead of lending out the money, they build homes with it and rent them to members of the association. By this plan I find that thousands, which I doubt not will soon go into the millions of workingmen, factory operatives, office clerks, tradesmen, professional men and others, are beginning to get comfortable and attractive homes, with gardens in front and all around and in the rear, the garden space being a part of the regulation of these societies.

And so the consumer here has found another way of getting free of the millionaire capitalist. There is little doubt that in time the co-operative factory will become a large feature of the industrial institutions of Britain. Then they will abolish capital in the usual sense altogether. But that's a prediction, and I'm not here to predict, but to tell what these people already have done and are doing.

Plan Is Popular.

It did take a big-hearted, humannatured rich man to point the way in this great movement of higher life on earth which this "garden city" affords. As many who have visited Birming-

PITTSBURG ONCE MORE

National League Team Wins From Detroit in Game Marked By Three Home Runs.

Score by innings:	R.	H.	E.
Detroit ..... 1 0 0 0 0 2 0 1 0—4	6	1
Pittsburg .... 1 1 1 0 0 0 4 1 x—8	10	2

Batteries: Summers, Willett and Stanage and Schmidt; Adams and Gibson.

Forbes Field, Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 13.—Pittsburg took the lead in the great baseball championship of the world by defeating Detroit by the score of 8 to 4 in the fifth game of the series at Forbes Field today. A home run by Manager Clark in the seventh inning turned the tide in favor of Pittsburg, as he scored Byrne and Leach in front of him.

Detroit had just tied the score at 3 to 3 and appeared to be dangerous contenders, but Clarke's terrific hit put them out of the running.

Charles Adams, the phenomenal youngster of Pittsburg, won his second game of the series by clearly outpitching Summers. Adams held the hard-hitting Detroit team to six hits, but two of them were home runs, one being made by D. Jones and the other by Crawford, making three home runs for the game.

SUMMERS FELL DOWN.

The cause of the home runs was the low fence which had been built around the outside field to hold back the overflow, but there were not enough people to fill the stands, so this section was vacant and it was easy to hit into it.

Manager Jennings took another chance with Ed Summers, who was batted so hard in the first inning of the first game at Detroit, and the Detroit twirler failed to make good. He was hit fairly hard, although he was not to blame for all of Pittsburg's scores. Summers was relieved by Willett in the eighth, but it was too late. Both of Detroit's home runs came with the bases empty, while Pittsburg's one was made with two men on the way stations.

INCIDENTS OF THE GAME.

Davy Jones, the first man up for Detroit, slammed out a home run to center field.

Summers, in the first inning, let Wagner walk, filling the bases. He managed to strike out Miller, the next man up, but threw four wild ones to Abstein, forcing Byrne across the plate for the only run the Pirates got in that inning.

Pittsburg's score in the second came after a wonderful one-handed pickup by Delehanty of what looked like a safe hit by Byrne, by means of which the latter was retired at first. Gibson, who had beaten out a bunt to first and taken second on Adams' sacrifice to Delehanty, got third on the play by which Byrne was retired, and scored on a wild pitch that Summers made to Leach. Leach retired the side with a high fly to Crawford.

Wagner got his first hit of the game in the third when he smashed a single through short, Bush having gone to cover second as Clarke started for that base. In this inning Clarke, the first man up, drew a base on balls, got second and third on Wagner's hit and scored when Miller went out by the Bush-T. Jones route.

EVEN IN THE SIXTH.

Detroit evened up the score in the sixth, Bush fanned, Gibson dropped the ball, but picked it up in time to tag the batter. Cobb, however, singled to left field and got home on Crawford's double between Leach and Clarke. Delehanty hit to Wagner, who threw wild, allowing Delehanty to get to second while Crawford finished the circuit, making the score 3 to 3. Moriarity flied out and T. Jones went out on a foul.

The seventh was disastrous for the Tigers. Summers fanned Adams, the first man up, but Byrne singled to left and got third on Leach's single to the same place. With these men on first and third, Clarke whanged the ball into the center field stand for a home run.

Wagner came to bat next, and Summers, evidently affected by the preceding play, hit the famous batter with the ball. Wagner fell to the ground and lay there for several minutes while the players gathered about him. He appeared to be seriously hurt, but was able to go to first, steal second and third and score when Schmidt, who had gone in to catch in Stanage's place, threw too high in his attempt to catch Wagner at third. This made the fourth run for the Pirates in this inning. Abstein, the last man up, fanned.

HOMER BY CRAWFORD.

Detroit scored again in the eighth with another home run hit with the bases empty, this time by Crawford. With two men out, Crawford hit into the center field stand and made the circuit. Leach, in running for the ball, failed to see the fence and smashed through it, falling into the stand, but he did not seem to suffer seriously from the collision.

Pittsburg also scored one in the eighth, Wilson doubled between Crawford and Davy Jones, the latter losing the ball in the sun and Wilson scored when Gibson placed a close single back of first.

Summers, whose work had come in for some criticism from the crowd throughout the game, but who had been retained nevertheless, was taken out in this point and Willett went into the box. Adams bunted an easy one to T. Jones, and Gibson stole second on Byrne's third strike, but was caught trying to reach third.

First Inning.

Detroit—D. Jones hit into the center field for a home run. Bush walked and the Pittsburg team began to delay the game to give Adams a chance to steady. Play was resumed after a delay of two minutes. Cobb sent a high fly to Leach and Bush went to third on a hit and run play by Crawford. Delehanty struck out. Crawford stole second, and Gibson did not throw to get him, fearing Bush coming in from third, but threw to Adams instead. Moriarity popped to Abstein. One run.

Pittsburg—Byrne singled past Bush and Leach beat out a bunt along first base line. Byrne going to second. Clarke sacrificed. Stanage to T. Jones, sending Byrne to third and Leach to second. Summers intentionally gave Wagner his base on balls, filling the bases. Miller struck out, but Abstein drew a base on balls, forcing in Byrne. Wilson struck out. One run. Score: Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 1.

Second Inning.

Detroit—T. Jones flied to Wilson. Stanage struck out and Summers followed suit. No runs.

Pittsburg—Gibson beat out a hit to Bush and Adams sacrificed, Summers to Delehanty, sending Gibson to second. Delehanty made a wonderful one-handed pickup of what appeared to be a safe hit by Byrne and threw him out to T. Jones. Gibson went to third, from where he scored one wild pitch. Leach sent a high fly to Crawford. One run. Score: Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 2.

Third Inning.

Detroit—D. Jones sent a long fly to Leach. Bush struck out and Cobb was out, Byrne to Abstein. No runs.

Pittsburg—Clarke drew a base on balls, and Wagner singled to left and Clarke went to third on a hit and run play. As Clarke started for second, Bush ran to cover the base and Wagner hit through Bush's position. Miller was out, Bush to T. Jones, but scoring Clarke and sending Wagner to second. Abstein was out, Bush to T. Jones, and Wagner went to third. Wilson was out, Bush to T. Jones. One run. Score—Detroit, 1; Pittsburg, 3.

Fourth Inning.

Detroit—Crawford was out, Wagner to Abstein, and Delehanty struck out. Moriarity hit a hot one to Miller and was thrown out, Miller to Abstein. No runs.

Pittsburg—Gibson was out, Moriarity to T. Jones. Adams fouled to Stanage, and Byrne flied to D. Jones. No runs.

Fifth Inning.

Detroit—T. Jones doubled along left field foul line. Stanage struck out, and so did Summers, and D. Jones sent a high fly to Clarke. No runs.

Pittsburg—Leach flied to D. Jones. Clarke beat out a hit to T. Jones. The latter fell in fielding the ball, and Clarke stole second. Stanage's throw went by Delehanty, but he fell against Clarke and prevented him from trying for third. Wagner out, Bush to T. Jones, Clarke going to third. Miller was out, Moriarity to T. Jones. No runs.

Sixth Inning.

Detroit—Bush struck out and Gibson dropped the ball, but picked it up in time to tag Bush. Cobb singled to left. Crawford doubled between Leach and Clarke, scoring Cobb. Delehanty hit to Wagner and was safe on the big man's wild throw, and Delehanty was able to get to second on the throw, Crawford scoring on the play. Moriarity flied to Clarke, and T. Jones fouled to Abstein. Two runs.

Pittsburg—Abstein popped to Bush, and Wilson grounded out to T. Jones, unassisted. Gibson was out, Bush to T. Jones. No runs. Score: Detroit, 3; Pittsburg, 3.

Seventh Inning.

Detroit — McIntyre, batting for Stanage, grounded out to Abstein unassisted. Summers was out on a grounder to Abstein, who touched first and D. Jones was out, Byrne to Abstein. No runs.

Pittsburg—Adams struck out. Byrne singled to left. Then Leach also singled to left and Byrne went to third. Clarke hit a home run into the center field stand, scoring Byrne and Leach in front of him.

Wagner was hit by a pitched ball and fell to the ground. He appeared to be hurt, and did not rise for a few minutes and the players all gathered around him.

Wagner finally got up and started and went to first base. Miller flied to D. Jones.

Schmidt went in to catching for Detroit.

Wagner stole second and third and scored on Schmidt's high throw. Abstein struck out. Four runs. Score: Detroit, 3; Pittsburg, 7.

Eighth Inning.

Detroit—Bush flied to Leach and Cobb was out, Adams to Abstein. Crawford hit a home run into the center field stand and Leach, running for the ball, smashed the fence and fell into the stand. He climbed out a moment later apparently none the worse for his shaking up. Delehanty was out, Byrne to Abstein. One run.

Pittsburg—Wilson doubled between Crawford and D. Jones, the latter losing the ball in the sun. Gibson placed a near single back of first, and Wilson scored. Willett now pitching for Detroit. In an attempt to sacrifice Adams bunted an easy one to T. Jones, Gibson stole second on the third strike of Byrne. Gibson was caught stealing third, Schmidt to Moriarity. One run. Score: Detroit, 4; Pittsburg, 8.

Ninth Inning.

Detroit—Moriarity fouled to Byrne. T. Jones was safe when Wagner dropped his pop fly, and he stole second. Schmidt out, Wagner to Abstein, Mullin, batting for Willett, popped to Wagner. No runs. Final score: Detroit, 4; Pittsburg, 8.

Hard Battle Was Expected.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct 13.—With the fifth game of the world's championship series between Detroit and Pittsburg scheduled for this city today, the weather conditions promised to be decidedly better than they were in Detroit yesterday. The thermometer registered 34 degs. early in the day, but the weather forecaster said it would be much warmer before the game started.

Despite the severe weather, many persons, blanket-wrapped and snuggled by the side of small fires, congregated at the general admission gate at Forbes field before daylight, waiting for the ticket windows to open at 10 o'clock. It is said 1,000 Disciples of Christ delegates have bought seats for the game.

It was expected that the crowd which began early to file into Forbes field would number at least 25,000.

CASE MAY BE FORERUNNER OF BIG LEGAL CONFLICT

Bond at Issue in Brown-Branch Case is One of Many.

Clouds Surrounding William Branch's Affairs May Be Cleared Away.

It develops as the trial of the case of Caroline E. Brown against the city of Duluth, Mary Branch and Mrs. Linda Dunn progresses before Judge Cant in district court, that the case is of far more importance than appears on the surface. The action now on trial involves one bond of the old village of Duluth valued at about $1,000. But the case is said to be merely the preliminary skirmish in a legal battle to clear away some of the clouds which still surround the financial affairs of William Branch, who died in 1872.

Ancient history is being resurrected in the case now on trial. The financial transactions of William Branch during the last years of his life are being scrutinized, and his books, with their entries of 1868-72 are exhibited in evidence. This morning Luther Mendenhall and John F. McLaren, pioneers of Duluth, were on the stand to tell of personal business affairs of Mr. Branch and transactions in the finances of the city of Duluth in the early days. Mr. McLaren was a bookkeeper for Mr. Branch in 1868 and 1869, and a little later Mr. Mendenhall assisted Judge Stearns in effecting a compromise whereby obligations of the old city of Duluth were taken over by the village of Duluth.

It appears that when the old village government succeeded the city government that formerly prevailed, the obligations of the city were taken over and a compromise effected whereby new bonds were issued to replace the outstanding city of Duluth bonds. The bond involved in the present case is one of those given in exchange.

The case of the intervenors, Mrs. Branch and Mrs. Dunn, who, with the plaintiff, are the only parties in interest now, the city of Duluth having deposited in court the money to pay for the bond, is based on the claim that William Branch was the actual owner of the old city of Duluth bonds given in exchange for the village of Duluth bond now in dispute. In support of that contention, Mr. Branch's books and records and such ancient books and records of the village as can be discovered in the office of the city comptroller are being carefully gone over in court.

Not in the evidence, but as a side-light in the case, the story of the involved condition in which the affairs of the Branch estate were left has come out. William Branch died in November, 1872. At that time, it is said, he was closing out his business and preparing to move, with his family, to California to spend the remainder of his days in retirement. While engaged in closing up his affairs he was stricken by an illness which proved fatal.

It is said that Robert A. Smith, who was at one time mayor of St. Paul, was appointed administrator of the estate. After several years taken in straightening out affairs, an accounting of the estate was given and it appeared that William Branch, who was popularly supposed to have been a wealthy man, was in comparatively modest financial circumstances at the time of his death.

For some reason, known only to the parties, matters rested thus for many years. Now it has come out that the Branch heirs believe that Mr. Branch was possessed of securities worth thousands of dollars at the time of his death that never appeared in the accounting of his estate. The old city of Duluth bonds, given in exchange for the village bond now in dispute, are alleged to have been included in those securities. The Branch heirs claim that Mr. Branch's books show the ownership of the securities. They want to know what became of them.

Thus, the suit in progress is but a preliminary to what may follow. The heirs of Mr. Branch are attempting to cast no imputation on Mr. Smith or anybody concerned in the administration of the estate, but they want to be shown. The present holders of the bonds, they claim, must show the validity of their ownership, for they believe that since Mr. Branch's books do not show any transfer of the bonds, he never did make a transfer and they will base their contention on that fact.

Before the entire matter is settled there promises to be some interesting developments. Men prominent in the early history of St. Paul and Duluth were associated with Mr. Branch and his estate after his death and they will be brought into the cases which are expected to follow the one now in progress of trial.

GATHER MAIL IN AN AUTO

Postmaster Eaton Makes Application for a "Pick-Up Wagon."

The Addition Would Improve Local Service in Many Ways.

Along with the improvements to the lobby of the postoffice building and the promised reform in regard to the use of the general delivery window by young girls and others, Duluth may also take her place with the most up-to-date offices of the country, which have automobiles to pick up the mail in the various parts of the city.

Postmaster Guy A. Eaton has made application to the department at Washington for an automobile wagon for this purpose, and it is very likely that within a few months the machine will be granted to the Duluth department.

This would make possible a number of extra trips a day, and would make a day's difference in the time of many outgoing letters.

At the present time some of the mail is picked up by the regular carriers and some is taken up with the aid of a horse and wagon.

In many cities the automobile method has already been installed. The results are very satisfactory, as a number of men who have been engaged in picking up the mail can be used to distribute, and in that way the service is greatly improved.

If the wagon is installed in Duluth a clerk will accompany it on its trips and sort the mail as it is picked up. In this way there will be no sorting to do when the mail is turned in at the local office, and greater dispatch will be gained in getting it to the trains.

As the automobile system has been very successful in improving the service in other cities, Postmaster Eaton thinks there will be little difficulty in getting the authority from Washington to install the improvement here.

Hearing at Atkinson.

Ira B. Mills, chairman of the railroad and warehouse commission, and Commissioner Charles P. Staples were in Duluth today en route to Atkinson, where a hearing is being held today on the petition to have a station opened there. The two members of the commission were accompanied by George Ross, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific railway.

You can make some of your store hopes come true this summer—if you advertise as though you wanted to do that.

BANK FRAUD UNDERRATED

Mineral Point Shortage Now Is Estimated at About $400,000.

False Dealing in the Conduct of Affairs Is Admitted.

Mineral Point, Wis., Oct. 13.—The legal aspect of the First National bank failure here was scheduled for discussion between the bank examiner and the United States district attorney today, but the latter missed his train from Madison last night. He is expected here tonight, however. Despite the late hour at which Bank Examiner Goodhart labored over the books last night, he was early at his work again today.

Several additional notes said to be worthless have reached the bank, and a more serious aspect has developed, it being reported that the shortage, instead of $200,000 as at first estimated, will run close to $400,000.

Vice President Phil Allen, Jr. is said to have lost heavily in California and Montana mining investments. The value of the securities which he has turned over to the bank has not been ascertained, but much Western mining stock in the collection is said to be worthless.

Bank Examiner Goodhart has telegraphed the comptroller of the currency at Washington asking for the appointment of a receiver for the bank.

Senior Allen Sick.

Philip Allen, Sr., for years a victim of palsy, is seriously ill at his home, unable to see visitors. The shock of the discovery of the shortage aggravated the old malady, and his condition, said last night to be precarious, showed no improvement today.

The city is noticeably quiet in the face of a calamity which affects a large portion of the community. Mineral Point is the third oldest city in the state and practically all of its 3,000 inhabitants are of American birth. They are meeting only casually in the shops, talking in subdued tones, without trace of excitement or malace of the prospects of recovering their deposits.

This bank was regarded as a financial Gibraltar. So firm was this belief that when reports of trouble began spreading a week ago there was no run on the bank. Even when news of the shortage was known to many depositors last Friday, only $16,000 was withdrawn. It is said that more than this was deposited from other sources. It seemed past belief to a majority of depositors that anything could be really wrong with the First National bank, which had been in existence for more than a generation.

Fraud Is Admitted.

That fraud is behind the failure, is admitted. The cause is said to be disastrous speculation in mines. The manner in which the bank was defrauded, it is alleged, was by the substitution of notes in the forged names of well-known local business men for negotiable securities. The repeated occurrence of these notes and a certain uniformity in their character aroused the suspicion of the bank examiner, and a further probing into the books of the concern resulted in closing the bank.

For the last eight years Mr. Spensley has been president of the bank, Philip Allen has been cashier almost since the bank's inception. Four years ago Mr. Allen was made vice president.

GIRL TRIES TO POISON FAMILY

Kills Herself When Brother Finds Strychnine in the Coffee.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 13.—What might have been a case of wholesale poisoning of a family at Hortonville, Wis., today resulted only in the suicide of Miss Lucy Dietz, aged 26 years.

Miss Dietz was one of five children at the Dietz home to attend the funeral of their father, which occurred yesterday.

This morning she was the first to arise, and insisted on preparing breakfast for the family without any help. Observing the peculiar actions of the sister, several of the brothers became suspicious and insisted upon being in the kitchen while the breakfast was being prepared.

One of the brothers looked into the coffee pot and smelled what he thought to be strychnine.

Upon investigation it was found that enough of the poison had been put into the coffee to kill every member of the family.

As soon as Miss Dietz learned that the poison in the coffee had been discovered, she took a dose of it herself and died in a few minutes.

The Dietz estate in which the children are interested is valued at about $20,000.

TWO FIGHTS IN ONE AFTERNOON

Even the City Jail Did Not Cool Joe's Pugilistic Ardor.

Joe Jarmbo, at one time a loyal union seaman, but recently weaned away from the cause of unionism, today became embroiled in two feuds.

Joe was in a Bowery saloon. It is supposed he was drinking, but that will come up later. Other seamen were in the place, and when they learned that Joe was "scabbing it," they chided him, calling him many and various names. A fight ensued.

The police interrupted and Joe was taken to the police station. Here was where fight No. 2 occurred. Joe's wrath had not been cooled by his ride in the patrol wagon, even if the atmosphere is exceedingly cold, and when locked up, began pounding several prisoners, who, like Joe, found themselves in trouble and also jail.

The police station officials were obliged to interfere. Joe was placed in an isolated cell, there to muse in lonely misery over the troubles that beset man.

It wouldn't have required much more persuasion in your ad. to have brought a hundred more buyers to your store today.

LINE WILL BE EXTENDED

Street Car Tracks Will Be Laid to Spirit Lake Next Year.

Survey Has Been Made for Extension to Steel Plant.

The announcement that the construction of the steel plant at Spirit Lake will start next spring, practically assures the extension of the street car line next year.

Herbert Warren, general manager, said today that he could say nothing further on the subject than has already been printed. The intention of the company has been to put the line out to the plant as soon as all uncertainty as to its construction was removed.

The preliminary surveys for the extension were made over a year ago. No work will be done this fall, but it is probable that next spring will see the street car company getting active in this direction.

WILL DISCUSS LIVE PROBLEMS

Platform Meetings Will Be Held at Church Sundays.

Platform meetings will be held at the Merritt Memorial M. E. church Sunday evenings beginning in the near future, according to an announcement made by Rev. E. F. Stidd, the pastor, recently.

These meetings will be substituted for the Sunday evening sermons and social problems will be taken up for discussion. Among other topics, these will be taken up: "How Can the Church Help to Improve Social Conditions?" "How Can the Church Aid Reform Movements?" "How Can the Church Help to Better the Condition of Labor?"

Outside speakers will be invited to preside over the sessions, and it is expected that the novel way of conducting a Sunday evening service will prove a drawing card. W. E. McEwen, state commissioner of labor, has been secured to speak at the church on the labor problem.

Mrs. William Spencer, who up to last year had been a resident of West Duluth for fifteen years, is reported to be dying at her home at America, Okla.

Smith Spencer, a son, received a telegram last evening at West Duluth to the effect that his mother was fast sinking. He left on the noon train today and will arrive there Saturday. He had just returned from St. Paul.

CANCELS HIS ENGAGEMENT

Swedish Lecturer Will Not Be Heard in Duluth.

Rev. David Nyvall of Minneapolis, former professor of theology in the North Park Theological seminary at Chicago, who was to have given a series of six lectures at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, in the near future, has cancelled his engagement.

Rev. Carl Nelson, the pastor of the church, received a telegram from Rev. Nyvall, yesterday afternoon, in which it was stated that he would be unable to fill the engagement which had been arranged for Duluth. Rev. Nyvall is considered to be one of the best Swedish speakers in this part of the country.

His first lecture, which was to have been delivered Oct. 21, was to be on "Sweden and the Swedes." The other five were to have been given on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

ORDERED OFF BY RAILROAD

Believed Work on Soo Roundhouse Will Soon Begin.

Work on the new Soo roundhouse at the West end may begin within the next two weeks.

L. Schlitz, a blacksmith, who has a shop and a small house at 2015 West Michigan street, on the property acquired by the Soo, had a notice served on him yesterday to move off the property. The understanding was that work was to begin immediately on a new roundhouse.

Less than a month ago Axel Zimmerman sold to the Soo road a tenement house at Twenty-first avenue west and Michigan street and a 50 by 140-foot lot for $10,000. The property stands on the southeast corner.

The road now owns the entire block and it adjoins the right-of-way. This would make an ideal place for a roundhouse, and it is understood that this is the purpose for which it was acquired.

CUPID BUSY IN THIS FAMILY

Uncle and Two Nephews Wed Within Four Months.

When George D. Jewell of the U. S. block, and a member of the grain firm of Jewell & Webb, was united in marriage to Miss Editha E. Merrick of Portland, Or., at Minneapolis last Sunday, it marked the third marriage in his family during the past few months.

Halbert L. Webb, a nephew of Mr. Jewell, and a partner in the firm of Jewell & Webb, was married to Miss Belle Bishop on the last day of July. On June 4 Leigh Gunther of 1931 West First street, who is another nephew to Mr. Jewell, became the husband of Miss Frances Ness.

The wedding of Miss Merrick to Mr. Jewell was a very quiet affair, and was kept secret up to the itme it took place. It was performed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Dawson of 4310 Nicolett avenue, Minneapolis.

Mrs. Jewell, prior to her marriage, had been a resident of Portland, Or., but had formerly lived in North Dakota. Mr. Jewell is well known to most every one in the West end. Many will be surprised to learn of his marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Jewell returned to the West end yesterday afternoon.

Play Is Repeated.

"Falsely Accused," a drama in four acts, was again presented by the Young Men's sodality of St. Clement's church, last evenign, at the schol hall.

The audience was large, and seemed to be well pleased with the showing that the young people made. Among those present were a number of the Catholic clergy of the city.

The play was given under the direction of Father Raymond. All took their parts well. It is understood that another play will be presented by the young men later in the winter.

Those who were in the cast follow: Messrs J. Wade, L. Drohan, M. Ahern, J. C. Schultze, W. Emerson, J. Garvey, E. W. Robinson, M. McMahon, E. Robinson, George Ceass, J. Rowland, A. Nolan and G. Lockhart.

ham know, it was George Cadbury, "the cocoa man," who perhaps gave it its greatest impulse. It is unimportant if his title to the fatherhood of the idea is disputed. He did move his cocoa factory out of the crowded city of Birmingham, placed it out in the fresh, invigorating air and sunshine of the country, arranged every possible comfort, convenience and healthful amusement and educational feature in it for his workmen; then built beautiful homes, with all modern comforts and conveniences, with ample gardens, for his workmen, and for the workmen of any other factory who would come and live in the "garden village." And the workmen came.

There are 524 acres in the village, and 502 houses, with from four to eight rooms, each with a bath, hot and cold water, cooking range and so forth, renting for from $1.25 to $2.50 a week, including taxes. He started this in 1895. All the houses are occupied, and there is a demand for more. More are being built.

The plan is to take all the profits from the rents, which are fixed at the regular market price, buy more land and build more houses.

Only about 40 per cent of the people living in this "garden city," by the way, work in the cocoa factory.

Now, that is the idea, stated very briefly, for in one column not the one-fourth can be told. From it people throughout this country, having before them the wonderful success of their other co-operative enterprises, such as public service enterprises in their cities and their co-operative stores, saw that they need not wait on other philanthropic rich men to start such enterprises, but could start them and run them themselves.

Cost of Building.

And right on the edge of this Cadbury's garden city, and with Mr. Cadbury's hearty approval and co-operation, too, he being a small shareholder, they have for some years been successfully running a co-operative garden city. A few miles away is another, and here and there about the country they are starting up. There are four such cities in the suburbs of London.

One can get an idea of an advantage these people have over us Americans when we compare the cost of building and building materials. I examined one of these houses while it was building, and others after they were finished. With me was a young man from the headquarters office, who went over the cost and so forth with me.

Let me say, in the first place, that these houses, all built of brick, what timbers used being the very best, are built to stay. Workmanship of a very superior sort is shown in the fitting of every cornice, door and window facing, floor and ceiling. With regret I must say that I have seen many a house building in America, and I have never seen there any such excellence, even in the highest priced houses. These I here refer to are workmen's cottages.

I examined one house larger, and with a larger lot renting for more than the ordinary factory hand can afford. Some clerk, tradesman or professional man in Birmingham will rent it for $35 a month, including all taxes. It is on a lot 40 by 150 feet. There are three rooms on the first floor, with a nice, spacious porch in front and on the side, also a hall, a pantry and several closets and a lavatory on the first floor. There is a bathroom, 6 by 8 feet, with porcelain tub and sink. There is a big copper hot water reservoir fixed in the wall, connected with the heater in the kitchen. In the kitchen is a grate range, with open grate and spacious ovens, and a big bronze clothes-drying receptacle. There are two chimneys. The roof is tiled.

Brick House for $1,700.

This house of brick, with plaster-of-paris walls and papering, cost £350, or $1,700. During the last few years I have looked about considerably in the suburbs of Washington, with a view to building a house of just about these proportions. It would cost there now at least $4,500 if built of brick, with workmanship anyway approaching this one in the suburbs of Birmingham.

If you will examine it you will see that every item that goes into that house in Washington has a tax on it which goes to the producer, for none of the material is imported.

LYCEUM—"Forty-five Minutes From Broadway."

"45 Minutes From Broadway."

What many people consider the best play George M. Cohan ever wrote, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," will be the attraction at the Lyceum theater this evening, and tomorrow and Friday nights.

Mr. Cohan's good-natured satire on small town life has amused countless thousands and the musical numbers in the piece have added much to his fame as an author-composer. "So Long, Mary," has become a classic in American popular music.

Cohan & Harris, the original producers, are still directing the tour of "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," and they are said to have engaged a splendid company to interpret the piece this year.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Headache Five Minutes Later.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved five minutes after taking a little diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

The man who neglected to buy his ten acres of land for a grove on the Isle of Pines last year has lost just $200 by waiting. To wait another year will prove still more expensive. MINNESOTA CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Arguments Made as to Right of Commerce Board to Fix Rates.

Washington, Oct. 13.—In the first day's sessions of the present term of the United States supreme court, the government entered upon an argument in support of the right of the commission to fix rates, contending that the courts could not suspend or set aside an order of the commission prescribing a maximum rate unless it is shown that the commission had not proceeded in the manner provided by law or that the rates constituted a confiscation of the property. It was argued then that the proceeding had been regular and the rates fixed had not been unreasonable.

The case comes to the court from the United States circuit court for the district of Minnesota, which court enjoined the commission from the enforcement of its order. The government appealed.

The controversy out of which the case grew has been going on for fifteen years. It has been the subject of five decisions in the lower federal courts and one decision in the supreme court.

Livestock Case Argued.

The case of the Interstate Commerce Commission vs. the Chicago & Great Western and other railroads entering Chicago, to the argument of which the supreme court yesterday gave its chief attention, involves the right of the interstate commerce comunission to fix the terminal charges for the delivery of livestock in Chicago. The railroads formerly charged $2 per car and the commission issued an order prohibiting a charge in excess of $1.

The case was argued for the government by Wade H. Ellis, assistant to the attorney general, with S. H. Cowan, representing the livestock interests, and by William D. McHugh and Walker D. Hines representing the railroads.

The case turned largely upon the question as to whether the terminal charges were separable from the other railroad charges for the transportation of stocks. It was contended on behalf of the railroads that they had a right to divide their rates and to make a separate terminal charge for the delivery of stock to the stockyards, a point beyond the lines of the roads. They therefore contended that the terminal charge did not involve a question of interstate commerce and that the commission was without jurisdiction.

Division of Rates.

On behalf of the government, it was asserted that the transportation to the stockyards is as much a part of the carriers' duty as the transportation over any other portion of the journey from the port of shipment to the market. The same cars, the same engines and the same crews, it was declared, operated over the tracks from the end of the carrier's rails to the Union stockyards that are used over other parts of the journey. The tracks in Chicago that lead to the yards were declared to be a part of the railroad as defined by the interstate commerce act.

EPISCOPALIANS IN PROVIDENCE

Big Attendance Marks Meeting of Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 13.—About 2,000 delegates, leaders in the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States, and many of them of high distinction in the educational world, gathered from all sections of the country in this city today for the opening of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. The meeting will be begun tonight and continue until Oct. 17.

In addition to the many Americans of note who will address the convention during its sessions, there will be several from Great Britain, including Rev. P. R. Bull of Mirfield, Eng., well known as a worker among boys and chapiain of the royal navy.

Among others of prominence expected to attend the convention are Bishop C. C. Grafton of Fond du Lac, Wis., and E. M. Osborne of Springfield, Ill.

ATHLETES TO BE TAKEN TO IOWA FOR TRIAL.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 13.—Bert Shores, alias Bert Warner, the middleweight wrestler, and Winn Sharris of Spokane, indicted in Iowa for having used the United States mails to defraud in connection with the Maybray gang of alleged wrestling swindlers, have been ordered taken to Iowa for trial, and the United States marshal will send them East at once.

LAST SPIKE DRIVEN IN WINNIPEG ROAD.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 13.—The last spike in Section F of the National Transcontinental railway was driven yesterday afternoon, near Wabigon river. This is the government line connecting Winnipeg with the Head of the Lakes, which will be leased to the Grad Trunk Pacific, giving this railway an outlet to Fort William, Ont., a distance of 449 miles. The road will not be used for traffic until next year.

Catches Partridge in Barnyard.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Matthew Chester of Negaunee is another Upper Michigan man who has been successful this season in bagging a partridge without the necessity of going to the woods in search of the feathered game. He found the bird in his barnyard, fraternizing with the chickens. Only recently a partridge was killed in an Escanaba hardware store.

To Haul Grain by Boat.

Williston, N. D., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—McKenzie county farmers, who have been in a bad way on account of the long distance to market, will be provided with an easy outlet for their grain. The steamboat City of Opportunity, which has for some time been operated on the Yellowstone river, has been transferred to the Missouri river and from now until the time of freezing will be engaged in hauling grain from McKenzie county points to this city.

TALKING OF HUMAN ILLS

Annual Meeting of State Medical Association Is On at Winona.

Northern Minnesota Physicians Are Figuring in the Proceedings.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 13.—The annual convention of the Minnesota State Medical association began here at 9 o'clock this morning in Union hall with a representative attendance of practitioners of the state.

The Minnesota association devoted this morning to a consideration of the epidemic of anterior polio myelitis or infantile paralysis, which has been experienced in the state the past four months.

A year ago there were 150 cases and this year there are more than four times that number, pretty well scattered throughout the state. The aim of the Minnesota board of health and of practicing physicians has been to discover the cause of the disease and to devise means to prevent its spread.

Dr. H. W. Hill, state epidermiologist, has devoted his entire time since the outbreak began in visiting cases throughout the state. As a result of his investigations he inclines to the belief that the disease comes from horses and is spread from horse manure mixed with dust. It seems to spread more readily in exceptionally dry periods, although prevalent also at other times in July, August and September.

The disease is believed to enter the system through the nose or throat. A strange thing is that in the great majority of cases one child in a family is attacked and this is usually the one considered to be the most healthy. So far no approved method of preventing the spread of the disease has been established, although it is thought sprinkling in dry periods is helpful, absolute rest is recommended for victims along with approved medical treatment.

Other subjects were discussed during the morning by Doctors Mayo of Rochester, McLaren of St. Paul, Courtney of Brainerd, Little of Minneapolis and other physicians.

This afternoon Dr. Cornelius Williams of St. Paul, president of the association, delivered his annual address.

The balance of the program for this afternoon follows:

Oration in medicine—"Administrative Problems in Relation to the Public Health," by Dr. Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the United States public health and Marine service, Washington, D. C.

Symposium—"Co-operation of State Forces in Minnesota Medicine," (a) "The State Medical Society," Dr. E. L. Tuohy, Duluth; (b) "The State Board of Medical Examiners," Dr. F. A. Knights, Minneapolis; (c) "The State Board of Health," Dr. H. M. Bracken, St. Paul; (d) "The State Board of Control in Its Medical Relationships," Dr. A. C. Rogers, Faribault; (e) "The University of Minnesota in Its Medical Relationships," Dr. Charles Lyman Greene, St. Paul; (f) "The Medical Press," Dr. W. A. Jones, Minneapolis; (g) "The Lay Press," Charles H. Grasty, St. Paul. (Papers ten minutes each.)

Discussion by Doctors H. M. Workman, Tracey; F. J. Brabec, Perham; B. J. Merrill, Stillwater; H. A. Tomlinson, St. Peter, and J. E. Moore, Minneapolis.

Duluth Doctor Talks.

At the third annual meeting of the state sanitary conference, held yesterday, the tuberculosis problem was considered by Dr. E. L. Tuohy of Duluth. Dr. Tuohy followed the work being done for the prevention and arrest of tuberculosis and commended the open air camps. In the discussion which followed a number of physicians participated.

One of those to speak was Dr. Walter Wayman, surgeon general of the United States, on "Public Health and Marine Service." He said it had been demonstrated that life in the open air camps anywhere would serve to arrest tuberculosis, but one of the best places in the United States for such treatment was at the hospital and camp at Fort Stanton, N. M., which was exceptionally far removed from any bodies of water. He told of some positive cures affected there, as demonstrated years after in post mortems at marine hospitals where death had occurred from other causes.

It's a Top Notch Doer.

Great deeds compel regard. The world crowns its doers. That's why the American people have crowned Dr. King's New Discovery the King of Throat and Lung remedies. Every atom is a health force. It kills germs, and colds and la grippe vanish. It heals cough-racked membranes and coughing stops. Sore, inflamed bronchial tubes and lungs are cured and hemorrhages cease. Dr. Geo. More, Black Jack, N. C., writes "It cured me of lung trouble, pronounced hopeless by all doctors." 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald)—According to the annual report of Houghton County Mine Inspector Dawe, sixty-three deaths was the toll exacted by the Grim Reaper from the 15,000 mine workers in the county during the past twelve months, the highest number of deaths in the copper mines of Northern Michigan in any one year since the first mine was opened away back in the early '40s.

ORDER FOR MATERIAL.

Washburn Power Company Plans to Increase Its Plant.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the past week the Washburn Electric Light & Power company placed an order for the material for the receiving station that is to be established in that city. A contract was also let for the building of the line from the city limits to the substation there and this work will be begun at once. Manager Downs of the company stated that the plant would probably be in operation by the middle of November, but it all depended on how quickly their order for material was gotten out.

The Ashland company is now constructing its part of the line and will have the work completed by the first of November or before.

Eberhart on "The Future of Minnesota."

NEW PERMIT LAW HAVING EFFECT

Its Results Shown in Sale of Liquor in North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new drug permit law is having considerable effect on the sale of liquor within the state, according to reports which have been received here from various sections. The removal of the permit question from the hands of the probate courts to the district courts has resulted in a great deal of trouble for druggists, and the indications are that they will be obliged to follow the letter of the law closer than ever before.

In several counties the situation is particularly unpromising, from the druggists' point of view. Bottineau county will be without the permits for some time, Judge Burr having denied a long list of applications. Pembina county pill mixers are also having more or less trouble, while in Cavalier county the situation is not so strenuous. In Cass, Steele and Traill county, with Judge Pollock in charge, those applying for permits will have to show very good reasons for being granted the privilege, else they will lose out.

Under the new drug permit law the matter is entirely within the jurisdiction of the district court. Druggists who have been granted permits will find themselves minus the privilege in case of violations of the law, as it is prescribed that the permit shall be cancelled and the druggist refused, for all time to come, the right to sell liquor for medicinal purposes. The situation is being watched closely in all parts of the state, and the prospects are that the law will be better observed than ever before.

CALL FERRER'S DEATH "MURDER"

The French Papers Comment Harshly on Fate of Spanish Leader.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The fate of Prof. Ferrer at Barcelona has aroused, since the beginning of his trial, intense interest in France. The Paris newspapers today devote pages to the case. Even those sheets which are most moderate in tone expressed the hope that King Alfonso would intervene to prevent the consummation of the "political assassination" of "a revolutionary idealist," while the radical papers indulge in the most violent language, placing responsibility for Ferrer's condemnation upon the supremacy of the clerical reaction in Spain.

M. Juares, the deputy who yesterday addressed a mass meeting of protest, had an interview in which he predicted that if Ferrer was shot a conflagration would be started which would not be extinguished until "Spanish political life has been purged of the clerical influences which are paralyzing the progress of the nation and shocking the conscience of Europe."

Ferrer's daughter, who has been thrown upon her own resources, and since her father's arrest has been working in a biscuit factory, is today prostrated by the news of his death.

HUGHITT GETS TWO OF HARRIMAN'S JOBS.

New York, Oct. 13.—Marvin Hughitt, president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, was today elected a director of the New York Central and Lake Shore & Michigan Central railroads to succeed the late E. H. Harriman.

Thrashing Engine Explodes.

Flaxton, N. D., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A terrific explosion took place when the thrashing engine owned by Eugene Murdick was blown up. The boiler was blown into innumerable small pieces but in some miraculous manner the members of the crew escaped injury, Victor Come, the fireman, only receiving such a large amount of flying cinders in his eyes as to almost craze him for a time. He had to be held with force while the physician removed the cinders.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

CAUGHT WITH COAL BINS EMPTY

Many Duluthians Unprepared for the Sudden Cold Snap.

The cold snap of this week has caused an avalanche of work to descend on the coal man. The snap was so unexpected and so real in its frigidity, that people just shivered a little and then frantically called up the office of the coal man.

The coal dealers are doing the best they can in making deliveries, but that isn't as well as the patrons would like. Everybody wants coal at once, and the demand is greater than the teams and men at the disposal of the coal dealers can supply. The consequence is that many who ordered coal Monday have not yet received it, and the office men at the offices of the different coal companies fear to take down a telephone receiver, for they expect to hear a tirade from some irate patron on the lack of speed characterizing deliveries and a detailed, if inelegantly worded, biography of the manager of that particular concern.

It isn't the fault of the coal man. People just will delay until the first cold snap before they think of the furnace or stove that must be fed. In consequence, they all rush at once and the rush is so great that all cannot be supplied and some must suffer the results of their own folly. They are shivering and hoping, and the heaping coal wagon will be a welcome visitor when it draws up before their door.

TWELVE ARRESTED AT JAMAICA RACE TRACK.

New York, Oct. 13.—A fresh chapter in Governor Hughes' anti-race track gambling crusade, which resulted recently in indictments against the Brooklyn Jockey club and the Coney Island Jockey club, resulted yesterday in twelve arrests at the Jamaica track. When the laying of odds was in full blast, police swooped down on the betting ring and gathered in the dozen men, several of them bookmakers widely known.

The raid was as unexpected as it was spectacular. Members of a squad of detectives placed themselves unobtrusively about the betting ring. Just after the second race the mounted officers galloped to the entrances of the ring and blocked all exit. The detectives then began the search for evidence and made the arrests.

GOMPERS BARS NATIONAL GUARD

Refuses to Let Militia Take Part in Celebration of His Return.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Organized labor paid tribute last night in this city to the home-coming from Europe of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who arrived here early in the afternoon from New York. The occasion was followed by a monster parade and later by a big mass meeting at Convention hall.

The event derived some added interest from the fact that it was the day upon which the court of appeals of the District of Columbia had been expected to hand down its decision in the contempt proceedings against Mr. Gompers and other federation officials. The decision of the court, however, failed to materialize.

At Convention hall Mr. Gompers was accorded an ovation. On the platform were John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Senator Owen of Oklahoma.

Guards Barred From Parade.

An incident in connection with the parade which occasioned considerable discussion was the action of President Gompers in refusing to allow the national guard of the District of Columbia to participate. Although the Central Labor union at a meeting here the night before went on record in favor of the guardsmen taking part in the celebration, there was some opposition among the delegates on the ground, it is said, that the organized militia of this country was used to "shoot down strikers and union men." Yesterday protest was lodged with Secretary Morrison of the federation against the action of the Central Labor union. He immediately communicated with Mr. Gompers, who at the time was in Baltimore, en route here, and the latter directed that the guardsmen should not parade.

Frightful Fate Averted.

"I would have been a cripple for life, from a terrible cut on my knee cap," writes Frank Disbery, Kelliher, Minn., without Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which soon cured me." ORDER NEGROES OUT OF SAN ANGELO, TEX.

Many negroes are leaving, and many more are making arrangements to leave.

NEWSPAPER MEN WIN CONTENTION

Indianapolis Publishers Cannot Be Taken to Capital for Libel Trial.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 13.—Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States court of this district yesterday dismissed the proceedings against Delavan Smith and Charles R. Williams, proprietors of the Indianapolis News, who were resisting removal to the District of Columbia for trial under a grand jury indictment charging them with having committed criminal libel in publishing articles alleging that there was a corrupt profit of $28,000,000 in the sale of the Panama canal to the United States.

"That man has read the history of our institutions to little purpose," said Judge Anderson, in concluding his decision, "who does not view with apprehension the success of such a proceeding as this, to the end that citizens can be dragged from their homes to the District of Columbia, the seat of government, for trial under the circumstances of this case. The defendants are discharged."

THE BEGINNING OF A NEW EPOCH.

For the first time since the announcement of the intention of the United States Steel corporation to build a great steel plant at Duluth, official information as to the time of beginning work, and official estimate of when the plant will be in operation, were made last evening, coming through The Herald in a letter from Chester A. Congdon, who has taken great interest in this vastly important matter, who has spent much time upon it, and who has been authorized by the chiefs of the Steel corporation, Judge Gary and Mr. Corey, to make the announcement.

Work is already being crowded upon the preliminary operations—the building of railroad lines from the Missabe road to the steel plant site and from the steel plant site across the St. Louis river to connect with all the lines entering Duluth, the building of a bridge across the river, and the drafting of final plans for the plant itself. Twenty-five draftsmen have been added to the force, and new quarters have been found for them. If the drafting work can be completed in time work on the plant will begin this fall; but as that is hardly possible, work will certainly be begun in the early spring, and pushed rapidly to completion. And an expert engineer who has close knowledge of the plans has stated that when work begins upon the plant itself Minnesota will see an example of quick construction such as it has never witnessed before.

Delay has been beneficial. Had work been begun promptly on announcement two years ago, it would have been stopped, in all probability, by the panic, during which more than half the Steel corporation's furnace capacity became idle. Furthermore, a bigger plant will be built now than would have been built then—and a more up-to-date plant, for progress is rapid in the steel industry.

The first unit, according to the announcement, will cost $10,100,000, not including the several millions spent in preliminary work. A high official of the Steel corporation said the other day that ultimately the plant will cost $25,000,000. It will give employment to thousands, and add more thousands to the city's population. It will draw here allied plants that always gather about the steel furnaces. It will encourage other industries to locate here. By the force of the traffic created it will shift the advantage of railroad rates and service to Duluth, overcoming present gross discriminations. It marks the beginning of a great new epoch in the history of Duluth.

There has never been the slightest doubt about the coming of this great new industry to Duluth; the only doubt, that as to when it would be begun and completed, is dissolved now by the word of authority. It is a big day for Duluth, and Destiny looms largely in the announcement.

UNPROFITED CREATORS OF WEALTH.

For many years the "poor white trash" of the South have been the objects of scorn, of amusement, of shame, but never of pity or sympathy. They are listless, unambitious, shiftless, degenerate; in many cases they are but a little removed from the brute beasts. They contribute nothing to the national glory, and much to the national shame. Of good stock originally, they have sunk to a level that few white men, and perhaps no other class of white men, ever reach.

Why? People used to say that it was because they were descended from the "redemptions," from criminal classes shipped to the Colonial settlers as servants, so that they came rightfully by their degeneracy. This is not wholly true. Many of these people are descended from good, sound English and Scotch-Irish stock; from a source that has contributed much of the best there is in American life and American history.

Not long ago a physician—two physicians, in fact, widely separated—thought it worth while to look into this situation. Here were hundreds of thousands of people—nearly two millions, in round numbers—in a state of dry rot; barely keeping body and soul together, yielding nothing to society except a few hard-driven children who labored for their support in the infamous cotton mills of the South. There must be some reason for it. So these two physicians, C. W. Stiles of Washington and Allen J. Smith of Texas, undertook to find out what was the trouble. And almost simultaneously they found it. The story—and a mighty interesting story it is—is told in McClure's magazine.

They discovered that a disease—the hook worm disease—is the cause of this condition. For months after the announcement the public refused to take it seriously until one of the doctors made it clear that a disease which made two million people suffer, and deprived the nation of the productiveness of two million citizens, was no joke. Then the public began to take notice.

The hook worm is a small worm which attaches itself in great numbers to the lining of the intestines and lives by sucking the blood of its victims. It exudes a secretion which for some hours prevents the blood at the point of contact from coagulating. Consequently there are numerous minute hemorrhages into the intestines. The victim's blood becomes thin, his body puffs and he grows sluggish and almost idiotic. Eventually he dies; for the disease not only renders the lives of its victims useless, but it kills.

And now that the cause of this condition, heretofore ascribed to mere laziness or shiftlessness, has been discovered, it has also been discovered that it can be cured. The remedy is a simple treatment which cures the victim in a few hours.

Now these two doctors have done something. They have done a great deal. They have shown the way to turn two million useless and unproductive citizens, with paupers and criminals in their ranks to make their very existence a great cost, into two million useful and productive citizens. Think of the economic gain involved in this discovery! It is tremendous.

Now suppose that a mechanical invention of equal economic value had been made. The inventor perhaps would have capitalized it; more likely he would have sold it for a song to some cunning exploiter who would have capitalized it. With a proper amount of water in the stock, new billions of personal wealth would have been created, and the engineers of the scheme would have gone quickly into the Rockefeller class. It is different with these two doctors. They won't get a penny out of it; they don't expect a penny out of it: the country gets all the gain.

AN EPITHET OR A TRIBUTE?

Recently The Herald, clipping comments from Minnesota newspapers on the Taft Winona speech, clipped one from the excellent and vigorous Warren Register, and in crediting it labelled the Register as "Standpat Republican." This was necessary in order to distinguish it from the Progressive Republican newspapers, or whatever one pleases to call the newspapers, nominally at least Republican, which no longer fear to criticise the action of their party if it is wrong.

The Warren Register has a good deal to say about that label, and The Herald is greatly puzzled over whether the Register is pleased or indignant about it. It says: "The exchange editor of The Duluth Herald has our permission to refer to the Register as 'Standpat Rep.,' if it makes him feel better to do so. So far as the tariff question is concerned, The Herald is a Bourbon Democrat. Some time ago it showed signs of dawning reason, but latterly it has gotten back to support of the Wattersonian doctrine."

Now this sounds very much like the manifestation of a spirit of resentment. The Herald calls the Register a Standpat Republican, and the Register heatedly retorts that The Herald is a Bourbon Democrat—at least so far as the tariff is concerned. It is as though The Herald had impolitely said to the Register, "You are a horse-thief," and the Register had promptly responded to The Herald, "You are a sheepstealer."

But then the Register goes on to prove that it is a Standpat Republican, and to glory in it. "If belief in a protective tariff, one of the cardinal principles of the Republican party and one of its chief foundation stones, constitutes standpatism," it says, "the Register is willing to admit that it is a standpatter."

To which the obvious response is that if to stand for a tariff in the best interests of the whole country, a tariff that shall properly protect American labor while still providing ample revenues and admitting competition on such terms as will keep domestic prices honest, constitutes Bourbon Democracy, then The Herald is a Bourbon Democrat on the tariff question. If opposition to a tariff engineered in the interests of Special Privilege, producing grossly swollen fortunes for a few and desperately hard living for the many, constitutes Bourbon Democracy, then The Herald is a Bourbon Democrat. If to oppose a tariff manipulated by Aldrich and Cannon for the sole benefit of greedy, labor-driving, price-raising, competition-throttling trusts is to be a Bourbon Democrat, then The Herald is a Bourbon Democrat.

The trouble with the admirable and usually reasonable Register, of Warren, Minn., is its assumption that to be a good Republican one must swallow whatever a Republican organization dominated by the vice regents of Special Privilege choose to provide, and its assumption that to oppose such prostitution of the people's government to the service of Plutocracy and greed is to be a Bourbon Democrat and a "free trader." The Herald can't see it that way.

As to whether The Herald is advocating "Wattersonian doctrines," or Watterson is advocating Herald doctrines, that is another question.

TAFT, UTAH AND ALDRICH.

In connection with the president's Boston speech, in which he gave Aldrich a fulsome letter of recommendation to the American people, and his Winona speech, in which he praised the Aldrich-Payne-Taft tariff bill, lauded its supporters and inferentially read out of his party the insurgents who voted against it, the president's message to the people of Utah should not be forgotten. He gave it during his trip westward, and it should be remembered, together with its collateral facts.

After praising Aldrich in Boston and Tawney in Winona, the president said in Salt Lake City: "You cannot always tell, you know, when you see senators and representatives in Washington, just how they size up at home; but I am glad to be able to testify that however the Utah members size up here, they do size up emphatically well in Washington."

This praise dovetails in very nicely to make a trilogy of eulogies that furnishes a pretty fair idea of where President Taft stands, and what may be expected of him. Just how nicely the Utah members fit in with Aldrich and Tawney as worthy objects of the president's esteem becomes evident upon an examination of their records.

The leader of this delegation is Reed Smoot, United States senator and apostle of the Mormon church—or perhaps the order of his occupations should be reversed. Escaping from expulsion on a charge of polygamy, he was taken up by Aldrich and in the recent tariff fight he was the right hand man and first lieutenant of the Boss of the Republic. His following is in keeping with his leadership. There were no insurgents in the Utah delegation. Neither Senator Smoot nor Senator Sutherland voted against Aldrich's will a single time. The former not only voted with Aldrich every time, but with the exception of Aldrich himself he is the only Republican member who never missed a vote. He had 129 chances, and he voted 129 times, and every one of the 129 times he voted as Aldrich wished him to vote. In their smaller ways, the other members of the Utah delegation were equally serviceable to Aldrich and Special Privilege.

It is easy to see from this why the Utah delegation ranks "emphatically well in Washington," from the Aldrich viewpoint. Evidently the Aldrich viewpoint is also the Taft viewpoint.

According to William Norman Guthrie, who is lecturing in Duluth, Mark Twain's humor is coarse, crude and vulgar, and not literature. A man so delicately sensitive as that must suffer greatly from incessant shock in this rude world.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective however.)

RAILROADS AND THE SETTLER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Yes, the railroads will do their share. So says Prof. Thomas Shaw. But he will find it hard to make the farmers think so. It may sound nice to talk this at a banquet. But get down to business, talk with the farmers, and you will find the true state of affairs as it exists between Virginia and Kanler, the finest agricultural district in Minnesota. The poor farmer has, perhaps, just enough cleared to raise a few surplus potatoes to buy some groceries, so he can stay at home and clear some more to raise something else, but the railroad charges 15 cents per bushel for transportation, twenty-seven miles, to Virginia, their only market. The same with chickens. The writer sent seventy pounds of nicely dressed chickens by order to a commission house in Duluth, and after railroad freight and commission were deducted, received 4½ cents per pound, when the chickens were quoted in said commission house at 15 cents per pound. Talk is cheap, but it takes money to buy railroad tickets at 3 cents per mile. Yes, railroads might do their share, but not until then will this county ever develop as it should.

SEASON FOR CARELESS HUNTERS

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish you would publish a good, strong roast on the careless people who shoot off firearms in the city limits and adjacent to houses or barns where there is danger of hitting some one.

I believe there is an ordinance which prohibits the discharge of firearms within the city limits, but it is constantly broken, and it is a wonder to me that more people are not accidentally shot every year.

It is bad enough to have the woods full of fools with guns every fall, but it is certainly the limit when they get gay right in town, where people are living.

The other evening as I was doing some chores in my barn, some shot struck the building and buried itself there. I heard it strike and a little later went out and found it. I don't know who fired the shot, but it is safe to guess that the person is entirely without any common sense or regard for the safety of other people.

This proposition of indiscriminate shooting is one that the authorities and the public at large should bear in mind. The ordinance prohibiting shooting in the city limits should be enforced and every one going hunting or having use for firearms in any way should bear in mind that there are other people all around them, almost every place they go, and should exercise the greatest caution possible. Too much care cannot be taken in matters of this kind.

If I had been going into my barn the other night when that stray shot came along, I would still be picking it out of my skin.

Too often people are killed through the sheer carelessness of others and we people in Duluth, living as we do, in the heart of a big game country, should be very careful about shooting within the limits of the city and exercise every caution when we are in the woods. The practice of allowing young boys to use firearms should, in my opinion, be discouraged.

Cold Storage and Socialism.

Puck: When you hold a bit of meat out of a hungry dog's reach, each time he jumps keeping it just above his nose, you mustn't be surprised if the beast gets cross after a while and snaps at you. If you hold a nation's food supply just out of the reach of the average citizen's purse, raising prices to the consumer at intervals and paying the producer no more for his product, you mustn't be amazed if the average citizen gets mad after a time and ceases to be "safe and sane" in his viewpoints. Dairy products, eggs and butter, as well as most grades of meat, have risen in price of late to an incredibly high level. At the same time there has been no natural shortage of these foods. Vast quantities have been and are being held in cold storage by food speculators in order that supply may never catch up with demand, and profits may be regulated on a basis of extortion. There is nothing brand new in this. Most people know it. The rest are finding it out. But those who deplore the trend toward some sort of socialism in this country should rouse themselves to the fact that the misuse of the cold storage system is a big factor in shaping men's minds that way. That you can appeal to a man's mind via his stomach the success of the full dinner pail slogan amply attested. That slogan is nothing, however, to the one which will some day be heard in the land if the plenty of farm, ranch and dairy continues to be converted into an artificial shortage for the swollen benefit of a few. In certain civic matters it is lamentably hard to get men interested, even though a little interest on their part properly displayed would pay good dividends in improved conditions; but there is something intensely practical in the arguments advanced by the stomach and the purse. Ever since history began this pair of pleaders have been startlingly successful in getting action and results. They are now speaking night and day to large audiences in Butter-Hall, Egg Lyceum and Steak Pavilion.

The Housing Millenium.

Constance D. Leupp in the Survey for October: It begins to look as though the housing millenium were upon us and numbered the days of Shylock the landlord.

Those whose opposition to socialism is based solely on the fear that it will increase the servant problem, need no longer hesitate to come out openly and embrace the system.

For Milton Dana Morrill, a young architect in Washington, has designed a $1,200 house in which all the work is play, and servants would be more under foot than useful. Being built of concrete it is indestructible, so it needs no insurance and no repairs; counts, germicide to such a degree that its inhabitants are practically doctor-proof, insulated so they are temperature-proof. Sweeping (which is done with a hose) becomes a pleasure, coaling a festival, and the garbage man a myth.

The secret of the low cost which is claimed for it is that it is built of reinforced concrete from sectional moulds of a standard size which are to be used over and over again. Heretofore, the great expense of concrete construction has been due not to the expense of the material, but to that of the moulds which are made (and destroyed then) for each building. Mr. Morrill's plan is to have not less than twenty-five houses constructed in each locality from the same set of moulds; since the moulds are made in sections, however, one set admits of a limited variety in design.

How the Lemon Taxes Were Squeezed.

Harper's Weekly: One of the least popular of the burdens imposed on the people by the Payne tariff was the tax of one-half cent a pound on lemons for the enrichment of California fruit growers. The Californians claimed it in order to gain control of the American market. They got it. Horace White, in a letter to the Evening Post, gleefully relates what happened next:

"No sooner was the new duty on lemons fixed than the freight rate on lemons across the continent was raised exactly one-half cent per pound. The railroad man put on his tariff at the same time and to the same amount that congress did.

"And why not? What is the objection? The money spent by the consumer of lemons remains in the country just the same, whether the railroad gets it or whether the lemon grower gets it."

Delightful! Next, of course, we shall hear the loud cries of the Californians inquiring the way to the office of the interstate commerce commission.

THE WEATHER.

Well, anyway, the wind died down. The air was crisp and cold this morning, but the gale which had made pedestrianism a hard task for the past two days, was gone. Cloudy skies are offered and the prediction for tonight and tomorrow promise partly cloudy weather and a slight rise in temperature.

The weather a year ago today was fair and warm.

According to the schedule for the month, the sun rose this morning at 6:24 and will set at 5:25 p. m.

Mr. Richardson says of weather conditions:

The Lake Superior disturbance remained about stationary. During the past twenty-four hours it caused further snow or rain and high westerly winds in the lake region. Another depression has appeared over Alberta and British Columbia. Colder weather prevails in states east of the Mississippi river in consequence of a decided increase in pressure. The barometer is high over the Southeastern states and the plateau region. Conditions indicate freezing temperature at the Head of the Lakes tonight, followed by milder weather Thursday."

Otto T. Bannard.

Otto T. Bannard, the Republican nominee for mayor of New York city, is little known outside of Manhattan. He has been accomplishing good work without a great deal of commotion. In the October Survey, Edward T. Devine tells why he believes Mr. Bannard would prove an ideal mayor.

"In effect it is distinctly a non-partisan nomination. Mr. Bannard has been an energetic worker in the county organization of the Republican party. This service, however, has been of the disinterested kind, not directed towards securing public office for himself or for his friends, or to securing contracts or other public benefits. The nomination is not a reward for service, but a demand for self-sacrificing and disinterested public service of a different and higher kind. There are probably few men who have less of what is ordinarily known as political ambition or whose personal preferences and interests would more decisively lead to a peremptory declination of public office. A sense of public duty and civic responsibility would seem to have outweighed these considerations.

This appears to be a year for financial reorganization and for searching inquiries concerning the administration of the financial affairs of the municipality. A revision of the charter is pending. New methods of accounting are freely admitted to be indispensable. More explicit and more honest estimates of expenditures are called for and public opinion demands that actual expenditures shall be in more strict conformity with estimates and appropriations. Economies of administration are thought to be practicable and the conditions seem favorable for the elimination of that so-called honest graft which lingers in the dark corners even when strictly honorable officials occupy the higher offices. A fiscal policy which shall prevent the bankruptcy which some shrewd judges believe to be impending is in order. Taxpayers and citizens call for protection from downright thievery, from expensive, visionary, and fantastic projects, and even from well-intentioned and legitimate reforms which tend to proceed too rapidly; but above all from ignorant and inefficient public service which is the worst of all forms of public extravagance."

What It Might Have Done.

Fitchburg Sentinel: It has been ciphered out by a genius for mathematics that during the summer session of congress, which was a doubtful value to the country, the members thereof could have mowed 10,000 acres of grass for lame farmers.

They could have cut 8,000 cords of stove wood for grieving widows.

They could have loaded, hauled and moved away 20,000 tons of timothy hay.

They could have hoed 20,000 acres of corn.

They could have hilled 1,000,000 hills of potatoes.

They could have split and laid up 100 miles of fencing.

They could have gathered and prepared five tons of dried apples.

They could have whitewashed 100 miles of picket fence.

They could have prepared the ground and planted the seed for enough turnips to supply all the orphan asylums in America.

They could have visited every idiot and lunatic twice over, spending three days on each visit.

Each and every one of them could have put in a three months' sentence in a county jail and been restored to society and respectability.

They could have stolen the Yellowstone Park twenty-seven times over.

They could have burglarized 10,000 houses, stolen 50,000 cows, and "touched" 600 banks, and yet all their valuable time has simply been frittered away.

A Return in Kind.

Ladies' Home Journal: Mark Twain once asked a neighbor if he might borrow a set of his books. The neighbor replied ungraciously that he was welcome to read them in his library, but he had a rule never to let his books leave his house. Some weeks later the same neighbor sent over to ask for the loan of Mark Twain's lawn-mower.

"Certainly," said Mark, "but since I make it a rule never to let it leave my lawn you will be obliged to use it there."

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1889.

Jay W. Anderson last week completed the purchase of Alexander Crawford's half interest in the Clyde Iron works and received the keys of the institution. The actual owners of this valuable plant are C. P. Craig and J. W. Anderson. A stock company will be formed in a few days with a large paid-up capital, and the plant will be greatly enlarged, new machinery added and new buildings erected. S. W. Lemieux has been offered the position of master mechanic, but has not yet accepted. Mr. Anderson has already closed a large contract for machine work which alone will keep the works busy for several months.

C. W. Talley, until recently manager for the Diamond Match company at Ontonagon, Mich., is in the city on his return from the Pacific coast. He has determined to start a large sawmill in British Columbia.

F. E. Culver, Ed Howard and W. B. Dixon of Duluth and George O. Nettleton of St. Paul have returned from a ten days' hunting trip in the vicinity of Spiritwood, Dak. They bagged over 400 ducks, about 200 chickens thirty-five geese and several brant.

The warranty deed of William Hubbell and Elizabeth A. Hubbell of Ogemaw county, Mich., to the Bay View Land Company of Duluth has been filed with Register Shephard. The consideration is $365,000 cash, the receipt of which is acknowledged. The property amounts to about 1,104½ acres, making the price paid about $325 per acre. The land lies back of Oneota and West Duluth and is very valuable. It will be improved and placed on the market at an early date by the new owners.

1904--ECHOES OF HARMONY--1910

Albert Lea Tribune: According to reports from the Twin Cities there was a secret meeting of the "leading Republicans" to help Governor Eberhart to decide on a private secretary, and Dar Reese and Senator Smith of Minneapolis were mentioned as those present. We are sorry the new governor gets such a poor start. The late lamented governor never consulted with Dar Reese, and still he was elected three times. What plainer hunch does the governor want?

Albert Lea Times-Enterprise: There is still just as good an opportunity for harmony in the Republican party as there was before Governor Eberhart assumed his present responsible position. The situation has something of the appearance of some of the politicians not caring whether there is harmony or not.

Cambridge Independent Press: A new political deal seems to be cropping out thus early in the new governor's office. Governor Eberhart seems to be of the opinion that the old Collins crowd will have things in their own hands in Republican state politics in the future. Time will tell.

Albert Lea Times: Some of the partisans of R. C. Dunn are finding fault with the selection of Ralph Wheelock as the governor's private secretary because he is not a politician. Well, the governor probably had in mind that our friend Dunn and those who followed as nominees for governor on the Republican ticket had all the politicians with them, but Johnson was elected three times in a Republican state. If Governor Eberhart makes no worse mistake than throwing down the gang politician he will sure land in the office he now occupies for at least two terms.

Ortonville Herald-Star: Quite generally Harvey Grimmer is commended for having refused to remain as Governor Eberhart's executive clerk. If it was politically wrong for Harvey to stay, how could it have been politically right for Governor Eberhart to offer him the place? One or the other made a bad break.

Walker Pilot: Seeing that Eberhart once bolted Dunn, we mustn't express surprise if Dunn starts out to nail Eberhart.

St. Peter Free Press: If Judge Collins, Eli Torrance and Bob Dunn could be induced to stand aside just long enough to let Governor Eberhart get a good start there might be some hope for party harmony in the near future, but with them always butting it, and at the wrong time, there is great danger of reviving the old feud all along the line. On the other hand, it is charged by Dunn's friends that Eberhart bolted Dunn's nomination in 1904, and that they will not tamely submit to see a man advanced who went back on his own party. Collins has not been heard from, but it is possible that he, too, has a grievance, and that his friends only wait for an opportunity to give vent to their feelings. With this state of condition between the two warring factions, it is no wonder that the Democrats got such big majorities.

Madison Independent Press: There are certain people who seem to feel awful bad about Mr. Eberhart having become governor. They seem to be having an acute attack of belly ache over it. They are sitting up nights trying to figure out how he can be defeated. If they hope to get up to the crib themselves they want to stop that sort of thing. He is in, and if he makes good is entitled to the nomination.

New York Press: A man is so busy using his friends he has no time to study them.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "They say the czar's enormous expenses baffle imagination."

"Oh, I don't know. I spent $200 on my vacation trip."

Puck: "I suppose the deacons in your church pass the plate?"

"Yes; they even go so far as to cut it absolutely dead. I've never yet seen any of them put in a cent."

Life: Tapes—But if you cannot pay me, your tailor, why don't you restrict yourself in your expenditures?

Bounder—Oh, I am doing that very thing, my dear fellow. I haven't paid any bills for more than a year!

Detroit Saturday Night: "Pa, what is a libretto?"

"A libretto, Aurelius, is a home for old jokes."

Philadelphia Ledger: "This is the wrong train."

"Excuse me, conductor. I didn't mean to step on your train. Very careless of me."

Punch: Railway Guard (to man smoking)—You can't smoke.

Smoker—So my friends say.

Guard—But you mustn't smoke.

Smoker—So my doctor says.

Guard—Sir, you shan't smoke.

Smoker—So my wife says.

Washington Star: "Your political antagonist is calling you every name he can think of," said the agitated friend.

"Don't interrupt him," answered Senator Sorghum. "It is better to have a man searching the dictionary for epithets than going after your record for facts."

Everybody's Magazine: A love-smitten youth, who was studying the approved methods of proposal, asked one of his bachelor friends if he thought a young man should propose to a girl on his knees. "If he doesn't," replied his friend, "the girl should get off."

Medical Summary: An Irishman fell from a house and landed on a wire about twenty feet from the ground. After he had struggled a moment, the man let go and fell to the ground. Some one asked his reason for letting go. "Faith," was the reply, "I was afraid the domn'd wire would break."

Monarch MALLEABLE

The "Stay Satisfactory" Range

No one expects to buy strictly high grade goods at the price of "cheap stuff," but some think that a high price guarantees high quality. Don't make this mistake in buying a Range. Many Ranges of ordinary construction are priced as high or even higher than the incomparable MONARCH.

BUILDING A MONARCH.

When you buy a Range—

Find out what it is made of and how built! You have a right to know these things. Any man selling ranges who says, "Our range is a fuel-saver—a perfect baker," and stops there, casts a reflection on your intelligence. If these things are true of any range, there is a reason for it—a reason you can see and understand— reason you have a right to know before buying.

We can show in a MONARCH Range exactly why it does what we claim. Come and see how the Malleable Iron and Steel plates are riveted solidly together, insuring a tight range for unlimited time. Let us explain how tight, permanent seams are possible only in ranges where Malleable Iron is used. We can show you how tight, solid construction is necessary to everything you want most in your new range—prompt, sure service—long life—and fuel economy.

Some Special MONARCH Features

Polished Top. Needs no stove blacking.

Duplex Draft. The only common-sense draft system in use.

Complete Asbestos Lining. A triple wall at every point exposed to heat.

EXPERIMENT IN PAVING

Cedar Blocks Treated With Creosote for the Hills.

Will Be Tested on One of Avenues By City Engineer.

T. F. McGilvray, city engineer, is working on an experiment which he believes will go a long ways towards solving the paving difficulties of the city, as well as save the municipality thousands of dollars.

One of the biggest problems the city has ever confronted has been to find a suitable paving for the hills which will not cost too much money. Tar macadam, creosote blocks, asphalt, etc., have been found too slippery on grades for heavily loaded teams, while ordinary cedar blocks are too short lived. Sandstone has been the most satisfactory, but is expensive, and after several years' use, wears smooth. City Engineer McGilvray believes that if cedar blocks are treated with creosote they will retain all their advantages and last long enough to make it worth while laying them. They are porous, free from knots and susceptible to the creosote preparation. Besides, they are cheap, and the cost would not be very greatly increased by the treatment.

Men who have done teaming in the city unite in saying that cedar blocks are the best paving that could be laid on the hills, as they afford an excellent foothold and are not slippery. The city engineer has entered into negotiations with a creosoting plant and, after securing some of the cedar blocks that have been treated, will lay them in one of the downtown streets where traffic is heavy, to test them. Should they prove a success it is believed that Duluth will have overcome a difficulty that has long been bothering city officials.

Creosoting would also remedy another evil now characteristic of cedar blocks. Without treatment the blocks absorb the smells and refuse of the streets, which become offensive on hot days, and also hastens their decay.

It is estimated that to lay cedar blocks thus prepared would cost from one-third to one-half less than to lay sandstone. The price of the latter is so prohibitive that it has been laid only on downtown streets, where the property produces an income sufficiently high to warrant the outlay.

Eastern Men Are Preparing Petition for Clemency for Financier.

New York, Oct. 13.—A petition asking President Taft for clemency toward Charles W. Morse, the former banker, is being prepared for circulation among prominent business men and financiers of the East. Morse's attorneys are striving to have the United States supreme court grant him a new trial; but in case of defeat, an executive pardon will be his only means of escape from the sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment recently affirmed by the federal court of appeals.

The petition is now in the hands of Charles S. Carver of Boston, who is one of Morse's counsel and is associated with many of Morse's business ventures.

Morse showed improvement today after his attack of illness in the Tombs yesterday. His physician said he was suffering from lumbago, but probably would recover in a short time.

FORCED OUT OF BUSINESS

After 15 very successful years in the Clothing Business, the People's Clothing company is forced to vacateits present quarters, 530 West Superior street, positively within thirty days. As the contract is now let for a five-story brick hotel building, we are compelled to move. This, of course, is a very undesirable move for us at the present time of the season, especially as we are now stocked with an enormous line of Clothing for fall and winter season. The news to vacate came very unexpectedly after we had received our winter stock. But it can't be helped now—we are in and must do our best to get out. It is absolutely impossible for us to move our entire stock, and therefore, we are going to sell the goods at slaughter prices. Think of it! At this time of the season when every merchant expects to make a large profit, we are compelled to offer our entire stock at an immense loss. Profit is a thing of the past with us now. All we are looking for is to dispose of the goods—no matter how great the loss. During our entire course of 15 years in the clothing business this is our first experience with such a radical sale. We never required things like it before. We have a good reputation and a steady trade. But as we are forced to move within such short time, we are compelled to sharply cut the prices to reduce our stock at once. But bear in mind this is not a so-called "Bargain Sale" that you hear of every day, but a genuine, bona fide sale, which comes but once in a century and usually startles the shrewdest buyers in the city. A visit to our store will convince you of the aforementioned facts.

NEW HOTEL TO BE BUILT

Five-Story Structure Planned for Sixth Avenue West Corner.

J. J. Wangenstein Is Preparing the Plans for L. S. Loeb.

Duluth will have another first-class hotel.

It is to be located on the southeast corner of Superior street and Sixth avenue west. The cost will be $35,000 and the owners are L. S. Loeb & Co.

The plans for the structure are being prepared by J. J. Wangenstein, the architect, and they will soon be submitted to the owners for their approval.

The building will be modern throughout. It will have a frontage of fifty feet on Superior street and sixty-five feet on Sixth avenue. It will be five floors in height and built with a view of increasing the number of floors as the growth of business demands. At first the brick structure fronting on Michigan street will be allowed to stand, but later an addition will be built so that the structure will extend to Michigan street.

Brick will be used in the construction of the building, the main entrance of which will be on Sixth avenue or directly across from the new Soo depot.

There are to be several stores on the ground floor.

The ground was purchased some time ago by Mr. Loeb, who at that time stated that it was purchased for investment purposes.

Already there are several applications by persons who wish to lease the property and conduct a hotel business. Work will be started as soon as the plans have been approved.

The ground is at present occupied by a clothing store and saloon. The new structure will greatly improve the looks of the corner and further the movement of wiping out the old unsightly Bowery.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

KILLED BY UGLY BULL

Veteran Fatally Gored By Vicious Animal in Anoka County.

Wife Was With Victim When the Beast Attacked Him.

Anoka, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. D. Miner, a well-known resident of Oak Grove, was killed Monday by a bull belonging to L. L. Stewart of St. Francis.

Mr. and Mrs. Miner were driving past the Stewart farm on their way to Bethel with a load of poultry and a cow, which they had sold to John Bodine at Bethel. Mr. Miner was walking behind the rig. The bull sighted them and jumped the fence attacking Mr. Miner at once. Mrs. Miner drove for help and when she returned she found her husband dead. Word was taken to St. Francis and neighbors carried the body to the Stewart home, where it now lies.

Mr. Miner was 69 years of age and a Civil war veteran. He leaves two children, Mrs. Edgar Upton of Minneapolis and Harry B. Miner, carrier on a rural route from St. Francis.

BUCK CAN LEAVE STATE.

Board of Pardons Reduces Mapleton Banker's Sentence.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Joseph W. Patterson, a Beltrami county man, sentenced in 1907 to four years' imprisonment for assault in the second degree, was pardoned by the state board of parsons yesterday. Patterson is out on parole, but is not very well, and cannot get employment. A brother at St. Louis promised to take care of him if he was pardoned and permitted to leave the state.

A. A. Buck, the Mapleton banker, was granted commutation of sentence that will enable him to leave the state Oct. 25. Buck's original sentence was six years. He is on parole, but under the conditions of the parole he is not allowed to leave the state. His little daughter has a throat disease that makes it necessary for her to live in a milder climate, and Buck wishes to take her to California. The board of pardons reduced his sentence to five and a half years. With good time allowance the sentence will expire on Oct. 25.

David Gray of Minneapolis, who was sentenced to two years and half for bigamy, will serve only one year. The board reduced his sentence when it was shown that he thought he had obtained a divorce from his first wife when he married a second time.

FOUR GET OUT OF MINOT JAIL

Sawed Their Way to Freedom Through Aid of Confederates.

Minot, N. D., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—With two small steel saws smuggled to them from some friends on the outside, George Tierney, arrested for forgery, Bill Casey, Pat Kelly, Ole Johnson and C. Peterson, sawed their way to fredom at night from the local jail and caught an eastbound Soo train.

Their escape was not discovered by the officers until morning when the morning roll call revealed their absence from the cell room. An investigation showed that the extreme west window in the jail had been tampered with, the bar being sawed completely through and the other two bent so as to admit of their exit.

Four other prisoners who were also confined in the jail would probably have escaped had it not been for the fact that one of their number got wedged in the aperture and for three hours could not move either in or out. Tierney, it is claimed, was the ring leader of the bunch, furnishing the brains for the plan. He was being held on the charge of forging the name of a Minot woman to a check of a large denomination. The officials have been keeping the matter quiet and a settlement would undoubtedly have been effected as Mr. Tierney's brother had just arrived from Minneapolis, willing to do all in his power to save his brother from the disgrace.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss.—"Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and weakness which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women."—Mrs. Joseph H. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

PEARY FIRES HIS BOMB

Gives Out Statement Which Claims to Prove Cook a Liar.

Eskimo Testimony Relied on By Navy Man to Prove His Claim.

New York, Oct. 13.—The following statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted, together with an accompanying map, to the Peary Arctic club in support of his contention that Dr. Cook did not reach the North Pole, is now made public for the first time.

The statement and map have been copyrighted by the Peary Arctic club.

(Entered according to act of congress, in the year 1909, by the Peary Arctic club, in the office of the librarian of congress at Washington, D. C.)

Some of my reasons for saying that Dr. Cook did not go to the North Pole will be understood by those who read the following statements of the two Eskimo boys who went with him, and who told me and others of my party where he did go. Several Eskimos who started with Dr. Cook from Anoratok in February, 1908, were at Etah when I arrived there in August, 1908. They told me that Dr. Cook had with him, after they left, two Eskimo boys or young men, two sledges and some twenty dogs. The boys were I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah. I had known them from their childhood. One was about 18 and the other about 19 years of age.

On my return from Cape Sheridan and at the very first settlement I touched (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August, 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me, in a general way, where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones sound and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that the boys who were with him, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, said that this was not so. The Eskimos laughed at Dr. Cook's story. On reaching Etah, I talked with the Eskimos there and with the two boys and asked them to describe Dr. Cook's journey to members of my party and myself. This they did in the manner stated below. R. E. PEARY.

(Signed statement of Peary, Bartlett, McMillan, Borup and Henson, in regard to testimony of Cook's two Eskimo boys.)

The two Eskimo boys, I-took-a-shoo and Ah-pe-lah, who accompanied Dr. Cook while he was away from Anoratok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were corroborated by Panikpah, the father of one of them (I-took-a-shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and the last third of their journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by them, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook.

Notes of their statements were taken by several of us, and no one of us has any doubt that they told the truth.

Their testimony was unshaken by cross-examination, was corroborated by other men in the tribe, and was elicited neither by threats nor promises, the two boys and their father talking of their journey and their experiences in the same way that they would talk of any hunting trip.

To go more into details: One of the boys was called in, and, with a chart on the table before him, was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, pointing with his finger on the map, but not making any marks upon it.

Asked to Show Route.

As he went out the other boy came in and was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, also without making any marks, and indicating the same route and the same details as did the first boy.

When he was through, Panikpah, the father of I-took-a-shoo, a very intelligent man, who was in the party of Eskimos that came back from Dr. Cook from the northern end of Nansen's strait, who is familiar as a hunter with the Jones sound region, and who has been in Commander Peary's various expeditions for some fifteen years, came in and indicated the same localities and details as the two boys.

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the map their route, members of our party writing upon the chart where, according to the boy's statement, they had killed deer, bear, some of their dogs, seal, walrus and musk-oxen.

The second boy was then called in and the two went over the route together, the second boy suggesting some changes as noted hereafter.

Finally Panikpah, the father, was again called in to verify details of the the portions of the route with which he was personally familiar.

The bulk of the boys' testimony was not taken by Commander Peary, nor in his presence, a fact that obviates any possible claim that they were awed by him.

Peary Dictated Questions.

Certain questions on independent lines from the direct narrative of the Eskimo boys were suggested by Commander Peary to some of us, and were put by us to the Eskimo boys.

Still later, Commander Peary asked the Eskimo boys two or three casual questions on minor points that had accurred to him.

During the taking of this testimony, it developed that Dr. Cook had told these boys, as he told Mr. Whitney and Billy Pritchard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us anything about their journey, and the boys stated that Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything.

The narrative of these Eskimos is as follows

They, with Dr. Cook, Francke and nine other Eskimos, left Anoratok, crossed Smith's sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then went through Rice strait to Belcher bay. After a few marches Francke and three Eskimos returned to Anoratok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler bay, a branch of Buchanan bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley pass at the head of Flagler bay, indicated by Commander Peary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899, to the head of Sverdrup's "bay fiord," on the west side of Ellesmere Land.

Killed Bear and Oxen.

Their route then lay out through this fiord, thence north through Sverdrup's "Heuerka sound" and Nansen strait.

On their way they killed musk-oxen and bear, and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nansen strait (shore of Axel Heiberg Land of Sverdrup), south of Cape Thomas Hubbard.

A cache was formed here and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. Two others, Koolootingwah and Inughito, went on one more march with Dr. Cook and the two boys, helped to build the snow igloo, then returned without sleeping.

(These two Eskimos brought back a letter from Dr. Cook to Francke, dated March 17. The two men rejoined the other four men who had been left behind, and the six returned to Anoratok, arriving May 7. This information was obtained not from the two Eskimo boys, but from the six men who returned and from Francke himself, and was known to us in the summer of 1908, when the Roosevelt first arrived at Etah. The information is inserted here as supplementary to the narrative of the two boys.)

One March Farther.

After sleeping at the camp where the last two Eskimos turned back, Dr. Cook and the two boys went in a northerly or northwesterly direction with two sledges and twenty odd dogs, one more march, when they encountered rough ice and a lead of open water. They did not enter this rough ice, nor cross the lead, but turned westward or southwestward a short distance and returned eo Helberg Land at a point west of where they had left the cache and where the four men had turned back.

Here they remained four or five sleeps, and during that time I-took-a-shoo went back to the cache and got his gun which he had left there, and a few items of supplies.

When asked why only a few supplies were taken from the cache, the boys replied that only a small amount of provisions had been used in the few days since they left the cache, and that their sledges still had all they could carry, so that they could not take more.

After being informed of the boys' narrative thus far, Commander Peary suggested a series of questions to be put to the boys in regard to this trip from the land out and back to it.

These questions and answers were as follows

Did they cross many open leads or much open water during this time? Answer: None.

Did they make any caches out on the ice? Answer: No.

Did they kill any bear or seal while out on the ice north of Cape Thomas Hubbard? Answer: No.

Did they kill or lose any of their dogs while out on the ice? Answer: No.

With how many sledges did they start? Answer: Two.

How many dogs they they have? Answer: Did not remember exactly, but something over twenty.

How many sledges did they have when they got back to land? Answer: Two.

Did they have any provisions left on their sledges when they came back to land? Answer: Yes, the sledges still had about all they could carry, so they were able to take but a few things from the cache.

Turned South Again.

From here they then went southwest along the northwest coast of Heiberg Land to a point indicated on the map (Sverdrup's Cape Northwest).

From here they went west across the ice, which was level and covered with snow, offering good going, to a low island which they had seen from the shore of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest. On this island they camped for one sleep.

The size and position of this island, as drawn by the first boy, was criticised by the second boy as being too large and too far to the west, the second boy calling the attention of the first to the fact that the position of the island was more nearly in line with the point where they had left Heiberg Land (Cape Northwest) and the channel between Amund Ringnes Land and Ellef Ringnes Land.

This criticism and correction was accepted by the first boy, who started to change the position of the island, but was stopped, as Commander Peary had given instructions that no changes or erasures were to be made in the route as drawn by the Eskimos on the chart.

From this island they could see two lands beyond (Sverdrup's Ellef Ringnes and Amund Ringnes Lands). From the island they journeyed toward the left-hand one of these two lands (Amund Ringnes Land), passing a small island which they did not visit.

Arriving at the shore of Amund Ringnes Land, the Eskimos killed a deer as indicated on the chart.

The above portion of the statement of the Eskimo boys covers the period of time in which Dr. Cook claims to have gone to the pole and back, and the entire time during which he could possibly have made any attempts to go to it.

The answers of the Eskimo boys to Commander Peary's series of independent questions, showing that they killed no game, made no caches, lost no dogs, and returned to the land with loaded sledges, makes their attainment of the pole on the trip north of Cape Thomas Hubbard a physical and mathematical impossibility, as it would demand the subsistence of three men and over twenty dogs during a journey of 1,040 geographical miles on less than two sledge loads of supplies.

Thought He Did.

If it is suggested that perhaps Dr. Cook got mixed and that he reached the pole, or thought he did, between the time of leaving the northwest coast of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest, and his arrival at Ringnes Land, where they killed the deer, we must then add to the date of Dr. Cook's letter of March 17th, at or near Cape Thomas Hubbard, the subsequent four or five sleeps at that point, and the number of days required to march from Cape Thomas Hubbard to Cape Northwest (a distance of some sixty nautical miles), which would advance his date of departure from the land to at least the 25th of March, and be prepared to accept the claim that Dr. Cook went from Cape Northwest (about latitude 80½ degs. north), to the pole, a distance of 570 geographical miles, in twenty-seven days.

After killing the deer they then traveled south along the east side of Ringnes Land to the point indicated on the chart, where they killed another deer.

They then went east across the south part of Crown Prince Gustav sea to the south end of Heiberg Land, then down through Norwegian bay, where they secured some bears, but not until after they had killed some of their dogs, to the east side of Graham Island; then eastward to the little bay marked "Eid's fiord" on Sverdrup's chart; then southwest to Hell's Gate and Simmon's peninsula.

Found Open Water.

Here for the first time during the entire journey, except as already noted off Cape Thomas H. Hubbard, they encountered open water. On this point the boys were clear, emphatic and unshakable. They spent a good deal of time in this region, and finally abandoned their dogs and one sledge, took to their boat, crossed Hell's Gate to North Kent, up into Norfolk inlet, then back along the north coast of Colin Archer peninsula to Cape Vera, where they obtained fresh eider duck eggs. Here they cut the remaining sledge off, that is shortened it, as it was awkward to transport with the boat, and near here they killed a walrus.

The statement in regard to the fresh eider duck eggs permits the approximate determination of the date at this time as about the 1st of July. (This statement also serves, if indeed anything more than the inherent straightforwardness and detail of their narrative were needed, to substantiate the accuracy and truthfulness of the boys' statement. This locality of Cape Vera is mentioned in Sverdrup's narrative as the place where during his stay in that region he obtained eider duck eggs.)

From Cape Vera they went on down into the southwest angle of Jones sound, where they killed a seal; thence east along the south coast of the sound, killing three bears at the point noted on the map, to the peninsula known as Cape Sparbo on the map, about midway on the south side of Jones sound. Here they killed some musk-oxen and, continuing east, killed four more at the place indicated on the chart, and were finally stopped by the pack ice at the mouth of Jones sound. From here they turned back to Cape Sparbo, where they wintered and killed many musk-oxen.

After the sun returned in 1909 they started, pushing their sledge, across Jones sound to Cape Tennyson; thence along the coast to Clarence head (passing inside of two small islands not shown on the chart, but drawn on it by the boys), where they killed a bear; thence across the broad bight in the coast to Cadoga fiord; thence around Cape Isabella and up to Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor near Cape Sabine, where they found a seal cached for them by Panikpah, I-took-a-shoo's father. From here they crossed Smith sound on the ice, arriving at Anoratok.

Cook Not Worried.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 13.—"It is the same old story," said Dr. Cook, when he was shown the statement issued by Commander Peary, together with the map accompanying it.

"I have replied to the points raised a dozen times," he continued. "The map published by Commander Peary in itself indicates that the Eskimos have respected their promise to me that they would not give any information to Peary or his men. The Eskimos were instructed not to tell Mr. Peary, or any of his party of our trip over the polar sea. They were told to say we had been far north. They have kept their word.

"Mr. Whitney has said that during the cross-examination conducted by Commander Peary and others of his expedition, the Eskimos did not understand the questions put to them or the map which was laid before them. Their replies to the questions put have been twisted to suit a perverted interest.

Bring Eskimos to New York.

"I will not enter into any argument about the matter, but I will bring the Eskimos to New York at my own expense and they will prove, as did Mr. Whitney, all that I have claimed."

Dr. Cook would not consent to go into the details of Mr. Peary's statement any further than this.

"The Eskimos," he said, "are only willing to say something that they think will please their questioners."

The explorer was not at all perturbed by the accusations. A confident smile flitted over his bronzed face when they were shown to him. "I fully expected to see something of the kind," he said. "The document looks formidable over so many signatures, and probably will appear so to the public. There is, however, nothing in it, as it is based upon the distorted and evasive replies of persons who were told not to give any details."

Another Witness Coming.

The doctor continued:

"Rasmussen, who will be here shortly, has seen the Eskimos and knows the real story. They did not try to deceive him. He was with them for fourteen days. They know him and told him everything. He speaks the Eskimo language, for he is a semi-Eskimo himself, and the people have the most complete confidence in him."

He concluded: "That is all I have to say now."

Nervous Dyspepsia And Neurasthenia

Neurasthenia, also known as "nervous exhaustion," "nervous debility," and "nervous prostration," is a disease, which in these modern, strenuous times is becoming more and more prevalent. It is a condition in which there is more or less marked and persistent loss of energy, together with considerable irritability.

Persons who suffer from this trouble are easily excited and irritated; cannot do as much work as formerly, and in attempting any mental effort, quickly become confused, and are unable to concentrate the attention. They also complain of insomnia, nervous indigestion, depression of spirits, and palpitation of the heart.

There is a general muscular weakness; the person cannot walk very far, and tires quickly on attempting physical exertion. There is ringing in the ears; blurring of eyesight; headache and vertigo; specks floating before the eyes, and a general restlessness. The ability to sustain prolonged intellectual effort is interfered with, and the patient imagines he is losing his memory.

Neurasthenics continually watch for new symptoms, unconsciously exaggerate the old ones, attaching undue importance to them. Causeless fear is often suffered from; a dread of some impending danger; extreme pessimism; dark forebodings, and hysteria. Sleep is not refreshing, and the person feels much more tired in the morning than at night. Horrible dreams and nightmare are usually complained of.

But by far the most prominent manifestation of Neurasthenia is Nervous Dyspepsia. In nearly every case, this disturbance of the stomach dominates the complaint. Cause and effect may be transposed, and dyspepsia may be the result of Neurasthenia, but oftener, indigestion is the original cause of the nervous condition. The nerves are simply "starved" because the stomach does not digest the food properly, and as the nerves are dependent upon the food which the blood absorbs from the stomach for their sustenance, any deprivation thereof is sure to cause nerve weakness.

The use of "nerve tonics" in this condition is a mistake; they merely stimulate, but do not rebuild nerve tissue. Completely digested food is the only true nerve builder and strengthener; and in the treatment of nervous exhaustion, one should first cure the nervous dyspepsia, which is usually the origin of the trouble, by taking STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS in doses of one or two after each meal, or whenever needed, and the long train of nervous symptoms will be cured along with the nervous dyspepsia.

This celebrated remedy is without a peer in the treatment of nervous indigestion and in fact, indigestion of any kind. They digest all the food with great thoroughness and facilitate its absorption by the blood, which carries it to the weakened, diseased nerves and builds them up, so that every symptom of Nervous Exhaustion is gotten rid of.

COOK SAYS AMUNDSEN WILL REACH THE POLE.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 13.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, who lectured here last night, said that although an American had been at the North Pole in 1908 and another in 1909, he hoped still another would get there in 1910. He said Amundsen was on the way to the Pole and would probably reach there in 1913 or 1914. There was still much work to do in the Arctic.

GOLD DUST goes after dirt with a "big stick" and does all cleaning quicker and more thoroughly than soap or any other cleanser

GOLD DUST is more than soap—does more than soap. Soap merely cleans, GOLD DUST gets under the surface, kills every germ, washes out every impurity and sterilizes everything it touches. It is a sanitary cleanser and saves the housewife the toil of rubbing and scrubbing.

Other cleansers make you show what you're made of.

GOLD DUST shows what it's made of.

GOLD DUST makes its own cleansing suds. It does the hard part of the work; you merely assist it.

The lecture will begin promptly at the hour set.

AEROPLANE STYLES

Will Be Seen Even in Evening Gowns.

I am making a great many good-looking dresses for the opening of the opera season and the horse show, writes Mrs. Simcox in the November Delineator. Evening gowns are cut with long trains, draped tunics, fishwife overskirts and surplice fichus caught under deep pinafore bibs. Fur and ostrich feathers are the smart trimmings of the year, especially on chiffon coats and light diaphanous dresses. Picture gowns of brocade, moire and shot silks, trimmed with bullion and silver laces, are in great demand. New York women are taking up rather gingerly the new garter sash that ties the skirt in around the ankles. It was invented for the aeroplane, not the ballroom, when it is sure to take its place nevertheless. For fashions are quite as illogical and inconsequential this season as ever, and the styles of 1730 and 1870 now stroll along amiably arm in arm in this year of grace, 1909.

The new velvets and velvet-embossed chiffons are very beautiful and wonderfully effective. The velvet borders stamped an transparent materials were worn a great deal last winter. This year cut-work velvet on backgrounds of luminous metallic tulles and tissues will satisfy the ever-growing demand for regal, sumptuous-looking fabrics. Sevres-blue velvet on white chiffon and a paler shade of blue in a design of great fleur de lis on a foundation of argent tulle are among the most attractive combinations of colors and materials that have arrived this season in the train of medieval fashions.

RIBBONS TO BE WORN.

Many Styles to Find Popular Favor.

Marseilles has woven an Egyptian notion into some of its new silk ribbons. On neutral backgrounds of stone gray or dull brown appear colored designs in which there is a suggestion of the decoration on columns in some temple on the Nile.

The lotus flower and bud have grown under the artful hand of the weaver; brilliant, conventional wings flash out their Egyptian message.

These ornamental ribbons suggest fancy work possibilities, and merit consideration because of their sensible shades.

Moire ribbon of stiff and supple quality is here. The thick weaves can be tied in immense stiff bows for moire-covered hats.

The softer ribbons can be fashioned into bags or girdles and twisted in decorative knots for trimming.

Plaids are again conspicuous. Great variety is offered at the ribbon counter.

Dresden colorings having wide, irregular borders attract the lover of pinks and blues.

Ribbons after the pattern of old-fashioned brocades will help those who are desirous of using this dominant Parisian note in evening costumes.

EARLY SIMPLICITY

That Was Followed at American Embassies.

In my official days globe-trotting was not such a mania with my country people, and life was altogether much simpler, writes the widow of an American diplomatist in her memoirs in the November Delineator. When the Fourth of July came we floated the Stars and Stripes from the house and laid in a good supply of lemonade and coffee and sandwiches. The residents in the American colony called with their children, even the babies, and among the tourists who wandered in there was always some one to give us welcome news of our friends and neighbors at home. The men would gather in the library late in the afternoon and tell campaign stories over their cigars until their wives had to send for them to go home. Sometimes we would have fireworks in the evening, which my husband planned for months ahead and ordered from New York with the glee of a schoolboy.

In later years, as a guest to these receptions all over Europe, I have seldom come away without a feeling of humiliation. In London and Paris especially, the two cities so thronged with tourists during the summer, a Fourth of July reception at the ambassador's is at times a strange sight. The house is decorated beautifully with flowers, and the long tables in the dining room groan under the weight of every kind of salad, cold meat, fruits and ices. Everything is of the best the market affords. The gardens are opened, with refreshment tents and cozy corners where the guests can rest and listen to the orchestra. A small army of extra servants is taken on, and everything imaginable done to make the people comfortable.

The callers include every one who wants to come, and the ambassador stands at the head of the stairs and shakes hands for three or four hours with a constant stream, most of whom he never saw before in his life. Hundreds among them are well-mannered and appreciative, and these he is glad to have with him, even though he may not know them personally—the students who are abroad for music or art, bright-eyed young men and women who look long at the pictures and hangings, responsive to the kindly spirit and the feeling of national fraternity.

Fads of Fashion.

The fashion of closing the coats so far down the front has created a demand for fluffy jabots that will fill in the space left vacant when the blouse is considered not sufficiently smart or too thin to suit weather conditions.

And while there are many elaborate models and styles if one has only the money to spare, one of the prettiest and most practical jabots can be made from a strip of fine Brussels net, finished with a one-half-inch hem on one side and line pleated on the other.

This is sewed all around a strip of the net, which should have been braided, embroidered or similarly embellished. Black or white may be used.

It is surprising how much hand work adds to the beauty of women's garments, not necessarily elaborate needlework, as was exemplified by a gown seen recently, the material of which was a pale tan voile made with a simple long skirt and a plain overskirt, short and square across the front. The waist and the elbow sleeves were also plain and smooth fitting, but the entire surface of both was run with silk floss in pretty pastel shades of pink, blue, green and mauve in groups of lightning lines. The hem of the upper skirt was similarly decorated. Yoke and undersleeves were of ecru net, and the belt was of soft green silk.

The New Muff.

To save expense, to catch the purse of the average woman, there is a new muff, which has only the outer half of fur and the under half of corded Ottoman silk.

The furrier who invented this claims that he did it not so much to bring down the price, as to prevent the wearing off of the fur on the under side.

Every woman will appreciate this invention, for she knows how the best fur rubs off into bald spots from constant rubbing against the cloth of her gown.

These muffs are made of one broad animal put straight across an immense silk foundation.

The head is at the right side, the tail at the left.

By the way, this would not be a half bad idea to follow by the woman who has a flat muff made of one anima).

Buttoned Shoes.

Have you noticed how the buttoned boots for women's wear predominate? Of a dozen new styles that come in, ten of them will be buttoned and the other two laced.

A shoe merchant says that he does not believe it would be possible for customers always to find a good assortment of sizes in the black suede boots this winter, so great is going to be the demand for them.

WHAT LIQUOR COST ONE MAN.

McClure's: At 14 years of age, I developed a love for statistics, accounts, and bookkeeping. Since I was 15, I have kept an accurate account of my expenditures in saloons, covering a period from Jan. 1, 1878, to April 27, 1908. The total debit balance of my personal "saloon account" for thirty years is $17,364.60. This amount covers alcoholic beverages, mixed or straight, purchased by me in saloons, drug stores, blind pigs, bars, buffets, cafes, restaurants, hotels, dining cars, steamers and theaters. It also covers slight losses at playing saloon slot-machines; losses at dice-shaking in saloons for drinks; losses at card-playing in saloons for drinks; one gun hold-up in a saloon; three gun hold-ups in a saloon districts; and two chloral-hydrate robberies at saloon bars.

My average daily saloon expense was $1.57 for every calendar day of the thirty-year period named. Reduced to drinks, this is an average of more than ten separate drinks of 15 cents a drink per calendar day. The reader will comprehend that I must have spent considerable time in saloons to have acquired this drinking average.

My records show that the total spent in buying drinks in 1,860 saloons in fifty-eight cities of nineteen states was 32,874 hours—1,369 days—nearly four years.

TIGERS TAKE THE FOURTH

Detroit Evens Up the Account in the World's Series.

George Mullin Holds the Heavy Hitting Pirates Helpless.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—Detroit evened up the account in the world's series yesterday by defeating Pittsburg 5 to 0 in the fourth game. Each team has won two games. Detroit outclassed Pittsburg in every department of the game yesterday, but George Mullin's wonderful pitching was the feature of the work of the American league champions. Mullin held Pittsburg to four scattered hits and was absolutely invincible with men on bases. In the third inning he performed the noteworthy feat of striking out Clarke and the mighty Wagner with two Pittsburg men on bases. He struck out ten men. His wonderful, sharp-breaking balls were apparently unhittable, and every Pittsburg man reached for them in vain.

Detroit hit, when, hits meant runs and bunched them with telling effect. In the fourth inning a fusilade of four hits—two singles and two two-baggers—drove Leifield from the pitcher's slab. Phillippi succeeded Leifield and stopped Detroit's scoring, but it was too late, as Mullin's pitching prevented Pittsburg from even threatening to score in the last six innings. The mighty Wagner failed to get a single hit and was unable to steal, as he was on first base only once, when he was given a base on balls in the second inning. The hard-hitting Clarke struck out twice. Score:

BOSTON BEATS NEW YORK TEAM

Speaker Wins Game With a Hot Drive to Right Field.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 13.—Speaker, Boston's speedy center fielder, won the third game of the New York-Boston post-season series yesterday, when he smashed a liner to right field in the ninth inning and scored a home run. The locals led the visitors for eight innings, hitting Ames so freely that he was taken out in the eighth to allow Meyers to bat. In the ninth Hall weakened and New York got three runs, tieing the score. After two men had been retired in Boston's half, Speaker lined out the homer. The paid attendance was 5,862 and the gross receipts $2,834. The national commission receives $283, the clubs $1,020 and the players divide $1,530.

"ON TO OMAHA" FOR GOPHERS

Nebraska Expected to Give Minnesota Team a Stiff Game.

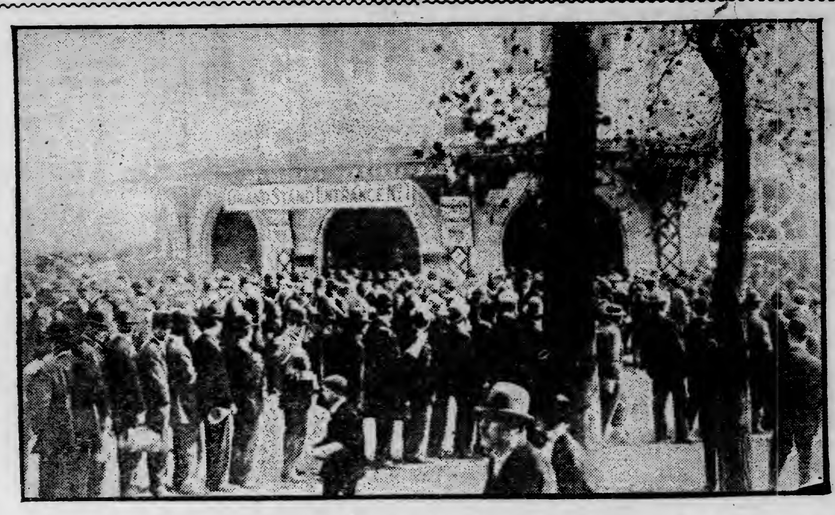

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Now for Nebraska! on to Omaha," is the cry at the University of Minnesota. The north wind kept the team off the field Monday night. Of course they went through a signal practice in the university armory. The Gopher football aspirants were pretty stiff from the game of Saturday. Raddemacher is limping around with a sore knee; Johnston has a slight attack of "Charlie Horse;" Powers has a sore stomach; and Farnam is troubled with a bad wrist. It was raining and snowing Monday afternoon, and "Doc" Williams decided that it was best not to go out on the field, so the practice was carried out in the armory. Of course, the men were given a good, long signal practice, but no real hard work was done.

The railroads refused to give a rate to Omaha, and so not many Gopher shouters will go down. Chances are that the Minnesota band will go down, and they guarantee to make enough noise to supply the missing rooters.

Pickering, the star Minnesota fullback, who was injured in Saturday's game, is coming along well, and ought to be out for practice the first of next week. He intends journeying down to Omaha, and although it will not be possible for him to get in the game, he will be there on the side lines to pull for Minnesota. Every one around the university feels Pickering's injury keenly. It will not only be a great loss to the team, but personal sympathy is also in abundance. "Pick" is one of the most popular fellows on the team.

Tonight and Thursday are the only two days of preparation for the Nebraska game, and Minnesota will have to go some. The Cornhuskers are stronger this year than last, and are likely to give the Ski-U-Mah boys an awful run for their money.

GREATEST FILLY IN TRAINING

Maskette Takes the Pierre Pont Handicap in Easy Style.

Jamaica, L. I., Oct. 13.—Maskette won the Pierre Pont handicap here yesterday but only after she had demonstrated that she is the greatest filly in training. She was off poorly and carried very wide on the first turn, losing many lengths, but when Butwell let out a wrap the filly overtook the leaders in a remarkable furlong and took the lead at the half mile pole. From there to the finish it was only a question of how far her rider cared to win by.

BILLY MAYNARD IS ARRESTED

Wrestler, Well Known in Duluth, in Toils in Seattle.

Under a Seattle date line comes the news of the arrest of Bert Shores, alias Bert Warner, alias Billy Maynard, alias Young Hackenschmidt, alias any name that at the time proved convenient for the work of the Maybray gang.

Under the name of Billy Maynard this same Bert Shores was well known in this city. He is one of the cleverest men that ever put over a fake wrestling bout.

Maynard, or Shores, or whatever his name really is, could really wrestle. But when he met Frank A. Gotch at the Lyceum he was thrown around like a baby in the hands of a giant. He was no match for the great grappler from Iowa, and the first time Gotch laid his hands on Maynard the latter was fully aware of the fact that Gotch was his master.

When anyone in these parts who is the least acquainted with wrestling, hears the name of Billy Maynard mentioned, he generally smiles, but not a Sunday-in-the-park smile. The old Metropolitan theater deal is still fresh in the memory of many.

Bowlers Meet.

A meeting of those interested in the formation of a bowling league was held last night. It is possible that six or eight clubs will compose the league. All of the best teams of the city will be represented in the organization. No definite action was taken at the meeting last night.

ELLIOTT IS RE-ELECTED

Succeeds Himself as President of the Minnesota-Wisconsin League.

Guarantee Is Raised to $50 —Salary Limit Is Unchanged.

John A. Elliott succeeds himself as president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league. W. J. Sommers, president of the Superior club, was elected vice president in place of Al. Kuehnow, and John B. Fleming of Eau Claire was made treasurer of the organization. The election of officers occurred at the afternoon session.

What will prove a hardship on the weaker sisters of the league, but will help the clubs that contribute materially to the support of the teams where the attendance is very small, was the adopting of a rule providing that a guarantee of $50 shall hold for every game that is played. This will mean that the attendance will have to be at least 400.

In the event of rain breaking up the game or preventing the game from being played, the guarantee will remain at $35. The salary limit will remain the same, $1,300.

Players will not be permitted to be farmed or bought from higher leagues within thirty days of the close of the season. All games that such players thus secured participate in will be forfeited.

At the informal session held last evening, around the banquet board, it was resolved that at the January meeting of the league officials a resolution will be introduced giving umpires full police protection, and that furthermore, fines will be paid before the player can take part in the game the next day.

Every club owner present expressed his approval of the resolution to stamp out rowdyism. The Winona club was a shining example of a bunch of rowdy players, and the league officials have decided that such conduct shall be done away with.

At last night's meeting two new clubs were given consideration as prospective members of the league. Those cities are Merrill and Chippewa Falls, both in Wisconsin. Davis of Eau Claire and Bryan of Wausau are of the opinion that these towns would support teams. Elliott, Bryan and Kuehnow were member of the committee that will look into the matter of the league.

Right now the league officials have Mankato, Red Wing, Rochester, Hibbing, Virginia, Winnipeg, Merrill and Chippewa Falls under consideration from which to select two members of the league.

It is not believed that any of the present members of the league will be dropped. Every club owner believes that next season conditions will be more favorable for every club in the league, and it is also probable that some changes will be made that will benefit all of the clubs, in the matter of street car arrangements and advertising.

The umpire question is one that will receive the close attention of President Elliott. It is certain that more able arbitrators will officiate next season than held the indicator the past year.

WISCONSIN NINE WINS LAST GAME

The Baseball Series Between Badgers and Japs Is Now Over.

Tokio, Oct. 13.—The University of Wisconsin baseball team yesterday beat Tokio university in the last of the series of games which the collegians crossed the ocean to play. The score was 8 to 0. The Japanese pitcher was batted freely, ten members of the Wisconsin team reaching first on clean drives. The best the home team could do was three hits off the college pitcher. Errors were evenly divided, each team making two misplays.

"Prosperity is in our midst," spaketh genial John Elliott at the round table meeting of the Minny magnates. And thus is the echo from the busy mill and factory re-echoed in the less harsh marts of King Baseball.

And it was truly good to hear the words of the large president of the league, after some of the dubious remarks heard locally and from other ball yards during the season just passed. Is it that Mr. Elliott is one of those kind and gentle kidders? Or is it that the magnates, when teams are losing and the public is inclined to be caustic, would have us believe that the woes of a manager are heavy?

From the statements made at the Tuesday meeting of the Minny Moguls, the league is an established institution for many years to come, and there will be improvements and enlargements that will make the league one of the strongest in Class D baseball.

There is one caution that might be whispered into the ear of the head of the league. That caution has to do with umpires. The most serious drawback to the success of the young league, during the first year of its existence, was the glaring incompetency of the arbitrators. Some of them were almost human; some were not. The heavy loss of games on the road by all teams, may be accounted for by the decisions of the umpires.

Take the case of Osborne. There were others, too. It is very difficult to get competent indicator handlers. There is no denying that fact. Yet at the same time the desire to have better judges of play next season, should be one that carries a lot of weight with the league officials.

Something may have been started by the National commission in the placing of umpires in the outfield to watch the course of the pellet through the dense human fringe, that crowded the field at Bennett park, Detroit, on all sides. Hereafter, when great crowds are present and necessitate ground rules, the captains of the two battling teams may demand that umpires be sent out into the foul line angles, to judge accurately of the course of long hits.

They could cite the Pittsburg-Detroit series as a precedent. Four umpires worked in the Monday game at Detroit. Two of the arbitrators were official, the other two merely performing an extra service. Many games have been won and lost by the hit that was wrongly called by the umps behind the bat or out near one of the bases. In games in the future, therefore, when great results hang on the winning or losing, it may be deemed expedient to call extra judges of play to the relief of the official umps.

In football the referee and the umpire are reinforced by a field judge, whose duty it is to stand well back of the team on the defense and judge plays that often escape the observation of the other two officials. The starting of the extra umpire system at Detroit may develop something of this sort.

That old racial hatred is asserting itself out on the sun-kissed Pacific slope. The odds on Johnson are being cut down by the stream of Ketchel money that is flowing in.

Gee, how they hate the dark-skinned brother out that a-way! There are few close followers of boxing who will concede Ketchel very much of a chance against the giant black. Yet so anxious are they to see the Michigan youth win, that the Californians are letting their hope play leader to their judgment.

At that, though, if the Ketchel wallop is in good working order, he cannot be denied an outside chance with the black. Perhaps it is that forlorn hope that is causing the short-end players to open the purse strings.

There are many admirers of James J. Jeffries hoping with a fervent hope that the "Assassin" puts away the smoke. There are many who don't want to see Jeffries tackle the Johnson party. And why? Just this—when Jim Corbett fought John L. Sullivan, there were very few who conceded the young Californian a chance with the mighty Sullivan. Those who doped Sullivan to win simply remembered how great a man he was. They did not stop to consider what the years of dissipation had done. The same holds good with Jeffries.

Jeffries has not led the life of a saint. Not so that you could notice it. He has been out of the ring for four years and he is just as old as John L. Sullivan was when he chased himself to death trying to catch and pin the elusive Corbett.

Isn't it funny, now? They didn't call Sullivan old until after Corbett had beaten him. Then he was an old man—too old to have ever thought of pitting himself against a younger man.

Why don't we call Jeffries old? We will if he ever meets and is defeated by Jack Johnson. It is always the guy down and out who is the "old one." For that very reason, then, there are some close followers of the history of champions who are sincerely hoping that James J. Jeffries may never be called upon to meet the Galveston black.

Those New York sport writers do sure hate to see any man from the city of Manhattan isle get his. The other night in Pittsburg, which is in Pennsylvania, according to the stories of the New York writers, a man named Bill Papke put it all over one Willie Lewis from New York. The New York accounts of the battle give Lewis the decision on points, only stating that Papke is a very tough party.

If Lewis and the guy from Kewanee were to hook up for a battle lasting over six rounds they would have to carry the Lewis person out of the ring on a stretcher. He is hardly in the same class with the man from the rugged West.

And the fight the other night goes to prove that there is no one, aside from Ketchel, in the white fighter class, who has any business in the same ring with Papke. Hugo Kelly used to pose as the master of the man from Illinois, but the quick defeat at the hands of Papke, not so very long ago, has effectively disposed of Kelly's claim.

As long as Papke can make the middleweight limit, and as long as he does not get tangled up with Sam Langford or Stanley Ketchel, both naturally stronger than Papke, he can reign supreme in the near heavyweight class.

NEW RAILROAD INTO BIG TIMBER TRACT.

Watersmeet, Mich., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—After work had been in progress less than three months, the William Bonifas Lumber company has completed the construction of a railway from Watersmeet, Gogebic county, to a big tract of standing timber six miles distant, and the Chicago & Northwestern company is now laying the steel.

The line will go into commission next week. It is of standard gauge and is one of a number of similar railroads being built in Upper Michigan this season.

S.S.S. MAKES A LASTING CURE

Not only its proven ability to cure, but its absolute safety as a remedy, has made S. S. S. the most extensively used of all medicines in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison. Unlike the strong mineral mixtures, which temporarily remove the outward symptoms and shut the disease up in the system, there to carry on its destructive work on the delicate and vital organs, S. S. S. strikes directly at the root, and by purifying the blood of every trace of the virus, completely and permanently cures the trouble. S. S. S. is Nature's blood purifier, harmless in its action and certain in its good results. It is made from a combination of roots and herbs, each of which has a definite and specific action in purifying the blood. Years were spent in selecting and proportioning the different ingredients, but when S. S. S. was perfected it soon demonstrated its superiority over all other blood medicines, and now, after 40 years, it is still the one and only certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. While driving out the poison from the circulation S. S. S. builds up and strengthens the system by its fine vegetable tonic effects. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. is your most certain reliance, and because of its freedom from mercury, potash or any other mineral, it is absolutely safe for every one. ON THE IRON RANGES

SCANDINAVIAN MALE CHOIR "NORDEN" OF VIRGINIA

Music lovers of the Mesaba range are looking forward with interest to the forthcoming concerts to be given by the Scandinavian male choir "Norden" of Virginia under the leadership of Sanfrid Mustonen, former musical director of Northern Michigan Singers' union and assisted by Prof. Abel, violinist, and the best vocal talent of the range.

Concerts will be given in Hibbing Sunday, Oct. 17; Virginia, Tuesday, Oct. 19; Eveleth, Oct. 23, and Chisholm, Oct. 24.

Those who have heard recent rehearsals of the choir note that it is making wonderful progress, and a musical treat is ahead for the citizens of the range towns mentioned.

MUST ACCEPT PRICE FIXED

Virginia Church Society Cannot Get More for Park Property.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contention of the Presbyterian Church society that the price put upon its property in block 43 is too low was further demonstrated by the second appearance of Rev. Henry E. Neff before the council last night. In behalf of the society, Rev. Mr. Neff appealed to the council to raise the appraised price. He said that the deed to the property was ready for delivery to the council, with the suggestion that it be turned over on two conditions: First, that the council allow the society to remain in possession and have the use of the property until such time as the society could erect a new manse; second, that in the event that the block upon which its property stands be turned over to the county as a courthouse site, then said property is to revert back to the society for it to dispose of to the county. Rev. Mr. Neff was informed that it had not the power to accept a deed under such conditions, and that the society must abide by the decision of the board of appraisers and accept the price put upon its property by said board. Members of the council, however, favored the first condition in so far as allowing the society to use the property until it could erect another manse.

The communication from the park board presented two weeks ago in which the council was asked to complete its work of condemnation against property in block 43 and which also stated that the board did not sanction the turning over of this property to the county for a courthouse site, was again turned down by its being laid on the table indefinitely.

By this action on the part of the council this block still remains in the hands of the city and not the park board. A number of the aldermen and also a large number of citizens favor turning block 43 over to the county for a courthouse site if the commissioners desire it. The park board does not favor this, and this is the bone of contention between the two bodies.

Mayor Hawkinson stated that he had signed the resolution for the purchase of block 43 with the understanding and promises given him that in the event that the county wanted this property for a courthouse site it would be turned over for that purpose. The same understanding and promises were given the aldermen and that is what secured their votes for the purchase of this block. The paramount issue in this matter is, shall the city turn this park property over to the park board? The aldermen say nay. Provided the city does turn it over to the board the property comes under full control of the park commissioners. The charter says that the park board shall have exclusive management and control of the park fund and all lands which have been or may be acquired for parks or parkways, and such lands shall not be alienated or diverted for other uses but shall remain forever parks and parkways. In the event of the city turning over this property to the park board, the only remedy for a diversion of the property to the county would be to amend the charter, and this the aldermen think would be a long way around the matter, so are determined to hold on to block 43 until such time as the county commissioners choose a site for the proposed new courthouse.

The clerk of the municipal court reported fines collected for the week ending Oct. 9 in the sum of $149.

Meat Inspector J .P. Chalmers inspected all meat markets in the city during the past week and in his report to the council states that they were all in splendid condition and that he found no meats for condemnation.

Licenses to sell intoxicating liquors were granted to Patrick Sullivan, 117 Chestnut street, and John Nelson, 102 Chestnut street.

The bids of Ben Milavetz offering $100 for the old detention hospital and $200 for the lot upon which it stands, were rejected by the council. His bid on the house was accepted, but upon being informed by Mr. Milavetz that he did not want the house without the lot, the council reconsidered its acceptance of the bid.

Three commissioners were appointed whose duty it will be to define and assess the value of the sanitary sewer constructed in the East division and District No. 3 H of the city. The commissioners appointed are W. E. Hannaford, C. H. Dorway and H. B. Baker.

ILLEGAL BOOZE JOINTS RAIDED

Six Keepers of Hibbing Blind Pigs Are Heavily Fined.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.) — The charge recently made before the village board that illicit saloons, or blind pigs, were flourishing on the outskirts of town is already bringing results.

The directions to the police to arrest the keepers of such places resulted in six persons being haled into court yesterday and, after a hearing, fined. Lucas Trobath, Rosa Demvich, Elijen Minatten, Agnes Misko, Mary Propaty and Phil Perkovich each paid fines of $50 and costs. It is probable that other arrests will follow.

GLEN STRADEN IS TREASURER

Resident of Marble Selected to Succeed Kremer in Itasca.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—After an all day session, the county board last evening decided upon Glen Straden of Marble as county treasurer to succeed A. A. Kremer, who was forced out of office on account of charges of embezzlement preferred against him by Public Examiner Kain. Further investigation of the treasurer's books indicate that the shortage may run as high as $30,000 which will be reduced $6,200 by the certificates of deposit Kremer has turned over to the county.

Kremer's hearing was not held before Judge Huson yesterday, as expected, but went over until today.

Nothing in the history of Itasca county has created such a profound sensation as the disclosures against Kremer, who has served ten years as county treasurer, and was highly esteemed.

BRIEFS FROM HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Martin Hughes is in Duluth, where the term of district court over which he will preside opened yesterday morning.

Miss Dorothy Cohen spent Saturday and Sunday in Virginia, where she watched the Virginians beat Hibbing at football.

FURTHER TALK ABOUT PAVING

Ever Present Subject to Be Discussed By Eveleth Club.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening in the city hall to discuss electric light rates, independent school districts and the paving of Grant avenue.

The subject of electric light rates is very important to the community, and some of the leading citizens are gathering data from other cities where electric light plants are being run, to bring before the meeting. The community as a whole is in favor of having the rates reduced.

The question of paving Grant avenue next spring will be thoroughly discussed. It is expected that the kind of material with which the street should be paved will be definitely decided upon.

The subject of an independent school district will also be discussed with the idea of taking preliminary steps to the organization of a new district.

The question of centralizing the collections of contributions to the Johnson memorial fund, will also be decided upon. It is expected that the meeting will be largely attended, as all the questions are of vital interest to the local public.

PLAN ATHLETIC CLUB.

Young Men of Eveleth Interested in Meritorious Movement.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of young men will be held at the M. E. church parsonage tomorrow evening, presided over by Rev. R. C. Johnson, to organize an athletic club.

The club will probably be in the basement of the M. E. church, as that is the only convenient available place. At present there is in the church's basement a gymnasium, reading and shower bath rooms. It is expected that the present gymnasium will be enlarged to meet the demands of the club members.

The club will have basket ball, indoor baseball and other athletic teams in the field. Many of the well-known local athletes have signified their intention of joining.

IS ARRESTED AT CHARLESTON, ILL.

Harvey Zimmerman Will Be Brought Back to Face Trial.

Harvey V. Zimmerman, wanted in Duluth on the charge of stealing $350 from the safe of the Alger-Smith Lumber company, was arrested yesterday at Charleston, Ill. He will be brought back by Chief Troyer.

The prisoner was acting as confidential clerk of the company until Sept. 5, the date of the theft, after which he mysteriously disappeared. The next heard of him was by J. W. Bayly of the Alger-Smith company, who learned he was registered at Charleston. He notified Chief Troyer and several hours later word was received that Zimmerman was under arrest.

Zimmerman came to Duluth from Reading, Pa., early last summer. He is 25 years old and single.

FIND FLOATER IN THE HARBOR

Unknown Man Is Believed to Have Committed Suicide.

The body of an unidentified man was found floating in the Sixth avenue slip this morning, and taken from the water by some men employed on the docks.

The man was evidently a laborer. The body was not badly decomposed, and had apparently not been in the water more than two or three days. Some of the workmen on the docks said that they knew the man by sight, and had seen him about the docks as late as last Saturday.

The body was taken to Durkan & Crawford's morgue, where it is being held for identification.

A pecular feature of the case is that the man's shirt and trousers were almost filled with sand. It is not believed that such an amount of sand could have been washed into his clothing, and it is thought that he may have filled his clothes with sand with the intention of committing suicide.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH"

When Burning Money in Cigars, Burn Duluth Cigars.

When burning up cash, transforming it into smoke, help Duluth out in the process.

Smoke cigars made in Duluth. There are all kinds of them, Havana and domestic, large or small, heavy or light, expensive or cheap, to suit the most exacting taste.

Maybe you have not stopped to think about the subject, but the cigar manufacturing industry in Duluth has assumed large proportions. From small beginnings numerous shops have grown and are turning out thousands of smokes every day. It is safe to say that 6,000,000 cigars are rolled in Duluth every year.

Duluth has over a dozen cigar factories. But they do not owe their existence to Duluth support by any means. It has helped, but were it not for the market tributary to Duluth, they would be running on a comparatively small basis.

But if every man in Duluth were to insist upon being supplied with cigars made in Duluth, these factories would double in size in almost no time, for Duluth consumes many more foreign than local cigars. The figures run into the millions many times over.

More Duluth cigars smoked in Duluth means more cigar makers. More cigar makers mean more money turned into the local trade channels, which means more prosperity for Duluth. More dividends for the cigar manufacturers means more money invested in Duluth property, which results in reduced taxes to the general public as well as better living conditions.

Duluth cigars are well advertised. Every smoker can learn the names of Duluth brands with scarcely any trouble. His dealer knows which cigars are made in Duluth, and if he is asked for them will hand them over the counter.

MAYOR REPLIES TO CRITICISM

Asks Civic League to Furnish Evidence of Law Violations.

Mayor Haven said last night in replying to the criticism of the Civic league that the Civic league expects a millenium in a city, where it is not possible, particularly in a short time.

He says that the league complains that beer is being sold in hotels after hours. The mayor declared that if any evidence of this is laid before the authorities, the cases will be prosecuted to the limit. He said that the enforcement of the law depends to a great extent upon the public and that the public must co-operate if ideal conditions are to prevail.

ASKED FOR BEER WITHOUT NICKEL

This Started Something It Took Four Men to Finish.

Burt and John Nordlee were fined $5 and costs and Harry Lee and Axel Hanson of the Sailors' Home saloon on the Bowery were discharged in police court yesterday afternoon after being tried for disorderly conduct and assault, respectively.

When arraigned in the morning for being disorderly, the Nordlees proclaimed that they had done no wrong but had simply defended themselves from the two bartenders, who went after them with beer bottles and clubs. They said they hadn't done anything to anybody, but Lee's face looked like a sausage put through a grinding machine the wrong way.

The Nordlees were unscathed. It appears that one of their party asked for a beer without the nickel, which drew a slap in the face from the bartender, causing the rough house. But the court couldn't learn who hit Lee, and thinking he had been sufficiently punished, let him go. But in parting the court issued the warning that bartenders must not be too high-handed, declaring that such offenders will be given severe punishment if found guilty before him.

FRAMING CITY CHARTER.

Cloquet's Charter Commission Is to Begin Work Friday.

Cloquet, Minn., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Now that the charter commission has been permanently organized and the members will begin active work on the framing of the city charter next Friday, considerable interest is being evinced by citizens.

A literary society has been formed at the Y. M. C. A., and the different phases of the commission plan of government are being argued pro and con for the benefit of the citizens at large, that they may be thoroughly familiar with the issue when the charter is put up for ratification or annulment.

The commission is composed of fifteen city property owners, and out of these F. V. Inskeep has been elected chairman; W. H. Skemp, vice chairman, and Fred D. Vibert, secretary, with J. A. Fesenbeck consulting attorney for the commission. The progress of the commission's deliberations will be watched with eagerness by the city at large.

RIFLED MAIL BAG FOUND.

Stolen From Car at Winona, Discovered Near Rochester.

Winona, Minn., Oct. 13.—If some mail sent from Winona to Owatonna last July never reached its destination an explanation is now at hand in the finding of a rifled mail pouch at Rochester.

The bag was found by Mr. Buske on the north side of Oakwood cemetery. It had been slit open on one side. The bag was turned over to Assistant Postmaster Frank Lyon at Rochester.

Mr. Lyons stated that it was probable that the pouch had been stolen while a train was standing on the track in this city. The mail clerks undoubtedly had both doors of the car open on account of the heat, and while their backs were turned, some hobo or yeggman reached in and pulled out a pouch and carried it over to the cemetery and examined the booty, which proved valueless to him. The pouch has never been reported missing to Mr. Lyon's knowledge, for the reason that it contained nothing but periodicals, and those to whom they were addressed probably thought that there had been some mistake in mailing by the publishers. It is quite probable that this mystery will remain unsolved.

SAVED MONEY ON PAVING

St. Joseph, Mo., Finds Municipal Asphalt Plant Good Investment.

Pavement Costs a Third of What It Does in Duluth.

Experiments with a municipal asphalt plant at St. Joseph, Mo., show that that city has been able to effect a considerable saving in the price of paving.

An article in the St. Joseph, Mo., News states that where the best price before the establishment of the plant was $1.40 a square yard, work has been done as low as 95 cents a square yard, a saving of more than one-third.

Local people say that the low cost o fthe asphalt in St. Joseph is probably due to the fact that deposits of the material are found near that city. Labor and transportation are also said to be cheaper. Asphalt has cost Duluth $2.20 to $2.40 a squard yard on the average, but only a small part of the city pavements have been laid with this material.

The St. Joseph plant was bought as an experiment, and the officials of the board of public works say that it has been a decided success. Mayor Haven says that at the present time he doesn't think a municipal plant would be a wise investment here, although he states that it may be well to look into the matter in the future.

The article in the St. Joseph paper follows:

"Those who have been hooting the city's purchase of an asphalt repair plant for $4,000 may be interested in a report that was filed with the board of public works today by Henry L. Meyer, superintendent of the plant. Persons who feared that the city had negotiated a collection of junk, will be surprised to learn that with the apparatus a street gang was enabled to lay asphalt at a cheaper rate than ever before in the city's history, even when the street railway company was making its most favorable prices for the city's work.

"The plant was inoperative for several days, during an inspection by experts from the East, who came to St. Joseph to look over the city purchases. Meyer and his men got busy again Wednesday, laying 26.36 square yards that day. The total cost, including the outlay for material and labor, was $25.65, or $1.05 a square yard. Before the plant was bought, it cost $1.40 a square yard to do the same work. The plant was in use again yesterday, when 63.20 square yards were laid for $54.40, or at the remarkably low rate of 86 cents a square yard.

"When I get the plant installed at the workhouse, so that I can use the prisoners for some of the work," said Meyer, 'I will be able to cut the price of paving down a great deal more.'"

A DISTINCTIVE HOTEL

St. Regis Not Only the Finest but the Most Comfortable in New York.

None of New York's great hotels has been more talked about than the St. Regis, at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. Recognized as the finest in the world, its chief claim to popularity lies in the fact that it offers the largest measure of refined comfort at standard prices.

The St. Regis has come to be recognized as the leading living and dining establishment in New York, is not an experiment, but a well-established necessity in the city's hospitality. It has been tried and tested by thousands, and not found wanting. It represents a superior phase of hotel life and stands unrivaled for comfort and home-likeness. On this subject the London Times, in an article published soon after the St. Regis opened its doors, remarks: "If a great art connoisseur planned to furnish a house so that it would give the highest pleasure and comfort to his intimate personal friends, he could do no more than the St. Regis does for all its guests."

For some unaccountable reason all sorts of foolish and exaggerated reports have been circulated regarding the prices prevailing at this hotel. The truth is, that the cost of living at the St. Regis is no greater than at other first-class hotels, and, considering its exceptional accommodations and service, it is even less. This is shown by the fact that a beautifully furnished room of large size may be had for $3 and $4 a day, the same, with private bath, for $5 a day, or $6 for two people. Parlor, bedroom and bath at $12 per day and upwards. Restaurant charges are no higher than in other first-class hotels.

MURPHY MUST PAY HIS FINE

Commission Said to Have Given Chicago Magnate Seventy-Two Hours.

Pittsburg, Oct. 13.—The national commission has again delayed the handing down of its decision in the reopening of the Murphy-Pfeffer case. Chairmann Herrmann announced that the typewritten decision would be given out later in the day.

The opinion prevails that the commission has given President Charles W. Murphy of the Chicago National league team seventy-two hours in which to pay the $500 he was fined for the alleged tampering with Pitcher Pfeffer of the Toronto club.

President Heydler of the National league hinted at such a decision, but he would venture no statement as to what would be done if Murphy did not pay the money.

There will be another meeting of the national commission at Detroit tomorrow to consider the seventh game of the series, if it is necessary. According to the rules the selection of the place for playing the seventh game rests entirely with the commission.

The place for playing the seventh game will probably be decided by the flipping of a coin. It is generally believed, however, that it will be played at Pittsburg, because of the superior advantages for caring for the large crowd.

Game Postponed.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—National-American city championship game postponed; cold weather.

This year the total permits issued represent improvements worth $2,477,692 as compared with $2,041,466, a year ago. S. M. Kielley, building inspector, expects this month to be a record breaker and is certain that the year's permits will show a big gain over the totals of last year.

DISPOSING OF MANY CASES

Good Progress Being Made With Calendar in District Court.

P. M. Cadot Sues J. A. Roberts for Failure to Execute Contract.

The calling of cases for trial and their subsequent dismissal is getting to be the popular thing in district court. Several such cases have come up in the last few days. Yesterday the case of John Olson against the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company was called for trial and dismissed when before the court. Yesterday afternoon a jury was called in the case of Katarina Macek against Frank Klink, and everything was ready for the taking of testimony, when the plaintiff's motion for a dismissal was granted.

This morning the case of C. M. Hanscome, by M. G. Hanscome, his guardian ad litem, against the Oliver Iron Mining company was called for trial before Judge Dibell. While preparing for the calling of the jury the attorneys got together and a settlement was reached. Hanscome, who is 20 years old, sued for $10,000 for injuries sustained while employed as a fireman on a locomotive in the Hartley open pit mine, near Chisholm. His hand was crushed between the wheels of a car and the rails, and three fingers were amputated.

The case of P. M. Cadot vs. J. A. Roberts was put on trial before Judge Dibell this morning. Cadot is suing for $2,000 because, he claims, Roberts agreed to give him a sub-contract for the plumbing, heating and ventilating in the new C. C. Salter school, on which Roberts had the general contract. He claims that Roberts afterward refused to give him the contract, and he was damaged in the sum of $2,000.

The suit of Fred O. Clark against the Wisconsin Central Railway company for $2,500 for personal injury damages is still on before Judge Hughes.

IMMIGRATION WILL BE HEAVY

Big Movement Expected From Europe This Fall and Winter.

That one of the heaviest immigration movements in the history of this country will take place this winter and spring, is the opinion of Anders F. Maren, a representative of the Cunard line, who is in the city today.

Mr. Maren bases his prediction upon the prosperity of the United States. Steamship men say that prosperity in this country is invariably followed by a heavy immigration movement. A period of depression is also followed by a returning to the old country of thousands of laboring people.

Hard times in several of the countries of Europe, the general prosperity that has been the rule in this country for the past six months, with the promise of good times next year, and the heavy demand for labor, will, in the opinion of Mr. Maren, result in a heavy inpouring of labor to the United States.

He also stated that the coming of the steel plant to Duluth would in all probability result in the immigration to this section of the country of a large number of laborers.

Local steamship men agree with Mr. Maren in the statement that the coming winter and spring promise an exceptionally heavy movement of labor. Many laborers in this country will send for friends, they say, for following a period of prosperity foreign laborers invariably send for relatives or friends.

MAKE CITY OF HOMES.

Good Work Done By Building and Loan Associations.

Jay Cooke at one time said to Judge Ensign that Philadelphia had more separate houses owned for homes than any other city in the world and that it was brought about by the building and loan associations of that city.

The associations were able to do this because the lots or foundations of the homes were protected from over taxation for public improvements as the cost of the grading, paving of intersections and repaving were paid from general taxation. The lot owners paid as a special tax only the cost of the original paving.

The Climax Building & Loan Association of Duluth has loaned over $100,000 in the city of Duluth to over 100 borrowers mostly for the purpose of buying or building homes or paying off existing mortgages.

Its system is second to no association in the United States as a correct system between borrower and lender.

It handles savings accounts of any amount from $1 up and has never paid less than 6 per cent annual dividends to its members. Anyone can become a member at any time. Office No. 405 Torrey building.

JUDGE INDICTED FOR ASSAULT

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 13.—Judge Samuel W. Williams of Virginia, candidate for attorney general, has been indicted on a charge of felony at Welch, W. Va.

The indictment grew out of an assault made by Judge Williams on Judge J. M. Saunders, former member of the supreme court, during a trial at Welch. Judge Saunders lay in a hospital many days suffering from a scalp wound.

A requisition will be asked for to bring the Virginia jurist to this state.

NO PARDON FOR WEST.

Attorney Andrew Nelson made an unsuccessful attempt before the state prison board yesterday to secure the pardon of William West, sent to Stillwater from Duluth for fifteen years for burglary. He has served three years of his time. The attorney presented affidavits from an optician, stating that West lost the use of one eye last year, and is in danger of losing the other. Justice Start asked why none of the prison officials had told the board that West is in danger of going blind, adding that if such were the case, the board would probably be notified.

CHARLES R. CRANE ACCUSES KNOX OF BEING UNFAIR

Issues Statement on His Recall From Trip to Chinese Capital.

Denies That Secretary of State Has Asked Him to Resign.

Washington, Oct. 13.—When Charles R. Crane of Chicago, minister designate to China, was practically deposed by a demand from Secretary Knox for his resignation, a new chapter in American diplomacy was written. A citizen chosen with special regard for his qualifications for the post was recalled before he had embarked from San Francisco, and discharged from his high office because of alleged indiscreet disclosures through the press.

Moreover, this minister, breaking through all the old traditions, insisted on defending himself from the aspersions cast upon him by the secretary of state by the issuance of a statement which most people here comment on as certain to be very embarrassing to the administration.

The history of this extraordinary affair, which began about a week ago, with the announcement that Minister Crane had been stopped at San Francisco at the moment of embarkation for his post by a demand from Secretary Knox for his return to Washington, reached at least its first crisis soon after noon yesterday, when the secretary, in a formal statement, announced that Mr. Crane's resignation had been invited and that the minister designate replied in an equally formal statement, that while his resignation already had been tendered to the president, he felt himself very unjustly treated.

Reflects On Officials.

Moreover, Mr. Crane in his statement reflected very severely upon the officials of the state department, charging that not only had they refrained from giving him the instructions usually issued to a minister about to leave for his post, but that he had been denied access to them even after he had made repeated appointments with them.

He enters a sweeping denial of the charge that he "gave out" a newspaper story, which is said to be the cause of his deposition, and places squarely upon the shoulders of President Taft the responsibility for the various utterances he has made regarding conditions in the Far East, which have aroused the ire of Secretary Knox.

Mr. Crane's Statement.

Mr. Crane's statement is as follows:

"The statement issued by the department of state is slightly inaccurate in saying that the secretary has informed me that my resignation will be accepted. The letter which I received from Mr. Knox at noon today says that he has recommended to the president that the president accept my resignation. Before this letter had been received by me I had already sent to the president, through his secretary, Mr. Carpenter, the following telegram:

"'Washington, D. C., Oct. 12, 1909.—President William H. Taft: The state department objects to certain things I have done in the effort to carry out my understanding of your wishes as expressed by you to me. I have carefully considered the entire matter. In my judgment no mistake has been made, except as the department has made it a mistake. However, I did not and cannot guarantee to make no mistakes, and especially unless I have the cordial support and co-operation of the government.

Blames the Department.

"'The manner in which the department has proceeded and is proceeding is inconsistent with my own self-respect and my conception of the dignity of the position, and with the understanding upon which I accepted it. I appreciate the personal consideration I have received from you, and under the circumstances have decided to await information as to your wishes before taking action. You will understand, of course, that my resignation is in your hands. CHARLES R. CRANE.'

"The statement of the department is further inaccurate in saying that I 'gave out a newspaper story' about the preparation of a protest in regard to the agreement between China and Japan. It would have been more accurate if the statement had said, as was indicated in its own closing paragraph, that a brief conversation of mine with a newspaper representative contributed to the publication by him of a discussion of this agreement and the possibility of a protest by this government, and that the department regarded this conversation as 'indiscreet.'

Told Nothing New.

"The publication referred to did not mention my name, nor in my judgment would it have been a mistake if the department of state had not chosen to vouch for its accuracy and given to it an official significance by its own conduct.

"It certainly contained nothing of substance that was not matter of common knowledge or deducible by any competent newspaper reporter from facts commonly known. The substance, if not the full text of the agreement, had been published and its effect had been widely discussed. As an illustration of this, the New York Herald had published on Sept. 9 the following dispatch:

"'Tokio, Wednesday.—The Tokio Press reports that the Jingo American press is raising the usual protest against Japan regarding the new China-Japan convention. It states that the Macharlan railways are administered in accordance with America's long-cherished motto of the open door policy. Moreover, it adds, the convention is now an accomplished fact and America cannot change it, however much it may dislike it.'

As to "Recent Canards."

"The publication complained of by the state department was not made until Sept. 27. This also has a significant bearing on the reference to 'recent canards' in the secretary's telegram to me at San Francisco.

"In order to understand how this matter came to be mentioned, it is necessary to make a brief explanation. When I accepted the appointment of minister to China, at the request of the president, he expressed the earnest wish that the people of this country should be roused to a keen interest in the Pacific situation, both commercially and politically; he felt that our greatest problem lay there, and that our people were not fully awake to its importance. As I stated in a public address in Chicago on Sept. 14, the president advised me to accept all available invitations to public meetings and dinners, and said:

"'Do not miss any of them, and when you go to one insist on speaking and let them have it red-hot.'

What Taft Wished.

"I assumed that the president wished me to discuss realities and not platitudes.

"The difficulty has also been increased by the absence of specific instructions from the state department and of any adequate discussions with its officials as to the policy of this government. I have been much gratified that no criticism had come to me from any official source until I was recalled to Washington last week.

"With the previous approval of the president, I had arranged to go to China by way of Europe, so that I might have conferences with well-informed and influential persons of widely divergent interests and points of view, and I had made many valuable appointments. It was then suggested by Mr. Knox that it would be better for me to proceed by way of the Pacific. Contrary to my understanding that this matter should be fully discussed with the president in conference with Secretary Knox, the secretary informed me that it would be unnecessary to see the president, and that I should proceed by way of Japan. It was then agreed that I should sail on Oct. 5 with the minister to Japan.

Appointments Not Kept.

"I was told that letters would be given to me and arrangements made for seeing important persons in Japan. I have not since then seen Secretary Knox except on Sunday, nor have I had any adequate discussion with the department as to its policy.

"Some days before the date set for my departure I came to Washington, and with considerable difficulty made a number of appointments with the first assistant secretary of state, no one of which did he keep nor explain his failure to keep. No papers, not even my official credentials, were ready for me when I left Washington for San Francisco, with just time to catch the steamer. I have not examined the papers from the state department which reached me in San Francisco after the secretary's telegram recalling me to Washington.

"As I was hurriedly leaving Washington, a reporter of an important paper asked me about the China-Japan agreement, and I said that the matter was under consideration, as was well known, but that no decision had been reached, and I may have said, although I do not recall it, that obviously no statement would be reported in the absence of Mr. Hoyt. I advised him to get thoroughly informed upon the whole subject, as it would be of the greatest importance that it be handled intelligently by the American press if official action were taken.

No Excuse for Knox.

"This is the sum of my offending. On mature consideration, it is my judgment that my action was in accordance with the spirit, at least, of the president's wishes expressed by him to me, and that it furnished no sufficient excuse for the sensational and inconsiderate action of the secretary of state. However, I did not seek this post, and am absolutely unwilling to remain in it without the entire confidence of the president and the cordial support of the government."

Knox Refuses to Talk.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Secretary Knox absolutely declined to discuss the statement of Mr. Crane, regarding the incident as closed, while Assistant Secretary Wilson, who is just recovering from a severe surgical operation, was, of course, wholly unacquainted with the latest developments in the case, including Mr. Crane's references to his failures to keep appointments made with him.

Coughs and Colds Are Unnecessary

This Simple Home Remedy Is a Sure Preventative and Positive Cure.

We are all apt to get into the habit of thinking the colds and coughs which so often trouble us can't be avoided. You probably know people who say "I have a cold every fall, as though colds must always come with the season. This resigned way of looking at things is folly, and often leads to grave results. Colds and coughs weaken the body and make it an easy victim for catarrh and lung diseases.

There's absolutely no sense in having coughs and colds. The great Swedish antiseptic, Salubrin, will absolutely prevent, as well as cure, all coughs and colds. The very fact that the Swedish government, on the advice of leading physicians, removed all taxes on the manufacture of Salubrin is the best proof of what inestimable value it is to humanity.

The positive beneficial effects that Salubrin has in all coughs, colds, lung diseases and catarrhal conditions of the nose and throat is now recognized by the physicians in this country as well as on the continent. Salubrin is the direct formula of Dr. P. Hakansson from the Salubrin Laboratory of Eslof, Sweden. As Salubrin may be obtained at all first class druggists' at 50 cents a bottle, it should find a place in every home. Don't risk death by neglecting colds and coughs.

Salubrin will positively prevent death from lung disease if used in time.

Call at your druggist's for a free Salubrin Booklet or write Salubrin Laboratory, 13 Salubrin Bldg., Grand Crossing, Chicago.

yet been received, in order to compare favorably with the other cities in the state. The Duluth fund is still short of the $800 mark, when it should be at least $1,000.

Memorial Day for Schools.

C. G. Schulz, state superintendent of public instruction, has issued the following circular letter to the superintendents and teachers of Minesota:

"Every boy and girl in Minnesota, and every teacher and friend of education, has been moved to grieve deeply over the death of Governor Johnson. He was loved and admired by every person in our state. He gave his best services for the common good. His private and public life is a lesson and an inspiration to youth, and his memory should be held sacred.

"A movement is now in progress throughout the state to raise funds for the erection of a memorial at the state capitol which will truly typify his worth and work. His own lack of opportunity during his early years only served to intensify his interest in making it possible for others to receive the advantages of an education. No interest was dearer or more sacred to him than that of helping the struggling boy and girl in the public school, or the young man and woman to come within the influence and training of our school system. It seems, therefore, entirely fitting and appropriate that the school children be given an opportunity to express their love and regard for the governor by contributing toward the Johnson memorial fund.

"I therefore recommend that one day during the week, beginning Monday, Oct. 18, be set aside as a Johnson Memorial Day. With the permission of the school board a collection may be made in the school, by the children, for this purpose. In some cases there are valid objections against making any collection of money from the school children, through the school. In such cases they may be directed to send their individual contributions to the county superintendent, to the teacher, or to some one else authorized to receive the funds. In no case should there be any rivalry between individual rooms, departments, or buildings. If the collection is made through the school, it should be done in a way so as to draw no distinction between different pupils as to what amount each contributes.

"I recommend, further, that city superintendents and principals of graded schools send funds which may be collected in their schools, to the person designated by Governor Eberhart to receive these funds; that the principal teacher in all other schools send the funds directly to the county superintendent, and that he, in turn, forward the contributions to the person designated by the governor.

"I recommend, further, that city superintendents and graded school principals, make announcement of this movement to the teachers under their supervision, and that county superintendents give proper notice of it to teachers in all other schools in their counties, and that they also give notice to those in charge of private schools, and give directions to whom contributions may be forwarded, so as to be properly accounted for."

HARD BATTLE IIS EXPECTED

The reserved seats had all been sold before noon.

Today's battle is expected to be the hardest fought so far in the series, as the winning team will have the advantage of needing only one more victory to clinch the greatest honors in organized baseball.

Mullin for Thursday.

The decisive defeat of Pittsburg yesterday has filled Manager Jennings and his men with confidence. The American league champions are planning to pitch George Mullin, the hero-wizard of yesterday's game, again in Thursday's game at Detroit. They are certain he will win, and even if they lose today they are sure Mullin can tie up the series at the next game.

According to Garry Herrman, the chairman of the national commission, the seventh game, if it is necessary, will be played in this city because of the superior accommodations for an immense crowd.

Donovan Is Fined.

The national commission also announced that it had fined Miller of Pittsburg $50 for his conduct in yesterday's game and a penalty of $25 was inflicted on Donovan of Detroit for his actions which caused Umpire Klem to send him out of the field. This makes six fines during the last two games.

Ty Cobb, the star right fielder of the Detroits, did not accompany his team mates on the national commission's special train last night because of his desire to avoid Cleveland. Manager Jennings received information yesterday that the Cleveland authorities intended to arrest Cobb as he passed through Cleveland in the special train.

Cobb had trouble with a hotel watchman in Cleveland recently and it was reported to Jennings that an indictment for felonious assault had been brought against Cobb by the grand jury.

Cobb came from Detroit to Pittsburg by way of Buffalo and did not arrive until long after his team mates.

When the teams came on the field for preliminary practice all the men were heavy sweaters, which they declined to remove until the game was called. Most of them also wore sweaters under their uniforms, the chilling they received in the contest at Detroit yesterday making them wary of undergoing a second such experience.

Manager Jennings said either Donovan, Willett or Summers would be chosen for today's game, and it was thought that with the moderation in the weather he would send in Donovan who beat Pittsburg 7 to 2 in the second game here. Clarke was undecided between Adams and Willis. The lineup:

ters most of interest to the citizens of the aspiring territory.

The formal ceremony of welcome by the governor occurred at Phoenix, which was reached shortly after noon. Here a stop of one hour was planned for the president to deliver his principal address in Arizona. A short automobile ride through the valley and a visit to the Indian school and other points of interest were arranged.

The special was scheduled to reach Prescott at 6:20, with a stop of an hour to permit the president to deliver a public address.

The president continued in excellent health and spirits.

Diaz on Way North.

Calera, Mex., Oct. 13.—President Diaz's trip from Mexico City has been a continuous ovation. At every step crowds gathered with flags and flowers and cheered those journeying northward to meet the presidential party from Washington. At the most important stations along the route the president saluted the crowds from the rear platform of his train.

The president has expressed a desire not to travel at night, and last night the train was stopped in the open country. The party will late today reach the City of Chihuahua, where the president will be entertained for two days.

the steamer City of Cleveland to the office here of the Detroit and Cleveland line, reports that last night while en route to Cleveland he sighted on Grubb's Reef near Pelee Island, a steamer with a green hull and red stack. The steamer sighted was apparently in bad shape.

At the office of President William Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association, it is said that the steamer is one of the M. A. Bradley fleet of Cleveland. A tug is waiting at Amherstburg for orders from the Bradley office to go to the steamer's assistance.

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 13.—At the office of the A. M. Bradley company here it is announced that the steamer ashore on Grubb's Reef is the George Stone, a wooden vessel of 3,000 tons capacity, commanded by Capt. Howell.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13.—The keeper of the Grubb's Reef lighthouse, talking over the Canadian government telephone to the Journal here at noon, said that the George Stone is now on fire and burning rapidly. He does not know what has become of her crew, but thinks they were taken off by a passing steamer this morning.

Blizzard Is Worse.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Snow lies three inches deep over the Copper country and the whole of Northern Michigan is covered. IS SHOT AS ARCH REBEL

Charity, who had been sent by the prison authorities to offer him the final consolation of the church.

When the hour of his execution arrived he walked bravely through the prison yard to the ditch in the shadow of the encircling wall. Without a quiver he faced the twelve infantrymen, who, at the word of command, fired simultaneously.

When the report of the volley had died away, Ferrer lay dead upon the ground.

Previous to the execution, precautions had been taken to forestall a possible attempt at rescue by doubling the sentinels upon the walls of the fortress.

Feared By the State.

With the execution of Francisco Ferrer, the authorities have removed from the affairs of Spain one who was long suspected of revolutionary activities, and who, because of his education and influence, was deemed of peculiar danger to the state.

The decree of the court-martial was carried out in the face of protests from sympathizers, not only in Spain, but in parts of France and Italy. At Paris and Rome the protests were voiced in mass meetings by workmen of socialistic tendencies. In these capitals attacks were attempted upon the Spanish embassies, which, however, were protected by police and soldiery.

Many petitions for clemency were addressed to King Alfonso, who also was threatened with death should he not spare Ferrer's life.

Ferrer's attorney declared that Ferrer did not have a fair trial, as the witnesses were not examined in open court, but only their depositions read.

Acquitted of Murder Plot.

Ferrer was formerly a director of the modern school of Barcelona, and was repeatedly accused of teaching revolutionary doctrines. In 1906 he was arrested charged with complicity with Manuel Morales in the attempt upon the life of King Alfonso, on the day of the royal marriage. On trial Ferrer was acquitted.

On Sept. 1 last, he was arrested charged with having incited the rioting which occurred in Barcelona last summer. This outbreak, which spread through the Catalonian provinces, was in the nature of a protest against the sending of Spanish troops against the Moors on the Riff coast, and for a time assumed alarming proportions. It was alleged that Ferrer was a principal in the uprising.

At his trial documents were submitted which are alleged to have related to revolutionary movements, and to have included the proclamation of a Spanish republic.

CRANE'S CASE IS THE CHIEF TOPIC AT WASHINGTON

the confidence of the secretary of state that Mr. Knox was perfectly assured of the approval of the president; that he was not the kind of man to take so drastic a step without knowing in advance that he would be supported in it.

Even the friends of Mr. Crane—and several very astute friends have stood beside him in this crisis—while highly indignant at the treatment with which he had met at the hands of Mr. Knox, admitted that the developments since he left San Francisco, at the peremptory summons of the secretary had, regardless of the merits of the case, utterly destroyed any possible usefulness on his part at Pekin, and that in all the circumstances he could not now with self-respect do otherwise than insist upon the acceptance of his resignation.

No Room for Both.

Further than that, it was pointed out on both sides of the controversy that, as one man put it, "the state department, big and broad as it is, isn't big enough for both Knox and Crane. The president cannot sustain either without turning down the other. Mr. Knox could not now be reversed without its being interpreted throughout the world as an insufferable rebuff."

Therefore the press dispatches received last night from the newspaper correspondents traveling with the president, to the effect that information regarding Mr. Crane must come from the state department, "where the entire matter has been handled," were interpreted here this morning as indicating unmistakably not only that the president had no intention of interfering with the action of the secretary of state, but also that he intended the secretary to bear all of the responsibility for that action.

Taft Must Act.

At the same time it was borne in mind that Mr. Crane's telegram of resignation was addressed to the president in person, as their relations, official, required, and that it would have to be acted upon in the same way by the president in person.

One of the possible indirect results of the whole incident was discussed with much interest in some diplomatic quarters last night and today, and that is the unmistakable notice that Japan has incidentally received, even in the words of Mr. Knox's statement of yesterday, to the effect that this government looks with disapproval upon her gains in Manchuria through the two new treaties with China, which have been so much discussed in connection with the Crane affair. According to this view, Mr. Crane, intentionally or unintentionally, has made the pawn in the gambit of expediency.

Crane a Mere Instrument.

A man who has studied international policies for many years, but who would not be quoted by name, described it in this way:

"It was very necessary that Japan should be advised of the intention of this government to protect to the utmost the interest of American trade in Manchuria, yet in such a way as to avoid placing the state department in a position from which it would be awkward to retreat in the event of the odds being found too great.

"In the ordinary course, the great powers interested in maintaining the 'open door' in Manchuria could have been approached by Secretary Knox with the purpose of securing their support in a joint representation to Japan and China to the effect that the two treaties recently negotiated between those countries conferring upon Japan a practical monopoly of the exploitation of railroads and mineral resources of Manchuria were obnoxious to these powers.

Just Notice To Japan.

"Possibly the state department had so far progressed in taking soundings as to lead it to doubt whether the support of a majority of the great powers could be obtained. Secretary Knox's statement issued yesterday shows that the negotiations are still in progress, but certainly does not indicate that success has been attained.

"The recent disclosures, the truth of which, as Mr. Crane in his statement points out, the department of state fails to deny, and the fact that the department felt called upon to "punish" Mr. Crane for those disclosures, might well serve as notice to the Japanese government of its serious objections to the new treaties."

net that will attract various industries.

Real estate men are of the opinion that the coming of the plant will result in the rapid increase of the population of the West end and West Duluth. The opening of the plant will bring a great number of skilled laborers, highly paid men, sober and industrious, who make steady and reliable citizens.

The official announcement was not wholly unexpected, yet it dispelled the last vestige of doubt, which still lingered in the minds of a few and brought to the others a keen realization of the advantages that will come to Duluth.

Nothing to Add.

Chester A. Congdon, who gave out the official announcement of the steel directors to the people of Duluth, today stated that there was nothing further at this time to be said on the matter, aside from what was contained in his letter.

George L. Reis, manager of the Minnesota Steel company, stated today that the increased force of draftsmen would be put at work just as soon as he was able to get good draftsmen, and that they could not be secured on short notice, but that they were being secured as rapidly as possible, and would soon be at work.

Mr. Reis is of the opinion that not very much work, if any, will be done on the steel plant site this fall. The time between now and the freezing of the ground is so short that Mr. Reis is of the opinion that it would be a waste of time to begin operations on the Spirit lake site before spring.

The work on the railroad and bridge approaches will continue this fall. At the present time work is being done on the Wisconsin side; the approaches to the bridge are being built as rapidly as possible, and work is being done on the grading of the railroad. All this general work of preparation will continue late into the fall.

Mr. Congdon's letter, which was published in The Herald extra and part of the late city edition last evening, follows:

"Duluth, Minn., Oct. 12, 1909.—Mr. A. C. Weiss, Manager Duluth Evening Herald, Duluth, Minn. My Dear Sir: Judge Gary, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation, has authorized me to say that they have a force of engineers and draftsmen busily engaged in preparing the detailed plans and specifications for the buildings and machinery for the first unit of the Steel Plant which they are about to construct in Duluth. As soon as such plans and specifications are completed, the construction of the plant proper will immediately begin, unless the time required for making such details shall extend so far into the winter as to make construction impracticable. But in any event, construction will be commenced early next spring, and pushed to as rapid completion as possible. It is estimated that such buildings and machinery for the first unit of the proposed plant will cost not less than $10,000,000. The judge expressed himself as surprised that any one should have any doubt whatever about the construction of the plant.

"Mr. Corey, the president of the Steel corporation, told me that there never had been any question whatever about its construction since the time it was announced. The only question has been the time for such construction. That after the panic of 1907 it seemed unwise to expend millions of dollars to construct a plant, when half of the capacity of the other plants was unused, but, that now conditions are such that they can use this plant as soon as it is completed, which it is expected will be done during the coming year.

"Personally, I think this delay is fortunate for the people of Duluth, because it will result in a much more efficient and complete plant than would have been constructed immediately after the announcement of its proposed construction was made. Yours truly,

"CHESTER A. CONGDON."

BALLOON HEADED TO NORTHEAST

Forbes and Fleischmann Are Trying for the Lahm Cup.

S. Louis, Mo., Oct. 13.—It was said today at the weather bureau that the balloon New York, in which A. A "good roads" rally was held last evening at the Superior Commercial club. Among the speakers of the evening was Capt. E. Rossiter, chairman of the county board. He gave a good talk on the situation, urging that the roads be kept up through the county. President Cooke appointed a committee to investigate the matter of good roads.

AID IS SOUGHT FOR KEY WEST

Many People Are Destitute as Result of Hurricane of Monday.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 13.—Hundreds of laborers, aided by refugees, are clearing the streets and the water front of the debris and wreckage resulting from the hurricane which practically destroyed half of this city Monday. It will be many days before normal business conditions can be resumed.

Great rejoicing is felt over the reports from points near Key West, showing that the loss of life will be the smallest ever recorded along the Florida coast. Property damage, however, is the heaviest in the history of the peninsula.

Appeal for Help.

Acting on a resolution of the city council last night, Mayor Fogarty issued an appeal for help from the people of the United States, as follows:

"Scarcely a house in this city of 20,000 people but has been entirely demolished or partially damaged. Many are homeless, and those who have homes are scarcely able to house and care for their own families are hardly in a position to help the other sufferers.

"Starvation and distress face our people, who have always heretofore borne their need of natural affliction without complaint and without appeal to others for aid, and who have themselves always responded generously to the calls of other cities afflicted as they are now. Cash contributions for the poor will be gladly received by the mayor, and applied by him to the aid of those who most sorely need it."

CRANE INCIDENT IS COMPLETE

Statement to That Effect Is Given Out at the White House.

Washington, Oct. 13. — The simple statement that the "Crane incident" is closed was the only response made today at the White House and the state department to the inquiry as to whether President Taft had accepted the resignation of Charles R. Crane as minister designate to China. It was stated that nothing had been heard from the president today, and that Secretary Knox had left Washington for his Valley Forge home, without having received word from his chief.

The situation is peculiar, and the only explanation that suggests itself is that the president conferred absolute power upon Secretary Knox to act and that the secretary regards the letter of yesterday demanding the minister's resignation as a conclusion of the incident.

Taft Is Criticised.

There appeared a disposition, especially among friends of Mr. Crane, as the hours passed, to comment unfavorably upon his failure to receive any acknowledgment of his telegram which was sent to the president through Secretary Carpenter yesterday morning before the receipt of Mr. Knox's demand for a resignation. On the other hand, allowance was made for the fact that the president left Los Angeles last night, not long after the earliest hour at which the press dispatches containing Mr. Crane's public statement could have reached him.

DEAL IN WIVES.

Chicago News: "One night when I was boss on the Sidonia section of the Panama canal," said the thin man who sat by the lodging-house stove, "I was layin' awake thinkin' how I could help Taft make a success of that great enterprise. We had a lot of Maine lumberjacks that summer workin' temporary. Winter is busy season in a lumber country. They was a fine lot of workers and it seemed too bad to have 'em quit. I says to myself that the way to git 'em to stay was to make homes for 'em there. There ain't nothin' equal to a wife for anchorin' a man.

"Says I to myself, 'Why not git wives for them Main fellers?' Then I thought, why not push it still further and git wives for the Spaniards and the Martinique darkies who are workin' on the job? They was lonely, tired of boarding-house chuck, and I knew if I once got the thought of gittin' wives started it would go contagious. So I went around and got orders from the boys an' cash deposits to cover cost of securin' and transportin' wives.

"'You'll have homes,' said I. 'Marriage is a lottery and probably you'll each draw a good wife. Nobody or nothin' can ever fool a person worse than his own judgment.'

"I got plenty of orders. Marriage fees is outrageous in Panama, and so I got the Rev. George McBeaser, a friend of mine, to make a wholesale price for marryin' 'em all in a bunch. In summer school teachers is unemployed, so for my Maine men I advertised for teachers. They was easier to git than girls that had a job. Them Maine men was well brought up fellers, didn't play cards, dance, nor nothin.'

"In two months I had most of my orders filled for all nationalities, and I planned to have all the girls arrive in Colon the same day and come out to our place the same evenin' to be married all at once to save marriage fees.

"There was a terrible tropical thunder storm the night them girls got off at our station. The electric lights was out and we didn't have nothin' but candles, and few of them. Couldn't hardly see nothin'. No chance for goin' around and pickin' and bein' picked.

"There ain't no accommodations for a lot of single girls in tais camp,' says I, 'and if them girls are shipped back to Colon tonight the fellers there can marry 'em for all of me, and probably will. Marriage is a lottery, anyway, boys, but one in which you generally win a capital prize. The Rev. Mr. McBeaser is here now, and he won't be tomorrow. Let the ceremonies proceed.'

"Nobody said nothin', so the ceremonies proceeded. I went on my vacation that night. Went to Washington to talk things over with Taft. We had a good talk, too. He agrees with my views a heap. When I got back, an engineer jumped on me first thing.

"'Say,' he yelled, 'the crew on the Sidonia section ain't worth a hang any more, along of that fool trick of yourn. There in the dark the consignment of wives got mixed and the weddin' upset everything. The Maine men married the Spanish women and the school teachers married the Spaniards. Them Spanish have taught their Yankee husbands to dance. Now, carried away by the novelty and enticement of it, they go to fandangoes every night, and so they are all wore out and no good next day.'

"'But them school teachers can't have hurt the Spaniards, I says.

"'Can't hey?' roared that engineer. 'You know yourself that Spain is an illiterate country and them proud teachers can't bear to have their husbands so ignorant. So they've been educatin' 'em till the poor fellers gits so tired sittin' up nights studyin' spellin' and doin' sums that they're all wore out and can't work next day.

"'But 'cordin' to your reckonin,' I says, 'the Martinique darkies didn't git mixed and so they're married to each other. So they're all right.'

"'They ain't,' said the engineer, gittin' madder all the time. 'Martinique is a little island where everybody knows everybody and there ain't nothing ne win life, no new experiences. Them Martinique people is so mad seein' how they didn't git in on marryin' somebody from somewhere else and have simething new to talk about and think about—new kind of victuals and new experiences—they're so mad and sore at each other that they sit up nights jawin' and reproachin' and revilin' each other and next day the men is so tired and wore out that they ain't no good.'

"So they fired me. Which ain't no way to encourage faithfulness and resourcefulness, but they done it."

WOMAN'S FAR NORTHERN HOME.

Cordova Alaskan: Nellie Cashman was a passenger on the Santa Clara en route home. And where do you suppose she lives? Five hundred miles beyond the Arctic circle.

It is unnecessary for the Alaskan to tell its readers who Nellie Cashman is, for there are very few people who have resided in Alaska any length of time who do not know her. She came to Alaska in 1874. She was with the first ones who went into the Cassiar country and many a miner will tell you that if it had not been for Nellie Cashman they would have died in that country from scurvy and other sicknesses. Nellie on that expedition was the nurse, and scores of men who fell sick with the scurvy received medicine from her free of all cost if they were broke.

She was through the Dawson country in "the days of '97" and has seen about every camp in Alaska. Four years ago she struck for the wilds of the Koyukuk and now calls that home.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION—

Notice is hereby given that there has been filed of record in my office a petition asking for the vacation of that portion of Eleventh street which lies between the westerly line of Eighth Avenue East and the westerly limits of Lakeview Division of Duluth.

The object of the proposed vacation is to allow the use of the street by the adjoining property, it being claimed that the street asked to be vacated is useless for street purposes on account of the fact that the adjoining plat provides no connecting street, and that ample outlet for traffic is provided in other ways.

Said petition will be considered by the Committee on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, at the City Clerk's office in the city Hall in the City of Duluth, on Monday, Nov. 22, 1909, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., at which time and place said committee will hear evidence and testimony on the part of parties interested.

FLAX HAS ADVANCE OF FIVE CENTS IN DULUTH

Shorts Are Again Eager Buyers of the Seed Here.

Wheat Is Rather Irregular and Close Is Fractionally Lower.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 13.—Flax closed 5 cents higher in the Duluth market, after an active session, in which shorts figured as prominent buyers of the seed.

Trading was active. The opening prices were about unchanged from yesterday, but the demand increased as the session advanced, and at one stage October sold 6½c over yesterday's closing prices. The market eased slightly after this and until the close, but the day ended with all the options very strong.

Wheat was rather irregular and closed slightly off from yesterday.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅛d lower to ⅜d higher and Budapest 3⅞c higher.

The December wheat option closed ¼c lower in Duluth, ⅛@¼c lower in Minneapolis and ⅜c lower in Winnipeg. May wheat closed ¼c lower in Duluth, ¼c lower in Minneapolis and ⅞c lower in Winnipeg. As no sessions were held yesterday in Chicago, New York, St. Louis or Kansas City, comparisons on the closing prices in those markets are impossible.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "Yesterday's wheat market here was strongly supported with December about 1⅞d higher with the other months ¾d to 1d higher. Buying was by prominent interests on the light La Plata new crop offerings and the strength displayed in the futures there.

"Today the market was again firm at the start and from ⅞@1⅜d higher than Monday. Support was the result of the strength in the American Northwest, light Minneapolis receipts, strength in Winnipeg and active coverings by shorts. Following the opening and during the morning, selling to realize developed and prices declined ½@¾d.

"Corn was steady at the opening and ¼d higher in sympathy with wheat. Later values lost ¼d on the poor demand for cargoes and continued liberal Plate offerings."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 425, against 244 last year, and at Minneapolis 311, against 388 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 736, against 632 last year. Chicago received 87, against 126 last year. Winnipeg received 439, against 440 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat (for two days) were 3,298,000 bu; last year, 2,889,000 bu. Shipments, 1,874,000 bu; last year, 2,292,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 1,270,000 bu; last year, 512,00 bu. Shipments, 823,000 bu; last year, 550,000 bu.

October flax opened unchanged at $1.56, advanced to $1.62⅝ and ranged between that and $1.60½ during the rest of the session, closing at $1.61, a gain of 5c over yesterday. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Fear of Storm Damage and Better Buying Boost Wheat.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Fear of storm damage in the spring wheat territory, together with reports of increased buying by Northwest millers gave an upward slant today to the wheat market. The domestic condition was reinforced by foreign cables, Liverpool being ⅛@⅜d higher despite the liberal Russian wheat receipts. December opened at $1.04@1.04½ and with slight fluctuations steadied at that point, a gain of ¾@1¼c over Monday. May was up ½@1½c.

Continued firmness in the foreign markets together with good demand in the Northwest kept the wheat market steady. December rose to $1.04¾ and closed 1@1⅞c higher at $1.04⅛@1.04¼.

Fine hardening weather for crops in the corn belt made the market corn a trifle heavy on the opening. December started ¼c lower to ⅛c higher with quotations of 58⅛@57⅞c.

The corn market fluctuated in a narrow range and closed ⅝c lower at 57⅝c.

Some local buying kept the oats market firm at the start. Prices at the opening were ⅛@¼c higher with December at 39⅜@39½c. Small variations were observed.

The provisions market opened with prices from 2½c to 7½c lower, due to depression in the hog market. January products opened with pork at $18.47 to $18.42; lard, $10.80 and ribs $9.62. Scattering trade kept the pit from stagnation.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

December Wheat Reaches New High Point for This Crop.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13.—During the early session December wheat advanced to a new high point on this crop when it went to $1.02½. Northwestern receipts, although in excess of a year ago, showed a falling off from the normal. The Minneapolis movement was away below a year ago, but the Duluth receipts continued to show material gains over the figures of last year. Cables were firmer. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 450,000 bu for four days. The May option was not as strong as the near contract. During the last two hours the market was easier and December closed ¾@⅞c lower than the high price. Minneapolis received 311 cars of wheat as against 388 a year ago; Duluth 425 cars against 244 and Winnipeg 439 cars against 440. December opened at $1.01⅝@1.01¾; high, $1.02½; low, $1.01¼; close, $1.01⅝@1.01¾. May opened at $1.04½; high, $1.05⅛@1.05¼; low, $1.04¼; close, $1.04⅝@1.05¾.

Cash wheat was in strong demand. Local and country millers were eager buyers of the little offerings and everything was cleaned up long before the close. No. 1 northern sold for 2½c above the December option and No. 2 northern ½c above. Closing prices on track: No .1 northern spot, $1.03¾; to arrive, $1.03¾; No. 2 northern spot and to arrive, $1.01¾; No. 3 wheat, 99¾c@$1.00¾.

No. 3 yellow corn, 57¼@57¾c; No. 3 white oats, 36⅞@37½c; No .2 rye, 67¼@68c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 2,153 tons. There was no change in the market today. Demand continued in excess of the supply. Shipments heavy and prices firm. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $19.50.

Flax—Receipts, 52 cars against 58; shipments, 22. There was strong demand for both spot and to arrive at 1@1½ below the Duluth October option. Offerings were firm. Closing price, $1.58¾.

Barley—Receipts, 69 cars; year ago, 57; shipments, 99. The barley situation was steady. Demand was good for all grades, especially choice malting barley. Receipts were slightly in excess of those of a year ago. Closing range, 45@58c.

The flour market was steady, with yesterday's. Demand was good, especially for domestic consumption. Shipments were heavy and prices unchanged. Shipments, 78,841 bbls. First patents, $5.30@5.40; second patents, $5.10@5.20; first clears, $4.45@4.65; second clears, $3.20@3.40.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Oct. 13.—Cotton opened firm at an advance of 4@14 points, generally 11@14 points above Monday's closing. The advance was in response to much higher Liverpool cables than expected and because of reports of frost in the cotton belt.

Realizing was very heavy at the advance, but with prospects pointing to continued low temperatures tonight, offerings were well absorbed. Although prices reacted 4 or 5 points from the best, the tone of the market was firm during the middle of the morning, with New Orleans bulls heavy buyers.

Spot closed quiet, 20 points higher. Middling uplands, 13.55; middling gulf, 14.10; sales, 1,100 bales. Futures closed firm. Closing bids: Oct. 13.56; Dec. 13.61; Jan. 13.62; Feb. 13.63; March, 13.71; April, 13.68; May, 13.73; June, 13.68; July, 13.69; August, 13.36.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Opened Weak Under Heavy Selling Orders, But Soon Recovered.

Prices Wavered Late in Day and Closed Unsteady and Dull.

New York, Oct. 13.—Selling orders for stocks accumulated in brokers' offices over the holiday, and their execution today made the opening stock market weak. Union Pacific was forced down 1¼, Southern Pacific, United States Steel preferred and American Car 1, and Atchison, St. Paul, Great Northern preferred, Reading, Pennsylvania, Amalgamated Copper and American Sugar large fractions. Opening sales of United States Steel were of 7,000 shares at 86 and 85¾, compared with 86¼ on Monday. There were subsequent sales at 85.

Supporting orders were distributed for the railroad stocks, but the effect was offset for a time by the steady liquidation of many industrials, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading and St. Paul then rallied to Monday's closing prices. United States Steel also made a full recovery, after which the whole market became quiet. Federal Mining yielded 3 points. United States Rubber 2½, General Electric, Iowa Central preferred and American Malting 1¾. Consolidated Gas, Pressed Steel Car and National Biscuit 1⅛, American Smelting, Missouri Pacific, Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred, Allis-Chalmers preferred, American Woolen and Westinghouse Electric 1. United Railways & Investment preferred gained 1¼ and Toledo, St. Louis & Western 1.

A rise of a point in Kansas & Texas and Canadian Pacific preceded a rapid decline. This was checked before the previous low level was reached, and there was a rapid recovery. Brooklyn Transit rose 1, and International Paper preferred 1¼. Union Pacific preferred declined 1, Distillers' Securities and Delaware & Hudson 1¼, American Smelting 1⅝ and Pacific Telephone 2. Trading became dull on the recovery. Bonds were irregular.

Business was light, but prices kept hardening in an irregular fashion. Top prices were not very well maintained, the demand running out at the highest levels. St. Paul, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Texas & Pacific, and United States Steel improved one and Chesapeake Ohio and Western Union 1¼, Minneapolis & St. Louis lost 1½.

The market closed unsteady and dull. Prices wavered late in the day, Union Pacific reacting from its best prices. Great Northern preferred, Rock Island preferred and Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis rose 1. The Iowa Central stocks fell 11½ and Pressed Steel Car preferred 1.

HELP WANTED—MALE.

A FEW YEARS SPENT IN THE NAVY are years of valuable experience. Habits of regularity are formed. Healthy exercise, regular drills and growing responsibility develop quickness and self reliance. Many large employers prefer men who have had naval training because more capable and efficient. Young men with mechanical knowledge have greater opportunities. They master their trade instead of being mere helpers. Go to a recruiting office and learn about the fine chances in the different branches of the service to save money, the hours of duty, cruises, sports, promotion, etc. You are not urged to enlist. Individuality will be developed, not suppressed, in the navy. Ask any one in the service about it. The navy banger in postoffice and navy posters will give you an idea of the appearance of a bluejacket. Apply at Navy Recruiting office, Postoffice building, Minneapolis, Minn.

BOLD ATTEMPT IS MADE TO LOOT SHAKOPEE BANK

Burglars Are Scared From Work By Act of Man Giving the Alarm.

Citizens Engage in Night Battle With the Fleeing Marauders.

Ringing of Bell Saves $20,000 Locked in the Institution's Vaults.

Shakopee, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because Dr. D. W. Daye, a dentist, turned on an electric light in his rooms when he went to the telephone to give an alarm, two men who were trying to rob the First National Bank of Shakopee shortly before 1 o'clock this morning, made a safe getaway. They evidently saw the light, following the ringing of the bell attached to the bank's burglar alarm, and this gave them an opportunity to escape.

Dr. Daye succeeded in arousing a number of citizens and a night battle in the street followed, but as far as is known neither of the burglars was wounded and none of the pursuers suffered from the shots.

There was about $20,000 in the bank's vault, and as the work of the two men seems to have been that of professional cracksmen, there is no doubt that had it not been for the interruption they would have got off with the whole amount. The police have no clue to their identity.

Entered Through Window.

The two men entered the bank office, which is in the rear room of the Pekin, Oct. 14.—The Japanese legation laid before the Chinese government and also gave to the native and foreign press the explanation of Secretary of State Knox for the recall of Charles R. The incident impresses the government as unfortunate and has revived the feeling among the Chinese officials that the only hope of national security rests in the co-operation of the powers.

TAFT LETS CRANE GO

Accepts Resignation of Minister-Designate to Chinese Court.

President Sees Grand Canyon and Talks of Arizona's Statehood.

Washington, Oct. 14.—All doubt as to what action the president would take with respect to the resignation of Charles R. Crane, minister-designate to China, was dispelled by the receipt this morning of a dispatch from President Taft addressed to his secretary, Mr. Carpenter, directing him to convey to Mr. Crane the announcement of the fact that the resignation had been accepted.

The telegram was dated Prescott, Ariz., Oct. 13, and reads as follows:

"Convey to Mr. Crane the following communication: 'I concur in the letter under date of Oct. 12, which the secretary of state has addressed to you, and I greatly regret that the circumstances found to exist by him make it necessary for me to accept your resignation.' TAFT."

Sees the Grand Canyon.

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Oct. 14.—After traveling over the deserts practically all day yesterday and being enveloped in clouds of finely powdered red dust, President Taft awoke today at the rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

The air at the altitude was crisp and cool, and Mr. Taft looked forward to his day of rest and sightseeing with the greatest possible pleasure.

The president arose early with the desire of spending as much time as possible about the rim of the vast abyss, which in places is more than a mile deep, and that he might see the color effects of the sunrise. The president's original schedule did not call for his arrival here until 9 a. m., but the layover at Ashfork last night was

The Governor Johnson memorial fund had a decided revival in contributions in Duluth today, The Herald having received $68.50 since yesterday's report, bringing the total up to $862.60. This is a good showing, and if the present rate of increase be continued to Nov. 1, the date when the state commission desires to close the fund, the Duluth contributions should aggregate nearly $1,500. The treasurer of the state commission yesterday morning had received a total of $9,346. Since that report, The Herald has forwarded a check for $250, making a total of $750 sent from this city, and it hopes to be able to send another check for $250 within a few days. The commission desires to make the fund $25,000, and if that mark is to be reached, much must be done within the next two weeks, as the total now is only about 40 per cent of the grand total desired. Of course, there are lists in circulation

BOLD THIEF UNIDENTIFIED

Man Robs Bank in Chicago Suburb and Kills Himself.

Bold Daylight Robbery Ends in Complete Mystery.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Efforts to establish the identity of a man who held up D. M. Erskine's bank in Highland Park yesterday and committed suicide to avoid capture, were made by the local police authorities today, in connection with the officials of the North shore suburb.

In Highland Park the authorities believe that the robber was Lamar A. Harris, formerly an attorney in Los Angeles. The Chicago police are working on the theory that the man may have been Martin Becker, who is wanted in Kenosha, Wis., for shooting the chief of police last July. Detectives who know Becker well are to examine

BANK OF ENGLAND RAISES ITS RATE

Discounts Are Placed at 4 Per Cent---Is Directed Against America.

London, Oct. 14.—The depletion of the reserve, the continued foreign gold requirements and the gradual hardening of private discount rates had the anticipated effect on the Bank of England discount rate, which today was put up to 4 per cent. The amount of reserve is near $5,000,000 below last week, while the demands for the metal from abroad, especially from Egypt and Argentina, show no signs of abatement.

The high rate, however, is also directed against America and Germany. A large amount of American finance paper already has been placed here, and it is anticipated that the United States shortly will be in a position to withdraw gold to the further disturbance of the London money market. In Germany speculation has made money extremely tight, and an expansion of German demands for gold is looked for.

May Go Higher Yet.

In some quarters there is doubt if the 4 per cent rate will attract sufficient gold to build up the reserve as well as to meet future demands from America and Europe; so the market would not be surprised if a higher rate is imposed. Today's advance was so confidently anticipated that it had little effect on the stock exchange, where the feeling was rather one of relief.

When the suspense was over, operators marked up consols 1 1-6.

On the other hand, American securities, which opened well over parity, dropped ¼ to ½ a point from the best on the high bank rate.

NORTH DAKOTANS "GOLD BRICKED" IN MILL CITY HOTEL

Assayer and His Father Are Stung to the Extent of $25,000.

H. F. Chaffee of Amenia Lends Money on Bricks Son Tested.

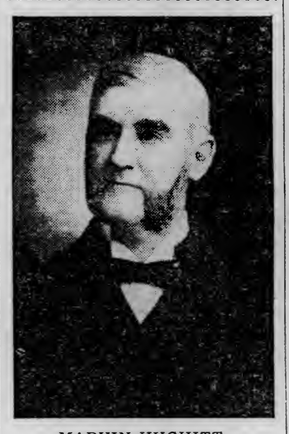

Police Say One of the "Con" Men Is Notorious in That Line.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minneapolis police are absolutely without a clue to the whereabouts of two confidence men who swindled H. F. Chaffee, an Amenia, N. D., millionaire grain and land man, out of $25,000 yesterday afternoon by working the "gold brick" game upon him and his son, who is an assayer.

The confidence man told a plausible story about a valuable gold mine that he and a half-breed friend, "Oro," owned in Mexico. He said that there was a lien of $25,000 on the mine, and he wanted to borrow that amount of money, and as security he would give

HUNDREDS NEAR TO STARVATION

Fearful Conditions Exist in Key West as Result of Storm.

Key West, Fla., Oct. 14.—Immediate assistance from the outside world is necessary to carry on the work of cleaning up the city and caring for the victims of the hurricane of last Monday. Mayor Fogarty today announced that the city was forced to suspend work because of lack of funds.

Great distress and suffering is reported among the employes of the large tobacco factories, which suffered heavily by the storm. Hundreds are on the point of starvation, it is declared.

Today the only work in progress is being carried on by private corporations and the large shipping interests. Many streets have been left impassable, filled with the wreckage of houses and uprooted trees. Sewers are broken and clogged throughout the town, and unless they can be repaired shortly it is feared an epidemic will result.

ELEVEN TRAINS OF TROOPS SENT

Big Gathering of Soldiers to Be Reviewed By Taft in Texas.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 14.—Ten trains, 117 cars, left San Antonio this morning for El Paso, bearing United States troops stationed at Fort Sam Houston, who will pass in review before President Taft and President Diaz when they meet Saturday. Another train, with two troops of the Third cavalry aboard, left Fort Clarke early today.

President Taft is to arrive at San Antonio at 5:30 Sunday evening next instead of at 7:30, two hours ahead of the original schedule, according to the plans of the Southern Pacific railroad.

Admiral Togo, the Angora goat from whose wool the trousers were made which were presented to President Taft before his inauguration, has been brought to San Antonio by his owner, Frank R. Landrum, a ranchman of Lahuna, that the president may see the animal if he desires.

Fate of Missing Launch on Leech Lake Causing Alarm.

Did Not Reach Its Destination Sunday as Was Expected.

Walker, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The launch Sarah L., which has been absent from Walker on Leech lake since Sunday morning, has not yet been sighted.

The storm still sweeps over the lake, making it almost impossible for launches to start out in search of the missing craft. Report was brought in last evening by a lumberman who walked around the lake from the headquarters camp that the missing boat has not appeared there up to late Sunday afternoon. The last seen of the launch was at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, as she was running through the narrows, which would make her due at headquarters at about 1 o'clock that afternoon.

There are four women on board. An attempt will be made to reach headquarters by team today and ascertain further particulars.

Agent Frater of the Indian agency will send out the government boat Ojibwa today to search for the missing parties.

Prof. Dyche of Kansas Writes on North Pole Controversy.

Says He Believes Cook's Claim to Discovery Is All Right.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 14.—Prof. L. L. Dyche, head of the department of natural history of the University of Kansas, who made several trips to the North as a member both of the Peary and the Cook exploring parties, and who is personally acquainted with the explorers, makes a statement in the Topeka State Journal, concerning Commander Robert E. Peary's statement, published yesterday. Prof. Dyche's statement is in part as follows:

"Commander Peary's statement is to my mind absolutely incredible. It is based on the testimony of ignorant Eskimos, who were incapable of understanding a country to which they had never been before well enough to outline such a map as that published and credited by Dr. Peary to their explanation. Only intelligent white men with instruments could make their way to such a country and be able to report in detail upon it a year after the trip was made.

Believes Cook's Story.

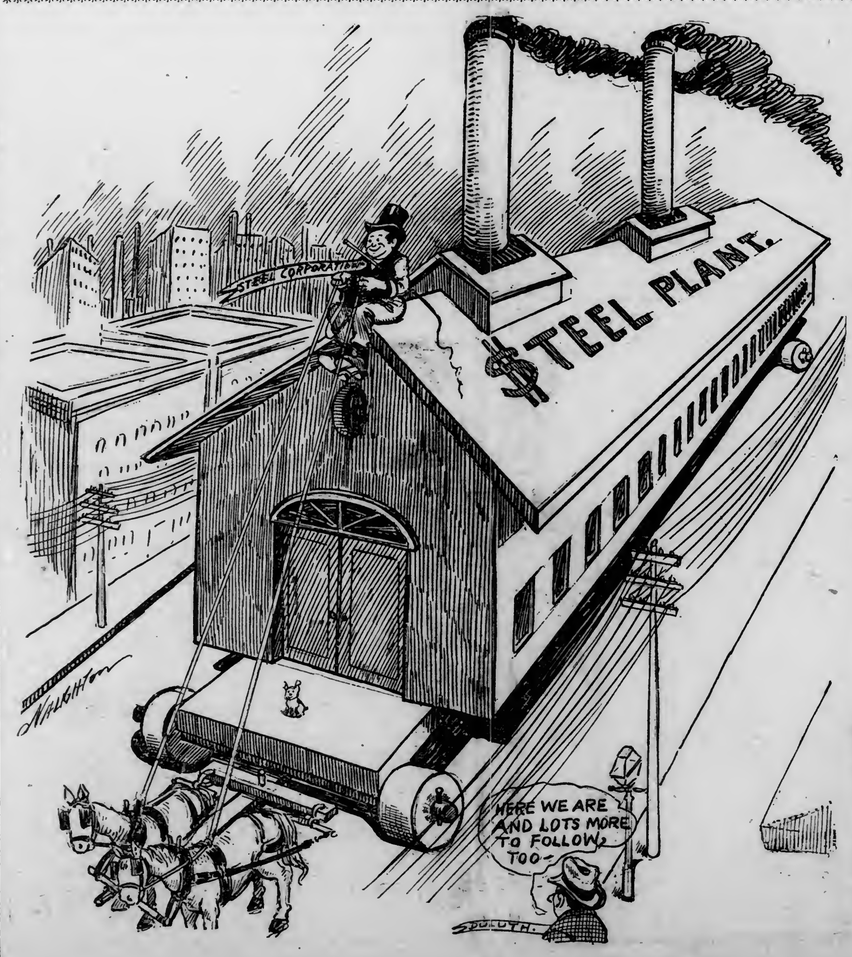

"While I believe Peary reached the Pole, I have not a shadow of doubt that Dr. Cook reached the Pole first and exactly as he detailed in his own published story.

"The most astounding part of Commander Peary's story, it seems to me, consists of a statement that Dr. Cook got to the northern part of the land bordering on the great Arctic ocean—the point for which he had striven for

MINISTER WU GETS SPIRIT MESSAGE FROM McKINLEY

Learned Chinaman Attends Second Seance in the Capital.

Receives Prophecy of Big War---Medium Talks in Chinese.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Wu Ting Fang, terror of interviewers, foiler of newspaper inquisitors, embarrasser of debutantes and generally recognized as the most indefatigable quiz-master and ceaseless propounder of personal interrogatories on the face of the known universe, has been stumped.

What is more, he was stumped so hard that he not only failed to unlimber his heretofore ever-ready battery of question marks, but actually sat in what appeared to be an astounded silence for several minutes, and, finally, confining whatever remarks he had to make to a few words scribbled on a piece of paper, and left with an attendant, slipped quietly out and went to his apartments.

And if Minister Wu has any faith in the revelations that are said to come from the spirit world, he has good cause to pat himself on the back as one of the assured great men of history, and also to worry a bit about what is going to happen in the Central Flowery Kingdom in the next few years.

Got Big Prophecy.

Game at Detroit Can Decide World's Honors in Baseball.

Pirates Are Hopeful of Winning----Donovan Likely to Pitch.

Score at end of fourth inning: Pittsburg, 3; Detroit, 3.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14.—Chilly weather again greeted Pittsburg and Detroit as they prepared for what may be the last game of the world's championship series, at Bennett Park today. Both teams arrived in good shape from Pittsburg in the National commission special train. A heavy frost greeted them as they emerged from the cars, but the bright sunshine warmed the air a bit and conditions for today's game promise to be better than any that have been played in this city.

Detroit is desperate and will fight to the last ditch to win this afternoon, as a defeat again will deprive the

JOHN F. RYAN BREAKS RECORD FOR MAIL RECEIPTS AT SPALDING

One hundred and eighty-seven letters for one man!

A commercial man who was looking for mail from home—he is single—stated that it was too much.

All records for mail coming to one man were broken today by John F. Ryan, a guest of the Spalding hotel, who has 187 letters waiting for him. This shatters the best record of the hotel, in this respect, by over twenty epistles.

The letters are from every part of the country. Mr. Ryan's key box was too small to hold all the letters, and so the clerk sent down to the stateroom for a grape basket.

Many guests of the Spalding asked for mail today and many were told that there were no letters for them. This was when Mr. Ryan's voluminous correspondence was being sorted. The desk looked like the stage after the storm scene in the "Two Orphans." It was littered with letters.

One or two guests began sorting the letters, looking for their name on an epistle. After they had waded through ten or fifteen "John F. Ryan" —letterly speaking—they became disgusted.

The clerks believe, if they are left alone to their work, they will have the John F. Ryan mail sorted some time late this afternoon, and then the other guests will be delighted, also.

HURRYING WORK ON DULUTH LINE

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A. McDougall, representing Foley Brothers of St. Paul, and Thomas Higgins, another contractor, spent Monday here making an examination of the territory through which the Soo will run their new air line to Duluth.

Foley Brothers have the contract for all the grading on the new line and they have sublet the first twenty miles at this end of the road to Mr. Higgins. It was stated by these contractors that grading will begin immediately on the completion of the locating survey by the engineers and would be rushed as fast as possible so that trains might be running by the first of next July.

Their equipment has arrived in part and an office will be opened for the care of this end of the business. Halvorsen Brothers have also taken a subcontract for the first five miles from Plummer, and other parties are getting subcontracts for more or less mileage all along the right-of-way. These subcontractors have all received orders to be ready to begin work at once and to rush it to the limit.

RAILROADS

READY BY NEXT JUNE

Work on Railroad to Steel Plant Will Continue This Winter.

Contracts Let for Crib and Concrete Work on Bridge.

Announcement was made today that the railroad from Pokegama Junction to the site of the steel plant, a distance of seven miles, would be completed and ready for operation by the first of next June.

This statement was made by President W. A. McGonagle of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad.

Work on the railroad will continue this fall and into the winter. Construction work is being carried on at the present time and there will be no abatement of the efforts to have the railroad in shape early next spring.

The bridge over the St. Louis river will be completed early in the spring. Work on the bridge will continue throughout the fall and winter.

The crib work on the bridge has been awarded to the Interstate Dredge company of this city. Part of the piling is already on the ground and the rest of the material for this work will be delivered at the site of the bridge this fall.

The concrete work is being done by W. F. King & Co. of this city, and the work will be carried on throughout the winter. The rock for the concrete is already on the ground.

With the railroad and the bridge completed early in the summer at the latest, the work of construction on the plant will be greatly facilitated.

COAL ORDERS POURING IN

Orders for coal are pouring in from the West. Wholesale dealers of Duluth are swamped with orders for Western delivery. The railroads have received orders for cars for immediate delivery and within the past twenty-four hours the orders for coal for commercial use have amounted to more than the orders for the past thirty days.

Orders for coal have been late all season. The cold weather of the past few days has aroused the coal dealers of the Western territory to the fact that there is very little coal to supply the pressing demand.

Railroad men here predicted that the first cold spell would result in an immediate demand for coal. Right now, with cars in as great demand as they are, it is doubtful if all the orders can be filled immediately. It is not believed that there will be a coal famine, from the fact that there is a scarcity of cars at the present time, but railroad men say that some of the dealers will have to wait until the railroads can find cars to deliver the orders that are rushing in.

DESIRE BRIDGE ACROSS RIVER

Brookston, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state railroad and warehouse commission, consisting of Ira B. Mills, C. F. Staples and C. E. Elmquist and Secretary A. C. Clausen, spent part of Tuesday afternoon in this village hearing arguments for and against the granting of the petition of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company for permission to abandon a portion of its original main line, which formerly connected with the old Duluth & Winnipeg road, now the Great Northern.

The petition called for the abandonment of 1,600 feet of its charter line, and the citizens of this village and vicinity were out in full force to protest against the granting of the petition.

The railroad was built in 1892 and was used for about six months hauling ore, connecting at this point with the Duluth & Winnipeg, over which line the ore was hauled to Superior. Three years ago a bridge spanning the St. Louis river at this point was destroyed by flood, and since that time the 1,600 feet of line mentioned in the company's petition has been practically abandoned, contrary to sections 2028 and 2039 of the General Laws. The citizens of this neighborhood protested against the granting of the petition for the reason that they believed the railroad company should reconstruct the bridge and enter this village, which is in the center of a vast timber country that is rapidly being settled up.

President W. A. McGonagle and Attorney Adams of Duluth represented the railroad company, and Attorneys Stevens and Culkins, also of Duluth, represented the Brookston Townsite company and the people of the village. Thirty days' time was allowed for the attorneys to prepare briefs, as they were not prepared to present final argument at the hearing Tuesday. After the hearing was concluded, the party boarded President McGonagle's private car for Duluth.

WILL MILWAUKEE ENTER WINNIPEG?

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 14.—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road is negotiating for property upon which to erect terminals here. It has been known for some time that it was desirous of getting into Winnipeg, but it was supposed it would use some other road. The site is reported to be negotiating for is Happyland, a local amusement park.

Happyland comprises thirty acres, and the price asked for the property is $400,000. An offer of $250,000 has already been made for it through a trust company.

What plans the company has for entering the province cannot be learned.

GET CONTROL OF THE KATY

New York, Oct. 14.—Edwin Hawley, B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island-Frisco system, and James Speyer, the New York banker, have obtained control of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway, according to the Tribune today. Under the new regime, it is said, A. A. Allen of St. Louis, vice president and general manager of the road, will be elected to succeed Adrian H. Joline as president and chairman of the board of directors. The road will continue to be operated as an independent line, although it will be under the joint control of the Rock Island and the Hawley systems.

The Missouri, Kansas & Texas, generally referred to as the Katy, extends over a total of 3,072 miles, running from Kansas City and St. Louis through Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the Gulf of Mexico at Galveston, and also has branches to Shreveport, La., and to San Antonio.

Porch Transferred.

E. R. Porch, formerly representative of the Erie railroad in this district, with headquarters at St. Paul, has been transferred to Chicago, and A. M. Thompson will become the representative of the road in the Duluth and St. Paul district.

WEST END

SLOAN MAY RUN FOR ALDERMAN

It is understood that R. C. Sloan may file for nomination for alderman from the Seventh ward on the Republican ticket in the coming primary election. He has been talked of for the office and, although he has not stated his intentions in the matter, there is reason to believe that he may be induced to file for the office.

The Democrats of the Sixth ward have indorsed Louis Lavine as a candidate for alderman. He has been asked to file for the primaries, but no answer has yet been given his friends.

The City Democratic club will meet again sometime in the early part of November.

FORMER DULUTH PRIEST ILL.

Father George Schessold, a former pastor of St. Clement's church in the West end, is dangerously ill in a Brainerd hospital. The latest advices received from Brainerd regarding his condition say he is slightly improved, but not yet out of danger.

Father Schessold had charge of the local parish from 1893 to 1898 and was liked among his parishioners. From Duluth he went to New York and, after a few years, went to the state of Washington. He broke down in health and finally came back to Minnesota.

Father Raymond of St. Clement's parish received word yesterday from Brainerd of his serious condition. He has been in the hospital there for about three weeks.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter." —MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

Catarrh of Internal Organs.

Mrs. B. H. Jackson, R. F. D. 5, Newman, Ga., writes: "I have had catarrh of the internal organs for more than a year. I tried other medicines without any benefit.

"I was persuaded to give Peruna a trial, and the first bottle proved a God-send, and after taking ten bottles I have received a permanent cure."

CANAL BOARD TO HAVE MEET

The Absence of Funds May Hamper Work of the Body.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart has summoned the Lake Superior and Mississippi river canal commission to meet on Tuesday, Nov. 9, in the governor's office, St. Paul, to take up the work laid out by the legislature. The act creating the commission directs it to investigate the feasibility and practicability of a ship or barge canal from Lake Superior to the Mississippi river.

The legislature outlined a comprehensive program, but failed to make any appropriation, and state officials anticipate that little can be accomplished of practical value. Members of the legislature agreed last winter that a system of inland waterways would have a tendency to reduce and equalize freight rates and generally indorsed all the navigation schemes proposed, but no estimates were presented of the amounts necessary to construct a canal such as proposed, or any of the other waterways suggested.

The commission is composed of Loren W. Collins and A. E. Cutler of Minneapolis; Capt. A. H. Reed, Glencoe, and James M. Elder, Brainerd.

While various routes have been suggested for the Superior-Mississippi canal, the most favored will tap the Mississippi between St. Cloud and Little Falls.

COPPER COUNTRY USING SLEIGHS

Storm Abates and Fleet of Thirty Boats Ventures Out.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sixty-six-hour blizzard, which began Monday noon with continuous snowfall and high gale since, quieted suddenly this morning leaving from six inches to a foot and a half of snow on the ground all over the copper district and other parts of Northern Michigan.

In many places conveyances on wheels cannot be used and runners are out. The storm bound fleet of thirty boats in Portage lake and others behind Whitefish Point ventured out this morning, although Lake Superior is running high.

NEW ATTACK ON GAYNOR

District Attorney Elder Makes Sensational Charges Against Judge.

Democratic Candidate Declares Ivens' Assertions Are Mere Lies.

New York, Oct. 14.—The principal engagement of the last twenty-four hours in the political warfare preceding the municipal election was a sensational attack upon William J. Gaynor, Democratic nominee for mayor, by Robert H. Elder, assistant district attorney of Kings county (Brooklyn), who has represented the state in a fight to enforce the anti-betting laws on the race tracks. The attack, in the form of a statement, was designed to support and supply details to the charges made Monday night by William M. Ivins, a Republican, but a Hearst supporter, that Gaynor, in his capacity as a justice of the supreme court, has sought to defeat the purpose of the anti-gambling statute.

Mr. Elder says that he, too, has learned of the alleged conference of Justice Gaynor, State Senator Patrick H. McCarren and Eugene Wood of Brooklyn, at which the constitutionality of the race track law was discussed, and, as it is alleged, a test case contemplated, upon which Justice Gaynor was to render a decision.

Gaynor Gave Decision.

Mr. Elder tells how he attempted to frustrate this alleged effort to get a test case before Gaynor, and how the justice, in connection with a case of betting on golf, eventually declared it was not an offense to make a bet on the race track.

The Elder statement says in part:

"The new law against public gambling on the race course went into effect on June 11, 1908. At that time the racing was going on at Sheepshead Bay. A few days after the law went into effect a public official of prominence, who has been aiding me in my efforts to enforce the law, came to me and stated that he had but a few moments before he engaged in conversation with Eugene Wood and that Wood had stated to him that he (Wood) and Senator Patrick McCarren had been present at the conversation with Gaynor, in which the constitutionality and the validity of the new gambling law was discussed, and in which conversation they discussed how the law could be nullified; and that a case in the nature of a habeas corpus proceeding was being arranged to be brought before Judge Gaynor to get a decision that would allow the gamblers on the race course free swing.

Second Account of It.

"Probably an hour after this another public official of high prominence, whom I met upon the race course, stated to me substantially the same thing. I believed then that this conversation did take place, because of the direct and official way in which the information came to me. I believe yet that it took place."

The statement adds that counsel for the alleged gamblers and for the Jockey club later proposed to Mr. Elder the bringing of a habeas corpus action in order to get a decision on the law, but that he declined to enter into the arrangement and requested all the police magistrates of Brooklyn not to issue any warrants without first giving him an opportunity to oppose the application.

Mr. Elder goes on to say that the golf case will not be brought in Kings county, but in Nassau county, and before Judge Gaynor.

Gaynor's Friend Cleared.

"In this case," says the statement, "it was alleged that Sterling made a bet with another upon the result of a game of golf and he recorded and registered the bet on a card. In his opinion Judge Gaynor made a definition of a common gambler. Under this definition William Angeman, a personal acquaintance of Judge Gaynor, who had been previously indicted as a common gambler as chief owner of the Brighton Beach track, was not a common gambler.

"The learned court also decided that it was not an offense to make a bet on a race course, and that it was no offense to register and record the same."

Justice Gaynor was busy last night reading the Elder statement, but he did not intimate whether he would make a lengthy reply or any reply at all. The Ivins charges he branded as lies.

Th Republican candidate, Otto T. Bannard, was the only one of the three mayoralty nominees to do any active campaigning yesterday. He spoke to a newly organized Republican club at Columbia university and at several East side political gatherings.

McCarren Is Sick.

State Senator Patrick H. McCarren, the Democratic party leader of Brooklyn, was suddenly eliminated from further participation in the local political campaign last night by an acute attack of appendicitis, which required an immediate operation.

He was taken ill while at work in his headquarters at the Clarendon hotel about 7 o'clock, and was removed at once to St. Catherine's hospital, Brooklyn, where an operation was performed. His condition is serious, but not necessarily critical.

ST. HILAIRE CREAMERY DISTRIBUTES LARGE SUM.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The St. Hilaire creamery, located a few miles south of this city, received over 99,000 pounds of cream during the last month. The creamery received from all sources during the same month the sum of $9,100, of which $8,585 found its way into the pockets of the farmers who patronize this institution, the remainder being used for running expenses. As this is only one of the many such enterprses in Red Lake county, some idea may be formed of what the future has in store for the lucky dairymen of this section.

TWO MEN ARE CAUGHT IN NEW ROCKFORD RAID.

New Rockford, N. D., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—That section of New Rockford which had gained the name of "Moorhead," due to the fact that it was the reputed headquarters of blind piggers or illegal booze venders, was raided by the officials. B. M. Leonard and J. E. Fink were bound over to the district court as a result of the raid, while several other tough characters were given orders to leave the city forthwith.

She Was Pleasantly Surprised.

Miss H. E. Bell, Wausau, Wis., writes: "Before I commenced to take Foley's Kidney Pills I had severe pains in my back, could not sleep and was greatly troubled with headache. The first few doses of Foley's Kidney Pills gave me relief, and two bottles cured me. The quick results surprised me, and I can honestly recommend them." Sold by all druggists.

LYCEUM—"Forty-five Minutes From Broadway."

HAS LOST NONE OF ITS FLAVOR

"Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" as Pleasing as Ever.

George M. Cohan's agreeable comedy, with music, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," was presented at the Lyceum theater to the satisfaction of a fair-sized audience, last evening. The audience should have been larger, and if people held aloof from attendance fearing that the production had become mouldy and moth-eaten, they had better change their views and go, for the company is a good one and the play is rich in delicious slangy satire.

The popularity "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," has had, demonstrates clearly that it is the best play Cohan ever wrote, and doubtless the books of Cohan & Harris, the managers, confirm this, for there is no better way of telling whether a play is a success or not, than by checking up the box office receipts.

The fact that only a fair house greeted the piece last evening is not significant of its merits, for this is its third visit. But there are doubtless many Duluthians who have never seen it and others who would readily enjoy another laugh with and at the characters. The attraction will remain at the Lyceum until tomorrow night.

Like most Cohan shows, "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," is farce-comedy-melodrama, garnished with music and highly seasoned with slang. There is less of the Tenderloin garishness about the play than about many of this young man's writings, however. It has a more wholesome flavor. The lines are bright, and at times very witty, the satire on small town life excellent; and the music the catchiest Cohan ever wrote. "So Long, Mary," and "Just Plain Mary," have it over any of the bang-bang-bang marches George M. Cohan ever concocted for his own use.

The plot revolves about a housemaid named Mary. She was the faithful servant of a hard-headed, close-fisted, old resident of New Rochelle, who, in life, was remarkably successful in gathering in the pelf, and after he had gathered it, in hanging on, tooth and nail. When he died, he left a cool $1,000,000, but no will, so the estate went to a disinherited nephew named Tom Bennett.

Bennett had been on his uppers for years and when he becomes proprietor of the old man's coin, he splurges. He makes an illiterate but good-hearted pal of his poolroom days, Kid Burns, his secretary, and the alacrity with which he becomes engaged to an actress suggests that he must have come from Pittsburg.

The slangy follower of the ponies, Kid Burns, buys a suit of clothes from the old butler at the New Rochelle mansion and discovers in it, the lost will of the deceased millionaire. This document gives the cool $1,000,000 and everything else he left to Mary, the maid.

"Gee, but she's a nice gal," says Kid Burns of the housemaid, and his first impulse is to produce the will at once and give Mary her rights. Then he reflects upon his friendship for Tom Bennett, whom the production of the will is going to pauperize. He has a battle with himself, but finally, in the last act, tells his friend, and that young man, being a thoroughbred, promptly agrees that Mary should have his late uncle's wealth.

In the meantime, both the kid and Mary have become mightily smitten with each other, and Mary tears up the will to become the bride of Burns.

A scoundrelly mining promoter and the shrewish mother of the actress contribute the villainy, but are properly frustrated by Mary and a well-groomed New Rochelle clubman.

Cohan has worked out the story in a capital fashion. There is a laugh in nearly every line of Kid Burns' speeches, crispness in Mary's sentences, and no end of fun in the burlesque of the small town citizenry. Tom Bennett's entertainment for the villagers, in the second act, is a scream.

There are only five songs, "Gentlemen of the Press," "A Popular Millionaire," "Mary is a Grand Old Name," "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway" and the popular classic, "So Long, Mary." A dozen young men and women are happily utilized in the rendition of most of the numbers, and in the roles of villagers.

While not equipped with the voice of Louise Gunning or an Adele Ritchie, Elizabeth Drew is a very fetching Mary. She is very good to look upon, has a good idea of how the part should be played and does it most charmingly. If one may be permitted to criticize Miss Drew's work, it will be to remonstrate with her about lingering too long upon some of her speeches. She drags some of her words out to abnormal length, which is somewhat irritating to her auditors, who know what she is going to say before she is half through. Her acting during the "So Long, Mary," number is very good.

Charley Brown, who has been seen in Cohan shows before, has the part created by Victor Moore, Kid Burns. It fits him better than did Cohan's role in "Little Johnny Jones," and he misses none of the pungency of the kid's lines.

It is a pleasant task to commend Eugene MacGregor's work as Tom Bennett. As acted by Mr. MacGregor, Tom Bennett is a real Cohan character, and his liveliness contributes a great deal to the success of the present production.

James A. Davett is excellent as the New Rochelle clubman, and James Manning and Nina Ristori manage the villainy department most properly, or improperly. The rest of the characters are capably enacted and the stage settings are first-class.

"DO IT FOR YOURSELF"

The People of Duluth Are Crying Out Against the High Cost of Living.

If You Are Sick It Costs You More to Live Than If You Are Well.

Get well and it will cost you less to live! More it will increase your earning ability and thereby reduce the ratio of the amount your are compelled to spend for the necessities of life, as against the amount that you can earn. If you are now without ambition, without energy, holding down some inferior position on account of ill health, look into the matter closely, and you will certainly realize that it does not pay you to continue. Not only might you, by regaining health, fit yourself to occupy a more responsible position, at a higher salary, but you can double your ability to enjoy the good things of life. The sick man does not really care how much he earns so long as it is enough to buy the necessities of existence and pay his doctors' bills, he has lost the capability of enjoying himself and therefore does not need to spend money for that purpose. What is the use of living that kind of a life, however, the interminable round of three meals a day, a visit to the doctor occasionally, the nightly attempts to sleep, and the days of pain-racked attempts to do good work? Does it pay? A few dollars spent in the regaining of lost health and vitality will place you again on the plane of your fellow men, capable of doing good work, and of enjoying your leisure time to the full. Your trouble may not incapacitate you, it may not confine you to your bed, but if it interferes with your enjoyment of life, you should take steps to have it cured. We only live once, let us LIVE while we can. Just a word of warning in conclusion,—Don't take your case to a "Near Specialist" and don't try to cure yourself. If you do, your last case will be worse than your first. Go to some reputable specialist in the Diseases of Men (if you are a man), tell him your trouble and ask him if he can cure you. Take a legal guarantee that he can if he says he can. There is only one firm in the country, so far as we know, that will do this, the Progressive Medical Association, of No, 1 West Superior street, Duluth.

Do Not Show Your Age in Your Complexion

By DOROTHY VENN

(From San Francisco Examiner.)

What woman would not look young if she had a clear, soft complexion?

Perhaps the most wonderful skin treatment is one of the most simple. Dr. Takka Quoido, Japan's famous skin specialist, gives San Francisco women the following advice:

"Yes, we never grow old in Japan—I mean the women's faces never show age. All Japanese women use mayatone dissolved in withhazel, and massage the solution thoroughly into the face, neck and arms once or twice a day. This treatment is absolutely harmless even to a baby's skin and gives wonderful results, removing all manner of facial blemishes. It also prevents the growth of hair. You never saw a Japanese woman with hair on her face.

"Take a small original package of mayatone and dissolve is all in eight ounces of witchhazel, and you are supplied with this aid to youth."

ON THE IRON RANGES

RED LIGHT UPON THE LOFTY TOWER

Highest Point About Eveleth to Hold Aloft Beacon at Night.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the new water tank is progressing notwithstanding the recent cold weather. The tower is nearing completion, and the tier of beams are being put in.

It is suggested by city officials that a large beacon light be erected on the top of the tower, which would be very convenient for people living in the Mud hen district, Hunters and Central Division No. 2 residents. The tower is situated on a large hill, and when completed will be about 140 feet from the ground, the highest point of observation in the county. It can be seen from the Miller trunk road and from all railroad tracks in the vicinity, and the installing of a beacon light there of electricity is looked on as a feasible idea. The tower beacon could be supplied with electric light by the local electric plant, and the company has already been approached in regard to that matter by townsmen. From present indications a large light will be placed upon the tower when the same is completed.

WAREHOUSE IS BURNED DOWN

Bovey Structure Destroyed, But Nearby Store Is Saved.

Bovey, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire destroyed the Barron warehouse Tuesday night.

The loss was a heavy one for William Lassard, who lost a cutter and all winter supplies for his horses. D. D. Russell also lost plaster stored for his new building, amounting to $100. Justl, a shoemaker, lost all his belongings. With the high wind it was considered miraculous that the Barron department store did not also burn. Due to the good work of the fire department, it was saved, being only scorched. The only avenue of escape for the tenants above the store was near the fire, but all got out. No damage was done to anything in the store.

FOR A GREATER GRAND RAPIDS

Commercial Club Considers Matter of Interest to Town.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A better handling of the water in the Upper Mississippi reservoir and railroad improvements were some of the matters of vital importance to this place considered at a meeting just held of the Commercial club, which is again becoming active in the campaign for a greater Grand Rapids.

A. C. Bossard stated that he was gathering data relative to the manner in which the dams on the river are being operated, and that at a later date he would be prepared to present a plan to the club which he thinks will be more effective in the attempt to secure recognition.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Great Northern railroad officials regarding the company's plans for Grand Rapids as to a depot and switching yard changes, it being deemed very important that something be done to remedy the condition of affairs at the principal street railroad crossings, where human life is risked every day in crossing the tracks. The committee consists of F. A. King, D. M. Gunn and A. C. Bossard.

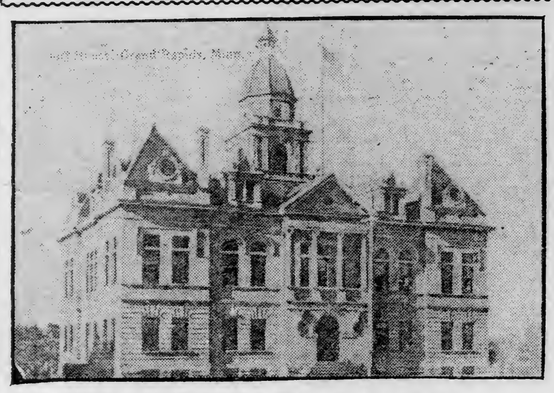

The Itasca Paper company asked the co-operation of the club in the vacation of certain streets adjoining the paper mill property, in order to accommodate some numerous and extensive improvements which it proposes to make to its mill in the spring. A resolution was passed recommending the village council to act favorably in the matter.

The matter of having a park board appointed was discussed at some length. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Gunn, McCarthy and F. A. King, was appointed to confer with the council on the subject.

Messrs. Bossard and Remer of the village council were present and they asked that public sentiment should be voiced to get opinions as to the best thing to do with the village water tank and tower, which are ready to fall down.

The village dumping grounds were the subject of some criticism. They are located about half a mile from town on the Split Hand road, and are little short of a disgrace to the village. No definite action was taken, but it was suggested that a small, cheap garbage crematory be provided, and this will probably be done.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS ON ITASCA COUNTY BUILDING

COURTHOUSE AT GRAND RAPIDS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carpenters are at work making extensive improvements in the third story of the courthouse. The story is a vast room of sufficient height and size for use as office room, but not easily accessible, and not well lighted, and until now little thought has been entertained of using it for any purpose except storage. Lately, the need for more room in the courthouse offices has compelled the officers to do something to relieve the congested condition, so it was decided to build a jury room in the third story.

Auditor Spang states that the other offices of the county are also getting too small for the growing business of the county. At the July meeting of the county board, the county board provided a levy of $10,000 for needed repairs and changes to the courthouse. Mr. Spang has figured out a plan whereby all the offices can be changed about, room added to all, and the accommodations made so that the present courthouse would be suitable for fifty years.

The register of deeds' office is probably most in need of additional room. Much of the work of the register of deeds is done in the vault, where the records are stored. When more than two or three persons are looking up records there is scarcely standing room, let alone a possibility of the employes of the office being able to do their work comfortably. The register's office, therefore, would be moved to the basement, forty or fifty feet of the west end of which would be transformed into a large vault, which would provide as much room as the records of that office would ever need.

The treasurer's office would be moved to the present office of the clerk of court, and the room now occupied by the treasurer would be used as an adjunct to the auditor's office, which is now crowded to the limit, there being not a bit of spare room in the auditor's vault. The clerk of court would be moved to the office now occupied by the register of deeds.

The sheriff would be moved to the jail office. The probate judge's place of business would be located in the old office of the sheriff, and the office of the county superintendent of schools would be placed in the present probate office. The toiletroom would then be moved to the basement, where it belongs, and the needed room now used would be transformed into a very comfortable office for the county surveyor.

Moving the superintendent of schools and the county surveyor out of their present quarters would leave a nice suite of two large rooms which it is proposed to have occupied by a district judge, an official Itasca county hopes to have soon.

Numerous other changes would also be made, so that the accommodations for the transaction of business would be of the best and the records safely housed, so that they could be easily accessible.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS REACHES GRAND RAPIDS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Infantile paralysis has claimed a victim here in the 11-month-old son of Henry Hilling, a local confectioner.

The disease is new in this locality and it is thought the child contracted it while visiting with its parents recently in Minneapolis.

VIRGINIA COUNCIL REJECTS SCRAPER BID.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The bid of $300 and the taking of the city's old road scraper for a much larger scraper offered by the Austin-Western company of St. Paul has been rejected b ythe council.

The original price of this scraper is $400 net, but as the new scraper is already on the ground the company made this reduction rather than to reship it back to the factory. The council, in view of the fact that it would not have use for such scraper until next spring thought it advisable to postpone its purchase.

NOTES FROM HIBBING.

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 14. — (Special to The Herald.)—Miss Emma Young will be in the city this week to make arrangements for taking charge of the musical classes now under Mrs. Louis McPike, who is about to remove from this city.

Duck hunting is now a favorite of the sportsmen and other hunters who wish to get an abundance of game. The sportsmen are returning with full game bags on each trip. The ducks seem to be abounding in almost every body of water in St. Louis and Itasca counties, and it is likely that the hunters will all reap a large harvest this year.

COUNTY GIVES AMPLE BONDS

National Surety Company Is Responsible for Kremer's Shortage.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The National Surety company furnished ex-County Treasurer Kremer's bonds in the sum of $75,000, so the county is believed to be amply protected against loss resulting from the deposed official's misconduct.

Deputy Public Examiner Kain continues his probe of the books of the county and is quoted as saying that the shortage will not exceed $40,000, if it reaches such a large figure.

Kremer has securities, including mortgages and other property, amounting to about $34,000, all of which will be turned over to the county. Mr. Kremer had on deposit in various banks $6,240.43, which he has turned over. The public examiner found $1,545.77 in the treasurer's vaults.

Kremer's hearing may develop more sensations. The public appears to be at a loss to explain where all of the money went, large family expenses being one of the explanations offered.

Although Kremer is said to have made a confession of his shortage to the public examiner, it is reported he has retained counsel and will fight prosecution, but this is not verified.

BOY'S INJURY PROVES FATAL

Bennie Smith is Dead From Accidentally Shooting Himself.

Nashwauk, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Bennie Smith, the 12-year-old son of Mrs. Michael, who accidentally shot himself in the head with with a .32 caliber rifle near here Sunday afternoon while out hunting with three of his associates, died at his home Monday afternoon. The body was taken to Hibbing Wednesday for interment, where the body of his father, who died three weeks ago, was buried.

Amos Brown left Tuesday for Aurora, where he has taken a position with McArthur Bros., contractors.

The manual training equipment that arrived recently at the high school has been installed and the high school pupils met in the training room Tuesday afternoon and were made acquainted with the equipment and tools. Work in the room will begin next week.

FROM CENTRAL PLANT.

Steam Heat to Be Furnished Many Buildings in Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Home Electric Heating company has commenced installing steam heating appliances into local business buildings. The installing of the mains is being done by the Northern Plumbing & Heating company of this city, and material for the job has already arrived from Minneapolis.

The Bailey block and the Murray Manufacturing plant, opposite the electric lighting plant, have been connected by mains, and the heat is being used. Three blocks of mains will be put in this fall, from the plant on Douglas avenue and Adams street, to Grant avenue, then north a half a block, and the block south between Jones and Pierce streets. A gang of men commenced work on Jones street, between Grant and Douglas avenues, digging trenches for an eight-inch pipe, through which the steam will be conveyed.

The system used by the company is the Zacuum, used with great success in the large cities. Eveleth will be, when the system is completed, the first town north of Duluth to have a central station from which steam will be supplied.

the body to see whether the dead robber was Becker.

Light on the identity of the robber also may be obtained from a young woman said to have been frequently in his company while he was at a Chicago hotel, and for whom the police are searching.

Seen With a Woman.

A chauffeur employed by a taxicab company today told the police that he drove the man, known at the hotel as L. Harrison, to different parts of the city in company with a young woman, whom the chauffeur described as being good looking, with dark hair and eyes and clad in a tailor made blue suit.

No positive identification of the robber's body has yet been made.

A companion of the robber, who had driven him to the bank in an automobile, was captured immediately following the robbery of the bank, forcing the principal perpetrator in the daring daylight crime to flee on foot. He was engaged in a running duel with Town Marshal John Sheehan, who was the target for many bullets from the fugitive bandit's revolver, one of which went through the sleeve of his coat. After running several blocks and failing to drive back his pursuers, the robber ran into a shed closely followed by Sheehan. When he saw Sheehan enter the shed with his revolver leveled at his head, the fugitive put the muzzle of his own revolver in his mouth and fired a shot, which resulted in his death almost immediately.

Companion Will Not Talk.

Neither he nor his companion is known. The man arrested, who appeared in the guise of a chauffeur, positively refused after his arrest to discuss the robbery or to disclose anything concerning himself or his companion.

The robbery was conducted in a deliberate and spectacular manner, the bandit securing about $500 in gold coin and bills after he had forced John C. Duffy, cashier of the bank; Miss Nellie Fitzgerald, the bookkeeper, and Joseph H. F. Richards, the receiving teller, into the cashier's cage just after the closing of business for the day.

In the morning the robber had come into the bank and asked Cashier Duffy the whereabouts of a Mr. Williams. Duffy directed the man to Libertyville, Ill.

Cashier Acted Quickly.

When the stranger returned in the afternoon, Cashier Duffy became suspicious and hurriedly took a large amount of money and locked it in the vault. Several hundred dollars still were in the cage. Then Duffy was confronted by the robber, who leveled a revolver and said:

"Call every one in here into that cage or I'll blow your head off. Hurry up."

Duffy, unarmed, complied with the demand. Miss Fitzgerald and Richards came into the cage, while the intruder helped himself to all the money in sight. He carefully tucked the gold and bills into his pockets, and then exclaimed:

"If any of you attempts to follow me I will kill you."

He started for the door, and Duffy immediately telephoned the marshal's office across the street. The chase after the fugitive was a thrilling one, but ended in his suicide within a few minutes. All the money taken from the bank was found in his clothing.

The organization of the Summit Mining company has just been completed and the new corporation is now prepared to begin active operations on its claims in the summit district of the Coeur d'Alenes, in Idaho.

Robert B. Whiteside of this city is president; T. Hudson, vice president, and William C. Robinson, secretary and treasurer of the new company. These three, with John F. Murphy of Murray, Idaho, comprise the board of directors.

The new company controls twenty claims, which have already been proven to contain valuable ore deposits. The Idaho Northern Railway extends to the properties.

NO LICENSE TO SELL PRODUCTS

Virginia Will Encourage Farmers in Vending Their Products.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The ordinance allowing farmers and truck gardeners to sell or dispose of their produce within the city of Virginia without license will be in force on and after tomorrow. The matter of establishing a public market has been practically dropped, but in the spring it is probable that the matter will again be taken up and pushed to a satisfactory end. Before disposing of their meats, however, farmers will be obliged to have them inspected by the local meat inspector and the same tagged by that official.

This action on the part of the council will have a tendency to bring more farmers to Virginia, as many of them have been going to other towns, where they were neither licensed nor hampered with in any way in the disposal of their produce. Virginia merchants pay the highest market price for farm products, and the farmers prefer coming here, as they have a greater assortment of goods to select from in their purchases.

WITHHOLD PETITION FOR SOME MORE SIGNATURES.

Virginia, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The signers of the petition to abolish the questionable house located south of the city deferred presenting it to the council until such time as they can secure more signatures. They propose to have the petition signed by a large number of uptown residents as well as those living in the vicinity of the house, in order that when the same is presented to the council that body will have no hesitancy in taking immediate action in abolishing the place.

CANDIDATES FOR FOREST RANGERS

Examinations Will Be Held in This District Oct. 25-26.

Missoula, Mont., Oct. 14.—Uncle Sam makes a call for men with vigorous minds in vigorous bodies to become forest rangers.

The United States civil service commission will hold an examination for this position at every national forest headquarters in the states of Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, and in parts of South Dakota and Washington, included in this district, on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 25 and 26.

The examination will be along thoroughly practical lines and will consist of questions regarding land surveying, estimating and scaling timber, the land laws, mining and the livestock business, supplemented by a field test to show the applicant's fitness to perform the actual work of a ranger. Rangers must be between 21 and 40 years of age at the time of taking the examination, able-bodied and capable of performing hard manual work. Thorough familiarity with the region in which employment is sought is essential, together with actual experience in the kinds of work required of forest officers.

The forest service desires to maintain the highest possible standard of efficiency and the degree of advancement of competent men in the service is governed entirely by their capacity. The initial salary is $900, with the beginner who starts in as assistant forest ranger. Through good work a ranger can rise to the position of forest ranger with a maximum salary of $1,200 to $1,500. The next step in promotion is to the position of deputy supervisor on a national forest. Rangers who show competency in particular lines of work, such as claim examinations and marking and scaling timber, are advanced and paid according to the importance of the work in which they are engaged.

The examinations in Minnesota will be held at Cass Lake, with G. E. Marshall as examiner, and at Ely, with Scott Leavitt as examiner. For Michigan, the examinations will be held by W. B. Greeley at Au Sable.

CURES REMOVE DOUBT ABOUT ECZEMA CURE

Read What Your Druggist Says About Oil of Wintergreen Compound.

The Lyceum pharmacy submits the following to the readers of The Herald:

For several years we have announced, with our recommendation, that we had found a positive cure for eczema; a simple skin wash, oil of wintergreen compounded with other healing ingredients.

Yet we know there are people, right in this town who have eczema, and still have never tried this remedy.

We have, therefore, arranged with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago for a special offer of a trial bottle at 25 cents instead of the $1.00 bottle as regularly sold.

We offer this trial bottle with our recommendation and assurance that just as soon as the patient washes his itching skin, this mild liquid will take the itch away instantly.

MARINE NEWS

SIX MEN LOSE LIVES IN GALE ON LAKE SUPERIOR

Terrific Storm Wrecks the Steamer George Stone Near Point Pelee.

Boat's Crew in Battle With Waves for Their Lives.

THE DEAD.

Capt. Paul Howell, Erie, Pa.
Peter Dailey, Erie, Pa., a passenger.
William Henry, South Chicago, Ill., second engineer.
Cook Lucas, Cleveland, Ohio.
William Boyer, Cleveland, an oiler.
Watchman, name and residence unknown.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 14.—The wooden steamer George Stone, 270 feet long and 40-foot beam, built in 1893, and having a gross tonnage of 1,841, left Ashtabula, Ohio, Monday at 3:30 p. m. with a load of coal for Racine, Wis. She began to feel the effects of the southwest gale about 6:30 o'clock Monday evening, and at midnight she began a desperate battle for life. All day Tuesday she fought valiantly against the storm, but toward evening it became apparent that the pumps were unequal to the task of removing the water that poured into the hold through the seams opened by the buffeting of the waves. About 9 p. m. the captain and crew realized that the storm had taken the vessel out of their control, and it was a losing battle they fought from that time until about 2:30 a. m. yesterday, when the Stone struck with a terrific jar upon the sand bar known as Grubb's reef, nearly five miles off the western shore of Point Pelee.

Until daybreak the shipwrecked crew remained in the forward cabins and pilot house, and then began an anxious search of the horizon for passing vessels. One man was sent aloft with a bed sheet, which he waved from the forward mast. But, though three or four steamers came within sight, none responded to the signal of distress, and it was decided that help must be summoned from the shore. The vessel was now beginning to break up forward, and the crew abandoned the pilot house and took up their station aft.

Fire added to the dangers of the situation at this point, the pilot house being burned to the deck before the blaze was subdued by the waves and spray. It is thought that one of the many lamps that were kept lighted in the pilot house during the night to warm the drenched and shivering men was overturned by the pounding of the boat on the reef.

Towards 9 o'clock yesterday morning danger of the vessel being broken to pieces became acute, and Capt. Howell picked his crew for an attempt to reach shore in one of the small boats. The wooden boat was tried first, but while the attempt was being made to launch her, the sea drove her against the steamer and broke a great hole in the small boat's side. Then was launched the steel lifeboat, having air compartments at each end to insure against sinking. In this boat the captain and his seven companions pulled away from the wreck, and after a time were lost to the sight of those on board.

The staunch little craft fought her way among the breakers without mishap over most of the distance to shore, but when almost outside the zone of danger, a mountain comber capsized her and left her eight passengers struggling in the icy breakers. Second Mate Hindle and Wheelsman Connor were the only ones who managed to gain a hold on the life boat and they clung to it until driven ashore by the storm.

Capt. Grubb of the Point Pelee lighthouse took Hindle and Connor to his home, where they quickly recovered from the effects of their four hours' exposure. The lifeboat which had gone adrift and the bodies of Peter Dailey, Cook Lucas and Oiler Boyer were recovered from the breakers by Capt. Grubb, who brought them to shore with his gasoline launch.

Meanwhile the ten members of the crew who were left on board the wrecked vessel knew nothing of the fate of their companions, and kept a sharp lookout for assistance from both the land and passing steamers.

It was just 9 o'clock when the lifeboat started for the shore, and it was about 11 o'clock when the upbound steamer F. M. Osborne of Cleveland responded to the signal of distress.

The gale was still at its height, and it required masterful seamanship to bring the rescuers near enough to the wreck to be of assistance. The Osborne, having no load, stood high out of the water, so that her bow was caught by the raging sou'wester and blown repeatedly from her course.

Capt. Dupuy, however, bore down on the lee side of the wreck and, risking the Osborne's nose into the wind, approached the wreck stem-on. When the wind caught his boat and threatened to drive him off, he dropped both the port and starboard anchors and then, with the engine going full speed ahead, the Osborne pushed her nose against the afterdeck of the Stone. A ladder was thrown down from the rescuing vessel and the ten members of the Stone's crew clambered aboard the Osborne. By that time all the upper works of the Stone had disappeared back to and including the deck house amidships.

It is said that the combination of wind and currents that sent the steamer to her destruction were almost unprecedented on Lake Erie. The southwest wind had been driving the water in heavy currents from the head of the lake to its mouth. The high water at Buffalo resulted and at the Lime Kilns by Crossing near the mouth of the Detroit river, the water has been so low as to make navigation at times almost impossible.

The steamer Stone was caught between Point Pelee and Pelee island, where she was driven ashore by the combined force of both the wind and the extraordinary currents.

The Stone was the property of M. A. Bradley of Cleveland and was uninsured. The boat is a total loss.

SAILORS SEEK JOBS IN WOODS

Just about this time each year vesselmen begin to have trouble in holding their help. This year is no exception to the general rule.

Some of the men seem to be afraid to brave Lake Superior in the fall months of the year. Others are not afraid, but being on the watch for employment through the winter, seek to leave the ship at this port in order to secure jobs in the lumber woods.

A great number of the men engaged on boats plying the lakes are engaged at lower lake ports. As they are required to sign an agreement to make the round trip, they cannot well leave the boat at this port. If they do, it is usually at their expense, for the boat companies, realizing how they may be taken advantage of and left short-handed in the midst of the rush time of the year, pay only at the other end of the route.

Yesterday a number of sailors visited the offices of the United States commissioner, asking that boats be held here until their salaries were paid. Upon investigation, the commissioner found that, without exception, the men had signed for round trips, and that there was no way for them to collect their money at this port.

SITUATION IS NOT PRECARIOUS

The Pittsburg steamer Trevor which was yesterday reported ashore at Isle Royale is in no immediate danger according to reports received in this city this morning. She is not leaking and will be taken off the bank with but slight damage.

The wrecking tug Favorite has been sent to her assistance from the Soo and it is expected that she will be on her way to Two Harbors before many hours. It has not been determined as yet whether it will be necessary to lighter her load of coal.

The steamer Ellwood which left Two Harbors late yesterday afternoon was instructed to visit the scene and lend all assistance possible.

The Trevor lies on the north point of Rainbow cove. This is not considered a dangerous point by local vesselmen.

HEAVY SNOW STORM AT SOO

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A terrific snow storm over the St. Mary's river valley completely tied up navigation last night. Late this morning the snow ceased and boats began to put in an appearance.

All last night about forty big fellows were anchored off Detour, not daring to venture out into Lake Huron. They all got away this morning. A large number were also anchored around Whitefish point. There is a rumor here that a vessel was lost off Whitefish point last night. Several vessels from Lake Michigan, when the storm was reported at its worst, tied up here a few hours to give the captains a much needed rest.

SHELTERING AT PORT ARTHUR

Port Arthur, Ont., Oct. 14.—The passenger steamer Pere Marquette No. 5, operating between Duluth and Port Huron, was driven across the lake and sought shelter here. A terrible storm raged yesterday and fifteen storm-bound boats entered this harbor for protection.

STORM WARNINGS ARE DISPLAYED

Storm warnings were hoisted this morning by the weather man.

The storm is in the nature of a revival of the one which has been raging on Lake Superior for several days past. The wind is expected to blow from the northwest tonight, and vessel captains are warned to stay in port.

The warnings cover Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and Western Lake Huron. It is central over Lake Superior.

Court Decides That Branch Heirs Come With Claims Too Late.

Title Determined by Statute of Limitations and Verdict is Directed.

Because William Branch was shown to have been the owner of $7,500 worth of old city of Duluth bonds in 1872 and his books have no record of their subsequent sale, there is no presumption that ownership remained indefinitely with him or his estate; nor does the fact that the bonds turned up in the possession of James Ward in 1877, five years after Mr. Branch's death make it incumbent upon Mr. Ward's heirs to show that he came by them rightfully; nor does such a state of facts justify the submission of the question of the validity of Mr. Ward's title to a jury after a lapse of over thirty years, according to a decision by Judge Cant in district court this morning in the case of Caroline E. Brown vs. The City of Duluth, Mary E. Branch and Linda Dunn.

After long arguments by the opposing counsel, Judge Cant directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the plaintiff and against the city of Duluth and the intervenors, Mrs. Branch and Mrs. Dunn, holding that the money deposited in the American Exchange bank by the city should go to the plaintiff. The attorneys for the intervenors, gave informal notice of an intention to move for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or a new trial, probably with the intention of appealing to the supreme court in the event of the denial of the motion.

The case was one of considerable interest because it was a test case todetermine the rights of the heirs of William Branch to reopen the closed incident of the administration of his affairs. It was claimed by Mrs. Branch and Mrs. Dunn that at the time of his death William Branch owned from $75,000 to $80,000 worth of United States bonds, Ramsey county bonds, city of Duluth bonds, railroad and other securities, which were not listed in the final inventory of the estate and which disappeared during the administration. Some of the bonds, including the city of Duluth bonds in issue in the case decided this morning, afterwards appeared in other hands. The heirs want to know how they got there and endeavored to secure support for their contention that the title to the bonds, shown to have been in William Branch hands a few months before his death, was presumed to have remained with him until otherwise shown.

Both the plaintiff and the intervenors moved for a directed verdict and the arguments consumed all morning. The plaintiff contended that the bonds had been in possession undisturbed of James Ward and his heirs, of whom Caroline E. Brown is one, for over thirty years. How he secured the bonds, it was claimed, was immaterial, for if there was anything wrong in the manner in which he secured them, it should have been discovered at the time and his trading the old city bonds for the new village bonds in 1877, a public transaction, should have been contested by those in charge of William Branch's estate. The statute of limitations was called upon to bar the action of the intervenors. It was contended that title passed to James Ward under the statute of limitations of the state of New York and that title should be respected by the courts of the state of Minnesota.

The evidence showing that William Branch had been possessed of the bonds in question a few months before his death was pointed to by the intervenors and the contention advanced that title was presumed to have remained with him until otherwise shown. It was claimed that the action should not be barred by the statute of limitations, as their case was based on the debt and not on the tangible piece of paper designated as the bond.

The attorney for the intervenors said that there were three ways in which James Ward might have come into possession of the bonds: By purchase from William Branch before his death, by purchase from the administrator after his death or by fraud. He claimed that the jury should be given an opportunity to determine by which means he came into possession of them.

The arguments were on technical points of law as was the decision of Judge Cant. Judge Cant held that as bonds are negotiable instruments, subject to comparatively easy transfer, some limitation should be placed upon such actions and he thought that as the statute of limitations of the state of New York vested title in the bonds in James Ward and his heirs that title should be respected by the Minnesota courts. He said that it would be hardly right to ask the jury to decide on the slender thread of evidence whether or not James Ward had come by the bonds rightfully after nearly forty years have elapsed since he came into possession of them.

He said that under the conditions only one course was open to him, so he denied the motion of the intervenors and granted that of the plaintiff for a directed verdict.

POPULAR RECIPE

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Stops Coughs Quickly.

Make a plain syrup by taking one pint of Granulated Sugar, add one-half pint of warm water and one-half ounces of pure Pinex in a pint bottle and fill it up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Keep well corked and it will never spoil.

The effectiveness of this simple homemade article is surprising. It usually stops a deep-seated cough in twenty-four hours. It is also excellent for colds, whooping coughs, pains in the chest, bronchial troubles and similar ailments.

Use the real Pinex in making it, however. It is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, and it is far superior to the numerous pine oil and pine tar preparations. If your druggist does not have it, he can get it for you without trouble.

The proportion above suggested makes a full pint of the best cold and cough remedy. The taste is so pleasant that children take it willingly. The total cost is about 54 cents.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR and we can

PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes: "As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

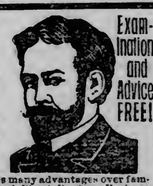

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

CONFERENCE WITH OWNERS

Canadian Northern Officials Feeling Pulse of West Duluth.

For the purpose of feeling the pulse of public sentiment at West Duluth in regard to the proposed entrance of the Canadian Northern road through the main residence section of West Duluth, representatives of the road held a joint conference with a committee of West Duluth business men last evening.

The meeting was held at the office of Dr. C. R. Keyes. W. D. Bailey, of the firm of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, which represents the road, was among those present. N. J. Upham, who has been buying options for the road, was also present.

From the West Duluth Commercial club there were W. B. Getchell, Judge J. B. Flack, C. C. Salter, J. J. Frey, J. A. Scott, David Sang, Andrew Miles, H. H. Phelps, J. Selcoe and Walter Evered. The railroad representatives presented their side of the case, stating that the route selected was the least expensive of those considered.

According to the present plans, the street cars at Fifty-seventh avenue west and at Grand avenue would be required to run under a trestle, and the street will have to be cut down as it is on Jenswold street. The tracks into West Duluth will be elevated, but wherever the track crosses the street there will have to be a cut made, because the elevation would not be high enough to accommodate ordinary traffic until Central avenue is reached.

At Forty-ninth avenue and Grand a detour will be made in the route and the tracks will follow the ravine to the foot of Ramsey street at the site of the National Iron works. It will run under the Forty-ninth avenue bridge at the foot of Ramsey street to the bay front, where it is planned to erect a big dock.

Many questions were asked the railroad representatives. When the inquiry was made as to why this route was chosen instead of the others, it was stated that it was the least expensive and the most convenient.

The object of the meeting was to arrive at some compromise, but no definite action was taken.

IS CRUSHED IN BOILER SHOP

Edward Wengelin Meets Instant Death While Working at Proctor.

Edward Wengelin, 22 years old, was instantly killed late yesterday at Proctor, when he was crushed under a heavy load of boiler plates at the Duluth, Missabe & Northern shops. He was employed as an assistant to a boilermaker.

The chains attached to a crane broke when an extra heavy load was placed on the crane. The heavy mass of iron had been lifted about six feet, and Wengelin was under it, directing the crane.

Without a second's warning the big chain gave way and the load of metal, weighing several thousand pounds, fell upon the shoulders of the young man. His body was badly crushed and death came instantly.

Wengelin had been employed but a short time in the boilermakers' shop. While in Proctor he stopped at the boarding house of E. Helgeson.

Prior to his coming to Proctor, Wengelin had worked for Olaf Anderson, a farmer residing near Adolph. He had also been employed at various times before on farms near Hermantown and Midway. His parents and a brother, John, reside at Herman, Minn.

Wengelin is also thought to have a sister residing at Donnelly, Minn., as an unmailed postcard bearing her name and address was found in his pocket. The body was brought to Duluth to the undertaking parlors of C. J. Stewart. Funeral arrangements are pendig.

The accident happened about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No inquest was held by Coroner McCuen, who was notified.

FEDERAL OFFICERS ARE SEEKING THEIR FREEDOM

Arrested for Destroying Liquor on an Indian Reservation.

Interesting Case Is Now on Trial Before Judge Morris.

Is territory set aside for the Indians always Indian territory, or does the settlement of it by white men and the possession of it by white men waive the Indian claim, and are the white men entitled to all the privileges enjoyed by people living in other parts of the state?

Is a federal officer who is doing his duty under the United States law subject to the order of state officials?

These are the principal points that will be brought out in the case now on before Judge Morris of the federal court. The county of Mahnomen seeks to have William E. Johnson, special United States officer, appointed by the secretary of the interior, punished for the destruction of property and liquor in the village of Mahnomen.

Nine deputies appointed by Mr. Johnson and acting under his orders, are also under arrest and in attendance at the trial.

C. C. Cooper, acting county attorney for Mahnomen county; Andrew Engeset of the village of Mahnomen, and Senator F. H. Peterson of Moorhead represent the county, and C. C. Haupt and his assistant, E. S. Oakley, seek to have the men released.

The Government's Case.

In opening the case Mr. Oakley explained briefly the conditions. He said that the territory was undoubtedly an Indian territory under an act of congress. He read the law in regard to the selling or giving away liquor in Indian territories, and also read from the statute the duties of a federal officer. An officer of the United States under the law, he claimed, has a right to destroy all intoxicating liquors wherever found in a territory of this kind. He claimed that the officers were doing their duty and moved that they be dismissed.

C. C. Cooper for the county will contend that the territory while once an Indian territory, and while never officially recognized as anything else, is really by right of time and settlement by whites, a part of the state of Minnesota and the people of that section have the same rights as people residing in other parts. One of the rights of a citizen, he will contend, is to drink whisky.

He claims that the land is no longer occupied by Indians—that they have sold most all of their holdings, and that white people control the whole territory. He says that there are but few Indians there. What there are have been made citizens of the United States, and as citizens have a right to enjoy the privileges of other sections.

The United States officers were arrested by state officers, on complaint of Mahnomen saloon keepers, whose places were wrecked.

The men who are under arrest are in charge of Sheriff Orin Daniels of Polk county. They were confined in the county jail for safe keeping, being sent from Mahnomen county. Sheriff Daniels had no part in their arrest, simply acting for Mahnomen county.

The deputies under arrest are Harry Schoenrock, Joseph Winters, Elwin Sutton, Bert Sutton, Arthur E. Rydell, Sigbert Kvam, Gus Moberg, Rufus B. Hierr and Robert Belland.

SLAUGHTERED TO MAKE A METHODIST HOLIDAY

It was with sadness of spirit and moistening eyes that Theodore Hollister, attorney and chicken fancier, wended his way to his chicken coop early this morning.

It was a mission of parting, a saying of good-by, that brought Mr. Hollister to his chicken coop on such a cold and chilly morning. The last sad rites were soon to be performed over many of the chicks that Mr. Hollister had known since earliest infancy.

It was in this spirit of sad reverie that Mr. Hollister hied himself to the coops.

This evening the Ladies' Aid society is going to give a dinner at Lester Park, not out on the brink of the stream, or in the sylvan woods, for that would be quite unheard of in this kind of weather, but the feast of reason and chicken is to be given in the Lester Park Methodist church.

Mr. Hollister has promised to supply the chickens for the dinner. Perhaps fifty innocent and tender chickens will be sacrificed for the cause of the society. Perhaps there will be more chickens boiled, fried or roasted for the cause. There were enough chickens called to the shuffle act to make Mr. Hollister falter outside the family coop.

But he had promised, and he must go through with the promise. "Bill Taft," "Teddy Roosevelt," and "Charley Fairbanks," the latter a cold and offish sort of a rooster, were sacrificed for the cause. Of course Roosevelt and Fairbanks are sort of out of it at the present writing, and one would have wondered at the sacrifice of namesakes of the two once active political workers and coop furnishers. But why kill "Bill Taft?"

But when there are fifty or more to be sent to the big kettle, there is not much choice. It is a survival of the fittest. At least, that is what many people believe who buy chickens at the meat markets, believe.

So really Mr. Hollister had little choice in the matter. Old friends as well as new had to go. Little will the good ladies and gentlemen, who sit around the dinner board this evening, wot of the pain of the parting.

TO DOUBLE HOLDINGS

Penn Mutual Officers Delighted With Duluth As Investment Field.

Investment holdings of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia will be increased from $500,000, the present value of the investments of the company in this city, to $1,000,000.

The action will be the result of the inspection of the officials of the company today of real estate holdings in Duluth, and the progress the city has achieved since the original investments of the company were made here.

President George K. Johnson informed John A. Stephenson, Duluth agent of the company, that Duluth had come into its own, as a progressive, growing city, and that he and the other officials of the company were very favorably surprised.

"Duluth is a very rapidly growing city," said President Johnson, "and what we have seen of it brings us to the belief that there is a great and increasing future here for investors. We have been so impressed with the progress of Duluth, that we have decided to increase our investment holdings here. I am of the opinion that Duluth has reached the stage where its future progress will be very sure and steady."

This morning the officials of the company were shown over the city in automobiles. This afternoon some more of the property of the city will be shown to the insurance men, and it is possible that Superior will be visited, as the Penn officials are contemplating some investments there.

Besides President Johnson, the following officials are in the party: James Butterworth and C. S. W. Packard, trustees and members of the finance committee; Robert C. Drayton, financial vice president; John Humphries, secretary and treasurer; Henry C. Lippincott, manager of agencies; Samuel B. Stinnson, trustee and member of the agency committee; Roland G. Holt, Western financial manager.

The officials came here in a private car. They are making their annual tour of the cities of the country, where they have investments. They will leave tonight, their car being attached to the late Northern Pacific train.

H. I. Pineo and Mr. Stephenson, representatives of the company in Duluth, entertained the officials at lunch today.

VERDICT FOR WORKMAN

Jury Awards Fred A. Clark $1,375 Damages for Injuries.

After a comparatively brief consideration of the evidence this morning, a jury in district court determined that Fred O. Clark is entitled to $1,375 for injuries sustained by him in the boiler explosion on the Wisconsin Central right-of-way in South Superior, Nov. 7, of last year.

Clark was one of a number of men injured by the explosion of the boiler while they were gathered around it during the noon hour. He claimed that his eyesight was injured and he was otherwise disabled so that he has not been able to work since. He sued for $2,500.

Before Judge Hughes, the suit of Thomas Purcell growing out of the same explosion is now on trial. Purcell claims that he was severely injured, as his hearing is defective and he is still unable to work as a result of the accident. He wants $10,000.

Judge Dibell this morning directed a verdict in favor of the defendant in the suit brought by P. M. Cadot against J. A. Robert. Mr. Cadot sued for $2,000 damages on account of the failure of Mr. Robert to execute a contract giving Cadot the subcontract for the heating, plumbing and ventilating in the new C. C. Salter school, for which Mr. Robert had the general contract.

The suit of Austin J. Meagher against M. N. Triplett of Floodwood for personal injuries claimed to have been inflicted in an alleged assault on Mr. Meagher by Mr. Triplett will probably be called for trial this afternoon. It was tried once before and a new trial granted.

MILWAUKEE BUYS 200 NEW CARS.

C. L. Kennedy, commercial agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, returned this morning from Chicago. While there Mr. Kennedy learned that over 200 steel passenger and dining cars had been purchased for the Pacific coast service of the road.

The Milwaukee officials report that business is good all over the line. The through freight record from Detroit to Seattle was recently broken by the Milwaukee. The record was set at nine days.

Mr. Kennedy brings the information to Duluth that George B. French, formerly representative of the Milwaukee at Chicago, has been made president of the Spokane, Seattle & Portland railway, the line that at the present time runs from Portland to Spokane, and will in the future be built through to Seattle.

Mr. French is well known to Duluth railroad men, having been in this city a number of times.

OHIO LABOR UNION SPLITS

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 14.—By a vote of 198 to 158, the Ohio Federation of Labor today seated the contested delegates. One hundred delegates, representing fifteen organizations, immediately withdrew in a turmoil and called a rival convention this afternoon.

That the seating of delegates from organizations under the ban of the American Federation of Labor has created a crucial situation and involves a principle of great importance to national union labor, was declared by both sides today.

The fight here is regarded as a preliminary to a sharper conflict in the American Federation of Labor convention at Toronto next month.

Generul Split Predicted.

Assertions that national labor officials are building up an aristocracy of labor and are growing away from the sentiment of the rank and file; that the action of the national council of the American Federation of Labor in respect to the seceding factions of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is being protested against from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and that the present policy will split up the labor movement, featured in the controversy over the seating of the contested delegates.

The report was current that H. Grant Hamilton, a national organizer, was armed with authority to revoke immediately the charter of the Ohio Federation and organize a new state body on the spot, if the delegates were seated.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally, in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

STATE FAIR IS A MONEY MAKER

Cash Receipts This Year Considerably in Excess of 1908.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first meeting of the board of managers of the state fair since this year's fair, held yesterday, was dominated by a serious vein despite the splendid showing made by E. L. Mattson that the cash receipts were over $21,000 in excess of those of 1908. The deaths of Governor John A. Johnson and Dean W. M. Liggitt, for years a member of the board, accounted for the serious note that prevailed. The passing and the worth of both were recognized by fitting resolutions.

According to the preliminary statement made by Secretary C. N. Cosgrove there is now on hand, after paying all bills, some $35,000, which amount will be further reduced by $15,000 when the new grandstand and exposition building is finished next spring. The net profits of the 1909 fair, based upon the gross receipts of $271,000, will be about $10,000 more than the net profits in 1908, which were $80,000. This showing is all the more gratifying in view of the fact that expenses for the 1909 fair were unusually heavy, including $4,128 more premiums than ever before paid.

WILL HURT BUSINESS.

For That Reason National Bottlers' Association Opposes Prohibition.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 14.—After electing officers and naming Philadelphia as the next convention city, the twenty-first annual convention of the American Bottlers' Protective association came to an end yesterday afternoon.

The convention went on record as opposed to prohibition on the ground that it had a tendency to hurt the carbonated beverage business and the delegates decided to co-operate with those who are opposed to prohibition laws.

The use of caffeine, cocaine and akaloid drugs in compounding some beverages was unanimously condemned.

Frank P. Carr was elected to succeed himself as president. Minnesota was honored by the election of A. W. Drewry of St. Paul as third vice president. The other officers elected are: George Lomax, Chicago, first vice president; George W. Becker, Cairo, Ill., second vice president; A. W. Drewry, St. Paul, third vice president; A. V. Romei, Newark, N. J., treasurer. The complexion of the executive committee assures the appointmnt of R. F. Schroeder as secretary.

WHITLA KIDNAPING CASE IS BEING TRIED

Boston, Oit. 14.—James P. Whitla of Sharon Pa., whose son, Willie was the victim of a sensational kidnaping last March, was a witness before the United States district court yesterday at the trial of Ernest H. Martin of Boston, who is charged with sending a letter to Mr. Whitla demanding $10,000 under a threat to kidnap his son.

Mr. Whitla identified the letter he had received, which was signed "The Black Hand Society," and which directed that the money be sent to "Arthur Howard Brown, Station A, Boston," and also a decoy letter he sent to the address given. Martin was arrested when he received the decoy letter at Station A postoffice, Boston.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14.—What is probably the largest award in the circuit court in a personal injury suit on a charge of assault and battery was made by a jury Tuesday in the court presided over by Judge O. T. Williams.

The award was for $2,982 damages against John Cybelski, accused of striking Mary Picarski with a whip. In the municipal court, Cybelski was fined $50 and costs about a year ago. The jury divided the damages into $500 punitory and $2,482 compensatory.

WATER BOARD LACKS MONEY

Has Not Funds to Extend Mains to Spirit Lake.

Because the city water and light department has not the necessary funds to defray the costs, the water mains will not be extended to the steel plant site at Spirit lake this year.

The expenses of the department have been heavy during the last few months and there is no money available at the present time for the extension.

One member of the water and light board has said that the only way the work can be done this year is for people interested in having it accomplished to advance the money to the department, to be returned them later, or have the voters authorize a bond issue.

Free If It Fails

Your Money Back if You Are Not Satisfied With the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics, as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents. Sold in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway.

RETURNS AFTER YEARS.

Missing St. Cloud Boy Comes Home After Seventeen Years.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was a happy reunion Monday at the home of Mrs. Laura E. Curtis in this city, when her son, Fred, returned home after an absence of seventeen years.

Curtis left home seventeen years ago to attend the Owatonna state school and all track was lost of him. About a month ago he began to correspond with his sister at Willmar and has been writing to her regularly since. When he arrived Monday evening he did not disclose his identity and pretended to be an entire stranger looking for work. His mother told him that she had no work for him but gave him his supper.

After supper, Mrs. C. K. Robinson, the sister with whom Curtis had been corresponding, introduced the stranger to his mother. It is unnecessary to say that Mrs. Curtis was delightfully surprised to see her son.

BUILDING CUYUNA ROAD.

Much Dirt Moved on New Enterprise During Past Month.

Aitkn, Mnn., Oct. 14.—Special to The Herald.) — Engineer Huss, in charge of the Cuyuna railway construction, returned Monday from a few days in the Twin Cities.

During the past month 400,000 yards of dirt have been moved on the line and the sink hole at Rice river and one at Dam lake brook have been filled. The survey has been located on the west end from Cuyuna on west and south to the new townsite of Crosby and to the iron deposits in Section 11. The steel crew, since laying five tracks in the Moose Lake yards, has been coming this way slowly, but the crew is being enlarged and better progress is expected from now on.

Over on the Soo line between Lawler and McGregor a big sink hole has developed, and it is estimated that it will take 75,000 yards of dirt to fill it. This, however, has nothing to do with the Aitkin line, being west of the junction.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

We all have sufficient strength to endure the misfortunes of others.

—La Rochefoucauld.

DULUTH'S FUTURE IS ASSURED.

Big as it is, the construction of the new steel plant of the United States Steel corporation in Duluth is in itself a lesser part of the big future now opening before Duluth.

It will employ several thousands of men, well paid men who are home-owners and will buy of Duluth merchants and patronize Duluth enterprises of all kinds, and it will add four or five times that many people to the population of Duluth, for these workers will bring families with them. The movement of steel manufacture is toward the West, where the ore is and where the market is, and this plant fixes upon Duluth as one of the largest centers of coming steel manufacture. But even considering all these tremendous facts, the steel plant in itself is still a lesser part of the mighty events, carrying promise to Duluth, now maturing in the womb of progress.

In other words, the indirect effects of the steel plant will be as great as the direct effects, or perhaps even greater.

Because steel manufacturing seemed centered in Pennsylvania, the railroads have treated it as a fixed industry, and made their rates accordingly. Thus it costs just as much to ship manufactured products from Duluth or Minneapolis to the Far West as it does from Pittsburg. Pittsburg's disadvantage in distance is overcome by arbitrary railroad tariffs. This is the so-called "postage stamp" rate. It will, by the force of events and by the growth of traffic, automatically disappear with the beginning of operations at the steel plant. Freight rates will be rearranged to give Duluth the advantage to which it is entitled by virtue of its nearness to the markets.

That in itself is as big a thing as a new steel plant. Why should manufacturers abandon established plants in the East and move to Duluth when freight rates are the same from their old locations as they would be from the new? It is true that Duluth is nearer the markets, but when freight rates are the same from distant points as they are from near ones, that advantage of nearness is destroyed. It will be restored when the traffic from the new steel plant seeks the market, and that change is pregnant with big possibilities for Duluth.

Another indirect effect of the steel plant location is that it will bring other plants. Around the big new steel plant at Gary many allied manufacturing industries have been located; and many allied manufacturing industries will locate around the new steel plant at Duluth. Indeed, announcement of such locations may be expected at almost any time, now that the definite statement of steel plant plans has been made public. And if various iron and steel industries locate at Duluth, to take advantage of Duluth's nearness to the market, other manufacturing industries will also locate here for the same reason, and also to take advantage of the market that will be created right here in Duluth by the sudden increase in population created by the steel industries.

These things, it should be remembered, are not to be taken in place of the splendid campaign for making Duluth bigger, better and busier that have just been started. They are merely a great encouragement to those working upon those plans; they furnish new reasons why those plans should be pushed, and should have the support of every citizen. Better railroad service and rates are still needed, and they will be easier to get, for the railroads cannot ignore a city whose future possibilities are so evident. Cheaper cost of living is even more essential than it was before. Patronizing home industries also is more essential, in order to give encouragement to those who may think of locating here because of the market offered here for their products.

A PATRIOT'S BLOOD REVOLUTION'S FUEL.

For the crime of spreading education among the Spanish masses whose ignorance is their bond to tyranny, Francisco Ferrer, one of Europe's greatest educators, yesterday was placed, blindfolded, against a blank wall in a Spanish prison, and shot to death. For opening the vision of a benighted people to the glories of liberty, he was officially murdered in cold blood.

Fire has lost its power and tinder its inflammability, if that event doesn't make history in Spain.

"PARTY SOLIDARITY" AND PATRIOTISM.

President Taft's idea of party government is that the rank and file should take its directions from the party leaders, unquestioningly, unthinkingly, caring nothing for causes and reasons, placing blind confidence in those leaders no matter how much appearances may be against them, and shutting their eyes to the voices of reason and conscience.

That is the only construction that can be placed upon his utterances about "party solidarity," a large, mouth-filling and high-sounding phrase which the president has apparently made the slogan of his administration just at a time when party solidarity means very much less to the average voter than do practical results for himself and his country.

And who are the leaders of the Republican party? The president is not one of them; he is a follower, accepting with humility the orders of the organization and praising its wisdom and patriotism no matter how grievously it offends. Roosevelt is no longer one of them; he is in Africa, and most of the principles upon which he swept the country and earned the loyal support of the citizenship regardless of politics might as well be there too, for all the effect they are having upon the actions of the government; certainly they are no longer in Washington.

Who, then, are the leaders of the Republican party? Aldrich is one—the one, in fact. He is not only the leader of the Republican party, but by virtue of the acquiescence of the president he is the Boss of the Republic. Aldrich represents Special Privilege; he never had a thought for the needs of the plain people in his life. His great power is used to exploit the many for the benefit of a few. Having "fixed" the tariff to suit the wishes of the System, to enable it to tax the people for the personal benefit of its members, he is now proceeding to devise a currency system that will keep the people's savings in one spot, where they will be handy for the System to use in further exploiting the people. This is the real leader of the Republican party, from whom the rank and file is to take its orders, and these are his principles.

Cannon is a leader, too; this man who has turned the greatest popular legislative body on earth into an abject machine which moves with agility when he wishes it to move, and which stops dead when he wishes it to stop. His last election to the speakership would never have come about but for the intervention of the president in his behalf. It is from this man, too, that the party rank and file is to take its orders; from Aldrich and Cannon and Crane and Lodge and Hale and Gallinger and Smoot: these are the leaders, and the president thinks the party rank and file should humbly accept their orders in the name of "party solidarity."

A party with such leaders, governed upon such principles, is not fitted to a republic. Parties in a republic should be republican in form, not autocratic and imperialistic. They should be guided by the sound sense of their members, not by the corrupt dictation of those in authority; party direction should come from the rank and file and be obeyed by the "leaders," who should not be leaders but party servants, receiving and not giving party orders. To believe that such a system as the president advocates can endure is to lose faith in the stability of free government.

MINISTER CRANE'S BRIEF TENURE.

A student of Oriental affairs, a man of great business acumen, it seemed when Charles R. Crane was selected as minister to China that just the right man had been picked. And now, just as he was on his way to the coast to set sail for his important mission, Mr. Crane is recalled and his resignation demanded. Secretary Knox says it is because he gave out to a newspaper state secrets the disclosure of which is exceedingly embarrassing. It is evident from Mr. Crane's reply that there are two sides to the story. Men of business, such as he has shown himself to be, don't talk for publication unadvisedly. Mr. Crane insists that in talking as he did he was carrying out his understanding of the president's wishes. The error charged against him is so flagrant, so inconsistent with his reputation as a man of sense, that it is easy to believe that he was in good faith in his talk with the newspaper men and that he is now in good faith in his explanation. However that may be, great pity though it is, the situation is such that his retention is impossible. He must go, but it is to be hoped that he will go in a fairer light than that in which Secretary Knox has placed him.

A DANGEROUS PRECEDENT PREVENTED.

The government having sought to drag two Indianapolis newspaper publishers from their homes to the national capital, there to be tried on a charge of libel, Judge A. B. Anderson of the United States district court has put his foot down and held emphatically that this is not a proper thing to do, and that he will not permit it to be done.

It is difficult to see how this affair could have terminated otherwise before any judge possessed of the slight imagination and patriotism.

These two publishers, Delevan Smith and Charles R. Williams, charged in their newspaper, the excellent Indianapolis News, that there has been a corrupt profit in the sale of the Panama canal to the United States. As to the truth of the charges, that is another matter; The Herald is inclined to doubt it, though admitting that there were very peculiar circumstances in connection with the sale. But the truth of the charges is aside from the question, which is whether the government of a republic, affronted by irritating charges, has a right to drag citizens from their distant homes to the national capital to be tried among strangers and, perhaps, in an atmosphere hostile to them.

When it was announced that the government wanted to try these men in the District of Columbia The Herald denounced even the attempt as an outrage full of perilous precedent. It is very pleasant indeed to note that the judge who had first to pass upon the attempt had no hesitation whatever in balking it.

"That man has read the history of our institutions to little purpose," said Judge Anderson in dismissing the case, "who does not view with apprehension the success of such a proceeding as this, to the end that citizens could be dragged from their homes to the District of Columbia, the seat of government, for trial under the circumstances of this case. The defendants are discharged."

If this nation were ever menaced by an imperialistic government which sought to subvert its free institutions and to make the power of the presidency equivalent to that of a despot, the arrogant ruler who sought to turn the presidency into an autocracy would wish just such help as the success of this attempt to establish a precedent would have provided.

THE WAY TO SETTLE IT.

Peary's charges are getting tiresome. The thing to do is to submit the whole affair to a board of competent experts and let them decide. Judgment must depend, in the end, not on what Peary charges or what Cook denies, not on what a set of ignorant Eskimos tell one man or what they tell another, but on the calculations upon which these two men base their personal belief that they found the pole. These analyzed by experts will furnish some foundation for faith; criminations and recriminations are not only profitless, but disgusting and wearisome.

Duluth's work is cut out for her, and her people have the will and the energy to do it

WHEN BUYING, SAY "DULUTH."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Will you kindly allow me space for a suggestion in regard to the "patronize home industry" fcry, raised by The Herald? It is a good move. Nobody will deny that fact, or dispute the statement that it would be a good thing for the city if everybody bought home-made articles whenever possible. The success of such a move all depends on the manner in which it is taken up, and the merchants can help as much or more than anybody, by featuring Duluth-made goods. If some of them would put in window displays of Duluth-made merchandise, and push the sale of these goods, it would help more than anything that could be done. The average man is too busy or too careless to stop and think about it when he makes a purchase, and he takes the first thing offered to him in buying any small article. For instance, in cigars he generally has two or three brands that he smokes, and always asks for one of them, never trying any other kind. There are some excellent Duluth brands, and if the retail merchants just pushed them a little they might easily make many converts to Duluth-made cigars. It is the same in all lines and the merchants might do more than anybody else to boost this idea along. By the way, the Commercial club does not carry any Duluth-made cigars in its show case. It is probably an oversight on the part of the man who has charge of the buying, but it is one that should be corrected.

"When you are buying, say Duluth," might be a good motto for all purchasers.

A BOOSTER.

Duluth, Oct. 13.

GIVE US MORE LECTURES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The widespread interest that has been aroused in Duluth in the William Norman Guthrie lectures, seems to have fully justified bringing him here, and I trust that the effort made to give Duluth a new mental stimulus will not be abandoned.

Such lectures keep the city in touch with the best thought as books and periodicals cannot do. We have far too few of them, and it is to be hoped that the university extension work, or whatever it may be called, will be energetically pushed during the coming winter. I believe the daily papers can help greatly in this move, and I believe it is one that deserves their support. There is no attempt made to turn the lectures into a money-making scheme, and those who are doing the work are doing it unselfishly.

"MY POLICIES."

Waterloo, Iowa, Times-Tribune: While it is true that I have always advocated a general reduction of schedules, there are some that should be raised. I exhausted all of my own perusasive science in trying to get congress to come to my way of thinking, and the result has been approximately correct; so nearly correct, in fact, that it can be figured out to a gnat's heel, if you will but be patient and listen to me. For instance, hides went clear off the list; then gloves and hosiery went away up. But the average result is a reduction. Print paper was reduced some; and it may be reduced yet more—if Canadian manufacturers can see their way towards becoming benevolent in the matter, if not, I expect it will rise. Besides, we retain the tariff on Indian corn, of which we import such enormous quantities. Then we retain the tariff on diamonds and other things on which our workingmen have been spending such fabulous sums. I verily believe that, if the steel workers of Pennsylvania had not spent their substances in diamonds and other riotous living, there would not have been a man killed in the recent riots.

In this emergency, the duty of every Republican member of congress is clear. He should take the whole bait, because I did not say he should not; and for the further rason that the pie is worth a great deal to us who wish re-election. While I do not fully read out of the party those who voted against my expressed wishes, yet every fellow who did not vote for the bill cannot sit in the inner circle—holy of holies—and his share of the swag will be distinguished for its lonesome look, so you may easily distinguish between the pie and a good party man, and that of a progressive. I expect every Republican to be like me—all wool and a yard wide. Speaking of wool reminds me that the wool schedule is somewhat disappointing to me; because we shall not have enough to pull over the eyes of the dear voters in that strenuous time when we shall need something to scare them into voting for the sacred schedules prepared in the private offices of tariff beneficiaries.

If There is Anything Back of the Taft Smile, the News Will Reach It.

St. Paul Dispatch: The Duluth Herald notes with peculiar satisfaction the nomination of two prominent Republicans by the Democrats of Massachusetts, and takes it as evidence of a revolt by Republicans against the domination of the party organization which keeps Lodge and Crane in the senate to work for special privilege. The nomination of these men, Foss, the advocate of reciprocity, and Shepard, not so well known outside the state, may, no doubt, be taken as an indication that the Democrats are bidding for Republican votes and think they can get them, and what The Herald regards as so significant to Massachusetts it would have the president understand it is not peculiar to that state. It remarks:

"When the president sees these things, and when his clipping bureau supplies him with the press comments from all parts of the country on his old-fashioned party regularity in the face of party shame, he will be in a position to appreciate a famous incident from Carlyle's 'History of the French Revolution.' The sans-culottes having adorned the street lanterns of Paris with sundry friends of the special privilege of that day, and having proceeded to storm and carry the Bastile, somebody had to carry the news to the doomed and unhappy Louis who sat upon the tottering throne. Thus was it done:

"'Late at night the duke de Liancourt, having official right of entrance, gains access to the royal apartments; unfolds with earnest clearness, in his constitutional way, the news.

"'"Why," said poor Louis, "that is a revolt!"'

"'"Sire," said Liancourt, "it is not: revolt—it is a revolution."'"

But The Herald does not expect, does it, that if Aldrich or Tawney or anybody else should bring news of the real sentiment of the country to the president it would have the same effect upon him that Liancourt's message had on Louis? Louis didn't smile.

A Chilly Response.

Lincoln State Journal: President Taft's applause of Senator Aldrich has been received with marked coldness in the West, as was to have been expected. The really astonishing thing about the incident is the icy comment of the Providence Journal, published at the senator's home. The Journal says that "when Mr. Taft credits Mr. Aldrich with an earnest desire to aid the people he attributes to him a benevolence which even the people of his own state have not known him to possess. And the deep suspicion of which Mr. Taft complains is the natural consequence of the senator's public career." The people of the West wish to be open-minded on all public questions. They will listen when the president in whom they have confidence says a word for Senator Aldrich, but they are not disloyal or hostile when they follow the recommendation of the president with the suggestion that they live near Missouri. They must have some reasonably clear proofs if they are to reverse their judgment. And this word direct from Rhode Island will hardly help them to do so.

THE WEATHER.

Storm warnings were hoisted this morning by the weather man, after his regular forecast for the morning had been issued. Brisk winds from the northwest are expected again, and there will probably be snow flurries tonight and tomorrow.

A year ago today it was fair and warm.

The sun rose this morning at 6:25 and will set at 5:23, making ten hours and fifty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The lake region storm continues about stationary, the center still overlying Lake Superior. During the past twenty-four hours this disturbance caused further rain or snow in the lake region, the Ohio and Missouri valleys, Tennessee, and the Carolinas, and brisk westerly winds in the lake region. Temperatures have risen decidedly throughout the Missouri valley, the Northwest, and Eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains. The Alberta low pressure has disappeared, the dominating feature in the West being an area of high pressure that covers north Pacific districts."

The Vanity of Riches.

Since pa became a millionaire ma hasn't been at home at all;
Last winter she was in the South—
she's goin' to Japan this fall;
She went to Europe in the spring and spent the summer over there;
She says next year she's goin' back—
she's never happy anywhere.

I have to stay at home because I need to go to school, you know;
It's often lonesome, and I wish ma wouldn't care to travel so;
She says next year she's goin' down to Porto Rico and Brazil,
And when that trip is done I s'pose she'll want to keep on goin' still.

Pa doesn't seem to mind a bit; he's got a girl stenographer
That's young and beautiful, and when
Miss goes he goes him I see her;
She sits beside him at his desk, and,
somehow, when ma starts away,
He doesn't seem to kick at all or care
how long she wants to stay.

I wish that things were different and we'd get poor again somehow,
I used to go to public school, but, gee,
they wouldn't let me now;
I'd rather have the little flat that we were happy in before,
With ma to cook the meals herself and pa to eat at home once more.

The Johnson Memorial.

Helena, Mont. Independent: As Governor John A. Johnson lived so he is to be remembered. A popular subscription fund for a Johnson monument at the state capital, to which no one may contribute more than a $1, is being circulated by the newspapers of Minnesota. Already more than $5,000 is in the hands of the treasurer. As a large part of this amount came from subscribers who, with their meagre earnings, were able to give only a few cents, it is apparent that many more thousands of admirers than there are dollars in the fund gave their pittance to show their love for the great man who was their friend. To no other son of Minnesota has such an honor fallen. The movement for a Johnson memorial seemed to have had spontaneous origin. From all over the state came the desire to perpetuate by public co-operation the memory of Minnesota's beloved governor.

Another move that is meeting with strong public favor in Minnesota is one for an annual Johnson day. It is proposed to create a holiday in honor of the memory of Governor Johnson, and this action is being urged generally throughout the state. Its object will be the arousing and calling to memory of this and future generations the accomplishments of a poor boy with the right spirit. And there will then be no opportunity for any generation to forget the example set by a great and honest man.

As Governor Johnson was idolized by his fellow citizens in life, so is his memory cherished, and no greater tribute could be paid than the public-spirited movements for a monument and an annual holiday.

Autumn.

Nature hath trimmed her autumn gown
In colors most gorgeous, yellow and brown;
A touch of silver here and there
Interwoven with delicate care;
The sumach with its brilliant red,
The dainty blue of the sky o'erhead;
Old Sol's smile lights up the place
And trims this gown with a rare old lace,
Made from the shadow of the fluttering leaves,
Such as no human hand e'er weaves.

Prince Winter in search of a bride goes forth
On his gallant steed, The-wind-of-the-north,
Through mountains and glens comes rushing down
And woos and wins and places his crown
On Nature's head, and around her winds
A robe of crystal, and soon he finds
Old Sol's smile lights up the place
And trims this robe with a rare old lace
Made from the sparkle of the glittering flakes,
Such as no human hand e'er makes.

TAFT IN MINNESOTA.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: The Ore has offered Mr. Taft's Winona speech in supplement form for free distribution with this newspaper, but is of the opinion that the less said about that speech the better it will be for all concerned. The Ore is not a Tawney adherent, is in favor of tariff revision downward, and is with the insurgent members of congress in the fight against Cannon and Aldrich and the other drivers that have too long run the affairs of this nation to suit themselves.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press (Rep.): President Taft is a tariff-downward-revisionist. Says he is anyway. But he doesn't want the schedules reduced to the point where foreign competition will come in. Just how he expects to force the trusts to reduce prices if competition does not come in is not clear

Fergus Falls Wheelock's Weekly: President Taft failed to strike a popular chord in his Winona speech, and the editorial comment throughout the country shows a widespread feeling of disappointment over what he said. His leading point was that Mr. Tawney had done the best he could for the party, and was therefore entitled to great commendation. The obvious reply—which is being made in many quarters—is that the party is not the country, and that neither the congressman nor the president has done the best he could for the country. The people are more thoroughly aroused over the tariff question than they have been before since the days of Cleveland, when a cowardly Democratic majority in congress handled the subject in much the same unsatisfactory way the late Republican congress has done.

Fairmont Sentinel (Dem.): President Taft's defense of Tawney and Cannonism seems to have "queered" him with a majority of Minnesota's Republican papers.

Winona Independent (Dem.): Taft's principal political asset is his smile, and he is working that overtime. But even the smile is not going to induce the voters of this country to forget the Winona speech.

Owatonna Journal-Chronicle (Rep.): Time was when being "read out of the party" was a threat of terror to the average man. It was because the average man had an itch for office and was anxious at any cost to stand well with the powers that ruled in the party. The newer a popular government the more general is the itch for office, as is evidenced in Cuba. This country is getting older, however, and the glamor of office-holding has less and less attractions. Consequently the time is at hand when men, instead of being worried about their party standing, are taking a position of cool and manly independence, and the parties are worrying about getting the men. As a natural result a party must be controlled by the most intelligent, broad-minded and patriotic element in it, or it will fall to the ground for want of support. The people are getting wise to the fact that while our government will always be by party, no party has a monopoly of brains and patriotism, every party has its share of self-seeking schemers and the future of the nation depends upon no one political party. The voters are giving party success its true classification, of being an instrument or means to an end rather than the chief purpose of political effort, and are learning that the true end of political effort is good government.

Roseau Region (Rep.): President Taft is making laborous speeches on his trip which are creating no genuine enthusiasm. If the president reduced his speeches to four words, rose before his hearers and said: "Cannon must be fired," and then sat down and smiled benignantly upon his audience, the rest of the hour and a half he would arouse an outburst of enthusiasm that would make his Western trip a triumphant march.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: The trouble with good advice is that few of us recognize it when we hear it.

In life's melodrama the hero gets the applause but the villain cops the coin.

All men are born free and equal—and some remain in the bachelor class to the end.

Ever hear of a man getting rich by following the advice given in books on the subject?

Don't think that because a man is willing to lend you a helping hand he'll stand for a touch.

The bravery of some men is like that of bull dogs; they haven't sense enough to be afraid of anything.

Enthusiasm is something that causes a man to shout when he crowd is shouting, even if he doesn't know what it is about.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: A man could go to church much more regularly if it were through a side door.

Nearly every man can see all the beauty of married life till he gets into it.

The more a man could do for the public the more he would want the public to do for him.

When the average man doesn't make a show of himself in an argument, it's because nobody will give him the chance.

A man can get more excited over who discovered something that doesn't mean anything to anybody than over why he can't pay his own bills.

James J. Hill on His Own Death.

Wall Street Journal: James J. Hill is the joy of the reporter's heart. He is the best "copy" of any man in public life. He has always something to say which reads well, and it is none the worse for the fact that he sometimes says it with his tongue in his cheek. The New York American quotes him to the following effect:

"If I should die this second, the Great Northern railroad trains would run with the same regularity with which they are now running, the people along its lines would continue at their gainful occupations, the farms would go on producing, the mines giving up their riches, the forests contributing their accustomed share to the wealth of the land, the mills would not stop. In a word, my death would by no manner or means affect one way or the other the stability and progress of the country, or even a small portion of it."

There is just enough truth in the statement to warrant us in assuming that Mr. Hill is as modest as many great men, and therefore is apt to underrate his own value to the community, in his own heart he must know his statement would require serious qualification. His death might be followed by a regime of bad management which would undo a great deal of his good work.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: "I told them people I wuz wit Cook."

"And didn't it git youse a handout?"

"Naw! They're on the Peary side of the controversy. It's a hard world."

Chicago Tribune: "The ten commandments have never been repealed, so far as I know," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "but in these days, of course, you can't expect them to be enforced in communities where the public sentiment is against them."

Judge: Player (thinking of the hill and the woods beyond the pool)—I'm afraid this is where I'm going to lose my ball.

Caddie—No, sir; I'll wade in an' git it fer you.

Judge: Customer—Are those eggs any good?

Grocer—Can't beat 'em, sir.

Customer—My gracious! Are they as far gone as that?

Punch: Woman (to boy whom she has surprised under apple tree)—What are you doing in my orchard?

Boy—If you please, ma'am, I just came to see if you would lend me a few apples.

Judge: Mr. O'Rafferty (confined to his bed)—Och, Bridget, phwat did yez be afther wakin' me up for?

Mrs. O'Rafferty—An' didn't th' doc-thor tell me to give yez a shleepin' powder every two hours?

Chicago Daily News: Green—Poor Hilo is in hard luck. He has one arm in a sling, a black eye, two teeth missing, and a mortgage on his home.

Brown—You don't say! How long has he had the auto?

Philadelphia Ledger: "Are these all photographs of fellows you have been engaged to?"

"No. They're the fellows who didn't propose."

"What in the world do you want of them?"

"Why, I am saving them to make a rogues' gallery."

Meggendorfer Blaetter: Doctor—I advise you to go to Nest. It's a small place far away from anywhere. There your nerves will get better.

Patient—Oh, but, doctor, I've frocks as well as nerves.

Chicago Tribune: Head Waiter—What's the matter with that dyspeptic-looking old chap over there at the fourth table?

Assistant—He's got a grouch. He was getting all ready to make a kick about that cantaloupe, and he found it was a good one.

Washington Star: "So your husband promised you he would never play cards except for fun?"

"Yes," answered young Mrs. Torkins, doubtfully; "but he afterward explained that he didn't consider it any fun unless there was something in the way of money involved."

Life: Mother—You have one great fault, Emerson. You can't take "No" for an answer.

Boston Child—And yet it was that same trait in father which led you to marry him.

Two Tafts.

New York World: We learn from Mr. Taft's speech at Winona that "the Payne tariff bill is the best tariff bill that the Republican party has ever passed."

We learn also that the wool schedule "is too high" and that it "ought to have been reduced," but that a combination of the wool growers and wool manufacturers was "sufficiently strong to defeat any attempt to change the woolen tariff, and that had it been attempted it would have beaten the bill reported from either committee."

We learn also that through the tariff board the president expects to obtain data "upon which a new and proper revision of the tariff might be had," but that it will probably take the rest of this administration to accumulate such data.

We learn also that after the Payne tariff (which is "the best tariff bill that the Republican party has ever passed") has been in operation for two or three years "we can tell more accurately than we can today its effect upon the industries of the country and the necessity for any amendment in its provisions."

The average reader is likely to be hopelessly bewildered by the contradictions and conflicting statements of Mr. Taft's speech, but it must be remembered that there are two Tafts on the platform. One Taft is the Republican party's lawyer. He has a bad case and a sinful old client who has been caught with the goods more times than can be enumerated. The other Taft is a straightforward, honest-minded statesman who is trying to do his best and is having a great deal of trouble with some of his associates. When both of these Tafts talk at once there is bound to be confusion.

Well Meant, But Not Well Put.

New York Tribune: Thomas Nelson Page, in the smoking room of the Amerika, criticised trenchantly the work of a popular novelist.

"This man," declared Mr. Page, "has no idea of precision. He doesn't say what he means; he circles about his meaning, about and about it, never once hitting it off.

"He is like a young soldier in the Philippines whom a nurse told me about. She nursed the lad through a fever. On his recovery he thanked her like this:

"'Thank you very much, ma'am, fer yer kindness. I sha'n't never forgit it. If ever there was a fallen angel, you're one.'"

Life on Governor Johnson.

Life: Governor Johnson was one of the most likable men that have been in American politics in this generation. In his personal character he was admirable; a very attractive example of simple manhood. His nature seemed as sweet as Lincoln's, and he was disciplined and developed in a hard school of early poverty and struggle, not unlike that of which Lincoln was a product. His death is universally lamented. He had no enemies. The story of his gallant life made friends for him wherever it was told, and he added to their number wherever he appeared.

COMMON INTERESTS

Between Sexes Object of Suffrage, Says Mrs. Mackay.

Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, having been asked to define the purposes and position of the Equal Franchise society, of which she is president, has given out the following statement for publication.

"The purpose of the Equal Franchise society is to promote the welfare of women by securing the nation, state and local electoral franchise for women, because the Equal Franchise society believes in the political and civil equality of men and women. The electorate should represent the whole nation, and a system of government under which one-half of the nation are disfranchised is not a truly representative national system.

"We are inviting people to become members of our society in order to contribute to the advancement of public education by the promotion of our cause. We feel that in order to secure the enfranchisement of women it is not necessary for us to imitate methods which are being used in other countries.

"American manhood has always treated American womanhood in such a way as to make us feel that we shall ultimately achieve our aim without sensationalism. I will not indorse the militant methods. It has been repeatedly said to me by men in public life and men in private life, that when the women of the United States unite in demanding the vote, they will get it, and I think that is perfectly true, and that therefore, what is needed to further the suffrage cause, is to give all sorts and kinds of women the opportunity of listening to speakers who will explain just what the suffrage will mean to us all.

"Most of the men I have met are apparently willing to co-operate with us, and have listened to what we have said with courtesy and consideration. It has not seemed necessary in the past, and I do not think it will be necessary in the future for us to go out to the street corners and shriek our propaganda at the passerby. We have but to plead our cause without raising our voice to those men and women who are not with us.

"We can always assume that they are not willfully ignorant of what woman suffrage should mean. We want them to appreciate the fact that throughout this country the strongest suffragists are those women who devote their best energies to the developing of their children in order to make them citizens worthy of our great country.

"We do not think that, as an organization, we have a right to demand an expression of opinion from the candidates in this coming election. We prefer to leave politics alone until our sex is sharing the responsibility with the other sex. I feel that the main reason for suffrage is community of interest between the sexes. It is not in any sense a fight for right, but the logical evolution of justice. The equal franchise surely wishes to establish a platform upon which such speakers as Bishop McVicar of Rhode Island, Everett Colby and perhaps Martin W. Littleton will express their belief in suffrage, and for that reason we have leased the Garden theater and arranged our course. We wish to enlist that part of the community, regardless of sex or creed, who will co-operate with us because of their loyalty to their country.

"Among the most recent additions to our membership are such women as Mrs. William Schieffelin, Mrs. Milton Barger, Mrs. Rudolph Schirmer, Mrs. Archibald Alexander, Mrs. Everett Colby, Mrs. Richard Stevens, Mrs. Walter Marnard, Miss Spence, Mrs. Paul Morton, Miss Elizabeth Burchenal, Miss Dorothy Whitley and many others, as can be seen on our list."

ANNUAL OUTING

Of Minnesota D. A. R. at Minneapolis.

The annual meeting of the Minnesota Daughters of the American Revolution will be held at Minneapolis, Wednesday, Oct. 27, at the Andrews Presbyterian church. The local Greysolon duLhut chapter will be represented by the regent, Mrs. W. H. Burris, and Mrs. George M. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Harbison and Mrs. Frank DeVey.

The first meeting of the year of the Greysolon chapter will be held Tuesday of next week when the members will be the guests of Mrs. C. Keith of Princeton at a luncheon at the Spalding. The regent, Mrs. W. H. Burris, will preside and the report of the historian, Mrs. George M. Smith will be presented.

The regular study for the year will be begun at the November meeting.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD.

Annual Roundup Will Be Held This Month.

With the coming of the first cold days the necessity for the work of the needlework guild is made more real to the many Duluth women who contribute to this world-wide charity. The sharpness of the first frost brings thoughts of the poor and unclothed and greater effort is made to make the offering as large and wide-reaching as possible.

The preliminary meeting of the officers and contributors of the local branch was held last week at the home of the honorary president, Mrs. A. M. Marshall, and the preparations are going quietly forward for the annual roundup, which will be held Tuesday, Oct. 26. The exhibit will be held the following day and the distribution of garments will take place as usual the third day.

The needlework guild is a charity started in England and it has since spread to almost every civilized part of the earth. The contribution of two new garments each year for charitable distribution is the only requirement for membership.

The Duluth winters are especially severe and the most effort is made to provide articles of wearing apparel for the less fortunate of the city. The contributions are distributed among the various charitable societies of the city and through them reach the needy ones.

The local president of the guild is Mrs. Morton Miller.

COLLEGE DAY

Is Observed at Western College For Women.

The Western College for Women celebrated on Oct. 12 its annual College day, which corresponds to Founders' day at other women's colleges. Many distinguished guests gathered to share the day's festivities with the students. The feature of the day was the address by Rev. Thomas Knox of Cincinnati. Mr. Knox took for his subject, "The Bible as Literature." The address was interesting and suggestive along many lines, and in particular his hearers were made to realize the important part which the imagination must take in the interpretation of Old Testament literature.

Misses Ella Johnson and Marjorie Armstrong of Duluth are enrolled at Western this year.

Luncheon at Club.

Mrs. J. B. Adams was hostess at luncheon yesterday at the Kitchi Gamni club, in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Raynolds, of Michigan. The table was beautiful in its appointments. Autumn flowers in the rich shades of yellow and brown, marigolds and zennas were the flowers used, with delicate ferns, and covers were laid for seventeen.

Children's Parties.

Miss Brunhilde Murphy was the guest of honor at a pretty children's party yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Julia Lenning at 1416 East First street. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed by the following guests:

The members of the Jenny Lind Sewing Society of St. John's church also entertained at a party in honor of the little girl who will leave this week with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Murphy, for the South. The party was given at the church parlors, and thirty guests were present.

Farewell Party.

Mrs. J. L. Murphy was the guest of honor at a farewell party yesterday afternoon at the parlors of St. John's English Lutheran church, at which the members of the ladies' aid society of the church were hostesses. Rev. and Mrs. Murphy will leave Saturday for the South, after a five years' pastorate in this city. Mrs. Murphy was presented with a set of silver toilet articles. Nearly forty guests enjoyed the afternoon.

ROUSED BY EXECUTION

Mobs in Paris, Trieste and Rome Resent Death of Ferrer.

Strict Censorship Bars News of Developments in Spain.

Paris, Oct. 14.—A dispatch to the Havas News Agency from its correspondent at Barcelona states that a bomb explosion has occurred there. No details have been received.

Barcelona, Oct. 14.—Francisco Ferrer died with the cry "Long live the modern school," on his lips.

This and other details of yesterday's execution of the revoiutionist escaped the censorship today. Though he had refused their ministrations, two priests of the Order of Peace and Charity followed Ferrer to the death ditch, where he was shot, murmuring prayers for him.

To a request that his eyes should not be bandaged, Gen. Eserin replied:

"A traitor has no right to look upon the faces of soldiers."

Ferrer refused to kneel, and, standing erect as the rifles were turned upon him, exclaimed:

"Aim straight. Long live the modern school!"

Italy Is Aroused.

Rome, Oct. 14.—Indignation meetings are being held throughout Italy today in consequence of yesterday's events at Barcelona. In this city the protest against the execution of Ferrer has brought business almost to a standstill.

Workingmen generally have abandoned their employment. No street cars are being operated and cabs and automobiles remained at their stands. The whole normal life of the city is interrupted.

Among the masses the feeling grows more turbulent, as the people attribute the execution of the revolutionists to reactionism, Vatican influence and Jesuit support.

The Spanish and Austrian embassies and the Vatican are closely guarded by troops, and it is thought that the police and military measures adopted by the police and military authorities will prevent serious trouble.

Ten Thousand in Riot.

Paris, Oct. 14.—Ten Thousand men, headed by M. Jaures, the leader of the Socialists in the chamber of deputies, and M. Vallant, a Socialist deputy, last night marched to the Spanish embassy, where it was the intention to hold a demonstration in protest against the execution of Ferrer. The police surrounded the building, however, and repulsed the surging crowd after a sharp struggle. The procession then returned through the boulevards with shouts of "Down with Alfonso! Down with Maura!"

M. Lepine, the prefect of police, arriving at the head of reinforcements, was received with a volley of shots from the crowd. His escape from death or serious injury was by a narrow margin. The cavalry charged, using their sabres freely and stormed the barricade. The police arrested a dangerous Spanish anarchist, Emmanuel Dellatorro, who admits having fired at M. Lepine.

One Policeman Killed.

The police records show that one policeman was killed and seventy-six others wounded during last night's rioting. Among those arrested were five prominent anarchists. The press, with the exception of the royalist and clerical element, continues editorially to express indignation over the execution of Ferrer and to predict that grave events will follow in Spain.

The Socialists are planning further demonstrations throughout the country. During last night students in the Latin quarter burned King Alfonso in effigy.

Count De Castellane has advised Marquis Del Muni, the Spanish ambassador to France, to bring suit against the papers which have insulted King Alfonso.

Name Street for Ferrer.

The municipal council today decided to name a street in Paris after Ferrer, and to assume the expenses of educating two of his grandchildren.

The Spanish embassy here continues to be strongly guarded by the police. Marquis del Muni, the Spanish ambassador today sent his condolences to the family of the policeman who was killed during the rioting last night in front of the Spanish embassy.

The Temps today printed under reserve a report from its correspondent at Cerbere on the Franco-Spanish frontier to the effect that two Frenchmen were shot at the Montjuich fortress in Barcelona this morning.

The same paper's correspondent at Madrid says that the news of the Ferrer execution created a tremendous impression in the Spanish capital.

The government has taken extraordinary precautions and there have been no disorders. Troops surround the palace and public buildings.

Rigorous Censoring Done.

San Sebastian, Spain, Via Hendaye, France, Oct. 14.—The rigorous censorship prevents the transmission of news regarding the effect in the provinces of the execution of Ferrer. Only official reports of the court-martial and execution are allowed to be published here. Acts of reprisal against the clericals are anticipated. Great excitement is reported in the mining districts near Bilboa, where troops are concentrating to check possible disorders.

"Work of Justice."

Madrid, Oct. 14.—The Epoca, a government organ, today published the following comment on the execution of Ferrer:

"The work of justice has been accomplished. Ferrer was given every right in the matter of his defense and the laws of the country were scrupulously observed. We believe that he had been condemned by the consciences of the majority of Spaniards, including those who now profess to be horror-stricken."

Thousands at Meeting.

Trieste, Austria-Hungary, Oct. 14.—A great demonstration of protest against the execution yesterday at Barcelona of Prof. Ferrer was made here during the night. Thousands of persons gathered at a meeting which was addressed by a number of Democratic deputies. Following this the protestants marched through the streets, and all of the theaters and cafes were compelled to close.

Large bodies of workmen went out on strike in this city today, in sympathy with the demonstration, the employes of the dock yards being prominent in the movement. The streets this afternoon are filled with excited groups.

OWNERS ARE BACKWARD

Only Forty-Eight Licenses to Operate Automobiles Issued.

Majority Evidently Plan to Wait Until Next Spring.

City authorities and the police suspect that owners of automobiles will try to run until it freezes up without taking out licenses.

In this way they will have their certificates dated next spring and they will be good until the following spring. And the city will lose the use of the $1.25 which each of them is required to turn into the city coffers before the license is issued.

Up to date only forty-eight licenses, with about 300 machines in the city, have been taken out at the office of H. W. Cheadle, city clerk. Several of these are for members of the same household. Women's names are not lacking, most of those appearing being the wives of men who own buzz wagons.

The police department has been right on the job, however. The officers do not need a license to run a motor patrol under the state laws, but the statutes do not exempt them in the operation of their motor cycle. Chief Troyer, Detective Toewe and Officer Rothie took out licenses the first week, getting numbers 8, 9 and 10.

Nearly 150 applications have been turned in, but it appears that the applicants are not going to go any further. The police say that they intend to get busy, and it is likely that unless the owners and drivers of the horseless carriages do not comply with the new ordinance, they will find themselves in trouble.

Those who have taken out licenses thus far are:

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

James Cook, who claimed he walked all the way from Carlton to be locked up in the county jail for ten days in order to get over the delirium tremens, got fifteen days when he pleaded guilty to being drunk in police court this morning.

He came into the police station yesterday afternoon, shaking like a leaf and looking as though he had been on the road all summer without a change of clothes or a shave. He had an excuse for a coat, but his shirt was in rags, leaving his chest bare.

Cook had already been at the county jail nad was turned away. He declared that he has some brains and that when he straightens up he intends to earn a decent living.

Joe Jarmbo, the fighting sailor, arrested on the bowery yesterday afternoon, got off lightly in police court today. The man he assaulted did not show up and the court gave him $3 or three days. After Jarmbo got into the police station he started to clean up the prisoners there, ripping the overalls off one man and tearing the shirt from another.

Frank Colinski and Howard Lacey, arrested while sweeping wheat in the local railroad yards, were allowed their freedom when araigned in the police court this morning. They were only 17 years old, and it was their first offense. The court read them a lecture and warned them that if caught again they will not get off so easily.

Don't complain about cost of living. Barthe-Martin sell groceries at wholesale.

OBITUARY

Rev. P. Perulm, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., and for many years vice general to Bishop Cotter of Winona, Minn., died in St. Mary's hospital, Rochester, Minn., Wednesday, at the age of 88 years.

Maj. Gen. Alfred E. Bates, former paymaster general of the army, died in New York Oct. 13. Gen. Bates was stricken with apoplexy Sunday and never regained consciousness.

James V. Mahoney, former chairman of the Western trunk lines, died in Chicago Oct. 13. The cause was a complication of disorders, from which he had suffered some time.

Mrs. Nancy Hartsell, aged 93 mother of Dr. Joseph C. Hartsell, bishop of Africa for the Methodist church, died in Moline, Ill., Oct. 13. Her descendants include two great-grandchildren.

George A. Edes, veteran newspaper publisher and editor, died at his home in Oakland Cal., Wednesday night of cancer of the throat. He was 69 years old. Mr. Edes came of a family of editors. His great uncle was associated with Benjamin Franklin in the publication of the Boston News Letter. A first copy of that periodical, together with the printer's "stick" used by Franklin, forms one of the Edes family relics. Mr. Edes went to California in 1860. He was associated at different times with Horace Greeley, Mark Twain and other well-known men in the journalistic world.

ROLLER SKATING CARNIVAL TONIGHT

At Lincoln Park Auditorium, given by Adams Athletic Association. No children allowed on this night. Good music. Tickets, 25 cents, including skates.

HARD CASE FOR COURT

Accompanied by their mother, the three little children of Bruno Halicki faced the grist in police court this morning with uncomprehending faces while their father was arraigned on the charge of drunkenness.

The case was one of the hardest with which Judge Cutting has had to deal for many months. The mother declared that the prisoner turned over most of his earnings to her, but that he persisted in drinking and abusing her and the children. She didn't want to have him sent to the rock pile, but she wanted it impressed upon his mind that he must behave. The court and the police declared that sixty or ninety days in the county bastile would be the proper punishment for Halicki, but because of his family he was given another opportunity to reform.

This is not the first time Halicki has been in the tolls.

The man seems to have a deep love for his family, his affection and his craving for liquor waging a constant warfare. When he left the station this morning, with a little girl holding either hand, he was crying, but didn't say a word when Capt. Fiskett told him that he had reached the end of his rope and that no further mercy will be shown him if he is arrested again.

The children were well dressed and unusually intelligent. One of the men at the station gave each of them a penny and was rewarded by a polite "thank you" from all three.

"What are you going to do with your money?" one of the officers asked the boy.

"I'm going to give it to mamma, and not spend it for candy," was the unexpected answer.

Mrs. Halicki told the court that yesterday her husband threw shoes at the children and had threatened to kill her when she interfered. She declared that he had drawn a knife and that she was afraid that he might carry out his threat.

Halicki is a baker by trade.

Killed by Manure Spreader.

A Monarch Malleable Range Pays for Itself

YOU know how much fuel you have been using in the past and how much it has cost you per cord or per ton.

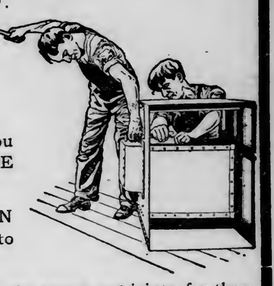

Well, with intelligent use a Monarch Range will do your work with just HALF this much fuel.

That's all the data you need! Figure out your saving!

Why, in the first few months it makes up the difference between the price of a Monarch and one of those cheap, WASTEFUL Ranges.

And before you know it the whole purchase price is refunded. YOUR RANGE HAS ACTUALLY PAID FOR ITSELF.

NOTE THIS "WITH INTELLIGENT USE A MONARCH RANGE WILL DO YOUR WORK WITH HALF THE FUEL REQUIRED BY AN ORDINARY RANGE."

To understand this thoroughly, the why and the wherefore, you should examine the construction of the MONARCH and COMPARE it with others.

You will find the MONARCH made of MALLEABLE IRON and heavy polished steel RIVETED together like a steam boiler to remain tight forever.

Ordinary "cast iron" Steel Ranges can't possibly stay tight in the seams and joints, for they are only bolted together and plastered up with STOVE PUTTY.

It is the AIR LEAKS into the flues and firebox when these seams open up that cause the EXTRAVAGANT use of fuel common to ALL Ordinary Steel Ranges.

As experienced and practical stove dealers we KNOW these things to be true.

We can CONVINCE YOU in ten minutes with a MONARCH Range before us. We can drive home the argument with the testimony of Monarch owners, perhaps your neighbors or friends who know by experience that our claims are based on FACTS.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CLUB PLANS FOR MEETS

Crookston Organization Is Making Ready for Coming Affairs.

Visit of Governor Eberhart Next Week Will Be Big Event.

Crookston, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Crookston is making elaborate preparations to entertain Governor Eberhart, when he visits the Polk county exposition here next week.

The board of directors of the Twenty-five Thousand Commercial club held an important meeting Monday evening and made arrangements for the visit of the governor, and preparations were also made to look after the two conventions which will convene in that city next month, the Red River Valley Dairymen's association and the Northwestern Minnesota Educational association.

The board appointed as an entertainment committee for the governor's visit President Misner, Senator A. D. Stephens, Mayor J. D. McPhee, J. W. Wheeler and J. P. Dotson. They will also make arrangements for whatever program is necessary outside of those already made by the fair management. There will probably be an informal reception in the evening at the Commercial club rooms at which citizens can meet the state's executive personally.

For Successful Exposition.

The fair management has spared nothing in making the preparations for the exposition, and it will undoubtedly be the best fair ever held in Polk county. The citizens all over the county are taking hold of the matter in the right spirit and are working to make it a huge success.

The appearance of Governor Eberhart is a great drawing card for the exposition, and a large number who formerly had no intentions of visiting the fair will avail themselves of this opportunity of meeting and hearing the state's chief executive.

The board also made preparations for the coming convention of dairymen on Nov. 3 and 4. It is believed that this convention will be one of the largest that the association has held in this section of the state, and it is the intention of the club to provide entertainment for the visitors which will make them remember the convention of 1909 for some time. The committee in charge of these arrangements consists of Secretary Brown, J. P. Botson and L. Ellington.

COMMEMORATE INDIAN FIGHT

Monument Unveiled Where Frontier Army Fought Sioux in '63.

Bismarck, N. D., Oct. 14.—Forty-six years ago Sept. 3, last, a battle was fought by the Sioux Indians and their allies against the little frontier army, commanded by Gen. Sully.

In that battle many brave men fell, and yesterday their memory was perpetuated by the unveiling of a monument at Whitestone, where the battle was fought. It was unveiled by a daughter of Col. Wilson of the Sixth Iowa volunteers.

After a lapse of nearly half a century, and when nearly all of those brave boys have answered the last roll call, they are coming into their own. Th shaft cost $3,000.

The place where the monument has been erected is one of nature's beauty spots. Looking off from the mound one can see hill after hill, stretching away like the waves of the sea. Only a few rods from the peak, where the bloodiest of the fighting occurred, is beautiful Whitestone lake, and near by is the rock formation, cropping out of the ground that gave the place its name.

At the dedication were Governor Burke of North Dakota, other prominent men of this state and Iowa, Nebraska and Minnesota, besides many of the survivors.

For this splendid memorial that was unveiled yesterday Col. Northrop, a Civil war veteran, deserves much credit. For over twenty years he has petitioned the government, worked with legislatures and corresponded with men of influence to bring about this cherished plan. Several years ago he succeeded in interesting Congressman T. F. Marshall, who succeeded in getting a grant of 640 acres of land, on which the fight occurred, from the government to the state of North Dakota.

Through the combined efforts of the members of the Whitestone battlefield commission—Theodore Northrop, E. R. Kennedy and H. F. Eaton—a bill was fought through the state legislature granting the commission the privilege of selling all but forty acres of this land, the money to be expended for the monument and to beautify the battlefield. Last August the land was sold; the battlefield neatly fenced, trees set out and the monument erected.

BOTH HOMESTEADERS.

John and Oscar Anderson Victims of Greenbush Fire.

Greenbush, Minn., Oct. 14.—The inquest held by the coroner into the deaths of the two men who perished in the burning of the Harth Rivery barn here developed that the men cremated were brothers, John and Oscar Anderson. They had had some dealings with Andrew Thompson the previous day, which explains the supposition that he was one of the dead men found in the ruins.

The Andersons were homesteaders at Saloma Siding, between Roseau and Warroad. They had been out on the flats thrashing and were on their way back to their homesteads for the winter. Both men were more or less intoxicated when they came to the barn to sleep at night, and it is thought that they themselves in some way caused the fire which burned the barn and fourteen horses and a cow and all the contents of the barn. Neither victim had a family.

To the Readers of The Herald

A Wonderful, Clean, Straight Talk on the Folly of Using Cathartics for Trying to Cure Constipation, and How to Stop it Absolutely Without Pills or Medicine.

For the Benefit of Our Readers, Prof. T. H. Midgley Gives Interesting Talk on How His Idea Has Worked Remarkable Results in Curing Constipation Without Medicine.

For the benefit of our readers we publish a timely and interesting talk by Prof. T. H. Midgley on a point which is most vital to every man, woman and child in this country—the way to stop the spreading danger of chronic constipation. All he says is true, and evidences of it are so many and varied, as seen in hundreds of letters from those who have done as he advocates, that we think it will be a public benefit to make them known. We recommend Prof. Midgley most earnestly to our readers:

24-Hour "Habit" All Important

"It is one of the simplest things in the world to cure even the worst case of chronic constipation, and yet nearly every other man and woman you meet is positively so stopped up that they are hardly able to think clearly. To get the "habit" every 24 hours regularly works wonders. By the "habit" I don't mean the cathartic habit, but I mean that "natural, easy move" that every one ought to have without needing to make a rush for the pill box every night.

Must Quit Pill Habit

"You young and middle-aged men and women who eat and drink everything you like, and you old men and women who are addicted to pill-eating to keep your overdue bowels going, you don't realize that there would not be one-hundredth part of the disease on earth today if your bowels were absolutely regular.

"You can shake your fist at almost any old disease known, if you've got the bowels that do business every 24 hours. This is plain talk, but every doctor will tell you the same thing, only he may be more particular in his language, but it won't have the impression on your mind.

"Now, you can't cure constipation with cathartics, and one of the reasons why there is much constipation today is because there are so many drugs, liquids and unnatural bowel movers guzzled and swallowed by so many thousands of people.

"It is true these cathartics sluice out the bowels clean, but they also sluice out that bowel-moving juice or secretion which Nature has put in every good bowel to make it work easy and right. When this natural "juice" in the bowel is washed out your bowels become mere dead-pipes. Then you get a bad case of constipation and pills are swallowed to do the moving. This goes on over and over again.

"Take it for granted now that you have got to quit taking pills and drugs, castor oil, cascara, jalap, gamboge and all other cathartics before you can ever hope to cure your constipation.

How You Can Stop Constipation Absolutely

"If you will do as I say you can get rid of your constipation right now and forget about it ever water. You will never realize, until you have tried it, how pleasant and delightful it is to have everyday-bowels, that you don't have to worry over.

"Your bowels will move themselves if you will just give them a start the 'Midgley way.' You will never realize how gratifying it is to have regular bowels, and how fine it feels to really live until you have tried it.

"I am willing to tell anyone, who will take the trouble to ask me, just exactly how to use this simple method, and to cure himself or herself right at home, so that it will no longer be necessary to dose with all kinds of harmful drugs and acids. I don't ask a cent for this information. I have published a book which contains this Midgley method in detail, and as it would be impossible to tell you in this brief space what it contains, I will send this book to any man or woman who is interested enough in a cure to send for it."

Gained 35 Pounds—Feel 20 Years Younger

Prof. T. H. Midgley, Dear Sir:—Perhaps you will remember you cured me of constipation over one year ago. I am still feeling fine, can eat anything, have good complexion, weigh 185 lbs. now—used to weigh 150 when I was constipated. I have a regular bowel movement every morning. I feel 20 years younger. I hope your treatment will cure others like it did me. Yours very truly, Henry Steinbeck. Chillicothe, Mo.

Here Is An Opportunity of a Life Time to Be Cured.

Here is the greatest opportunity to be cure of chronic constipation that you have ever had come to your notice.

You will be amazed to see the array of letters that are received daily by this benefactor of mankind who answers all letters sent to him and asks no charge for the advice which he freely gives. These leters are from worn-out, pill-ridden patients who have tried the "Midgley way" as a last desperate effort, and have been cured as easily as though they had but a mere cold.

For the benefit of our readers we have taken the trouble to pick out at random a few of these letters and publish them. For instance, Mrs. Morgan Parkhurst of Gerry, N. Y., suffered for 30 years and cured herself in 30 days so completely that she says:—"Two years ago I commenced with your treatment and am so glad I did and so thankful for what it has done for me. I have no trouble now; am better in every way."

Was Near Death.

Thos. Needham, 1528 S. 44th Ave., Chicago, says:—"I suffered from chronic constipation for 10 years. I tried every cathartic in the market in vain. Doctors could do nothing, and death seemed near. By following your advice I cured myself permanently in just one month."

Had Tried Every Kind of Medicine.

Miss Ella Cea of Boone, Ia., says:—"I had been a constant sufferer from that dread disease, constipation, all my life, and had tried every kind of medicine and consulted many different doctors, but none proved successful. At last I concluded to give Prof. Midgley's drugless treatment a trial. I did so and at the end of one month was entirely cured. My general health grew better and at present am in the best of health. Can say it is a wonderful cure and a help to anyone suffering as I was."

"You Simply Can't Cure Constipation With Pills, Powders or Potions." Force is Folly. I Tell You How to Cure Yourself at Home by The "Midgley Way" Without Medicine.

Suffered 30 Years.

J. F. Kilpatrick of White Plains, Ga., a man 55 years old who had been constipated for 30 years, after taking a single month's treatment, writes May 4, '09:—"I have not taken anything for my bowels since the first of Sept., 1908. My bowels are regular as the days come—the misery that I had in my bowels has stopped. I have a good appetite all the time; I don't feel tired like I used to; my head does not seem all out of fix now—I feel like a young man to what I did before you commenced instructing me. You may use my name in your advertisements, if it will do any good, for I feel that the people of America are injuring themselves taking drugs for their bowels."

Cathartics That Increase Constipation.

"Aloes, calomel, croton oil, cascara, sagrada, jalap, gamboge, blue mass, colocynth, assafoetida, senna, epsom salts laxative mineral waters, podophyllin, castor oil, nux vomica, hyoscyamus, belladonna and others which only physicians know about, cause reaction in the bowels, and result in chronic constipation."

"It is not necessary to depend on any one of these 'movers,' and just as sure as you do, you help to paralyze your own bowels. You can have them move every day regularly without taking any of these paralyzers if you will only follow out my idea which has already proved successful in hundreds of cases."

Results of Constipation.

"When a train is stuck in the tunnel and cannot be dislodged, it stops traffic. With the body it is worse, because when there is a blocking-up somewhere in your 30 feet of bowels, the poison from the blockade is going to be soaked by the little capillaries on the inside lining of the bowels, and all this poison is rushed right through the blood.

"It goes to the brain naturally, and to every part of the body, every organ being fed on this polluted blood, or sewerage. It goes to your face in the form of pimple-poison and breaks out on the skin. It goes to your head and gives you headache and dizziness, it goes to your brain and makes you drowsy, it weakens the stomach and causes dyspepsia, and bad breath, it goes to the liver and causes biliousness, it goes to the kidneys and eventually gives rise to Bright's Disease, it goes to the heart and makes it thump, it goes to the eyes and they lose their lustre, it makes your nerves flabby and weak and out-o'-sorts, and this is the advance agent of all kinds of disease, which you couldn't get at all if there was pure, rich red blood flowing in your veins and your whole body was in prime condition."

Doctors Admitted Drug-Sin.

The Chief Clerk of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, located at New Brunswick, N. J., writes:—"I have suffered from chronic constipation for the past six years, taking most all of the pills and potions I ever heard of. At one time I became so bad I decided to give up my position with the Railroad, as I felt my days were numbered.

"One physician told me that he as well as others were powerless to cure constipation with drugs, saying that the purgatives inflame the bowels and eventually paralyze them. I followed your advice, have not spent a penny for drugs of any sort, and I am cured."

Look Out For Your Nerves.

There is hardly anything which restores the nerves as quickly and surely as regular bowels. Most people who have weak nerves and are run down are chronically constipated. It is surprising in how short a time a man or woman can build up a strong body by being absolutely regular and taking Prof. Midgley's advice.

Our readers can be positively certain of results if they will but send for Prof. Midgley's book and follow his advice. He is known all over the country as the "Constipation Wizard." His method is all so wonderful, and so simple, that it has been said by a great many to be a positive pleasure to adopt the Midgley way of getting cured right at home.

There is nobody else in this country who has given this disease such deep professional study as Prof. Midgley. His advice to you will be worth hundreds of dollars, and you will have saved years of misery, bad health and danger of disease.

You will realize within a few hours what it is to really live and have that exquisite feeling of perfect health, cheerful spirit, good digestion, clear mind, quick memory, energy, courage and ambition, to a degree which you probably never before could understand or experience—and all this, by merely following the simple directions of a man by whose advice hundreds have been cured in a most remarkable manner.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: OCT. 17. Acts XXIV: Paul Before Felix.

THE CONNECTION.

They got Paul in safety to Caesarea, with a letter from Claudius Lysias, the commandant at Jerusalem, to Felix the Roman governor of the province. The letter says that Paul was accused by his countrymen, but he rather artfully concealed the fact that he himself has offered indignity to Paul, the Roman citizen.

Trials were not delayed as long then as with us, and in five days Ananias, the high priest and some elders were down at Caesarea to bring the charges against Paul. With them they brought a Roman lawyer, employed to prosecute Paul, who made an address to the governor, very insincere in its gross flattery and very glib. He brought three charges against Paul: that he was seditious, and of course against Rome; that he was a ringleader of a sect, and therefore obnoxious to the Jews; that he had profaned the temple—sedition, heresy and sacrilege. He skilfully implies that Paul's offense should be left with the Jews for trial and punishment, in which case they could have disposed of him to their entire satisfaction. Tertullus' speech over, Paul speaks in his own defense.

THE LESSON.

I.

Answers the Charge of Sedition. 10-13.

"And when the governor had beckoned unto him to speak, Paul answered, 'For as much as I know that thou hast been of many years a judge unto this nation, I do cheerfully make my defense; seeing that thou canst take knowledge, that it is not more than twelve days since I went up to worship at Jerusalem; and neither in the temple did they find me disputing with any man or stirring up a crowd, nor in the synagogues, nor in the city. Neither can they prove to thee the things whereof they now accuse me.'"

1. Felix.

Felix was a slave liberated by the emperor Claudius and made procurator of Judea by Nero, who had made Felix's brother, Pallas, a pet. He is described by Tacitus as "exercising the power of a king in the spirit of a slave." A libertine and a monster, he was all unfit morally for his high place. This man beckoned Paul forward to make his defense.

2. Paul's Defense.

He had employed no counsel. He probably had not the money, and he did not need that aid. He had a trained mind and accurate acquaintance with Jewish jurisprudence, and he had wisdom from God.

We likely have only an outline of his speech furnished by him to Luke or heard by Luke himself, who might have followed him to Caesarea and cheered his solitude by daily visits.

We cannot fail to notice the courteous and conciliatory words with which the speech opens. There is no flattery, however, though there is respect shown for both the law and its representative, as such, the corrupt Felix. His manly dignity is impressively in contrast with the smirking shallowness of his accuser, Tertullus. He expresses confidence and bases it on two grounds—the acquaintance of Felix with the Jewish law and the very recent date of his alleged crimes. Felix had come into office in 52 A. D. and this was 58, the seventh year of his service. Felix was well informed. It was fortunate that Paul's alleged crimes were committed within the last twelve days.

3. Paul's Plea in Argument.

Paul's speech after this introduction first enters a general denial to all the charges and he appeals to the circumstances to support the denial: he had been in the city only seven days before his arrest, a time all too short for the commission of so many and such crimes; he never had the least communication with any crowds either on the streets or in the synagogues; his time had been spent in worship; they have not brought any proof of their charges. These two facts—the short time and the absence of witnesses with proof—would have thrown the case out of any just court. Felix should have then and there dismissed the case and sent the bloodthirsty Jews home. This effectually disposes of the charge of sedition.

II.

Answers the Charge of Heresy. 14-16:

"But this I confess unto thee, that after the Way which they call a sect, so serve I the God of our fathers, believing all things which are according to the law, and which are written in the prophets: having hope toward God, which these also themselves look for, that there shall be a resurrection both of the just and unjust. Herein do I also exercise myself to have a conscience void of offense toward God and men alway."

The second charge, that he belonged to "the sect of the Nazarenes" is both confessed and denied. He confesses that he belongs to the followers of the Nazarene Jesus, but those do not constitute a sect. It is not a diverging road, but the Way itself. It is the old path on which the fathers started and their children stopped, but now extended by the Nazarene. That this was not a sin against the Jewish nation he argues in several ways: 1. He is united with his fathers in serving their God. 2. He believes everything in the law and the prophets, still. 3. The hope of resurrection which the Jews themselves cherish is his hope. 4. These truths are not a theory only, but an experience as well with him, for it is a deliberate, strenuous and conscientious exertion with him always to have a clear conscience toward God and man. He implies that he makes this his chief business in life, though he does not claim perfection for himself. The second charge is answered.

III.

Answers the Charge of Sacrilege. 17-21.

"Now after many years I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings; amidst which they found me purified in the temple, with no crowd, nor yet with tumult; but there were certain Jews from Asia—who ought to have been here before thee, and to make accusation, if they had aught against me. Or else let these men themselves say what wrong-doing they found, when I stood before the council, except it be for this one voice that I cried standing among them, Touching the resurrection of the dead I am called in question before you this day."

He showed the complete falsity of the charge of profanation of the temple.

1. After a long absence (four years) from Jerusalem, he had come back bringing alms to his nation. Did that look like he was bent on profaning the temple? To be sure he does not explain that it was a gift from Gentile Christians to Jewish Christians in Jerusalem, but he was truthful in saying that it was brought to his nation.

2. He made offering of some kind in the temple, as other Jews did.

3. He had gone through a Jewish ceremonial of purification in the temple, with no crowd nor tumult.

4. The cowardice of those Jews from Asia, who stirred up an outcry against him and secured his arrest, is shown by their absence from the trial, when the law demanded their presence.

Here Paul begins to speak about those "certain Jews from Asia" as if he were going to say something vindicative, but contents himself with showing that their absence was a weak point in the prosecution.

5. The inability of his present accusers to cite a single case of crime or disorder or irreverence that could be laid at his door. Just here the heroism of the man was so overmastering that his accusers were in trust, mute. The real accusers were not there, as the Roman law required, and the pretended witnesses were unable to prove a single charge. The only instance on which his enemies then present were competent to speak was his examination before the council.

Yet Paul does ironically confess to one ground for accusation—namely, his assertion to the council that he was called in question for his faith in the resurrection of the dead. That was the only heresy he could be charged with and only Sadducees could do that. Since the charges were all brought by Ananias, a Sadducee, he invited them to make good their charge by denying the resurrection.

This was bold. It was aggressive warfare upon his accusers. The only thing these accusers could give witness about was what they heard him say before the council and half of that council had decided for Paul against these very men for his belief. To testify against Paul before Felix on the only things they knew of his saying or doing would expose themselves as heresies and sectaries against the doctrines of the nation. They who had abandoned the faith and the hope of their fathers were trying to have him also condemned for the same thing, only on a false charge. His defense was more than complete. It amounted to a prosecution of his accusers for illegality, heresy and perjury.

2. His Wayward Wife.

Soon his had and beautiful wife Drusilla has her curiosity aroused to see and hear Paul, for she was part Jewish, being daughter of Herod Agrippa and sister of Agrippa, formerly wife of Azizus, king of Emesa, but fascinated away from her husband to Felix through the agency of a sorcerer. She must have had curiosity to know what this Jew would say. She might have had some questions to ask about the Jewish faith, which she had not very assiduously cultivated.

3. His Dilemma.

The speech in their presence was very plain. Paul did not take up ceremonial matters, but only discussed the moral phases of Christianity. He stuck to his audience. It was argumentum ad hominem et feminem. The temperance, or self-control which he demanded was not found in Felix. The judgments which Felix had rendered made him cowardly in view of the judgment which Paul said was coming. He was terrified for once in his life, over his sins and the thought of a just God. Now was his chance. But he gets away from the alarm and reserves to a future day the throwing off the yoke of his diabolical master.

IV.

The Duplicity of Felix. 22-27.

"But Felix, having more exact knowledge concerning the Way, deferred them, saying, When Lysias, the chief captain, shall come down, I will determine your matter. And he gave orders to the centurion that he should be kept in charge, and should have indulgence; and not to forbid any of his friends to minister unto him."

"But after certain days Felix came, with Drusilla, his wife, which was a Jewess, and sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ Jesus. And as he reasoned of righteousness and temperance and the judgment to come, Felix was terrified, and answered, Go thy way for this time; and when I have a convenient season I will call thee unto me. He hoped withal that money would be given him by Paul; wherefore also he sent for him the oftener and communed with him. But when two years were fulfilled, Felix was succeeded by Porcius Festus: and desiring to gain favor with the Jews, Felix left Paul in bonds."

1. Felix Growing Interest in Paul.

Felix had more information concerning the Christian life and doctrine, usually called the Way, than had been brought out in these speeches, and therefore (listen to this "therefore") deferred action. "Therefore" he ought to have acted promptly and dismissed the case, for his wider acquaintance with the subject harmonized with Paul's statement of the case. He knew the false character of Paul's accusers and "therefore" he was more anxious to hold their friendship, because they could very easily accuse him at Rome. His record for cruelty and all kinds of vices was too bad for scrutiny or exposure.

2. His Base Dishonor.

In two things, it is shown—holding Paul two years in prison, for the purpose of getting a bribe for his release; leaving him in prison, when he went out of office, though he knew the man was innocent, but he did it to please the Jews and keep them from bringing charges against him at Rome, for maladministration.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Then the Shepherds led the Pilgrims to another place called Mount Innocent and there they saw a man clothed all in white, and two men, Prejudice and Ill Will, continually casting dirt upon him. Now behold, the dirt, whatsoever they would cast at him, would, in a little time, fall off again, and his garment would look as clear as if no dirt had been cast thereat. Then said the Pilgrims, "What means this?" The Shepherds answered, "This man is named godly man and his garment is to show the innocence of his life. Now those that throw dirt at him are such as hate his well doing; but, as you see, the dirt will not stick upon his clothes, so it shall be with him that liveth truly innocent in the world. Whosoever they be that would make such men dirty, they labor all in vain; for God, by that a little time is spent, will cause that their innocence shall break forth as the light and their righteousness as the noon day."—Bunyan.

"Facts show that during the following four years Paul had considerable money at his command. Imprisonment and a long lawsuit are expensive. Now it is clear that Paul during the following four years did not appear before the world as a penniless wanderer, living by the work of his hands. A person in that position will not, either at the present day, or in the first century, be treated with such marked respect as was certainly paid to Paul at Caesarea, on the voyage and in Rome. Where then was the money procured? There seems no alternative except that Paul's hereditary property was used in those four years."—Ramsay.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Why is the Christian Jew the logical Jew?
2. Does God ever leave one of his servants in purposeless trouble?
3. Why does judicial purity exist today?
4. Have your past habits and relationships tied you up in hopelessly doing wrong?
5. Whose place would you rather be in, the prisoner's or the governor's?"

Long Prairie, Minn., Oct. 14.—Charles Harkens, Sr., died Tuesday He had been ill a long time and his death was not unexpected. For many weeks he had been in a semi-conscious condition, able to be aroused only at intervals. Last week his wife died very suddenly.

Mr. Harkens was born in North Germany, on Aug. 16, 1827. He came to this country in 1851 and a year later came to Minnesota, locating at Shakopee. He came to Long Prairie in 1870 and he had since resided here.

CAPITAL STOCK TO BE $6,000,000

Washburn-Crosby Company Enlarges to Care for Increased Business.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 14.—The Washburn-Crosby company, capitalized now at $3,600,000 with general offices in Minneapolis, and mills also at Buffalo, N. Y., Louisville, Ky., Kalispell and Great Falls, Mont., will increase its capital stock to $6,000,000.

The directors met in Minneapolis Monday last and the matter was taken up. This announcement of an addition of $2,400,000 to the capital of the Minneapolis company will be of wide interest to the milling industry of the United States and Europe.

The increase is made necessary by the recent construction in Minneapolis of a concrete fireproof grain elevator with capacity for 700,000 bushels; the erection here of a new "model" mill and the improvement of the older Minneapolis mills. In addition, the company has recently completed a new mill and elevator in Buffalo, N. Y. The company's capacity, including the new Buffalo mill just completed, is now 42,400 barrels of flour a day.

"We have no immediate plans for further construction work in Minneapolis," said James S. Bell, president, "but we have added greatly to our Minneapolis plants in the last year, and are prepared to make further additions at such future time as conditions may make desirable."

LETTER WRITER IS BUSY AGAIN

Sends Second Epistle on Gen. Grants's Action in Chicago Parade.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—W. B. Michaelis of this city, who recently protested to Secretary of War Dickinson against Gen. Frederick D. Grant, in the uniform of the United States army, appearing in a temperance parade and was informed by the Secretary that Gen. Grant had violated no rule of the war department, has addressed another letter to the secretary on the subject.

Mr. Michaelis takes issue with the statement made by Gen. Grant and others that the parade was not a prohibition parade, but a "temperance and law enforcement parade." He further declares that he does not question the constitutional right of Gen. Grant to take part in a demonstration of this character as a private citizen, but that Gen. Grant should not have done so in the full uniform of the general's rank as an army officer.

Would Inspire Intemperance.

Mr. Michaelis also declares that in his opinion, the parade "was not one of temperance and law enforcement," but one calculated to "inspire intemperance and disorder."

He cites mottoes which were carried upon banners displayed in the parade.

In closing, Mr. Michaelis said: "Without intending any personal reflection on Gen. Grant, I believe that my criticism was fully justfied and that the incident should have effectual inquiry."

ELOPING COUPLE TO LIVE IN DULUTH

Grandson of Mark Hanna Will Bring His Bride to Zenith City.

New York, Oct. 14.—Through a wedding notice sent out last night for publication in this morning's papers it became known that Miss Gertrude Leavitt, daughter of the late Edward Leavitt of Woodbury, Conn., and Carl Hanna, son of Daniel Hanna and a grandson of the late Marcus A. Hanna, were married on July 30 at Bridgeburg, Can.

Although their engagement was announced last summer, the marriage came as a surprise to friends of both. It was explained that Miss Leavitt was returning to New York from Cleveland when Mr. Hanna met her on the train. They stopped off at Buffalo and were married at Bridgeburg, across the river. They will live in Duluth. Announcement of the marriage was withheld until Mr. Hanna went into business.

BENZOATE OF SODA IS DENOUNCED BY DOCTORS.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 14.—An indorsement of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's "campaign for pure food and pure food legislation" was voted at yesterday's sesion of the Mississippi Valley Medical association. The doctors declared that "it is apparent that much action is being instituted by manufacturers whose goods contain nigredients that have no place in food products."

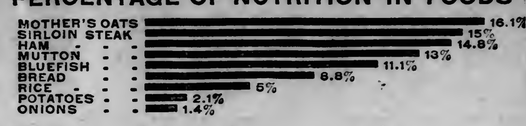

The resolution condemned the use as food preservative of benzoric, boric, salicilic acids and their compounds, "especially benzoate of soda and all other silimar chemicals." The association also commanded the newspapers and individuals "who have taken a stand against artificail food preservatives."

ENJOINS 2-CENT FARE ON ILLINOIS ROADS.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 14.—The constitutionality of the Illinois 2-cent passenger rate law is attacked in an action brought in the federal court by the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railroad company, as a result of which Judge Humphrey, in the United States circuit court, has granted a preliminary injunction restraining the state from enforcing the rate. It has not yet been determined when the receiver of the road will restore the old rates.

Three will be no hearing on the merits of the case until the attorney general moves to dissolve the injunction.

As Millions Know, There Is No Other Milk Like This

For your own sake, please learn the difference between Van Camp's Milk and all others. For you save not a penny by taking vastly inferior milk.

You get a full pint of Van Camp's for 10 cents—with two-thirds the water evaporated.

You get a milk which is 28 per cent solids—8 per cent butter fat. And you get pure Holstein milk.

You don't get a thin milk, with too much water left in. And you don't get a milk which is cheapened with sugar, as you do in condensed milk.

When others offer an equal milk, they are welcome to say, "It is as good as Van Camp's."

But, until they do, we shall continue to warn you against the inferior brands.

No Tubercular Cows

The chief danger in raw milk lies in tubercular germs. Millions of infected cows, milked every day, are spreading consumption at a terrible rate.

That is why every authority advises sterilized milk.

Van Camp's milk is sterilized, but that isn't all. Our cows are inspected, so we know none is infected.

Our dairies are sanitary in the extreme. Our evaporating plants are built without wood. We employ every modern precaution.

The result is a milk which is utterly sterile. A milk that is safe, without a germ of any kind in it.

Rich Holstein Milk

We buy none but Holstein cows—the world's finest breed, famed for their splendid vitality.

The milk from such cows is immeasurably better for children than the milk of mongrel cows.

This milk, fresh from the cows, is placed in a vacuum. And a moderate heat, because of the vacuum, throws off the water in steam.

Thus we take out two-thirds of the water, and the milk that results is as thick as thick cream. It contains 28 per cent total solids, and 8 per cent butter fat.

We use no sugar, no starch, no preservative. Van Camp's is simply rich Holstein milk, reduced for convenience in shipping.

Six Cents Per Quart

The cost of Van Camp's, when you replace the water which we evaporate, is about six cents per quart.

The 10-cent can contains a full pint of milk reduced to the minimum. And grocers give discounts on cases.

So Van Camp's is cheaper than raw milk, because your milkman's daily delivery costs more than the milk itself.

And you have no waste when you use Van Camp's. You never have milk left over. You open a can when you want it, and it keeps till you use it up.

A Cow in the Kitchen

Van Camp's means a cow in the kitchen. Rich milk or cream for every purpose—all you want and all the time.

Add one part water for coffee or cereals. It is then like the richest cream. For cooking or drinking, reduce as you like.

Van Camp's gives to milk dishes twice the richness and flavor that you get from raw milk. For this is whole milk, with all the butter fat, all the solids in it.

In milkman's milk, the butter fat rises and the solids fall. You don't get the whole milk from any part of the can. Then you let it stand and it separates more. So the milk used for cooking is rarely more than a half-milk.

You'll be amazed at the flavor which Van Camp's gives to milk dishes. Not the slight almond flavor, due to sterilization, apparent when Van Camp's is drunk cold. You get that same flavor from milkman's milk when you heat it. The delicious flavor that Van Camp's gives to milk dishes is due to the richness, the wholeness of the milk.

Don't be Misled

If you want Holstein milk, reduced to the minimum, you will always insist on Van Camp's.

Others may claim that common milk, only partly reduced, is just as good as Van Camp's. But it isn't.

And don't think that condensed milk, which is nearly half sugar, is anything like Van Camp's. Van Camp's contains no sugar—no addition whatever.

Sugar was used to preserve milk before the days of sterilization. It is entirely unnecessary now. If you want sugar, you can buy it for half what it costs in a can of milk.

And condensed milk, because of the sugar, is unfit for cooking. You can't use it as you can Van Camp's. So, please let no one mislead you.

The 16-oz. can of Van Camp's sells for 10 cents; the 6-oz. can 5 cents. So you get one-third more for your money in buying the larger cans. Grocers give discounts on cases. The milk is produced at our dairies, located in six states.

PIRATES WIN FIFTH GAME

Pittsburg Nationals Are Once More in Lead for World's Championship.

Seventh Game, If Necessary, Will Be Played in Detroit.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 14.—Pittsburg took the lead in the great battle now being waged for the world's baseball championship by defeating Detroit 8 to 4 in the fifth game of the big series at Forbes field yesterday. This gives the National league champions three victories to two for the winners of the American league pennant. The scene will shift to Detroit again today, where the sixth, and possibly the last, game of the series will be played. By winning today Pittsburg will clinch the world's championship, but if Detroit wins, the series will be tied again and a seventh game will be necessary.

Despite its announcement that it would meet in Detroit to decide where the seventh game is to be played, the commission met yesterday and decided to play the crucial game, if it is needed, in Detroit.

Garry Herrmann flipped a coin, and President B. B. Johnson of the American league won and chose Detroit.

The game yesterday was played with the thermometer hovering between 35 and 40 degs. above zero. A chilling wind from the southwest swept across the field, but the immense grandstand protected the great majority of the spectators. Despite the untoward conditions, 21,706 persons saw the game, and the receipts were $32,175. Of this sum the national commission receives $3,217.30 and each club owner $14,477.85. The players no longer share in the receipts, as the first four games is their limit.

This makes the receipts for the five games $156,108, and the total attendance was 117,347. Each club owner has now received $26,786.15 and the national commission $15,610.80.

A home run by Manager Fred Clarke, which scored Byrne and Leach in front of him, turned the tide of victory to Pittsburg in the seventh inning, after Detroit had tied the score at 3 to 3 scoring two in the sixth.

Detroit had two home runs to its credit, but neither came with any one on bases. D. Jones, the first man up in the first inning, hit the ball into the inclosure, which had been built around the outfield for the overflow. There was no overflow from the permanent stands and it appeared easy to hit the ball over the low fence. Sam Crawford made the other Detroit home run in the eighth.

Crawford's home run nearly deprived Pittsburg of the services of the brilliant Tommy Leach. Leach gave chase to Crawford's long hit and while running backwards at a good clip, struck the low fence. The impact of his body smashed the boards and he shot over the fence head first and turned a complete somersault. A groan went up from the crowd as it appeared as if it were impossible for the little center fielder to escape injury. After a short delay he returned to his place in the field, apparently none the worse for his spectacular mishap.

Charles Adams, the phenomenal youngster of the Pittsburg team, achieved the high distinction of being the only pitcher to win twice in the series by annexing yesterday's game. Adams clearly outpitched Summers, who worked the first seven innings for Detroit, but he was lucky in having the team behind him in hitting, as he allowed the losers four runs, Adams allowed six hits—two home runs, two two-baggers and two singles, while Summers was hit safely ten times including one home run and one double.

VETERAN BEATEN BY A YOUNGSTER

Christy Mathewson Is Outpitched By Collins of Boston Americans.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 14.—The Boston Americans shut out the New York Nationals in the fourth game of the post-season series here yesterday 2 to 0. Collins, a youngster, outpitched the veteran Mathewson, holding the visitors to four scattered hits.

Speaker was again the star of the game. His hits resulted in both runs. In the ninth he also saved two hits by capturing long flies after hard runs. Doyle, Bridwell and McConnell carried off the fielding honors.

The attendance was 5,240, with $2,328 in gross receipts. Of that amount $232 goes to the national commission, $838 to the owners and $1,257 is divided among the players.

Both teams left for New York last night to play the fifth game today at the Polo grounds. Score:

THE ODDS ARE STILL THE SAME

Johnson Remains the Favorite in Saturday's Fight With Stanley Ketchel.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 14.—Seats for the championship match at the Mission street arena on Saturday between Jack Johnson and Stanley Ketchel, were placed on sale yesterday. From the way the sale began it is believed that all seats will be sold.

Both fighters from now on will take only the exercise necessary to keep them in perfect trim. Ketchel weighs 175 pounds. Johnson has reduced his weight by twelve pounds or more and will weigh in at 197 pounds, the figure at which he fought Burns in Australia.

The betting still remains at odds of 10 to 4 with Johnson on the long end.

BEARS WORK AT LINCOLN

Gloomy Reports Will Not Cause Gophers to Let Down.

Minnesota Expects a Hard Struggle With Nebraska at Omaha Saturday.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Once again "Doc" Williams trotted out his squad of football players, and yesterday afternoon was spent in a good lively practice. Although the field is in very bad condition and the weather is cold, the men are kept hard at it. The Nebraska game is looming up more and more as the day of the contest approaches. Bear reports are finding their way to Minneapolis, but what the real dope from Lincoln is no one seems to know. King Cole of Nebraska is a wise old soul, and what he really is going to do will only be seen when he takes his team on the field saturday. After having rounded up some of last year's veterans and even getting one man back from Alaska, word is given out that none of these crackerjacks will be able to play. That certainly is too bad, and everybody is sorry for Mr. Cole, but he sure is a good sollier. It would be a pretty sure bet to wager that Collins, Ewing and Birkner, the stars in question, will all be in the game Saturday.

That the Cornhuskers expect Minnesota to win and would be satisfied with a low score is also somebody's pipe dream. The Nebraskans, although they know that the odds are against them, really feel that they have a chance to tie or win. The Nebraska team has been looking forward to the Minnesota game ever since the season opened. They have been trained up for it, and everything else was let slide so that all the time could be spent in primping for the Gophers. This game is Nebraska's big game, they want to win it, and will fight to the last ditch to do it. Minnesota is very well aware of the scrapping abilities of the Cornhuskers, and so will not go down to Omaha with any serious degree of overconfidence. Too many times has Minnesota been frightened; they have come close more than once, and succeeded not many years ago in defeating the Gopher team which later on in the season carried off the Western championship honors.

Word comes from Omaha that the town is getting football mad and already the big game to be played there next Saturday is the one subject of conversation. As the day of the game approaches the enthusiasm continues to increase and promises to almost reach the breaking point by Saturday. The game is going to be played at Vinton Street park, the old baseball field. Seats have been constructed this week so that 15,000 people can easily be accommodated and from all appearances the crowd will pass that mark. Special trains will be run up from Lincoln and at least 2,000 Nebraska students will see the game including the band. Special cars will be added to almost all of the trains pulling into Omaha from points in Nebraska and Western Iowa. It is so very seldom that Nebraska and Omaha are treated to a big game like this that it will be a gala occasion. All business in Omaha will be suspended so that all will have a chance to see the Gophers and the Cornhuskers clash.

There have been no developments in the Maroon and Gold camp the past few days. Pettijohn's leg is slowly improving and he will undoubtedly be in the game Saturday. This fact brings considerable relief to the university rooters and now it is a safe bet that the end positions will be well taken care of. Smith has been filling Pickering's position at fullback and if he plays with as much energy Saturday as he has shown in the past two days he will make good. Aitkinson is developing into great form at halfback and probably will play at least half the game Saturday in that position. Aitkinson played a heady game last season and there is no reason at all why he shouldn't make the team this year. The Gophers have been practicing on the forward pass so far this week more than they would have outsiders believe. That Minnesota will have to play the open game this year in order to win the championship is beyond a doubt and all of Minnesota's supporters are glad to see "Doc" Williams developing the team along that line.

The practice Wednesday afternoon consisted chiefly of a stiff scrimmage. The coaches were not over satisfied with the playing of some of the first team men and so they were shifted around from time to time. This shows that positions on this year's team are not cinched as yet. "Shorty" Powers was taken off the first team and put on with the second team. He seemed very angry over the shift and started in to tear up the varsity line accordingly. The team will probably have no more scrimmage before the game. This will come today and from then on the work will be light.

ST. PAUL TEAM IS EXPECTED

Duluth Will Probably Play Mechanic Arts on Saturday.

Central high will play the Mechanic arts high school football team Saturday, or a game will be arranged with the Spaldings of this city. It is practically certain, however, that the team from the Saintly City will play here.

The inclement weather of the past few days has seriously interfered with the practice of the local team. The candidates have been out every day and have indulged in scrimmage work, but the winter weather has taken some of the snap out of them. The team is in fairly good shape and Colton believes that his team can give a good account of itself against any high school team in the state.

There has been a general complaint against the charging of a 50-cent admission for a game of the caliber of the Ironwood game (?) It is very likely that unless some representative high school team is scheduled for Saturday the managers of the athletic association will find a very slim attendance.

COMING OVER ON THE CEDRIC

Sir Thomas Lipton Wants Another Chance at the America's Cup.

London, Oct. 14.—Sir Thomas Lipton has engaged passage on the steamer Cedric, which will sail for New York Saturday. While in the United States, Sir Thomas expects to discuss with members of the New York Yacht club the status of international yachting. There is reason to believe that he cherishes little hope of arranging another race for the America's cup. He will reiterate his desire to challenge under the universal rule and explain once more his frequently repeated views concerning the attitude of the New York Yacht club.

THE WAGNER-COBB BATTLE

Almost as Interesting as Outcome of World's Series.

Almost as interesting as the outcome of the world's championship series, is the outcome of the struggle between Honus Wagner and Tyrus Cobb for all-around supremacy as the greatest baseball player in the world.

Today the mighty Hans leads the slender and speedy Cobb in the matter of batting by two hits. He has made two more hits than Ty in the games that have been played so far, and unless the Georgia Peach gets a very great hurry he will be beaten out in the present series by his National rival.

From the reports of the games it cannot be said that Wagner has excelled Cobb in general play. As a pinch hitter has not proved himself the equal of the American league champion batter. Wagner has performed well on the bases, but his work has not been up to the brilliant standard of the boy from Georgia. Cobb's steal of home in the second contest at Pittsburg was one of the most brilliant plays of the games played thus far.

In the field Cobb has played faultless baseball. Yesterday Wagner had two errors, and he has more errors in the other games of the series. But no comparison can be made between the fielding of men in the infield and the outfield.

But, taken as a whole, even if Wagner does beat the American leaguer out in the number of hits gathered, it is doubtful if he will be conceded a greater baseball player than the young man from the South. It is very hard to judge the men in six or seven games and, taking the two men on the season's work, it will be found that both are wonderful ball players, and that neither has very much on the other fellow.

BUSINESS MEN BEAT SOLDIERS

The business men's team of the Y. M. C. A. last evening defeated the Company E. team of the Military league, the score being 14 to 12. The game was fast and interesting from the start. Hurler Jamar of the Y. M. C. A., had all the twisters known to the big ball throwers, and his pitching was a puzzle to the members of the soldier team. The pitching of Jamar and the shortstop playing of Wheeler of the Y. M. C. A., team were the features of the game.

Jamar and McGregor were in the points for the winners, and Fisher and Wagner worked for the soldier team.

"Little flits to fame, series No. 11, the factory boy hero, or bingling me way to fame."

Eddie Konetchy—funny name—was reared in that inconspicuous but thriving little city of La Crosse. Eddie didn't have anything to say regarding his place of birth, so naturally we cannot blame him for not being born in Minnesota. But nix on this birth place stuff—let's get to Eddie.

I'll bet now that some of you don't recognize Eddie under his full name. His honest-to-goodness name is Konetchy. Up in the big league the scorers formed a conspiracy, and today he is known as Koney, like plain Mary, and he is the most promising baseball player on the St. Louis Cardinals, Roger Bresnahan's team. You may raise the argument that there aren't any baseball players on either of the St. Louis teams. We are not here to argue.

One day, not so very long ago, a mere youth stalked up to the copious—we use that word advisedly—personality of John A. Elliott, at present president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, at that time the big boss of the La Crosse team. We are sorry, for the sake of our story, to give it that subtle touch of romance, that Eddie was not pale and nervous. So many heroes are that way. But Eddie was never a pale and anaemic lad.

As we started to explain, Eddie trudged with heavy brogans up to the large and genial Elliott. Mr. Elliott has a large and imposing front. Awe and veneration smite the gink who addresses him. Eddie was triple-smitted. With trembling voice and drooping lashes, even as the maiden when you say it, Eddie Koney paused before the large Elliott party and, with faltering words, asked for a job.

"How much will you work for, Eddie?" came from the lips of the august Elliott, though the day was one in April.

"I am getting $60 per every thirty days in the factory," replied the modest Edward, "and just for you, Mr. Elliott, I will go out there and work my head off for $50 per."

"Go out and show us"—get that us—"what you can do," came the command from the Elliott person.

"Pink" Hawley was the manager of the La Crosse team at the time. Have you ever heard of "Pink" Hawley? Sure, you must. He is, or was, a brother to a twin. The Hawley boys looked so much alike that their nurse tied a pink ribbon on one and a blue ribbon on the other. The blue ribbon was not, nor never has been, tied on "Pink" Hawley. He drew the pink ribbon, and has since been known to fame as "Pink" Hawley. He got to be a great pitcher. He pitched for Pittsburg and was famous. He has had cans tied on him since the ribbon incident, but that is neither here nor there.

He was the gink that was managing the La Crosse team when shy Eddie Koney was sent out to the lot to show the boys what he could do. The next time "Pink" Hawley saw Elliott, he asked the large head of the club who that big Rube was. In anger and some perturbation, earnest Elliott asked if the Koney Kid had not given a good account of himself.

You see Eddie was a native. In these small towns, such as La Crosse and Superior, they are intensely proud of the home product. Now in La Crosse they drink Gund's—but that is another story. But "Pink" informed Mister Elliott that Eddie could play cherry circles around any player he had on his team. Then the famous Elliott smile was lighted and everything was lovely.

Now if there was one thing this Koney Kid could do, it was to slam the ball. It so happened that every time the Koney party came to bat there were one or two on the cushions. He did as "Pink" told him to—batted them in. At an early age he showed an obedience that has earned him the name of little brother.

But we do not have cheap guys in this flit to fame stuff; no, sir! Eddie was soon to graduate to the swell ranks of baseball society.

One day John McCloskey came a sneaking into town. He called up Elliott. It is presumed over the telephone. He told Elliott that he wanted to speak with him. He hissed the summons forth, like the villian in the melodrama cautions the persecuted heroine.

Elliott didn't suppose he was speaking with so famous a character as John Mac, but he was feeling in good spirits that night, and he went.

Mister McCloskey told him that he had heard about the Koney party, but that after looking him over he did not like his work. You know that is the linotype stuff when a manager wants a player.

"He is a native son, Mr. McCloskey," said our John, "and if you do not like him, you can leave him right in this ere town. He will be in perfectly good keeping."

"I would hardly say that," remonstrated Mr. McCloskey, as he nervously shifted his peerless from one molar to the other.

Then the bargaining for the services of young Mr. Koney got down to cases. Mr. McCloskey offered $500 for the player. Mr. Elliott informed the big league manager that a minor league club had offered him $750 for Koney.

To make a long story shorter, the Koney Kid was sold to St. Louis for $1,000. He was played on first base the very summer he reported, for he was sold in June, 1907, and that season he played in sixty games. Since reporting to the Cardinals, Koney has missed but one game. Some record.

One of his first big league games was in Cincinnati. He struck out. The papers stated that the Kid was vaguely wondering if all the people in the world were packed in the grandstand. They were not—some were in Duluth—but Koney did not at that time know this. He has picked up an assorted amount of knowledge since joining the Cardinals. Think of the amount of miscellaneous information he would have gathered had he joined the Cubs or the Pirates. He is married now, so he is undoubtedly serious and settled down.

He is the leading hitter of the St. Louis Nationals, and Pittsburg and other leading clubs have vainly tried to secure his services. He is getting considerably over $50 per month.

The other day he returned to La Crosse. You see, he was not compelled to play in any bothersome world's championship series, being a member of the Cardinals. The very factory where he got his first 'umble-get that-pay slip, closed down, and the whistles played "Hail to the Conquering Hero' when Eddie stepped off the limited. Some notice, that!

The boys of the town formed in an admiring throng and followed the Koney party up the street. He was accompanied by honest John Elliott, who has never lost interest in his protegt, so the streets were almost congested.

Abraham Lincoln was born in a humble log hut. N. Bonaparte, the short gent with the busy noodle, saw the light in Corsica, in a bungalow that Mary MacLaine would have turned up her pert nose at. Charley Fairbanks, too, has tried awfully hard to make us all believe that he, like the rest of the heroes, was born in the regulation log shack. Koney, like the rest of the big bright fame boys, was born and reared in humble circumstances. He is a regular to the order here.

He worked in a factory. He toiled at the altar of the busy mart of commerce until yearning ambish and John Elliott made it possible and highly profitable for him to don the spiked shoe and the open-front shirt. Now he is as big a fixture in St. Louis as the Anheuser-Busch factory.

DARBY STILL THE BUSY BOY

Al Kuehnow has received a letter from Darby O'Brien, in which the Irishman says he will be here for Christmas. It is whispered around that there is a woman in the case. In addition to telling Mr. Kuehnow that he would be here for a brief visit this winter, Darby conveyed the information that he was on the trail of two outfielders and another pitcher.

One of the outfielders played with Burlington, Iowa, last season, and if O'Brien gets him it will be simply for the reason that Ned Egan is obliged to cut down expenses.

The pitcher worked in the Illinois-Wisconsin league, and if Darby succeeds in getting him he will have one of the best twiriers in the league next season.

Two Big Structures Will Be Erected on Superior Street.

Fidelity Investment Company Will Build Near Lake Avenue Corner.

The announcement that the Fidelity Investment company, a syndicate of Duluth men, with John A. Stephenson as agent, will erect a modern store and office building on the south side of Superior street, just west of Freimuth's store, on the corner of Lake avenue, means that two modern structures will be built in the same block within the coming year.

Some time ago announcement was made that Bray & Nystrom are preparing plans for a modern store and office building on the Salter property, on the south side of Superior street, between Lake avenue and First avenue west. It will front twenty-five feet on Superior street, and be six stories in height.

The new building to be erected by the Fidelity Investment company will front fifty feet on Superior street, and will run 115 feet back to Michigan street. It will be seven stories in height on Superior street, and at least three floors will be used for store purposes, the remainder being given over to offices. The building will cost about $140,000.

The site of the new building is now occupied by two frame buildings rented by small business firms. Both of the new buildings will replace antiquated wooden structures, and the improvement is an important one.

Work will be begun on the new building soon, and it is expected to be completed by May 1. The front will be of pressed brick and terra cotta, and the construction will be on the modern steel and brick plan. Bray & Nystrom are preparing the plans. The other new building, on the Salter property, will also be ready for occupancy by May 1. Inquiries are already being made by prospective lessees.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH"

More Mills Would Be Needed If Every Duluthian Bought Duluth-Made Flour.

When seeking the "staff of life," good wheat bread, bear in mind that Duluth is turning out the best kind of flour with which to make it.

The Duluth Universal mill, on the water front at the foot of Twelfth avenue west, is grinding hundreds of barrels of the finest flour in the country every day.

It runs the year round, with a daily capacity of 600 barrels. But it does not run full blast every day, which would be the case if the homes in Duluth would insist upon having none other than flour made in Duluth. Not only would the mill be running at its full capacity and looking for bigger quarters, but the pay roll would be increased considerably, Duluth profiting accordingly, and new mills would be opened.

The Universal mill is sending flour East by the carload and the shipload. Great quantities are sent to Ireland, Scotland, England, Germany and the Eastern states. The Duluth mill also sends hundreds of barrels to the Copper country and the ranges.

Duluth is consuming thousands of barrels of flour made outside the city annually. The benefits are accruing to manufacturers in other states, who are dipping their hands into Duluth pocketbooks and leaving little or nothing in return.

OLD MATE OF PEARY SAYS STATEMENT IS INCREDIBLE

a month during the hardships of intense cold and the rigors of Arctic climate—with ample supplies, sleds and Eskimos, all in first-class condition, and then simply turned back, apparently for no reason.

"How unlikely it is that a man with over twenty years' Arctic experience, fired with an ambition of a lifetime, would give up just at a time and place when one of the greatest trophies the world has to bestow upon a brave and daring explorer was standing within his reach, beckoning him to come on!"

Both Could Fake Records.

New York, Oct. 14.—Only the production of astronomical records can settle the polar controversy, and these same records might be fabricated.

This, in effect, was the paradoxical statement made in a lecture by Prof. Harold Jacoby, professor of astronomy at Columbia university. It was Prof. Jacoby's belief that the North Pole had been reached, but that even when all the records had been published, the final verdict would have to rest upon the veracity of the explorers because of the possibility of fabricating polar records. He did not specify whether he accepted the claims of Peary or Cook, or both.

MEMORIAL FUND MOVEMENT GIVEN FRESH IMPETUS

and being held back throughout the state, that will add considerably to the amount in the bank, but right now is the time when the greatest enthusiasm is needed for the home stretch. Let every one work for the great end. A good round report for the rest of this week, for instance, would put ginger into the campaign for next week, and the $25,000 mark would be within sight without the aid of glasses.

Contributions acknowledged by The Herald today came from as widely separated parts of the country as Alaska, California, New Mexico and Minnesota. This shows the widespread interest that is being taken in the movement and how general was the affection felt for Minnesota's lamented governor.

The force of the Bridgeman & Russell company circulated a list, and their united contribution to the fund today is $23.25.

The Acme laundry employes have forwarded a contribution of $7.25.

The employes of the First National Bank of Duluth have subscribed $8, and a check for this amount was received by The Herald today.

Charles W. Elston, president of the St. Louis County bank, is still busy at the West end, and has forwarded ten more contributions to the fund.

Mrs. Edna Getchell of West Duluth writes: "Inclosed please find $5, sent in behalf of my children, Walter Waite Getchell of Nome, Alaska; J. Bruce Getchell of Candle, Alaska; Charlotte Getchell of Los Angeles, Cal., and also Olive V. Smith and Herbert Smith of Santa Rose, N. M., grandchildren.

cut in order to gain more time for the canyon trip.

Joined by Hitchcock.

The president's day was made up of morning and afternoon stage trips to various points of interest about the rim of the canyon. The time was too short for any attempt to go down the trail leading to the raging muddy waters of the Colorado river at the bottom of the big cut. Luncheon was served at the Hotel El Tovar, the president being the guest of the Arizona committee.

Postmaster General Hitchcock, who has been making a strenuous trip through Arizona on horseback and who is sunburned and greatly improved in health, was in the party.

Favors Single Statehood.

Prescott, Ariz., Oct. 14.—President Taft won a hearty welcome into Arizona by proclaiming wherever he went that he was heartily in favor of statehood for each of the territories of Arizona and New Mexico. When the joyousness that greeted this statement had died away Mr. Taft had some sober words for his audience in which he sought to impress upon them the necessity for deliberation in framing a state Constitution. He declared that their Constitution should follow the simplicity of the Constitution of the United States, and should be merely fundamental laws with simple rules of limitations.

Roast for Oklahoma.

Mr. Taft urged the people of Arizona to profit by what he termed "the mistakes of Oklahoma" in constitution-making. He characterized the Oklahoma Constitution as a "zoological garden of cranks."

NORTH DAKOTANS "GOLD BRICKED" IN MILL CITY HOTEL

to Chaffee two gold bricks, which he claimed were worth $40,000.

Son Examined the Bricks.

Chaffee had his son examine the "gold" bricks, together with another assayer, W. H. Harper, who, according to his card, was located in the Rogers hotel. The test was satisfactory, and Chaffee counted over to Armstrong, the confidence man, twenty-five $1,000 bills.

The latter then invited the Chaffees to supper, and at the close of the meal disappeared. Investigation proved that Harper also had "made his get-away." The Chaffees investigated and found that the "gold bricks" were brass.

While the father and son are nursing their mortification and chagrin, the police are bending every effort to locate the two sticksters. The elder Chaffee recognized in the rogues' gallery the picture of the man who claimed to be Armstrong, and Chief Corriston says he is one of the most notorious "con" men in the country.

MAY CLOSE THE SERIES

team of the greatest honors in organized baseball. During the series each team has won the alternate games, Pittsburg taking the first and Detroit the second. Therefore, both Manager Jennings and his men are confident of a victory.

Desperate Battle Expected.

Pittsburg is equally confident of success, and one of the most desperate baseball battles ever waged is expected by the thousands of enthusiasts, many of whom journeyed out to the park hours before the game was scheduled to begin.

Donovan was the probable choice of Manager Jennings. Donovan is considered the proper man to win this game, because of his decisive defeat of Pittsburg in the second game of the series. If Donovan is able to win today, the Detroit supporters are certain George Mullin will be in condition to win the seventh game, which will then be played here Saturday.

Many Detroit enthusiasts are criticising Jennings for using Edward Summers in yesterday's game. Summers was given a sound beating in the first inning of the third game, and they can see no reason for using him yesterday with Donovan idle on the bench.

Donovan and Maddox.

Manager Clarke wanted to win the game as badly as did Jennings. He had Maddox, the winner of the third game, Camnitz, who was batted out of the box in the second game, and Willis, working out. It was expected he would pin his faith to Maddox.

China to the United States has taken in spiritualistic affairs. Within the last few days he has attended two seances, and at the second of them, held last night, the minister received a "message" to the effect that China is about to be plunged into a great struggle and that he himself is to play an important part in the affairs of that country in the next few years.

His first experience occurred last Sunday night at a public meeting, where anonymous Chinese spirits were described to Dr. Wu by a "trance medium" as hovering in the distinguished diplomat's immediate vicinity. Dr. Wu exhibited great interest.

Last night he went again, this time to a smaller seance at a private home. Dr. Wu refused last night to discuss his experience or impressions, and even showed solicitude lest his presence at the seance should be the subject of newspaper mention.

Message in Chinese.

The woman medium who officiated—a different one this time—brought to him messages purporting to come from the late President McKinley, who was an intimate friend of Dr. Wu, and also from the minister's own mother. The latter was the more startling because apparently delivered in the Chinese language.

These messages are claimed by the spiritualists to be brought to the medium in trance by the spirit of a 16-year-old American Indian girl, under whose "control" she speaks but broken English; yet the conversation between Dr. Wu and the medium while ostensibly under this "control" was somewhat extensive, lasting fully five minutes, and seemed to lie in the Chinese vernacular, questions and answers, unintelligible to the auditors, passing back and forth with considerable freedom. There was every evidence that the diplomat perfectly understood the communication which purported to come from the spirit of Dr. Wu's own mother. It was asserted that the medium and her Indian "control" are both absolutely ignorant of the Chinese language.

Everybody Told of It.

The spiritualists assured Dr. Wu fore the seance that no newspaper man was present; but they were mistaken. In addition to that, the score of persons who attended the meeting have by no means kept silence today concerning the remarkable interchange which took place.

Before the conversation between Dr. Wu and the medium, purporting to convey messages from the martyred president, the woman, in her "trance," had told Dr. Wu that her "control" foresaw terrible trouble for the Chinese empire, in which the distinguished diplomat would occupy a place of great importance and influence, and it was in connection with this prediction that she brought what was claimed to be a communication from the former president, expressing an earnest desire for peace.

Wu on Hand Early.

Accompanied by Wu Chang, the legation attache, who was with him on the previous occasion, Dr. Wu, in a purple costume, was on hand early. At the private meetings of the "Temple League of Spiritualists," various mediums attend and render service gratuitously, the audience being composed of any who wish to be present, and a collection is taken up for the purpose of a building for a temple.

At first the spirit of a Chinaman, who gave his name, came to Dr. Wu. The mediumistic "control" said the spirit had left the earthly life some twenty years ago, but knew Dr. Wu and would like to talk to him. "Minnie," the Indian "control," remarked through the medium that this Chinese was not a great Chinaman, like the "Big Chief" (as the Indian girl always calls a man of high standing), but had been a common Chinaman.

"Talkee Allee Time."

"He no like you, Big Chief," said the Indian girl to the diplonat; "he used to be a washee, washee, washee; you great Chinaman who talkee, talkee, talkee, heap much talkee allee time."

Suddenly the medium made a most profound salaam before Dr. Wu, and "Minnie" informed him that his mother was there, and wished to give him a message.

"Ask her to speak to me," said Dr. Wu.

At that request the medium uttered, as if with great difficulty, a sentence in the Chinese language, or as near to it as it might be possible for an Indian girl, able to speak only the most broken English, to repeat to an American that difficult foreign tongue. This, in turn, passing from the lips of another woman, necessarily would be somewhat imperfect, but Dr. Wu apparently understood portions of the message repeated to him, and answered in Chinese.

Talked for Five Minutes.

The first sentence was in the nature of a salutation, and in reply the statesman questioned the "spirit" in Chinese, receiving an answer which seemed undoubtedly to be in Chinese, and the conversation continued fully five minutes. Through the medium, the Indian "control" occasionally remarked that Dr. Wu did not fully understand what the medium was trying to say to him, owing to the third-hand manner, so to speak in which the Chinese was reaching him.

During the conveyance of the message purporting to come from Dr. Wu's mother, the medium stood close to the diplomat, at times holding his hand and patting him on the shoulder. Finally she knelt in front of him, continuing talking in that position a couple of minutes.

Prophesied Chinese War.

At the conclusion of this conversation the Indian girl told what she foresaw in the future in connection with the Chinese minister.

First of all, she saw "much fighting" in the faraway country from which he came. His native land was preparing, she said, for a great struggle. It was building ships of war. Dr. Wu would be vitally interested in this terrible conflict, and would hold an office of great importance.

Shortly after this the medium said there came to her a spirit, a friend of the minister's who was not one of his own countrymen, but was an American. This spirit gave to the medium the name of "William" and finally, after some hesitation, she uttered the last name as "McKinley." The "control" remarked that the spirit had left this earth eight years ago. Assuming a dignified attitude, the medium bowed respectfully to Dr. Wu, and in a deep, clear, masculine voice said:

Message From McKinley.

"How are you, my friend? I am William McKinley, former president of the United States. I have just heard what the little Indian girl predicted to you about a great war for China. I sincerely hope that no such war will ever take place. I am for peace and I know you also are for peace, are you not?"

"Yes," said the Chinese statesman, "I am for peace always."

"I am sure you will do all you can to prevent this great war, my brother, and I, too, will continue to work for peace," said the medium.

Thus ended the communication.

Dr. Wu apparently was too astounded at what he heard to assume his characteristic role of rapid-fire interrogatory, for he failed to question the spirit of the former president. He showed every evidence of being profoundly impressed.

While the medium went to other persons in the room and gave spirit messages, the minister procured a piece of paper and proceeded to write a note, apparently something he wished to be given to the medium. Its purport was not divulged. Before the medium had come out of her trance, Dr. Wu and Wu Chang departed.

BOLD ATTEMPT IS MADE TO LOOT SHAKOPEE BANK

bank building, through a window from which they removed the glass. The bank is equipped with an electric alarm system, and while the robbers were engaged in drilling the vault the alarm bell began ringing. Its noise awakened Dr. Daye, and the doctor, arising to telephone to John Thiem, the new cashier of the bank, turned on the lights in his room. This gave the robbers the first inkling that they were discovered.

Mr. Thiem, the cashier of the bank, upon receiving the message from Dr. Daye, immediately telephoned to the night watchman, C. A. Rose, who together with Frank Miller, an employe of the Shakopee flour mills, started down the street to the bank, but the robbers, who by this time had taken fright, were making their escape.

As the watchman and his companion were running across the street, two men, supposed to have been the burglars, opened the side door in the bank, appeared for a moment under the electric light and then disappeared down the alleyway.

Rose and Miller gave immediate chase, but the robbers made good their escape.

Battle With Citizens.

After the robbers had left the bank and were going rapidly down a side street, they met several citizens of Shakopee, who had been aroused and were on their way to the bank to investigate. The citizens accosted the two men, who they saw were strangers, but the robbers, instead of replying, opened a revolver fire and began to run. The citizens returned the fire, but the robbers escaped in the darkness.

None of the citizens was hit by the flying bullets, and it is not believed the robbers were wounded.

The police were notified at once, but, in spite of a diligent search of the town, were forced to give up the chase, as they could find absolutely no clue to the identity or whereabouts of the robbers. No strangers had been seen in the town during the day, and it is believed the men came to the city after nightfall.

TELLS ABOUT THE WORLD'S CROPS

Department of Agriculture Says Canada Will Have Good Yield.

Washington, Oct. 14.—In its review of foreign crop conditions, the Crop Reporter, issued by the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture today, states that the results of this year's harvest came well up to expectation in Canada. In Europe the situation is somewhat mixed. Russia, Hungary and the Balkan states experienced considerable disappointment in the actual yields, while in France, and even more in Germany, where only moderate returns were looked for, the harvest much surpassed the hopes entertained a month ago.

The first estimates of the yield from Russia, which appeared some weeks ago, show an average wheat crop, but a meager rye crop. The fact that the latter grain is the chief source of food for the country, it is declared, makes this shortage serious from a national point of view.

More Wheat in Britain.

Recent official estimates fully confirm the material extension of the 1909 wheat area in Great Britain and the serious contraction in the acreage of that grain in Roumania and Germany. From the Argentine minister of agriculture comes the surprisingly optimistic report that, in spite of the severe and prolonged drouth at the time of planting, the present wheat acreage, while 5 per cent below that of 1908, is fully as large as two years ago, when the bumper crop was harvested.

Corn in Southern Europe is far from satisfactory.

From Italy, from Russia and from the Balkans come serious complaints of the damage, now believed to be irremediable, inflicted by drouth.

Sugar beets in Germany and Austria-Hungary are exceedingly light.

Both Boys Saved.

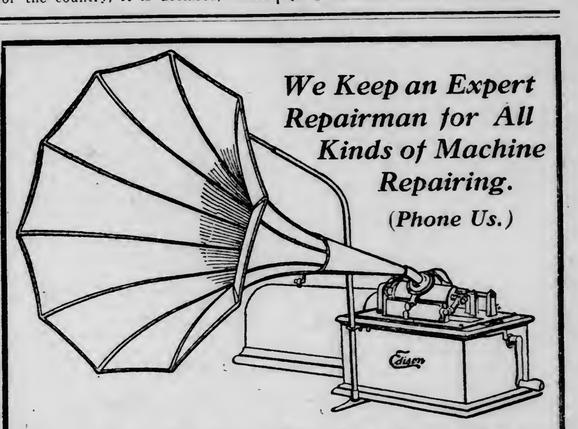

Louis Boon, a leading merchant of Norway, Mich., writes: "Three bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar absolutely cured my boy of severe cough, and a neighbor's boy, who was so ill with a cold that the doctors gave him up, was cured by taking Foley's Honey and Tar." Nothing else is as safe and certain in results. Sold by all druggists.

FRENCH DRAMA HIS THEME

Lecturer Says French Plays Do Not Carry World-Wide Appeal.

William Norman Guthrie spoke last evening at the assembly hall of the high school on the contribution of great French writers to the world's dramatic literature. The lecture was the fourth in the course on the wrold's drama. The speaker said that the great French tragedians did not have a world note in their message, because their characters in many of the essential points of the plays, did not act as real human beings do act, and in that far the plays lack a great world-wide appeal, although they have a most direct and wonderful appeal to the French people. In many cases this is due to the brilliant, sympathetic, witty use of the language. Moliere, however, the writer of the great comedies, was a dramatist who had, in his plays, most wonderfully presented the thing that seems to be the particular effort of French drama, the necessity and right of social compromise.

Mr. Guthrie will speak tomorrow evening at the high school on the German drama. This afternoon he appeared before the members of the Twentieth Century club in a lecture on Ibsen.

A Chance to Make Money On ST. MARY AND BUTTE-ALEX SCOTT STOCKS

Look at the market on St. Mary in many states. Even such cities as New York are buyers. The Twin Cities are taking it away from you. How easy this stock will advance to 80 cents and possibly $2.00 a share. Any good news from the mine would now simply drive it up in bounds. Mine is on the same hill as the great Red Warrior in the Star District. This stock went on at 60c and sold up to $6.00 a share.

St. Mary has a great chance of becoming another Red Warrior mine. Surface indications point toward this.

The Butte-Alex Scott stocks are like money in the bank. Mines are located on Butte Hill and between the greatest producers in the world. This mine is another such one as the Minnie Healy which is only a short distance away. Stock at this level is a big joke. Shares should now be selling at $40. Take my tip and buy part paid Butte-Alex Scott right away, for it is going up from now on.

Although not interested in CALUMET & MONTANA, I must say that the buying in the Twin Cities today is something fierce. If they do not stop soon, Duluth will have to pay dearly for these shares. I have it from good authority that this stock will sell at $4.00 shortly. One thing is certain, and that is Duluth will soon be out of it and others will make the big money.

We can bid you $4.75 for any part of 2,500 shares of part paid Butte-Alex Scott.

SENSATIONAL RISE OF SEVEN CENTS IN DULUTH

Heavy Buying of Seed During Session in Local Market.

Wheat Goes Up Nearly Two Points During the Day.

Duluth Board of Trade, Oct. 14.—Sensational trading in flax marked the session of the Duluth market again today, and the nearby options closed 7 cents higher than yesterday.

The demand began early in the day and during the first half hour, October and November flax bulged 4 cents. There was a slight reaction after this, then the prices rose to $1.66, declined a point or more and then rallied the high level of the day, where they closed. The distant months were also very strong and there was heavy trading in them.

The flax situation is looked upon as very bullish by the trade.

As every day marks the present advance in the seed began, shorts were heavy buyers of flax.

Wheat advanced in all the American markets, Duluth closing nearly two points up. Unfavorable weather and reports from Argentina to the effect that locusts are causing considerable damage to the crop were among the factors of the bulge. Millers were good buyers.

Liverpool wheat closed ½@¾d lower. Paris ½@¾c lower, Berlin 2¾c lower and Budapest 1¾c lower.

December wheat closed 1⅞c higher in Duluth, 2c higher in Chicago, 1⅞c higher in Minneapolis, 1¾c higher in New York and ⅞c higher in Winnipeg. Closing prices were not received from the Southwest. May wheat closed 1⅞c higher in Duluth, 1¾c higher in Chicago, 1½@1⅝c higher in Minneapolis, 1⅛@1¼c higher in New York and 1¼c higher in Winnipeg.

December corn closed ⅞c higher and oats ½@⅝c higher, in Chicago.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool:

"At the start the wheat was steady and ¼@½d higher, being influenced by the late steadiness in Argentine. Following the opening the market further advanced ¼@⅝d on the continued strength in continental markets and the urgent continental demand. Later and toward mid-day, some realizing developed on the advance to 4 per cent in the English bank and cargoes were more freely offered, especially for distant delivery. At this time the market was steady and values unchanged to ⅛d lower than yesterday.

"At the opening, corn prices were ¼d lower and later lost an additional ¼d. Realizing was due to lower American markets, liberal Argentine offerings and a poor demand for all positions.

"Our Argentine agent estimates the wheat shipments for this week 400,000 bu. Last week, 72,000; last year, 1,656,000.

Corn shipments this week 2,000,000 bu.

"Our Argentine agent cables that the wheat crop in the North is being damaged by locusts."

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 502, against 186 last year, and at Minneapolis 430 against 489 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 932 against 675 last year. Chicago received 69 against 77 last year. Winnipeg received 559 against 527 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 1,232,000 bu., last year 1,314,000 bu. Shipments, 751,000 bu., last year, 334,000 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour were 632,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 227,000 bu., last year, 229,000 bu. Shipments, 410,000 bu., last year, 157,000 bu. Clearances of corn were 94,000 bu.

In the Duluth market, October flax opened unchanged at $1.61, advanced to $1.65 during the first half hour, declined to $1.62¾, rallied to $1.66, went off to $1.63, rallied to $1.68 and closed there, a gain of 7c over yesterday. November flax opened unchanged at $1.61, took about the same course as October and closed at $1.68, a gain of 7c over yesterday. December flax opened unchanged at $1.55½, went to $1.59, off to $1.57½, rallied to $1.62 and closed there, a gain of 6½c over yesterday. May flax opened 4½c lower at $1.59, advanced to $1.65 and closed at $1.64½, a gain of 5¼c over yesterday.

Wheat was quite active here. December wheat opened unchanged at $1.04, advanced to $1.03⅞ and closed at $1.03¾, a gain of 1⅞c over yesterday. May wheat opened ¼c lower at $1.04⅜, advanced to $1.06⅛ and closed at $1.06⅜, a gain of 1⅞c over yesterday.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Downward Tendency Is Noted in Early Trading in Grain.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—There was a downward tendency in the early trade in grain here today. Wheat opened ⅛@¼c lower than yesterday's close. The decline was in sympathy with a heavy foreign market. December opening figures being at $1.04@1.03⅞c. The market drifted to $1.04¼ and steadied at $1.04.

Influenced by millers' demands and heavy buying purchases, the wheat market advanced steady and showed a net gain of 2 cents over yesterday's close. December rose to $1.06⅝ and closed at $1.06¼@1.06⅜, which is 2 cents higher than yesterday's final figures.

Continued bright, snappy weather with almost certainty of hardening and drying the corn crop, together with expected large movement of the new crop caused corn prices to sag. December opened ⅛c lower than the close of yesterday at 57¼c and dropped to 57c ¼ with slow trading.

The corn market, influenced by the strong wheat trades, took an upward slant. December closed at 58¼c, the highest point, with a gain of ⅞c over yesterday's final quotations.

The initial market in oats was inclined to be heavy. December opened unchanged at 39½c, dropped an eighth later. May was a shade off at the opening at 41⅝c and sagged slightly later.

In provisions the market was strong. Investment buying following yesterday's break lifted prices 2½@7½c. January pork opened at $18.30, lard at $10.77 and ribs at $9.60.

ASKS FIANCE TO HUBBY'S HANGING

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 14.—Two convicted murderers, Thomas Willis, a negro, and Stanley Nazarko, a Slav, were hanged in the Luzerne county prison here today.

More than usual interest was taken in the execution of Nazarko, whose wife came to the jail yesterday with a man she intends to marry and requested permission to witness the hanging.

The request was refused by the sheriff, although the condemned man was willing that the wife and her future husband should see the execution.

Nazarko yesterday handed to his wife, in the presence of her intended second husband and a priest, a will bequeathing his savings, $1,200, to her. Nazarko bade them farewell and expressed hope that the prospective bridegroom, Michael Mazrozki, would make a good husband.

Nazarko deserted his wife and two children in Russian Poland ten years ago. He came to this country, worked in the mines and lived with a woman whom he knew in his native land. Nazarko was injured in the mines, and while in a hospital the woman made her home with another man.

When Nazarko was discharged from the hospital he met the woman on the street, and when she refused to return to him he shot her dead. A baby the woman was carrying was not injured. Nazarko's wife came to this country six months ago.

Thomas Willis was hanged for the murder of Cameron Cool, a well-known and wealthy horseman. The motive was robbery. Willis declared on the gallows that he was innocent.
